7. And are we now at our juſt Quantum? Alaſs, what quantity, what bounds hath the humility of our Saviour? Is he a Carpenter? that were to be Maſter of a Trade; but He took on him (ſaith the Apoſtle) the form of a Servant, not a Maſter, Philipians 2. 7. Phil. 2. 7. It is true, he could ſay to his Apoſtles, Ye call me Maſter, and Lord, and ye ſay well, for ſo I am, John 13. 13. John 13. 13. and yet at that very inſtant mark but his Geſtures, and you may ſee their Lord and Maſter become a Servant to his Servants: His many Offices expreſs his Services; when He roſe from Supper, and laid aſide his upper Garments, and took a Towel and girded himſelf, and after that he had poured water into a Baſon, began to waſh his Diſciples Feet, and to wipe them with the Towel wherewith he was girded. Joh. 13. 4, 5. O ye bleſſed Spirits, look down from Heaven, and you may ſee even the Almighty kneeling at the Feet of men! O ye bleſſed Apoſtles, why tremble ye not at this ſo wonderful Sight of your lovely, lowly Creator? Peter, what doſt thou? is not he the Beauty of the Heavens, the Paradice of Angels, the Brightneſs of God, the Redeemer of Men? And wilt thou (notwithſtanding all this) let him waſh thy Feet? No, leave, O Lord, leave this baſe Office for thy Servants, lay down the Towel, put on thy Apparel: See Peter is reſolute, Lord, doſt thou waſh my Feet? No, Lord, thou ſhalt never do it. Yes, Peter, thus it muſt be, to leave thee and us a Memorial of his Humility: Verſe 15. I have given you an Example (ſaith Chriſt) that you ſhould do as I have done unto you: And what hath he done? but for our ſakes is become a ſervant, yea his ſervants ſervant, waſhing and wiping, not their hands, or heads, but the very meaneſt, loweſt parts their feet.

8. And yet there is a lower fall, How many hired ſervants (ſaid the Prodigal) at my fathers houſe have bread enough, and I die for hunger? Luke 15. 17. And as if our Savours caſe were like the Prodigals, you may ſee him little lower than a ſervant, yea little better than a beggar: Ye know (ſaith the Apoſtle) the grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that though he was rich, yet for your ſakes he became poor, 2 Corinth. 8. 9. 2 Cor. 8. 9. poor indeed, and ſo poor, that he was not worth a penny to pay tribute, till he had borrowed it of a Fiſh, Matthew 17. 27. Ma. 17. 27. See him in his birth, in his life, in his death, and what was he but a Pilgrim, that never had houſe to harbour in. A while he lodges in an Oxen-ſtall, thence he flys into Egypt, back he comes into Galilee, anon he travels to Jernſalem; within a while (as if all his life were but a wandring) you may ſee him on mount Calvary hanging on the Croſs? Was ever any Beggars life more miſerable? he hath no Houſe, no Money, no Friends, no Lands, and howſoever he was God the diſpoſer of all; yet for us he became man, a poor man, a mean man, yea the meaneſt of all men: and this another ſtep downwards.

9. But this is not low enough, men are the image of God: Ay but the Son of God is not uſed as a man, but rather as a poor dumb beaſt appointed to the ſlaughter: What was he but a ſheep, ſaid Eſay of him? Eſay 53. 7. Eſay 53. 7. a ſheep indeed, and that more eſpecially in theſe two qualities. First, As a ſheep before the ſhearer is dumb, ſo he opened not his Mouth: and to this purpoſe was that ſilence of our Saviour: when all thoſe Evidences came againſt him, he would not ſo much as drop one Syllable to defend his cauſe: If the high Prieſts queſtion him, What is the matter that theſe men witneſs againſt thee? Matthew tells us, that Jeſus held his peace, Matthew 26. 63. Mat. 26. 63. If Pilate ſay unto him, Behold how many things they witneſs againſt thee; Mark tells us, that Jeſus anſwered him nothing, Mark 15. 5. If Herod queſtion with him in many words, becauſe he had heard many things of him, Luke tells that he anſwered him nothing, Mark 15. 5 Luke 23. 9. Luke 23. 9 As a poor ſheep in the hands of the ſhearer, he is dumb before his Judges and Accuſers; whence briefly we may obſerve, Chriſt came not to defend, but to ſuffer Condemnation. Secondly, (as a ſheep he is dumb, and) as ſheep he is ſlain; He was led (ſaith the Prophet) as a ſheep to the ſlaughter. Eſay Ibid. O Jeſu! art thou come to this? to be a Man, who art God; a ſheep, who art man, and ſo for our ſakes far inferiour to our ſelves; nay worſe; a ſheep? How? not free, as one that is leaping on the mountains, or ſkipping on the Hills; no, but a ſheep that is led:] led whither? not thither as David was, who could ſay of his Shepherd, that He fed him in green paſtures, and led him forth beſides the waters of comfort: Pſal. 23. 2. no, but led to the Slaughter. He is a ſheep, a ſheep led, a ſheep led to the ſlaughter; and ſuch a ſlaughter, that were he a dumb creature, yet great truth it were to ſee him ſo handled as he was by the Jews.

10. And yet will his humility deſcend a little lower: as he was the pooreſt of men, ſo the leaſt of Sheep: Like a Lamb, ſaith the Apoſtle, Acts 8. 32. Acts 8. 32. and Behold the Lamb, (ſaid John the Baptiſt) even the Lamb of God which takes away the ſin of the world, John 1. 29. Joh. 1. 29. This was that Lamb which the Paſcal Lamb prefigured, Exod. 12. 5 and 13. Your Lamb (ſaith God to the Iſraelites) ſhall be a Lamb without blemiſh, and the blood ſhall be a token for you, that I will paſs over you, Exodus 12. 13. But was ever Lamb like the Lamb of God? he is without blemiſh; ſaith Pilate, I find no fault in him, Luke 23. 4. Luke 23. 4 And the ſprinkling of his blood (ſaith Peter) is the right token of election, 1. Peter 1. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 2. Such a lamb was this Lamb, without blemiſh in his life, and whoſe blood was ſprinkled at his death, in life and death ever ſuffering for us, who (had he not done) ſo ſhould for ever and ever have ſuffered our ſelves. Tell me, O thou whom my ſoul loveth, where thou feedeſt! ſaith the Church in Canticles, Tell me? Yes: If thou knoweſt not, (ſaith our Saviour) go thy way forth by the foot-ſteps of the flock, Cant. 1. 8. Cant. 1. 8. Our Saviour is become a man, a ſheep, a lamb, or if this be not humility enough, he will yet take a leap lower.

11. What is he but a worm, and no man, yea the very ſcorn of men, and the out-caſt of the people? Pſal.22. 6. Pſal. 22. 6. Did you ever think we could have brought our Saviour to this ſo low a degree? what, beneath a lamb, and no better than a worm? Heaven and Earth may well ring of this, as being the greateſt wonder that ever was: there is not any bitter potion due to man, which the Son of God will not partake of the utmoſt dregs; and therefore if Job ſay to the worm, Thou art my Job 17.14. ſiſter, and mother; nay, if Bildad ſay, Man is a Job 25. 6. worm, and the ſon of man is but a worm, which is more than kindred: Behold, our Saviour ſtooping thus low himſelf, what is he but a man? nay, as if that were too much, a worm, and not a man, as ſung the Pſalmiſt of him.

12. I am ſo low, that unleſs we think him no body, we can down no lower; and yet here is one leap more, that if we take a view of it, we may ſuppoſe him to be nothing in eſteem, a N— body indeed. Look we at every man in reſpect of God, Eſay40.17. and the Prophet tells us, All Nations before him are as nothing, Eſay 40. 17. And if man be thus, why ſure the Son of man will be no leſs, ſee then (to the wonderous aſtoniſhment of men and Angels) how greatneſs it ſelf, to bring man from Phil. 2. 7. Ex omni ſeipſum ad nihil redegit: Beza in loc. Tert, ad Mar. 1. 9. nothing, exinanivit ſe, hath made himſelf nothing, or of no reputation, Phil. 2. 7. How? nothing? yes, ſaith Beza, He that was all in all, hath reduced himſelf to that which is nothing at all: and Tertullian little leſs, Exhauſit ſe, He hath emptied himſelf, or as our Tranſlation gives it, He hath made himſelf (not of little, but) of no reputation.

Lo here thoſe ſteps (the Scripture lighting us all the way) by which our Saviour deſcended; he that is God for us became an Angel, a man, a Serving-man, a poor man, a ſheep, a lamb, a worm, a nothing in eſteem, a man of no reputation.

Uſe 1. Let every ſoul learn his duty from hence; what ſhould we do for him, who hath done all this for us? There is a crew of unbelievers that hear and heed not: all the ſufferings of our Saviour cannot move them a jot, either towards God, or from ſin, and is not this a woful lamentable caſe? I remember a paſſage in Cyprian, how he brings in the Devil triumphing over Chriſt in this manner: As for my followers, I never died for them, as Chriſt did for his; I never promiſed them ſo great a reward as Chriſt hath done to his; and yet I have more followers than he, and they do more for me, than his do for him: hear, O heaven! and hearken, O earth! Was ever the like phrenſie? The Devil, like a roaring Lion ſeeks ever and anon to devour our ſouls, how many thouſands, and millions of ſouls yield themſelves to his ſervice, though he never died for them, nor will ever do for them the pooreſt favour whatſoever, but pay them everlaſtingly with pains and pangs, death and damnation? On the other ſide, ſee our Saviour (God Almighty) take on him the nature of a man, a poor man, a ſheep a lamb, a worm, a nothing in eſteem; and why all this? but only to ſave our Souls, and to give them Heaven and Salvation: yet ſuch is the condition of a ſtubborn heart, that (too chooſe) it will ſpurn at heavens Crown, and run upon Hell, and be a ſlave to Satan, and ſcoff at Chriſts ſuffering, yea, and let out his Blood, and pull out his Heart, and bring them a degree lower than very Beelzebub himſelf, rather than it will ſubmit to his Will, and march under his Banner to the Kingdom of Heaven. Hence it is, that the Devil ſo triumphs over Chriſt, As for my followers, (ſaith he) I never died for them as Chriſt died for his: no Devil thou never diedſt for them, but thou wilt put them to death without all eaſe or end. Think of this, ye unbelievers; methinks like a Thunder-bolt, it might ſhake all your hearts, and daſh them into pieces.

Uſe 2. But a word more to you, of whom I hope better things; let me exhort the Saints that you for your parts, will ever love, and ſerve, and honour, and obey, and praiſe, the Lord of glory for this ſo wonderful a Mercy; I pray, have you not cauſe, had your Saviour only ſent his Creatures to ſerve you, or ſome Prophets to adviſe you in the way of ſalvation; had he only ſent his Angels to attend you, and to miniſter unto you; or had he come down in his glory, like a King that would not only ſend to the Priſon, but come himſelf to the Dungeon, and ask, ſaying, Is ſuch a man here? or had he only come and wept over you, ſaying, O that you had never ſinned! all theſe had been great Mercies: But that Chriſt himſelf ſhould come, and ſtrive with you in mercy and patience, that he ſhould be ſo dear to a company of Rebels and Hell-hounds, (and yet we are not at the loweſt) that he would for us become a man, a mean man, a Lamb, a Worm, a nothing in eſteem. O all ye ſtubborn hearts, (too much ſtubborn are we all) if Judgment and the Hammer cannot break your hearts, yet let this mercy break you, and let every one ſay, O Jeſu! haſt thou done all this for me? certainly I will love thee, and praiſe thee, and ſerve the, and obey thee as long as I live. Say ſo, and the Lord ſay Amen to the good deſires of your hearts. To whet this on the more: remember ſtill, it is you that ſhould have ſuffered; but to prevent this, it is he that was humbled, it is he that was crucified, it is he that was purged: what needs more? I am he] ſaid Chriſt to the Jews John18.5. when they apprehended him: He? what he? I know not what: but be he what he will, he it is: our Saviour, Redeemer, Phyſitian, Patient, Who had by himſelf purged our ſins.

Thus we have meaſured his ſteps downwards, and ſhould we go up again the ſame ſtairs, we might bring him as high as we have placed him low: but his aſcent belongs rather to the words following my Text; for after he had purged, then he ſate down on Gods right hand on high. Come we then to the next words, and as you have ſeen the Perſon, ſo let us look for a companion; This may in miſery yield ſome comfort, if but any ſociety bears a ſhare in his miſery; But methinks I hear you ſay to me, as the Athenians ſaid to Paul, We will hear thee again of this matter Acts17.32. another time.

By himſelf.]

THe Time and Phyſitian have prepared a Purge; but who is the Patient to receive it; it is man is ſick, and it is man muſt purge, or otherwiſe he dies without all remedy or recovery: but alas! what Purge (what Purgatory) muſt that be which can evacuate ſin? Should man take all the vertue of Herbs and Minerals, and diſtill them into one ſublime and pureſt Quinteſſence, yet impoſſible were it to waſh away Sin, or the leaſt dregs of its corruption: not Galen or Hippocrates, nor all the Artiſts, or Naturaliſts that ever lived on earth, could find out, or invent any remedy for ſin; this muſt be a work of Grace, and not of Nature; yea, and ſuch a Grace as neither man nor Angels could afford: Behold then, who is it that both adminiſters and takes the receipt prepared; it is man that ſinned, and God is become man, that ſo being both, he might adminiſter it as God, and receive it as man, the ſame perſon being Phyſitian and Patient, Compounder and Purger.

But, what a wonder is this? Are we a dying, and muſt he purge for it? can Phyſick given to the ſound, heal the party that is ſick? It was the ſaying of our Saviour, The whole need not the Phyſitian, but they that are ſick; and Chriſt Jeſus for his part is whole indeed; No fault in this man, ſaith Pilate; and he is a juſt man, ſaid Pilates Wiſe of him: to what end then ſhould he purge that is whole, and we eſcape that are ſick? O this is to manifeſt the deareſt love of our Soul-Phyſitian, our endeared Saviour; the whole indeed need not the Phyſitian: he needs no Phyſick, no Purge, no Phyſitian at all; but for us he is become a Phyſitian himſelf, for us he became Phyſitian and Patient: for us he was ſick; for us he Purged, that we through him might eſcape that danger of eternal fire.

But how purged he? By himſelf? Was there none to aſſociate him in this miſery? no, he purged by himſelf] only, and that without Comforter.

Firſt, without a partner, there was none that laid a finger in the burthen of his Croſs to eaſe him; why, Bleſſed Saviour! thou haſt Myriads of Angels waiting on thee, and can they not a little lighten thy heavy yoke? No, the Angels are bleſſed, but they are finite and limited, and therefore unable to this expiation of ſin.

But what ſay we of the Saints? if you will believe the Rhemiſts, they can tell you that the ſufferings of Saints (ſanctified in Chriſts blood) have not only a forcible ſatisfaction for the Church and its members; but withal they are the accompliſhments of the wants of Chriſts paſſion; an horrible blaſphemy: as if Chriſts death were not ſufficient in it ſelf, but his wants muſt be ſupplied by the ſatisfaction of others; my Text tells me, Chriſt purged by himſelf;] therefore not by any other, but ſufficiently in his own perſon; and as for that Text they urge againſt us, Coloſſians 1. 24. Now rejoyce I in my ſufferings for you, and fulfill the reſt of the afflictions of Chriſt in my fleſh, for his bodies ſake which is the Church; whence they argue theſe two points; Firſt, The want of Chriſts ſufferings; And Secondly, The abounding of Saints ſufferings for the ſatisfaction for others. To the firſt we anſwer, that the Afflictions of Chriſt, which the Apoſtle ſaith, I fulfill, are not meant of the afflictions which Chriſt ſuffered in his perſon, but in his members; thus Auguſtine, The Apoſtle ſaith not my afflictions, but Chriſts, becauſe he was a member of Chriſt, who is uſually ſaid to ſuffer both with, and in his members. To the ſecond we anſwer, that Pauls ſufferings for his Body which is the Church, ſerved not for ſatisfaction, but for confirmation of their faith; thus Ambroſe, Chriſts paſſion ſufficeth to ſalvation, Peter and Pauls paſſion ſerve only for example; ſo then if you will have the true ſenſe of the words, they run thus: Now rejoyce I in my ſufferings for you, whereby I fulfill the meaſure of thoſe tribulations which remain yet to be endured of Chriſt in his myſtical body, which I do for the bodies ſake, not to ſatisfy for it, but to confirm it, or ſtrengthen it in the Goſpel of Chriſt: and good reaſon have we to admit of this comment; otherwiſe how is Chriſt a perfect Saviour, if any Act of our redemption be left to the performance of any Saint or Angel? no, it is Chriſt, and only Chriſt; Jeſus, and only Jeſus; Nor is there ſalvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we muſt be ſaved, Acts 4. 12.

3. But if not Angels, or Saints, what ſay we of good works? Cannot they expiate ſin? yea, ſay our adverſaries, they are meritorious, and applicatory, and expiatory; ſo here is a threefold uſe of them; what? hath Chriſt purged by himſelf? and is there any other means whatſoever to expiate ſin? no, ſaith the Apoſtle; ſo incompatible are theſe two, his grace, and our works, that if it be of grace, it is no more of works, or elſe grace were no more grace; and if it be of works, it is no more grace, or elſe works were no more works. By grace then ye are ſaved,——not of works, leſt any man ſhould boaſt himſelf, Eph. 2. 8, 9.

4. But if no purging by Angels, Saints, nor good works, what ſay we to Purgatory it ſelf? we ſay it is a Fable; or were an Article of Faith (as the Pontificians affirm) let us have Scripture for it; yes ſaith Roffenſis, We went through fire and water, Pſalm 66. 12. and Sir Thomas Moor will have more Scripture, I have ſent forth thy priſoners out of the pit, wherein is no water, Zach. 9. 11. Here are two places for Purgatory, and one ſaith there is water, the other ſaith, there is no water; but to ſay truth of both, The Catholick faith, reſting upon divine Authority believes Heaven and Hell, but a third place (ſaith Auguſtine) we know none, neither find we in holy Scripture, that there is any ſuch place: neither ſpeaks he only of places eternal that are to continue for ever, for he purpoſely diſputes againſt Limbus Puerorum: and rejects all places temporary; yea, elſewhere he acknowledgeth, there is no middle place at all; but he muſt needs be with the Devil, that is not with Chriſt: away then with thoſe Paper-wall, and painted fires, a Bug (could Harding once ſay) meet only to fray Children: God will have no rival in ſins purge, no Angel in Heaven, no Saints, no works on earth, no Purgatory under earth, it is he himſelf will purge it by himſelf; my Text affirms it, (and who dares gainſay it?) that he by himſelf (by no other) hath purged our ſins.

Lam. 1. 12. ſpeech in Lamentations, Is it nothing to you, all ye that paſs by? the moſt grievous torments find ſome mitigation in the ſupply of friends, and what friends hath our Saviour to comfort him in his torments?

1. If you ſay the Gentiles; I muſt confeſs he found faith in ſome, and a ſeeming favour from others: the Centurion is Witneſs of the one, of whom our Saviour himſelf confeſſed, I have not Matt. 8. 10. found ſo great faith, no not in Iſrael, Matth. 8. 10. and Pilate gives a token of the other, when he
Mat. 27. 24 took water and waſhed his hands before the multitude, ſaying, I am innocent of the blood of this juſt man, Matth. 27. 24. but alas! did Pilate ſo favour him as to free him: no, he fears to condemn him being innocent, and yet dares not abſolve
Mat 27. 18. him, being ſo envied as he was by the Jews;
Luk. 23. 14 what then can a little water? what can Jordan

the waſhing of thoſe hands, that had power to releaſe him, and would not? he knew they had delivered him of envy, Matth. 27. 18. he confeſſes, I find no fault in this man, Luk. 23. 14. he tells him that he had power to crucify him, and he had power to looſe him, John 19. 10. and yet fondly would he waſh away the guilt of his unjuſt ſentence, with a little water on his hands; no, Pilate; that Ceremony cannot waſh away thy ſin, that ſin I mean, which thou and the Gentiles in thee committed, in delivering of Jeſus to the will of the Lu. 23. 25. Jews.

2. But if delivered to the Jews, ſure it is well enough; he is their Country-man, Kinſman, of the Stock of Abraham, of the Tribe of Juda, of the Family of Joſeph; but this rather aggravates than allays his miſery, that his own People ſhould degenerate into Traitors: not a Gentile, but a Jew to be his Executioner: what torment had not been a lenitive, and a recreation in compariſon of this? Daniels Den, the three Childrens Furnace, Eſays wooden Saw, Iſraels fiery Serpents, the Spaniſh Inquiſition, the Romiſh Purgatory, are all as far ſhort in torture, as the laſt of them in truth, to the malice of a Jew; witneſs our Saviours death, when they all conſpired not only to ſcourge him, mock him, buffet him, ſlay him; but to ſlay him in ſuch a manner, as to hang him on Nails, and to make the Croſs his Gibbet.

3. But what? no comforter amongſt them all?
do the Gentiles condemn him? will the Jews crucify him? and is there none to pity him? Yes, what ſay we of his Diſciples, that heard him, followed him, and were ſent of him by two and Luke 10. 1. two into every City and place, whither he himſelf
Lu. 10. 17. ſhould come? Would you think that theſe ſeventy, (for they were ſo many in number) which for a time did his Embaſſage with joy, would now have forſaken him? yes, if you Joh. 6. 66. mark it, Many of them went back and would walk no more with him; ſome ſtumbles at his Doctrine, others at his Paſſion, but all were offended, as it is written, I will ſmite the Shepheard, and the ſheep of the flock ſhall be ſcattered, Matth. Mat. 26. 31
26. 31.

4. Yet if the Gentiles reject him, they do but Mat. 23. 31 like Gentiles who were ignorant of God; if the Jews hate and malign him, it is but their old wont of killing the Prophets; if the Diſciples that are weaker, faint, and waver in faith, it was no more than was ſaid of them, O ye of little faith; Matt. 8. 26.
but what ſay we to the twelve Apoſtles, thoſe Secretaries of his Myſteries, Stewards of his Mercies, Almoners of his Bounties? will they alſo go away, and leave him comfortleſs alone? no, can Peter ſay, Maſter, to whom ſhall we go? thou haſt John 6. 68. the words of eternal life, John 6. 68. or if he will have deeper proteſtations, I am ready to go with thee,) ſaith Peter) into priſon and to death; Luke 22. 33. to death; yes, though I die with Lu. 22. 33.
thee, I will not deny thee; and thus ſaid all his Diſciples, Mat. 26. 35
Mat. 26. 35. and yet like Jonas Gourd when the Sun beats hotteſt, how ſoon are they all gone, and vaniſhed away? Lo, one betrays him, another forſwears him, all run from him, and leave him alone in the midſt of all his enemies.

5. And yet if theſe Apoſtles leave him, what ſay we to Mary his mother, and other his friends? Theſe indeed wait on him, ſeeing, ſighing, wailing, weeping, but alaſs! what do theſe tears but encreaſe his ſorrows? might he not juſtly ſay with Paul, What mean ye to weep and to Act. 21. 13 break my heart? Acts 21. 13. Pity, and of all other feminine pity, it is the pooreſt, helpleſs ſalve of miſery; but howſoever it was to others, this was ſo far from any ſalve to him, as 'tis one of his greateſt, tendreſt ſores about him: Daughters Luke 23.
of Jeruſalem, weep not for me but weep for your 28.
ſelves, and your children. O ſee the wonder of compaſſion which he bears to others in his paſſion;
he hath more care of the women that follow him weeping, than on his own mangled ſelf, that reels along fainting and bleeding even unto death:
the tears that drop from their eyes is more to him than all the blood in his veins; and therefore careleſs (as it were) of his own ſacred perſon, he Luke 23.

women, affording them looks and words too of compaſſion, of conſolation, weep not for me, but weep for your ſelves and your children: But O bleſſed Saviour! didſt thou flow unto us in ſhowers of blood, and may not we drop a tear for all thoſe purple ſtreams of thine? yes, Lord, thou doſt not here forbid us weeping, only thou turneſt the ſtream of our tears the right way; that is to ſay, homewards into our own boſoms, pointing us to our ſins, the trueſt cauſe of thy ſufferings.

6. But as for comfort to our Saviour, whence (trow ye) may it come? if we compaſs the earth, the Gentiles, Jews, his Diſciples, Apoſtles, Mary his own Mother, and all other his friends, they are but as Jobs miſerable comforters all; but let us go up into heaven, and there (if any where) be his comforter indeeds: John 16. 2.
alaſs! what comforters? If you imagine the Angels, it is true they could attend him in the Deſart, and comfort him in the Garden; but when he came to the main act of our Redemption, not an Angel muſt be ſeen; how, not ſeen? no, they muſt not ſo much as look through the windows of Heaven to give him any eaſe at all; nor indeed were it to any purpoſe if they

ſhould; for who can lift up, where the Lord will caſt down? O ye bleſſed Angels! how is it that your Hallelujahs ceaſe? that your ſongs which you warbled at his birth, are finiſhed at his death? that your glorious company, which are the delight of happy ſouls, is denyed to him who is the Lord and Maker both of you and them? why, thus it muſt be for your ſakes: I am full of heavineſs (ſaid our Saviour in his type) and I look- Pſal. 69. 20. ed for ſome to take pity, but there was none: and comforters, but found none, Pſal. 69. 20.

7. And yet if the Angels be no comforters, he hath a Father in Heaven that is nearer to him: I and my Father are one (ſaith our Saviour) and, John8.34. Joh.10.30 Joh.10.17 Joh.14.10 It is my Father that honoureth me, John 8. 34. It is my Father that loveth me, John 10. 17. It is my Father that dwelleth in me, John 14. 10. and howſoever others forſake me, and leave me alone, Joh.16.32 (as himſelf proclaims it) yet I am not alone, becauſe the Father is with me, John 16, 32. Is it ſo, Mat27.46. (ſweet Saviour?) whence then was that ſorrowful complaint of thine, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? Leo it is that firſt reconciled it, and all Antiquity allow of it; The union was not diſſolved, but the beams, the influence was reſtrained, Affectione juſtitia (ſaith * Scotus) he was ever united to his Father, becauſe he ever loved, truſted, and glorified him; but Affectione commodi, that delight ever emergent from that divine viſion, was for a time ſuſpended, and therefore was it that his body drooped, his ſoul fainted, he being even as a ſcorched Heath, grounded without any drop of dew of the divine comfort on it.

8. Yet be it that his Father now forſakes him, will he forſake himſelf? O yes! he burns in the fiery furnace of Affliction, without all manner of refreſhing; and this was it that was figured in the Law by thoſe two Goats offered for the ſins of the People, wherefore the one was the Scape-goat, and the other was the Offering, the Scape-goat departed away, and was ſent into the Wilderneſs, but her companion was left alone in the torments, and made a Sin-offering for the People: even ſo was this Sacrifice of God-man, man-God, bleſſed for ever, the Humanity was offered, but the Divinity eſcaped; the Humanity ſuffered for the ſins of the World, but the Divinity departed away in the midſt of ſufferings, and left her ſiſter and companion all alone in the torments: thus he purged himſelf, himſelf only in his humanity, no other with him, all other left Rev.26.10 him; the Gentiles, Jews, Diſciples, Apoſtles, Mary his Mother and God his Father, nay he himſelf is bereaved of himſelf, the Humanity of his Divinity, if not in reſpect of the union, yet as touching the conſolation, When he had by himſelf] (in his human nature, without any comforter) purged our ſins.

Thus far you have ſeen Chriſt drink the cup of his bitter pains, pure and without mixture of any manner of eaſe; what now remains, but that we make ſome uſe of it.

Uſe. Pſal. 116. 13. I will take the cup of ſalvation (ſaith David) and call upon the Name of the Lord, Pſal. 116. 13. And what can we leſs? If our Saviour hath begun to us in pains, ſhall not we afford him our thanks? The Cup of death could not paſs from him, and muſt the Cup of Salvation be removed from us? O praiſe him, praiſe him, Pſal. 148. 2 all his Hoſts: howſoever he was alone in his ſufferings, let us all bear the burden in a ſong of Thankſgiving, and in this Song let us ſinging, weep, and weeping ſing; our ſin may draw the tears which were the cauſe of his ſufferings: and our ſalvation may make us ſing, which thoſe his ſufferings did effect: what needs more? he ſuffered by himſelf] the cauſe, our ſins; the effect, our ſalvation; let us mourn for the one, and praiſe him for the other; praiſe him, and him alone, for he had no partner in his ſufferings, nor will he have any in our thanks; he had no comforter in his miſeries, nor muſt any ſhare with him in the duty we owe him of praiſing his Name: Alas, have we not reaſon (think you) to give all the glory unto him? It was he that ſuffered that which we deſerved, he purged by himſelf] when we our ſelves lay ſick of ſin, in peril of death and damnation; thus gracious is he to us, that when there was no other remedy for our recovery, then he by himſelf in our ſtead came, and purged our ſins.

Thus far you have ſeen the Patient; and order now requires that we prepare the Receipt; the patient was himſelf] the Receipt is a Purge;] but to confect this Purge, we muſt crave a further time; and in the mean while, and ever remember him in your thoughts, who hath done all this for you, and the Lord make you thankful.

Had purged.]

YOu ſee who it is that hath freed us from ſin, to wit, Chriſt our Saviour without a Compurgator; he purged by himſelf] but what did he by himſelf? do we ſay he purged? what need he to purge, who never committed any ſin in Thought, Word, or Deed? it is without doubt he needs not, and yet do it he will, not to clear himſelf, but us.

But this Purge doth imply a medicine, and ſo we muſt apply it: a medicine it was, and many medicines he uſed for the curing of mans ſoul; the firſt by dyet, when he faſted forty days and forty nights, Matth. 4. 2. The ſecond by Matth. 4, 2. Electuary, when he gave his moſt precious body and blood in his laſt Supper, Matth. 26. 26. The Matth. 26. 26. third by ſweat, when great drops of Blood iſſued from him falling down to the ground, Luke 22. 44. The Luke. 22. 44. fourth by plaiſter, when he was ſpit upon by the Mark 15. 19. Jews, Mark 15. 19. The fifth by potion, when Matth 27. 34. he taſted vinegar mingled with gall, Matth. 27. 34. The ſixth by letting of blood, when his hands and feet were pierced, yea, when his heart-vein, was ſtricken and his ſide goared with a ſpear, John Joh. 19. 34 19. 34. the laſt (which contains all the reſt) was by purge, when by all his ſufferings (and eſpecially by his blood-ſhed) he waſhed us from our ſins, Rev. 1, 5. Revel. 1. 5. Here was the cure of all cures, which the Galeniſts in the world may admire with reverence, that our Lord and Saviour ſhould become our Surety, that our ſoul-Phyſitian ſhould become our Purger: how? not by giving us Phyſick, but by receiving it for us; we (miſerable wretches) lay ſick of ſin, and he (our Phyſician) hath by himſelf purged and delivered us of it.

Obſerv. But that we may the better ſee how this Purge wrought with him, we muſt know, that purging in general is taken for any evacuation whatſoever: and to ſay truth in a word, the evacuation of Chriſt's blood was the right purging ging of our ſins. Hence is it, (that as Scriptures affirm) the blood of Chriſt doth redeem us, cleanſe us, waſh us, juſtifie us, ſanctifie us: We were redeemed by his blood, 1 Pet. 1. 19. and his blood cleanſeth us from all ſin, 1 John 1. 7. and, He waſhed us from our ſins in his blood, Revel. 1. 5. and, Being now juſtified by his blood, Rom. 5. 9. and, Therefore Jeſus ſuffered, that he might ſanctifie the people with his own blood, Heb. 13. 12. This blood was it that was believed by the Patriarchs, witneſſed by the Sacrifices, ſhadowed in the figures of the Law, expected of all the faithful from the beginning of the world; and therefore the Apoſtle concludeth, Almoſt all things are by the Law purged with blood; and, without ſhedding of blood is no remiſſion, Heb. 9. 22. It is true, Chriſt purged by his death, and other his ſufferings, and yet are all theſe contained in the ſhedding of his blood; this blood is the foundation of true Religion, for other foundation can no man lay. Wherefore neither was the firſt Teſtament ordained without blood, Heb. 9. 18. Nor is the New Teſtament otherwiſe ſealed than with blood, Matth. 26. 28. What needs more? If the blood of Bulls and Goats (in the Old Teſtament) ſanctifieth to the purifying of the fleſh, how much more ſhall the blood of Chriſt (in the New Teſtament) purge your Conſciences from dead works, to ſerve the living God? Heb. 9. 13, 14. O ſweet blood of our Saviour that purgeth our Conſciencies, evacuates our dead works, reſtores us to our God, will bring us unto Heaven!

But O my Saviour, Wherefore art thou red in thy Apparel, and thy Garments like him that treadeth in the Wine-fat; Is it thy precious blood that hath given this hew? Yes, an hew often dipped in the Wine-fat? and that we may the better ſee the colour, let us diſtinguiſh the times when his blood was ſhed for us.

Iſa. 63. 2.

Six times, ſaith a * Modern: ſeven times, ſaith * Bernard, did Chriſt ſhed his blood for us; and (to reduce them into order) the firſt was at his Circumciſion, when his Name Jeſus was given him, Which was ſo named of the Angel, before he was conceived in the Womb; and was this without Myſtery? No (ſaith Bernard for by the effuſion of his blood he was to be our Jeſus, our Saviour. Bleſſed Jeſus! how ready art thou for the Sacrifice? What? but eight days old, and then to ſhed thy Blood for the Salvation of our Souls? Maturum hoc Martyrium, here is a mature Martyrdom indeed. It is a ſuperſtition took up with the Egyptians and Arabians, that Circumciſion ſhould fright away Devils: And the Jews have a conceit not much unlike; for when the Child is Circumciſed, one ſtands by with a Veſſel full of duſt, into which they caſt the Præpuce: the meaning of it is, That whereas it was the Curſe of the Serpent, Duſt ſhalt thou eat all the days of thy life: They ſuppoſe therefore the Præpuce (or Fore-skin) being caſt into the duſt, the Devil by that Covenant eats his own meat, and ſo departs from the Child. But howſoever they err, of this we are ſure; "That Chriſt delivered his Fleſh as a Bait to Satan, held him faſt "with the Hook of his Divinity through the "ſhedding of his Blood: This Blood was at firſt ſhed at his Circumciſion; and we cannot imagine it a little pain, ſeeing the fleſh was cut with a ſharp ſtone, which made Zipporah to cry out againſt Moſes, Surely a bloody husband art thou to me: What a love is this, that Chriſt newly born ſhould ſo early ſhed his Blood? but all was for our ſakes, for the Salvation of our Souls.

Exod. 4. 25

2. You ſee one Vein opened; but in his ſecond effuſion not one, but all the Veins in his body fell a bleeding at once, and this was at his Paſſion in the Garden, when (as the Evangeliſt teſtifies) he fell into an agony, and his ſweat was like drops of blood, trickling down to the ground: Here is a Phyſick Purgative indeed, when all his Body evacuates ſweat like drops of blood: But what? be the Pleuriſie never ſo great, how ſtrange is the Phlebotomy? It ſeems not to conſult where the Sign lies, you ſee all his Body falls at once to ſweating and bleeding: Nor is the Cure leſs ſtrange than the Phyſick; for we had ſurfeited, and it is he that purgeth; we had the Fever, and it is he that ſweats and bleeds for the recovery of our health; did you ever hear of ſuch a Remedy as this? Oft-times a bleeding in the Head (ſaid Phyſicians) is beſt ſtopt by ſtriking a Vein in the Foot; but hear the Malady is in the Foot, and the Remedy in the Head; we (ſilly wretches) lay ſick of Sin, and Chriſt our Saviour purgeth it out by a ſweat like drops of blood trickling down to the ground; here is a Wonder, no violence is offered, no labour is ſuſtained, he is abroad too in the raw Air, and was laid down grovelling on the cooler Earth; Or if all this be not enough to keep him from ſweating, the Night is cold, (ſo cold, that hardier Souldiers were fain to have a Fire within doors) and yet notwithſtanding all this he ſweats, ſaith the Text; how ſweats? It is not ſudor diaphoreticus, a thin faint ſweat, but grumoſus, of great drops, and thoſe ſo many, ſo violent, as they pierce not only his Skin, but Clothes too, trickling down to the ground in great abundance; and yet may all this fall within the compaſs of a natural poſſibility. But a ſweat of blood puts all Reaſon to ſilence; yea, ſaith Hilary, It is againſt Nature to ſweat blood, and yet (howſoever Nature ſtands agaſt) the God of Nature goes thus far, that in a cold Night (which naturally draws blood inwards) he ſweats without heat, and bleeds without a wound. See all his Body is ſprinkled with a Crimſon Dew, the very Veins and Pores, not waiting the Tormentors Fury, pour out a Shower of Blood upon the ſudden; foul Sin that could not be cleanſed ſave only by ſuch a Bath! What? muſt our Surfeits be thus ſweat out by our Saviour? Yes (ſaith Bernard) We ſin, and our Saviour weeps for it, not only with his Eyes, but with all the parts of his Body: and why ſo? but to this end, That the whole body of his Church might be purged with the tears of his whole Body. Come then ye Sons of Adam, and ſee your Redeemer in this heavy caſe! if ſuch as be kind and loving are wont (when they come to viſit their Friends in death or danger) to obſerve their Countenance, to conſider their Colour, and other accidents of their bodies; tell me, ye that in your Contemplations behold the Face of your Saviour: What think you, when you ſee in him ſuch wonderful, ſtrange, and deadly ſigns? our ſweat (howſoever cauſed) is moſt uſual in the Face or Forehead; but our Saviour ſweats in all his Body; and how then was that Face of his disfigured when it ſtood all on drops, and the drops not of a watry ſweat, but of ſcarlet blood? O my heart? how canſt thou but rend into a thouſand pieces? O my beloved! well may our Eyes ſhed Tears at this, when his Veins thus ſhed their Blood for us.

3. But here is yet a third Effuſion of Blood, and that (as Bernard tells us) was in the nippings and tearings of his ſacred Cheeks: To this bears the In vellicatione genarum. Bern. de Paſſ. Dom. c. 38. Eſay.50.6. Bern. ibid. Prophet witneſs, Iſaiah. 50. 6. I gave my back to the ſmiters, and my cheeks to the nippers, or as our latter Tranſlation, I gave my back to the ſmiters, and my cheeks to them that plucked off the hair: whether his Cheeks were torn, or his Beard plucked off; ſome vary in Opinion: Bernard thinks both might be true: or howſoever we believe, moſt probable it is, that neither of them could be effected without effuſion of blood. And now me-thinks I ſee that face fairer than the Sons of men ſpit on by the Jews: Nor is this their ſcorn without ſome cruelty; for in the next Scene, they exerciſe their Fiſts, which that they may do with more ſport to them, and ſpite to him, they firſt blindfold him, and then ſmiting him on the Face, Lu. 22,64. they bid him read who it is that ſtrikes him; and yet (as if whiteneſs of their Spittle, and blewneſs of their ſtroaks had not cauſed enough colours) they once more die his Roſie Countenance in a bloody red; to this end do they nip his Cheeks with their Nails, and (as others) pluck off his Hair with their Fingers, whereby ſtreams and ſtroaks of blood run down his Cheeks, and drop down at his Chin to his lower Garments: O ſweet Face of our Saviour! what mean theſe Sufferings, but to tell us, if ever confuſion cover our Face for him, that we conſider then how blood and ſweat thus covered his Face for us?

4. But yet here's a fourth Effuſion at his Coronation; the blows drew not blood enough from his Face, and therefore the Thorns muſt fetch more from his Head: If mine adverſaries (ſays Job) ſhould write a book againſt me, ſurely I would take it Job 31.36. upon my ſhoulder, and bind it as a crown unto me, Job 31. 36. The Jews in ſtead of writing a Book, they wreath a Crown, and ſee how our Saviour binds it to him, not only on his Shoulder, as a Croſs to bear it, but on his Head too, as a Crown to triumph in it: but neither is it for triumph only, but for torture; it is a Crown woven of Boughs, deckt with Thorns, and drops of blood in lieu of precious Stones. O Jeſu! was that Spittle thy Ointment, that Reed thy Scepter, thoſe Thorns thy Crown, that Purple dyed with blood, thy royal Robes? Unthankful people, thus watered with his Blood; that bring forth nothing but Briars and Thorns to crown him! but wherefore Thorns, ſave only to cruſh into his tender Head? and to this purpoſe they do not only ſtick his Head Mat.27.30. full of them, but after the putting it on to faſten the Crown better, they ſtrike him on the Head with their Reeds, or Canes: See here thorns, not like ours, but (as the Country afforded) ſtronger and greater to pierce his Scull with more eaſe; Ne hic puta rivos ſanguinis defuiſſe. Bern. de Paſſ. Dom. c. 39. and ſee here Canes, not as ours, but heavier and ſolider (as Jewry had plenty of them) to beat and hammer that Crown of Thorns deeper and deeper into his Head. O then imagine, what ſtreams of blood guſhed out, when all thoſe ſharp prickles were ſhot in? no leſs than a ſhower of blood now rained on his Neck, his Face, his Shoulders; and all this for us, To make us Members of that Head, his Head thus bleeds down upon all his Members.

And his Head-vein being opened, there is a fifth 5. Effuſion of Blood iſſuing out of his Body; this was cauſed by the Whips wherewith the merciles Tormentors fetch blood from his Sacred ſides: Is not here Matter for our Meditation to work on? Conſider (I pray you) how rude are the Hangmen that ſtrip our Saviour of his Garments, and then go about to bind his Holy Body to a Pillar? He (poor man!) ſtands at the Poſt alone, without any Friends to comfort, or eye to compaſſionate him, whileſt they ſtrike on their Laſhes, redoubled their ſtroaks, again and again fall upon him afreſh, as if they would not leave a drop of blood in all his body: but ſtay, what juſtice in all this? the Law of Moſes commanded that Malefactors ſhould be beaten with Whips, and It Deut. 25. 2,3. ſhall be, if the wicked be worthy to be beaten, that the Judge ſhall cauſe him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face according to his fault by a certain number: What number? forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed, leſt if he ſhould exceed, and beat him above theſe with many ſtripes, then thy brother ſhould ſeem vile to thee, Deut. 25. 2, 2. Thus indeed were the Jews tied, but the Gentiles neither bound by Law, nor moved with Compaſſion, far exceed this number: I have read that he received no leſs than 5400 S.Gert.l.4 Divin. inſinuat. c. 35. ſtripes; which, if we conſider theſe things, is not altogether improbable. Firſt, the Law of Beating, that every Guilty ſhould be ſtricken by every one of the Souldiers, a Freeman with Staves, and a Bondman with Whips. Secondly, the cauſe of this Law, that the Body of him that was to be crucified, ſhould be disfigured, that the nakedneſs ſhould not move the Beholders to any diſhoneſt thoughts, when they ſhould ſee nothing pleaſing or beautiful, but all things torn, and full of commiſeration. Thirdly, the purpoſe of Pilate, who hoped to ſpare his life by this ſo great cruelty uſed againſt him. Fourthly, the great care and haſte which the Prieſts uſed in carrying of the Croſs, leſt Chriſt ſhould have died before he was crucified: Every one of theſe Reaſons argue an unreaſonable Whipping which our Saviour endured. But (O joy of the Angels, and glory of Saints!) who hath thus disfigured thee? who hath thus defiled thee with ſo many bloody blows? certainly they were not thy ſins, but mine that have thus evil intreated thee? it was Love and Mercy that compaſt thee about, for I ſhould have ſuffered, but to prevent this, thy Mercy moves thee, and ſo thou takeſt upon thee all my miſeries.

6. Joh.19.5 But all this will not ſatisfie the Jews, Behold the man, ſaid Pilate to them, when he thought to have pacified their wrath by that doleful ſight; but this nothing moved them, though (preſently after) it moved Rocks and Stones to ſhiver in pieces: Behold then a ſixth Effuſion of Blood, when his hands and feet were pierced through with nails; he bears indeed upon his ſhoulders, an heavy and weighty Croſs of fifteen Foot long; which muſt needs (ſay ſome) cauſe a great and grievous wound: but (to omit that which is queſtionable) here be thoſe woful Sufferings; now come the barbarous inhumane Hangmen, and begin to looſe his Hands that were tied to the Poſt, to tye them to (a worſer Pillory) the Croſs, then ſtrip they off his gore-glued Cloaths which did ſo cleave to his mangled battered Back, that they pull off Cloaths and Skin together;

nay, yet more (and how can I ſay it without tears for ſin?) the Croſs is ready, and nothing wanting but a meaſure for the holes; down therefore they lay him on it, and though the print of his Blood gives them a true length, yet ſpitefully they take it longer, that ſo they may ſtretch and rack him on the Croſs till you Pſa'.22.17. may tell his bones. And now all fitted, his Hands and Feet are bored, the greatneſs of whoſe Pſal.22.16. Wounds David fore ſhewed by thoſe words, They digged my hands and my feet, Pſal. 22. 16. And Socrat.l. 1. c. 17. well may we think ſo, for (as Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory reports) ſo big were the very Nails, that Conſtantine made of them an Helmet, and a Bridle. O then what pain is this, when all the weight of his Body muſt hang on four Nails; and they to be driven (not into the leaſt ſenſible parts, but) thorow his Hands and Feet, the moſt ſinewy, and therefore moſt ſenſible parts of all other whatſoever; yet to hang thus for a time, were (it may be) ſomewhat tolerable, but thus he hangs till he dies, and ſo the longer he continues, the wider go his Wounds, and the freſher is his Torture. And now (my Brethren) Lam. 1.12 behold and ſee, if there were ever any ſorrow like unto this ſorrow: Alaſs what elſe appears in him, but bleeding Veins, bruiſed Shoulders, ſcourged Sides, furrowed Back, harrowed Temples, digged Hands and Feet,? digged, I ſay not with ſmall Pins, but with rough boiſterous Nails; and how then ſhot the Blood from thoſe Hands and Feet Cant. 2. 1. thus digged, and digged thorow? O I am the Roſe of Sharon, is truly ſaid of Chriſt; Bern de Paſſ. Dom. c. 41. Look on one hand, and on the other, and you may find Roſes in both; look on one Foot, and on the other, and you may find Roſes in either. In a word, look all over his Body, and it is all over roſie, and ruddy in blood.

Can we any more? yes, after all theſe ſhowers of blood, here is one more Effuſion; for af- 7. ter his Death, One of the Souldiers with a ſpear Joh. 19.34. pierced his ſide, and forthwith came there-out blood and water, 1 Joh. 19. 34. Longinus Biſhop of Cappadocia. Teſte Herble. Contemplations on Chriſt's Paſſion. The Souldier that gave this wound (they ſay) was a blind man; but our Saviour's blood ſpringing out on his Eyes, reſtored him to his ſight, and ſo he became a Convert, a Biſhop, and a Martyr: A ſtrange cure, were the Phyſician muſt bleed; but ſo full of Vertue was this Blood, that by it were all ſaved. And (yet Our Saviour! Why didſt thou flow to us in ſo many ſtreams of blood? one drop had been enough for the World, but thy Love is without meaſure. Phyſicians are uſually liberal of other men's blood, but ſparing of their own; here it is not ſo, for inſtead of the Patients Arm, it is the Phyſicians own Side that bleeds; inſtead of a Lancet here is a Spear, and that in the hand of a blind Chirurgeon: yet as blind as he was, how right doth he hit the very Vein of his Heart? that heart where never dwelt deceit, ſee how it runs blood and water for our ſins; here is the Fountain of his Sacraments, the beginning of our Happineſs: O gate of Heaven! O window of Paradice! O place of Refuge! O Tower of Strength! O Sanctuary of the Juſt! O flouriſhing Bed of the Spouſe of Solomon! Who is not raviſhed at the running of this Stream? methinks I ſtill ſee the blood guſhing out of his ſides, more freſhly and fully than thoſe ſweet golden Streams which run out of Eden to water the whole World. But is it his hearts-blood? What? keep he nothing whole without him, nor within him? his Apoſtles are ſcattered in the Garden, his Garments at the Croſs, his Blood how many wheres? his Skin they have rent with their Whips, his Ear with their Blaſphemies, his Back with their Furrows, his Hands and Feet with their Nails; and will they yet have his Heart too cloven with a Spear? What a wonderful thing is this, that after all thoſe Sufferings he muſt have one Wound more? Why (Lord) what means this open Cleft and Wound within thee? What means this Stream and River of thy Hearts-blood? O, it is I that ſinned, and to waſh it away, his Heart runs blood and water inabundance.

Lo here thoſe ſeven Effuſions of our bleſſed Saviour's blood; the firſt at his Cicrumciſion, the ſecond in the Garden, the reſt when his Cheeks were nipped, his head crowned, his Back ſcourged, his Hands and Feet nailed, his ſide opened with a Spear, whence came out an iſſue of blood and water.

And be our ſins thus purged? Lord, in what miſerable caſe lay we, that Chriſt our Saviour Uſe. muſt endure all this for us! were our ſins infinite, for which none could ſatisfie but our infinite God? were not our Iniquities as the Sands, for which no leſs than an Ocean of Blood could ſerve to cover them? ſure here is a motive, (if nothing elſe) to draw from us the Confeſſion of our manifold ſins. Lord, we have ſinned, we have ſinned grievouſly, heavily, and with a mighty hand; and what now remains, but that we never ceaſe weeping, crying, praying, beſeeching, till we get our pardon ſealed in the blood of Chriſt? O beloved! let me entreat you for Chriſt's ſake, for his Bloods ſake, for his Deaths ſake, that you will repent you of your ſins which have put him to theſe torments: and to this end I ſhall entreat you thus to order your Repentance; Firſt, (After confeſſion of your manifold ſins) look upon him whom you have pierced; and by your meditation, ſuppoſing him to lie afore you, weep, and weep over him, whom you ſee by your ſins thus cloathed in his Blood. Why thus ſhall it be with the Houſe of David, Zech. 12. 10. I will pour upon the houſe of David (ſaith Zech 12. 10. 11. God) and upon the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, the Spirit of Grace, and of Supplication, and they ſhall look upon him whom they have pierced, and they ſhall mourn for him, as one that mourneth for his onely Son, and be ſorry for him, as one that is ſorry for his firſt-born: In that day there ſhall be a great mourning in Jeruſalem, as the mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon. What is the Houſe of David? and what are the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, but the Elect People of God? and if you be of that number, then do you look on him whom you have pierced, and mourn for him, or mourn over him, as one that mourneth for his only Son; yea, be ſorry for him, or be in bitterneſs for him, as one that is in bitterneſs, for his firſt-born. Is it not time, think you? do you not ſee how every part of our Saviour bleeds afore you? his Head bleeds, his Face bleeds, his Arms bleeds, his hands bleed his Heart bleeds, his Back Bleeds, his Belly bleeds, his thighs bleed, his Legs bleed, his Feet bleed: And what makes all this Bloodſhed but our ſins, our ſins? O that this Day, for this Cauſe we would make a great mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon! O weep! Or if you will not weep for him, yet weep for your ſelves, and your own ſins! Alaſs, have you not cauſe? your ſins were his Murderers, and your hands by your ſins were imbrued in his Blood.

Secondly, Stay not here, but when you have mourned, and wept over your Saviour, then hate thoſe ſins that wrought this evil on your Saviour. Which that you may do effectually, ſend your thoughts afar off, and ſee your Saviour in his Circumciſion, in the Garden; and when you have done, ſo then follow him a little further; behold the Tears in his Eyes, and the clodded Blood that came from him when his Cheeks were nipped, his Head crowned, his Back ſcourged, his Hands and Feet nailed, his Side opened: and then, O then ſee if can love thoſe ſins that have done all this Villany! Love them, ſaid I? no (if you have any ſhare in Chriſt) I hope you will rather be revenged on your ſins; rather you will every one ſay; "O my pride and my ſtubborneſs, and my looſeneſs, and my uncleanneſs, and my drunkenneſs: theſe were the Nails, and the Whips, and the Spear that drew blood from my Saviour; therefore let me be for ever revenged of this proud, ſtubborn, rebellious heart of mine own; let me for ever loath my ſin, becauſe it brought all this Sorrow on my Saviour. Is not this ordinary with men? ſhould any one murder your Father or Friend, whom you highly regarded and honoured, would you brook his ſight, or endure his company? nay, would not your hearts riſe againſt him? would you not proſecute the Law to the uttermoſt? and if you might be the Executioner, would you not wound him, and mangle him, and at every ſtroke cry out, Thou waſt the death of my Father, thou waſt the death of my Father: and is the heart of a man thus enraged againſt him that hath but murdered his Friend, or his Father? O then how ſhould your hearts be tranſported with infinite Indignation (not againſt the man, but) but againſt ſin that hath ſhed the precious blood of your Father, your Maſter, your God, your King, your Saviour? O follow, follow after theſe ſins with an Hue and Cry; bring them to the Bar, ſet them before the Tribunal of that great Judge of Heaven, and cry, "Juſtice, Lord, Juſtice againſt theſe Sins of mine; theſe ſlew my Saviour, Lord, ſlay them; theſe Crucified my Saviour, Lord, crucifie them: Why thus purſue, and never leave them, until (if it poſſibly may be) you ſee theſe ſins bleed their laſt; never think you have done enough, but ſtill give your Corruptions one hack more; confeſs your ſins once more, and ſay, "Lord, this Pride, and this ſtubbornneſs, and this looſeneſs of heart, theſe are they that killed my Saviour, and I will be revenged of them.

Thirdly, Stay not here neither, but when you have mourned for your Sins, and ſought Revenge on them, then by Faith caſt them all on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; eaſe your own Souls of them, and hurle your Care on him that careth for you all. Certainly, there is no way to waſh you clean from your ſin, but onely by Chriſt's Blood; and how muſt you apply this but by Faith; Now then, in the laſt place, have Faith, renſe your Souls, as it (were) in the Blood of this Immaculate Lamb, and though you are polluted and defiled, yet (queſtionleſs) the Blood of Jeſus Chriſt will purge you from all ſin: If the blood of Bulls and Goats (ſaith the Apoſtle) and the Aſhes of an Heifer ſprinkling the unclean, ſanctifieth to the Heb. 9,13. 14. purifying of the fleſh; how much more ſhall the blood of Chriſt, who through the eternal Spirit offered himſelf without ſpot to God, purge your Conſciences from dead works, to ſerve the living God. You may talk of a Purgatory, why, here is the Purgatory, that true Purgatory, The Fountain that is laid open for the houſe of Judah to waſh in: And I pray you mark it, it is not only for Juſtification, but being applied by Faith, as effectual for Sanctification; not only for the expiation of ſin, that it be not laid to your charge, but withal to purge your Conſciences from dead works, to ſerve the living God. O then (as you tender your Souls) believe and caſt your ſelves upon Chriſt for Salvation, and for pardon of ſins; do you not ſee him bleeding on the Croſs? Do you not hear him graciouſly offering to receive your Sin-wearied Souls, into his bleeding Wounds? What ſhould you do then, but caſt your ſelves, with all the ſpiritual ſtrength that you can (at leaſt with infinite longings, and moſt hearty deſires) into the Boſom of your Saviour? ſay with your ſelves, The Fountain is opened, and hear will we bathe for ever: Come Life, or come Death, come Heaven or come Hell, come what come can, here will we ſtick for ever: Nay, if you muſt periſh, tell God and Man, Angels and Devils, they ſhall pluck you out of the Hands, and rend you from between the Arms of your bleſſed bleeding Redeemer, your Soul-purging Saviour. Thus if you believe, you need not to droop for your ſins, but to go on with comfort to everlaſting Happineſs: The blood of Chriſt (no queſtion will make way for you into Heaven: yea, (ſaith the Apoſtle) By the Heb. 10. 19, 20. blood of Jeſus we may boldly enter into the holy places by the new and living way which he hath prepared for us, through the veil, which is his fleſh. Such is the bleſſed fruit of this Blood; and the Lord make it effectual unto us, to bring us into Heaven, even for his ſake, who by himſelf thus purged our ſins.

You ſee the Purge given and taken, only a time it muſt have, and then follows the Evacuation: He purged.] What? the ill humour is Sin] the extent of it, Our] ſin: of both theſe together at our next meeting. Now the Lord ſo prepare us, that this Purge may work in us the everlaſting welfare and health of our Souls.

Our Sins.]

SIN is our Sickneſs, and to cure us of it, the Law yields Corroſives, the Goſpel Lenitives; but eſpecially Chriſt yields that Phyſick Purgative, which evacuates Sin. To conſider Chriſt as a man of ſorrows, and not a Saviour of Sinners, were but a melancholick Contemplation; to behold his Wounds, and not ſo to think on them as they were our Salves, adds but more ſorrows to our other Miſeries: but when we call to mind that his Blood was our Ranſom, that his Stripes were our Cures, then with all our hearts we pray. His blood be upon us and our Children. And why not? His blood (ſaith the Apoſtle) ſpeaks Heb. 12.24 better things than the blood of Abel. For Abel's blood cried Revenge, but Chriſt's-blood ſpeaks Mercy; and (to our comfort be it ſpoken) if God heard the Servant, he will much rather hear the Son: yea, if he heard his Servant for ſpilling, how much more will he hear his Son for ſaving and regaining our Souls? In the words are two parts:

1. The ill humour evacuated, Sin.]
2. The extent of this ſin, it is mine, yours, Ours,] every ones.

What is it but Sin] which our Saviour purged? this is that ill humour derived from our Parents, inherent in our ſelves, imputed to our Saviour, Iſa. 53.12. and therefore (ſaith the Prophet) He bare the ſins of many, Eſay 53. 12. to whom agrees the Apoſtle, that He his own ſelf bare our ſins in his own body, 1 Pet. 2. 24. 1 Pet.2.24 What a load then lay on his ſhoulder, when all our ſins, the ſins of all the World were faſten'd upon him? one man's ſin is enough to ſink him in Hell; and had not our Saviour intervened, every one of us had known by a woful experience, how heavy ſin would have been upon the Soul of each man: But (O happy we!) the ſnare is broken and we are delivered: To prevent ſins effect, Chriſt Jeſus hath purged and waſhed it away.

And is this all the matter wherefore our Saviour ſuffered? was ſin all the diſeaſe of which he laboured, when he had by himſelf purged? Yes, it was all, and if we conſider it rightly, we may think it enough, to cauſe ſufferings in him, when meerly for its ſake God was ſo wroth againſt us. O loathſom ſin, more ugly in the ſight of God, than is the fouleſt Creature in the ſight of man? he cannot away with it, nor (ſo righteous are his ways) could he ſave his own Elect becauſe of it, but by killing his own Son: Imagine then what a ſickneſs is ſin, when nothing but the blood of the Son of God could cure it: Imagine what a poyſon is ſin, when nothing but a ſpiritual Mithridate compounded and confected of the beſt blood that ever the World had, could heal it. We need not any further to conſider its nature, but only to think of it how hateful it was to God, how hurtful to his Son, how damnable to men.

Uſe. 1. And was it Sin he purged? 1. This may teach us how hateful ſin is, that put him thus to his Purge: Every ſin is a nail, a thorn, a ſpear; and every ſinner a Jew, a Judas, a Pilate: howſoever then we may ſeek to ſhift it on others, yet are we found the principal in this act our ſelves; you know it is not the Executioner that properly kills the man, ſin only is the Murderer; yea, our ſins only are the Crucifiers of the Lord of Glory: yea, (if you will pleaſe to hear me) I will yet ſay more, our ſins did not only Crucifie him, but Heb. 6.6. do Crucifie him afreſh, Heb. 6. 6. And herein how far do we exceed the Cruelty of the Jews? then his body was paſſible and mortal, but now it is glorified and immortal; they knew not what they did, For had they known, they would not have 1 Cor. 2.8. crucified the Lord of glory: but we know well enough what we do and ſay too; they buried Chriſt in the Earth, and the Third Day he roſe again from the Dead, but we through ſin ſo bury him in oblivion, that not once in three Days, three Weeks, he ariſeth, or ſhineth in our hearts: O ſhame of Chriſtians, to forget ſo great a mercy! O ſin paſt ſhame to Crucifie afreſh the Son of God! Think of it (beloved) ſin is the death of Chriſt and would you not hate him that kills your Brother, your Father, your Maſter, your King, your God? Beware then of ſin, that does it all at a blow! and if you are tempted to it, ſuppoſe with your ſelves that you ſaw Chriſt Jeſus coming towards you, wrapt in Linnens, bound with a Kercher, and crying after you in this gaſtly manner: “Beware, take heed what “you do: once have your ſins moſt vilely murdered me; but now ſeeing my Wounds are “whole again, do not (I beſeech you) rub and “revive them with your multiplied ſins: pity, “pity me your Jeſus, ſave me your Saviour; once “have I died, and had not that one death been “ſufficient, I would have died a thouſand deaths “more to have ſaved your Souls; why then do “you ſin again to renew my ſufferings? O my Saviour, who will not leave to ſin that but hears thy Voice in the Gardens? Lo, the Companions Cant 3.13. hearken unto thy Voice; cauſe me to hear it: it is I that have ſinned, and if this be the fruit of it, let me rather be torn of Beaſts, be devoured of Worms, be violently pulled or haled with Racks, than wittingly or wilfully commit a ſin.

2. This may teach us what was the end and meaning, and intent of Chriſt in his ſufferings. Uſe 2. It was to purge away ſin, and therefore our Faith muſt chiefly eye that; without this, the Contemplation of Chriſt's Death, or the Meditation of the ſtory of his Sufferings, and of the greatneſs of them, will be altogether unprofitable. Chriſtians, learn this for ever; That Faith which is true, ſaving, juſtifying Faith, it chiefly minds, and it is moſt taken up with the main ſcope and drift of all Chriſt's Sufferings, which is to obtain forgiveneſs of ſins in Chriſt crucified. This was the true end of Chriſt's Death, To be a Propitiation for ſin, to bear our ſins on the Tree; he was made ſin for us, that we might be made the righteous of God in him. This was the plot which God by an ancient deſignment aimed at in the Sufferings of Chriſt: And thus our Faith muſt take it up; O let our Faith look mainly to this deſign and plot of God and Chriſt in his Sufferings, to ſatisfie for our ſins, and to juſtifie us ſinners. Surely this intent of Chriſt in all that he did or ſuffered, is that welcom news, and the very Spirit of the Goſpel, which true Faith prizes and ſeiſeth on.

Secondly, He purged ſin; whoſe, but our ſin? and this tells us of the univerſality of this gracious benefit, together with its limitation.

First of the univerſality: He taſted of death for Heb. 2. 9. every man, Heb. 2. 9. and, He gave himſelf a ranſom for all men, 1 Tim. 2. 6. 1 Tim.2.6. and, He purged our ſins, ſaith my Text; what, ours only? No, ſaith the Apoſtle, He is the propitiation, not for our ſins only, but for the ſins of the whole world, 1 John 2. 1 Joh. 2.2 2. You will ſay, all do not actually receive the fruit of his death; you ſay indeed truly, but I wonder through whoſe default: our bleſſed Saviour, what is he but like a royal Prince, who having many of his Subjects in captivity of thraldom under a foreign Enemy, pays a full Ranſom for every one of them, and then ſending forth his Ambaſſadors, he wooes them to return to their home, and to enjoy their liberty? ſome there are that reject the offer, they will rather ſerve the Enemy than return to the freedom of their Lord; and are theſe all the thanks they give their Redeemer? O ſweet Saviour! “He made upon “the Croſs a full, perfect and ſufficient Sacrifice, “Oblation and ſatisfaction for the ſins of the World; but not all receive the benefit, becauſe many by their own demerit have made themſelves unworthy; and yet howſoever ſome deſpiſe liberty, Numb. 11. 23. Is the arm of the Lord ſhortned? no ſee his arms ſpread on the Croſs to embrace all and here is the Univerſality of this gracious benefit.

Uſe. The Uſe hereof is full of comfort; if any man (any ſinner) will now come in with a truly penitent ſoul, thirſting heartily for Chriſt Jeſus, and reſolve unfeignedly to take his Yoak upon him, there is no number nor notoriouſneſs of ſin that can poſſibly hinder his gracious entertainment at God's Mercy-ſeat. O then how hainouſly do they offend, who refuſe to take Chriſt Jeſus offered thus univerſally? If you ask who are they? I anſwer, They are Offenders on both hands: Firſt, Thoſe that too much deſpair: Secondly, Thoſe that too much preſume. To begin with the latter.

Some there are, that howſoever Chriſt, and Heaven, and Salvation be offered unto them, yet ſo cloſe do they ſtick and adhere to their ſins, that they are loath to leave them, and they hope God is ſo merciful, that they can have Chriſt and their ſins too. Alaſs! deceive not your ſelves; though the dearneſs, and ſweetneſs and freeneſs, and generality of Chriſt's Offers be a Doctrine moſt true, and we propound it unto you, as a Motive and Encouragement to bring you in; yet not ſo much as one drop of all that bottomleſs depth of Chriſt's Mercy and Bounty doth as yet belong unto any that lie in the ſtate of unregenerateneſs, or in any kind of hypocriſie whatſoever. Away then with this preſumption, and bethink you what a grievous and fearful ſin you commit time after time, and day after day in neglecting ſo great Salvation, by chooſing (upon a free offer of his Soul-ſaving Blood) to cleave rather to a Luſt (O horrible Indignity! than to Chriſt Jeſus bleſſed for ever; what height and perfection of madneſs is this, that (whereas a man, but renouncing his baſe, rotten, tranſitory pleaſures, might have Chriſt Jeſus, and with him a full and free diſcharge of Hell-pains, a ſure and known right to Heaven's Joys, yet ſhould in cold blood, moſt wickedly and willingly after ſo many Intreaties, Invitations, and Offers, refuſe this mighty change? Heaven and Earth may be aſtoniſhed, Angels and all Creatures may juſtly be amazed at this prodigious ſottiſhneſs, and monſtrous madneſs of ſuch miſerable men: they are the words of a late Divine; "The World (ſaith he) is wont "to call God's people preciſe fools, becauſe they "are willing to ſell all they have for that one "Pearl of great Price, to part with Profits, "Pleaſures, Preferments, their Right-hand, "their Right-eye, every thing, any thing, "rather than to leave Jeſus Chriſt: but who do "you think now are the true and great Fools "of the World? and who are likelieſt one day "to groan for anguiſh of ſpirit, and ſay within Wiſd. 5. 3, 4. "themſelves, This was he whom he had ſometimes in deriſion, and a proverb of reproach; "we Fools accounted his Life madneſs, and his "end to be without honour; now is he numbred amongſt the Children of God, and his "Lot is among the Saints. Nay if it once come to this, with what infinite Horrour and reſtleſs Anguiſh will this Conceit rend a man's Heart in pieces, and gnaw upon his Conſcience, (when he conſiders in Hell, that he hath loſt Heaven for a Luſt? and whereas he might at every Sermon have had even the Son of God his Husband for the very taking, and have lived with him for ever in unſpeakable Bliſs; yet neglecting ſo great Salvation, muſt now lye in unquenchable Flames without all eaſe or end. Sure it is the higheſt Honour that can be imagined, that the Son of God ſhould make ſuit unto ſinful Souls to be their Husband; and yet ſo it is, He ſtands at the door and knocks, if Rev. 3.20 you will give him entrance, he will bring himſelf and Heaven into your hearts: We are Chriſt's 2 Cor. 5. 20. Ambaſſadors (ſaith the Apoſtle) as though God did beſeech you by us, we pray you in Chriſt's ſtead, to be reconciled to God. We are Chriſt's Spokesmen, that I may ſo ſpeak, to woo you and win you unto him, now what can you ſay for your ſelves that you ſtand out? why come you not in? if the Devil would give you leave to ſpeak out, and in plain terms; one would ſay, I had rather be damned than leave my drunkenneſs; another, I love the world better than Jeſus Chriſt; a third, I will not part with my eaſie and gainful trade of Uſury for the Treaſure hid in the Field; and ſo on: ſo that upon the matter, you muſt needs all confeſs that you hereby judge your ſelves unworthy of everlaſting life, that you are wilful bloody Murderers of your own Souls; nay, and if you go on without Repentance, you may expect that the helliſh gnawing of Conſcience for this one ſin of refuſing Chriſt, may perhaps hold ſcale with the united horrours of all the reſt whatſoever. O then make haſt out of ſin, and come to Chriſt, ſo freely offered unto you! Hark how he calls, Come unto me, all Sinners; ſee my Arms ſpread, my Heart open: O how gladly would I entertain you, if you would come unto me! Here is a general Invitation indeed; all men, all ſinners, of all eſtates, of all kinds, of all conditions, whoſoever you are, he keeps open houſe for you, Come and welcom.

Secondly, They offend on the other ſide, who after Invitation, come not, through a kind of unmannerly modeſty, or a baſhful deſpair: Some there are that may perhaps go ſo far as to acknowledge their ſins, and to confeſs that without Chriſt they are utterly undone, and everlaſtingly damned; that may be raviſht with the thoughts and apprehenſions of this Invitation of Chriſt, and would ever think themſelves happy if they had their hungry Souls filled with Chriſt Jeſus: but yet ſo it is, that (conſidering their manifold grievous ſins, ſins of a Scarlet-dye, of an horrid ſtain, againſt Knowledge, againſt Conſcience, and that which troubles them moſt, for all theſe ſins, their ſorrow being ſo little, and poor, and ſcant, and in no proportion anſwerable to them) they cannot, dare not, will not meddle with any Mercy, or believe that Chriſt Jeſus in any ways belongs unto them. To theſe I ſpeak, or rather let them hear our Saviour himſelf ſpeak to them; Whoſoever will Revel. 21. (ſaith he) let him come and drink of this water of life freely: yea, thoſe that think themſelves furtheſt off, he bids them come; Come all that are weary and heavy-laden: if Mat. 11. 28 they find ſin a burden, then Chriſt invites them, they (whoſoever they are, that ſtand at the ſtaffs-end, he deſires them to lay aſide their Weapons and come in, or if they will not do it, he lays his charge on them, for this is his Commandment, That we ſhould believe on the Name 1 Joh.3.23 of his Son Jeſus Chriſt: nay, he counts it a ſin worſe than the ſin of Sodom, a crying ſin, not to come in when the Goſpel is proclaimed; and therefore let them never pretend their ſins are great and many, but rather, becauſe of this Offer, Invitation, and Command, it being without any reſtraint of perſon, or ſins, (except that againſt the Holy Ghoſt) if they will not come in, and caſt themſelves upon Chriſt, let them ſay, it is not the greatneſs of their ſin, but a willlingneſs to be ſtill in their ſins, which hinders them; or otherwiſe let them know, that ſins when men are truly ſenſible of them, ſhould be the greateſt encouragement, (rather than diſcouragement) to bring Matt.9.12. them in to our Saviour. Thoſe that are whole need not a Phyſician, but they that are ſick. Is it not for the honour of a Phyſician to cure great Diſeaſes: a mighty God and Saviour loves to do mighty things, therefore in any caſe let them come in, and the greater ſinners they are, no queſtion the greater glory ſhall Chriſt have by their coming. And indeed to take away all ſcruple, it is a Maxime moſt true, Mat.11.28 That he which is truly weary of his ſins, hath a ſound, ſeaſonable, and comfortable calling to lay hold upon Chriſt: Do they feel the heavy load of their ſin? juſt then is Chriſt ready to take off the burden; do they thirſt after Righteouſneſs? juſt then Rev.21.6. is the Fountain of the water of life ſet wide open unto them: Are they contrite and humble in ſpirit? Iſay 57.15. juſt then are they become Thrones for the high and lofty one that inhabiteth Eternity to dwell in for ever. O then come and welcom! Chriſt excepts none that will not except themſelves. He died for all, and would have all men to be ſaved.

But let us be cautelous: Secondly, He purged our ſins, and ours] with a limitation: The uſe of Phyſick (we ſay) conſiſts in application; and howſoever our Saviour hath purged our ſins, yet this Purge of his is nothing beneficial to us, unleſs there be ſome means to apply it. As then it is in all other Phyſick, ſo in this; we muſt firſt take it; ſecondly, keep it.

1. Take it; for as the beſt Plaiſter, if not laid to, can cure no Wound: ſo Chriſt himſelf, and all his precious Merits are of no vertue to him that will not apply them by Faith: When you hear the Goſpel preached, believe it on your parts; believe Chriſt is yours; believe that he lived, and died, and ſorrowed, and ſuffered, and all this for you, to purge your Souls of your ſins.

2. But having taken it, you muſt, 2ly, keep it; as men take Phyſick, not only in belief that it will do them good, but in hope to keep it by the vertue and ſtrength of the retentive parts. So we take Chriſt by Faith, but we retain him by Holineſs; theſe two, Faith and Holineſs, are thoſe two bonds wherewith Chriſt is united unto us, and we unto Chriſt: ſo that if we be of this number, then truly may we ſay, that he purged our ſins: for he both died for us, and by vertue of our Faith and Holineſs through him, his Death is applied to us; to us, I ſay, not in any general acception, but as we are of the number of his Saints; for we had ſinned, and they were our ſins] only that he effectually purged, and waſhed away.

And this Leſſon may afford us this Uſe, That howſoever the Free grace, and mercy and goodneſs of Chriſt Jeſus is revealed and offered to all men univerſally; yet our Saviour takes none but ſuch as are willing to take upon them his yoke; he gives himſelf to none but ſuch as are ready to ſell all and follow him: He ſaves none but ſuch as deny ungodlineſs and worldly luſts, and live ſoberly, righteouſly, aud godlily in this preſent world: In a word, he purgeth none, or cleanſeth none by his blood from all ſin, but ſuch as walk in the light, as God is in the light; who make conſcience of deteſting and declining all ſins, and ſincerely ſet their hearts and hands with love and careful endeavour to every Duty enjoyned them; why, theſe are the men only to whom his death is effectual; and therefore, as we mean to partake of his Merits, or to have good by his Death, let us become new Creatures. It is true indeed, and we cannot but maintain, that to juſtification nothing but faith is required; but this caution muſt be added, it muſt be a faith that purifieth the heart, that works an univerſal change, that ſhews it ſelf in the fruits: if therefore any of us would come in, let us have ready our anſwer, as a late Divine ſpeaks, the Dialogue betwixt Chriſt and a true Chriſtian on this manner; Firſt (ſaith he) when God hath enlightned the Eyes of a man, that he can ſee where this Treaſure is, what then? Why (ſaith the Chriſtian) I am ſo enflamed with the love of it, that I will have it whatſoever in coſt me? Yea (ſaith Chriſt) but there is a price upon it, it muſt coſt thee dear, a great deal of ſorrow, and trouble, and croſſes, and afflictions: Tuſh, tell me not of price (ſaith the Chriſtian) whatſoever I have ſhall go for it, I will do any thing for it, that God will enable me: Why (ſaith Chriſt) wilt thou curb thine affections? wilt thou give up thy life? wilt thou be content to ſell all thou haſt? I will do it (ſaith the Chriſtian) with all my heart, I am content to ſell all that I have, nothing is ſo dear unto me but I will part with it, my Right-hand, my Right eye; nay, if Hell it ſelf ſhould ſtand between me and Chriſt, yet would I paſs through it unto him. This (beloved) this is that violent affection which God puts into the Hearts of his Children, that they will have Chriſt whatſoever it coſt them; yet underſtand me, I pray you; it is not to ſell our Houſes or Lands, or Children, but our Sins that I mean: the Lord Jeſus and one Luſt cannot lodge together in one Soul; no, if we are but once truly incoporated into Chriſt, we muſt take him as our Husband and Lord; we muſt love, honour, and ſerve him; we muſt endeavour after Sanctification, Purity, new obedience, Ability to do or ſuffer any thing for Chriſt; we muſt conſecrate all the powers and poſſibilities of our Bodies and Souls to do him the beſt Service we can; we muſt grieve and walk more humbly, becauſe we can do no better: And thus if we do, though I cannot ſay but ſtill we ſhall ſin ſo long as we live on this earth, yet here is our comfort, We have an Advocate with the Father, Jeſus 1 Joh. 2. Chriſt the righteous, and he is the propitiation 1, 2. for our ſins. I ſay, for our ſins] effectually, if we believe in his Name; for it was for us he died, amd they were our ſins he purged; and this is that great benefit we receive from our Saviour, in that he by himſelf hath purged our ſins.]

And now our ſins being purged, our Souls recovered, I may well end this Text, only I ſhall give it one viſit more, and ſo Farewell.

You ſee the Malady, Sin] the Remedy, a Purge,] the Phyſician, He,] the Patient, himſelf] our ſelves;] for our Infirmities were laid on him, and his Sores became our Salves, by whoſe Vertue we are healed. Bleſs we then God for the Recovery of our Souls; and be we careful for the future, of any Relapſe whatſoever: theſe Relapſes are they which we had need to fear indeed, for in them the Diſeaſes are moſt dangerous, Sins are more pernicious, and men become ſeven times more the Children of Satan than ever they were before. Matt. 22. 44. Now then we are healed, be we ſtudious to preſerve it all the days of our life, and we ſhall find at our death, that he that purged our Sins, will ſave our Souls; we need not any other Purgatory after Death, no, when our Souls ſhall take their flights from our Bodies, then are the Angels ready to conduct them to his Kingdom: and thither may we come for his ſake, and his only, who by himſelf (in his own perſon) hath purged our ſins.

Amen, Amen.

Heaven's Happineſs.

LUKE xxiij. 43.

To Day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.

HE that purged our ſins is here diſpoſing of Paradiſe; at the ſame time when he hung on the Croſs, even giving up the ghoſt; he is dealing Crowns and Kingdoms to a poor penitent Soul: Thus like a glorious Sun that breaks through the watry Clouds ere it appear unto us, our Saviour (the Sun of righteouſneſs) ſhoots forth his Rays of Majeſty through all his Sufferings on a dejected Sinner. Two Malefactors ſuffer with him, the one rails on him, ſaying, If thou be Chriſt, ſave thy ſelf and us: but the other prays to him, Lord, Remember me when thou comeſt to thy kingdom? in the midſt of his thraldom he proclaims his Kingdom, and whom he ſees a Captive, he believes a Lord; Lord, remember me; Is it not ſtrange, that through ſo many, ſuch thick Clouds of Miſery, this dying Thief ſhould behold his Glory? but where Grace aboundeth, what marvel is it? 1 Cor. 2. 15. The natural man knoweth not the things of God, but he that is ſpiritual, diſcerneth all things. No ſooner was this penitent Thief converted a Chriſtian, but on a ſudden, even on the very Rack of Torture he confeſſeth himſelf a Sinner, and Chriſt his Saviour; and therefore deſires to be remembred of him when he comes to Heaven. Thus pouring out his Soul in Prayer, the Bridegroom that became an Harp ſaith Bernard, (his Croſs being the wood; himſelf ſtretcht on it, the Strings; and his Words the Sound) Hark how he warbles the moſt Heavenly Muſick that was ever chanted to a departing Soul, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.

The words are a Goſpel, ſuch as the Angels Luk. 2.10. brought to the Shepherds, Luke 2. 10. Behold, I bring you good tydings of great joy; here is tydings, good tydings; joy and great joy, the greateſt Happineſs that ever could befal a Mortal, now waits on a Malefactor, at that time when the execution was a doing, Death approaching, and the horrours of Hell laying hold upon him; when a word of comfort would have been moſt ſeaſonable; like Apples of Goldin Pictures of Silver: then comes our Saviour (as a Meſſenger with a Pardon) and he bids him be of good cheer, there was happineſs towards him: when? to Day] what thou ſhalt be with me] where? in Paradiſe.] Not a word but ſpeaks comfort to the afflicted Soul; be he howſoever afflicted for the preſent, yet there ſhall be a change; and the more to ſweeten it,

Celerity, to day]
Certainty, thou ſhalt be]
Society, with me]
Ubi, or place, where all joy is enjoyed, in Paradiſe]

Theſe are thoſe four Heads that iſſue out of Eden, may God give a Bleſſing to the watering, that you may bear good fruit till you are planted in that Garden, whereof it is ſpoken, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.] We begin with the certainty of this Promiſe, Thou ſhalt be,] &c.

Thou ſhalt be]

TO this purpoſe was that Aſſeveration, Verily, verily, I ſay unto thee:] Nor is it enough that he affirms it, but he aſſures it, Thou ſhalt be.] Will and ſhall is for the King, and what is he leſs that beſtows Kingdoms on his Servants? Here was a poor man deſires only to be remembred of him, and inſtead of remembring him, he tells him, he ſhall be with him: how? but as a Co-heir of his Kingdom. Bleſſed thief, that had ſuch a Gift, and that made unto him with ſuch aſſurance as this was! It is the Promiſe of our Saviour, who to put him out of all doubt, he tells him it ſhall be ſo, Thou ſhalt be with me in Paradiſe. Whence obſerve;

That Salvation may be made ſure to a man. Obſerv. If you would needs know the means (howſoever it was true in this Thief) it is not by any immediate Suggeſtion, or Revelation; Chriſt is now in Heaven, and the Holy Ghoſt works not by Enthuſiaſms thuſiaſms or Dreams; The aſſurance of our Salvation depends not upon Revelation, but on the Promiſes of the Goſpel: there then muſt we ſearch and ſee, and if our hearts be rightly qualified, thence may we draw that fulneſs of perſwaſion with Abraham, who ſtaggered not at God's Promiſes, being fully perſwaded, that what he had promiſed he was able to perform, Rom. 4. 20, 21. This Doctrine we have confirmed by David, Pſalm 35. 3. Say unto my Soul, I am thy ſalvation. By Peter, in the 2 Pet. 1. 10. Make your election ſure. By Paul, in the 1 Cor. 9. 26. I therefore ſo run, not as uncertainly. From all which we may argue, David would never pray for that which could not be; nor would Peter charge us with a Duty which ſtood not in poſſibility to be performed; nor would Paul ſerve God at random, uncertain whether he ſhould obtain any good, or prevent any miſchief; no, but as one that was ſure, that by ſo doing he ſhould attain everlaſting Life, and without ſo doing he could not avoid eternal Death. We may then be ſure, if conditions rightly concur: and ſeeing this is a Point we would be all glad to know, that we are ſure to be ſaved, I ſhall beg others help, God's aſſiſtance, and your patience, till we have opened the Windows, and given you a light of the Lodging where ſecurely our Souls may reſt at Noon day.

Cant. 1. 7.

Some lay the Order thus, that to aſſure us of Heaven, we muſt be aſſured of Chriſt; and to aſſure us of Chriſt, we muſt be aſſured of Faith; and to aſſure us of Faith, we muſt be aſſured of Repentance, and to aſſure us of Repentance, we muſt be aſſured of amendment of Life.

Others tell us of more Evidences, and we ſhall reduce them to theſe Heads; The teſtimony of our ſpirits, and the teſtimony of God's Spirit: It is not our Spirit alone, nor Gods Spirit alone makes this Certificate, but both concurring; and thus Paul tells us, Rom. 8. 16. The Spirit it ſelf beareth witneſs with our ſpirit, that we are the Children of God.

Rom.8.16.

1. Our firſt Aſſurance then is the Teſtimony of our ſpirit, and this witneſſeth two ways.

By { Inward Tokens, Outward Fruits.

Inward Tokens are certain ſpecial Graces of God imprinted in the Spirit of a man: As; godly Sorrow, deſire of Pardon, love of Righteouſneſs, Faith in Chriſt; for he that believeth on the Son of God, hath the witneſs in himſelf, ſaith the Apoſtle.

John5.10.

Outward Fruits are all good Deeds, holy Duties, new Obedience, and hereby we are ſure that we know him, if we keep his commandments, 1 John 2. 3. To ſay then we are ſure of Heaven, and to live a life fitter for Devils, what a fond ſaying is this? no, if we have a true Teſtimony, we muſt be of good Lives: it is our holineſs, and juſtice, and mercy and Truth, that will be our beſt Aſſurance: and ſo the Apoſtle aſſures us; If ye do theſe things ye ſhall never fall. See more of this in Medit. Self-tryal, Sect. 8.

1 Joh.2.3.
2 Pet.1.10.

2. Our ſecond and beſt Aſſurance is the teſtimony of God's Spirit, which ſometimes may ſuggeſt and teſtifie to the ſanctified Conſcience thus, or in the like manner; Thou ſhalt be ſaved, Thou ſhalt be with me in Paradiſe.

But here Im ſatisfie two Doubts: Firſt, by what means the Spirit of God gives this particular Aſſurance? Secondly, how a man may diſcern betwixt the Aſſurance of this Spirit, and the illuſion of Satan, who is the Spirit of Lyes?

To the firſt we ſay, the Means is either by an immediate Revelation, or by a particular Application of the Promiſes in the Goſpel, in form of an experimental Syllogiſm: As, Whoſoever believes on the Son ſhall be ſaved. But I believe on the Son; Therefore I ſhall be ſaved. The major is Scripture, the minor is confirmed by our Faith, which if I have, I may ſay, I believe: True fleſh and blood cannot ſay this, it is the operation of the Holy Ghoſt: but if the work be wrought, and I feel this Faith within my Soul, what need I doubt but this Aſſumption is true, I believe on the Son? Yet I hear ſome complain, they have neither ſight nor ſenſe of Faith; and thus it is often with God's deareſt Children: The Sun that in a clear Sky diſcovers and manifeſts it ſelf, may ſometimes with Clouds be overcaſt and darkned; and Faith, that in the calmneſs of a Chriſtian courſe ſhines, and ſhews it ſelf clearly to the ſanctified Heart, may ſometimes in the damp of ſpiritual deſertion, or darkneſs of temptation, lye hid and obſcured: There is therefore in the Saints, the aſſurance of Evidence, and the aſſurance of Adherence; The aſſurance of Adherence, is that which is without ſcruple, and brings an admirable Joy with it; and this more eſpecially appears either in our more fervent Prayers, or in our heavenly Meditations, or in time of Martyrdom, or in ſome quickning Exerciſes, of extraordinary Humiliation, or in beginning of our ſpiritual, or end of our natural Life, as moſt needful times; then doth God's Spirit ſpeak moſt comfortably to us, whiſpering to our Souls the aſſurance of our Happineſs, that we ſhall be Inheritors of his Kingdom. The aſſurance of Adherence is that, which I doubt not the Saints have in their greateſt Extremity? For inſtance, many a faithful Soul, that makes conſcience of ſin, lies and languiſhes upon the Rack of Fears and Terrours, and feels nothing but a dead Heart, and a ſpiritual Deſertion, yet in the mean time his Soul cleaves unto Chriſt, as to the ſureſt Rock, and cries and longs after him, and for all his fears and ſorrows he will ſtill reſt upon him, Job-like, Though he ſlay me, yet will I truſt in him, Job 13. 15. Now this Adherence unto Chriſt may aſſure him of Salvation, for (if we ſpeak punctually and properly) Faith juſtifying is not to be aſſured of Pardon, but to truſt wholly upon Chriſt for Pardon; and thus if he do, then may he with freedom of Spirit ſay, I believe on the Son; whence ariſeth this Concluſion, which is the Teſtimony of God's Spirit, therefore I ſhall be ſaved.

Joh. 3. 36.

Certitudo evidentiæ & adhærentiæ.

Job 13.15.

To our ſecond Doubt, how we may diſcern betwixt the Teſtimony of God's Spirit, and the Illuſion of Satan? I anſwer:

Firſt, The Teſtimony of God's Spirit is ever agreeable to the Word; and thus to try us, the Scripture tells us, that Whoſoever is born of God, doth not commit ſin, 1 John 3. 9. which is not to be underſtood ſimply of the act of ſinning; for, Who can ſay, My heart is clean? But in this ſenſe he doth not commet ſin, that is, he makes not a trade of ſin, it doth not reign in him; if then thou alloweſt any Luſt in thine Heart, or goeſt on in the willing practice of any one known ſin, and yet haſt a conceit that thou art ſure of Salvation; alas, thou art deceived. Thou haſt made a lye thy refuge, and hid thy ſelf under falſhood.

Secondly, God's Spirit breeds in the Soul a reverend love, and inſatiable longing after all good means appointed and ſanctified for our ſpiritual good: and therefore that heart which ſweetly is affected and inflamed with the Word and Prayer, and Meditation, and Conference, and Vows, and ſinging of Pſalms, and uſe of good Books, we doubt not but it is breathed on by the Spirit of God; whilſt others that uſe all theſe Ordinances out of cuſtom or formality, or ſome other ſiniſter end; alas, their conceit of being right, is built on the ſands, and therefore down it falls at death's flood, and is overwhelmed in deſtruction.

Thirdly, God's Spirit is ever attended with the Spirit of Prayer, and therefore ſaith the Apoſtle, Rom. 8.26. We know not how to pray, but the Spirit it ſelf maketh interceſſion for us with groanings which cannot be uttered, Rom. 8. 26. O the bleſſed Operation of this Spirit! it even warms the Spirit of a man with quickning life, to pour out it ſelf in the preſence of the Lord his God, ſometimes in more hearty prayers, and ſometimes in more faint and cold, yet always edged with infinite deſires that they were far more fervent than they are: But on the other ſide, every deluded Phariſee is a meer ſtranger to the power of Prayer, if he prays often, (as I make it a queſtion) yet never prays he from a broken heart, and this argues that all his confidence is no better than a Weed which grows of its own accord, and therefore like Jonah's Gourd, when Affliction comes, it withers on a ſudden.

Fourthly, The teſtimony of God's Spirit is often exerciſed and accompanied with Fears, and Jealouſies, and Doubts, and Diſtruſts, and Varieties of Temptations, which many times will drive the Soul thus diſtreſt to cry mightily to God, to reexamine her Grounds, to confirm her Watch, to reſort her Counſel where it may be had; whilſt on the contrary the Phariſees groundleſs Conceit lies in his Boſom, without Fears or Jealouſies, or Doubts, or Diſtruſts, or any ſuch a do; why ſo? alas, Satan is too ſubtile to trouble him in that caſe; he knows his Foundation is Falſhood, his Hope of Heaven no better than a Golden Dream, and therefore in policy he holds his peace, that he may hold him the faſter.

Fifthly, The teſtimony of God's Spirit is ever moſt refreſhing at thoſe times when we retire our ſelves to converſe with God in a more ſolemn manner, when we feel that we have conquered, or well curbed ſome corruption of Nature; when we are well exerciſed in the Ordinances of God, or in our Sufferings by Man for a good Cauſe, and Conſcience ſake; then (or at ſuch times) ſhall we feel that ſweetneſs of the Spirit cheriſhing our hearts with a lightſom comfort that cannot be uttered; whilſt on the contrary, the deluded man is always alike peremptory in his confidence; you ſhall not take him at any time without a bold perſwaſion, that he hopes to be ſaved as well as the beſt; thus like a man who lying faſt aſleep on the edge of a Rock, he dreams merrily of Crowns and Kingdoms, and will not off it, but on a ſudden ſtarting for joy, he tumbles into the bottom of the Sea, and there lies drowned in the deep; that aſſurance which is ever ſecure is but a Dream, whereas the teſtimony of God's Spirit is ſometimes mixed with Doubts, and ſometimes (to our unſpeakable comfort) with a ſecret, ſtill, heart-raviſhing Voice thus ſpeaks to our Conſciences, Thou ſhalt be] with me in Paradiſe.

You ſee the teſtimony of God's Spirit, how it works in us, and how it is diſcerned by us; it works in us by a particular Application of the Promiſes in the Goſpel, and is diſcerned by us by the Word, by our Love, our Prayers, our fears, our joys, at ſome times while we are doing our Duties. But for this, ſee our beſt Evidences in Med. Self-tryal, Chapter 4. Sect. 8. third Edition.

O bleſſed man that feels in his Soul this bleſſed Teſtimony! what is here comparable to it? Riches are deceitful, Pleaſure is a Toy, the World is but a Bubble, only our Aſſurance of Heaven is the only real Comfort that we have on Earth; who then would not ſtudy to make this certain? If we purchaſe an Inheritance on Earth, we make it as ſure, and our Tenure as ſtrong, as the Brawn of the Law, or the Brain of Lawyers can deviſe: We have Conveyance, and Bonds, and Fines, no ſtrength too much; and ſhall we not be more curious in the ſetling our Eternal Inheritance in Paradiſe? a man can never be too ſure of going to Heaven; and therefore in God's Fear let us examine the Teſtimony of our Spirits by the inward Tokens, and by the outward Fruits: let us examine the Teſtimony of God's Spirit by the means and the difference; and if we find both theſe Teſtimonies to accord within us, how bleſſed are we in this Vale of Tears! it is an Heaven upon Earth, a Paradiſe in a Wilderneſs; in a word, a Comfort in all Miſeries, be they never ſo embittered. See a Thief hanging on the Croſs, an Engine of moſt grievous Torture; but who can tell the Joy that entred into him before he entred into Heaven? you may gueſs it by his Deſire to be remembred of Chriſt when he came into his Kingdom; he begs not for Life, nor Pleaſure, nor Riches, nor Honour; no, There is one thing neceſſary; give him Heaven and he cares for nothing: To this purpoſe doth he addreſs himſelf to our bleſſed Saviour, and he asks——What? If thou be Chriſt, ſave thy ſelf, ſaid the Jews in deriſion; and, Luke 23. 37, 39. If thou be Chriſt, ſave thy ſelf and us, ſaid the other Thief to him; but this was only for the Bodies ſafety; and here is a man quite of another mind, let the Jews rack him, tear him, break all his Bones, and pull him into Atomes, if our Saviour will but do ſo much as remember him in his Kingdom, he deſires nothing more; O bleſſed Chriſt, ſpeak comfortably to his Soul that begs it thus vehemently at thy hands! but why do I prevent? the Bowels of our Saviour yearn to hear him, remember him? yes, he will remember him, and he ſhall be with him; comfortable News! how leaps his Heart at theſe ſo bleſſed words? his Deſire is granted, and Heaven is aſſured, and the Spirit of God, yea, the God of Spirits thus teſtifies it to him, To day [ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.]

Thus far of the certainty of his Salvation, Thou ſhalt be,] but as the Grant is ſweet that is certain, ſo is it yet more acceptable if done with expedition; and here is both the certainty and expedition, Thou ſhalt be, when? to day] with me in Paradiſe.

To day.

OUR Saviour defers not that he promiſes, but as he quickly hears, and quickly grants; ſo he quickly gives him Paradiſe, and a Kingdom. This ſudden unexpected Joy makes all more grateful: to tell us of Crowns and Kingdoms that we muſt inherit, and then to put us off with delays, abates the ſweetneſs of the Promiſe: Men that go to Suits for Lands and Livings, though Lawyers feed them with hopes, yet one order after another, ſpinning out time to a multitude of Terms, makes them weary of the buſineſs: It is the happineſs of this Suitor that he comes to an hearing, but the higheſt degree of his Happineſs was the expedition of his Suit: no ſooner he motions, Lord, remember me when thou comeſt into thy Kingdom; but the Lord gives him that he asks upon his firſt motion, To day, ere the Sun be down, the Kingdom ſhall be thine, thou ſhalt be with me in Paradiſe.

But you may object, Was there no Limbus Patrum, no Purgatory to run through? but the very ſame day he died, he muſt then go to Paradiſe? no, unleſs Limbus or Purgatory be Paradiſe it ſelf, there is no ſuch thing at all. Some there are, that rather than ſay nothing, ſpeak thus: Chriſt giving up the ghoſt, his Soul deſcended into Hell, and the very ſame day was this Malefactor partaker of Chriſt's beatifical Viſion, with the other Patriarchs in Limbus. But of how great difference is Paradiſe and Limbus, we ſhall hear another time: Sure it is, Chriſt promiſed not a Dungeon in ſtead of a Kingdom, nor is Paradiſe a Place of Pleaſure, of any ſuch imaginary melancholy nature: We conclude then, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe,] it is all one, as to ſay, To day (thy day of death) thou ſhalt be with me in Heaven, and there enjoy me in my Kingdom.

But again, you may object, That Chriſt rather that day deſcended into Hell, than aſcended into Heaven: the Creed teacheth, that after he was crucified, dead, and buried, he deſcended into Hell.

To anſwer the Objection, ſome go about thus; by Hell (ſay they) is meant Paradiſe, where the Soul of Chriſt was all the time that his Body lay in the Grave: If this be not a miſconſtruction, I am ſure it is no literal Expoſition; and methinks a very ſtrange kind of Figure it is, to expreſs Chriſt's aſcent into Paradiſe, by his deſcent into Hell. Others more probably underſtand Chriſt's abode in the Grave for the ſpace of Three Days; Auguſtine after ſome turns and wrenches, concludeth thus: Eſt autem ſenſus multo expeditior, &c. It is a far eaſier ſenſe, and freer from all ambiguity, if we take Chriſt to ſpeak theſe words, This day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe] not of his Manhood, but of his God-head; for the Man Chriſt was that day in the Grave according to the fleſh, and in Hell as touching his Soul, but the ſame Chriſt as God is always every where. Thus he: But this will not ſatisfie all, and therefore they argue thus againſt it; Theſe words, (ſay they) muſt be underſtood of his Manhood, not his Godhead: and why ſo? For they are an Anſwer unto a Demand, and unto it they muſt be ſuitable: Now the Thief (ſeeing that Chriſt was firſt of all crucified, and therefore in all likelihood ſhould firſt of all die) makes his Requeſt to this effect: Lord, thou ſhalt ſhortly enter into thy Kingdom, remember me then: to which Chriſt's Anſwer (as the very words import) is thus much; I ſhall enter into Paradiſe this day, and there ſhalt thou be with me: but the Godhead, which is at all times in all places, cannot be ſaid properly to enter into a place, and therefore not into Paradiſe. Again, when Chriſt ſaith, Thou ſhalt be with me in Paradiſe] he doth intimate a reſemblance between the firſt and ſecond Adam; the firſt Adam ſinned againſt God, and was preſently caſt out of Paradiſe; the ſecond having made a ſatisfaction for ſin, muſt preſently enter into Paradiſe. Now there is no entrance but in regard of the Soul, or Manhood, and therefore to apply it to the Godhead, were to aboliſh this Analogy betwixt the firſt and ſecond Adam.

Perkins on the Creed.

Theſe Reaſons are weighty; but ſhould we ſay with Auguſtine, That Chriſt in his Soul went down into Hell, one of our Worthies can tell us; "That Chriſt's Soul, united to his "Godhead, might do all that, and yet be that "day in Paradiſe: God works not lazily like "man. Satan could ſhew Chriſt all the King-"doms of the World in the twinkling of an "Eye, and God's expedition exceeds his. To this agrees another, "That we have no war-"rant in God's Word, ſo to faſten Chriſt's "Soul into Hell for all the time of his death, "but that it might be in Paradiſe before it de-"ſcended into Hell. That he was in Paradiſe muſt be received, becauſe himſelf doth affirm it; and that he deſcended into the deep, muſt be received alſo; for the Apoſtle doth evouch it; but how he deſcended, or what time he deſcended, as alſo what manner of Triumph he brought thence, cannot be limited by any mortal man. To conclude, I will not deny, but that according to the Creed, he deſcended into Hell, yet howſoever we expound it, Metaphorically or literally, it hinders not this truth, but that immediately after death his Soul went into Paradiſe.

The Objections thus ſolved, now come we to the Thief thus comforted by Chriſt, To day] thou ſhalt be with me in Paradiſe.

What? To day? without all doubts or delays? here is a bleſſed diſpatch if we either conſider the miſery endured, or the joy to be received.

Firſt, In regard of his miſeries, he was a Thief condemned and crucified: We read of four kinds of Deaths in uſe amongſt the Jews: Strangling, Stoning, Fire, and the Sword: the Croſs was a death whether for the Pain, the Shame, the Curſe, far above all other: we may ſee it in that gradation of the Apoſtle, He became obedient to death, even to the death of the Croſs, Philippians 2. 8. What Engine of Torture was that? it ſpins out pain, it flows his death, yet a little and a little, till it be more than any man can think: See his hands boared, his Feet nailed, his Legs broken, every part full of pain from top to Toe; and thus hangs this Thief, the poyſe of his Body every moment encreaſing his pain, and his own weight becoming his own affliction: in this caſe were not a quick riddance his beſt remedy? were not the news of Death better than a lingring Life? Lo then, to his Eternal Comfort, Chriſt our Saviour (in the ſame condemnation) grants him his Deſire: What would he have? a diſpatch of Phil. 2. 8.

1 Sam.28. 19. pain? He ſhall have it this day; as Samuel's appearance ſaid to Saul, To morrow (yea, to day) ſhalt thou be with me.

But ſecondly, Here is a greater Comfort, his miſeries have an end, and his joys are at hand: while he is even gaſping in Death's Pangs, he is carried on a ſudden from Earth to Heaven, from his Croſs to Paradiſe, from a World of Woe, to a Kingdom of Happineſs an eternal Bliſs. O how bleſſed is the change, when in the very moment of Miſery Joy enters! Suppoſe you a poor man in the Night-time out of his way, wandring alone upon the Mountains, far from Company, deſtitute of Money, beaten with Rain, terrified with Thunder, ſtiff with Cold, wearied with Labour, famiſhed with Hunger, and near brought to Deſpair with the multitude of Miſeries; if this man upon a ſudden, in the twinkling of an Eye, ſhould be placed in a goodly, large, and rich Palace, furniſhed with all kind of clear Lights, warm Fire, ſweet Smells, dainty Meats, ſoft Beds, pleaſant Muſick, Fine Apparel, honourable Company, and all theſe prepared for him, to ſerve him, honour him, and to Anoint and Crown him a King for ever; what would this poor man do? what could he ſay? ſurely nothing, but rather in ſilence weep for joy: Such, nay, far happier was the caſe of this poor Malefactor; he was like the man wandring on the Mountains, full of as much pain as the Croſs Could make him; but on a ſudden he and our Saviour crucified with him, both meet in his Kingdom: and now, Lord, what a joy enters into him, when he entred into Heaven! on Calvary he had nothing about him, but the Jews at his Feet, and the Nails in his Hands, and the Croſs at his back; in ſtead whereof, no ſooner comes he to Paradiſe, but the Angels, Arch-Angels, Cherubims, Seraphims, all hug him, and embrace him; imagine how was he aſtoniſhed, and as it were beſides himſelf at this ſudden Mutation, and exceſſive Honour done unto him! Imagine what Joy was that, when he met our Saviour in his Glory, whom that very Day he had ſeen buffeted, ſcourged, crowned, crucified; Bleſſed Day that could ever bring forth ſuch a change! Beloved, I know not how to expreſs it; but let your Souls in ſome Meditation fly up from Calvary to Heaven; in the Morning you might have ſeen Chriſt and this Thief hanging on two Croſſes, their Bodies ſtretched, their Veins opened, their Hands and Feet bleeding in abundance: the one deſiring to be remembred of the other, and the other complaining that he was forgotten of his Father: (Mat.27.46) In this doleful caſe both leaving the World, ere Night they meet again, and now what Hugs, what Kiſſes are betwixt them? (Gen.46.26) When Joſeph met with Jacob, he fell on his neck, (ſaith Moſes) and wept on his Neck a good while, but never was any meeting on Earth like this in Heaven: Here we have a Joſeph lift out of the Dungeon to the Throne, where no ſooner ſet, but our Saviour performs his Promiſe of meeting him in Paradiſe, at which meeting the Angels ſing, the Saints rejoyce, all Harps warble, all hands clap for joy, and the poor Soul of this penitent Thief raviſhed with delight, what does it, or what can it do, but even weep for joy (if any weeping were in Heaven) to ſee on a ſudden ſo great a change as this?

Uſe. And if this be his caſe, who will not ſay with Balaam, Let me die the death (yea, let me live the life) of the righteous, and let my laſt end be like his? (Numb.23. 10.) O let us (I beſeech you) preſent unto our Souls the bleſſed condition to come, and this will be effectual to ſtir us up to every good duty, and to comfort us in all Conditions whatſoever: What will a man care for croſſes and loſſes, and diſgraces in the World, that thinks of an heavenly Kingdom? What will a man care for ill uſage in his Pilgrimage, when he knows he is a King at home? We are all (in this time of our abſence from God) but even ſtrangers upon Earth; here then muſt we ſuffer Indignities; yet here is the comfort, we have a better Eſtate to come, and all this in the mean time is nothing but a fitting of us to that heavenly Kingdom: as David's time between his Anointing and Inveſting was a very preparing of him, that he might know himſelf, and that he might learn fitneſs for to govern aright: ſo we are anointed Kings; as ſoon as believe, we have the ſame bleſſed anointing that is poured on our Head, and runs down about us; but we muſt be humbled and fitted, before we are inveſted: a little time (and but a little) we have here to ſpend, and let this be our comfort (howſoever we fare here) it is not long ere we inherit. The afflictions of this life are not worthy of the glory that ſhall be ſhewed us, Rom. 8. 18. and therefore Ignatius in a burning zeal durſt ſay it; (Rom.8.18.) Fire, Callows, Beaſts, breaking of my bones, quartering of my members, cruſhing of my body, all the torments of Devils, let them come upon me, ſo I may enjoy this Treaſure of Heaven; (Hieron. in Catalogo.) and well might he ſay it, that knew what a change would be one day; for never was cold Shadow ſo pleaſant in hot Summer, never was eaſie Bed ſo delightful after Labour, as ſhall be this reſt of Heaven to an afflicted Soul coming thither out of this Valley of Tears. O then what ſervice ſhould we do? what pains ſhould we ſuffer to attain this reſt? were it to run through fire and water, were it (as St. Auguſtine ſaid) to ſuffer every day torments, yea, the very torments of Hell, yet ſhould we be content to abide it; (Aug. ſerm. 13. de ſanct.) and how much more when we may buy without money, or money-worth; we need not to part with any thing for it, but ſin: This Thief (now a bleſſed Saint in Glory) * for a days ſuffering, an half days repenting, was thus welcomed to Heaven; imitate we him in his repentance, not in his delay, he indeed had mercy at the laſt caſt, but this Priviledge of one infers not a common Law for all: One finds mercy at the laſt, that none ſhould deſpair; and but one, that none ſhould preſume. Be then your ſins as red as ſcarlet, you need not deſpair, if you will but repent, and leſt your repentance be too late, let this be the Day of your Converſion: Now abhor ſins paſt, ſue out a Pardon, call upon Chriſt with this Thief on the Croſs, Lord, Remember me, remember me now thou art in thy Kingdom: thus would we do, how bleſſedly ſhould we die? our Conſciences comforting us in Death's pangs, and Chriſt Jeſus ſaying to us at our laſt day here, our day of Death, our day of diſſolution, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.

* I ſpeak of ſuffering and repenting as means, not as the cauſe.

Uſe 2. 2. Let us admire at this free Gift of Chriſt; it is true, I may preſs upon you doing ſuffering, Faith, Repentance, yet underſtand aright, Goſpel-conditions make not the Gift leſs

leſs free; if Life be offered to a condemned man upon condition that he ſhould beg, and wait, before he have his Pardon, and take him for his Lord, who hath thus Redeemed him; all this is no ſatisfying of the juſtice of the Law, eſpecially when the Condition is alſo given, as it is by Chriſt to all his Choſen! Chriſtians, admire at this: ſurely we ſhall admire at this when we come to enjoyment; methinks I hear this bleſſed Thief thus ſpeak in Heaven; O Jeſu, what didſt thou ſee in me, that thou ſhouldſt judge me meet for ſuch a ſtate as this? that I who was a Robber, a Thief, ſhould be clad in the brightneſs of this glory? that I who was but lately groaning, weeping, dying, ſhould now be as full of joy as heart can hold? Alas! what was my prayer, my tears, my repentance, to ſuch a reward as this? O when a ſelf-denying, ſelf-accuſing, humble Soul, who thought himſelf unworthy the ground he trod on, and the air he breathed in, unworthy to eat. drink, or live, ſhall be taken up into this Glory; he who durſt ſcarce come amongſt, or ſpeak to the imperfect Saints on Earth, becauſe he was unworthy; for his Soul to find it ſelf wrapt up in Heaven, and cloſed in the Arms of Chriſt, even in a moment; do but think with your ſelves what the tranſporting, aſtoniſhing admiration of ſuch a Soul will be? Now if ſuch admirings be in Heaven, admire now, begin we now to admire at this Free-grace, Free-gift of Chriſt, who will one day freely ſay to us, To day ſhall you be with me in Paradiſe.

We have diſpatcht with expedition this Diſpatch, this expedition, To day,] the next day you ſhall hear the Happineſs of this Grant, which is the Society of our Saviour, Thou ſhalt be: with whom? with me] in Paradiſe.

With me]

AND is he of the Society of Jeſus? yes, (though no Jeſuit neither, for they were not then hatcht) but what noble Order is this, where the Saints ſing, Angels miniſter, Arch-Angels rule, Principalities triumph, Powers rejoyce, Dominations govern, Vertues ſhine, Thrones glitter, Cherubims give light, Seraphims burn in love; and all that Heavenly Company aſcribe, and ever give all Laud and Praiſes unto God their Maker? here is is a Society indeed. (I mean not of Babylon, but Jeruſalem) whither Jeſus our Saviour admits all his Servants, and whereto this Thief on the Croſs was invited, and welcomed, Thou ſhalt be with me] in Paradiſe,

For if with me] then with all that is with me, and thus comes in that bleſſed Company of Heaven; we will only take a view of them, and in ſome ſcantling or other you may gueſs at Heaven's Happineſs.

With me] and therefore with my Saints; bleſſed man that from a crew of Thieves (by one Hours Repentance) became a Companion of Saints; and now he is a Saint amongſt them: What joy is that he enjoys with them? O my Soul, couldſt thou ſo ſteal Heaven by remorſe for ſin, then mighteſt thou ſee —— what? all thoſe millions of Saints that ever lived on Earth, and are in Heaven; there are thoſe holy Patriarchs, Adam, Noah, Abraham, and the reſt; not now in their pilgrimage toſſed to and Heb. 12.22 fro on Earth, but abiding for ever on Mount Sion, the City of the living God: there are thoſe godly Prophets, Eſay, Jeremy, Ezekiel, and the reſt, not now ſubject to the Torments of their cruel Adverſaries, but wearing Palms and Crowns, and all other glorious Enſigns of their victorious Triumphs; there live thoſe glorious Apoſtles, Peter, Andrew, James, John, and the reſt; not now in danger of Perſecution or Death, but arrayed in long Robes waſhed and made white in the blood of the Lamb: There live thoſe Rev. 7.14. Women-Saints, Mary, Martha, and that Virgin-Mother, not now weeping at our Saviour's death, but ſinging unto him thoſe Heavenly Songs of Praiſe and Glory World without end: There are thoſe tender Infants (an hundred fourty four thouſand, Revel. 14. 1.) not now un- Rev. 14. 1, 3, 4. der Herod's Knife bleeding unto death, but harping on their Harps, and following the Lamb whitherſoever he goeth: There lives that noble Army of Martyrs, (they that were ſlain upon the earth, Revel. 18. 24.) not now under the mercileſs hands of cruel Tyrants, but ſinging and Rev.18.24 ſaying their Hallelujahs, Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power be unto the Lord our God: There dwell all the Saints and Servants of God (both ſmall and great, Revel. 19. 5) not now ſighing in this Vale of Tears, but ſinging ſweet Songs that eccho through the Heavens; As the voice of many waters, as the voice of Rev. 19.5. mighty thundrings, ſo is their voice, ſaying, Hallelujah, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth. And is not here a goodly Troop, a ſweet Company, a bleſſed Society and Fellowſhip of Saints! O my Soul, how happy wert thou to be with them! yea, how happy will that day be to thee, when thou ſhalt meet all the Patriarchs, Prophets, Apo- Rev. 19 5. ſtles, Diſciples, Innocents, Martyrs, the Saints, and Servants of the King of Heaven? Why thus happy and bleſſed is this penitent Thief; no ſooner entred he into the Gates of Heaven, but there meets him with Muſick and Dancing, all the Quire of Heaven, and (Lord) what a Joy entred into his Soul, when his Soul entred into his Maſters joy? Tell me (could I ſpeak Rev. 19.6. with thee that dwelleſt in the Heavens) what a Day was that, when ſtepping from rhe Croſs, and conducted to Paradiſe, thou waſt there received with all honourable Companies and Troops above? there did the Patriarchs meet thee, and the Prophets hug thee, and the Martyrs ſtruck up their Harps to bid the welcome to the Luke 15. 25. Tabernacle of Heaven. Such honour have all his Saints that attain the Fellowſhip of the Saints in Glory.

But more than ſo, Thou ſhalt be with me] and therefore with my Angels: Lo here a bleſſed Company indeed; theſe are the heavenly Choriſters eternally ſinging Jehovah's Praiſe; The Seraphims, cry aloud, Holy, Holy, Holy, is the Lord of Iſa. 6. 3. Hoſts; An Army anſwer to the Anthem, Glory to God on high. The whole Quire of Heaven add the burden, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive honour, and glory, and power; for thou haſt created all things, and for thy ſake they are and Rev. 4. 11. were created. O heavenly Harmony conſiſting of ten thouſand times ten thouſand various ſorts of Muſick! I heard (ſaith John the Divine) the Rev. 5.11. voice of many Angels round about the Throne, and the number of them was ten thouſand times ten thouſand, thouſands of thouſands; theſe are the ſhining and ſinging Stars; of which God told Job 38. 7. his Servant Job, The morning Stars ſing together, ther, and the Sons of God ſhout for joy. Theſe are the winged Choriſters of Heaven, whom John the Divine heard ſinging their Songs of Hallelujah and Hoſanna; I heard (ſaith he) the voice of a Rev. 19.6. great multitude, as the voice of many waters, the voice of many Angels, ſinging, and ſaying, Hallelujah, and again, Hallelujah: theſe are the nimble Poſts of Heaven, whom Jacob ſaw flying up and down the Ladder: theſe are the Protectors of the Gen.28.12 godly, whoſe aid God promiſed the Iſraelites; Exod. 23. 20. Behold, I ſend an Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee to the place which I have prepared. Theſe are the Guardians of God's Children, of whom our Saviour told his Diſciples, That in Heaven their Angels always behold the Face of his Father: theſe are the Armies of God, who meeting Mat.18.10 Jacob in his Journey, he ſaid, This is God's Hoſt: Gen.32.2. theſe are the Spirits and Miniſters of God, whom David deſcribing by the purity of their ſubſtance, and readineſs of their obedience, he calls the Angels Spirits, and his Miniſters a flame of fire. They are ſhining and ſinging Stars, winged Choriſters, nimble Poſts of Heaven, Protectors of the Pſal.104.4 godly, Guardians of Children, the Armies of the Almighty, the Spirits and Miniſters of the great Jehovah.

What bleſſed Company is this we ſhall enjoy in Heaven? there is nothing in them but is amiable, nothing in them but is admirable: O that this Clay of ours ſhould come to dwell with thoſe incorporeal Spirits! and yet ſee here a man, a Thief, (the worſt of men:) by his Confeſſion, and Contrition, and Faith in Chriſt, is now become a Companion with Angels.

Nor is that all, Thou ſhalt be with me] not only with my Saints and Angels, but with me] (with my Soul) in Paradiſe. His Soul indeed was there, though his Body at that time was in the Grave; and if the Soul be it that makes us men, what a paſſing great Joy is that, when men ſtanding amongſt the Angels, ſhall ſee their Lord, the Lord of Heaven, not to be an Angel, but a man? Here is the ſolace of Saints, when they ſhall ſee and ſay, Who is yonder that rules on the Throne of Heaven? Who is yonder that ſits on the Right-hand of God the Father? and they ſhall anſwer themſelves again, It is he that for us became man; it is he that for the Salvation of our Souls hath took upon him a Body and Soul. And think now with thy ſelf, whoſoever thou art that readeſt (if thou wilt but ſpend thy few evil days in his fear, and ſo die in his favour) what a comfort will it be unto thee to ſee that Lamb ſitting on his Seat of State? If the Wiſe-men of the Eaſt came ſo far, and ſo rejoyced to ſee him in the Manger, what will it be to thee to ſee him ſitting and glittering in his Glory? If John Baptiſt did leap at his Preſence in his Mother's Belly what ſhall his Preſence do in his Royal and Eternal Kingdom? August. It paſſeth all other Glories (ſaith Auguſtin) to be admitted to the ineſtimable ſight of Chriſt his Face, and to receive the beams of Glory from the brightneſs of his Majeſty: nay, ſhould we ſuffer Torments every day, or for a time the very pains of Hell it ſelf, thereby to gain the ſight of Chriſt, and of his Saints it were nothing in Compariſon. No wonder then, if Paul deſired to be diſſolved and to be with Chriſt, Alas, who would not be ſo? Phil. 1.23. O moſt ſweet Saviour (ſaith one devoutly) when ſhall this joyful Day come? when ſhall I appear before thy face? when ſhall I be filled with thy excellent beauty? when ſhall I ſee that Countenance of thine, which the very Angels themſelves are ſo deſirous to behold? An happy time ſure will it be to each faithful Soul: and thus happy was this man, he departed ſorrowfully with our Saviour on the Croſs, but he met him joyfully in his Kingdom: thoſe ſweet Souls that both left the World at one time, no ſooner had Heavens Gates opened unto them, but with mutual Kiſſes they embraced each other in unſpeakable manner.

Nor was this all; Thou ſhalt be with me] not only with my Soul, but with my Godhead: this indeed was the height of Bliſs, the very Soul of Heaven's Joy it ſelf; ſet aſide this, and crown a man with the Empire of all the Earth, the Splendour of Heaven; the Royal Endowments of a glorified Soul, the ſweeeteſt Company of Saints and Angels, yet ſtill would his ſoul be full of emptineſs, and utterly to ſeek for the ſureſt ſanctuary whereon to reſt: only once admit him to the face of God, and then preſently, and never before, his infinite deſire expires in the boſom of his Maker: I deny not but the other joys in Heaven are tranſcendent and raviſhing, but they are all no better than acceſſories to this principal, drops to this Ocean, glimpſes to this Sun. If you ask, how can our Souls enjoy this Godhead? I anſwer, two ways; firſt, by the underſtanding; ſecondly, by the will. The underſtanding is filled by a clear glorious ſight of God, called Beatifical viſion; We ſhall ſee him face to face, ſaith Paul, 1 Cor. 13. 12. 1 Cor. 13. 12. We ſhall ſee him as he is, ſaith John, 1 John 3. 2. 1 Joh.3.2. For as the Sun by his beams and brightneſs enlightens the eye, and the air, that he may ſee not only all other things, but alſo his own glorious face: ſo God, bleſſed for ever (in whoſe preſence ten thouſand of our Sons would vaniſh away as a darkſome mote) doth by the light of his Majeſty, ſo irradiate the minds of all the bleſſed, that they behold in him, not only the beauty of all his creatures, but of himſelf; and thus ſhall we ſee and know that glorious myſtery of the Trinity, the goodneſs of the Father, the wiſdom of the Son, the love and comfortable fellowſhip of the holy Spirit: nothing that can be known, but in him we ſhall know it in moſt ample manner.

But ſeeing viſion is taken from ſenſe, it may be demanded, what our bodily eyes ſhall ſee in heaven? I anſwer,—— 1. The glorious manifeſtations of the preſence of God in ſome ſuch ſort as was on the Mount, where he find mentioned a bright cloud, and his cloaths were white as the light, and his face did ſhine, Matt. 17. 2, 5. Or as when God appeared in Solomons Temple where the glory of the Lord filled the houſe, that the Prieſts could not enter, 1 Kings 8. 11. Now this was a viſible glory, and ſurely ſome ſuch, but a far more excellent manifeſtation is in Heaven obvious to the very eyes of Saints. 2. The glorified bodies of the bleſſed Saints full of beauty and brightneſs; it is ſaid that at the day of judgment at the right hand of Chriſt, ſhall ſtand a company of glorious creatures, but on the left hand ſhall be an ugly company, and many of them deformed; for if we credit Durandus, their ſins not being taken away, the fruits of ſin will ſtill remain upon them, as lameneſs, blindneſs, maimedneſs, &c. but in Heaven all comelineſs and excellency will appear in the Saints, for they ſhall be as Jewels made up; now a Jewel muſt be cut and poliſhed, it muſt have a luſtre ſet upon it, and be ſet in gold before it be made up: and thus muſt the Saints be, and ſo they ſhall appear one to another. 3. The glorified body of our bleſſed Saviour; we ſhall ſee him that is dearer than all our friends, that died for our ſins, not in his humility, but in the brightneſs of his glory.

Secondly, the will is for ever ſatisfied with a perfect, inward, and eternal communion with God himſelf; Chriſt that is God and man, by his Manhood aſſumed uniteth us unto God, and by his Godhead aſſuming uniteth God unto us; ſo that by his ſecret and ſacred communion, we are made partakers (and as it were poſſeſſors) of God himſelf: O bottomleſs depth, and deareſt confluence of joys and pleaſures everlaſting! here is the perfection of all good things, the Crown of glory, the very life of Life everlaſting. And well may it be ſo, for what can the ſoul deſire, that God will not be unto her? it is he that is eminently in himſelf beauty to our eyes, muſick to our ears, honey to our Mouths, perfume to our noſtrils, light to our underſtanding, delight to our will, continuation of eternity to our memory; in him ſhall we enjoy all the varieties of times, all the beauty of creatures, all the pleaſures of Paradiſe. Bleſſed Thief, what a glory was this to be admitted to the ſociety of Chriſt in his Deity? Thou ſhalt be with me ?] how then ſhould he be but happy? Where could he be ill with him? where could he be well without him? In thy preſence there is fulneſs of joy, and at thy right hand there are pleaſures for evermore; joy, and fulneſs of joy; pleaſures and everlaſting pleaſures: Bleſſed are all they that live in thy houſe O Lord, for they ſhall praiſe thee eternally world without end, Pſal. 84. 4.

Ubi male poterat eſſe cum illo? ubi bene poterat eſſe ſine illo? Aug.
Pſal. 84.4.

But a little to enlarge on this. To be with the Godhead.] implies theſe things. 1. The preſence of God. 2. The bleſſed viſion of God. 3. The happy union with God. 4. The glorious communion with God. 5. The fruition of God. 6. The enjoyment of the Saints themſelves in God.

Firſt, To be with God, implies the preſence of God: heaven it ſelf were not heaven without the preſence of God: it is the preſence of God that makes Heaven whereſoever it is: David would not be afraid though he walked in the valley of the ſhadow of death, ſo that God were with him, Pſal. 23. 4. Luther would rather be in hell with Gods preſence, than in Heaven God being Abſent. And if the preſence of God takes away dread of the ſhadow of the valley of death, and makes hell to be more deſired than heaven, what will the preſence of God make Heaven to be? The three children in the fiery furnace with Gods preſence were happy; then how happy are the Saints with God's preſence in Heaven? God made rich promiſes to Moſes, yet he could not be ſatisfied without the preſence of God; If thy preſence be not with us, bring us not hence: And the Apoſtle when he would ſet out the miſery of thoſe that are damned, he ſaith, They ſhall be puniſhed with everlaſting deſtruction from the preſence of the Lord. Now the preſence of God, muſt needs be the happineſs of the Saints.

2 Theſ. 1. 9.

1. Becauſe this muſt needs draw out all their graces in all the ſweet ſavour of them, While the King ſitteth at his table, my ſpikenard ſendeth forth the ſmell thereof. Cant. 1.12

2. The preſence of God quickens all the comforts of the Saints, and keeps them always in vigour and activity; as the Sun quickens things that lay dead, ſo Gods preſence hath a quickning power, it keeps the comforts of Gods people green, and lively: when they ſhall be preſented faultleſs before the preſence of his glory, it ſhall cauſe exceeding joy. Jude 24.

3. The preſence of God fills the ſouls and bodies of the Saints with glory; for it fills the heavens with glory, much more muſt it fill an immortal ſoul with glory, becauſe that is more capable of glory than heaven: if the Sun can put a glory upon theſe dark Creatures here below, much more can the preſence of God put Glory upon the glorified Bodies and Souls of the Saints.

Secondly, To be with God, implies the Beatifical Viſion of God: the Saints ſhall be where he is, and they ſhall ſee his Face. Behold, now are we the Sons of God, and it doth not yet appear, what we ſhall be: but we know that when he ſhall appear, we ſhall be like him, for we ſhall ſee him as he is. The Glory of this may appear in theſe particulars.

Rev. 22. 4.
1 Joh. 3.2.

1. To ſee God as the firſt Being of all, or the Principle of all Good; this is a moſt bleſſed thing: to ſee Adam the firſt Father, or Eve the firſt Mother of Mankind, or for a Child to ſee his Father, and Mother, out of whoſe Loins and Bowels he came, whom he hath not ſeen in many years, this is a joy and comfort! but to ſee the Creator, the firſt Principle of all things, that muſt be a great, and infinite contentment, and to ſee him that hath done all the good in the World, hath much ſatisfaction in it: ſhew us the Father, and it ſufficeth. Joh. 14. 8.

2. To ſee God in his Unity; whereas now we underſtand God only according to his ſeveral Attributes, as the manifeſtation of the Infinite ſimple; his being in one way we call Power, in another way we call Mercy and Bounty, in another way Juſtice, and ſo we apprehend God according unto the ſeveral Attributes that God hath manifeſted himſelf in: whereas there are not many things in God, but all thoſe ſeveral Attributes that we apprehend diverſly, are but one Excellency in God; as one Beam of the Sun ſhining through a red Glaſs cauſed a Red Reflection, and the ſame Sun ſhining through a blew Glaſs, cauſes a blew Reflection: and ſo the ſame Excellency of God ſhining one way we call by one name, and the ſame Excellency of God working another way we call by another name, and yet it is all one in God; and though we cannot apprehend it now, yet we ſhall ſee God in his Unity afterward.

3. To ſee God in the Trinity; though there be but one God, yet there are divers Perſons; to ſee how the Father begot the Son, and how the Spirit did proceed from the Father and the Son, and the difference between the proceſſion of the Spirit, and the generation of the Son: the ſight of God in the myſtery of the Trinity, is a moſt glorious thing.

4. To ſee God in his Glory: there is a Promiſe that they ſhall ſee the King in his Beauty, or in his Glory: There is a great deal of difference between ſeeing the King at an ordinary time, and ſeeing him when he is in his Robes, with his Crown upon his Head, and his Scepter in his Hand, and ſet upon his Throne, with all his Nobles about him in all his Glory. So God doth manifeſt himſelf a little now, but this is not all that he doth intend, he will manifeſt himſelf in his Glory: and O what a happineſs is that!

5. To ſee God in his Eminency! the Saints ſhall ſee how all Excellencies that are in the Creatures, are eminently contained in the abſolute perfection of the Divine Nature: all the good that is in the Effect is in the Cauſes, and the good of thoſe Cauſes in their Cauſes, and ſo at length they come to the firſt Principle: So all the good that we can ſee in all Objects that give content, we may ſee all eminently in God, and ſee God in all.

1 Joh 3.21 6. To ſee God as he is: Now there is a great deal in that, to ſee God as he is; and for explication of that, there are theſe three Branches.

1. Not to ſee him only Negatively, for that is not to ſee him as he is: the moſt that we ſee of God now is by way of Negation, rather than any poſitive ſight: When we ſay of God, he is incomprehenſible; that is, he is ſuch a God as cannot be comprehended, that is but negation, when we ſay of God, he is infinite, that is, he is ſuch a God as hath no bounds of his being, this is ſtill a Negation, to ſay what God is not: but now in Heaven we ſhall not ſee God only by way of Negation, but we ſhall ſee that Poſitive Excellency of God, We ſhall ſee him as he is.

2. Not to ſee him only in his Effects in the Creature: the greateſt part that we ſee of God now is in his Effects, and not as he is in himſelf; we do not ſee the Face of God, but his back-parts; we look upon the Sun, and there we ſee ſomewhat of the Power of God, but it is but the Effect of God's Power, and not God's Power it ſelf: but then We ſhall ſee him as he is.

3. Not to ſee him undiſtinguiſhed from the Creatures. Here now we ſee almoſt nothing of God diſtinguiſhed from created Things: Say what you will of God, that he is a Spirit, that is, a created Thing; that he is wiſe, or holy, or juſt, or merciful, there is ſomewhat of all theſe in the Creature: only he is infinitely above all, and this is by way of Negation: but we do not ſee him in that poſitive Excellency which does difference him from all created Things; only in Heaven we ſhall thus ſee him, We ſhall ſee him as he is.

7. To ſee God by a transforming ſight. The Light that ſhall come from God upon the Mind, it ſhall perfect the Mind, and transform the Mind into the ſame likeneſs with God. It ſhall not be a meer notional ſight, as men may ſpeak much of God, and have a notional Viſion of God; but there is a great deal of difference between the notion of God Viſional, and Deifical Viſion of God: it is not only Beatifical, but Deifical; for it doth transform a man into the likeneſs of God. A deformed man may ſee a beautiful Object; and that ſight ſhall not make him like that beautiful Object; but the ſight of God ſhall make the Soul glorious as God is glorious: We ſhall be like him. 1 Joh. 3.2.

8. To ſee God ſo as never to loſe him: This adds much to the Happineſs of the Saints. To have but one Glimpſe of the Face of God, though it were gone preſently, it were a great Happineſs beyond all that the World affords; but God ſhall not only paſs by, but ſtand ſtill, ſo as the Soul ſhall never loſe the ſight of God, but it ſhall have it to all Eternity, and the Eyes of the Soul ſhall be eternally opened to ſee God: If a man looks upon a delightful Object, he is loth to have the Eye draw from it: you ſhall never have your Eye drawn from God.

9. To ſee God in our ſelves. It is an happineſs to ſee God in the Creature, but much more to ſee God in our ſelves. The chiefeſt of the Glory of God, next to that which appears in Jeſus Chriſt as God-man, ſhall appear in the Saints; and the chief Excellency of God that the Saints ſhall ſee, ſhall be within themſelves; they ſhall ſee more of the Glory of God within themſelves, than in all the Heavens beſides.

Thirdly, To be with God, implies the happy Union with God. Sight is higher than Preſence, and Union is higher than Sight. And thus Chriſt prays to his Father, That they may be one in us, as thou art in me, and I in thee. Joh. 17.21 Now that there ſhall be ſuch a wonderful glorious Union between God and the Soul in Heaven, appears upon theſe Grounds.

1. There is not ſuch diſtance between God and the Soul, but that it is capable of Union with God? One would think, how it is poſſible that God ſhould be ſo united to the Soul, being there is ſuch an infinite diſtance, betwixt God and the Soul: But there is no ſuch diſtance, as that there ſhould not be a glorious Union betwixt them. There is a great deal of likeneſs betwixt God and the Soul: Firſt, In the ſpirituality, God is a Spirit, and the Soul is a Spirit. Secondly, In the Immortality, God is Immortal, and the Soul is Immortal. Thirdly, In the high Excellency of God, the underſtanding, and Will, the Soul is endued with underſtanding and Will.

2. God ſhall ſee nothing but himſelf in the Souls of his Saints. Now things that are of a like nature, do unite: Bring an hot Fire-brand to the Fire, and it doth unite preſently, becauſe the Fire doth find ſomething of it ſelf there; if there were ſome moiſture in the Brand, it would not ſo fully unite. So here we cannot have full Union with God, becauſe though God ſee ſomewhat of his own in us, yet there is a great deal in us that is not God's: But when we ſhall be wholly free from ſin, and God ſhall ſee nothing but his own in us, that muſt needs be a ground of a moſt glorious Union.

3. There ſhall be an infinite enflamed Love betwixt God and his Saints: indeed here is an Union of Love, but in Heaven there will be a further Degree of Love; and Love being enflamed, there muſt needs be a glorious Union.

4. The Bond of Connexion of God and the Soul together, requires it; namely; the Meditation of Chriſt. O this Union with God is enough to cauſe the Souls of God's People ſo to be ſatisfied, as to ſay; Though all things be taken from me, it is enough, I have ſomewhat of God's Preſence here, but I ſhall have the Glorious Preſence, and Viſion of God, and union with God hereafter: and though mine Eyes ſhould never ſee good day after, or never ſee comfortable Object in this World, this is enough, I ſhall ſee God, and have full Union with God, though God ſhould rend this Creature, or that Creature, the deareſt Husband, the deareſt Wife, or the deareſt Comfort in the World from me; yet it is enough that God and my Soul are ſomewhat united, and that God and my Soul ſhall have a Glorious union hereafter!

Fourthly, To be with God, implies this glorious Communion with God. Union is the ground of Communion in this Life; there is a Communion that the Scripture ſpeaks of; Our fellowſhip is with the Father, and his Son Jeſus Chriſt: And the Communion of the Holy Ghoſt be with you, ſaith the Apoſtle. But certainly it ſhall be another manner of Communion that the Saints ſhall have with God in the World to come. Now this Communion, it ſtands either in regard of the Work of God upon and towards his Saints, or the work of the Saints upon and towards God: for Communion is on both ſides; and that in theſe four things. 1 Joh.1.3. 2 Cor. 13. 14.

1. Communion conſiſts in the Delight they have in one another: there is full, actual, mutual, everlaſting Delight between God and the Saints in Heaven.

2. In Communion there is a mutual wiſhing and willing of good to one another. Now God ſhall wiſh all good to the Saints, and they wiſh all good to God; but what good can they wiſh or will to God! It is true, there can be no addition to the Eſſential Goodneſs of God, but they can will that this his Goodneſs be honoured and praiſed.

3. In Communion, there is the Communion of what one hath unto another. And thus God communicates himſelf to his Saints immediately, fully, freely, everlaſtingly. And ſo the Saints communicate to God in the ſame way that God communicates to them: They are always worſhiping God immediately, not through Ordinances; they are always communicating themſelves, and all that they are or have, to God fully and freely.

4. In Communion with God, there is a familiar converſe between God and the Saints. And herein are theſe particulars:

1. God manifeſts himſelf in a ſuitable way to the Conditions of his People, ſo condeſcending to their Condition, that though his Majeſty be infinite, yet it ſhall no way be a terrour unto them. The Scripture ſpeaks of the familiar Converſe that God hath with his People here, that they are called Friends. Abraham was called the Friend of God; and the Diſciples were called Friends; but hereafter the Friendſhip ſhall be much more full and ſweet.

2. God opens himſelf to his Saints. Much is ſaid of God's opening of himſelf to his People here, Pſal. 25. 14. Prov. 3. 32. 1 Cor. 2. 16. Cant. 1. 4. They are brought into his Chamber: that is, he diſcovers his Secrets to them. The Myſteries of the Kingdom are revealed to the Saints here, much more in Heaven; God will there reveal all his Secrets; they ſhall not only ſee his Face, but they ſhall ſee God's Heart. Pſa.25.14. Pro 3.32. 1 Cor.2. 16. Cant.1.4.

Fifthly, To be with God, implies the Fruition of God. Now this Fruition of God conſiſts in theſe things.

1. There is in Fruition a Reflect Act of the Soul, whereby it comes to know what it hath. It hath a God, and it knows it by a Reflect Act; and upon this it is, that there is no Creature can be ſaid to enjoy a thing properly, but the rational Creature. And this will add much to the happineſs of God's People, in that as they ſhall be filled with Happineſs and Glory, filled with God; ſo they ſhall know all their Happineſs.

2. There is in Fruition the having uſe of all. If a man be never ſo rich, and have never ſo great Poſſeſſions, if he have not the actual uſe of what he hath, he cannot be ſaid to enjoy them. A man may have right to a thing, and yet for the preſent not enjoy the uſe of it: But now the People of God, as they ſhall have God to be their Portion, ſo they ſhall enjoy God fully, to have what uſe they will of all the Attributes of God, and all that is in God: And this is an infinite good and happineſs to the People of God, that they ſhall have as much uſe of God's infinite Wiſdom, infinite Power, infinite Mercy, as they will; and they cannot will it ſo ſoon, but they ſhall have it, nor ſo eaſily, as they may enjoy it. Then we enjoy the benefit of Friendſhip, when one Friend ſays to another, Make uſe of all I have as your own, as you will. So ſhall God come to his People, and bid them make uſe of all his Riches and Glory, and Excellency as they will.

3. There is in Fruition the ſweet and comfort of all that we do uſe, or elſe we do not enjoy that we have: If a man ſhould have the uſe of his Eſtate, and Meat, and Drink, if he have not the ſweet and comfort of it, he cannot be ſaid to enjoy it; but when the Comfort is let out, that the Soul is ſenſible of it, then he may be ſaid to enjoy it: And hence it is, that God is ſaid to give all things to us richly to enjoy; he gives the thing, and he gives the comfort with it, and ſo a man is ſaid to enjoy it. 1 Tim.6. 17.

Sixthly, To be with God, implies the enjoyment of the Saints in God: As they ſhall enjoy God, and God in themſelves; ſo they ſhall enjoy themſelves in God, living in God continually. Your life is hid with Chriſt in God: The life of Saints here is an hidden life, and it is hidden in God, but then it ſhall be a revealed life, and revealed in God, and enjoyed in God. Hence is that Phraſe, Enter into your Maſter's joy: That enters not into you, but you muſt enter into it; it is your Maſter's joy; not only that joy that your Maſter gives, but the ſame joy your Maſter hath, that joy you ſhall enter into, and live in. And it was ſaid of John, That he was on the Lord's-day in the Spirit; it is not ſaid, that the Spirit was in him, but it is ſaid, he was in the Spirit; that is a beginning of the glorious condition of the Saints of God, that they ſhall be in the Spirit of God; not only God in them, but they in God: as a drop of water in the Sea ſwallowed up in it. There are three Degrees of Love to God; loving of God for our ſelves, and loving God for himſelf, and loving our ſelves for God; the one is but a natural love, the ſecond is a gracious love, the third is a love of the glorified Saints: and in this kind of love of God, and enjoyment of our ſelves in him, the Soul ſhall be raviſhed with God, and be in a kind of Extaſie eternally. Col.3.3. Rev.1.10.

Here you may ſee that moſt people in the World miſtake Heaven; they look at Heaven and God in a ſenſual manner: where are they that look at Heaven in theſe Spiritual Excellencies, about enjoyning God, or being with God in this manner? As the Jews looked for a carnal Meſſiah, whoſe Kingdom ſhould be in the Earth, and whoſe Glory ſhould be external, not conſidering the ſpiritual Kingdom of Chriſt; ſo moſt in the World look but for a carnal Heaven. It is a good Evidence of the truth of Grace, if you can look to Heaven with a right Eye, in a right manner, to look at the ſpiritual part, and ſpiritual Excellency in Heaven. I conclude;

You ſee now Heaven's Society, they are Saints, and Angels, and Chriſt, and God bleſſed for ever and ever.

1. Who then would not forſake Father and Mother, the deareſt fellowſhip of this World to be with Chriſt in his Kingdom? You that love one another in the deepeſt Bonds, who cannot part out of this life but with the Survivers grief, and Hearts break: Tell me what a merry Day will that be, when (you ſhall not only meet again, never more to part aſunder, but when) Chriſt our Saviour ſhall gladly welcom you (every one of you) into his Society, Thou ſhalt be with me.] And let me ſpeak to the joy of us all, I mean all broken-hearted Chriſtians (as for you that are prophane ones, you have your portion here, therefore ſtand you by, and let the Children come to their ſhare) a day will come, I truſt in the Lord, when I ſhall meet you, and you me, in the Kingdom of Heaven: a day will come, I truſt in the Lord, when you and I ſhall be all admitted into the Society of God, and of Chriſt, and of his Saints, and of the Angels: a day will come, I truſt in the Lord, when with theſe Eyes we ſhall behold our Redeemer, together with that Thief that was crucified with him! a day will come, I truſt in the Lord, when we ſhall meet again with all the Saints that are gone afore us: and is not this a comfort? What ſhall we ſay, when we ſee our Saviour in his Throne, waited on with Mary his Mother, and Magdalen, and Martha, and Lazarus, and Paul, and Peter, and all the Apoſtles and Diſciples of our Lord and Saviour? yea, when this Thief ſhall be preſented to our view, the Wounds in his Hands and his Feet ſhining like Stars, and Pearls, and Rubies, all his Body glittering in Glory, and his Soul magnifying the Lord for his Converſion and Salvation world without end.

2. But ſtay, leſt we be led too forward, there is no ſuch thing for us, if we are not in the Covenant of Grace: Heaven is both happy and holy, and if we would enjoy Heaven, then we muſt fit our ſelves to that eſtate to which God hath preſerved us; to this purpoſe ſaith the Apoſtle, Our Converſation is in Heaven, from whence we look for the Saviour, Phil. 3. 20. He was aſſured of Heaven, and therefore he converſed as a Citizen of Heaven before he came there, every way he carried himſelf (as much as earth would ſuffer him) like them that live in Heaven: and thus muſt we (if ever we go to Heaven) become like to thoſe that are in that place. Deceive not your ſelves, neither Whoremongers, nor Adulterers, nor Extortioners, nor the like, ſhall enter into the Kingdom of God, 1 Cor. 6. 9. Do men who live in theſe ſins without all remorſe or repentance, ever think to go to Heaven? Is it poſſible that ever any fleſh ſhould go out of the puddle into the Paradiſe? No, no, Away ye workers of iniquity, I know you not, ſaith our Saviour: let no man cheriſh preſumptions of an Heavenly Kingdom, except he abſtain from all ſins againſt Conſcience. What then? But ſo live we here as becomes his Servants; and thus when we part, it is but for better Company: We loſe a few Friends, but we ſhall find Him that welcomes all his with this Heavenly Harmony, Thou ſhalt be —— with whom? with me] in Paradiſe.

Phil. 3. 10.

1 Cor. 6. 9.

Matth. 25. 41.

Hitherto of the Society. The laſt thing conſiderable is the Place, or Ubi, where his Soul arrived; but of that hereafter, as the Lord ſhall enable me. God give us all Grace ſo to live here, that howſoever we go hence one after another, yet at laſt we may all meet together with our Lord and Saviour in his Heavenly Paradiſe.

In Paradiſe.

AND where was that? our Adverſaries ſay, in Limbus, and yet (to give them their due) Bellarmine ſo means not as that Limbus was Paradiſe, but that in Limbus this Thief had his Paradiſe; to wit, the Viſion of God: The Viſion of God (ſaith Bellarmine) is a true Paradiſe indeed, not local, but ſpiritual. But, with Bellarmine's leave, we have no ſuch ſenſe of Paradiſe in any part of Holy Writ. In the Old Teſtament we read of an earthly Paradiſe, wherein Adam lived; in the New Teſtament we read of an Heavenly Paradiſe, whither Paul was caught: yet both theſe were local: for the one (ſaith Moſes) was a Garden Eaſtward in Eden, Gen. 2. 8. and the other (ſaith Paul) was in Heaven, which he calls the third Heaven, 2 Cor. 12. 2. and that Paradiſe in my Text muſt be underſtood of Heaven, this Reſemblance confirms; the firſt Adam ſinned againſt God, and was preſently caſt out of that Paradiſe on Earth; the ſecond Adam made ſatisfaction for ſin, and ſo muſt preſently enter into this Paradiſe of Heaven; becauſe of the ſin of the firſt Adam, both he and all his Poſterity were thruſt out of Eden; becauſe of the ſufferings of the ſecond Adam, both he, and we, this Thief, and all Believers are to go into Heaven: So then this Paradiſe whither Chriſt is gone, and this Thief went with him, what is it? but as Paul calls it, the third Heaven? or as the Thief himſelf ſtyled it in his Prayer to our Saviour, Remember me, where? in thy Kingdom.

Ille enim verè Paradiſus deliciarum eſt, non corporalis, aut localis, ſed ſpiritualis & cæleſtis. Bellar. de 7. verbis Domini. l. 1. c. 4.

Gen. 2. 8.

1 Cor. 12. 2, 4.

And if this be it we call Paradiſe, what can we ſay of it? It is not for us (ſaith Bernard) in theſe earthly bodies to mount into the Clouds, to pierce this fulneſs of light, to break into this bottomleſs depth of Glory; this is reſerved to the laſt day, when Chriſt Jeſus ſhall preſent us glorious and pure to his Father, without ſpot or wrinkle. And yet becauſe God in his Word doth here give us a taſt of Heaven, by comparing it with the moſt precious things that are on Earth, let us follow him ſo far as he hath revealed it, and no further.

Bern. ſuper Cant. ſerm. 38.

In the midſt of Paradiſe is a Tree of Life, Revel. 22. 7. and this Tree bears twelve manner of fruits, yielding her fruit every month, Revel.

Rev. 9. 7.

Revel. 22 2. What more pleaſant than Life; and what Life better than where is variety of pleaſure? Here is a Tree of Life, and the life of the Tree; a Tree of Life, that renews life to the Eaters, and the life of the Tree bearing fruit every month; and as many months, ſo many fruits; ſuch are the varieties of Heaven's Joys, where Youth flouriſheth that never waxeth old, change of Delights and choice too entreth that never knoweth end. But look we a little further; John that calls this place Paradiſe, Revel. 2. calls this Paradiſe a City, * Revel. 21. and hereof he gives us the Quantity and Quality, the Bigneſs and Beauty: Firſt, for the Greatneſs of it, An Angel with a golden Reed meaſures it, and he finds the length and the breadth, and the heighth of it are equal. Secondly, for the Beauty of it, The Walls (ſaith he) are of Jaſper, and the foundation of the Walls garniſhed with all manner of precious Stones; the twelve Gates are of Pearls, and the Streets paved with pure Gold: there is no need of Sun or Moon; for the Glory of God lightens it, and the Lamb (Chriſt Jeſus) is the light thereof. See here the Excellency of this City: on which words to give you a ſhort Comment,

Rev. 22.2.

* Rev.21, from the 10th verſe to the 24. Some underſtand this of a glorious Church on earth, which muſt be after the deſtruction of the Whore, Beaſt, Dragon, and all covert and open Enemies, which new ſtate will abide till Glory come; their chief Argument is drawn from Verſe 24. I ſhall not much contradict the Comment of others, though as yet I am not fully convinced of it.

We'll begin firſt with the Greatneſs of it: The Angel ſets it down Twelve thouſand Furlongs, Verſe 16. Yet that we may know this certain number is but figuratively taken, you may gueſs at the immeaſurable magnitude of this City, by thoſe many Manſions ſpoken of by Chriſt, John 14. 2. In my Father's houſe are many Manſions: How many? ſo many (ſaith one *) as would ſuffice infinitis mundis, a Thouſand Worlds of Men; and though all the men in this one World attain not to it, it is not for want of room, but of will; They believe not in him who hath prepared theſe Seats for them. And gueſs it you may by that incredible diſtance betwixt Heaven and Earth. Some Aſtronomers compute, that betwixt us only and the Starry Firmament, there is no leſs than Seventy four Millions *, ſeven hundred three thouſand, one hundred eighty Miles; and if the Empyreal Heaven (as many ſay) be two or three Orbs above the Starry Firmament, how many more miles is it then beyond? and the further it is diſtant (we all know well enough) the Heavens being Orbwiſe, and one comprehending another, that which is furtheſt or higheſt, muſt needs be the greateſt: Hence it is that Scriptures compare the height of Heaven (and conſequently the magnitude) to the perfection of God paſt finding out; Canſt thou by ſearching find out God? —— it is as high as Heaven, what canſt thou do? Job 11. 8.

John 14.2.

* Rolloc. in Joh. cap. 14.

* Caſman. οὐρανογραφ.

Job.11.8.

Secondly, If ſuch be the Immenſity, what think you is the Beauty? It is a moſt glorious City, whoſe Walls are of Jaſper, whoſe building is of Gold, whoſe Gates are of Pearls, whoſe Foundation of precious Stones: and if ſuch be the Gates and Streets, what then are the inner Rooms? what are the Dining Chambers? what are the Lodging-Rooms? Oh how unſpeakable is the Glory of this City! Kings ſhall throw down their Crowns before it, and count all their Pomp and Glory but as duſt in compariſon; and well they may: for what is an earthly Kingdom to this heavenly Paradiſe? where is Mirth without Sadneſs, Health without Sorrow, Life without Labour, Light without Darkneſs, where every Saint is a King, adorned with Light as with a Garment, and clad in the richeſt Robes that God beſtows upon a Creature.

But that which more eſpecially cummends the Beauty of this City, is the Luſtre of it, There is (ſaith John) no need of Sun or Moon; it is verus ὅλυμπος, wholly Light it ſelf, not like the Starry Firmament, beſpangled here and there with glittering Spots; It is all as it were one great, one glorious Sun, from every Point it pours out abundantly whole Rivers of pureſt Light, and then what a Light is this?

Zanch. de Cœlo beatorum, cap. 4.

Nor is this all; for the Glory of God lightens it, and the Lamb is the light thereof; beſides the the native Luſtre, there is the Glory of God, the Glory of all Glories; this is it for which Moſes prayed, O Lord, I beſeech thee ſhew me thy glory: to whom God anſwered, Thou canſt not ſee my face and live —— but I will put thee in a cleft of the Rock, and will cover thee with my hand while my glory paſſeth by; then will I take away my hand, and thou ſhalt ſee my back parts; but my face ſhall not be ſeen. And if Moſes's Face ſhone ſo bright with ſeeing God's back-parts, that the Iſraelites were afraid to come nigh him, and that he was fain to cover his face with a veil while he ſpake unto them; how bright then is Paradiſe, not only lightned with the back-parts of God, but with his own Divine Glory? From the Majeſty of God (ſaith a Modern) there goes out a created light, that makes the whole City glitter, and this being communicated to the Saints, God thereby cauſeth that they ſee him fully face to face.

Exod. 33. 18,20,21, 22,23.

Exod. 34. 30, 33.

Zanch. de Cœlo beat. l. 1. c. 4.

Again, The Glory of God, and the Lamb of God both give their Lights; that Lamb that was ſlain from the beginning of the world, that Body of his once crucified, now brighter than ten thouſand Suns: O how infinitely glorious doth it make this Paradiſe, this City of God? His Countenance is as the Sun that ſhineth in his ſtrength, ſaith John, Revel. 1. 16. But what Stars are thoſe in his Hands and his Feet? Where the Nails pierced, now it ſparkleth; where the Spear entred, now it glittereth glorioſly: if we look all over him, his Head and his Hair are as white as Snow, his Eyes are as a flame of fire, his Feet like unto fine Braſs, as if they burned in a Furnace: no wonder then if ſuch Beams come from this Sun (the Son of Righteouſneſs) that all Heaven ſhines with it from the one end to the other.

Rev. 1.16.

Ibid. v. 14, 15.

And yet again, the Lamb and the Saints all give their Lights; for We know that when he ſhall appear, we ſhall be like him, 1 Joh. 3. 2. How like? Why? He ſhall change our vile bodies, that they may be faſhioned like unto his glorious body, Phil. 3. 21. In what like? even in this very quality; for, They that be wiſe ſhall ſhine, Dan. 12. 3. How ſhine? As the brightneſs of the Firmament: Nay more, As the Stars, ſaith Daniel: Nay more, As the Sun, ſaith our Saviour: Nay, yet more ſaith Chryſoſtom: Howſoever the Righteous in Heaven are compared to the Sun, Matth. 13. 43. It is not, becauſe they ſhall not ſurpaſs the brightneſs of it; but the Sun being the moſt glittering thing in this World, he takes a reſemblance thence only towards the expreſſing of their Glory. Now then what a maſs of light will ariſe in Paradiſe, where ſo many millions of Suns appear all at once? If one Sun make the Morning Sky ſo glorious, what a bright-ſhining and glorious Day is there, where there's not a Body but 'tis a Sun? Sure it is, There ſhall be no Night there, no need of Candle, no need of Sun, or Moon, or Star. O that this Clay of ours ſhould be partakers of ſuch Glory! What am I, O Lord, that being a Worm on Earth, thou wilt make me a Saint in Heaven? This Body of Earth and Duſt ſhall ſhine in Heaven like thoſe glorious Spangles in the Firmament; this Body that ſhall rot in Duſt, and fall more vile than a Carrion, ſhall ariſe in glory, and ſhine like the glorious Body of our Saviour in the Mount of Tabor. To come near my Text; See here a Saint-Thief ſhining gloriouſly; he that was crucified with our Saviour, at whoſe death the Sun hid her Face with a Veil, now he reigns in glory without need of Sun; for he is a Sun himſelf, ſhining more clearly than the Sun at Noon: He that one day was faſtned to a Croſs, now walks at liberty through the Streets of Paradiſe, and all the Joys, all the Riches, all the Glory that can be, is poured upon him. What elſe? He is in Paradiſe, and what is Paradiſe but a place of Pleaſure? where Sorrow is never felt, Complaint is never heard, matter of Sadneſs is never ſeen, evil Succeſs is never feared; but in ſtead thereof there is all good without any evil; Life that never endeth, Beauty that never fadeth, Love that never cooleth, Health that never impaireth, Joy that never ceaſeth; what more could this penitent wiſh, than to hear him ſpeak that promiſed Paradiſe, and performed his Promiſe, To day thou ſhalt be? thou art with me in Paradiſe.

And thus in a Map have I given you Paradiſe] for quantity great, for quality glorious; hereafter you may know it better, when you ſhall walk through the Streets, obſerve the Towers, fully contemplate the Glory: which that you may, one word of Application before I end.

Uſe 1. * Meditate then with what ſweet delight every true Servant of God may bathe himſelf before-hand, even in this Valley of Tears! Did we but think on this Glorious Place, wherein are thoſe Heavenly Manſions prepared for us, did we ſpend many thoughts upon it, and ever and anon ſigh and ſeek after it, untill we came to the fingering and poſſeſſion of it; O how would theſe Heavenly Meditations raviſh our Souls, as if Heaven enter'd into us, before we entred into Heaven! Conſider of this in what caſe ſoever we are, whether we are vexed, or injured, or oppreſſed, or perſecuted for the Name of Chriſt; there is nothing ſo imbittered, that a Thought of Heaven will not ſweeten: yet I ſay not that we are only to think of it; with all let us ſtrive and ſtrain to get into this Golden City, where Streets, Walls, Gates, and all is Gold and Pearl; nay, where Pearl is Puddle, and nothing worth in compariſon of thoſe Things which ſhall be revealed unto each faithful Soul.

Uſe 2. On the other ſide, Conſider with your ſelves what Fools are they who deprive themſelves willingly of this endleſs Glory; who bereave themſelves of a Room in this City of Pearl, for a few carnal Pleaſures? What Bedlams and humane Beaſts are they, who ſhut themſelves out of Paradiſe, for a little tranſitory Pelf? What Sots and ſenſeleſs Wretches are they, who wittingly and wilfully bar themſelves out of this Palace, for the ſhort fruition of worldly traſh and trifles? As for you, of whom I hope better things, let me adviſe you for the love of God, for the love of Chriſt, for the love that you bear to your own Souls, that you would ſettle your affections on things above, and not on things beneath: and then you ſhall find one day the comfort of it, when leaving this World, the Spirit of Chriſt ſhall whiſper to your Souls this happy Tydings, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe.]

Here is an end: Shall I now caſt up the Accounts of what I have delivered you? The total is this:

Every Sinner that Repents and Believes, ſhall be Saved: you need no other Inſtance than this Thief on the Croſs, at one hearty Tear, one penitent Prayer, Lord, remember me in thy Kingdom, the Lord gives him his Deſire; ſee here the Fiat, Thou ſhalt be] the Expedition, to day] his Admiſſion, with me] the Place whither he is inducted, it is into Paradiſe:] and there now he Officiates, doing Service to God without ceaſing, World without end. O Lord give me Grace ſo to Repent and believe, that whenſoever I go hence, that day I may be with thee in Paradiſe.

AMEN.

EPHES. V. 16.
Redeeming the TIME.

THE Apoſtle here gives many Leſſons;
v. 1. exhorting, 1. To love, Walk in love, as Chriſt alſo hath loved us. 2. To fly For-
v. 3. nication, But fornication, and all un- cleanneſs, or covetouſneſs, let it not be once named amongſt you, as becometh Saints. 3. To avoid intimate, dear, or familiar converſe with graceleſs
v. 7, 8. Men, Be not ye therefore partakers with them; for ye were ſometimes darkneſs, but now are you light; walk as children of light. 4. To walk warily, exactly, circumſpectly, See then that ye walk circumſpectly, not as fools, but as wiſe. And this laſt he amplifies from an effect, which teſtifies a circumſpect, exact, and accurate walking, to wit, Redeeming the Time, &c.

I

I am only to learn you ſome part of this laſt Leſſon; wherein you have 1. The inſtruction it ſelf, See that you walk circumſpectly. 2. The amplification of this Inſtruction; and that is either from the reaſon binding to it, not as fools, but as wiſe; or from the effect teſtifying of it, Redeeming the Time.

1. For the inſtruction it ſelf, See that ye walk circumſpectly, ἀκριβῶς, exactly, preciſely; no word fits the Greek better than this; it comes of two words, παρὰ τὸ ἄχει, καὶ τὸ βαῖνον, which ſignifie to go to the extremity of a thing: we muſt be willing to go to the utmſt of every Command. To which purpoſe are thoſe precepts, to be hot in Rev. 3.16. Religion, Rev. 3. 16. to be zealous of good Tit. 2.14. works, Tit. 2. 14. to be fervent in ſpirit, Rom. 12. 11. Rom. 12. 11. to ſtrive to enter in at the Luke 13.24 ſtrait gate, Luke 13. 24. with an holy violence to lay hold upon the Kingdom of Heaven, Mat. 11.12 Matth. 11. 12. But this is not the point I ſhall now inſiſt on.

2. For the reaſon binding to it, not as fools, but as wiſe. It points to us, that exactneſs or preciſeneſs in holy walking, is a fruit of true Wiſdom. Luther brings in the Men of the World objecting againſt him, Num tu ſolus ſapis? Num ſolus tu Deo places? What? are you the only wiſe man in the World? do you only pleaſe God? The anſwer was eaſie from this Text, that exact walking, or a ſtrict converſation, is the fruit of Wiſdom. But neither is this the point that I ſhall inſiſt on.

3. For the effect teſtifying of it, Redeeming the Time. If I may open the words, 1. By Time is meant Opportunity; which either is taken for the whole courſe of our remaining life, or for ſuch and ſuch particular occaſions as God doth offer to this or that particular Duty; and both theſe may be underſtood here. 2. By Redeeming the Time, is meant either the avoiding of ſome hinderances, which would take us off from the opportunity; or the recompencing of ſome former unfruitfulneſs, which hath been in the former part of our life; or a gaining, ſtretching, improving of Time by embracing all the occaſions of doing all the good we can do: and we ſhall diſcover anon, that all theſe may be underſtood here. In the mean time we lay down this Poſition as a neceſſary, fundamental, Evangelical Truth, that Time muſt be redeemed. Look to it all ye that fear God; herein will your ſpiritual Wiſdom and exact walking appear, even in Redeeming the Time.

In the proſecution of this point, I ſhall 1. give you the ὅτι. 2. The τί. 3. The διότι. And then come to Application.

1. That Time muſt be redeemed, the very Heathens confirm it: 'Twas the ſaying of one Pittacus, one of the ſeven Wiſe Men, γνῶθι καιρὸν, know Time; loſe not a minute. Theophraſtes had another ſaying near to this, Sumptus pretioſiſſimus tempus: Time is of precious coſt. Pliny ſeeing but his Nephew at leiſure, taking ſome turns in his walk, was ſo very ſtrict, that he tells him, Non licet has horas perdere, He ſhould not loſe ſo many precious hours. When Titus the Son of Veſpaſian, who revenged Chriſt's Blood on Jeruſalem, returned Victor to Rome, remembring one night that he had done no good that day, he cryed out to his Friends, Heu perdidi diem! O alas, I have loſt a day! Little do we think of loſing Time, and is not this our ſhame? If ſuch men without God and Chriſt, without Law and Goſpel, without all the promiſes of God and Chriſt in Law or Goſpel, could ſay thus much, how may they riſe up in judgment againſt many of us? But we cite not them, as though we ſtood in need of their learning; the Apoſtles themſelves give it us in charge, Walk in Wiſdom towards them that are without, redeeming the Time, Col. 4. 5. and exhort one another while it is called to day, leſt any of you be hardned through the deceitfulneſs of ſin. And again, while it is ſaid to day, if Heb. 3. 13, 15. ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts: And, paſs the time of your ſojourning here with 1 Pet. 1. 17, 18. fear, foraſmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, —— but with the precious blood of Chriſt. q. d. Chriſt redeemed you, and therefore you had need to redeem the Time. For the time paſt of our 1 Pet. 4.3. life may ſuffice us to have wrought the will of the Gentiles, —— ſo that henceforth we ſhould not ſerve ſin, —— or no longer ſhould we Rom. 6.6. live the reſt of our time in the fleſh to the Gal. 6.9, 10. luſts of men, but to the will of God. —— Let us not be weary in well doing, for in due ſeaſon we ſhall reap if we faint not; as we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men. It is Hierom's ſaying upon theſe words, 'O how ſhort is this Race of my life? Breve vitæ Curriculum, &c. Hieron. l. 3 Comment. John 4. 'how ſhort is this Time now in hand? my 'ſtudying, preaching, writing, correcting, reading, what is it but a gaining or a loſing of 'my Time?

2. What is it to redeem the Time? I anſwer, it comprehends theſe particulars.

1. An avoiding any thing which would hinder us from taking the opportunity. If you aſk, what are theſe hinderances? I anſwer, 1. Ignorance; many think they are not in ſo ſtrait a manner to be accountable for Time. It is a general opinion of the groſly ignorant, that if they can but paſs away in time without doing any harm (as they ſay) they are well enough; as if no account of Time might be given at all: they are ignorant of this principle, that they are to improve and to redeem the Time. 2. Slothfulneſs; this makes men heedleſs or careleſs of their Time: As it is with the ſluggard, Yet a little more ſleep, a Prov. 6.10. little more ſlumber, a little more folding of the arms to ſleep. So it is with the idle perſon, Let this hour and this day be ſpent in doing nothing. O the many golden hours, and days, and years, that many thouſands ſpend, and yet cannot give the leaſt account wherein either they have glorified God, or ſerved their generations. 3. Love of fleſhly liberty: Alas, what care they for redeeming Time, who are ſet on their luſts and liberties to ſin? All the care they have, it is meerly to eat, and drink, and play: ſenſual pleaſures are the whole ſtudy of theſe men, and if they can but enjoy them, let Time ſlip away as it will, they never regard it.

2. A recompenſing of ſome former unfruitfulneſs: ἐξαγοράζω hath this interpretation, it is a redeeming (as it were) of that jewel of Time that hath been formerly loſt. As a Traveller that hath long ſtayed at an Inn, when he finds the night coming upon him, he mends his pace, and goes as many miles in an hour or two, as he did before in many. This methinks comes neareſt to the word Redimo, to redeem, or to buy back again. It is taken (ſay ſome) from the cuſtom and practice of wiſe Merchants or Tradeſmen, who uſe to buy their Commodities while fit time of buying ſerves, and while the market holds; and having haply had great loſſes, or formerly ſpent their Time idly or unthriftily, they do by their after diligence ſeek to redeem, and (as it were) to buy back again the Time that is paſt.

3. An embracing of all occaſions for acting graces, and doing good; and this agrees with the reaſon following, for the days are evil. q. d. Look to your ſelves, for theſe are hard and diſmal times; now is much corruption and great perſecution, and the opportunity of good is exceedingly ſtraitned; and therefore it is very needful to catch at Time, and to lay hold on an opportunity, both to exerciſe graces, and to be doing as much good as you may, while John 9.4. the time permitteth. I muſt work the works of him that ſent me, while it is day, ſaith Chriſt, the night cometh when no man can work: And, John.12. 35. yet a little while and the light is with you, walk while ye have the light, leſt darkneſs come upon Gal.6.10. you: And, as we have opportunity, let us do good unto all men, eſpecially to them who are of the houſhold of faith. Mark theſe ſayings, while it is called to day; and while the light is with you; and while you have opportunity. Thus you ſee what it is.

3. But why muſt Time be redeemed? what neceſſity for that? I anſwer ——

1. In reſpect of Time paſt. Alas! many a golden ſeaſon have we loſt; how many hours, and days, and months, and years have we ſpent idly, and done little good? Is it not time then to lay hold of every opportunity to redeem Time paſt? When God brought us forth into this World, his commands were upon us to work in his Vineyard, and to that purpoſe he deſigned to every one his Time; thus many days, or months, or years, ſhall you every one live; and while you live be imploying theſe and theſe talents; it is my command upon all the ſons of men, in the ſweat of thy face (i. e. Gen.3.19. of thy brow, or of thy brain,) ſhalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; and why then do ye ſtand all the day idle? why are ye not in the work, and eſpecially in the work of the Lord? Now if this be ſo, that there is ſuch a command, and that we have broke this command at ſuch a time, and ſuch a time, is it not our duty, and is there not cauſe to redeem the Time? A fellow that hath loytered a great part of the day in his buſineſs, and yet muſt needs finiſh his work, will he not toyl and ſweat at it towards night? will he not double his pains, and put all his ſtrength to it? So we, having not only been ſlack in our buſineſs about God's Service, and ſlow in the way towards Heaven, but even for many years having perhaps run in a quite contrary courſe, and done the Devil's work, how ſhould we now towards the night of our natural life, and in the concluſion of the ſhort ſpan thereof, ſpare no pains, double our diligence, preſs hard to the price of the high calling with an holy kind of violence; lay hold upon the Kingdom of Heaven, with all zeal, courage and reſolution; labour to redeeem time paſt, becauſe it is paſt: This is our reaſon.

2. In reſpect of Time preſent: It is but a moment on which depends eternal bliſs or woe; if we have loſt Time paſt, and if we do loſe Time preſent, we may be undone for ever. In this reſpect we may ſay of Time, as Boaz ſaid to his kinſman concerning Ruth, If you will Ruth 4.4. redeem it, redeem it: never think of redeeming it to morrow, or the other day, or hereafter; for no Time is properly yours but the preſent Time. Behold now is the accepted 2Cor.6.2. time; behold now is the day of ſalvation: now while I am ſpeaking and you hearing, now e're the night be done, or the next day comes on. Oh! why ſhould we trifle away the Time which is properly ours, and promiſe to our ſelves great things in a time which is none of ours? When Chriſt mourned over Jeruſalem, he bemoans it thus, If thou hadſt known Luke 19. 42. even thou at leaſt in this thy day, the things belonging to thy peace: So may I mourn over you, If thou hadſt known, even thou at leaſt in this thy day: when's that? while Miniſters call and you hear, this is your day; and therefore he that never heard effectually, let him hear now; it is now high time to awake out of that curſed ſecurity wherein you lie; the Lord is now come near, Chriſt Jeſus is calling, Mercy is intreating, and Wiſdom is even hoarſe with crying after you; if you loſe this Time, this hour of Grace, who knows whether ever you ſhall enjoy ſuch another ſeaſon? Oh take Time by the Forehead! poſt eſt occaſio calva; it will be too late ſoon. Now the Lord calls, and now it concerns us to beſtir our ſelves upon theſe grounds.

1. Becauſe now are evil days; the very reaſon in the Text: theſe are the laſt Times which the Apoſtle calls perillous Times; and why perillous? For men ſhall be lovers of their 2Tim.3.1, 2. own ſelves, covetous, boaſters, proud, blaſphemers, &c. One would think it rather an Hiſtory than a Prophecy of our days. Oh is it not time now, if ever, to redeem the Time?

2. Becauſe now are days of light: notwithſtanding the evils of ſome or moſt in compariſon, yet many glorious Truths do now appear: the Devil, I know, now brings forth his ware, but withal God is now a communicating many bleſſed Truths. In reſpect of us, our Fathers before, and ſince the Reformation, were in great darkneſs; the candle of God now ſhines upon this Nation with extraordinary light: And what then? Why therefore it concerns us to redeem the Time: This is the Apoſtles Argument, The time of this ignorance God winks at, Act.17.30 but now he commandeth every man every where to repent. This is another reaſon.

3. In reſpect of Time to come: I ſhall inſtance only in time of Death, and time of Judgment.

1. Death is at hand, and then we cannot redeem the Time: So the Preacher, Whatſo- Eccleſ.9. 10. ever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wiſdom in the grave whither thou goeſt. q. d. If there be any thing to be done, if there be any Duty God requires, do it in life; for when death ſhall come, there ſhall be no more preaching, praying, hearing. The grave cannot praiſe thee, death cannot celebrate thee, they that go down into the pit cannot Iſa.38.18, 19. hope for thy truth: the living, the living he ſhall praiſe thee, as I do this day.

2. Our doom for eternity of Joys or Woes draws on apace, and is even at the door. Then I am ſure, account muſt be given for Time, as well as for all other things. ‘Come, ‘will Chriſt ſay, give an account of thy Steward-

‘ ſhip, of all things done in the fleſh, and of ‘ every moment of Time: how didſt thou ſpend ‘ ſuch a Day, ſuch a Sabbath? was not ſuch a ‘ day ſpent ſinfully or very unprofitably, and ‘ was it ever redeemed? Here's a reaſon indeed to force on us this Duty. But of this and other reaſons I ſhall ſpeak more in the Motives when I exhort you to it.

Uſe 1. Well then, is it ſo, that Time muſt be redeemed? This may reprove ſeveral ſorts of perſons: As ——

1. The idle; that are ſo far from redeeming Time, that they are perpetually loſing Time. Ezek. 16. This was the ſin of Sodom, Pride, fulneſs of Bread, and abundance of Idleneſs, was in her. Give me leave a little to lay open this ſin. Surely this ſin is the fountain of all ſins; by doing nothing we ſhall be ſure to learn how to do ill. It is ſaid of Rome, that during the time of their Wars with Carthage, and other Enemies in Africa, they knew not what Vice meant; but no ſooner had they got the Conqueſt, than through idleneſs they came to ruin. Ruſt you know will fret into the hardeſt Iron, if it be not uſed; ſo Vice will infect the beſt Heart, if given to Idleneſs. Standing water is ſooner frozen than the running ſtream; and he that ſitteth is more ſubject to ſleep than he that walketh; ſo the idle man is far more ſubject to temptation than he that is profitably exerciſed. Idleneſs is the Devil's ſpecial opportunity; and we have an inſtance in David's Idleneſs, who at that time, was ſet on by the Devil to commit other ſins of Adultery and Murder. But this is a ſin that very Boys in Schools can declaim againſt; and if it were not that I ſee many amongſt us ſpend their Time ſo very unprofitably, I had not once named it. Oh think of it! If a Maſter ſhould ſet a light upon a Candleſtick, and give his Servant Food, and Time, and all things convenient wherewith to work, yet when he comes to ſee if his task be finiſhed, he finds that the Meat is waſted, the Time is ended, the Candle to the very ſocket burned, and little or nothing of the work is furthered, how would ſuch a Servant excuſe himſelf unto his Maſter? And is it not ſo with many of you? God hath given you Meat, Drink, and Time; he hath given you Candle, Fire, and Matter; but what have you done? Is not the Lamp of your life almoſt conſumed, and yet you have not finiſhed the work that was given you to do? Mat. 20. 6. Oh why ſtand ye here all the day idle?

Job 21. 12, 13. 2. The voluptuous: Theſe miſpend their Time as ill as the former. They take the Timbrel and Harp, and rejoyce at the ſound of the Organ, they ſpend their days in mirth. They waſte the fat and marrow (as it were) of precious Time, even the flower of their Age, in froth and folly. Lord, that men ſhould live upon Earth, as Leviathan in the Sea, only to take their ſport and paſtime therein! We have ſeen the ſad Cataſtrophe of ſome who have led ſuch lives; and I believe ſtill there is a generation of men, that except they be continually exerciſed in variety of Pleaſures, they are ſore troubled with Time; what elſe is the meaning of all thoſe Paſs-Times (as they call them) but only a concatenation of ſuch Delights as pleaſe the Fleſh, that Time may not be tedious or wearisome unto them? Little do theſe men conſider that ſaying of Chryſoſtom, ‘ The preſent Time is not for melting into ‘ mirth, but for lamentation and mourning; ‘ the Devil omits no time to hurt you, for he ‘ knows his time is ſhort, ſtill he is laying his ‘ Snares, to intrap mens Souls; he goes about ‘ like a roaring Lion to devour; he roars, and ‘ fumes, and flaſhes out fire againſt your Salva‘tion; and do you ſit ſtill, and jovially jeſt ‘ it out? Heark in your ears! the preſent Time ‘ is not for mirth, ſaith Chryſoſtome; no, no, the preſent Time is for vertuous Actions, to do the great buſineſs for which you were born, to mourn, and ſorrow, and ſue out your pardon, and not to ſpend it in jollity, and fleſhly delights. If a condemned man had two or three days granted him to ſue out his pardon, were that a time for Pleaſure and Sports? Surely the Sentence of Death is upon all fleſh; Gen. 2. 17. In the day that thou eateſt thereof thou ſhalt ſurely die; only a little uncertain Time is granted to ſue out our pardon in the name of Chriſt: why then do you ſlip away your Time ſinfully, and will not redeem it?

Præſens tempus non effundendi gaudii, ſed tribulationum, &c. Chryſ. in cap. 5. ad Epheſ. Ser. 17.

3. The godly themſelves: Alas! the beſt are ſhort in this Duty of redeeming the Time. Did not the Lord complain againſt his own people? Jer. 8. 7. The Stork in the Heaven knoweth her appointed times; and the Turtle, and the Crane, and the Swallow, obſerve the time of their coming, but my people know not the judgment of the Lord. Certainly God's own people do not ſo improve as they ought, thoſe many gracious ſeaſons of love which the Lord affords them. O the omiſſions of Duties, and commiſſions of Evils whereof we all ſtand guilty! Of how many good hours have we been ill Husbands? I ſhall not need to reckon up our times of Infancy when we knew nothing, nor of childhood when we knew very little, nor of youth when we knew not much of that we ought to know; but ſince our riper years, yea ſince the time of our regeneracy, how prodigal have we been of this precious Commodity of Time? Thoſe that keep exact Diaries can eaſily tell you, ſuch an hour loſt, and ſuch an hour ill ſpent; this day I did little good, and the other day I ſinned againſt my God. If in this caſe I may ſpeak out my own Experiences, I muſt needs acknowledge that many and many a day I have loſt ſuch and ſuch an opportunity, and now that evil days come thick upon me, wherein I would gladly redeem my days, Oh how ſlow and backward am I as yet in this Heavenly Duty! My dear Brethren, I ſhall not only reprove you, but my ſelf in this! O why art thou ſo dull, and liſtleſs, and heavy, O my Soul? Awake, awake! ſtir up thy ſelf, and with redoubled diligence fall to the work of redeeming Time, while yet the time, the day, the ſeaſon, the opportunity of Grace, of Heaven, or of Salvation laſteth.

Uſe 2. 2. Muſt Time be redeemed? Why then let me exhort you by the meekneſs and gentleneſs of Chriſt to be in the exerciſe of this Duty. Oh redeem your Time! avoid all thoſe hinderances that would take you off: recompence your former unfruitfulneſs by after-diligence; embrace all occaſions of acting grace, and doing good. I might dilate on all theſe particulars; but I ſhall contract all in theſe very words, Redeem the Time, oh redeem your Time.

The Motives beſides the former Reaſons may be theſe.

1. Time is ever on the wing, and ſtays for no man. The Scripture is very full of this; we meet with many ſimilitudes hinting at the ſudden

Job. 9.25, 26. ſudden inviſible motion of Time. My days are ſwifter than a poſt, they fly away; they are paſſed away as the ſwift Ships, as the Eagle that haſteth to the prey. See how Job here multiplies compariſons, that if we will not learn by the firſt, we might learn by a ſecond, or by a third: Go we to the land, and there we ſee Time on the ſpur, in the ſwift riding poſt; go we to the Sea, and there we ſee Time upon the wind, in the ſwift ſailing Ship; go we to the Air, and there we ſee Time upon the wing, in the ſwift flying Eagle. Hence the Ancients emblem'd Time with wings, as if it were not only running, or ſailing, but flying. Oh how ſad it is to ſee men live as if Time had leaden heels, and not ſwift wings; or as if Time would any time ſtay our leiſure, and not be gone. Be not deceived, you that are weary of Time, either now redeem it, or you will one day cry out, Wiſd. 5.8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13. What hath pride profited us? or what good hath riches with our vaunting brought us? All theſe things are paſſed away like a ſhadow, and as a poſt that paſſeth by; or as a Ship; —or as a Bird; —or as an Arrow; —even ſo we, &c.

2. As Time is ſwift, ſo our Time is ſhort. The Heavens indeed are ſaid to be of ſwift motion, but of long continuance; but our Time is otherwiſe. When the Corinthians propounded divers caſes of Conſcience, after ſome Anſwers the Apoſtle gives them in this: 1Cor.7.29 But this I ſay, brethren, the time is ſhort, or time is cut off: he alludes to Sea-faring men that have almoſt done their Voyage, and begin to ſtrike ſail. Time was in the beginning of the world that men might ſay, I may, by courſe of Nature, live a matter of ſix, or ſeven, or eight, or nine hundred years; but now God hath ſo caſt out the time of our age, that ſo ſoon as we begin our Voyage, we are ready to ſtrike ſail: we have but a little time; If I ſhould meaſure it out, what is it but an Ell, a Span, an Inch, a Point? And is it not time then to redeem the time?

3. Time is not only ſwift and ſhort, but nothing, I ſay a very nothing in compariſon. As ſome creatures are ſaid to be nothing in compariſon of others. What is the Ant to the Elephant, or the Shrimp to the Whale? What is the whole Body of the Earth to the Body of the Heavens? So is our time as nothing to all time, and all time is as nothing to Eternity. David that found out a ſhort dimenſion of his Time conſidered abſolutely, or in it ſelf, Pſal. 39.5. Behold thou haſt made my days as an hand-breadth; yet he could find out no dimenſion little enough for his time compared with God, Mine age is as nothing before thee. God's Being conſiſts in one Eternal now; but man's Time is divided into paſt, preſent, and to come; three nothings, which being added together, amount in the total to this Sum, Mine age is as nothing before thee. Oh that we would conſider of this Language of the Holy Ghoſt! were it not enough, think you, to put us on this Duty of improving and trading our Time while the Time is ours, and while this ſhort Time laſteth?

4. Though Time be ſwift and ſhort, and as nothing in compariſon, yet it is a commodity more precious than the Gold of Ophir. If herein we might hear loſt Souls to utter themſelves, Oh what would they ſay? or what would they give for a little of that little Time they had on Earth? If the Lord by divine and extraordinary diſpenſation, would but grant them one months Time to come hither again, and to make a new Trial, do you think they would not prize this Grant? would they not eſteem that little ſhort Golden ſeaſon of Grace at an high and mighty rate? would they not make uſe of every opportunity to lay hold of Heaven, and to eſcape thoſe Fires wherein now they are burning, frying, and flaming? O yes! if you would then tempt them, ſaying, ‘Come, ſpend this hour merrily; would they not anſwer; alas! we have but one months Time to live here in this World, and then we muſt either to Hell again, or if we improve our Time well, we muſt to Heaven; and what? ſhall we trifle away this time of Trial and of Grace in offending God? Shall we caſt away our Souls again to gratifie you, or to pleaſe our own Fleſh, for ſo little a time as we have now to live? Oh God forbid! avoid Satan! avoid all Temptations! welcom now all thoſe Meſſengers of Heaven that will bring us the glad tidings, the tenders, the offers of Chriſt and of Salvation! let not one Sand in the Hour-glaſs run, but let us be doing ſome good; let this Hour be ſpent in Prayer, and the next in Meditation, and the next in hearing of God's Word, and the next in the exerciſe of this and that grace, and ſo on; but not one hour in ſin. Why ſurely thus would they prize and improve the Time, that know by woful experience what it is to loſe the Time. And by this we may gueſs the worth of Time: Oh it is precious, ſo precious that if all the Earth were turned into Gold, it could not purchaſe one minute of it. Methinks this motive ſhould work, and now that we have a little time, it ſhould prevail with us to redeem the Time.

5. Our Time hath been a very ſinful time. Ah my Brethren, think over your ignorance, unbelief, worldlineſs, covetouſneſs, pride, malice, luſts, lukewarmneſs, impatience, diſcontentedneſs, vain-glory, ſelf-love, wandring and wicked imaginations: In a word, all your pollutions, diſtempers, eſtrangedneſs from God in the time of your Unregeneracy: oh were not thoſe ſinful, abominable, and rebellious times: or be it ſo that your gracious God hath ſince thoſe times wrought in you effectually his ſaving Grace, have you not ſince then loſt your firſt love, or at leaſt grown remiſs and cold, and lukewarm in it? Say then, ſpeak out your hearts and tell me, is it not time now to remember from whence you are fallen, and to repent, and to do your firſt works? Bleſſed Mr. Bolton hath a ſaying; ‘That if it were poſſible that any uncomfortable Paſſion were incident to a glorified Saint in Heaven, he would be ſorry, and tranſported with extream anger and indignation againſt himſelf, that he was not a meer greedy ingroſſer (as it were) and improver of Time for doing excellently upon Earth, and that every hour, eſpecially after his Converſion, was not crowned with ſome rare and more remarkable Exploit, with ſome more ſpecial and noble ſervice for the glorifying of that moſt bountiful and ever bleſſed God, who hath now honoured him with ſuch unſpeakable Glory in the Kingdom of Heaven. But if no ſuch Paſſion is in glorified Saints, I am ſure we have all cauſe enough to loath our ſelves in our own ſight, for our iniquities, and for our abominations. O come, let this be a motive to ſpur us on, and to quicken us in this Duty of Redeeming the Time, becauſe our Days were evil.

6. The Scriptures ſpeak of a remarable ſet time of grace, a time of viſitation, Luke 19. 44. a time of Salvation, 2 Cor. 6. 2. a time whilſt God may be found, Pſal. 32. 6. a time when he holds out the golden Scepter, Eſther 5. 2. a time wherein the Fountain runneth, and the Spirit proclaimeth, Ho, every one that thirſteth, come ye to the Waters, Iſa. 55. 1. Thus Jeruſalem had her time; and all the ſeveral Churches in Aſia had their time; and now England, Scotland, and Ireland, have their time; and if we miſ-improve this time, and walk unworthy of this Grace and Goſpel of Chriſt, this Time will have an end, this Sun will go down at noon, and ſet upon our heads. Pſal. 95. 11. This day, if you will hear my voice, harden not your hearts, ſaid God to Iſrael; but they hardned their hearts, and therefore God ſware to them in his wrath, that they ſhould never enter into his reſt. If it be ſo with us as it was with Iſrael in the wilderneſs, we do not know but this very day the Lord may clap an Oath upon our heads, that we ſhall never enter into his reſt. Oh then that we would learn of the Ant, that gathereth her meat in the Summer-time! Oh that while we have this time of grace, we would redeem the Time in praying, reading, hearing, meditating, and treaſuring up the things belonging to our peace! This time is a ſet-time that haſtens away; and we cannot with Joſhua bid the Sun ſtand ſtill. O then let us ſay, This is our time, and therefore what we will do for our Souls, we will do it now. Surely better it is to redeem it now, than to wiſh in pain and torment for the time again when it is paſt redemption.

7. The time is a coming, yea, it is near, even at the door, when Time ſhall be no more. This is the voice of the ſeventh Angel, And the Angel which I ſaw ſtanding upon the Sea and upon the Earth, lifted up his hand to Heaven, and ſware by him that liveth for ever and ever, that there ſhould be time no longer, Rev. 10. 5, 6. Who was this? a man? no, an Angel: and what? did he ſay it? no, he ſware it: how, ſware it by himſelf? no, he ſware it by him that lives for ever: and what? that time ſhould be little? no, it ſhould be no longer, Time ſhould be no more. Needs muſt this Time come, that hath all theſe Circumſtances to confirm it. And what if this Time ſhould come even in your Time? what if now the ſeventh Angel ſhould lift up his hand to Heaven, and take this Oath? If this Time be far off, as to the general Judgment (which I cannot think) yet ſure I am, and without all peradventure, that it is not far off to thee and me. It may be before this year, this month, this week, this night be done, that God may ſay to his Angel, 'Go to ſuch a man and 'ſuch a woman, I will give them no more time; 'bring them hither, and here let them give an 'account what they have done with all their 'time, for I muſt have reckoning of all time 'paſt. And then comes in, Imprimis, ſo much time in Drinking and Revelling; Item ſo much time in idling, ſporting, playing, &c. 'Oh, will 'God ſay, were theſe things I gave you time 'for? no, no, it was for Heaven and Salvation 'you had your time; and if that time be miſ-'improved, away, away, time, and now enter 'Eternity upon theſe Souls. Is not here a motive to make us look about us? Oh my Brethren, now, now if ever, redeem the time, for anon time will be gone, and then ſucceeds Eternity, Eternity, Eternity.

But what are the means for redeeming Time? I anſwer.——

They are ſo many, that I may have no time to enumerate the Particulars; ſhall we inſtance in ſome? you muſt pray, read, hear the Word, meditate, and watch over your Hearts with extraordinary induſtry; mortifie your Members which are upon the Earth, as Pride, Covetouſneſs, Luſts, &c. grow up in grace, clear up your Evidences againſt that day, when all ſhall ſtand naked before that great and glorious Judge, &c. And theſe, and all other Duties (of which anon) muſt be done while the day laſteth. Here's a great work, and a little time; doth it not concern you to beſtir your ſelves? If a man have much to write, and but a little Paper to write on, he muſt write ſmall, and thick, and cloſe as ever he can: So muſt you do. I verily believe there's not one Soul amongſt us but he may find out hundreds and thouſands of ſins to repent him of; he may find out many and many a particular Duty that he ſhould be exerciſed in from morning to evening, and from evening to morning; ſo that 'tis a wonder how he can ſpare any time at all for any thing elſe. Well then, up and be doing; loſe not a minute, but be in the uſe and exerciſe of ſome of theſe Duties. Theſe are the means, and in the uſe of theſe means you may (by the Lord's help and grace concurring) redeem your time.

One Objection I would remove. It may be the day of grace is done, the gate of mercy is already ſhut; and if ſo, how is it poſſible for me to redeem the time? I anſwer:

1. By way of Conceſſion. I believe there is a day of grace indeed, and if that Sun ſet, it will never, never riſe again. If thou hadſt known, even thou, at leaſt in this thy day, the things belonging to thy peace, but now are they hid from thine eyes. Luke 19. 42. q. d. Now is the Gate of Mercy ſhut, there is no means of Grace, or Salvation for ever hereafter to be hoped for. As there is no Market or Fair-day that laſteth always, if the Country will not come in, the Tradeſman will at laſt put up his Wares; ſo the Lord's ſtanding may be open, and his ſhop ſet wide for ſuch and ſuch a time; but if Souls will not come in, and buy without mony and without price, he will at laſt put up his Wares (all his Jewels of Grace) and then be gone.

2. Though it be true that there is a day of grace, and that this day may ſet; yet in reſpect of us the Miniſters of Chriſt, we cannot determine it; and therefore ſo long as you live, we call ſtill, Oh repent! Oh redeem your time! I may add in reſpect of your ſelves, It is not in you to know the times and ſeaſons which God hath put in his own power. Act. 1. 7. And the commandment of Faith ſtanding in force on you ſo long as you live, and therefore you are ſtill to look to your Duty of redeeming the Time.

3. It may be this day, this night, this Sermon, this very hour may be thy day of grace. Hearken! Is not Chriſt's Spirit now a knocking? Is not Chriſt himſelf now offering Mercy to thy Soul? 'O ye ſons of men that have 'miſ-improved your Time, will ye now at leaſt 'in this your day be wiſe to Salvation? why 'now I call to your hearts; now I command 'you to open your everlaſting doors, that I, the 'King of Glory, may come in; oh, let this be 'the time of love! Come, give me your hearts, 'and now redeem the time. Away, away, with all Objections, Scruples, Cavils, that may hinder this Duty; and now, even now, hearken to this voice of Chriſt, or of the Spirit of Chriſt, that your Souls may live.

Uſe 3. 3. Muſt Time be redeemed? then for ſome Rules or Directions how we muſt redeem it.

Rule 1. Avoid we every thing that would hinder us from taking the opportunity. What thoſe things are you have heard before, as ignorance, ſloth, and love of fleſhly liberty. Many other particulars might be enumerated, but chiefly and eſpecially forego we theſe.

Rule 2. Repent we of all former miſ-improvings of our Time. There is no other way of recompenſing former unfruitfulneſs but by repentance and after Diligence. This is the ſecond Table after Shipwrack; in this way we may redeem, or buy back again the time that is paſt. The very word reſipiſcentia ſignifies to be wiſe again, after all our former Follies. Oh that ever any ſhould be ſo unworthy as to decry this Godly-Goſpel-Golden Rule.

Rule 3. Live we every day as if every day were the laſt day we had to live. This Rule or Direction is ſo comprehenſive, that I muſt needs break it into particulars. Suppoſe then I were to begin this day, and that I lookt on this day as the laſt day of my life, how ſhould I redeem my time, or ſpend this day? I anſwer.——

1. My firſt and morning-thoughts ſhould be on God or on ſomething in order to his Service. Pſ. 130.6. My Soul waiteth for the Lord more than they that watch for the Morning.—— O Lord, be Iſa. 23.2. gracious to me. I have waited for thee, be thou Pſ. 59.16. my arm every Morning.—— I will ſing of the power, I will ſing aloud of thy mercy in the Pſ. 92.1,2. Morning.—— It is good to give thanks unto the Lord, and to ſing praiſes unto thy name, O moſt high, to ſhew forth thy loving kindneſs in the Morning.—— Pſ. 139.17. How precious are thy thoughts unto me, O God! when I awake, I am ſtill with thee. Now theſe Morning-thoughts may be Iſa. 26. ſpent either in a way of Meditation, or of Prayer; and my Duties lie in both.

2. I ſhould meditate. I ſhall not determine whether Morning or Evening may be more ſuitable for ſet, deliberate, and ſolemn Meditation; only this I affirm, that either a ſolemn or an occaſional Meditation is a Morning-Duty. In ſome ſort Meditation and Prayer ſhould ever go together; and David thus couples them, Pſal. 5. 1, 2, 3. Give ear to my words, O Lord, conſider my meditation, hearken to the voice of my cry.—— My voice ſhalt thou hear in the Morning, O Lord, in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee. Now theſe Morning-Meditations (if occaſional or ejaculatory) may be on ſuch Objects as theſe.

1. Upon my firſt waking, I may think on that Morning of my Reſurrection, when the Lord will awake me from the duſt; it is but a while till the Trump ſhall ſound; Awake, Iſa. 29.19. and ſing, ye that dwell in the duſt, for thy dew is as the dew of herbs; and then ſhall the earth caſt out her dead.

2. Upon ſight of the Morning-Sun I may think on that Sun of Righteouſneſs that enlightens Heaven. The Sun that ſhines on me was only created for this nether World, and yet how glorious is it? Oh then what light is there in that City above, that hath no need of Rev. 21.23 Sun, or Moon, or Star, for the glory of God doth lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.

3. Upon the putting on of my Apparel, I may think on that Garment of Righteouſneſs wherewith my Soul either is or ſhould be clothed. Alas! what is this outward Robe but a Rag, or at beſt an excrement of dead Worms, of which I have little reaſon to be proud? But my Souls Robe is as a Garment cut out of the Sun, and put upon me. And there appeared a great Rev. 12.1. wonder in Heaven, a woman clothed with the Sun. Oh that I may be clothed with that Sun of Righteauſneſs, or with that Righteouſneſs of the Son of God, that I may appear before God as I am in him, pure and ſpotleſs.

I ſhall not inſtance in any other Objects of my mornings Meditation; only if I find my Spirit more active and fit for Meditation at ſuch a time, I ſhould then go on, and ſpare more time for ſet, deliberate, and ſolemn Meditations.

2. I ſhould pray; and to this Duty I may joyn the reading of the Word. That this is a mornings Duty, the Scripture is expreſs: In Pſal. 5.3. the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and Pſ. 88.13. will look up.—— And in the morning ſhall my Pſ. 55.17. prayer prevent thee.—— And evening, and morning, and at noon will I pray, and cry aloud, and he ſhall hear my voice. It is true, that Prayer and reading of the Word, are two diſtinct Exerciſes, yet that they mutually help one another is moſt manifeſt, and conſequently are fit to be joyned together; for the word miniſters matter of Prayer, and is the ground of our Petition, who have no promiſe to be heard, unleſs we ask according to God's Word, 1 John 5. 14. And the fitneſs of the morning for theſe Exerciſes is evident, not only becauſe the firſt of Time belongs unto God, but alſo the Heart being then moſt free from worldly Thoughts, it is therefore fitteſt for holy Exerciſes; and withal, when in the beginning of the day the heart of man is ſeaſoned with Holineſs, and with the fear of God, he ſhall find himſelf the better fitted to walk humbly with God all the day after.

2. All the reſt of the day till evening ſhould I ſpend my time in the Duties of my particular Calling, nor know I the leaſt reaſon why any man in the world, high or low, rich or poor, ſhould be herein exempted. Adam muſt not Gen. 3.19. eat his bread without ſweat and labour. Abel Gen. 4.2, 20, 21, 22. was a keeper of ſheep. Cain a tiller of the ground. Jabal was a Tent-maker. Jubal the father of ſuch as handle the Harp. Tubal Cain an Artificer in Braſs and Iron. All the Patriarchs of Iſrael were but Shepherds; and Jeſus Chriſt himſelf was a plain Carpenter.

But you may object, may I not herein loſe my time as to God's Service? One would think if this were my laſt day I ſhould do no other work but pray, or hear, or read, or meditate, &c. I anſwer.——

1. I grant there are ſuch times wherein God calls us extraordinarily to ſuch ſpiritual Duties all the day long; as either in afflictions felt or feared, or in ſome ſpecial Mercies expected or received. And there are thoſe times we call the Lord's Days, wherein we are to do no work ordinarily, but of a ſpiritual nature. And there are ſuch times wherein God holds forth an opportunity of exerciſing graces, or of doing good; and ſo to embrace the occaſion is one piece or part of our redeeming Time. As Gal. 6.10. we have opportunity let us do good to all men. Phil. 4.10. And your care of me hath flouriſhed again, (ſaid Paul to his Philippians) but ye lacked opportunity. It ſeems their care for the Apoſtle was intermitted for a ſeaſon, for want of opportunity to ſend unto him; but now they put forth again as flowers in Spring. I doubt not but in ſuch caſes as theſe, we may, and, muſt for the time diſpenſe with our particular Callings. Yet, ——

2. In my ordinary conſtant daily courſe, I am to be in the exerciſe of my particular Calling, with which I may either mingle ſome actings of grace, or ejaculatory Duties, as ſuddenly to look up to Heaven, and to behold the face of God, to whom I am to approve my ſelf in my particular Calling; or if they claſh, I am ſolely to follow my particular calling, and to leave other ſpiritual Actings till their appointed ſeaſon. Nor do I herein decline Gods Service: For 1. I follow my calling out of an awful reſpect to the eye, preſence, and command of God, who hath ſaid, Six days ſhalt thou labour: Yea, I do what I do in civil buſineſs as the work of Chriſt, ſo that I may ſay at that time, Now am I about the work of God, and of Jeſus Chriſt.

2. Seeing my ſelf thus working for him, I may eaſily apprehend that for that time I honour God as much, nay more, by the meaneſt ſervile worldly act, than if I ſhould ſpend all that time in Prayer, Meditation, or any other ſpiritual Employment to which I had no call at ſuch a time. It is noted therefore, by ſome, of Peter's Wifes Mother, that when Chriſt had healed her of her Feaver, ſhe ſat not down at Table with Chriſt in communion with him, Mat. 8.15. which (no queſtion) was ſweet, but ſhe miniſtred unto them (i. e.) ſhe ran to and fro, and ſerved him, and acted for him, wherein ſhe ſhewed more love, and gave him more honour, than if at that time ſhe had enjoyed Communion with him in a nearer way.

But I hear others object, May I not take up ſome little of this time in recreations? what, muſt I always be on my calling? Is there not Eccleſ. 3. 1. 4. a time to every purpoſe under Heaven? a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance?

I anſwer: There is indeed a time to recreate; but that time is then, I ſay only then, when our Bodies or Minds are wearied with our other employments. O what a ſad thing it is to ſee many ſpend a whole day, it may be a whole week, in unneceſſary ſinful Recreations! What, is this to redeem the time? or dare I thus ſpend the laſt day of my life in this world? Surely, God's People that make conſcience of their Duties, ſhould not meddle at any time with Recreations (though in themſelves lawful) without true cauſe, and a juſt calling thereunto; nor ſhould they uſe them any longer, nor to any other end, but only to quicken their Minds or to revive their Bodies, that ſo they may return with ſome lightſomneſs and alacrity to their callings again. He that ſpends his Time laviſhly in Recreations, is like him whoſe Garments is made of fringes, and his Meat nothing but ſauces. I am not againſt Recreations lawfully uſed, but God forbid that we ſhould trifle away our time (more worth than worlds) upon fooliſh, vain, empty, and unneceſſary Toys.

3. The Evening ſhould be cloſed up with ſpiritual Duties. If you ask what Duties? I anſwer.

Pſ. 141. 2. 1. The Evening is a time for Prayer, Let my Prayer be ſet forth before thee as incenſe, and the lifting up of my hands as the evening Sacrifice. To this of Prayer I joyn reading the Scripture, and good Books; for it is fit to cloſe up the day with the ſame Duties wherewith we began it.

2. The Evening was Iſaac's time for meditation: And Iſaac went out to meditate in the field at the even-tide. Gen. 24. 63. It may be in this Duty the morning is not ſo ſeaſonable for ſome tempers; but ſhall the Evening paſs without ſome ſpiritual holy Meditations? Some conceive the Evening to be the very ſeaſon of ſet and deliberate meditation; and in this caſe how fruitful might I be in the uſe of that Ordinance of looking unto Jeſus, as he carries on the great work of our Salvation from firſt to laſt? O that this Duty of Meditation, either on that, or any other ſpiritual Subject, were not ſo neglected as it is by Chriſtians themſelves! The Lord gave Joſhua a charge, that he ſhould meditate on his Law day and night; Joſh. 1. 8. and David's character of the bleſſed Man is, that his delight is in the Law of the Lord, and in his Law doth he meditate day and night. Pſal. 1. 2. And David's own practice was to remember God upon his bed, and to meditate on him in the night watches. Pſal. 63. 6. And Paul's charge to Timothy was to meditate upon ſpiritual things, and to give him wholly to them. 1 Tim. 4. 15. Or if you'l have another proof for the Evening-ſeaſon, not only was it Iſaac's time, but David's time, Mine eyes prevent the night-watches, that I might meditate in thy word. Pſal. 119. 148.

3. The Evening is a ſeaſon for Self-examination. This is another glorious Ordinance which many Chriſtians uſe occaſionally, and againſt ſoome good time; but to ſet ſome time apart for this every evening, and that in conſcience, as they do for reading the Word, and Prayer, where is the Chriſtian almoſt to be found? I am ſure it was David's charge, Commune with your own heart upon your bed, and be ſtill. Pſal. 4. 4. And agreeable to this was his practice, I call to remembrance my ſong in the night, I commune with my own heart, and my ſpirit made diligent ſearch. Pſal. 77. 6. Chryſoſtom on theſe words of David, 'What means this (ſaith he) commune 'with your own hearts upon your bed? thus 'anſwers himſelf, After ſupper-time, when ye 'are going to ſleep, and are ready to lye down 'on bed, and have great quiet and ſilence, 'without the preſence or diſturbance of any, 'then erect a tribunal for the conſcience. —— 'And when neither friend diſturbs you, nor 'ſervants provoke you, nor multitudes of bu'ſineſs do preſs upon you, then take an account 'of your life, what you have done in the day'time before. Poſt cœnam, Chryſoſt. Expoſ. in Pſ. 4. 4. And Dorotheus lays it down as 'a Rule which the Chriſtians of his time had 'learned of their fore-fathers, that in the eve'ning they ſhould queſtion themſelves how 'they had paſſed the day. Docuerant nos ſæpe patres noſtri, &c. Doroth. tom. 1. Biblioth. patr. p. 14. Oh that Chriſtians now would ſum up their Accounts at the foot of every page, I mean, that they would call themſelves to ſcrutiny every evening, when they are ready to compoſe themſelves to ſleep, as to the little Images of Death!

4. The Evening is a ſeaſon to conſider my Priviledges in Chriſt. When David was ready for his Bed, I will lay me down in peace, and ſleep (ſaith he) for thou Lord only makeſt me dwell in ſafety. Pſal. 4. 8. See how he ſpeaks of peace, and reſt, and ſleep, and ſafety: all theſe were Priviledges. Methinks it is a ſweet concluſion of a good days work, and a bleſſed farewel to the World, if this evening were my laſt, and that immediately I muſt go to God, to conſider of ſome of thoſe glorious Priviledges in God and Chriſt. I might inſtance in my peace, and reſt, and ſleep, and ſafety, by vertue of a Promiſe, or Covenant of Grace; or I might inſtance in my Election, Redemption, Reconciliation, Adoption, Sanctification, Glorification! But becauſe theſe are commonly handled, and our communion with God and Chriſt, and the ſpirit of Chriſt is the moſt raviſhing Priviledge in this World, my Soul carries me out for the preſent to pitch on this. * One of our Worthies hath writ eminently on it; and for a taſte of his excellent work, the ſweetning of my laſt thoughts with ſuch an excellent Subject; I ſhall contract it thus.

* Dr. Owens Communion, God the Father, Son, and HolyGhoſt.

1. ‘I would conſider my Communion with God the Father in love. This the Father peculiarly fixes upon the Saints; and this they are immediately to eye him in; God is love, Chriſtians walk oft-times with exceeding troubled hearts, concerning the thoughts of the Father towards them; they are well perſuaded of the Lord Chriſt, and his good Will; the difficulty lies in what is their acceptance with the Father, what is his heart towards them? Now here is the work of the Goſpel to diſcover the love of the Father: this is the Will of God, that he may always be eyed as being kind, tender, loving, yea as the Fountain and Spring of all gracious Communications and Fruits of Love; and when Chriſtians apprehend this, that God is love, and ſo reſt upon him, and delight in him as ſuch, then have they communion with the Father in love.

Now for the exerciſe of my Soul in this bleſſed Communion, the Directions are ſuch as theſe.——

1. ‘I muſt eye the Father as Love. I muſt not look on him as one that is always angry, but as one moſt kind and tender in himſelf, and as one that hath had thoughts of kindneſs towards his Saints from everlaſting.

2. ‘I muſt ſo eye the Love of the Father, as to receive it by Faith; I muſt believe this love of God as for my ſelf. Certainly his love is not mine, nor will it be mine in the ſweetneſs of it, until it be ſo received. Either I muſt know it, aſſent to it, embrace it, and have all my affections filled with it, or it will be in vain as to my Communion with God the Father.

3. ‘This love muſt have its proper fruit and efficacy upon my heart in a return of love to him again. To this purpoſe God loves, that he may be beloved; this is the return that he demands, My Son, give me thy Heart, thy Affections, thy Love. O the Priviledge of Saints! they have meat to eat that the World knows not of, they have cloſe communion and fellowſhip with the Father; they deal with him in the interchange of love; ſo that every one of them may ſay, If I have hatred in the World, I will go where I am ſure of love; though all others are hard to me, yet my Father is tender and full of compaſſion, I will go to him, and ſatisfie my ſelf in him.

Prov. 23. 26.

4. ‘I would conſider of my Communion with God the Son in grace. So the Apoſtle ſpeaking of our Communion with him as Mediator, concludes his Epiſtles, The grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you all. Not to mention any other grace, but his purchaſed grace of juſtification, or acceptation with God; the directions for this Communion are ſuch as theſe. ——

1 Cor. 6. 23.

Gal. 6.18. Epheſ. 6. 24.

‘I muſt eye Chriſt's doings and ſufferings; not as for himſelf, but for his Saints, and for their Righteouſneſs. He was made under the Law, that we might receive the Adoption of Sons. And he bare our ſins in his Body on the Tree. ‘This was the end of Chriſt's life and death, to work out a complete Righteouſneſs for Believers, as to a perfect acceptation before God.

Phil.4.23. Gal.4.4,5. 1 Theſſ.5. 28. 2 Theſſ.3. 18. Gal.4.2. 2 Pet .2. 24.

‘I muſt approve of this Righteouſneſs of Chriſt as that alone which is abſolutely compleat, and able to make me acceptable before God. Of this I am convinced, that if I die this night, there is a neceſſity of a Righteouſneſs, wherewith I muſt appear before God; and if I have nothing to commend me unto God but my own Righteouſneſs, oh how ſhould I appear before his glory? there is no other name but Chriſt, whereby I can be ſaved; and there is no other Righteouſneſs but Chriſt's whereby I can be juſtified. Surely, ſhall one ſay, in the Lord have I Righteouſneſs and ſtrength.

Iſa.45.24.

3. ‘I muſt make an actual Commutation with the Lord Jeſus as to my ſins, and his Righteouſneſs. And to that purpoſe, 1. I muſt hearken to the voice of Chriſt, calling me to him with my Brethren, Come to me, thou poor Soul, with thy guilt of ſin, for that is mine; this agreement I made with my Father from all eternity, that I ſhould come, and take thy ſins, and bear them away; they were my lot, give me thy Burthen, give me all thy Sins, thou knoweſt not what to do with them, I know how to diſpoſe of them well enough, ſo that God ſhall be glorified, and thy Soul delivered. 2. ‘Upon this call I muſt lay down my Sins at the Croſs of Chriſt upon his Shoulders. This is Faiths great and bold adventure upon the grace, faithfulneſs, and truth of Chriſt, to ſtand by the Croſs, and ſay, Ah! he is bruiſed for my ſins, and wounded for my tranſgreſſions, and the chaſtiſement of my peace is upon him: He is thus made ſin for me; here I give up my ſins to him that is able to bear them; he requires at my hands, that I ſhould be content to throw my ſins upon him, and to this I conſent. 3. ‘Having thus by Faith given up my ſins to Chriſt, I muſt draw nigh, and take from him that Rightoouſneſs which he hath wrought out for me: To this purpoſe he tenders himſelf and his Righteouſneſs to be my Righteouſneſs before God; and by my accepting of it, I compleat this bartering and exchange of Faith, and come into communion with Jeſus Chriſt, as to my acceptation with God by grace. He was made ſin for us, that we might become the Righteouſneſs of God in him.

2 Cor. 5. 21.

3. ‘I would conſider of my Communion with the Holy Ghoſt in comfort. We read uſually in the Goſpel that he is the Comforter. Oh the condeſcention of the Holy Ghoſt! he willingly proceedeth, or comes forth from the Father to be our Comforter; he knew what we were, and what would be our Dealings with him; he knew we would grieve him, provoke him; quench his motions, defile his dwelling place, and yet he would come to be our Comforter. Now for my Communion with the Holy Ghoſt herein, the Directions are theſe.—

John 14. 26. John. 15. 26. John 16.7.

1. ‘I muſt ask him of the Father in the name of Jeſus Chriſt. This is the daily work of Believers; they look upon, and conſider the Holy Ghoſt as promiſed to be ſent, and in this Promiſe they know, lies all their grace, peace, mercy, and comfort; for by him ſo promiſed, are theſe things communicated. O then how ſhould I ask him of the Father, who is as ready to beſtow him on me, as I am to give my Children Bread? If ye being evil, Luke 11. 13. know how to give good Gifts unto your Children, how much more ſhall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?

2. ‘If comfort come, I muſt learn to act Faith diſtinctly on the Holy Ghoſt, as the immediate efficient cauſe of all my comfort. It may be the Spirit is given, and he tenders, or adminiſters conſolations, but then I do not conſider him as the Comforter; why ſurely this grieves him: a lively Faith will take notice of his kindneſs; upon every work of conſolation that I receive, I ſhould write this Motto, This is from the Holy Ghoſt, he is my Comforter, and the God of all my Conſolation.

3. ‘I muſt return praiſe, and thanks, and honour, and glory, and bleſſings to him on the account of thoſe comforts I receive from him. When I feel my ſelf warmed with joy, ſupported with peace, or eſtabliſhed in obedience, I ſhould then aſcribe to him the praiſe that is his due. And this praiſing of him is no ſmall part of my communion with him.

Say now, Is not here a Priviledge worthy of my conſideration? would not a thought of this, and my acting in this, leave a ſweet ſavour in my Soul, when I am going to my Bed as to Pſal.119. 54, 25. my grave? David could ſay, Thy Statutes have been my ſong in the houſe of my Pilgrimage; I have remembred thy name O Lord in the Pſal.63.5. 6. night. And my ſoul ſhall be ſatisfied as with marrow and fatneſs, and my mouth ſhall praiſe thee with joyful lips. Ay, but when muſt this be? He anſwers: When I remember thee upon my Bed, and meditate on thee in the night-watches. And he faſtens it as a Duty upon all Pſal.149. 5. Saints; Let the Saints be joyful in glory, let them ſing aloud upon their beds. And the Iſa.26.9. Church reſolves upon it, With my ſoul have I deſired thee in the night, and with my ſpirit within me will I ſeek thee early. Surely it is Job35.10. God (ſaith Elihu) who giveth ſongs in the night. Pſal.42.8. And in the night (ſaith David) his ſong ſhall be with me. And 'twas a bleſſed remedy to his Pſal.77.6. heavy Soul, I call to remembrance my ſong in the night. O that with ſuch thoughts and conſiderations of my communion with God, and Chriſt, and the Spirit of Chriſt, or of ſome other Priviledge, I might every night go to my Bed! for then like the Philomele ſhould I ſing in the night: yea, then would my ſoul be ſatisfied as with marrow and fatneſs, and my mouth would praiſe him with joyful lips.

I might inſtance in many other Duties, which would then be ſeaſonable, but theſe are the main; and if this day were my laſt day, or if this night I muſt ſleep my laſt in this world, yet I ſhould comfortably hope, that in the doing of theſe Duties in a ſpiritual manner, I had in good meaſure redeemed my time; and that when I awake, though I never awake till the Reſurrection day, yet then ſhould I ſee God face to face, and I ſhould be ſatisfied with his likeneſs, Pſal. 17. 15.

I have now done; only before I part, I would ſay ſomething of the deceaſed party as to our Edification, and ſo an end.

You know I have been ſparing in this way, becauſe of many abuſes, and eſpecially becauſe all promiſcuouſly look for praiſes at their death, howſoever they ſpend their life. But now God hath removed me from this Paſtoral Charge, and I ſhall not here perform many of theſe laſt Offices of Love, probably never more than this; and therefore at this time I ſhall crave your patience and attentions to what may be ſpoken without any prejudice to truth, or harm to you.

The Duty I am preſſing on you, is to redeem the Time; and this I believe of the deceaſed Party, that ſhe redeemed her Time. I ſhall not ſpeak of her Birth, Education, Progeny, Nobility: Stemmata quid faciunt? Alas! what's all this to a Funeral Sermon? Nor ſhall I ſpeak of her Youth or flouriſhing Time; as I am a ſtranger to it, ſo I believe ſhe had, or might have her failings in that time. The temptations of Honour, Riches, Proſperity, and Youth are ſtronger than moſt imagine; and therefore prayed David, Remember not the ſins of my youth, Pſal. 25. 7. and all that are honourable may pray, Remember not the ſins of my Honour, Nobility, and Greatneſs in the world. For my part I ſhall not take notice of theſe things, or of thoſe times, but rather ſpeak of her redeeming the Time, ſince that time that forſaking the World in great meaſure, ſhe gave up her ſelf in a more retired and ſolitary way to ſerve her God.

Now then if here I begin, She hath for theſe many years redeemed her Time; as thus, 1. In Life. 2. In Death.

1. In Life, it will appear in her general and particular Calling.

For the firſt, ordinarily every Morning and every Evening ſhe was exerciſed in thoſe Duties of Meditation and Prayer: This was her courſe, not by fits and ſtarts, but daily in her daily Walks or private Chamber, ſhe ſpent both her early and later hours in Communion with God. Nor ſpeak I this by report only, for of her goodneſs and bounty ſhe was pleaſed every Spring to invite me to her Houſe, and by this means I was acquainted with her conſtant Courſe. Indeed I was the more willing to embrace her welcom, becauſe her Houſe ſeemed to me as a Colledge for Religion, or as a retirement from the noiſes and more frequent Temptations of the World; and this gave her and me, and all that pleaſed, an happy opportunity to continue our Devotions without interruption. Some Books ſhe had for Contemplation, others for an Holy Converſation, others for Meditation, others for Devotion; of all ſorts ſome, and of all theſe ſorts ſhe made ſome uſe; but of all Books for conſtant uſe and practice ſhe preferred the Bible, telling me often, that other Books had their uſe and delight, till with often reading they became more ordinary, and then they ſeemed to loſe of their former luſtre, glory, and excellency; but the Bible was in her often reading ever freſh, and green, and new: She found in it ſtill ſuch perpetual ſtreams of holy, heavenly, and ſpiritual Delights, that (as Tertullian ſaid,) ſhe could not but admire and adore the fulneſs of the Scriptures.

2. Ordinarily ſhe ſpent the reſt of the day in her works of the needle, with her Maids about her: Or if other things of Houſwifery had interpoſed, ſhe was never ſo tranſported with Honour, as to ſcorn her Duty in the way of a particular Calling. Well ſhe had learnt that idleneſs was the ruſt and canker of the Soul, the Devil's Cuſhion, Pillow, chief Repoſal, his very Tide-time of Temptation; and therefore with conſcience and faithfulneſs, ſhe was diligent in her paricular, as well as general Calling. Now and then ſhe would have viſited poor Cottages, and relieved their Neceſſities; but ever was ſhe courteous to the Neighbourhood, and careful in the Affairs of her own Houſe. Take all together, and for ought I know ſhe might be a pattern to moſt of the Ladies in our Nation, or at leaſt as a bright Morning-Star amongſt other Stars.

2. She redeemed her Time in Death, or near her Death; now indeed ſhe was taken off her particular Calling, and therefore this time ſhe ſpent (as ſhe could for ſickneſs,) in the Exerciſe of ſpiritual Duties, and ſpiritual Graces. For Duties ſhe was much in them, of which we ſpake before; and for Graces ſhe ſhined, and was moſt eminent in ſuch as theſe. As —

1. In Meekneſs. She was of a meek and quiet Spirit: Seldom have I ſeen her exorbitant in Paſſions, but often have I ſeen her amidſt Provocations, quiet, meek, gentle, and eaſie to be intreated. In her Sickneſs ſhe carried it as a Lamb; not a word of Paſſion or Peeviſhneſs iſſued out of her Lips, ſo far as I obſerved. The very Image of Chriſt was, in this reſpect, drawn fair within her, Learn of me, for I am meek, Mat. 11. 29. Chriſt, a meek Chriſt, and ſhe a meek Creature.

2. In humility. She was of high deſcent, and ſprung of Royal Blood, yet humble in heart, and lowly in ſpirit. She never ſcorned the pooreſt Creature, but often ſtooped to wonderful condeſcentions, as I conceived. In her Sickneſs as well as Death, ſhe laid her Honour in the Duſt. She was far from the opinion of them that think Humility a debaſement, and Meekneſs a derogation from their Repute; no, no, ſhe had otherwiſe learned of Chriſt; Humility was her Ornament, and therewith ſhe decked her ſelf (in the Apoſtles Language, 1 Pet. 5. 5.) or cloathed her ſelf, both in health and in ſickneſs, when ſhe could put on no other cloathing. Hence ſhe was ſtiled by ſome, The humble harmleſs Lady.

3. In patience, ſubmiſſion, and contentedneſs of Spirit, to be at God's diſpoſal. She had a ſore Sickneſs, and becauſe of her former Health it was to her the ſorer. Of many years before ſhe had not lain ſick in Bed one day, but many a turn had ſhe took in her Walks and Gallery, and through much exerciſe in that way, ſhe had the advantage both of her Health and Communion with God; but now the Lord laid her on a Bed of Sickneſs, not for a day, or two, or three, or four, but for a long while together. She that before had walked with God, was now God's Priſoner; and ſuch was the nature of the Sickneſs, that ſhe could not ſtir nor move one foot, yet was ſhe patient and ſubmiſſive to God's Hand; ſhe kiſſed the Rod, ſhe learnt the Churches Leſſon, I will bear the indignation of the Lord, becauſe I have ſinned againſt him, Micah 7. 9. She never murmured nor repined one whit, but as ſhe was taught, ſo ſhe learnt and conformed to that frame of Eli and David, Lord, here am I, do with me as ſeems good in thine own eyes.

4. In Faith. She was ever and anon, during her Sickneſs, acting Faith, often ſhe acknowledged her own nothingneſs, vileneſs, wretchedneſs; that ſhe was of little Faith, and of no ability, in reſpect of her ſelf, to help her ſelf. Indeed her weakneſs in Faith, in Grace, and in all performances was her conſtant complaint; and this made me to mind her of that promiſe, that he would not quench the ſmoaking flax, nor break the bruiſed reed, until he brought forth judgment unto victory, Mat. 12. 20. Some others I have ſeen moſt confident in their Sickneſs of Salvation, whom though I dare not cenſure, becauſe unacquainted with their grounds; yet I ingeniouſly acknowledge, that I like dearly of an humble, trembling, ſelf-condemning Frame. Sure I am, that they who are vileſt in their own eyes, are perſons in whom God moſt delighteth. I remember how Paul in Scripture beſpattered himſelf; but are not thoſe Paſſages his Beauty-ſpots? Give me a man amongſt you that will lick the duſt of Jeſus's Feet; and I dare ſay of ſuch a one, that Chriſt will take him into his Arms, and lay him in his Boſom. It was her condition, ſhe was all in confeſſion of her ſpiritual Poverty, yet ſhe caſt her ſelf into the bleſſed bleeding Arms of Jeſus Chriſt; yea, ſhe lay at his Feet, crying, Lord, I believe, help thou my unbelief: And again, I reſt upon Chriſt, and upon Chriſt alone for Heaven and Salvation: And again, Though the Lord ſlay me, yet will I truſt in him: And again, He hath delivered, and he doth deliver, and I truſt in him that he will deliver me ſtill: And again, Hold out Faith, and anon thou wilt come to Viſion. This laſt word, hold out Faith, was one of the laſt words ſhe ſpake on that laſt day of her life.

5. In her love to Miniſters. Her Heart was wholly ſet on Chriſt; and as a true ſign of it, ſhe loved Chriſt's Image, eſpecially in his Miniſters. And now I ſpeak my own loſs; amongſt others ſhe was pleaſed to caſt her Affections on the unworthieſt of all my Maſter's Meſſengers. In her life-time ſhe preferr'd me to this place; the Lord made her the firſt wheel of his Providence in bringing me hither, and it was ſome trouble to her Spirit, that I left this Paſtoral Charge before ſhe left the World. Indeed ſhe honoured all the Miniſters of Chriſt, yea the very Function it ſelf for Chriſt his ſake. Oh how will ſhe riſe up in judgment at the laſt day, againſt thoſe that make it their work to reproach, vilifie, and contemn the diſpenſers of God's Word.

6. In her love and charity towards all. Many Diſcords have been in theſe ſad times, and ſhe hath ſuffered much in many reſpects, yet in her Approaches near to the Confines of Eternity, I deſired her to forgive others, as ſhe deſired God to forgive her; at which ſhe proclaimed it very affectionately, that She freely forgave all the World; and ſhe deſired all whom ſhe had offended to forgive her. Her Children then kneeling about her, ſhe gave them a Bleſſing, as Jacob gave to Joſeph and his Children; this Bleſſing was pronounced with that chearfulneſs, heartineſs, and fervency of Spirit, that it melted Hearts, and cauſed a Flood of Tears round about her Bed; inſomuch that ſhe was forc'd to rouze up her ſelf, and to beſpeak them, as Chriſt did thoſe weeping Women, Weep not for me, but weep for your ſelves; why ſhould you weep for me that am going to my Chriſt, and to thoſe joys prepared by Chriſt? And then ſhe gave a charge; the ſubject of it was a Relative, reſpective Duty to be performed by Brethren; it concern'd him moſt who was the beginning of her ſtrength, or the excellency of her power, Gen. 49. 3. and ſo far as Juſtice or Religion calls, I preſume it will never be forgotten by him.

7. In her deſire to die, and to be with Jeſus Chriſt, which was beſt of all. Sometimes ſhe cried, Oh when will that good hour come! And again ſometimes, Oh that I were diſſolved, that I might be with Chriſt! But telling her of her Duty, that ſhe muſt wait, for waiting was a poſture fit for ſervants, Pſal. 123. 2. Behold, as the eyes of ſervants look unto the hand of their Maſters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her Miſtreſs, ſo our eyes wait upon the Lord our God until he have mercy upon us. Why then (ſaid ſhe) I will wait, why Lord, I will wait until my change ſhall come. Only ſhe minded that promiſe, Heb. 10. 37. For yet a very little while, and he that ſhall come will come, and he will not tarry. One thing was her trouble, ſhe was afraid that her ſtrong heart would not yield without much ſtrugling to the ſtroke of Death; of this ſhe told me and others once and again; her reaſons were beſt known to her ſelf, but ſhe propheſied truly; for indeed, when Death came to her Heart, ſhe uttered ſuch Groans, that ſhe out-groaned all our Prayers. At laſt Death by degrees overcame the ſtrength of Nature, and then ſhe calmly and quietly left the World in the midſt of our Prayers; juſt in that paſſage, that her Soul might be taken up by the Lord Jeſus Chriſt into the Bridegroom-Chamber.

You ſee now how ſhe redeemed the Time in life and death. As Chriſt ſaid to the Lawyer, ſo I ſay to you, Go thou and do likewiſe, Luke 10. 37. It is but a while that all of you have to live, and therefore I beſeech you improve Time, lay hold of every ſeaſon to get Heaven. Live every day as if it were your laſt on earth. Walk accurately, exactly, circumſpectly, not as fools, but as wiſe, Redeeming the Time, becauſe the days are evil.

TO THE Right Honourable
WILLIAM Earl of BEDFORD, Lord RUSSEL, Baron of THORNEHAUGH.

Right Honourable,

ONCE I made bold to prefix an Epiſtle to Your Honour, before my Book intituled Ultima, ſince which time, You have continued with increaſe Your wonted Favours. As the Sun that rejoyceth to run his race, and is unwearied after his many revolutions; ſo Year after Year, have You indefatigably expreſſed Your great Bounty, whereby both my Self and Family have been exceedingly refreſhed. As I cannot but in way of thankfulneſs acknowledge thus much; So I ſhall be a ſincere Remembrancer both of Your Honour; and Your neareſt Relations at the Throne of Grace.

My Lord, I have now compoſed this Work, containing a neceſſary Practice and high Privilege of every Chriſtian: it is by way of ſupplement to the other Duties ſet down in my Book call'd Media; but becauſe of my large handling it, I reſerved it for a Tract by it ſelf. Indeed of all other duties, I prefer it as the chief, and I exceedingly wonder that before this time, it hath not been undertaken by ſome abler Hand. Chriſtians ordinarily go to Prayer, Sacraments, Hearing, Reading, and Meditation of the Word; and ſometimes (though more ſeldom) they ſet on the exerciſe of other Duties, as ſelf-trial, ſelf-denial, the improving of experiences, the clearing of Evidences, extemporary and deliberate Meditation,&c. But in the mean time how is the main, the prime employment, even the Duty of Duties, of Looking unto Jeſus, wholy neglected? If many, or moſt have been ignorant of it hitherto, I think it is high time, to diſcover it to the ſleepy World; and it may be when day is clear, they will walk in the light, and bleſs God for finding out a way, wherein they may more immediately have commerce with Jeſus Chriſt. I could have wiſhed that others more able had appeared in this ſervice, in a particular handling of this excellent ſubject. I find it in print wiſh'd for by a godly Brother, where he complains, That Chriſt's Love had been ſo little ſtudied. Men have been very ſwift in ſearching after other Truths but ſlow in ſearching after this. An ample exact diſcovery of this Love of Chriſt, I ſay of this Love (in carrying on our Soul's Salvation from firſt to laſt) may well be ſet down among the deſiderata, the deſirable of Divines, it having been ſo little handled (unleſs in ſome parts or pieces) by any: Surely it is very ſad to think, that the knowledge of this Love of Chriſt (in a continued ſeries) being of ſuch neceſſary and high concernment hath been ſo little enquired into. O what a gallant Goſpel-deſign were it for ſome one who is acquainted with the Spirit in a large meaſure, to go over the whole Hiſtory of the Goſpel (of the everlaſting Goſpel of Jeſus) and to obſerve the Glorious ſhinings of the love of Chriſt to Believers in all! It would be precious if ſome would take it in hand, and perfect it to the purpoſe, but it is ſad to think it hath been neglected ſo long. As the Lord hath enabled, I have adventured; and if for my raſhneſs in not waiting any longer, to ſee if any Star of greater magnitude would have appeared, I muſt be cenſured, I fly to Your Honour for Patronage. Nor only for Patronage, but I humbly beg of You, and Yours, to peruſe and practiſe this ſlender Work; who can tell but ſome of the Golden Oil of Grace may come out of Jeſus Chriſt the true Olive-tree, even through theſe Pipes? And if ſo, Your own experiences will be ſatisfactory Anſwers to all other Cenſures. Sure I am in this Exerciſe (however the directions may be weak) You will find the advantage of lying at the well-head, and ſo You may drink more ſweetly than others that make uſe only of the ſtreams. That You (my Noble Lord) and Your Vertuous Lady, with Your Hopeful Iſſue, may receive Spiritual Good by this Treatiſe, and all other Helps which God's good Providence may put into Your Hands, is the hearty Prayer, My Lord,

Of Your Honours Thankful, Faithful,

Though very Unworthy, Servant,

ISAAC AMBROSE.

TO THE READER.

AMongſt all the Duties I formerly mentioned, I omitted one that now I look upon as Chief and Choice of all the reſt: This is the Duty I call Looking unto Jeſus, and if I muſt diſcover the occaſion of my falling on it, I ſhall do it truly and plainly, and in the ſimplicity of the Goſpel, as thus. In the Spring 1653. I was viſited with a ſore Sickneſs, and as the Lord began to reſtore my Health, it came into my thoughts what my Jeſus had done for my Soul, and what he was doing, and what he would do for it, till he ſaved it to the uttermoſt. In my conceptions of theſe things I could find no beginning of his actings, but in that Eternity before the World was made; nor could I find any end of his actings, but in that Eternity after the World ſhould be unmade; only betwixt theſe two Extremities I apprehended various Tranſactions of Jeſus Chriſt, both paſt, and preſent, and to come. In the multitude of theſe Thoughts within me, my Soul exceedingly delighted it ſelf, and that delight ſtirring up in me other Affections (for one Affection cannot be alone) I began to conſider of thoſe Texts in Scripture, which ſeemed at firſt to impoſe the working of my Affections on ſo bleſſed an Object, as a Goſpel-duty: Then I reſolved, if the Lord Jeſus would but reſtore my Health, and prolong my Life, I would endeavour to diſcover more of this Goſpel-duty, than ever yet I knew: And that my pains therein might not hinder my other neceſſary Labours, my purpoſe was to fall on this ſubject in my ordinary Preaching, wherein I might have occaſion both to ſearch into Scripture, ſeveral Authors, and my own Heart. In proceſs of time I began this Work, begging of God that he would help me to Finiſh, as he inclined me to Begin, and that all might tend to his Glory, and the Churches good. In the progreſs of my Labours I found a world of Spiritual Comfort, both in reſpect of the Object that I handled, Jeſus Chriſt, and in reſpect of the act, wherein conſiſted my duty to him, in Looking unto Jeſus. 1. For the Object, it was the very ſubject whereon more eſpecially I was bound to Preach; Chriſt in you the Hope of Glory (ſaid Paul to his Coloſſians) and he immediately adds, whom we Preach, Col. 1. 27, 28. and unto me, who am leſs than the leaſt of all the Saints, is this Grace given; what Grace? That I ſhould Preach among the Gentiles the unſearchable riches of Chriſt, Eph. 3. 8. Miniſters ought in Duty more abundantly to Preach Jeſus Chriſt. Dr. Sibbs is clear, that the Special Office of the Miniſtry of Chriſt is to lay open Chriſt, to hold up the Tapiſtry, and to unfold the hidden Myſteries of Chriſt: And therefore he exhorts that we ſhould labour to be always ſpeaking ſomewhat about Chriſt, or tending that way: When we ſpeak of the Law, let it drive us to Chriſt: When of Moral Duties, let them teach us to walk worthy of Chriſt: Chriſt, or ſomewhat tending to Chriſt, ſhould be our Theme, and Mark to aim at. Sibbs Cantic. p. 428. And I may feelingly ſay, it is the ſweeteſt ſubject that ever was Preached on; is it not as an ointment poured forth, whoſe ſmell is ſo fragrant, and whoſe ſavour is ſo ſweet, that therefore all the Virgins love him? Is it not comprehenſive of all Glory, Beauty, Excellency, whether of things in Heaven, or of things on Earth? Is it not a Myſtery ſweet and deep? Surely Volumes are written of Jeſus Chriſt, there is Line upon Line, Sermon upon Sermon, Book upon Book, and Tome upon Tome, and yet ſuch is the Myſtery (as one ſpeaks plainly) that we are all but as yet at the firſt ſide of the ſingle Catechiſm of Jeſus Chriſt: Yea, Solomon was but at What is his Name? And I fear many of us know neither Name nor Thing. It is a worthy ſtudy to make further and further diſcoveries of this bleſſed Myſtery, and it were to be wiſhed, that all the Miniſters of Chriſt would ſpend themſelves in the Spelling, and Reading, and Underſtanding of it. Look as ſome great point doth require the abilities of many Scholars (and all little enough when joined together) to make a good diſcovery thereof; ſuch is this high point, this holy, ſacred, glorious Myſtery, worthy of the pains of all the Learned; and if they would all bring their notes together, and add all their ſtudies together (which I have in ſome meaſure endeavoured in the following Treatiſe) they ſhould find ſtill but a little of this Myſtery known, in compariſon of what remains and is unknown; only this they ſhould know, Quod difficile intellectu, delectabile inquiſitu (as Bernard ſaid) That which is hard to underſtand, is delightful to be dived into; and ſo I found it. 2. For the act of looking unto Jeſus, as it is comprehenſive of knowing, deſiring, hoping, believing, loving, ſo alſo of joying. How then ſhould I but be filled with joy unſpeakable and glorious, whilſt I was ſtudying, writing, and eſpecially acting my Soul in the Exerciſe of this Looking? If there be any Duty on Earth reſembling the Duty of the Saints in Heaven, I dare ſay, this is it. Mr. Rutherford, in his Epiſtle to Chriſt dying, writeth thus, An act of living in Chriſt, and on Chriſt, in the acts of ſeeing, enjoying, embracing, loving, reſting on him, is that Noon-day Divinity, and Theology of Beatifical Viſion: There is a general aſſembly of immediately illuminated Divines round about the Throne, who ſtudy, lecture, preach, praiſe Chriſt night and day: Oh! what rays, what irradiations and dartings of intellectual fruition, beholding, enjoying, living in him, and fervour of loving, come from that face, that God-viſage of the Lord God Almighty, and of the Lamb that is in the midſt of them? And, oh! what reflections, and reachings forth of intellectual Viſion, embracing, loving, wondering, are returning back to him again in a circle of Glory? Now if this be the Saints Duty, who are perfect in glory; do not we imitate them, and feel ſomething of Heaven in our imitation, in our looking alſo unto Jeſus? I write what in ſome meaſure I have felt; and of which I hope to feel yet more; and therefore whoever thou art that readeſt, I beſeech thee, come, warm thy heart at this bleſſed Fire! O come, and ſmell the precious Ointments of Jeſus Chriſt! O come, and ſit down under his ſhadow with great delight! Oh! that all Men (eſpecially into whoſe hands this Book ſhall come) would preſently fall upon the practice of this Goſpel-art of looking unto Jeſus! If herein they find nothing of Heaven, my skill will fail me; only let them pray, that as they look to him, ſo virtue may go out of him, and fill their Souls.

Reader, One thing more I have to ſay to thee; if thou wouldeſt know how to carry on this Duty conſtantly, as thou doſt thy Morning, and thy Evening Prayer; it were not amiſs if every day, either Morning, or Evening, thou wouldſt take ſome part of it at one time, and ſome part of it at another time, at leaſt for ſome ſpace of time together. I know ſome, that in a conſtant daily courſe carry on in ſecret thoſe two neceſſary duties of meditation and prayer; what the ſubject matter of their meditation is, I am not very certain; only our experience can tell us, that be it Heaven, or be it Hell; be it Sin, or be it Grace, or be it what it will; if we be in exerciſe of the ſelf-ſame ſubject either conſtantly, or frequently, we are apt to grow remiſs, or cold, or formal; and the reaſon is, one thing tires quickly, unleſs that one be all: Now that is Chriſt, for He is All, Col. 3. 11. If then but once a day thou wouldſt make this Jeſus Chriſt thy ſubject to know, conſider, deſire, hope, believe, joy in, call upon, and conform unto, in his ſeveral reſpects of plotting, promiſing, performing thy Redemption in his Birth, Life, Death, Reſurrection, Aſcenſion, Seſſion, Interceſſion, and coming again; and that one of theſe particulars might be thy one days exerciſe, and ſo every day thou wouldſt proceed from firſt to laſt, in thus looking unto Jeſus, I ſuppoſe thou wouldeſt never tire thy ſelf; and why ſo? O there is variety in this matter to be looked unto, and there is variety in the manner of looking on it. Ex. gr. one day thou mighteſt act thy knowing of Jeſus, in carrying on the great work of thy ſalvation in his Eternity; the next day thou mighteſt conſider Jeſus in that reſpect; and the next day thou mighteſt deſire after Jeſus in that reſpect; and the next day thou mighteſt hope in Jeſus in that reſpect; and ſo on, till thou comeſt to the laſt day of the work, which beſides * the object handled at large in every period, (in thaſe very actings upon the object) would in all amount to the number of eighty one days, Now would not this variety delight? It is the obſervation of Mr. Lockyer, on Col. 1. 16. that an holy ſoul cannot tire it ſelf in the contemplation of Jeſus: How much leſs can it tire it ſelf in Looking unto Jeſus, which is far more Comprehenſive than contemplating of Jeſus? Come, try this Duty, and be conſtant in it at leaſt for eighty one days in one year, and ſo for eighty one days in every year during thy life; and then for thy Meditations on any other ſubject I ſhall not take thee quite off, but leave the remainder of the year, which is above three parts more, to thy own choice. If thou art ſo reſolved, I ſhall ſay no more, but the Lord be with thee, and if ſooner or later thou findeſt any benefit by this work, give God the Glory, and remember him, in thy Prayers, who hath took this pains for Chriſt's honour, and thy Souls good. So reſts

Thy Servant in Chriſt Jeſus,

* I ſuppoſe, the Reader will, at leaſt, once read over the whole book; and then for this conſtant daily exerciſe, during eighty one days in a year, I leave the object in every period to be read, or not read, as he pleaſeth; unleſs it may, in whole, or in part, conduce any thing to that one act of knowing Jeſus in ſuch or ſuch a reſpect.

LOOKING UNTO JESUS:

The firſt Book.

HEBR. 12. 2.

Looking unto Jeſus, the beginner, and finiſher of our Faith.

CHAP. I.

The Proem, Diviſion, and opening of the Words.

THE moſt excellent ſubject to diſcourſe, or write of, is Jeſus Chriſt. Auguſtin having read Cicero's works, commended them for their eloquence, but he paſſed this ſentence upon them, They are not ſweet, becauſe the name of Jeſus is not in them. And Bernard's ſaying is near the ſame; if thou writeſt it doth not reliſh with me, unleſs I read Jeſus there; if thou diſputeſt, or conferreſt, it doth not reliſh well with me, unleſs Jeſus ſound there. Indeed all we ſay is but unſavory, if it be not ſeaſoned with this ſalt. I determined not to know any thing among you (ſaith Paul) ſave Jeſus Chriſt, and him Crucified: he reſolved with himſelf before he Preached among the Corinthians, that this ſhould be the only point of knowledge that he would profeſs himſelf to have skill in, and that in the courſe of his Miniſtry he would labour to bring them to: this he made the breadth, and length, and depth, and height of his knowledge; yea doubtleſs (ſaith he) and I count all things but loſs, for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord: In this knowledge of Chriſt there is an excellency above all other knowledge in the World; there is nothing more pleaſing and comfortable, more animating and enlivening, more raviſhing and ſoul-contenting, only Chriſt is the ſum and center of all divine and revealed truths; we can Preach nothing elſe as the object of our faith, as the neceſſary element of our Souls ſalvation, which doth not ſome way or other either meet in Chriſt, or refer to Chriſt; only Chriſt is the whole of man's happineſs; the Sun to enlighten him, the Phyſician to heal him, the Wall of Fire to defend him, the Friend to comfort him, the Pearl to enrich him, the Ark to ſupport him, the Rock to ſuſtain him under the heavieſt preſſures; As an hiding place from the Wind, and a covert from the Tempeſt, as Rivers of Waters in a dry place, and as the ſhadow of a great Rock in a weary Land. Only Chriſt is that Ladder betwixt Earth and Heaven, the Mediator betwixt God and Man, a Myſtery which the Angels of Heaven deſire to pry, and peep, and look into. Here's a bleſſed ſubject indeed, who would not be glad to pry into it, to be acquainted with it? This is life eternal to know God, and Jeſus Chriſt whom he hath ſent: Come then, let us look on this Sun of righteouſneſs; we cannot receive harm, but good by ſuch a look; indeed by looking long on the natural Sun we may have our eyes dazled, and our faces blackned; but by looking unto Jeſus Chriſt, we ſhall have our eyes clearer, and our faces fairer; if the light of the eye rejoice the heart, how much more when we have ſuch a bleſſed object to look upon? As Chriſt is more excellent than all the World, ſo this ſight tranſcends all other ſights; it is the Epitome of a Chriſtians happineſs, the quinteſſence of Evangelical Duties, Looking unto Jeſus.

Dulces non ſunt, quia nomen Jeſu non eſt in illis. Aug.
Si ſcribas, non ſapit mihi, niſi legero ibi Jeſum, Si diſputes aut conferas, non ſapit mihi, niſi ſonuerit ibi Jeſum. Ber.

Phil. 3. 8.
Iſa. 32. 2.

Joh. 17. 3.
Prov. 15. 30.

In the Text we have the act and Object; the act in the Original is very emphatical, ἀφορῶντες εἰς; the Engliſh doth not fully expreſs it; it ſignifies an averting or drawing of the eye from one object to another; there are two expreſſions, ἀπο and εἰς; the one ſignifies a turning of the eye from all other objects; the other a faſt fixing of the eye upon ſuch an object, and only upon ſuch. So is it both a looking off, and a looking on. On what? That is the object, a looking unto Jeſus; a Title that denotes his mercy and bounty, as Chriſt denotes his office and function. I ſhall not be ſo curious as to enquire why Jeſus, and not Chriſt is nominated; I ſuppoſe the Perſon is aimed at which implies them both; only this may be obſerved, that Jeſus is the pureſt Goſpel Name of all other Names; Jeſus was not the dialect of the Old Teſtament; the firſt place that ever we read of this title as given to Chriſt, it is in Matth. 1. 21. Thou ſhalt call his name Jeſus, for he ſhall ſave his people from their ſins. Some obſerve that this Name Jeſus was given him twice; once till death, Matth. 1. 21. and afterwards for ever, Phil. 2. 10. the firſt was a note of his entering into Covenant with God to fulfil the Law for us, and to die for our ſins, the ſecond was a note of ſo meritorious a perſon, who for his humility was more exalted than any perſon ever hath been, or ſhall be. Firſt Jeſus was the humble name of his deſerving grace; now Jeſus is the exalted name of his tranſcendent dent glory: at firſt the Jews did Crucifie Jeſus, and his name; and the Apoſtle did then diſtruſt whether Jeſus was the true Jeſus; but now God hath raiſed him from the dead, and hath highly exalted him, and given him a name above every name, that at the Name of Jeſus every knee ſhould bow, of things in Heaven, and things in Earth, and things under the earth. Luke 24. 21. Phil. 2. 9, 10. My meaning is not to inſiſt on this Name in contradiſtinction to any other names of Chriſt; he is often called Chriſt, and Lord, and Mediator, and Son of God, and Emmanuel; Why Jeſus is all theſe; Jeſus is Chriſt, as he is the anointed of God; and Jeſus is Lord, as he hath dominion over all the World; and Jeſus is Mediator, as he is the reconciler of God and man; and Jeſus is the Son of God, as he was eternally begotten before all Worlds; and Jeſus is Emmanuel, as he was incarnate, and ſo God with us, Only becauſe Jeſus ſignifies Saviour, and this name was given him upon that very account, For he ſhall ſave his people from their ſins; I ſhall make this my deſign to look at Jeſus more eſpecially, as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation from firſt to the laſt. This indeed is the glad-tidings, the Goſpel, the Goſpel privilege, and our Goſpel Duty, Looking unto Jeſus.

CHAP. II. SECT. I.

The Duty of looking off all other things, confirmed and cleared.

1. Doctrine BUT firſt we muſt look off all other things; the note is this: We muſt take off our minds from every thing, which might divert us in our Chriſtian Race from looking unto Jeſus, Ἀφορῶντες, the firſt word, or firſt piece of a word in my Text ſpeaks to us thus, hands off, or eyes off from any thing that ſtands in the way of Jeſus Chriſt. I remember 'twas writ over Plato's door, μὴ τὶς ἐ γηώμετερ εἴσιτω, there's none may come hither that is not a Geometer; but on the door of my Text is written clean contrary, μὴ τὶς ὁ γηώμετερ εἴσιτω, No earthly minded man muſt enter here: nor any thing in the world, be it never ſo excellent, if it ſtand in the way of Jeſus Chriſt, is to be named the ſame day; we muſt not give a look or ſquint at any thing that may hinder this fair and lovely ſight of Jeſus.

Gen. 10. 7. Thus was the Lords charge to Lot, look not behind thee; he was ſo far to renounce and deteſt the lewdneſs of Sodom; as that he muſt not vouchſafe a look towards it.

Iſa. 17. 7, 8. At that day ſhall a man look towards his maker, and his eyes ſhall have reſpect to the holy one of Iſrael; and he ſhall not look to the Altars, the works of his hands. This was the fruit of Gods chaſtiſement on the Elect Iſrael, that he ſhould not give a look to the Altars, leſt they diverted, or drew his eyes from off his Maker.

2 Cor. 4. 18. We look not at the things which are ſeen, but at the things which are not ſeen, ſaith Paul. A Chriſtians aim is beyond viſible things. O when a ſoul comes to know what an eternal God is, and what an eternal Jeſus is, and what an eternal Crown is; when it knows that great deſign of Chriſt to ſave poor ſouls, and to communicate himſelf eternally to ſuch poor creatures, this takes off the edge of its deſires as to viſible temporal things, what are they in compariſon?

1. Queſtion. But what things are they we muſt look off in this reſpect? I anſwer, — 1. Good things. 2. Evil things.

1. Good things. The Apoſtle tells us of a cloud of witneſſes in the former verſe, which no queſtion in their ſeaſon we are to Look unto. But when this ſecond object comes in ſight, he ſcatters the cloud quite, and ſets up Jeſus himſelf; now the Apoſtle willeth us Ἀφορᾷν, to turn our eyes from them, and to turn them hither to Jeſus Chriſt; q. d. If you will indeed ſee a ſight once for all, look to him: the Saints, though they be guides to us, yet are they but followers to him; he is the arch guide, the leader of them, and of us all, look on him. There is a time when James may ſay, take my brethren the Prophets who have ſpoken in the Name of the Lord for an example; James 5. 10. but when Jeſus comes forth, that ſaid, I have given you an xeample; John 13. 5. an example above all examples, then be ſilent O all fleſh before the Lord. Zech. 2. 13. Let all Saints and Seraphims then cover their faces with their wings, that we may look on Jeſus, and let all other ſights go.

2. Evil things, 1. In general, 2. In ſpecial.

1. In general, we muſt look off all things that are on this ſide Jeſus Chriſt, and ſo much the rather, if they be evil things; in a word, we muſt look off all ſelf; whether it be ſinful ſelf, or natural ſelf, or religious ſelf; in this caſe we muſt draw our eyes off all theſe things.

2. In ſpecial, we muſt look off all that is in the World; and that the Apoſtle comprizeth under three heads, the luſts of the eyes, the luſts of the fleſh, and the pride of life; (1.) Pleaſures, Profits, and Honours. 1 John 2. 16.

1. We muſt look off this world in reſpect of its ſinful pleaſures; Jude tells us, ſuch as are ſenſual have not the ſpirit: Jude 18. 19. we cannot fixedly look on pleaſures, and look on Jeſus at once. Job tells us, that they that take up the Timbrel and Harp, and rejoice at the ſound of the Organ, that ſpend their days in mirth, Job 21. 12, 13, 14, 15. are the ſame that ſay unto God, depart from us, for we deſire not the knowledge of thy ways; what is the Almighty that we ſhould ſerve him? and what profit ſhould we have if we pray unto him? We have a lively example of this in Auguſtine's converſion; he would indeed have had Chriſt, and his pleaſures too; but when he ſaw it would not be, Oh what conflicts were within him. In his Orchard (as he ſtories it in his book of confeſſions) all his pleaſures paſt repreſented themſelves before his eyes, ſaying What, wilt thou depart from us for ever? and ſhall we be no more with thee for ever? O Lord (ſaith Auguſtin, writing this confeſſion) turn away my mind from thinking that which they objected to my ſoul! What filth? What ſhameful pleaſures did they lay before my eyes? At length after this combate, a ſhower of tears came from him, and caſting himſelf on the ground under a Fig-tree, he cries it out, O Lord, how long, how long, ſhall I ſay, to morrow to morrow? Why not to day Lord, why not to day? Why ſhould there not be an end of my filthy life even at this hour? Immediately after this he heard a voice as if it had been a boy or girle ſinging by, take up and read: take up and read; and thereupon opening his Bible that lay by him at hand, he read in ſilence the firſt Chapter that offered it ſelf, wherein was written, Let us walk honeſtly as Rom. 13. 13, 14.

De mittesne nos & à momento iſto non erimus tecum ultra in æternum? Aug. in lib. confeſſ. Et tu Domine uſquequo? quam diu, quam diu, cras & cras? quare non modo? quare non hac hora finis eſt turpitudinis meæ? Aug. ibid. Tolle & lege: tolle & lege. Idem ibid.

in the day, not in rioting and drunkenneſs, not in chambering and wantonneſs, not in ſtrife and envying; but put ye on the Lord Jeſus, and make not proviſion for the fleſh to fulfil the luſts thereof. Further then this ſentence I would not read (ſaith Auguſtine) neither indeed was it needful; for preſently, as if light had been poured into my heart, all the darkneſs of my doubtfulneſs fled away. His eye was now taken off his pleaſures, and for ever after it was ſet on Jeſus.

2. We muſt look off this world in reſpect of its ſinful profits: a look on this keeps off our looking unto Jeſus. Whoſoever loveth the world, the love of the Father is not in him; juſt ſo much as the world prevails in us, ſo much is God's love abated both in us, and towards us: ye adulterers and adultereſſes (ſaith James) know ye not that the friendſhip of the World is enmity with God? Covetouſneſs in Chriſtians is ſpiritual adultery; when we have enough in God and Chriſt, and yet we deſire to make up our happineſs in the creature, this is plain whoring. Now there are degrees in this ſpiritual whoredom: as, — in. 2.

1. The minding of this world; ye know there may be adultery in affection, when the body is not defiled; unclean glances are a degree of luſt: ſo the Children of God may have ſome worldly glances, ſtragling thoughts, when the temptation is ſtrong, the world may be greatned in their eſteem and imagination.

2. The ſeting of the heart upon the world; this is an higher degree of this ſpiritual adultery: our hearts are due and proper to Chriſt: now to ſet them on the world, which ſhould be chaſt and loyal to Jeſus Chriſt, what adultery is this? Ye cannot ſerve God and Mammon: that Woman that is not contented with one huſband, muſt needs be an harlot. Mat.6.24.

3 The preferring of the world before Chriſt himſelf. This is the height of covetouſneſs, and the height of this adultery; what, to make the members of Chriſt the members of an harlot? Why worldlings! thoſe admiring thoughts are Chriſts, thoſe pains are Chriſts, that love is Chriſts, that time, that care, that earneſtneſs is Chriſts, they are are all Chriſts; and will you give that which is Chriſts unto the world? and prefer the world before Chriſt with his own? What, live as profeſſed proſtitutes, that prefer every one before their huſbands? how will this expoſe you to the ſcorn of Men and Angels? at the laſt day they will come pointing, and ſay, This is the man that made not God his ſtrength, but truſted in the abundance of his riches; this is the Gadaren that loved his ſwine more than Chriſt Jeſus. Love not the world, ſaid John. Chriſt is never precious in mans apprehenſion, ſo long as the world ſeems glorious to him. As we begin to reliſh ſweetneſs in Chriſt, ſo the world begins to be bitter to us: the more ſweetneſs we taſte in the one, the more bitterneſs we taſte in the other.

;2. 7.

3. We muſt look off the world in reſpect of its ſinful honours: what is this honour but a certain inordinate deſire to be well thought of or well ſpoken of, to be praiſed, or glorified of men? as if a man ſhould run up and down ſtreets after a feather flying in the Air, and toſſed hither and thither with the guſts and blaſts of infinite mens mouths; it is a queſtion whether ever he get it; but if he do, it is but a feather; ſuch is this pride of life, honour, vain-glory, it is hard to obtain it, but if obtained, it is but the breath of a few mens mouths, that alter upon every light occaſion; but that which is worſt of all, it hinders our ſight of Jeſus Chriſt, not many wiſe men after the fleſh, not many mighty, not many noble are called; worldly honour keeps many back from Chriſt; and therefore Moſes when he was come to years, refuſed to be called the ſon of Pharoahs daughter; —— eſteeming the reproaches of Chriſt greater riches than all the Treaſures of Egypt. If the blind Man in the way to Jerico had depended on the breath, or liking, or approbation of the multitude, he had never received the benefit of his ſight; for they (ſaith the text) which went before, rebuked him that he ſhould hold his peace; they diſſwaded him from running and crying ſo vehemently after Chriſt; experience tells us, how theſe things pull and draw us off from Jeſus Chriſt, the luſts of the eyes, the luſts of the fleſh, and pride of life.

But why muſt we look off every thing that diverts our looking unto Jeſus. Queſt. 2.

1. Becauſe we cannot look fixedly on Chriſt, and ſuch things together, and at once; the eye cannot look upwards and downwards, at once in a direct line; we cannot ſeriouſly mind Heaven and Earth in one thought; no man can ſerve two Maſters, ſaith Chriſt, eſpecially ſuch as jar, and who have contrary imployments, as Chriſt and Mammon have. Mat.6.24.

2. Becauſe whiles we look on theſe things, we cannot ſee the beauty that is in Chriſt: ſuppoſe a ſquint look on Chriſt, whilſt we have a direct look on other things; alas! Chriſt will be of no eſteem that while; this was the voice of ſinners concerning Chriſt, he hath no form, nor comelineſs; and when we ſee him, there is no beauty that we ſhould deſire him. Indeed beauty is the attractive of the ſoul, the ſoul muſt ſee a beauty in that which it lets out it ſelf to in deſiring: but our wiſhing looks on other things, makes Chriſt but mean and contemptible in our eyes. Iſa.53.2.

3. Becauſe all other things in compariſon of Chriſt, are not worthy a look; they are but as vile things, as under-things, as poor, and low, and mean, and baſe things, in compariſon of Chriſt: I count all things but loſs (ſaith Paul) for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord. —— I count them but dung that I may win Chriſt, σκύβαλα, ſome tranſlate it chaff, others Dogs-meat, others excrements, dung; all agree, it is ſuch a thing as men uſually caſt away from them with ſome indignation. Phil.3.8.

3. Becauſe it is according to the very law of marriage; therefore ſhall a man forſake father and mother, and cleave to his wife; the Lord Chriſt marries himſelf to the ſouls of his Saints. I will betroth thee unto me for ever; I will betroth thee unto me in righteouſneſs, and in judgment, and in loving kindneſs, and in mercies: and for this cauſe the ſoul muſt forſake all, and cleave unto Chriſt; as married Wives uſe to do, we muſt leave all for our huſband the Lord Jeſus; Hearken, O daughter, and conſider, and encline thine ear, forget alſo thy own people, and thy fathers Houſe. Gen.2.24. Hoſ.2.19. Pſ.45.10.

5. Becauſe Chriſt is a jealous Chriſt; now jealouſie is a paſſion in the ſoul, that will not endure any ſharing in the object beloved; the woman that hath a jealous huſband, muſt leave all her old companions: if ſhe caſt any amorous looks or glances after them, the huſband will be jealous, and Jealouſie is cruel as the Grave. Cant.8.6. Exod.20.5.

Chriſtians, our God is a jealous God, our Chriſt is a jealous Chriſt; He cannot endure, that we ſhould look on any other things, ſo as to luſt after them.

6. Becauſe all other things can never ſatisfie the eye; Eccleſ. 1. 8. all things are full of labour (ſaith Solomon) man cannot utter it, the eye is not ſatisfied with ſeeing; it is but wearied with looking on divers objects, and yet ſtill deſires new ones: but once admit it to behold that glorious ſight of Chriſt, and then it reſts fully ſatisfied. Hence it is that the Daughters of Zion are called to come forth; Cant. 3. 11. Go forth, O ye daughters of Zion, and behold king Solomon with the Crown wherewith his Mother hath crowned him in the day of his eſpouſals, and in the day of the gladneſs of his heart. Go forth, O ye daughters of Zion, lay aſide all private and earthly affections, and look upon this glory of Chriſt. As the daughters of Jeruſalem, ſitting or remaining in their chambers, cloſets, houſes, could not behold the glory of King Solomon paſſing by, and therefore they were willed to come forth of their doors: even ſo, if we will behold the great King, Jeſus Chriſt, in his moſt excellent glory (a ſight able to ſatisfie the Eye, and to raviſh the Heart) we muſt come out of our Doors, we muſt come out of our ſelves, otherwiſe we cannot ſee his Glory, we are in our ſelves ſhut up in a dark dungeon, and therefore we are called upon to come forth into the clear light of faith, and with the Eyes of Faith to behold in daily meditation, the glory of Chriſt Jeſus.

SECT II.

An Exhortation to look off all other things.

ONe word of Exhortation, Chriſtians! I beſeech you look off all other things, eſpecially all evil things. I know I am pleading with you for an hard thing; I had need of the Rhetorick of an Angel, to perſwade you to turn your eyes from off theſe things; nay, Gen. 9. 17. if I had, all were too little, it is God only muſt perſwade Japhet to dwell in the tents of Shem; and yet let me offer a few conſiderations, venture at a perſwading of you, and leave the iſſue with God.

1. Conſider, that all other evil things are Pſ. 39. 5. in Gods account as very nothing; verily, every man at his beſt eſtate is altogether vanity; not only man, but every man; nor every man in his worſt condition, but every man at his beſt eſtate; nor every man: man at his beſt eſtate is little worth, but every man at his beſt eſtate is vanity, emptineſs, nothing; it may be ſo in part, nay, but in every part, he is wholly, totally, altogether vanity; would any man think, that a great, rich, honourable Man, whom we look upon with ſuch high admiring thoughts, ſhould be laid thus low in Gods eſteem? O wonder, wonder! and yet 'tis no ſuch wonder, but one day you ſhall find the experience of this truth your ſelves. Pſ. 76. 5. Rich men have ſlept their ſleeps, and none of the men of might have found their hands. Or as others render it, they have found nothing in their hands; that is, rich men have paſſed over this life as men do paſs over a ſleep, imagining themſelves to have golden mountains and rocks of diamond; but when they awake at the day of death, they find themſelves to have nothing. Why Chriſtian, wilt thou ſet thine eyes upon that which is not? 1. Obſerve that riches are not; they are nothing, thoſe things that make men great in Prov. 23. 5. the eyes of the world, are nothing in the eyes of God. 2. Obſerve that God would not have us ſo much as ſet our eyes upon them, they are not objects worth the looking on. 3. Obſerve with what indignation he ſpeaks againſt thoſe that will ſet their eyes upon theſe vanities, Wilt thou ſet thine eyes upon a thing which is not? q. d. what a vain, unreaſonable, ſottiſh, ſenſleſs thing is this?

2. Conſider that all ſuch things (if they are any thing) they are but trifles, deceits, thorns, miſeries, uncertain things: this is an ordinary theme; it is every man's object, and every man's ſubject, and a very eaſie thing it is, to declaim up the vanity, miſery, uncertainty of the creatures! Ay but do you make it the matter of your meditation, and be you ſerious in it, think of it deeply, and deſire God to be in your thoughts! Oh what work will it then make in your breaſts? O how would it wean your loves and deſires off all theſe things! Chriſtians! conſider all theſe adjuncts of all ſublunary things; when the creatures tempt you, be not inticed by the beauty of them, ſo as to forget their vanity; ſay, Here is a flower, fair, but fading; here is a glaſs that's bright, but very brittle.

3. Conſider the difference of theſe objects, Chriſt, and all other things; as thus, all other things are vanities, but Chriſt is a real, ſolid, ſubſtantial, excellent, glorious thing; all other things are temporary, fading things, but Chriſt is an enduring ſubſtance, the ſame yeſterday, and Rev. 1. 4. to day, and for ever, which is, and which was, and which is to come: all other things are thorns, vexation of ſpirit, but Chriſt is full of joy and comfort, a moſt raviſhing object, all compoſed of loves, or altogether lovely. O who would Can 5. 16. make it his buſineſs to fill his coffers with pibbles, when he may have pearls, or gold, or ſilver, or precious things? what, muſt you look off your ſins? why, ſee before you the graces of the Spirit of Chriſt? muſt you look off your idle ſinful company? ſee before you the 1 John 1. 3. fellowſhip of the Father, and the ſon, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt? muſt you look off your pomp and glory? ſee before you the privilege of adoption, you ſhall be called the ſons and daughters Rom 8. 13. of God, heirs and co-heirs with Chriſt: muſt you look off your worldly riches? ſee before you the riches of the graces of Chriſt: muſt you look off ſinful pleaſures? ſee before you fulneſs of joy, at Chriſt's right hand are pleaſures evermore: muſt you look off your own righteouſneſs? Pſ. 16. 11. ſee before you the righteouſneſs of Chriſt Jeſus. O what a vaſt difference is there betwixt theſe objects, Chriſt, and all other things?

4. Conſider that Chriſt looked off Heaven and Heavenly things for you, how much more ſhould you look off the earth and earthly things, the world and worldly things for him? Chriſt left the glory, the company, the pleaſures of Paradiſe for you, and he made himſelf of no re- 2 Cor. 8. putation, he nothing'd himſelf (as it were) for you; you know the grace of our Lord Jeſus chriſt, who though he was rich, yet for your ſakes he became poor, that you through his poverty might be made rich. O let that melting love win you to him, and wean you off all other things!

5. Conſider that the rational ſoul of man is of too high a birth to ſpend its ſtrength upon other things? the ſoul of man is of the ſame nature with Angels; is it a kind of divine ſpark; now if a man have a goldon mill, he would not uſe it to grind dirt, ſtraws, and rotten ſticks in; the ſoul, the mind, the thinking faculty of Man is too high to be exerciſed in the things of this earth; the ſoul is of a moſt excellent capacious nature, it is fit to converſe not only with Angels, but with the eternal God himſelf; with Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt; it is of a tranſcendent being; put all the world into the ballance with it, and it is nothing in compariſon; the ſoul of the meaneſt gally ſlave is more precious than Heaven and Earth, than Sun, and Moon, and Stars and all the hoaſt of Heaven; now if a mans Soul be of ſuch an high-born nature, if the Lord hath put ſuch a ſpirit into the boſom of man for him to beſtow the ſtrength of it upon low, baſe, mean, and earthly things, Oh what an evil is this?

6. Conſider how ſhort is the time that you have here in this World: this is the argument of the Apoſtle, becauſe the time is ſhort therefore let us uſe the World as if we uſed it not; 1 Cor. 7. 29, 31. therefore let our hearts be taken off theſe things; yet a few days, and you ſhall be here no more; time paſſeth on, many hundred diſeaſes are ready to aſſault you; you that are reading, hearing, talking or walking, you muſt very ſhortly be carried on mens ſhoulders, and laid in the duſt, and there left to the Worms in darkneſs and Corruption; you are almoſt there already; it is but a few days, or months, or years, and what is that when once they are gone and paſt; and Oh what is a man profited, Mat. 16. 26. if he gain the whole World, and then loſe his Soul?

7. Conſider the great account that you are to give of earthly things: it is the Sin of moſt of the ſons of men to look on creature comforts, but they conſider not the account they muſt give for them. Oh here's a prevailing motive to take off your eyes! Conſider the laſt accounts; what if you were now to die, and to go the way of all fleſh, and then to make up your reckoning, what good would it do you to remember all thoſe contentments and pleaſures you once enjoyed upon the earth; If the factor, after many years ſpent in foreign Countries, at laſt returns home with this bill of accounts, thus much for ſinging, ſo much for dancing, this for courting, that for feaſting, who would not blame him for ſo fond a reckoning; Oh it will be a ſad reckoning if the bill come in, that you have ſpent moſt of your time in looking and gazing upon earthly things.

1. STudy every day more and more the vanity of the creature: Read over the Book of Eccleſiaſtes well; it is enough, through the aſſiſtance of Chriſt, to teach you that leſſon, A ſerious and fruitful meditation of that word, vanity of vanities, ſaith the Preacher, vanity of vanities, all is vanity, Eccleſ. 2. 2. what work might it make in your hearts; men uſually look on theſe things through ſome falſe glaſs, or at a diſtance, which makes them ſo admire them; but if they could ſee them truly in themſelves, oh how uncomely would they be? or if they could ſee them as compared to Chriſt, oh how vain would they be? honours and greatneſs in that reſpect would appear as bubbles; pleaſures and delights in that reſpect would appear as ſhadows.

2. Converſe but a little with any evil thing on this ſide Chriſt: have as little to do with the World, the ſinful pleaſures, profits, riches, manners of it, as poſſibly you can; the leſſer the better; things of this World have a glutinous quality, if you let the heart lie any while amongſt them, it will cleave unto them, and if it once cleave to them, there will be no way but either Repentance or Hell fire muſt part them.

3. Be more and better acquainted with Jeſus Chriſt; get nearer to him, be more in Communion with him, get more taſts of Chriſt and Heaven, and earth will reliſh the worſe for them. Oh when I look on Chriſt, and conſider, that he that was the Lord of Heaven and Earth, put himſelf into ſo poor and low a condition, meerly for the redeming his Elect, how ſhould this but deaden my heart to the world? Phil. 3. 8. I account all things but loſs for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord, and account them but dung that I may win Chriſt. If Chriſt be in view all the world then is but dung and droſs, and loſs in compariſon; the Glory of Chriſt will darken all other things in the World.

4. Set before you the Examples of ſuch Saints, who accounted themſelves pilgrims and ſtrangers upon earth. The Apoſtle gives you a Catalogue of ſuch, who confeſſed that they were ſtrangers and pilgrims on the earth, and ſee how they are uſed, Heb. 11. 12. 37. 38. they were ſtoned, they were ſawn aſunder, were temped, were ſlain with the ſword, they wandred about in ſheep-skins, and Goats-skins, being deſtitute, afflicted, tormented; who were theſe? They were they of whom the World was not worthy. Oh when you read, or hear how joyfully theſe ſervants of the moſt high went through their wilderneſs condition, methinks this ſhould take off your hearts from earthly things.

5. Go in your meditations to Heaven, and keep there a while: the mind that is in Heaven cannot attend theſe earthly things; would a Man leave his plough and harveſt in the field to run with Children a hunting after butter-flies; No more will a ſoul that is taking a ſurvey of heaven and heavenly things, fix his eyes on ſuch poor things below: non vacat exiguis, &c. is the character of a truly prudent Man; the Children of that Kingdom above have no while for trifles, and eſpecially when they are imployed in the affairs of the Kingdom. O when a Chriſtian hath but a glimpſe of eternity, and then looks down on the World again, how doth he contemn and vilipend theſe things; How doth he ſay of laughter, Eccleſ. 2. 2. thou art mad, and of mirth, what is this thou doeſt? Whilſt the Saints are taſting Heaven, they feel ſuch ſweet that they care not for other things: Chriſtians! how ſhould this meditation wean your hearts? and make you laugh at the fooleries of the World? and ſcorn to be cheated with ſuch childiſh toyes? If the Devil had ſet upon Peter in the Mount, when he ſaw Chriſt in his transfiguration, and Moſes and Elias talking with him, would he ſo eaſily have been drawn to deny his Lord? What, with all that Glory in his eyes? So if the Devil ſhould ſet upon a believing Soul, and perſwade his heart to profits, or pleaſures, or honours of the World, when he is taken up in the Mount with Chriſt, what would ſuch a Soul ſay? Get thee behind me Satan, would'ſt thou perſwade me from hence with many trifling toys? Would'ſt thou have me ſell theſe joys for nothing? Is there any honour or delight like this? Or can that be profit, which loſeth me this? Some ſuch anſwer would the Soul return. Oh if we could keep the taſte of our Souls continually delighted with the ſweetneſs of Heaven; as a man would ſpit out aloes after honey, ſo ſhould we ſpit out all theſe baits of the World with diſdain.

6. Cry mightily unto God, that he would take off your heart and eyes, turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity, prays David; either God muſt do it, or you will be wearied in the multitude of your endeavours; but if the Lord draw off the eye, it will be drawn indeed. Incline my heart unto thy teſtimonies, and not to covetouſneſs, prays David again. If the heart bend downwards, then go to God to erect it, and to incline it Heaven-wards; If it be after covetouſneſs, then cry to God, and ſay, Lord, not after covetouſneſs, but after thy teſtimonies incline my heart.

Pſal. 119. 36.

I have hitherto ſtood only at the door of the Text to call you in; if now you will enter, and be intent and fix your eyes, I'll ſhew you a bleſſed, a moſt glorious ſight. But firſt I muſt explain the act, you muſt look.] Secondly, the object, you muſt look on Jeſus.]

CHAP. III. SECT. I.

An Explanation of the Act and Object.

1. FOr the Act, you muſt look]. Looking is either ocular, or mental.

Firſt, for ocular viſion, there may be ſome uſe of that in Heaven, for there we ſhall look on Jeſus; with theſe eyes ſhall I behold him, ſaith Job; and we ſhall ſee him as he is, ſaith the Apoſtle; now we ſee him, as in a glaſs, but then we ſhall ſee him face to face. But till then we muſt walk by faith, and not by ſight.

Job 19. 27.
1 Joh. 3. 2.
1 Cor. 13. 12.
2 Cor. 5. 7.

Secondly, for mental viſion, or the inward eye, that is it that will take up our diſcourſe, and that is it which the Apoſtle ſpeaks of in his prayers for the Epheſians, that the eyes of their underſtanding may be opened, that they may know, &c. * Now the excellency of this mental ſight is far above the ocular ſight; for there are more excellent things to be ſeen by the eye of the mind, than by the eye of the body; we only ſee a piece of the creation by the eye of the body, but the mind reacheth every thing that is in it, yea the mind reacheth to him that made it; God is inviſible, and yet this eye ſees God; it is ſaid of Moſes, that he ſaw him that is inviſible. 2. It is the ſight of the mind that gives light and vigour to the ſight of the eye, take away the inward light, and the light of the external ſenſe is but as darkneſs and death. 3. It is the ſight of the mind that looks into the worth, uſe, &c. propriety of any thing preſented; the eye can ſee a thing but not the worth of it; a beaſt looks on gold as well as a man, but the ſight and knowledge of the worth of it is by the internal light of the mind, ſo the eye can ſee a thing but not the uſe of it; a Child looks on a tool in the hand of a workman, but the ſight and knowledge of the uſe of it is only by a man of reaſon that hath internal light to judge of it: and ſo the eye can ſee a thing, but not the propriety of it; a beaſt looks on his paſture, but he likes it not becauſe it is his, but becauſe it is a paſture, and well furniſhed. Now we know that the worth, and uſe, and propriety of a thing, are the very cream of the things themſelves, and this the eye of the mind conveys, and not the eyes of the body. It is ſaid of Joſeph, that he ſaw his brethen, and knew them, but they knew not him: this was the reaſon why Joſeph was ſo exceedingly taken at the ſight of his Brethren, that his bowels wrought with joy, and a kind of compaſſion towards them, but they were before him as common ſtrangers, though they ſaw Joſeph their Brother a Prince, yet they were taken no more with the ſight of him than of any other man, becauſe they knew him not.

Epheſ. 1. 18.
* Simmonds ſight and faith.

Heb. 11. 27.

Gen. 42. 7, 8.

Again, this mental looking is either notional and theoretical; or practical and experimental; the firſt we call barely the look of our minds; it is an enlightning of our underſtandings with ſome meaſure of ſpeculative ſight in ſpiritual and Heavenly Myſteries: the ſecond we call the look of our minds and hearts, whereby we not only ſee ſpiritual things, but we are * affected with them; we deſire, love, believe, joy, and embrace them. To this purpoſe is that rule, that words of knowledge do ſometimes ſignifie the affections in the heart, and the effects thereof in our lives: And this was the look which Paul longed for, that I may know him, and the power of his Reſurrection; (i. e.) that he might have experience of that power, that it might ſo communicate it ſelf unto him, as to work upon him to all the ends of it. And this was the look that Bernard preferred above all looks. In reading of Books (ſaith he) let us not ſo much look for ſcience, as ſavorineſs of truth upon our hearts. This I pray (ſaid the Apoſtle) that your love may abound yet more and more, in knowledge, and in all judgment; (i. e.) in knowledge and feeling. And certainly this feeling, this experimental Looking on Jeſus, is that my Text aims at; it is not a ſwimming knowledge of Chriſt, but an hearty feeling of Chriſt's inward workings; it is not heady notions of Chriſt, but hearty motions towards Chriſt, that are implied in this inward looking.

Phil. 1. 9.

2. For the Object, you muſt look on Jeſus.] It is the bleſſed'ſt object that the eye of the mind can poſſibly fix upon; of all Objects under Heaven, Jeſus hath the preheminence in perfection, and he ſhould have the preheminence in our Meditation. It is he that will make us moſt happy when we poſſeſs him, and we cannot but be joyful to look upon him, eſpecially when looking is a degree of poſſeſſing. —— Jeſus, for the name ſignifies Saviour; it is an Hebrew name; the Greeks borrowed it from the Hebrews, the Latines from the Greeks, and all other Languages from the Latines: It is uſed five hundred times in Paul's Epiſtles, ſaith Genebrard: it comes from the Hebrew word Jehoſhua, or Joſhua, which in the Books of Ezra and Nehemiah (written after the Babylonian captivity) is Jeſhua, and ſo is our Ezra. 5. 2.

Nehem. 8. 17.

our Saviour's Name always written in the Syriack tranſlation of the New Teſtament. This name Jeſus was given to Chriſt the Son of God, by his Father, and brought from Heaven by an Angel, firſt to Mary, and then to Joſeph; and on the day when he was circumciſed (as the manner was) this name was given him by his Parents, as it was commanded from the Lord, by the Angel Gabriel. Luke 1. 26, 31. Not to ſtand on the Name, for the matter it includes both his office, and his natures: he is the alone Saviour of Man, Act.4.12. for there is none other name under Heaven given among men, whereby we muſt be ſaved, and he is a perfect and an abſolute Saviour; Heb.7.25. he is able to ſave them to the uttermoſt, that come unto God by him, ſeeing he ever liveth to make interceſſion for them. I will not deny, but that the work of ſalvation is common to all the three perſons of the Trinity; it is a known rule, All outward actions are equally common to the three perſons; Opera trinitatis ad extra ſunt indiviſa. for as they are all one in Nature and Will, ſo muſt they be alſo one in Operation; the Father ſaveth, the Son ſaveth, and the Holy Ghoſt ſaveth; yet we muſt diſtinguiſh them in the manner of ſaving; the Father ſaveth by the Son, the Son ſaveth by paying the ranſom and price of our ſalvation, the Holy Ghoſt ſaveth by a particular applying of that ranſom unto Men: Now whereas the Son pays the price of our redemption, and not the Father, nor the Holy Ghoſt, therefore in this ſpecial reſpect he is called our Saviour, our Jeſus, and none but he.

This object, though contained in a word, is very comprehenſive; herein is ſet forth to our view, the offices of Chriſt, the two Natures of Chriſt, the qualities of Chriſt, the excellencies of Chriſt: O what variety of ſweet matter is in Jeſus? Cant.3.6. he hath in him all the powders of the merchants; an holy Soul cannot tire it ſelf in viewing Jeſus; we know one thing tires quickly, unleſs that one be all; which ſo is Chriſt, and none elſe, Col.3.11. he is all, and in all, all belonging to being; and all belonging to well-being; in things below Jeſus, ſome have this excellency, and ſome have that, but none have all, and this withers contemplation at the root; contemplation is Soul recreation, and recreation is kept up by variety; but, O what variety is in Jeſus? variety of time, He is Alpha, and Omega; variety of beauty, he is white and ruddy: variety of quality, he is a Lion and a Lamb, a Servant and a Son; variety of the excellency in the World, he is Man, and God. O where ſhall we begin in this view of Jeſus? Iſa 53.8. Who ſhall declare his Generation? or who ſhall count and reckon his Age? all the Evangeliſts exhibit unto us the Saviour, but every one of them in his particular method; Mark deſcribes not at all the genealogy of Jeſus, but begins his Hiſtory at his Baptiſm; Matthew ſearcheth out his Original from Abraham; Luke follows it backwards as far as Adam; John paſſeth further upwards, even to the eternal Generation of this Word that was made fleſh: ſo they lead us to Jeſus, mounting up four ſeveral ſteps; in the one we ſee him only among the men of his own time; in the ſecond he is ſeen in the Tent of Abraham; in the third he is yet higher, to wit, in Adam; and finally having traverſed all ages, through ſo many generations, we come to contemplate him in the beginning, in the boſom of the Father, in that eternity in which he was with God before all Worlds: and there let us begin, ſtill Looking unto Jeſus, as he carries on the great work of our ſalvation from firſt to laſt, from everlaſting to everlaſting.

Sect. 2. The main Doctrine, and confirmation of it.

BUT for the foundation of our building take this Note. ——

Doct. 2. Inward experimental looking unto Jeſus, ſuch as ſtirs up affections in the heart, and the effects thereof in our life, it is an Ordinance of Chriſt; a choice, an high Goſpel-ordinance.

Or thus,

Inward experimental knowing, conſidering, deſiring, hoping, believing, loving, joying, calling on Jeſus, and conforming to Jeſus, it is a complicate, folded, compounded Ordinance of Jeſus Chriſt.

I need not much to explain the point, you ſee here is an Ordinance, or a Goſpel duty held forth; many other Duties we have elſewhere deſcribed, but this we have kept for this place; and the rather for that this is a choice Duty, compounded Duty, an high Goſpel-ordinance. No queſtion but Watchfulneſs, Self-trial, Self-denial, Experiences, Evidences, Meditation, Life of Faith, &c. do well in their place and order; yet as Oars in a boat, (though it be carried with the tyde) may help it to go faſter; it is Jeſus lifted up, (as Moſes lifted up the Serpent,) which ſtrikes more ſoundly into the beholder, than any other way. Looking unto Jeſus, is that great Ordinance appointed by God for our moſt eſpecial good. How many Souls have buſied themſelves in the uſe of other means, and though in them Chriſt hath Communicated ſome vertue to them, yet becauſe they did not trade more with him, they had little in compariſon? ſuch a one as deals immediately with Chriſt will do more in a day, than another in a year, and therefore I call a choice, a compleat, a complicate, an high Goſpel Ordinance. Now what this Ordinance is, the Text tells you, it is a Looking unto Jeſus.

1. Jeſus is the Object; and Jeſus,* as Jeſus, as he is our Saviour, as he hath negotiated, or ſhall yet negotiate in the great buſineſs of our ſalvation. Looking unto, is the act; but how? it is ſuch a Look as includes all theſe acts, knowing, conſidering, deſiring, hoping, believing, loving, joying, enjoying of Jeſus, and conforming to Jeſus. It is ſuch a look as ſtirs up affections in the heart, and the effects thereof in our life; it is ſuch a look as leaves a quickning and enlivening upon the ſpirit; it is ſuch a look as works us into a warm affection, raiſed reſolution, an holy and upright converſation. Briefly, it is an inward, experimental Looking unto Jeſus.

* I ground this on all the Texts jointly as on Iſa. 45. 22. Iſa. 65.1. Micah 7.7. Zach. 12. 10. Numb.21. 8. John 3.15. Heb.12.2. Phil. 3.20. 2 Cor. 3. 18. Mat.1.21, &c.

For confirmation of the point; this was the Lord's charge to the Gentiles of old, Iſa.45.22. Look unto me, and be ye ſaved all the ends of the Earth. Iſa.65.1. —— And I ſaid, behold me, behold me, unto a Nation that was not called by my Name. And according to this command was their practice; Pſ. 25.15. Pſ. 34.5. Mine eyes are ever towards the Lord, ſaith David, and they looked unto him, and were lightned, and their faces were not aſhamed. —— Thus in the Goſpel, Heb.12.3. after this command, Looking unto Jeſus, it follows, Conſider him that hath endured ſuch contradiction of ſinners againſt himſelf. And according to this command is the practice of Goſpel-believers, We all with open face beholding as in a glaſs the Glory of the Lord, are changed into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord. Inſtead of the veil of Moſaical figures, God hath now given to his Church the clear glaſs of the Goſpel; and hence all believers under the Goſpel do by contemplative Faith, behold Chriſt, together with the glorious light of his mercy, truth, goodneſs, and the reſt of his Divine Attributes; and by means thereof they are made like unto him in the glory of Holineſs, and in newneſs of life.

2 Cor. 3. 18.

The reaſons why we are thus to Look unto Jeſus, will be as ſo many motives, which we ſhall reſerve to an uſe of Exhortation; but the reaſons why this looking unto Jeſus, is, 1. An Ordinance. 2. An Ordinance of Chriſt, may be theſe. ——

1. Why an Ordinance? here is only this reaſon, the Will of the Lord: Even ſo Father, for ſo it ſeemed good in thy ſight. Ordinances are certain impoſitions ſet forth by an external mandate of a Lawgiver, having Authority to command. It is the Will of Chriſt to impoſe this Law on all the ſons of Men, that they ſhould look up unto him; and concerning this, what have we to do to enquire into the reaſon? It is our Duty to obey, and not to know of him why he commands; if ἀυτὸς ἐφὴ was enough in Pythagoras his School, to put the buſineſs paſt diſputing amongſt his Scholars, I am ſure it ſhould be much more in Chriſt's School; we will therefore enquire no further reaſon for it.

2. Why an Ordinance of Chriſt? it is this; becauſe all ſpiritual Ordinances, Laws, Inſtitutions, do hold on Chriſt; it is not in the liberty of man to erect any new ſpiritual Ordinance in the Church of Chriſt. I will not deny, but the power of man may come in to order ſuch things, as are not proper, but rather common to the Church with other ſocieties, as to meet together in ſome place, and at ſome time, &c. according to that rule. Let all things be done decently, and in order; for this is not an inſtitution, but only the dictate of right reaſon. But when it comes up to an Ordinance, Law, Inſtitution, (i.e.) when ſomething more ſhall be put on the thing, than nature hath put on it, when by vertue of the inſtitution, there is conjoyned to it ſome kind of ſpiritual efficacy, to work upon the ſoul, this only holds on Chriſt. Hence, becauſe in the preaching of the Word, and in the adminiſtration of the Sacraments we expect a vertue, a ſpiritual efficacy, more than they have or can yield in any natural way, therefore we ſay, theſe are Ordinances of Chriſt, and ſo becauſe in Looking unto Jeſus, we expect a vertue, a ſpiritual efficacy, to go along together with it, more than nature can give it; therefore we call this an Ordinance, and an Ordinance of Chriſt, to diſtinguiſh it from all other Ordinances, Rules, Conſtitutions of men whatſoever.

Sect. 3. Uſe of Reproof.

Uſe 1. WELL then, is inward experimental looking unto Jeſus a choice, an high Goſpel-Ordinance? how may this reprove thouſands? how many are there, that mind not this Duty? the truth is, that as the whole World lies in wickedneſs, ſo the eyes of the whole World are miſplaced; there's few that have a care of this choice, of this high Goſpel-Ordinance: I ſhall therefore reprove both the ungodly, and godly.

1 John 5. 19.

1. For the ungodly, not God, nor Chriſt is in all their thoughts. Alas! they never heard of ſuch a Duty as this; they cannot tell what it means, to Look unto Jeſus. Nor ſpeak I only of poor Indians, and other Savages of the unchriſtian World, whoſe Souls are overclouded with the blackeſt miſts of irreligion, that the Prince of darkneſs can poſſibly inwrap them in, who came into the World, not knowing wherefore; and go out of the World, not knowing whither; an heavy caſe, which cannot ſufficiently be bewailed with tears of blood: But I ſpeak of ſuch as live within the Paradiſe of the Chriſtian Church, that have nothing to diſtinguiſh them from thoſe Indian miſcreants, but an outward conformity, outward formalities, the charity of others, and their own ſlight imaginations; why, alas! theſe are they that the Lord complains of, that they have eyes, and ſee not; My people have forgotten me, days without number, they have negligently ſuffered me to be out of their minds, and that for a long time. You will ſay, is there any ſuch here? Can I tax any of you, that you ſhould not Look up to Jeſus? are not your eyes towards Chriſt in your prayers, praiſe, ſoliloquies, publick and private Duties? Nay, are not you now in the Duty, whilſt I am ſpeaking, and you hearing?

Pſal. 10.4.

Jer. 2.32.

I anſwer, however you may deem that you do this or that; yet God reckons it as a thing not done in theſe reſpects. ——

1. When it's not done to purpoſe; as if our looking to Chriſt makes us not like Chriſt; a man may give a thouſand glances every day towards Chriſt, yet if there be no effectual impreſſion upon the heart, Chriſt takes it as if he had never looked towards him at all.

2. When it's done unwillingly. Sometimes men think of Chriſt, but they know not how to ſhun it; the Lord breaks in upon their ſpirits whether they will or no, whereas their own temper is to follow, and to purſue other objects: thus you drop into our aſſemblies out of cuſtom, or faſhion, or for ſome ſiniſter end, and here is Chriſt lifted up upon the pole, he is diſcovered in his beauties, graces, ſweetneſſes, excellencies; but when you ſee him, you ſay, he hath no form, nor comelineſs; there is no beauty that we ſhould deſire him. Let no man deceive himſelf; though he caſt his eyes towards Heaven all the day long, if he love not his work, he doth nothing, he Looks not at Jeſus.

Iſa. 53.2.
Iſa. 52.3.

3. When it's not done according to this rule, this is not to eat the Lord's Supper, ſaid Paul to his Corinthians; no queſtion they did eat it, but becauſe it was not done after its due manner, he ſaith, this is not to eat the Lord's Supper. Many think of Chriſt, and Look up to Jeſus, but becauſe their thoughts are not holy, awful and ſubjecting to the Spirit, in no way proportionable to the goodneſs and glory of the Son of God, they look looſely, careleſly, and carnally upon him, he therefore reckons it as not done: this is not to Look unto Jeſus.

1 Cor. 11. 20.

4. When a Man makes it not his courſe and trade to look unto Jeſus. A man may come unto a Carpenters houſe, and take up his tools, and do ſomething at his work, but this makes him not a Carpenter, becauſe it is not his trade. The beſt Saints ſin; yet becauſe it is not their trade and courſe, they are ſaid, not to ſin: whoſoever is born of God, ſinneth not. And ſo 1 John 5. 18. ungodly men may look, and muſe, and meditate, and think of Chriſt; but becauſe this is not their courſe and trade, they make it not their work to look to Chriſt, they are therefore ſaid, not to look to him.

Why how conſider, you that plead that you are Chriſtians, and that you mind Chriſt at this very inſtant, that you are in the Duty, even whilſt I am ſpeaking of it, and yet you neither do it to purpoſe, nor willingly, nor according to rule, nor as it is your trade; is it not with you, as it is with them of whom Chriſt ſpake; many will ſay to me at that day, Mat.7.22. Lord, Lord, have we not propheſied in thy name? and in thy name have caſt out devils? and in thy name have done many wonderful works? they will plead at the laſt day, as you plead now; but for all that, you know the anſwer, Verſ. 23. I never knew you, depart from me ye workers of iniquity. Surely Chriſt will ſay to you one day, I know you not, I was a ſtranger to you upon earth; I could not have an eye from you, but when your lazy idle ſpirits pleaſed: and now out of my ſight, I'll never own you, nor look upon you more.

2. For the godly, are not they careleſs of this Duty? O their excurſions from God! ſad dejections of ſpirit! inordinate affections of the World! and in the mean-while, O the neglect of this Goſpel-ordinance, even amongſt Saints themſelves! I know not whether, through want of ſkill, or through want of will; but ſure I am, this Duty lies dormant, neglected of moſt of the people of God: their faults I may expreſs in theſe reſpects.——

1. In not ſending out their underſtandings, in not pointing their minds toward Jeſus. I write unto you (ſaitd the Apoſtle) to ſtir up your minds, by way of remembrance, it is in the Original Pet.3.1. ſ. 57.8. ἐγείρειν, to awaken your pure minds; and it was but need. See how David calls upon himſelf, Awake my glory! and ſee how Deborah calls udge.7. 2. upon her ſelf, Awake, awake Deborah, awake, awake, utter a ſong. Awakeing is a word that imports rouzing, as birds that provoke their young ones by flight to make uſe of their wings; now, how few are there that thus call upon themſelves? it was the Prophets complaint, no man ſtirs up himſelf, to take hold of God. ſa. 64.7. O what a ſhame is this? is it fit that our underſtandings, which God hath entruſted us withal, ſhould be no more improved? is it fit that our minds (thoſe golden cabinets which God hath given us, to be filled with heavenly treaſure) ſhould either be empty, or ſtuft with vanity, nothing, worſe than nothing? O that ſuch glorious creatures as our Souls ſhould lacquey after every creature, which ſhould be in attendance upon Chriſt, which ſhould be like Angels, waiting and ſtanding in the preſence of our God? O that ſuch glorious things as our immortal ſpirits, ſhould run after vanity, and ſo become vain; which if rightly improved, ſhould walk with Angels, ſhould lodge themſelves in the boſom of the glorious God! Do we not ſee how Chriſt is ſending out to us continually? the thoughts of his heart are love, eternal love? and ſhall not we ſend out our thoughts towards him? ſhall not we let our minds run out towards him?

2. In not bending of their minds to this work. It may be the mind looks up, but 'tis ſo feeble, that like an arrow ſhot from a bow weakly bent, it reacheth not the mark. It is the wiſe mans counſel, Whatſoever thy hands findeth to do, do it with all thy might. Eccl.9.10. O that God's people ſhould be ſo lazie, dull, ſluggiſh, ſloathful, in this ſpiritual work? As Jeſus ſaid to the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderneſs to ſee? Mat.11.7. So may I ask believers in their looking unto Jeſus, What went ye out to ſee? when you crawl, and move, as if you had no hearts nor ſpirits within you, whom go ye forth to ſee? what, him that is the Lord of glory? what, him that is the brightneſs of his Fathers glory, and the expreſs image of his Perſon? Heb..3. what, are ſuch heavy and lazy aſpects fit to take in ſuch a glory as this is? you ſee in what large ſtreams your thoughts fly forth to other things, and are you only languiſhing, weak, and feeble in things of ſo great concernment? Oh that Chriſtians ſhould be cold in ſpirituals, and hot in the purſuit of earthly temporal things.

3. In not binding of their minds to this object, in not ſtaying the eye on Jeſus Chriſt. Some may give a glance at Chriſt, but they are preſently wheeled off again: but why doth not the eye abide there, at leaſt, till it come to ſome profitable iſſue? is not Chriſt worthy on whom our ſouls ſhould dwell? Certainly if we love our Jeſus, that love will hold us; Chriſt then will be in our thoughts, and minds, and we cannot off him: as the loadſtone having drawn the iron, it keeps it faſt to it ſelf; ſo if love draw our hearts, it holds it faſt to the object loved. Chriſt himſelf acknowledgeth ſuch an operation of love upon Cant.6.5. himſelf, Turn away thine eyes, for they have overcome me; thou haſt raviſhed my heart, my ſiſter, my ſpouſe, with one of thine eyes: Chriſt was held in the galleries, and captivated with love to his people, ſo that his eyes were ever upon them; nay he could not get his eyes off them, Iſa.49.14 Can a mother forget her Child? no more can I forget you; and is Chriſt ſo tender in his love towards us, that he ever minds us, and ſhall our minds be ſo looſe to him? ſo fluttering, and fleeting? ſhall there be no more care to bind our ſelves in cords of love to him, who hath bound himſelf in ſuch cords of love to us?

4. In not daily exerciſing this bleſſed Duty; it may be now and then they are awakened, and they get up into Heaven to ſee their Jeſus, but it is not daily. Oh conſider! Is this now & then going to Heaven within the vail, to live the life of friends? is this to carry our ſelves as Children? what, to be ſo ſtrange at home? but now and then, once in a month, in a year, there to be ſeldom, where we ſhould always be? is Jeſus Chriſt ſuch a mean thing, that a viſit now and then ſhould ſerve the turn? The Queen of Sheba hearing Solomon's wiſdom, 1 Kings 10.8. Oh ſaid ſhe, Bleſſed are thoſe thy ſervants that always ſtand before thee, and hear thy wiſdom; if ſhe were ſo taken with Solomon, remember that a greater than Solomon is here; and ſhall we deprive our ſelves of that bleſſedneſs, which we might enjoy by ſtanding always in the preſence of Chriſt, to hear his Wiſdom, and to behold his Glory?

Oh my Brethren, let us take ſhame to our ſelves, that to this day we have been ſo careleſs in ſending, bending, binding our minds to this bleſſed object, Jeſus Chriſt; yea, let us bluſh that we have not made it our daily buſineſs. Pſal. 1.2. David deſcribes the bleſſed man by his delighting in the law of the Lord, and by his meditating on that Law day and night; how then is he to be reproved, that neither meditates on the Law of the Lord, nor on the Lord, the Law-maker, day and night? O alas! we keep not a conſtant courſe, we are not daily in the exerciſe of viewing Jeſus; nay, I fear, we look upon this Duty of looking unto Jeſus, as a queſtionable thing; it ſeems to many as a Duty unknown, unheard of, unthought of, it is not in their notice, and how ſhould it be in their practice? But I leave this firſt Uſe.

Sect. 4. Uſe of Exhortation.

Uſe 2. IS inward, experimental Looking unto Jeſus, a choice, and high Goſpel-ordinance? One Uſe of Exhortation. 2 Cor. 10. 1. I beſeech you by the meekneſs and gentleneſs of Chriſt, Rom. 12. 1. I beſeech you by the mercies of God, I beſeech you brethren, for the Lod Jeſus Chriſt's ſake, and for the love of the Spirit, Rom. 15. 30. to look unto Jeſus; or if my beſeeching will not prevail, why yet look on me as an Embaſſador of Chriſt, conſider as though God did beſeech you by me. I beſeech, I pray you in Chriſt's ſtead; 2 Cor. 5. 20. it is a meſſage that I have from God to your ſouls, to look unto Jeſus; and therefore Deut. 32. 46. ſet your hearts, to all the words that I teſtifie to you this day, for it is not a vain thing, but it is for your lives.

O that I ſhould need thus to perſwade your hearts to look unto Jeſus! What is not your Jeſus worthy of this? Why then are your thoughts no more upon him? Why are not your hearts continually with him? Why are not your ſtrongeſt deſires, and daily delights in, and after the Lord Jeſus? What's the matter? Will not God give you leave to approach this light? Will he not ſuffer your Souls to Taſte and See? Why then are theſe words in the Text? Why then doth he cry, and double his cry, behold me, behold me? Ah vile hearts! How delightfully, and unweariedly can we think of vanity? How freely, and how frequently can we think of our pleaſures, friends, labours, luſts; yea, of our miſeries, wrongs, ſufferings, fears? and what, is not Chriſt in all our thoughts? It was ſaid of the Jews, that they uſed to caſt to the ground the book of Eſther before they read it, becauſe the name of God is not in it; and Auguſtine caſt by Cicero's writings, becauſe they contained not the name of Jeſus; Chriſtians! thus ſhould you humble and caſt down your ſenſual hearts, that have in them no more of Chriſt: O chide them for their wilful or weak ſtrangeneſs to Jeſus Chriſt! O turn your thoughts from off all earthly vanities, and bend your ſouls to ſtudy Chriſt, habituate your ſelves to ſuch contemplations as in the next Uſe I ſhall preſent; and let not thoſe thoughts be ſeldom or curſory, but ſettle upon them; dwell there, bathe your ſouls in thoſe delights, drench your affections in thoſe rivers of pleaſures, or rather in the ſea of conſolation. O tye your ſouls in heavenly galleries, have your eyes continually ſet on Chriſt! Say not, you are unable to do thus, this muſt be Gods work only, and therefore all our exhortations are in vain. * A learned Divine can tell you, though God be the chief diſpoſer of your hearts, yet next under him you have the greateſt command of them your ſelves: though without Chriſt you can do nothing, yet under him you may do much; or elſe it will be undone, and you undone through your neglect; do your own parts, and you have no cauſe to diſtruſt whether Chriſt will do his; it is not uſual with Chriſt to forſake his own people in that very work he ſets them on. —— Oh but we can do nothing: how nothing? What, are you neither ſpiritual nor rational creatures? If a carnal Miniſter can make it his work to ſtudy about Chriſt through all his life-time, and all becauſe it is the trade he lives by, and knows not how to ſubſiſt without it: why then methinks a ſpiritual Chriſtian ſhould do much more; if a Cook can labour and ſweat about your meat, becauſe it is the trade that maintains him, though perhaps he taſte it not himſelf; Methinks, you for whom it is prepared, ſhould take the pains to taſte its ſweetneſs, and feed upon it. Chriſtians! if your ſouls were ſound and right, they would perceive incomparably more delight and ſweetneſs in knowing, thinking, believing, loving and rejoycing in Jeſus Chriſt, than the ſoundeſt ſtomack finds in his food, or the ſtrongeſt ſenſes in the enjoyment of their objects. Now for ſhame never ſay, you cannot reach it. I can do all things (ſaith Paul) through Chriſt that ſtrengtheneth me. Phil. 4. 13. Oh it is our ſloath, our ſecurity, our carnal mind, which is enmity to God and Chriſt, that keeps us off. Be exhorted! Oh be exhorted in the fear of God!

* Baxto's Reſt.

Sect. 5. Motives from our wants in caſe of neglect.

TO quicken us to this Duty, I ſhall propound ſome moving conſiderations; Ponder and weigh them with an impartial judgement; who knows but through the aſſiſtance of Chriſt they may prove effectual with your hearts, and make you to reſolve upon this excellent Duty of Looking unto Jeſus.

Conſider {
1. Our wants in caſe of our neglect.
2. Our riches, in caſe we are lively in this Duty.

1. For our wants; if Chriſt be not in view, there is nothing but wants.

Suppoſe firſt a Chriſtleſs Soul, a poor creature without any beam or ray of this Sun of righteouſneſs, and what a ſad condition is he in? I may ſay of ſuch a one that ——

1. He is without light: there is no oyl of ſaving knowledge, no ſtar of ſpiritual light ariſing in his ſoul; ye were once darkneſs, ſaith the Apoſtle to his Epheſians: Eph. 5. not only dark, but darkneſs it ſelf; they were wholly dark, univerſally dark, having no mixture, nor glimpſe (whilſt without Chriſt) or ſpiritual light in them. Of ſuch carnal wretches ſaith our Saviour, they have not known the Father, nor me; Joh. 16. they have not known the Father in his Word, nor Me in my Natures, Offices, Sufferings, Exaltations, Communications: very miſerable is the carnal Mens Ignorance of God and Chriſt, he hath no ſaving knowledge of Chriſt.

2. Such a one is without Grace, without Holineſs; Chriſt is our wiſdom and ſanctification, 1 Cor. 1. 30. as well as righteouſneſs and redemption. Where Chriſt is not, there is no ſpiritual wiſdom, no inclination to the ways and works of ſanctification

3. Such a one is without contentation; the ſoul in this caſe finds nothing but emptineſs and vauity, in the greateſt abundance. Let a man have what the world can give, yet if he have not Chriſt, he is nothing worth; Chriſt is the marrow and fatneſs, the fulneſs and ſweetneſs of all our endowments; ſeparate Chriſt from them, and they are bitter, and do not pleaſe us; empty, and do not fill us.

4. Such a one is without any ſpiritual beauty; Iſa.1.6. there is nothing in him but ſores and ſwellings, and wounds and putrefaction; from the ſole of his foot, to the crown of his head, there is nothing in him but loathſom and incurable maladies; hence the greateſt ſinner is the fouleſt monſter; bodily beauty without Chriſt is but as green graſs upon a rotten grave; did man ſee his uncomelineſs and deformity without Jeſus Chriſt, he would ſtile himſelf as the Pro- Jer.20.3. phet ſtiled Paſhur, Magor-Miſſabib, fear round about, every way a terrour to himſelf.

5. Such a once is without peace: there is no true, ſpiritual, Heavenly peace, no joy and peace in the Holy Ghoſt without Jeſus Chriſt. Joram asking Jehu, Is it peace? was anſwered, 2Kings 9. 22. what haſt thou to do with peace? ſo long as the whoredoms of thy mother Jezebel, and her witchcrafts are ſo many? aChriſtleſs man asking, Is it peace, O Meſſenger of God? he can look for no other but Jehu's anſwer, What haſt thou to do, O carnal man with peace, ſo long as thy luſts are ſo ſtrong within thee, and thy eſtrangements from the Prince of peace, ſo great? The Soul that is without Jeſus Chriſt, is an enemy to the God of peace, a ſtranger to the Covenant of peace, uncapable of the Word of peace, an Alien to the way of Iſa.57.21. peace: there is no peace to the wicked, ſaith my God.

6. Such a one is without acceptation, with God the Father: Chriſt only is Gods beloved, and therefore as Joſeph's brethen might not look him in the face, unleſs they brought their brother Benjamin, ſo cannot we look God in the face with any confidence or acceptance, unleſs we bring Chriſt with us in the arms of our faith; without Chriſt, man is ſtubble, and God is a conſuming fire to deſtroy him; man is a guilty malefactor, and God a ſevere Judge to condemn him; the whole of man without Jeſus Chriſt is a very abomination in God's preſence.

7. Such a one is without life: he that hath not the Son, hath not life, ſaith John; Chriſt 1 John 5. 12. lives not in that ſoul, it is a dead ſoul, dead Eph.2.1. in ſins and treſpaſſes. As the dead ſee nothing of all that ſweet and glorious light which the Sun caſts forth upon them, ſo the dead in ſin have no confortable apprehenſion of Chriſt, though he ſhine in the Goſpel more gloriously than the Sun at noon. And as the dead know Eccleſ.9.5. not any thing; ſo the dead in ſin know nothing at all of the wiſdom of Chriſt guiding them, or of the holineſs ofChriſt ſanctifying them, or of the fulneſs of Chriſt ſatisfying them, or of the death of Chriſt mortifying their luſts; or of the reſurrection of Chriſt quickning their ſouls, or of the dominion of Chriſt reigning in their hearts. O what a miſery is this!

All this you may ſay is true to a Chriſtleſs ſoul; but what evil to him that may have a title to Chriſt, and yet minds not Chriſt, makes not uſe of Chriſt, doth not look unto Jeus.

Such a caſe I confeſs may be; yea as many Duties are neglected by ſome godly, ſo this main Duty is (I may tremble to think it) exceedingly neglected. But, O the ſin, and ſadneſs of thoſe Souls? O the wants attending ſuch poor creatures! Conſider them in theſe particulars.

1. They have not that wiſdom, knowledge, diſcerning of Chriſt, as otherwiſe they might have. By looking, and ſerious obſerving of Chriſt, we gain more, and more knowledge of Chriſt; but if we will not look, how ſhould we underſtand thoſe great myſteries of greace? nor ſpeak I only of ſpeculative knowledge, but more eſpecially of practical and experimental; without looking on Chriſt, we cannot expect that virtue ſhould go out of Chriſt; there is but a poor character or cognizance of Chriſt upon them that are ſuch; they have not ſo clear, and comfortable, and inward, and experimental a knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt.

2. They do not ſo taſte the goodneſs of Chriſt, as otherwiſe they might; Chriſt is no other unto them, whilſt neglected by them, but as an eclipſed Star, with whoſe light they are not at all affected; Chriſt is not ſweet to them in his Ordinances, they find not in them that delight and refreſhment, that comfort and contentment, which they uſually Miniſter: they cannot ſay of Chriſt as the Spouſe did, I ſate down under his ſhadow with great delight, Cant. 2.3. and his fruit was ſweet to my taſte; they are in the caſe of Barzillai, who could not taſte what he did eat, or what he did drink; nor could hear any more the voice of ſinging-men or of ſinging-women: ſo they cannot taſte the things of God, nor hear the ſpiritual melody which Chriſt makes to the ſouls of them that look up to him.

3. They have not that love to Chriſt, which Chriſt's beholders have; they meditate not upon Chriſt, as lovers on their love; they delight not themſelves in Chriſt, as the rich man in his treaſure, and the bride in the bridegroom, which they love; their thoughts are rather on the World than Chriſt; their pallates are ſo diſtempered, that they have no pleaſure in the choiceſt Wine, they cannot ſay that their ſouls long after him; and no wonder, for how ſhould they love Chriſt, who turn their eyes from him who is the faireſt of ten thouſands to other objects? Surely rhey have no flaming, burning love to Chriſt, that will give every baſe thing a kind of preheminence above Chriſt.

4. They have not that ſence of Chriſts love, which thoſe that exerciſe this Duty, have. Whilſt the ſoul neglects Chriſt, it cannot poſſibly diſcern the love of Chriſt; it perceives not Chriſt applying the Doctrines of his love to the conſcience: Chriſt appears not in his banqueting houſe, he enables not the ſoul to pray with confidence, he makes it not joyful in the houſe of prayer. And hence it is, that ſuch ſouls move ſo ſlowly in Gods ſervice; they are juſt like Pharaoh's Charriots, without wheels; O they preceive not the Love of Chriſt, either in the clear revelation of his ſecrets, or in the free communication of his graces, or in the ſanctifying and ſweetning of their trials, or in ſealing up the pardon of their ſins: O they feel not thoſe raviſhing comforts, which uſually Chriſt ſpeaks to the heart, when he ſpeaks from his heart in love. O the want! O the miſery of this want!

5. They have not that experience of the power of Chriſt, which they have that are in the exerciſe of this Duty. Would you know werein lies the power of Chriſt? I anſwer, in caſting down the ſtrong holds of ſin, in overthrowing Satan, in humbling mens hearts, in ſanctifying their ſouls, in purifying their conſciences, in bringing their thoughts to the obedience of Chriſt, in making them able to endure afflictions, in cauſing them to grow and encreaſe in all Heavenly graces; and this power they partake of, who rightly and experimentally look up to Chriſt. But if this Dtuy be neglected, there is no ſuch thing? hence we call this, the Duty of Duties, the chief Duty, the eſpecial Duty; and for all other Duties, Means, Ordinances, if Chriſt be not in them, they are nothing worth; In every Duty this is the eſſential part, that we look through all unto Jeſus; it is only from Chriſt, that virtue and Efficacy is communicated in ſpiritual Ordinances; there were many people in a throng about Chriſt, but the infirm woman that touched him, was ſhe alone that felt efficacy come from him; we ſee many attend the Ordinances, frequent the Aſſemblies, but ſome few only find the inward power of Chriſt derived unto their ſouls. They that neglect, or are groſly ignorant of this great myſtery of looking unto Jeſus, are no better than ſtrangers to the power of Chriſt.

6. They have not that ſence of the worth and excellency of Chriſt, that are unacquainted with this Duty; they are not ſo raviſhed with his Beauty, they are not ſo taken with the Sweetneſs and Pleaſantneſs of the Face of Chriſt; he is not the faireſt of ten thouſands in their eyes; and hence it is, that they do not take pleaſure, long after, delight or joy themſelves in Chriſt: indeed theſe affections are the Evidences of our high eſteem; they that rejoyce not in Chriſt, nor have any longings after Chriſt, they put a very unworthy price upon Chriſt.

7. They have not that ſenſe either of their own wants, or of the worlds vanity, who are not in the practice of this Duty. In this glaſs we ſee that man is blind, and no Sun but Chriſt can Enlighten him; that man is naked, and no garment but Chriſt's can cloath him; that man is poor, and no treaſure but Chriſt can make ſatisfaction for him; that man is empty, and none but Chriſt can can fill him; that man is diſtreſſed, perplexed, tormented, and none but Chriſt can quiet him. Why? all this and much more than this appears in this glaſs of Jeſus: the ſoul that looks here, cannot but comprehend an end of all other perfection; yea, the further it looks on the creature, the deeper and deeper vanities it diſcerns. But alas! there is no obſervation, no ſenſe, no feelling either of mans wants, or of the Worlds vanity, or of any ſuitable good in Chriſt, to them that are not in this Divine and Spiritual contemplation.

Sect. 6. Motives from our riches, in caſe we are lively in this Duty.

2. For our riches, in caſe we are lively in this Duty: Oh the bleſſed incomes to ſuch ſouls! we may reckon up here thoſe very particulars which the other wanted.

1. That Chriſt gives Light unto them; as the receiving of the Sun gives Light to the body, ſo the receiving of the Sun of Righteouſneſs gives light, a ſpiritual, Heavenly, and comfortable light to their ſouls.

2. That Chriſt gives grace and holineſs unto them; of his fulneſs we receive grace for grace. As the print upon the wax anſwers to the ſeal, or as the characters upon the Son anſwers to the Father; ſo there are certain ſtamps of the grace of Chriſt upon the Saints, that what good they do, it ſprings not from external motives only, as in hypocrites, but from Chriſt working in them an inward principle of new nature; and upon this account doth John tell us, the Law was given by Moſes, John 1.17. but grace and truth came by Jeſus Chriſt.

3. That Chriſt gives contentation or ſatisfaction unto them: as the pearl ſatisfied the Merchant in the Parable with treaſure, ſo Chriſt ſatisfieth the ſoul with wiſdom in the underſtanding, with the ſenſe of his love in the heart, with ſure and bleſſed peace in the conſcience; they that rightly look unto Jeſus, Luke 2. 32. may ſay as Jacob did, I have enough.

4. That Chriſt gives glory unto them; he is the glory of Iſrael, he is both the Author, and the matter of their glory; he is the glory of their juſtification, as the garment is the glory of him that wears it; he is the glory of their redemption, as the ranſomer is the glory of the captive: he is the glory of their ſanctification, as Jordan cleanſing him from his leproſie was the glory of Naaman; he is their all in all, in whom they glory, and to whom they 2Cor. 5. give all Honour, and glory, and power and praiſe. 19.

5. That Chriſt gives peace unto them, God is in Chriſt reconciling the World unto him- Eph.2.14. Acts 10. ſelf; he is the Author, and the World is the 36. object of this reconciliation. Chriſt is our peace; and peace is Preached by Jeſus Chriſt; they that hear Chriſt in the Word, or that look unto Chriſt by the eye of faith, they have this peace; for Chriſt only in Ordinances is the revealer, and procurer, and the worker of peace in all the Children of peace.

6. That Chriſt procures acceptation with God for them; he ſtands betwixt God and ſuch believers; and as they mind him, ſo he is ever mindful of them, pleading their cauſe, anſwering all the accuſations of Satan, and praying to his Father in their behalf.

7. That Chriſt gives life unto them; he that hath the Son hath life; he that hath Chriſt 1John 5. in his heart, as a root of life living in him, or 12. as a King ſetting up his throne within him, or as a Bridegroom betroathing himſelf in loving kindneſs to him, he hath life, the life of grace, and the earneſt of the life of glory.

8. That Chriſt gives wiſdom unto them, Chriſt hath in him all the treaſures of wiſdom, and therefore he that looks moſt to Chriſt is the wiſeſt man in the World; he that hath the Sun, hath more light than he that hath all other lights in the World, and wants the Sun.

9. That Chriſt gives a taſte of his goodneſs unto them; they cannot look unto him, but he makes them joyful with the feeling of himſelf and Spirit: and hence it is that many times they break out into Pſalms and Hymns, and Eph. 5.19. ſpiritual ſongs, and make melody in their hearts unto the Lord. O there is a goodneſs of illumination, regeneration, ſanctification, conſolation, contentation, pacification, and ſpiritual freedom flowing from Chriſt to the ſouls of his Saints, which to carnal men is a ſealed Well, whoſe waters their palates never taſted.

10. That Chriſt gives a ſincere and inward love of himſelf unto their hearts. No ſooner is their eye of faith looking unto Jeſus, but preſently their hearts is all on fire; ſuch a ſuitableneſs is betwixt Chriſt and their ſouls, as is betwixt the hearts of lovers; their love to Chriſt is like the love of Jonathan to David, a 2 Sam 1. 26 wonderful love, and paſſing the love of women, they love him as the bridegroom to whom their ſouls are married, as the choiceſt pearl by whom they are inriched, as the Son of conſolation, by whoſe beams their ſouls are comforted, as the fountain by whom their hearts are refreſhed, and their deſires every way ſatisfied.

11. That Chriſt gives the ſenſe of his own love to them; they cannot look on Chriſt, but they ſee him loving, and embracing their humble ſouls; they ſee him binding up their broken hearts; they behold him gathering to himſelf, and bearing in the boſom of his love, and comforting with the promiſes of his Word their wounded ſpirits; they behold him like Jacob ſerving in the heat and in the cold for Rachel, ſerving in manifold afflictions from his cradle to his croſs, to make a Spouſe unto himſelf.

12. That Chriſt gives the experience of his power to them; they that look on Chriſt, do feel the power of Chriſt inwardly in their ſouls, diſſolving the works of Satan, caſting down his Kingdom, and mighty holds within them, healing all their ſpititual maladies, ſuſtaining them in all afflictions, filling their ſouls with all Spiritual and Heavenly might, making them ſtrong in knowledge, and ſtrong in faith, and ſtrong in love, and ſtrong in motion, and coming to Chriſt, as a river of much waters is ſtrong in coming home to the Ocean.

13. That Chriſt gives the ſence of his own worth and excellency unto them, they ſee now in Chriſt is wiſdom ſurpaſſing the brightneſs of the Sun, even all the treaſures of wiſdom; in Chriſt is power excelling the ſtrength of rocks, he is not only ſtrong, but ſtrength it ſelf; in Chriſt is Honour tranſcending all the Kings of the earth, for he is King of Kings, and Lord of Lords; in Chriſt is beauty excelling the Roſe of Sharon, and Lily of the valleys, he is fairer than all the flowers of the field, than all the precious ſtones of the earth, than all the lights in the firmament, than all the Saints and Angels in the higheſt Heavens.

14. That Chriſt gives the ſenſe of their wants, and of the Worlds vanity, and of his ſuitable goodneſs unto them. In looking unto Jeſus they ſee themſelves in themſelves miſerable, and all other things miſerable comforters: they have learnt the meaning of that Pſalm, Put not your truſt in Princes, nor in the Son of Pſal. 146. 3,4. man, and in whom there is no help, his breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts periſh; happy is the man that hath the God of Jacob for his God, whoſe hope is in the Lord his God.

15. That Chriſt gives all things, every thing unto them. All things are yours (ſaith the Apoſtle) whether Paul, or Apollo, or Cephas, or 1 Cor. 3. 22,23. the World, or life, or death, or things preſent, or things to come, all are yours, and you are Chriſts, and Chriſt is Gods. All things are yours; firſt, all the Miniſters of Chriſt from the higheſt to the loweſt, whether Paul, or Apollo, or Cephas; they are your ſervants, they are men that watch over you for your ſalvation. Secondly, the World is yours; indeed the World ſtands but for your ſakes, if your number were but once compleated, quickly would the World be ſet on fire: you will ſay, ay! but how is the World ours? we find not this, for who hath the World at will? Why, though you have not, yet the miſery you find in the world, the want of wealth as well as the enjoying of it is yours, (i. e.) it tends to your advantage. Thirdly, life is yours, it is a fitting, a preparing, a ſquaring of you for a better life, even for eternity. Fourthly, death is yours; for you ſhall die juſt then when it is beſt for you, death ſhall ſerve but as a ſervant to your advantage. Fifthly, things preſent, and things to come, are 1 Tim. 4. 8. yours; godlineſs hath the promiſe of this life, and of that which is to come. Sixthly, I will add, the Lord himſelf is yours; take God, and look on him in his greatneſs, in his mighty power, even this great God, the Lord of Heaven and Earth, is yours, he is yours, and all that he hath is yours, and all that he doth is yours, and all that he can do is yours; I will be thine (ſaith God to Abraham) I will be to thee an exceeding great reward. Gen. 15.1. Here is a Catalogue, an Inventory of a Chriſtian's riches; have Chriſt and have all; when an Heathen was but asked, Where all his treaſure was, he anſwered, Where Cyrus my friend is: and if any ask you, Where all your treaſure is, you may anſwer, Where Chriſt your friend is; in this reſpect you may truly ſay, there is no end of your riches, they are called the unſearchable riches of Chriſt; Epheſ. 3.8. Paul could find no bottom of theſe riches; O who would not look unto Jeſus? If Chriſt be yours (beſides thoſe particulars enumerated in this Text (1 Cor. 3.22,23.) God is yours, the Father is yours, the Son is yours, the Spirit is yours, all the promiſes are yours; for in Chriſt they are all made, and for him they ſhall be performed. Come, let the proud man boaſt in his honour, and the mighty man in his valour, and the rich man in his wealth; but let the Chriſtian pronounce himſelf happy, only happy, truly happy, fully happy, in beholding Chriſt, enjoying Chriſt, having Chriſt, in Looking unto Jeſus.

You have the Motives of our wants, in caſe of neglect: and of our riches in caſe we are active, frequent, ſerious, and lively in this Duty. But for our further encouragement to fall upon it, I ſhall add a few Motives more.

1. COnſider your looking on Jeſus will maintain your Communion with Jeſus; and is not this worth the while? Why Chriſtians! what is this Communion with Chriſt, but very Heaven aforehand? hereby we enjoy his perſon, and all ſweet relation to his perſon, his death and all the ſaving fruits, privileges, and influences of his death; hereby we Cant.2.4. are brought into Chriſt's banqueting-houſe, held in his galleries, his banner over us being love; hereby we are carried up into the Mount with Chriſt, that we may ſee him (as it were) tranſfigured, and may ſay with Peter, Maſter, it is good for us to be here, and let us here build Tabernacles. Oh it's an happy thing to have Chriſt dwell in our hearts, and for us to lodge in Chriſt's boſom! O it's an happy thing to maintain a reciprocal communication of affairs betwixt Chriſt and our ſouls! as thus; he bare our ſins, take we his healing: he endured wounds for us, drink we the ſpiritual balſam that ſprang out of his wounds; he took upon him our unrighteouſneſs, do we cloath our ſelves with his righteouſneſs? he endured pains for us, come we to him, and take his reſt to our ſouls; he embraced our curſe and condemnation, do we embrace his bleſſing, juſtification, and ſalvation? To this end do we look on Jeſus, if he hide his face by deſertions, reſt not till we find him; if we find him, hold him faſt, let him not go, diſturb him not out of our hearts by our corruptions? Thus if we would prize the preſence of Chriſt, how comfortably ſhould we maintain and encreaſe our Communion with Chriſt?

2. Conſider, that your daily neceſſities call for a frequent looking unto Jeſus; you have need of Chriſt, you have need that he pray in you, and need that he pray for you to your Heavenly Father; you have need that he work in you, and need that he work for you his own bleſſed will; you have need that he preſent you and yours blameleſs before his Fathers preſence in life, and death, and at the judgment day; there's not a moment in your life, wherein you ſtand not in continual need of Jeſus Chriſt, And can a hungry man forget his bread? can the heart that pants for thirſt forget the River? can a man in bonds forget freedom? Can a Child in diſtreſs forget a Father in honour and wealth? Oh then let your neceſſities drive you to Chriſt; and mind you of Chriſt; Is he not the fountain that ſupplies all wants? Chriſtians! conſult your own Experiences; when you look up to Jeſus, and lean on Jeſus, are you not beſt at reſt? O then why do you not always reſt and lean upon him? ſometimes you ſay, his Bread is ſweet, and his Cup is pleaſant, how amiable is his Preſence? At ſuch a time you have never done wondering at him; O the ſweet impreſſions, that are even then on your ſpirits! why do you not then always look unto him? or at leaſt, why are you not frequent in his diſciples poſture, Act. 1.10. who looked ſtedfaſtly towards Heaven as Chriſt went up? How richly might your idle hours, and ſpare time be laid out here, to the ſupply of all neceſſities, bodily, or ſpiritual?

3. Conſider, that an eye, an heart on Chriſt, is one of your moſt unqueſtionable Evidences of ſincerity. Where your Treaſure is, there will Mat.6.21. your hearts be alſo. If Chriſt be your Treaſure, your hearts will be on Chriſt; and ſurely an heart ſet upon God in Chriſt is a true evidence of ſaving Grace. External actions are eaſieſt diſcovered, but thoſe of the heart are ſureſt Evidences: when thy learning will be no good proof of thy Grace, when thy arguments from thy tongue and hand may be confuted, yet then will this Argument from the bent of thy heart prove thee ſincere. Take a poor Chriſtian that hath a weak judgment, a failing memory, a ſtammering tongue, yet if his heart be ſet on Chriſt, I had rather die in this mans condition, and have my ſoul in his ſouls caſe, than in the caſe of him without ſuch an heart, though he had the moſt eminent gifts, and parts, and abilities of any in the world. Chriſtians! as you would have a ſure teſtimony of the love of God, and a ſure proof of your title to glory, labour to get your hearts ſet on Chriſt, O look on Jeſus. You may be ſure Chriſt will acknowledge that you really love him, when he ſees your hearts are ſet upon him.

4. Conſider, that your looking on Jeſus, will ſtrengthen patience under the Croſs of Chriſt. This is the very particular Motive of the Text, Let us run with patience the Race that is Heb. 12. 1,2,3. ſet before us, looking unto Jeſus, the Author and finiſher of our Faith, who for the joy that was ſet before him endured the Croſs, deſpiſing the ſhame, and is ſet down at the right Hand of the Throne of God; for conſider him that endured ſuch contradiction of ſinners againſt himſelf, leſt ye be wearied and faint in your mind. It is ſtoried of a Martyr, that having offered him a Cup of ſpirits to ſuſtain him, when he ſeemed to faint under his greateſt Trial, he returned this anſwer, My Lord and Maſter had Gall and Vinegar given him to drink; as if he had been aſtoniſhed to ſee himſelf fare better than Jeſus Chriſt. How may it ſtrengthen your patience in ſufferings to think of Chriſt's patience? What, are you ſerved ill? Ay, but Jeſus Chriſt was not ſerved ſo well; can you ſuffer ſo much as he hath done? I tell you nay. O then do you ſtay your murmurings and repinings, bear with patience the little you endure; and to this end, Conſider him that hath endured the contradiction of ſinners.

5. Conſider, that a through ſight of Chriſt, will encreaſe your inward joy in Chriſt; Your father Abraham rejoyced to ſee my day, and he Joh.8.56. ſaw it, and was glad. A right ſight of Chriſt, will make a right-ſighted Chriſtian glad at heart, I wonder not that you walk uncomfortably, if you never tried this Art of Chriſt-contemplation; can you have comfort from Chriſt, and never think of Chriſt? doth any thing in the World glad you, when you do not remember it? If you were poſſeſſed of all the Treaſure in the Earth, if you had title to the higheſt Dignities, and never thought of them, ſure they would never rejoyce you. Come look up unto Jeſus, fix your eyes, thoughts, and hearts on that bleſſed object, and then you may expect David's experience, my mouth ſhall Pſal. 63.5. praiſe thee with joyful lips, when I remember thee upon my bed, and meditate of thee in the night watches. A frequent acceſs to Chriſt in a way of meditation cannot but warm the ſoul in ſpiritual comforts. When the Sun in the ſpring draws near our part of the earth, how do all things congratulate its approach? the earth looks green, the trees ſhoot forth, the plants revive, the birds ſing ſweetly, the face of all things ſmiles upon us, and all the creatures below rejoyce: Chriſtians! if you would but draw near and look on this Son of righteouſneſs, Jeſus Chriſt, what a ſpring of joy would be within you? how would your Graces be freſh and green? how would you forget your winter ſorrows? how early would you riſe (as thoſe Birds in the ſpring) to ſing the Praiſe of our great Creator, and dear Redeemer.

6. Conſider that your eye on Jeſus will preſerve the vigour of all your Graces. As the body is apt to be changed into the temper of the Air it breaths in, and the food it lives on, ſo will your ſpirits receive an alteration according to the Objects which they are exerciſed about. You that complain of deadneſs and dulneſs, that you cannot love Chriſt, nor rejoice in his loves, that you have no life in Prayer, nor any other Duty, and yet you never tried this quickening courſe, or at leaſt you were careleſs and unconſtant in it; what, are not you the cauſe of your own complaints? ſay, is not your life hid with Chriſt in God? O whither muſt you go but to Chriſt for it? If you would have light and heat, why then are you not more in the Sun-ſhine? If you would have more of that grace which flows from Chriſt, why are you no more with Chriſt for it? for want of this recourſe to Jeſus Chriſt, your Souls are as candles that are not lighted, and your duties are as Sacrifices which have no fire; fetch one coal daily from this Altar, and ſee if your Offerings will not burn; keep cloſe to this reviving Fire, and ſee if your affections will not warm. Surely if there be any comfort of hope, if any flames of love, if any life of Faith, if any vigor of diſpoſitions, if any motions towards God, if any meltings of a ſoftned Heart, they flow from hence; Men are apt to bewail their want of deſire, and hope, and joy, and faith, and love to Jeſus Chriſt, whilſt this very duty would nouriſh all theſe.

7. Conſider, it's but equal that your hearts ſhould be on Chriſt, when the heart of Chriſt is ſo much on you. Chriſt is our Friend, and in that reſpect he loves us, and bears us in his heart; and ſhall not he be ours? Surely this is ill requital; this is a great contradiction to the Law of Friendſhip; But Chriſt is our Lord as well as Friend; and if the Lord of glory can ſtoop ſo low as to ſet his heart on ſinful duſt, one would think we ſhould eaſily be perſwaded to ſet our hearts on Jeſus Chriſt. Chriſtians! do you not perceive that the heart of Chriſt is ſet upon you! and that he is ſtill minding you with tender love, even when you forget both your ſelves and him? Do you not find him following you with daily mercies, moving on your Souls, providing for your bodies, and preſerving both! doth he not bear you continually in the Arms of love, and promiſe that all ſhall work together for your good? doth he not give his Angels charge over you, and ſuit all his dealings to your greateſt Advantage? and can you find in your hearts to caſt him by? can you forget your Lord, who forgets not you? Fie upon this unkind Ingratitude! When the Lord ſpeaks of his thoughts and reſpects to us, he gives this Language, Can a woman forget her ſucking-child, that ſhe ſhould not have compaſſion on the Son of her Womb? yea, they may forget, yet will not I forget. Behold I have graven thee upon the palms of my hands, thy walls are continually before me. Iſa.49.15, 16. But when he ſpeaks of our thoughts to him, the caſe is otherwiſe; can a Maid forget her Ornaments, or a Bride her Attire? yet my people have forgotten me days without number, q. d. Jer.2.32. you would not forget the cloths on your backs, you would not forget your braveries, your Ornaments, your Attires, and are theſe of more worth than Chriſt? yet you can forget me day after day.

8. Conſider, it's a command of Chriſt, that we ſhould look to Jeſus. Behold me, behold me, lo I, lo I; A command not only backt with Authority, but accompanied with ſpecial Ordinances appointed to this end: what is Baptiſm? and what is the Lord's Supper, but the repreſentation of Jeſus Chriſt? Is it not Chriſt's command in his laſt Supper, Do this in remembrance of me? and this do ye as oft as ye drink in remembrance of me? 1 Cor.11. 24,25. In this Ordinance we have Chriſt crucified before our eyes, and can we forget him? Or, can we hold our eyes off him? can we ſee the Bread broken, and the Wine diſtinctly ſevered from the bread, and not call to mind (according to the Scripture) Chriſt's Agony in the Garden, and on the Croſs? can we take and eat the bread? and take, and drink the cup, and not apprehend Chriſt ſtooping down from Heaven to feed our ſouls? At ſuch a time if we forget the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, it will argue our diſaffection, our ingratitude, our diſobedience every way.

9. Conſider, it's both work and wages to look up unto Jeſus. Hence David profeſſed, it is good for me to draw near to thee, Pſal. 73. 28. and my meditation of him ſhall be ſweet: Pſal.104. 34. the word imports a ſweetneſs with mixture, like compound ſpices, or many flowers. Every thought of Jeſus is ſweet and pleaſant, nay, it's better than wine, we will remember thy love more than Wine; Cant.1.4. there is more content in contemplating on Chriſt, more refreſhing to the ſpirit, than wine gives to the body, How precious are thy thoughts unto me, O God? Pſal.139. 17. look in what kind ſoever you account a thing precious, ſo precious are the thoughts of God and Chriſt to a Man, whoſe heart is in a right frame. Such a one loves every glance of Chriſt, and the more it ſees, the more it loves; It is ſaid of one Eudoxius, that he wiſhed he might be admitted to come near the body of the Sun, to have a full view of it, though it devoured him; he was ſomething raſh in this wiſh, but there is ſomething proportionable in a godly ſpirit, he ſo loves Chriſt, that he could be content to be ſwallowed up in the beholding of him. Certainly there is a bleſſing in this work; when we are bid to look unto Jeſus, it is but to receive from Jeſus: Is it any thing elſe but to call and invite us to look on the moſt pleaſing and delightful object? That in the beholding of it, it may convey it ſelf unto us, and we be delighted and filled with it? It is all one as if he ſhould bid us ſit down by a well of Life, and drink; or if he ſhould bid us be as the Angels are, who are bleſſed in the beholding of this Jeſus; why come then, if this be a bleſſed work, why will we unbleſs our ſelves? If the work will exalt us, why will we debaſe our ſelves, in not cloſing with it? If we might live above Heaven, why will we live below? certainly when thoughts of Chriſt are moving in us, Chriſt himſelf is not far off, he will come and enter too; and how ſweet is it for Chriſt to come and take up his habitation in our Souls.

10. Conſider how the Angels exceedingly deſire to look on Jeſus: they ſtoop down, and pry into the Nature, Offices and graces of Jeſus Chriſt: which thing, (ſaith the Apoſtle) 1Pet.1.13. the Angels deſire to look into. He alludes to the manner of the Cherubims looking down into the Mercy Seat; this is the ſtudy, yea this is the delight and recreation of the Elect Angels to look on Jeſus, and to look into the ſeveral ſcopes of our Salvation by Jeſus Chriſt, to behold the whole frame, and fabrick of it, to obſerve all the parts of it from the beginning to the end, to conſider all the glorious Attributes of God, his Wiſdom, Power, Juſtice, Mercy, all ſhining and glittering in it like bright Stars in the Firmament; this I ſay is their work, yea this is their Felicity and Paſtime. And ſhall not we imitate the Angels? ſhall not we think it our honour to be admitted to the ſame privilege with the Angels?

Vita contemplativa incipit in hoc ſæculo, perficitur in futuro. Ber.

11. Conſider that looking unto Jeſus is the work of Heaven; it is begun in this life (ſaith Bernard) but it is prefected in that life to come; not only Angels, but the Saints in glory do ever behold the face of God and Chriſt; if then we like not this work, how will we live in Heaven? the diſlike of this Duty is a bar againſt our entrance; for the life of a bleſſedneſs is a life of Viſion; ſurely if we take no delight in this, heaven is no place for us.

12. Conſider that nothing elſe is in compariſon worth the minding or looking after. If Chriſt have not your hearts, who, or what ſhould have them? O that any Chriſtian ſhould rather delight to have his heart among Thorns and Briars, than in the Boſom of his deareſt Jeſus! Why ſhould you follow after drops, and neglect the Fountain? Why ſhould you fly after ſhadows, and neglect him who is the true ſubſtance? if the mind have its currant from Chriſt toward other things, theſe things are not only of leſs concernment, but deſtructive: Jer.2.5. they are gone far from me, and have walked after Vanity, and are become vain. How unworthy the world is of the look of Chriſtians, eſpecially when it ſtands in competition with Jeſus, we have diſcuſſed before.

Many other Motives might be given, but let this ſuffice. I have done with the exhortation; In the next place I ſhall lay open to you the particular way of this Duty, which all this while I have been perſwading to.

Uſe. 3. Sect. 8. Uſe of Direction.

IS inward, experimental looking unto Jeſus a choice, or an high Goſpel Ordinance? why then ſome directions how we are to perform this Duty. Practice is the end of all ſound Doctrine, and duty is the end of all right faith; now that you may do what you have heard in ſome good meaſure, I ſhall perſcribe the directions in the next part preſcribed.

But firſt in the work obſerve thoſe two parts of the Text, the act, and object; the act is looking unto; and the Object is Jeſus.

1. By looking unto, we mean (as you have heard) an inward experimental knowing, deſiring, hoping, believing, loving, calling on Jeſus, and conforming to Jeſus: It is not a bare ſwimming knowledge of Chriſt, it is not a bare thinking of Chriſt; as Chriſt hath various excellencies in himſelf, ſo hath he formed the Soul with a power of diverſe ways apprehending, that ſo we might be capable of enjoying thoſe divers excellencies that are in Chriſt; even as the creatures having their ſeveral uſes, God hath accordingly given us ſeveral ſenſes, that ſo we might enjoy the delights of them all: what the better had we been for pleaſant odoriferous Flowers, or ſweet perfumes, if we had not poſſeſt the ſenſe of ſmelling? or what good would language, or Muſick have done us, if God had not given us the ſenſe of hearing? or, what delight ſhould we have found in meats, or drinks, or ſweeteſt things, if we had been deprived of the Senſe of taſting? ſo what pleaſure ſhould we have had even in the goodneſs and prefection of God and Chriſt, if we had been without the faculty and power of knowing, deſiring, hoping, believing, loving, joying, and enjoying? as the ſenſes are to the body, ſo are theſe ſpiritual ſenſes, Powers, Affections to the Soul, the very way by which we muſt receive ſweetneſs and ſtrength from the Lord Jeſus.

2. By Jeſus, who is the Object of this Act, we mean a Saviour, carrying on the great work of Mans Salvation from firſt to laſt; hence we ſhall follow this method to look on this Jeſus, as our Jeſus in theſe ſeveral periods. 1. In that Eternity before all time until the Creation. 2. In the Creation the beginning of time until his coming. 3. In his firſt coming, the fulneſs of time until his coming again. 4. In his coming again the very end of time to all Eternity. In every of theſe Periods, Oh what a bleſſed Object is before us! Oh what wonders of love have we to look upon! Before I direct you how to look on him in theſe reſpects, I muſt in the firſt place propound the Object: ſtill we muſt lay the colours of this admirable beauty before your eyes, and then tell you the art how you are to look upon them.

You may object, the Apoſtle in this Text refers this look only to the paſſion and ſeſſion of Chriſt. But a worthy Interpreter tells you out of theſe words, That Chriſt our bleſſed Saviour is to be looked on at all times, and in all acts; though indeed, then, and in thoſe Acts more eſpecially. Bp. Andr. Beſides, we are to look unto Jeſus, as the Author and Finiſher of our Faith; and why as the Author and Finiſher of our Faith, but to hint out to us that we are to ſtand ſtill, and to behold, as with a ſtedfaſt eye, what he is from firſt to laſt? You have called us hither (ſay they in Canticles) to ſee your Shulamite, What ſhall we ſee in him? What ſaith the Spouſe, but as the company of two Armies? that is, many legions of good ſights; an Ocean of bottomleſs depths of manifold high prefections. Or if theſe words be underſtood of the Spouſe and not of Chriſt, yet how many words do we find in Canticles expreſſing in him many goodly ſights? Myrrhe, Aloes, and Cinamon, all the Trees of Frankincenſe, all the Powders of the Merchants are in him; he is altogether lovely, he is all every whit of him deſirable, he is not one ſingle Star, but a Conſtellation; there is in him a confluence, a bundle, an army of glorious ſights, all in one cluſter, meeting and growing upon one ſtalk. There's many glorious ſights in Jeſus, I ſhall not therefore limit my ſelf to thoſe two eſpecial ones, but take all thoſe before me I have now propounded.

And now, if ever, ſtir up your hearts. Say to all worldly buſineſs and thoughts, as Chriſt to the Diſciples, Sit you here while I go and pray yonder. Mat. 26. 36. Or as Abraham when he went to ſacrifice Iſaac, left his Servants and Aſſe below the Mount, ſaying, Stay you here, and I and the Lad will go yonder and Worſhip, and come again to you: ſo ſay to all worldly thoughts, Aide you below, while I go up to Chriſt, and then I will return to you again. Chriſtians! your ſelves may be welcom, but ſuch followers may not.

LOOKING UNTO JESUS:

The Second Book.

REVEL. 1. 8, 11.

I am Alpha and Omega, the Beginning and the Ending, ſaith the Lord; which Is, and which Was, and which Is to come, the Almighty. —— I am Alpha and Omega, the firſt and the laſt; and what thou ſeeſt, write in a book, and ſend it to the ſeven Churches.

CHAP. I. SECT. I.

Of the Eternal Generation of our Jeſus.

WE muſt Look unto Jeſus, the beginner and finiſher of our Faith: We muſt behold Jeſus as with a ſtedfaſt Eye from firſt to laſt. As he is Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, the firſt and the laſt, ſo accordingly we muſt Look unto him. 1. He is Alpha, the beginner, (ſo it is in the Original) ἀρχηγὸν, the beginner the inceptor, the firſt wheel of our faith, Heb. 12. 2. and of the end of our faith, the Salvation of our Souls, 2 Theſ. 2. 13. 2 Tim. 1. 9. Tit. 1. 2. Now Chriſt may be called a beginner, in reſpect of the Decree, or execution. I ſhall begin with the Decree werein he begun before the beginning of time to deſign our happineſs, for the praiſe of the glory of his Grace, Epheſ. 1. 6. many depths are in this paſſage. To this purpoſe we told you that Jeſus is Gods Son, and our Jeſus, eternally begotten before all Worlds. In this firſt period we ſhall look on him, 1. In relation to God. 2. In relation to us.

Iſa. 53. 8. 1. In his relation to God, who ſhall declare his generation? He is Gods Son, having his ſubſiſtence from the Father alone, of which Father by communication of his eſſence, he is begotten from all eternity.

For the opening of this eternal generation of our Jeſus, we ſhall conſider, 1. The thing begotten. 2. The time. 3. The manner of begetting. 4. The mutual kindneſs and love of him that begets, and of him that is begotten, which brings forth a third perſon, or ſubſiſtence, which we call the Holy Ghoſt.

1. For the thing it ſelf, it is Jeſus Chriſt, who muſt be conſidered two ways, as he is a Son, and as he is a God. Now as he is a Son, he is the thing begotten, but not as he is a God. As he is a God, he is of himſelf, neither begotten, nor proceeding; the God-head of the Father and the God-head of the Son is but one and the ſame thing; and therefore * the Son as he is God, he is God of himſelf, without beginning even as the Father; but as he is a Son, he is not of himſelf, but the Son of the Father, begotten of him; and hereupon it follows, that the Son is begotten of the Father, as he is a Son, but not as he is a God.

* Eſſentia filii eſt à ſeipſo, & hac ratione, dici poteſt αὐτόθεος: eſſentia tamen filii non eſt à ſeipſo ideo ſic non eſt αὐτόθεος.

2. For the time of this generation, it hath neither beginning, middle, nor end, and therefore it is eternal before all Worlds; this is one of the wonders of our Jeſus, that the Father begetting, and the Son begotten, are coeternal. Wiſdom in the book of Proverbs (which with one conſent of all Divines is ſaid to be Chriſt) affirmeth thus, When there was no depths I was brought forth, When there were no fountains abounding with water; before the Mountains were ſetled, before the hills was, I was brought forth; Prov. 24. 25, 26, 27

while as yet he had not made the Earth, nor the fields, nor the higheſt part of the duſt of the World; when he prepared the Heavens, I was there; when he ſet a compaſs upon the face of the depth, I was there. And a little before, the Lord Prov. 8. 22, 23. poſſeſſed me in the beginning of his way before his works of old, I was ſet up from everlaſting, from the beginning, or ever the World was; that is to ſay from eternity; for before the world was made, there was nothing but eternity. It may be alledged to the contrary, that the ſaying of God the Father, Pſam. 2. 7. thou art my Son, this day have begotten thee, is expounded by Paul of the time of Act. 13. 32, 33. Chriſts reſurrection And we declare unto you glad tidings (ſaith Paul) how that the promiſe which was made unto the fathers, God hath fulfilled the ſame unto us their Children, in that he hath raiſed up Jeſus again, as it is alſo written in the Second Pſalm, thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. But we diſtinguiſh betwixt generation it ſelf, and the manifeſtation or declaration of it. Jeſus the Son of God from all eternity was begotten; but when he was incarnate, and eſpecially when he was raiſed again from the dead, then was he mightily declared to be Gods Son by nature. And of this declaration or manifeſtation of his eternal generation is that of the Apoſtle underſtood.

3. For the manner of this generation of Jeſus the Son of God, underſtand, there be two manners of begetting; the one is carnal, and outward, and this is ſubject to corruption, alteration, and time; the other is ſpiritual and inward, and ſuch was the beginning of the Son of God, of whoſe generation there is neither corruption, alteration nor time. But alas! How ſhould we declare his Generation? O Iſa. 53. 8. my ſoul, here thou maiſt admire, and adore Rom. 11. 33. with Paul and David; and cry out, O the depths of the riches both of the wiſdom and knowledge of God! how unſearchable are his judgments, and his ways paſt finding out? There is no ſearching for us into the ſecret counſels of God, which he never revealed in his Word; but ſo far as he hath revealed himſelf, we ſhall in ſobriety according to the light of the Scriptures, endeavour a diſcovery of the manner of this ſpiritual generation of the Son of God: as thus, ——

We muſt conſider in God two things, 1. That in God there is an underſtanding. 2. That in God this underſtanding everlaſtingly acts or works.

For the firſt, that God hath a moſt excellent underſtanding, or that he is underſtanding it ſelf in the higheſt degree, is very clear; for he that gives underſtanding to all his intelligible creatures, muſt needs have it, and be it moſt eminently in himſelf: if fire be the cauſe of heat in other things, it muſt needs be, that fire is the hotteſt of any thing; * the axiome is common, but the Scripture verifies it, With God is Wiſdom and ſtrength, he hath counſel and underſtanding. Nay, that this underſtanding is his very being is very plain, Counſel is mine, and ſound wiſdom, I am underſtanding, and I am ſtrength. Job 12. 13. Prov. 8. 14.

For the ſecond, that this underſtanding in God everlaſtingly acts or works, is very clear; for that underſtanding (which is the nature, eſſence, and being of God) is a meer act, or the firſt act, it is all one with the life of God; now as all life is active in it ſelf, ſo the chief life (ſuch as in the higheſt degree is to be attributed to God) muſt needs be active; what is the life of God, but an eſſential property, whereby the Divine nature is in perpetual action, living and moving in it ſelf? and hereof is that ſpeech in Scripture ſo often uſed, the Lord liveth; hereof likewiſe is that aſſeveration or oath ſo often uſed by God, as the Lord liveth, and As I Live ſaith the Lord; well then, Jer. 4. 2. Jer. 38. 16. Numb. 14. 21. Rom. 14. 21. the underſtanding of God being active, or working from all eternity, it muſt needs have ſome eternal object on which it acts or works; every action requires a ſutable object, about which it muſt act, or be exerciſed: ſo then if Gods underſtanding act eternally, it muſt have ſome eternal object; and if Gods underſtanding act moſt perfectly, it muſt have ſome moſt perfect object to act upon; and what is that but only God himſelf? that Gods underſtanding ſhould act out of himſelf, would argue his underſtanding to act upon that which is finite and imperfect: Certainly nothing is infinite, eternal, and perfect, but only himſelf; and therefore if his underſtanding will act upon any ſuitable object, he muſt act upon nothing but himſelf.

And now we come to the manner of this high, myſtical, ſpiritual generation of Jeſus the Son of God. As the underſtanding of God doth act and reflect upon it ſelf from all eternity, ſo it works this effect, that it underſtands and conceives it ſelf; it apprehends in the underſtanding an image of that Object which it looks upon, and this very Image is the Son of God. This we ſhall lay out by ſome ſimilitudes. A Mans Soul (we know) doth ſometimes muſe, and meditate on other things; as it thinks of Heaven, or it thinks of earth; this we call a right, or direct, or emanant thought; but ſometimes the Soul doth muſe, or meditate on it ſelf, as when it thinks of its own Eſſence, or faculties, or the like; and this we call a reflect thought; why now the Soul underſtands it ſelf, now it hath ſome Idea, or Image of it ſelf, now it conceives it ſelf; this is our phraſe, it conceives it ſelf. There is not only a carnal, but a ſpiritual Conception; as when I underſtand this or that, I ſay, I conceive this or that, I have the Idea, or Image of this or that, within my Soul. Or as in a glaſs, a man doth conceive and get a perfect image of his own face by a way of reflection; ſo God in beholding and minding of himſelf, doth in himſelf beget or conceive a moſt perfect, and a moſt lively image of himſelf, which very image is that in the Trinity which we call the Son of God. Thus you read in Scripture that Jeſus the Son of God is called the brightneſs of his Fathers Heb. 1. 3. Glory, and the expreſs Image of his Perſon, 1. The brightneſs of his Fathers glory, herein God the Father is compared unto a lightſom body, and God the Son unto a beam, or ſplendor ſent forth, or iſſuing out from that Glorious body. 2. The expreſs Image of his Perſon, herein God the Father is compared unto a ſeal, and God the Son unto an impreſſion reſulting from the ſeal; Now look as wax upon a ſeal, hath the engraven Image of the Seal; ſo the Son of God (which the Father hath begotten or conceived of his own underſtanding) is the very Image of his Fathers underſtanding; hence not only the Father, but alſo the Son is called Underſtanding it ſelf. I have counſel and Wiſdom Prov. 8. 14.

(ſaith Chriſt) I am Underſtanding? whatſoever the Father is, the Son is; indeed the underſtanding in men, and the thing underſtood, are not uſually one and the ſame, but in God it is all one: Gods conceivings and begettings are the moſt inward of all; the Father conceives of himſelf, and in himſelf; and his conceiving is a begetting, and his begetting abideth ſtill in himſelf, becauſe his underſtanding can no where meet with any thing ſuitable, but that which he himſelf is; and that conveying of himſelf, or begetting of himſelf is the ſecond ſubſiſtence in the Trinity, which we call the everlaſting Son of God.

4. For the mutual kindneſs and lovingneſs of him that begets, and of him that is begotten, we ſay this brings forth a third perſon or ſubſiſtence in God. Now for the underſtanding of this matter, we muſt conſider two things: Firſt, that in the Eſſence of God, beſides his underſtanding there is a Will. Secondly, that this Will doth work everlaſtingly upon it ſelf, as his Underſtanding doth.

For the firſt, that in the Eſſence of God, beſides his Underſtanding, there is a Will, is very clear; for he that gives a Will to all rational creatures, cannot want it himſelf; how ſhould he be without Will, whoſe Will it is that we Will? Of neceſſity it is that there ſhould be ſome prime or chief Will, on whoſe Will all other Wills ſhould depend; but the Scriptures
Iſa.46.9, 10. are plain, I am God, and there is none elſe; I am God, and there is none like me.—— My Counſel ſhall ſtand, and I will do all my pleaſure.

For the ſecond, that this Will in God doth everlaſtingly work upon it ſelf, is clear: for, as doth the underſtanding, ſo doth the Will; but the Underſtanding of God doth act upon it ſelf as the chief, and moſt perfect Truth, therefore the Will of God doth Will himſelf as the chief and moſt perfect good. Indeed what other ſuitable Object can the Will of God have beſides himſelf? An infinite Will muſt needs have an infinite good; and in this ſence, as our Mat.9.17. Saviour tells us, there is none good but one, that is God; hence it is that the Will of God doth reflect upon it ſelf, and acquieſce in it ſelf as in an infinite good.

And now we come to the manner of this high, myſtical, ſpiritual proceſſion of the ſpirit from the Father and the Son. As the Will of God doth act and reflect upon it ſelf from all Eternity; ſo it works this effect, that it delights it ſelf in the infinite good which it knoweth in it ſelf; for the Action of the Will is delight and liking; and this very delight which God or his Will hath in his own infinite goodneſs, doth bring forth a third perſon, or Subſiſtence in God, which we call the Holy Ghoſt: So that indeed, if you would know what the Holy Ghoſt is, I would anſwer, It is the mutual kindneſs, and lovingneſs, and joy, and delight of the Father and the Son. The Father by this act of Will doth joy and delight in his Son, and the Son by this act of Will doth joy and delight in his Father; and this is it which the Son ſaith
Prov.8.30 of himſelf, and of his Father, I was daily his delight, rejoycing always before him, q.d. I was from all eternity his delight, and he was from all Eternity my delight: the Father (as it were) from all Eternity aſpired in his Will, and Love, and Joy unto the Son; and the Son (as it were) from all Eternity aſpired in his Will, and Love, and Joy unto the Father; and from this common deſire and aſpiring of either Perſon the Holy Ghoſt proceeds, which makes up the whole Trinity of Perſons.

I ſhall lay out this by ſome ſimilitude or reſemblance; As when a Man looks in a glaſs, if he ſmile, his Image ſmileth too: her e's but one face, and yet in this Unity we may find a Trinity: the face is one, the Image of the face in a glaſs is another, and the ſmiling of them both together is a third, and yet all are in one face, and are of one face, and all are but one face; ſo the underſtanding which is in God is one, the reflection, or Image, or his Underſtanding he beholdeth in himſelf as in a glaſs, is a ſecond; and the love and liking of them both together, by reaſon of the Will fulfilled, is a third; and yet all are in one God, and all are but one God. In this Trinity there is neither firſt nor laſt, in reſpect of time, but all are at once, and at one inſtant; evenas in a glaſs the face, and the Image of the face, when they ſmile, they ſmile together, and not one before, nor after another.——— For Concluſion of all. As we have the Son of the Father by his everlaſting Will in Working by his underſtanding; ſo we have the Holy Ghoſt of the love, and joy, and delight of them both, by the joynt working of the Underſtanding and Will together; whereupon we conclude three diſtinct perſons, or ſubſiſtences, which we call the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt, in one ſpiritual, yet unſpeakable ſubſtance, which is very God himſelf.——— My meaning is not to inſiſt on the Father, or the Holy Ghoſt, but only on the Son. Yet thus far I have added, that you may better underſtand the manner of this generation of the Son of God; together with the mutual kindneſs, lovingneſs, joy, and delight betwixt the Father and the Son, even from Everlaſting.

Sect. 2. Of our Election in Chriſt before all Worlds.

NOW let us look on Chriſt in his Relation to us before all Worlds: God being thus alone himſelf from everlaſting, and beſides himſelf there being nothing at all, the firſt thing he did (beſides what ye have heard) or the firſt thing he poſſibly and conceivably could do, it was this; a determination with himſelf, to manifeſt his Glory; Or, a purpoſe in himſelf to communicate his glory out of his aloneneſs everlaſting unto ſomewhat elſe: I ſay unto ſomewhat elſe, for what is communication but an efflux, an emanation, an iſſuing from, or a motion betwixt two Terms? I have now brought you to the acts, or actions of God in reference to his Creatures, follow me a little, and I ſhall anon bring you to Chriſt in relation to your ſelves.

Theſe acts or actions of God were and are 1. The Decree. 2. The Execution of the Decree of God. I muſt open theſe Terms.

1. The Decree is an action of God, out of the Counſel and purpoſe of his own Will, determining all things, and all the Circumſtances, and order of all things from all Eternity in himſelf certainly, and unchangeably, and yet freely, Who worketh all things (ſaith the Apoſtle) after the Counſel of his own Will; and this Epheſ. 1. 11.

work, or action of God is internal, and for ever abiding within his own Eſſence it ſelf.

2. The execution of the Decree is an act of God, whereby God doth effectually work in time all things as they were fore-known and Decreed. And this action of God is external, and by a temporal act paſſing from God to the Creatures.

Now for the Decree, that is of diverſe kinds: As firſt, There is a decree common and general, which looks to all the Creatures; and it is either the Decree of Creation, or the Decree of Providence and Preſervation. 2. There is a Decree ſpecial, which belongs to reaſonable Creatures, Angels, and Men, it is called the Decree of Predeſtination; and it conſiſts of the Decree of Election and Reprobation. Concerning the common and general Decrees we have but little laid down in Scriptures, and it is little, or nothing at all to our purpoſe; And concerning the ſpecial Decree of Angels, there is not much in Scriptures, and that is as little alſo to our purpoſe; we have only to deal with Men, and with God's Decree in relation to Mans Salvation before all Worlds.

And this we call Predeſtination, or the Decree of Election; which is either of Chriſt, or of the Members of Chriſt. Chriſt himſelf was firſt Predeſtinated: This appears by that Iſa. 41. 2. Saying of God; Behold My Servant whom I uphold, Mine Elect in whom My Soul delighteth; I have put My ſpirit upon him, he ſhall bring forth Judgment to the Gentiles. Theſe very words the Evangeliſt interprets of Chriſt himſelf, Matth. 12. 18. And Chriſt being predeſtinate Mat. 12. 18. the Members of Chriſt were Predeſtinated in Epheſ. 1. 4. Him: So the Apoſtle; According as He hath choſen us in Him, before the Foundation of the World. We are choſen in Chriſt as in a common Perſon; He was the firſt Perſon Elected in order, and we in Him. Suppoſe a New Kingdom to be ſet up, a New King is choſen, and all his Succeſſours are choſen in him: Why, God hath Erected a Kingdom of glory, and He hath choſen Jeſus Chriſt for the King of this Kingdom; and in him He hath choſen us, whom He hath made Kings and prieſts unto the moſt High God. But obſerve we this of the Apoſtle; He hath choſen us in him before the Foundation of the World. 1. He] hath choſen, (i. e) God the Father hath choſen; not that the Son and Spirit choſe not alſo; for if Three of us had but one Will common to us all, One could not will any thing, which the Will of the other Two ſhould not alſo Will: But becauſe the Son ſuſtains the Perſon of one Elected, and the Spirit is the Witneſs ſealing this Grace unto our Hearts; therefore the Father only is expreſſed; as the Father alone is often named in Prayer, not that the other Perſons are not to be prayed unto; but becauſe the Son is conſidered as the Mediatour, and the Spirit as the Inſtructor, teaching us to Pray as we ought; therefore the Father only is expreſſed.

2. He hath choſen us in him:] This Him] denotes Chriſt God-man; and this in him] notes the ſame Chriſt God-man, as the Head and firſt Elect, in whom, and after whom, in order of Nature, all his Body are Elected: Mark here the Order, but not the Cauſe of our Election; Though Chriſt be the Cauſe of our Salvation, yet Chriſt is not the Cauſe of our Election: it is only the Fore-kowledge of God, and His free Love, that is the Cauſe thereof.

3. He hath choſen us in Him before the Foundation of the World] (i. e.) from all Eternity; but becauſe within Eternity God doth fore-ſee the Things which are done in time; therefore this Phraſe (ſay ſome) may be extended not only to reſpect the Actual Creation, but the Decree it ſelf of the World's Being; q. d. He hath choſen us in order of Nature, before His Decree did lay the Foundation of the World. My meaning is not to enter into Controverſies; this all grant, that the antient Love, which the Lord hath born to us in Chriſt, is not of Yeſterday, but before all Worlds. Paul mentions Grace given us before all Worlds. But 1 Tim. 1. 9. that which is the moſt obſervable in the Text, as to our purpoſe, is, that we are choſen in Him. We read of Three Phraſes in Scripture ſpeaking of Chriſt: Sometimes we are ſaid to Have Bleſſings in Him, and ſometimes for him, and ſometimes through him. Sometimes in Him, as here, He hath choſen us in him; ſometimes for him, as elſewhere, To you it is given for Chriſt His ſake; not only to Believe, but to Suffer; ſometimes through Him, as in that of Paul; Thanks be to God, which giveth us the Phil. 1. 20. Victory through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Now 1 Cor. 15. 57. bleſſings come through Chriſt, in reſpect that Chriſt is a Mediator not only of Impetration, but Execution; not only obtaining and receiving from Grace all Good for us, but in executing and applying efficaciouſly the ſame unto us: And Bleſſings come for Chriſt, in reſpect that Chriſt doth by His Obedience obtain every good Thing, which in time is communicated to us: And we have Bleſſings in Chriſt, becauſe that in Chriſt, as a Common Storehouſe, every thing is firſt placed, which is to be imparted afterwards to any of us. And thus we are choſen in Chriſt, as in a common Perſon. This Grace of Election began firſt at Chriſt our Head, and ſo deſcends downwards on us His Members. Chriſt is the firſt Begotten amongſt all His Brethren, having the Preheminence; or Chriſt was the firſt-born among many Brethren, the firſt that opened the Rom. 8. 29. Womb. Chriſt was ſealed, and ſet apart to be the Prince of our Salvation, before (in order of Nature) we were Elected. Concerning this Election, or Predeſtination of Chriſt, the Apoſtle puts all out of queſtion; Who verily was fore-ordained before the Foundations of 1 Pet 1. 20. the World, but was manifeſt in theſe laſt Times for you.

Sect. 3. Of that great Treaty, in Eternity, betwixt God and Chriſt, to ſave Souls.

NOW was it, that God the Father called forth His Son to preform the Office of the Mediator; that in Him all thoſe that ſhould be Saved, might be Choſen. Concerning this Call of God the Father in a ſpecial ſort, the Apoſtle is clear; No Man taketh this Heb. 5. 4, 5. honour unto himſelf, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron: So alſo Chriſt glorifyed not himſelf to be made an High-Prieſt; but He that ſaid unto Him, Thou art My Son, to day have I begotten Thee, He called Him unto this Honour. Chriſt thruſt not Himſelf into this Office; but He came to it by the Will of God the Father, Col. 1. 10, 11. ther, and by his Appointment: For it pleaſed the Father by him to reconcile all things to himſelf; John 6.27. and him hath God the Father ſealed: And why? but the more to aſſure us of the good will of God to ſave us, ſeeing he hath called his Son unto it: For therefore will he accept of all that Chriſt ſhould do for us, as that which he himſelf hath ordained

And now was it, that God the Son embraced the Call of the Father, and undertook the Heb.10.7. Office of Mediator: Then ſaid I, Lo I come. No queſtion, it was Truth from everlaſting: Iſa. 50.5. The Lord God opened mine Ear, and I was not John 14. 31. Rebellious, neither turned away back. And, As the Father gave me Commandment, even ſo I do. No ſooner the Father called, but Chriſt accepts the Office to which he was deſigned by the Fa-Joh.6.27. ther: This is plain by thoſe words, Him hath God the Father ſealed; ſealed by Ordination, and ſealed by Qualification, and ſealed by way of Inveſtiture; as Publick Officers are inveſted in their Places by receiving their Commiſſions under Seal. And it muſt needs be ſo; becauſe whatſoever the Father Wills, the Son Joh.10.30 Wills alſo: I and my Father are One, ſaith Chriſt: How One? Why, One in Will, and One in Power, and One in Nature. 1. One in Will: That appears in the words precedent, Ver. 28. concerning Chriſt's Sheep; My Father gave them me, —— and I give unto them Eternal Life: They are both agreed to ſave Chriſt's Sheep; the Father is willing, and Chriſt is willing: Look how much the Will of the Father is in it; ſo much the Will of the Son is in it: For he and the Father are One. 2. One in Power: That appears likewiſe in the words Ver. 28, 29. precedent; Theſe Sheep ſhall never periſh, (ſaith Chriſt) neither ſhall any Man pluck them out of my Hand: my Father is greater than All, and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's Hand. Here is firſt the Power of Chriſt, and all in him engaged for the ſalvation of his Sheep; that, if he have any Power in him, and be able to do any thing, not one of them ſhall periſh: And he gives the Reaſon of the Prevalency of his Power, from his Father's Power, engaged as much as his own in this buſineſs; they are alike faſt in his Hands, and in his Father's Hands: For he and the Father are One. 3. One in Nature: And of this, I ſuppoſe, are the words more eſpecially underſtood: The Father and Son are both of one Nature, of one Eſſence, of one Being: And this is not only an Argument that they did both agree, and were like to agree in that great Tranſaction of ſaving Souls; but that they can never diſagree: Two that eſſentially have two Wills, though for the preſent agreeing in One; yet they may come to diſagree, and Will not the ſame Thing; but if eſſentially thay have but one Will, it is impoſſible then but that they ever muſt agree. —— So then, the Father from everlaſting calls the Son to the Office of Mediator: [q. d. Come my Son, the Son of my Joy, and high Delight; My beloved Son, in whom I am well-pleaſed: There's a thought in my heart to communicate my ſelf out of this Aloneneſs everlaſting, unto ſomewhat elſe; and my thought, or Purpoſe, or Intention, lies in this Order: Firſt, I intend my own Glory, then Chriſt, then the Church, then the World, thus is my Providence to diſpoſe every thing ſo much more principally and timely, by how much it is more Excellent: Next to my Glory, and manifeſtation of it, I will have a Chriſt, and this Chriſt ſhall be the chief Pattern of the Election of Grace: and next to Chriſt the Head, I intend a Body, and this Body I will Predeſtinate to be made like, or to be conformed to the Image of my Son. And now behold, I call thee to the Office of Mediator; Thou art my Son, to day (even in this day of Eternity) have I begotten thee; and to day (even in this day of Eternity) do I call thee to this Honour, to be an High Prieſt for ever. And as the Father calls, ſo the Son from everlaſting, Heb.10.7. accepts the Office to which he is deſigned by the Father: [q. d. Come, Is that the Voice of my everlaſting Father? Why, Lo I come; in John 4.34 the Volume of thy Book, it is written of me to do thy Will, O God: This is my mind; yea, and this ſhall be my mind for ever: When I am John 5.30. Incarnate, this ſhall be my Meat, to do the Will of him that ſent me, to finiſh his Work. Glorious Father, Thy Will is my Will: I ſeek not mine own Will, (as if I had a Will diſtinct from thine) but the Will of my Father. Now therefore, I accept this Honour. Be it to me, or be it with me, even as thou pleaſeſt. This call of the Father, and Anſwer of the Son, is fully con-Prov.8.23. firmed by that ſaying of Chriſt, I was ſet up from Everlaſting.

But concerning the Particular Paſſages of theſe Treaties betwixt God, and Chriſt, to ſave Souls, I ſhall ſhew: 1. The Project. 2. The Counſel. 3. The Fore-knowledge. 4. The Purpoſe. 5. The Decree. 6. The Covenant. We ſhall find all theſe in our firſt Period, in that Eternity, before all Times, until the Creation.

Sect. 4. The Project.

THE Project to ſave Souls, is diverſly laid down by Diſſenting Brethren. Some give it in thus: 1. That there ſhould be a Mediator and Redeemer unto Mankind, conſidered as fallen in the State of Sin. 2. That all ſuch ſhould be received into Favour, as ſhall Repent, and Believe, and Perſevere unto the End. 3. That ſufficient and neceſſary means of Grace ſhould be offered and adminiſtred unto all Men without Exception. 4. That certain ſingular Perſons ſhould be ſaved whom God foreſaw would Repent, and Believe, and Perſevere. This way is juſtly oppoſed by others, who deny God's Acts in Intention, to be in the ſame order as we ſee them in Production: In order of Material Exiſting, it is granted, that Chriſt is Revealed, Promiſed, and Exhibited after Sin; and that we Repent, Believe, Perſevere before we are Saved: But in order of God's Intention, Chriſt is before Sin, and Salvation before Repentance, Faith, Perſeverance. The Apoſtle reckoned the Order, in which Things exiſt, thus: 1. The World. 2. You, The Elect. 3. Chriſt. 4. God, 1 Cor. 3. 22, 23. 1 Cor. 3. 22, 23. But he gives us to underſtand the Order of Intention thus: As Firſt, God intends his own Glory, then Chriſt, then the Elect, then the World. Certainly, it is an hard thing to marſhal the Eternal, Immanent Acts of the Divine Underſtanding, or Will, into Firſt, Second, Third, Fourth: All God's Projects are like himſelf, who Tota ſimul & perfecta poſſeſſio ſui. is a whole and perfect Poſſeſſion of himſelf together and at once; ſo as in him conſidered, there is no Prius nor Poſterius in any of his Acts; but conſidered in Effects, or in reſpect of us, one thing may be ſaid to be, firſt Second, or Third in Nature, Time and Being, before or after another. And thus in reſpect of us, we ſay the End muſt be in Nature before the Means to the End: Now the Permiſſion of the Fall, Repentance, Faith, Preſeverance, are uſed by God as Means to bring ſome to Salvation: God therefore doth firſt project our Salvation, and then the Means; and both the End, and the Means, are the Product of God's Election, or Predeſtination. Here then is the Project, That God will glorifie His Grace; and to this end He Eccleſ. 1.4. will predeſtinate Chriſt, and in Chriſt He will chooſe ſome of the Sons of Men to Salvation; whom, notwithſtanding Sin, He will make Holy, and without blame before Him in love. This Project, or Plot, or Deſign of God, will be further enlarged in the next Paſſage, viz. His Counſels.

Sect. 5. The Counſel.

OF the Counſels of God concerning Man, before all Worlds, we read in ſeveral Acts 2.2. Texts. Chriſt was deliverd by the determinate Counſel of God.—For of a truth, againſt thy Holy Child Jeſus, whom Thou haſt anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, Acts 4.27, 28. and the People of Iſrael, were gathered together, for to do whatſoever thy Hand, and thy Counſel determined before to be done. And thus the Members of Chriſt are ſaid to Obtain an Inheritance, being Eph. 1.11. Predeſtinated according to the Purpoſe of Him, who worketh all Things after the Counſel of His own Will. Of this Counſel of God's Will, we know but little now; yet this will be made known, when we come to Glory; yea it will be a great part of the Glory of Heaven, for the Lord to make known the Counſel of His Will; we now know his Will, but we ſhall then know the Counſel of His Will, and praiſe him to all Eternity for it. This ſhall be the Glory of the Saints, that they ſhall ſee into the Counſel of God's Will, in chuſing them, and calling them; and paſſing by others, and letting others go. In the mean while, thus far we may know; for thus far He hath revealed Himſelf, concerning His Counſels, about Man from Everlaſting.

1. That Man ſhould be a Reaſonable Creature; and becauſe that very Creature is unavoidably ſubject to the Creator, (for He made Prov. 1.64. all things for himſelf, and all is to return that Glory to him, for which He made them) therefore Man ſhould ſerve Him as all other Creatures muſt; only his Service ſhould be after a reaſonable manner, out of Judgment, Diſcretion, and Election: Hence David is ſaid Pſal 119. 30. to have choſen the Way of Truth; and Moſes to Heb. 11. 25, 26. have Choſen the Afflictions of God's People, and the Reproaches of Chriſt, before the Pleaſures of Sin, or the Treaſures of Egypt. And hence it is, that Holineſs, in the Phraſe of Scripture, is called Judgment; He ſhall convince the World John 16. 11. of Judgment; and he ſhall bring forth Judgment Mat. 12. 20. unto Victory; and hence it is, that our Service is called a Reaſonable Service. God would not ſet any ſuch determinating Law over the Operations of Man, as over other Creatures, that ſo he might truly work out of Judgment, and ſtand or fall by his own Election.

2. That if Man ſhould deviate from this Reaſonable Service, and break the Law which God would give, and which he himſelf ſhould have an Original Power to perform, that then he ſhould incur the Diſpleaſure of God; and ſuch a Curſe, and ſuch a Penalty ſhould be inflicted. And here comes in the fall of Man into God's Conſideration; He looks upon it as a wilful tranſgreſſion of his Law; and by how much the Law was more juſt, and the obedience more eaſie, by ſo much he judges the tranſgreſſion more unreaſonable, and the puniſhment more certain and intolerable.

3. That Sin ſhould not paſs Unrevenged; and that for theſe reaſons. 1. Becauſe of Gods infinite hatred thereof, He is of purer Eyes than Heb. 1.13. to behold Evil; He cannot look on Iniquity; it provokes a Nauſeouſneſs and Abhorrence in him; For all theſe are things which I hate, ſaith Zach. 8. the Lord,——— They are a trouble unto me, 17. I am weary to bear them. 2. Becauſe of his truth, he hath ſaid; In the day thou eateſt thereof thou Gen. 2.17. ſhalt ſurely die, or thou ſhalt dying die; die temporally, and die Eternally; and ſurely God will in no wiſe aboliſh this Law, One jot or tit- Matth. 5.8. tle ſhall in no wiſe paſs from the Law till all be fulfilled. 3. Becauſe of his terrour and fearful Majeſty, for God will have Men always tremble before him, and by his terrour to be perſwaded from ſinning, Knowing therefore the ter- 2Cor. 5. rour of the Lord we perſwade Men; and Fear 11. him who is able to deſtroy both Body and Soul in Matth. 10. Hell; I ſay unto you, fear him: and Let us have 28. Grace, whereby we may ſerve God acceptably with Heb. 12. 28, 29. Reverence and Godly Fear; for God is a Conſuming Fire. Upon theſe Reaſons God is reſolved, Sin ſhall not paſs unrevenged, leſt thereby His Juſtice ſhould be ſecurely abuſed, his Hatred againſt Sin the leſs declared, His Truth queſtioned, and His dreadful Majeſty by Men neglected.

4. That every Man, notwithſtanding Sin, ſhould not be utterly deſtroyed; and that for theſe Reaſons. 1. Becauſe of that infinite Delight, which the Lord hath in Mercy: Why, this Delight is it that ſo diſpoſeth Him to pardon abundantly, and to exerciſe Loving-kindneſs on the Sons of Men; Who is a God like unto Pſal. 103. Thee, that pardoneſt Iniquity, and paſſeſt by the 8. Tranſgreſſion of the Remnant of Thy Heritage? Thou retaineſt not Thy Anger for ever, becauſe Thou delighteſt in Mercy. And, I am the Lord, Jer. which exerciſe Loving Kindneſs, Judgment, and Righteouſneſs in the Earth; for in theſe things I delight, ſaith the Lord. 2. Becauſe of that Delight, which God hath to be actively glorified by his Creatures, voluntary Service and Subjection: Herein is My Father glorified, if ye bear John 16. much Fruit; and, I have no Pleaſure in the 18. Death of the Wicked, but that he turn from his Ezek. 33. Way, and live. 11. He delighteth moſt in unbloody Conqueſts, when by His Patience, and Goodneſs, and Forbearance, He ſubdueth the Hearts, Affections, and Conſciences of Men unto Himſelf: He eſteemeth Himſelf more glorified in the Services, than in the Sufferings of Men; and therefore in this Eternity, he reſolves not to deſtroy all Men, leſt there ſhould be no Religion upon the Earth: When the Angels fell, they fell not all, many were ſtill left to glorifie Him actively in their Service of Him; but when Adam fell, all Mankind fell in him; ſo that there was to Tree in all this Paradiſe left to bring forth any Fruit unto God: And this is moſt certain, that God would rather have His Trees for Fruit, than for Fewel: Hence He reſolves, that Mankind, notwithſtanding Sin, ſhould not be utterly deſtroyed.

Hereupon the Trinity calls a Counſel; and the Queſtion is, What is to be done with poor Man? The Learned here frame a kind of Conflict in God's holy Attributes, and by a Liberty, which the Holy Ghoſt from the Language of Holy Scripture, doth allow them, they ſpeak of God after the manner of Men, as if he were reduced unto ſome Straits and Difficulties, by the croſs Demands of His ſeveral Attributes. Juſtice calls upon Him for the Condemnation of a Sinful, and therefore worthily Accurſed Creature; which Demand is ſeconded by His Truth, to make good that Threatning; In the day that thou eateſt thereof, thou ſhalt die the Death. Mercy, on the other ſide, pleads for Favour and Compaſſion towards Man, wofully ſeduced, and overthrown by Satan; and this Plea is ſeconded by Love and Goodneſs, and the like Attributes: at laſt, when the Buſineſs comes to Determination, Wiſdom finds out a way, which the Angels of Heaven gaze on with Admiration and Aſtoniſhment, how to reconcile theſe different Pleas of his Attributes together. A Jeſus is reſolved on, One of the ſame Bleſſed Trinity, who by His Father's Ordination, His own voluntary Suſception, and the Holy Spirits Sanctification ſhould be fitted for the Buſineſs. To this purpoſe this Jeſus ſhould be both a Surety, and an Head over ſinful Men; a Surety to pay Mens Debts unto God, and an Head to reſtore God's Image unto Man: And thus in Him Psal. 85. 10. Mercy and Truth have met together, Righteouſneſs and Peace have Kiſſed each other.

This is the great Myſtery of the Goſpel; this is that which the Angels (as I tell you) pry into; nay, this is that which the Angels and Saints too ſhall admire, and bleſs God for, to all Eternity; this is that which ſet the infinite Wiſdom of God on work from all Eternity. If all the Angels in Heaven, and all the Men in the World, had been put to it to find out a way, to anſwer this queſtion, how ſhall ſin be pardoned, the ſinner reconciled, and God glorifie his juſtice? they could never have done it; this coſt God dear, it coſt him the heart-blood of his own Son, and that's a ſure ſign, that Gods heart was much in it; and indeed we are not Chriſtians, until in ſome meaſure we ſee, and have our hearts taken with the glory of God in this myſtery. O the wonder of Heaven and Earth! here's the caſe, Man is fallen through Sin, and ever ſince the fall, Man and Sin are as inſeparably joined together as fire and heat; yet God will have Mercy on the Man, and he will take vengeance on the Sin; the Eternal Wiſdom of God, hath found out a way to tranſlate this Mans Sins on another Perſon, who is able to bear them, and to intereſt this Mans Perſon in anothers Righteouſneſs, which is able to cover him; ſo that now all's one in regard of Man, as if the Law had been utterly abrogated; and all's one too, in regard of God, as if the creature had been utterly condemned. And all this is done in our Jeſus; on him was executed the curſe of the Law, by him was fulfilled the righteouſneſs of the Law, for him was remitted the Sin of Man, and through him were all things made new again: the World was in Chriſt as in its Surety, making ſatisfaction to the Juſtice of God; and God was in Chriſt as in his Embaſſadour, reconciling the World unto himſelf again. Ὦ βάθος: O the depths of the riches both Rom. 11. 33. of the Wiſdom and Knowledge of God: how unſearchable are his judgments, and his ways paſt finding out? You have ſeen the Project, and the counſels of God for Mans Salvation, before all Worlds, it is but dimly, for who hath known Rom. 11. 34. the Mind of the Lord, or who hath been his Counſellour?

Sect. 6. The Fore-knowledge.

OF the knowledge of God in this reſpect we read in Scriptures. Chriſt is ſaid to be delivered by the determinate Counſel and fore- Act. 2. 23. knowledge of God, and it is ſaid of Chriſts Mem- Rom. 8. 29. bers, the called according to his purpoſe, whom he did foreknow: Rom. 11. 2. and elſewhere in the ſame Epiſtle, God hath not caſt away his people, which 1 Pet. 1. 2. he foreknew. And Peter writes to the ſtrangers Elect, according to the foreknowledge of God the Father. Underſtand, that fore-knowledge is aſcribed to God in reſpect of the Creature properly; but in reſpect of God there is nothing paſt, nothing to come; all things paſt, and all things to come are preſent to him, and therefore in that ſence he cannot be ſaid to foreknow any thing. Now the Lord in reſpect of us is ſaid in Scripture to foreknow things or perſons two ways.

1. Generally, by a general knowledge, of which David ſpeaks; Psal. 139. 16. thine eyes did ſee my ſubſtance yet being unperfect, and in thy book all my members were written, which in continuance, were faſhioned, when as yet there was none of them.

2. Specially, by a more ſpecial fore-knowledge, which is a knowledge with love and approbation; the very ſame which barely comprehendeth that we call Election; ſo Gods chooſing is expreſſed by loving: Rom. 9. 13. Jacob have I loved, and Eſau have I hated. And this is that 2 Tim. 2. 19. which the Apoſtle ſpeaks of, the Lord knoweth who are his (i. e.) the Lord from everlaſting Rom. 11. 2. knoweth his with love, and with approbation, hath God caſt away his people which he foreknew? (i. e.) which he before loved and approved? hence we gather that after the Project was laid, and the Councels of God were agreed upon it, then God foreknew, or foreſaw whom to embrace in his eternal love as his own. At one act he foreknew whom he would chooſe, and ſet apart of his own free love to Life and Salvation. And here you have the cauſe of Gods predeſtinating his Saints to glory, it was only the fore-knowledge, and free love of God: the Lord from everlaſting, and before the foundation of the World, fore-ordained or fore-appointed ſome to Salvation, nothing moving him thereunto but his own good pleaſure and his own free love. This is it that in order of nature, and ſtrictly goes before, and is the cauſe of our Predeſtination; for whom he did foreknow, he alſo did predeſtinate; firſt he fore- Rom. 8. 29. knew, and then he did Predeſtinate; firſt he loved, and then he Elected; firſt he embraced them as his own in the Arms of his Eternal love, and then of his free love he ſet them apart to Life, and to Salvation: hence the Apoſtle calls it the Election of Grace, ſignifying Rom. 11. 5. that our Election ſprings out of the womb of love; free love, free grace is the cauſe of our Election.

Some Object that we are Predeſtinated and Elected according to fore-knowledge, (i. e.) ſay they, according to the fore-knowledge of our Faith, and Repentance, and Perſeverance; but if that were Paul's fore-knowledge, why Rom. 8. 29. then would he ſay, that thoſe whom he did fore-know, he alſo did Predeſtinate to be conformed to the Image of his Son? if God did fore-know them firſt conformed, why did he then Predeſtinate them to be conformed? And if that were Peter's fore-knowledge, why then would he ſay, that they were Elect according to the fore-knowledge of 2Pet..1.2. God the Father —— unto Obedience? if God did fore-know them firſt Obedient, how then did he fore-know them unto Obedience? I know it is a queſtion, whether God in fore-ſight of belief, and perſeverance in Faith and Holineſs, do chooſe us to Salvation? For my part, I am for the Negative, upon theſe well-known grounds.

1. Becauſe Election on Faith foreſeen, makes God to go out of himſelf, looking to this or that in the Creature, upon which his Will may be determined to Elect; now this is againſt the all-ſufficiency of Gods knowledge, as if he ſhould get knowledge, from the things we know, and againſt the all-ſufficiency of Gods Will; as if he muſt be beholding to ſomething in us, before the buſineſs of our Election can be determined.

2. Becauſe Election on Faith or Love foreſeen, it makes God to chooſe us when we have choſen him, and to love us when we have loved him firſt; but this is contrary to Scripture, We love him becauſe he loved us firſt; —— and 1 John 4. 19. V. 10. herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and ſent his Son to be the propitiation for our Sins.

3. Becauſe Election on ſaith fore-ſeen, ſtands not with the freedom of Gods Will within himſelf, but God tells us plainly, I will have Rom. 9. 15. Mercy on whom I will have Mercy, and I will have Compaſſion on whom I will have Compaſſion. *John Goodwin's expoſition on Rom. 9. 15, 16. * I know ſome would not have this Text underſtood of Election from Eternity, but of Juſtification, Adoption, Salvation, and yet they grant the truth of it to be alike, whether in reference to Election or Juſtification: the words, I will have Mercy on whom I will have Mercy, are one and the ſame with thoſe words Exod. 33. 19. ſpoken by God to Moſes, I will be Gracious to whom I will be Gracious; Now to be Gracious, as is confeſſed, properly imports a propenſeneſs of mind and will to do ſome ſignal good without any motive or engagement thereunto from without, eſpecially from the Perſon or Perſons to whom this good is done, or intended; which is a plain Argument, that I will have Mercy, is not of that kind of Mercy the exerciſe whereof is drawn out, or procured by any thing whatſoever in thoſe to whom it is ſhewed, but becauſe it pleaſeth it ſelf or him in whom it reſideth ſo to do; and in this reſpect Mercy differs very little, or nothing at all from Grace: the Apoſtle exchanging Moſes his words, was but his Interpreter.

4. Becauſe Election on Faith fore-ſeen, is all one as to ſay, we are ordained to eternal Life becauſe we believe; but the Scripture ſpeaks contrary, as many as were ordained to Acts 13. 48. Eternal Life believed, and not as many as believed were Ordained to Eternal Life.

5. Becauſe a prime and Eternal cauſe cannot depend upon the ſelf-ſame temporal effects which are thereby cauſed. Now, Election is the prime and eternal Cauſe whence our Faith, Repentance, and Preſeverance were derived; and therefore our Faith, Repentance, and Perſeverance cannot be imagined antecedent Cauſes, Conditions or Motives unto the Divine Election.

6. Becauſe Election on Faith fore-ſeen, or Election of Men believing and preſevering in Faith and Holineſs unto the laſt gaſp, brings with it many abſurdities. As, 1. This is to Elect Men, not conſidered as in the State of Innocency, nor of Miſery, but as in ſtate of Grace, contrary to their own Tenets. 2. This is not to bring Faith, Holineſs, Perſeverance out of the gracious benefit of Election, but to bring Election out of the foreſeen Acts of believing, obeying, perſevering, quite contrary to Scriptures: he hath Choſen us in him before Eccleſ. 1. 4. the foundation of the World, that we ſhould be holy and without blame before him in Love. 3. This were to ſay that Election or Predeſtination affords no Man any help at all, in the way unto Eternal Salvation; for how can that be the cauſe leading infallibly in the way unto Eternal Life, which comes not ſo much as into conſideration, until a Man have run out his Race (at leaſt in Gods fore-knowledge) in Faith, and Godlineſs, and be arrived at Heavens Gates? Such a falſely named Predeſtitation might more truly and properly have been called a Poſt-deſtination. But I have too long ſtood on this Controverſie; and indeed it is againſt my deſign, which is not to Miniſter queſtions, but ra- 1 Tim. 1. 4. ther edifying, which is in Faith. I remember what I have Read, and indeed I begin already to feel, that theſe Controverſal Points will but diſcompoſe our Spirits, and waſte our zeal, our love, our delight in Jeſus (this lovely ſubject, and object we are a-viewing) even by the Interruption and Diverſion of our Contemplations: not a word more in that Kind.

Sect. 7. The Purpoſe.

OF the Purpoſe of God concerning Mans Salvation before all Worlds, we read in Scriptures; we know that all things work toge- Rom. 8. 28. ther for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpoſe. And it is ſaid of Jacob and Eſau, that being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand. And in Chriſt we are ſaid to obtain an inheritance, be- Rom. 9. 11. ing predeſtinate according to the purpoſe of him who worketh all things after the counſel of his own Will. And elſe where the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Epheſ. 1. 11. the manifold wiſdom of God according to the eternal purpoſe, which he purpoſed in Chriſt Jeſus our Lord. And again, he hath ſaved us and called Epheſ. 3 1. 2 Tim. 1. 1. us with an holy calling, not according to our works but according to his own purpoſe and Grace, which was given us in Chriſt Jeſus before the World began. All theſe hold forth this truth, That God purpoſed in himſelf from all eternity to bring them, whom he foreknew, to Life and to Salvation. This purpoſe of God in order of Nature comes before Predeſtination, in that we are Epheſ. 1 11. ſaid to be Predeſtinate according to his purpoſe, and yet it muſt needs follow after his foreknowledge and Counſel; for firſt, he loves before he will purpoſe, and every purpoſe is eſtabliſhed by Counſel;

ſel; yea, without Counſel, Purpoſes (ſaith the wiſe Man*) are diſappointed*; why then, firſt he Counſels (I ſpeak after the manner of Men) and then he foreknows; (i.e.) either he knows Prov.20 18. whom he will chooſe, for God doth not blindly Prov. 11. 22. chooſe he knows not whom; or elſe he ſets his love to Life on ſome, he knows them with a knowledge of approbation, and then he ſettles a purpoſe to bring them to Life, whom he ſo foreknows in that eſpecial and unſpeakable way.

This purpoſe of God ſpeaks our ſtability and certainty of Salvation in Chriſt: when God once purpoſeth, it is paſt altering: Surely as I have thought, ſo ſhall it come to paſs, and as I have purpoſed (ſaith God) ſo ſhall it ſtand; you may write upon it that Gods purpoſes are Iſa.14.24. immutable. Would not Paul lightly alter purpoſes taken up by him; when I therefore was 1Cor.1 17. thus minded (ſaith he) did I uſe lightneſs? or the thing that I purpoſe, do I purpoſe according to the fleſh, that with me there ſhould be yea, yea, and nay, nay? would not Paul (I ſay) alter his purpoſe? and will God think you alter his? methinks, this word ſpeaks to me, as if I heard God ſay from all eternity, It is my purpoſe to ſave a remnant of Mankind; though all are loſt by Sin, yet my Wiſdom hath found out a way to chooſe out ſome; and though thoſe ſome, thoſe few I have purpoſed to ſave, ſtand in very ſlippery places, yet I will be the ſame yeſterday, and to day, and for ever. I foreſee indeed many thouſands of failings Heb.13.8. and exaſperations, to alter the purpoſe that I have towards my People, I foreſee their dayly Provocations of my Juſtice; I foreſee their many luſts within, and their many Enemies without; I foreſee that Grace inherent I will give them to be as mutable to all the Progeny as in their Father Adam; and if I leave them in the hands of their own Counſel they cannot but depart daily from me even as Water, though it could be made as hot as Fire, yet being left unto it ſelf, it will quickly reduce, and work it ſelf to its own original coldneſs again: I foreſee them in their beſt condition, at full Sea, at their higheſt Tyde of Grace, to be as changeable and moveable ſeveral ways, as wheels; to be as perplexed, hindered, and diſtracted in themſelves, as croſs wheels in one another; Grace ſwaying one way, and fleſh another way, and what ſtability can I think in ſuch? Why yet (ſays God) yet I purpoſe to bring this little flock to Heaven; my purpoſe is, in, and from my ſelf, and I am God and not Man, and therefore I cannot repent, nor call Numb.23. 15. in the purpoſe which now I have; have I ſaid, and ſhall not I do it? have I ſpoken, and ſhall I not make it good? yes, yes, my purpoſes muſt ſtand, and for this purpoſe I will ſet my Son betwixt my people and my ſelf; ſo that if they Sin, I will look on him, and by that means I will ſee no iniquity in Numb.23. 21. Jacob, nor tranſgreſſion in Iſrael; and for this purpoſe I will joyn to the wheels the living Creatures, that when the living Creatures go, the wheels ſhall go; and when the living Creatures ſtand, they ſhall ſtand; and when the living Creatures are lifted up from the Earth, the wheels ſhall be lifted Ezek. 1. 21. up againſt them, for the Spirit of the living Creatures ſhall be in the wheels: my meaning is, that my Saints ſhall not have their ſtability from themſelves, for they are like wheels: but they ſhall have it from me, and from my Son, unto whom by the ſame Spirit of Life they ſhall be united. Thus may I imagine the Lord from all eternity to ſay and ſpeak, and purpoſe with himſelf, and Rom. 11. 9. ſurely his purpoſes muſt ſtand upon this account, for the gifts and calling of God are without repentance.

Sect. 8. The Decree.

THE Decree of God concerning Mans Salvation before the foundation of the World, appears in theſe Texts, I will declare Pſa.2.7,8. the Decree (ſaith God;) what was that? why, concerning Chriſt, and concerning the Church, thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee; ask of me, and I ſhall give thee the Heathen for thine Inheritance, and the uttermoſt parts of the Earth for thy Poſſeſſion. It was Gods Decree to give out of Jews and Gentiles a Church to Chriſt; and this Decree was wade in that day of Eternity, when the Son of God was begotten of his Father. This Decree in Scripture phraſe hath ſeveral titles, 1. It is the very ſame with that which we uſually call Predeſtination; for what is Predeſtination but a Decree of God concerning the different preparations of Grace, wereby ſome are guided infallibly unto Salvation? Predeſtination is a Decree both of the means and end; a Decree of giving Grace, effectual unto ſome Perſons here, and of bringing the ſame Perſons unto Glory hereafter. This Decree, this Predeſtination, this golden Chain of the means and end, is ſet down by the Apoſtle, Whom he did Predeſtinate, them he alſo called; and whom he called, them he alſo juſtified, and whom he juſtified, them he alſo glorified. Rom.8. 30. As God hath predeſtinated ſome to Life and Glory, ſo he hath predeſtinated them to be called, and juſtified before they be glorified; whomſoever the Lord hath decreed to ſave, them hath he alſo decreed to ſanctifie before they come to injoy that Salvation. God hath choſen Eccl. 1. 4. us in Chriſt before the foundation of the World, that we ſhould be firſt Holy, and then Happy. See how theſe are twiſted by the Apoſtle once and again, God hath from the beginning 2Theſ. 2. 13. choſen you to Salvation, through ſanctification of the Spirit, and belief of the Truth. I have heard of ſome Blaſphemous reaſonings, If we are Predeſtinate to be ſaved, we may live as we liſt; for howſoever we live, though never ſo wickedly, yet we ſhall be ſaved. O fearful! O deviliſh reaſoning! ſurely this comes from the Devil, and not from God, or his Word: Mark here one of Satans depths, in outward things he tempts Men to diſtruſt God, and to rely altogether on means: but in heavenly things, and matters of Salvation, he tempts Men to lay all on Gods Decree and Gods purpoſes, without any regard had to the means. Such Men might as well ſay, the Lord hath appointed that we ſhall live to ſuch a time, and till then we ſhall not die, and therefore what need we Food in Health, or Phyſick in Sickneſs? Oh take heed of theſe reaſonings! Gods Decree doth not remove the uſe of the means, but eſtabliſh and confirm them. —— 2. The Decree is the ſame with that Book of Life, wherein are written the Names of the Elect; Paul tells us of ſome Women, with Clement, and other fellow-labourers Phil. 4. 3. whoſe Names are written in the Book of Life. And Luke. 12. 20. Chriſt bids his Diſciples rejoice, becauſe their Names are written in Heaven. Rev. 20. 12. And John ſaw in his Viſion the Dead, ſmall and great, ſtand before God, and the Books were opened, and another Book was opened, which is the Book of Life. As Captains have a Book wherein they write the names of their Soldiers; and Citizens have a Book wherein they record the names of their Burgeſſes; So God hath his Decree or Book of Life, in which he regiſters all that belongs to him. Some other Texts ſpeak of a Book of Life, as, blot me I pray thee out of thy Book which thou haſt written, ſaid Moſes in his zeal for Iſrael; to whom the Lord anſwered Exod. 32. 32, 33. whoſoever ſinneth againſt me, him will I blot out of my Book. But this was not the Book (ſay ſome) of Gods Eternal Decree, but the Book of his Providences; God hath a double Book, and both in a figure: he hath a Book of his reſolved Decrees, and a Book of his acted Providences; this latter is but a tranſcript, or a copy of the former; thoſe huge original Volumes of Love and Bleſſings which God hath laid up in his heart for his own People from all eternity is the Book I mean: indeed this Book is writing out every day, by the hand and pen of Providence in the ordering of all thoſe affairs which concern our Salvation. ——

3. This Decree is the very ſame alſo with Gods ſeal; the foundation of God ſtandeth ſure, having this ſeal, the Lord knoweth them that are his. A ſeal is uſed in three caſes; 1. To keep things diſtinct. 2. To keep things ſecret. 3. To keep things ſafe: In every of theſe reſpects Gods Decrees are Seals, but eſpecially in the laſt; thoſe Souls that are Sealed by God, they are ſafe in the Love and Favour of God; as when Job tells us that God ſealeth up the Stars, (i.e.) ſay ſome, he preſerveth the Stars in their Orbs, in the places where he hath ſet them they ſhall never drop out; ſo God ſeals up his Saints, (i.e.) he ſecures them of the eternal love of God, ſo that they ſhall never drop out of his heart. All theſe titles ſpeak the immutability of Gods eternal eminent acts; q. d. I Decree, I Predeſtinate, I Book it, Seal it, that ſuch and ſuch Perſons ſhall be eternally ſaved; and why all this? but to note the certainty, and ſtability of the thing: ſhall great Monarchs of the Earth do this? ſhall they Decree, and Book, and Seal, to ſhew their Greatneſs and Wiſdom, that. they could ſo reſolve, as no Perſon or Power whoſoever ſhould be ſtorng enough to cauſe them to change their reſolutions? and ſhall not I much more? do not I know, or foreſee all that can or will follow? is there any Power, or ever ſhall be to take them out of my hands? Or is it poſſible that ever I ſhould have a relenting thought at the ſaving of theſe Souls? Can any thing fall out hereafter to make me more provident, more powerful, more wiſe, more merciful than now I am? it may be in ſome things I may will a change, but can I in any thing truly change my Will? no, no, I am the Mal. 3. 9. Lord, I change not, therefore ye Sons of Jacob are not conſumed.

Sect. 9. The Covenant.

THE Covenant concerning Mans Salvation is the laſt and main particular I inſtanced in: I dare not be too curious to inſiſt on the order of Nature; and the rather, becauſe I believe the Covenant betwixt God and Chriſt from everlaſting is interwoven with the Decree, Fore-knowledge, and Election above. So the Apoſtle tells us, Epheſ. 1. 4. He hath choſen us in Chriſt before the Foundation of the World; mark that in Chriſt: There was an eternal plot betwixt the Father and the Son; there was a bargain made (I ſpeak it with reverence) betwixt God and Chriſt, there was a Covenant betwixt the Lord and his Son Jeſus Chriſt for the Salvation of the Elect; and of this obſerve we eſpecially theſe following Texts.

In Iſaiah 49. 1, 2, 3, 4. the Prophet ſeems to ſet it Dialogue-wiſe; one expreſſeth it thus; firſt Chriſt begins, and ſhews his Commiſſion, telling God how he had called him, and fitted him for the work of Redemption, and he would know what reward he ſhould have of him for ſo great an Undertaking. The Lord hath called me from the Womb, from the bowels Iſa. 49. 1, 2. of my mother hath he made mention of my Name, and he hath made my Mouth like a ſharp Sword; in the ſhadow of his hand hath he hid me, and made me a poliſhed ſhaft; in his quiver hath he hid me. Upon this God anſwers him, and tells him what reward he ſhould have for ſo great an Undertaking; only at firſt he offers low, viz. only the Elect People of Iſrael. And he ſaid unto me, thou art my Servant O Iſrael, in whom Ver. 3. I will be Glorified; or Iſrael it is in whom I will be Glorified by thee. Chriſt who ſtood now as making his bargain with him, thought theſe too few, and not worth ſo great a labour and work, becauſe few of the Jews would come in, but would refuſe him, and therefore he ſays he ſhould labour in vain, if this were all his recompence, Ver. 4. then ſaid I, I have laboured in vain, I have ſpent my ſtrength for naught and in vain; and yet withal he tells God, that ſeeing his heart was ſo much in ſaving Sinners, he would do it howſoever for thoſe few, comforting himſelf with this, that his work, or his reward was with the Lord. Upon this God comes off more freely, and opens his heart more largely to him, as meaning more amply to content him for his pains in dying; it is a Ver. 6. light thing that thou ſhouldeſt be my Servant to raiſe up the Tribe of Jacob, and to reſtore the preſerved of Iſrael: that is not worth the dying for, I value thy ſufferings more than ſo, I will alſo give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayeſt be my Salvation unto the ends of the Earth. Methinks I imagine as if I heard God ſpeak unto Chriſt from eternity: See here I have loved a remnant of Mankind both of Jews and Gentiles with an Everlaſting love, I know they will Sin and corrupt themſelves, and ſo become Enemies to me, and liable unto eternal Death; now thou art a mighty Perſon, able to do what I require of thee for them; if thou wilt take upon thee their Nature and Sins, and undertake to ſatisfie my Juſtice and Law, and take away that hatred that is in them towards me and my Law, and make them a believing Holy People, then I will pardon them, and adopt them in thee for my Sons and Daughters, and make them coheirs with thee of an incorruptible Crown of Life. And then ſaid Heb. 10. 7. 9. Chriſt, lo I come to do thy Will O God; then Chriſt as it were ſtruck hands with God to take upon him the Nature and Sin of Man, and to do and ſuffer for him whatſoever God required of him. Certainly, this was the whole buſineſs of our Salvation firſt tranſacted betwixt God the Father and Chriſt, before it was revealed to us. Hence we are ſaid, to be given unto Chriſt, I have manifeſted thy Name Joh. 17. 6. (ſaid Chriſt) unto the Men which thou gaveſt me out of the World, thine they were, and thou gaveſt them me: this very giving implies, as if the Father in his Eternity ſhould have ſaid to the Son, theſe I take to be Veſſels of Mercy, and theſe thou ſhalt bring unto me, for they will deſtroy themſelves, but thou ſhalt ſave them out of their loſt Eſtate. And then the Son takes them at his Father hand, and looking at his Fathers Will; this is the Fathers Will which hath ſent me, that of all which Joh. 6. 39. he hath given me, I ſhould loſe nothing; he thereupon takes care of ſuch; he would not for a

World any of them ſhould be loſt which his Father hath given him, they are more dear than ſo

In Iſaiah 53. 10, 11. and in *Pſal.*40.7. Chriſt is brought in as a Surety, —— offering himſelf for us, and readily accepting of Gods Will in this very matter: and hence it is that he is called Gods Servant; and his Ears are ſaid to be opened.

In Iſa. 42. 6. this very Covenant is expreſly mentioned. Thus God ſpeaks of Chriſt, Be- Iſa.5.11. Pſal. 40.6. Iſa.42.6. hold my Servant whom I uphold, mine Elect in whom my Soul delighteth: —— I will give thee for a Covenant of the People, for a light of the Gentiles. Yea, this Covenant and agreement ſeems to be confirmed with an Oath, in *Heb.*7. 28. and for this ſervice Chriſt is required to ask of God, and he will give him the Heathen for his Pſal.2.8. Inheritance. Obſerve how the Church of God is given to Chriſt as a reward of that obedience which he ſhewed in accepting of the Office of a Surety for us. This ſtipulation ſome make to be that Counſel of Peace ſpoken of by the Heb.7.28. Zach. 6. 13. V. 12. Prophet, and the Counſel of Peace ſhall be between them both, (i.e.) between the Lord, and the Man whoſe Name is the Branch. And for this agreement it is, that Chriſt is called the ſecond Adam; for, as with the firſt Adam God plighted a Covenant concerning him, and his Poſterity, ſo alſo he did indent with Chriſt and his Seed, concerning eternal Life to be obtained by him. I deny not but that ſome promiſes were made only to Chriſt in his own Perſon, and not to deſcend to his Children, as, Sit on my right hand until I make thine Ene- Heb.1.13. Iſa.53.10. Pſal.2.5. Heb.1.8. Jer.32.38. mies thy Foot-ſtool; and he ſhall ſee his Seed, he ſhall prolong his Days, the pleaſure of the Lord ſhall proſper in his hands; and ask of me, and I will give thee the Heathen for thine Inheritance and the uttermoſt parts of the Earth for thy Poſſeſſion. But there are other Promiſes, made to him and his; as that Grand Promiſe, I will be to him a Father, and he ſhall be to me a Son; it is firſt made to him, and then to us: and that ſpecial Promiſe of ſpiritual Grace, John 1. 16. of juſtification, Iſa. 50. 8. of Victory and Dominion, Pſal. 110. 2. of the Kingdom of Glory, Luke 24 26. they are every one firſt made to him, and then to us; ——The buſineſs from Eternity lay thus; here is Man loſt (ſaid God to his Son) but thou ſhalt in fullneſs of time go and be born of Fleſh and Blood, and Die for them, and ſatisfie my Juſtice, and they ſhall be thine for a Portion, and they ſhall be called the Holy People, the redeeemed of the Lord, Iſa. 62. 12. This ſhalt thou do (ſaid the Father) and upon theſe terms they ſhall live that believe. This was Gods Covenant with the Son of his Love for us; to whom the Son anſwered (as it were) again; Pſal. 40. 6, 7. Content Father, I will go and fulfill thy Pleaſure, and they ſhall be mine for ever; I will in the fullneſs of time Die for them, and they ſhall Live in me. Burnt-offerings, and Sin-offerings thou haſt not required, (no, it was Self-offering) then ſaid I, loe I come, in the Volume of the Book it is written of me, to do thy Will, O my God. In what, Book was it written, that Chriſt ſhould come to do the Will of God? Not only in the Book of the Law and the Prophets, but alſo in the Book of Gods Decrees: In this ſence, the Rev.13.8. Lamb was ſlain from the Foundation of the World. His Father from before all time appointed him to be our High-Prieſt, and he from all Eternity ſubſcribed to his Fathers pleaſure in it.

In Galat. 3. 15. Brethren, I ſpeak after the manner of Men; though it be but a Mans Co- Gal.3.15. venant, yet if it be confirmed, no Man diſanulleth, or addeth thereto. Now to Abraham and his ſeed were the promiſes made; he ſaith not, and to ſeeds, as of many, but as of one, and to thy ſeed, which is Chriſt. There is a queſtion whether this Covenant here mentioned, was made only betwixt God and Chriſt, or only betwixt God and us, or both betwixt God and Chriſt, and betwixt God and us. The occaſion of this queſtion is in theſe words, Now to Abraham Jer.3.31. and his Seed, were the promiſes made; he ſaith not, and to Seeds, as of many but as of one, and to thy Seed which is Chriſt. 1. Some argue hence, that there is no Covenant or Promiſe made to us, but only to Chriſt, or with Chriſt; Chriſt ſtood for us, and articled with God for us, and performed the conditions for Life and Glory; ſo that the Promiſes are made all to him: yet this indeed is confeſſed, that becauſe we are Chriſts, and are concerned in the Covenant, it is therefore ſometimes called a Covenant made with us; I will make a new Covenant with the Houſe of Iſrael, and with the Houſe of Judah; not that the Covenant is really made with us, but only with Chriſt for us; and when we feel our ſelves under the power of the Promiſe, we begin then to know that we are in that ſame Covenant. But this is rather (ſay they) to feel our ſelves in that Covenant which God hath made with Chriſt, than to enter into Covenant with God our ſelves.

2. Others argue hence, that there is no Covenant or Promiſe made with Chriſt Perſonal, but only with Chriſt Myſtical, ſuch who are Members of Chriſt, and ſo United to Chriſt; for mark the Text (ſay they) the Promiſe is made firſt to Abraham, and then to his Seed, this Seed is ſuch a Seed as comes to have a right to the Promiſe in order from Abraham; now this cannot be Chriſt Perſonal, but Chriſt Myſtical: And whereas the Text ſays, the Promiſe is not made to Seeds, but to Joh. 8.37. Gal.3.29. one Seed, which is Chriſt, they diſtinguiſh of a double Seed of Abraham; Firſt, there is a carnal, Natural Seed according to the Fleſh, and in this ſenſe Chriſt ſpeaks to thoſe wicked unbelieving Jews, which went about to kill him. I know ye are Abraham's Seed, but ye ſeek to kill me. Secondly, there is a ſpiritual Seed that walk in the Faith and Steps of Abraham; know ye therefore that they which are of Faith, the ſame are the Children of Abraham. And if ye be Chriſts, then are ye Abraham's Seed, and Heirs according to the Promiſe; now the Promiſe is made to Abraham and his Seed, not Seeds; (i.e.) not to both Seeds, both carnal and ſpiritual, but only to the one, which is the ſpiritual, and this Seed is Chriſt, (i.e.) Chriſt Myſtical, the Body of Chriſt, the Faithful that are knit to Chriſt by a true and lively Faith.

3. Others argue hence, that this Covenant is made both betwixt God and Chriſt, and betwixt God and us; Firſt, betwixt God and Chriſt: All the work of Redemption and Salvation was tranſacted betwixt God and Chriſt, before the Foundation of the World; but this doth not hinder, but that the ſame Promiſe is afterwards in time made to us alſo: Look as it is in Covenants amongſt Men, while the Child is yet unborn the Father takes Conveyance of an Inheritance for his Child, which he keeps in his own hand till the Child be born and come to years, and then he puts it into his own Poſſeſſion; ſo it is here, we are for a time hid in the Womb of God's Election, till we are brought forth by the Grace of Regeneration; now during this time we are not in our ſelves capable of receiving any Promiſe of Life made to us; but it is made to Chriſt in our behalf, and he receives the Promiſe from the Father in our ſtead; but yet ſo that when we come to be born anew, the Promiſes are made unto our ſelves, and then we are put into Poſſeſſion of them.

Here then is the meaning of the Text, the Covenant is made with Chriſt; (i. e.) with Chriſt, and his Heirs; principally with Chriſt, and with Abraham's Nature in Chriſt, and yet perſonally with Believers, who are alſo the Seed of Abraham. All the difference is in that term Chriſt, what thereby is meant, whether Chriſt Perſonal, or Chriſt Myſtical, or Chriſt Repreſentative: And we ſay———

1. Not Chriſt Perſonal, I mean not Chriſt's Perſon ſingly conſidered, for that, 1. Would fight with the ſcope of Paul, whoſe bent it is to Ver. 17. prove the Promiſe of Eternal Life to be made Ver 8. to all believers: and that, 2. Would conclude Ver. 14. the Promiſe of Eternal Life to be given only
Ver. 13. to Chriſt, and not at all to thoſe that are Believers in Chriſt.

2. Not Chriſt Myſtical, for 1. The Promiſe is made to Chriſt, In whom the Covenant was confirmed. 2. In whom the Nations were Bleſſed. 3. In whom we receive the Promiſe of the Spirit through Faith. 4. Who was made a Curſe for us. Now not any of theſe can agree to Chriſt Myſtical; Chriſt Myſtical did not confirm the Covenant, nor bleſs the Nations, nor give the Spirit, nor was made a Curſe.

3. It is Chriſt Repreſentative, Chriſt Mediator, Chriſt a publick Perſon, to whom the Promiſes were made, for Chriſt and his Heirs, are but all of them one confederate Family; and as the Covenant of works was made with Adam, and all his: And there were not two Covenants; ſo here, the Covenant is made with the ſecond Adam, and his Children: But

I have now propounded the Object we are to look unto; it is Jeſus in that Eternity before all time until the Creation. Our next buſineſs is to direct us in the Art or Myſtery of Grace, how we are to look unto him, in this reſpect.

CHAP. II. SECT. I.

Of knowing Jeſus carrying on the Great Work of our Salvation in that Eternity.

LOoking, comprehends Knowing, Conſidering, Deſiring, Hoping, Believing, Loving, Joying, Calling upon Jeſus, and Conforming to Jeſus. If then we will have an inward experimental Look upon Jeſus, we muſt act, and exerciſe all theſe particulars.

1. We muſt know Jeſus, carrying on the great Work of our Salvation in that Eternity before all time. Come, learn what this Jeſus is, 1. In his relation to God, and ſo he is God's Son, eternally Begotten before all Worlds. See above, and learn it throughly, who it is that was Begotten, for the Perſon, when it was for the time, how it was for the manner, and what was the mutual Kindneſs and Love of him that Begot, and of him that was Begotten: O the Height and Depth of this Knowledge! 2. Come, learn what this Jeſus is in his relation to us before all Worlds, and to that purpoſe ſtudy cloſe that great Tranſaction betwixt God and Chriſt for our Salvation. 1. Study that project of God, that he would Glorifie his Grace; and to this end, that he would Predeſtinate Chriſt, and in Chriſt he would chooſe ſome of the Souls of Men, and amongſt the reſt, that he would chooſe thee, whom notwithſtanding Sin, he would make Holy, and without blame before him in Love. 2. Study the Councels of God concerning Man before all Worlds: O 'twas an hard queſtion, how Sin ſhould be Pardon'd, the Sinner reconcil'd, and yet God glorifie his Juſtice? None but the Wiſdom of God could ever find out a way to have had Mercy on the Man, and yet to take Vengeance on the Sin; but herein appeared the Depth of the Riches both of the Wiſdom and Knowledge of God: he deviſed the way to Tranſlate this Man's Sin (ſuppoſe thine own Sins) on anothers Perſon, who was able to bear them; and to intereſt this Man's Perſon (ſuppoſe thine own ſelf) in anothers righteouſneſs, who was able to cover him. 3. Study the Fore-knowledge of God, how the Lord knew his from Everlaſting with a knowledge of Love and Approbation; after the project was laid, and the Councels of God were agreed upon it, then God fore-knew, or fore-ſaw whom to imbrace in his Eternal love: And, O my Soul, if thou art one of his, if God in Chriſt hath of his own free Love ſet thee apart to Life and Salvation, then know it for thy ſelf, it is inward experi- Job 5.27.
mental Knowledge we ſpeak of. 4. Study the purpoſe of God concerning thy Salvation; this purpoſe of God ſpeaks the ſtability, and certainty of thy Salvation in Chriſt; his purpoſe is in, and from himſelf, who is God, and not Man, and therefore cannot repent; hath he Numb.23.
ſaid, and ſhall he not do it? hath he ſpoken, 19.
and ſhall he not make it good? 5. Study the Decrees of God, they are all one with Prede-ſtination, the Book of Life, the Seal of God:
What hath the Lord Decreed, Predeſtinated, Booked, Sealed thee for Salvation? O how Pſal. 89.
Bleſſed is the People that know this joyful 15.
ſound! they ſhall walk in the light of thy Countenance, O Lord. 6. Study the Covenant of Grace, remember how the buſineſs of Eternity lay thus: Here is every Man loſt (ſaid God to his Son) but thou ſhalt in fulneſs of time go, and be born of Fleſh and Blood, and die for ſome of them, and ſatisfie my Juſtice, and they ſhall be thine for a Portion, and they ſhall be called the Holy People, the redeemed of the Lord. To whom the Son anſwered, be it ſo Lord, I will go and fulfil thy pleaſure, and they ſhall be mine for ever. Obſerve, and be acquainted with this Covenant in that very Dialogue: Firſt God demands of his Son that he lay down his Life, and for his labour he promiſeth that he ſhall be Iſa.53.10.
his Seed, and God ſhall give him many Children. And ſecondly, the Son conſents to lay down his Life, and ſaith, Here I am to do Heb. 10.
thy will O God, thou haſt given me a Body. 5, 9.
What, O my Soul, that the Father and Chriſt ſhould tranſact a bargain from Eternity concerning thee? that there ſhould be any communing betwixt the Father and the Son concerning thy Happineſs and Salvation? Surely this is worthy thy pains, and ſtudy; O hear it, and know thou it for thy good. Job 3.7.

Sect. 2. Of conſidering Jeſus in that reſpect.

2. WE muſt conſider Jeſus, carrying on this Work of Salvation in that Eternity. It is not enough to ſtudy, and know him, but according to the meaſure of Knowledge we have attained, we muſt ponder, and muſe, and meditate and conſider of him: now conſideration is an expatiating, and enlarging of the mind and heart on this or that ſubject: Conſideration is a fixing of our thoughts, a ſtedfaſt bending of our Minds to ſome Spiritual matter, till it work on the Affections, and Converſation. We may know, and yet be inconſiderate of that we do know; but when the intention of our Mind and Heart is taken up about ſome one known object, and other things are not for the preſent taken notice of, this is conſideration. O that, if it were poſſible, we could ſo conſider Jeſus in this firſt period of Eternity, as that for a while at leaſt we could forget all other things! Chriſtians! I beſeech you be dead to the World, be inſenſible of all other things, and look only on Jeſus; it is ſaid that Men in a phrenzy are inſenſible of what you do to them, becauſe their Minds are taken up about that which they apprehend ſo ſtrongly; and if ever there was any object made known to take up the Mind of a Spiritual Man, it is this, even this: not but that other objects may be deeply and ſeriouſly minded of Men; it is reported of Archimedes, who was a great Mathematician, that when the City was taken wherein he was, and the Warlike inſtruments of Death clattering about his Ears, and all was in a Tumult, yet he was ſo buſie about drawing his Lines, that he heard no noiſe, nor did he know there was any danger: but if ſuch objects as thoſe could take up the intention of his Mind, ſo as not to regard other things, how much more ſhould this conſideration of Chriſt? If a carnal heart, a Man that minds earthly things, be ſo taken up about them, becauſe they are an object ſuitable to him, how much more ſhould a gracious Heart, that can ſee into the reality of theſe things of God and Chriſt from Everlaſting, be ſo taken up with them as to Mind nothing elſe? Come then, O my Soul, and ſet thy conſideration on work, as thus.——

1. Conſider Jeſus: in his relation to God, how he was the eternal Son of the Father: I know in ſome reſpects we have little reaſon thus to look on Jeſus: as we are Sinners, and fallen from God, there is no looking on an abſolute Deity: Alas, that Majeſty (becauſe perfectly and eſſentially good) is no other than an Enemy to Sinners as Sinners; ſo as we are Sinners, and fallen from God, there is no looking on the Son of God; I mean on the Son of God, conſidered in the notion of his own eternal being, as Coequal, and Coeſſential to God the Father: Alas! our ſin hath offended his Juſtice, which is himſelf: And what have we to do with that dreadful Power which we have provoked? But conſidering Jeſus as Jeſus, which ſounds a Saviour to all Sinners believing on him: And that this Jeſus contains the two Natures of Chriſt, both the God-head, and Man-hood; now we that have our intereſt in him, may draw near, and (as we are capable) behold the brightneſs of his Glory. Heb. 1. 3. To this purpoſe the Scriptures have diſcovered to us God the Son, how he is the ſecond Perſon in the Trinity, having the foundation of perſonal ſubſiſtence from the Father alone, of whom by Communication of his Eſſence he is begotten from all Eternity; when there were no depths I was brought forth, — before the Mountains were ſetled, and before the Hills I was brought forth. Ante colles genita eram, before the Mountains I was begotten, as ſome; or, ante colles filiata eram, before the Mountains I was ſonned his Son, as others tranſlate it. Prov. 8. 24, 25. ——Why thus O my Soul, conſider Jeſus, the Son of God, but in this conſideration be not too curious; thou heareſt of the generation of the Son, and of the Proceſſion of the Holy Ghoſt, but for the manner how the Father begets the Son, or how the Father and Son do ſpire, and ſend forth the Holy Spirit, be not too buſie to enquire; thou mayeſt know a little, and conſider a little, but for the depth and main of this great Myſtery of Grace, let the generation of the Son of God be honoured with ſilence. I remember one being too curious and too inquiſitive, what God was doing on that long Ævum of Eternity before he made the World? It was anſwered, he decreed to make Hell for ſuch curious Inquiſitors. Aug. lib. 1. confeſſ. c. 12. Be not therefore too nice in this Conſideration: keep within bounds of Sobriety and Humility; and then as thou art able to comprehend, the Scriptures will diſcover that before God made the World in that long-long Ævum of Eternity, he was doing theſe things,——

1. Some things in relation to himſelf.
2. Some things in relation to his Creatures.

1. Some things in relation to himſelf; and thoſe things were either proper, or common to the three Perſons. 1. The things proper to each of the Perſons were thoſe internal, incommunicable actions of God, as 1. To beget; and that belongs only to the Father, who is neither made, nor created, nor begotten of any. 2. To be begotten; and that belongs only to the Son, who is of the Father alone, not made, nor created, but begotten. 3. To proceed from both; and that belongs only to the Holy Ghoſt, who is of the Father, and the Son, neither made, nor created, nor begotten, but proceeding. And theſe were God's Actions in that Eternity before all Worlds: The Father was begetting God the Son: The Son was begotten of God the Father, the Holy Ghoſt was proceeding from God the Father, and God the Son. But what were theſe Actions of God never in Action during all that Eternity? Yes, as they are called internal Actions, ſo they are permanent; look as the Sun doth always beget his Beams, and both Sun and Beams do ſend forth the heats: So the Father from all Eternity ever did, and now doth, and ever will beget his Son, and both the Father and the Son ever did and now do, and ever will aſpire and breath forth the Holy Ghoſt. Orig. hom. 6. in Jerem. And therefore Origen ſaith well, Our Jeſus is the brightneſs of God's Glory; now the brightneſs of Glory is not once begotten, and then afterwards leaves to be begotten; but as often as the Glory riſeth from whence the Brightneſs ſpringeth, ſo often doth the Brightneſs of glory ariſe. Heb. 1.3. Before the Hills, was I brought forth. Prov. 8.25. Some tranſlate thus, ante colles generat, and not as others, generavit me, before the Mountains were ſetled he begetteth me. Surely the Son of God is ever begetting, and the Holy Spirit is ever Proceeding.

2 The things common to the three Perſons in that Eternity were thoſe internal Actions of God, wherein the three Perſons did communicate: As 1. That one was in another, and poſſeſſed one another; the Father remaining with the Son, the Son with the Father, and the Holy Ghoſt in, and with them both. Prov. 8. 22. Thus we read of Chriſt, the Lord poſſeſſed me in the beginning of his way, before his Works of John 1. 1. old. And in the beginning was the Word, and John. 14. 10. the Word was with God. And I am in the Father, and the Father in me. 2. That one glorified another, the Father glorified the Son, and the Son glorified the Father, and the Holy Ghoſt glorified both the Father and the Son: And now, O Father, glorifie thou me with thine own ſelf; with the glory which I had with thee before the World was. John 17.5.

3. That one delighted in anorher, the Father delighted in the Son, the Son delighted in the Father, and the Holy Ghoſt delighted Prov. 8. 30. in them both; then I was by him, as one brought up with him, and I was daily his delight, rejoycing always before him. I was daily his delight, in the Original, delights, intimating that the Son was variety of delights unto his Father; rejoicing always before him, Chriſt ſpeaks in terms very quaint and familiar, always rejoicing, q. d. greatly ſporting: it is a Metaphor or ſimile taken from little ones which ſport and play before their Parents. O ſee how the Father and the Son rejoice in one anothers fellowſhip: nay, ſee how they ſpend that long eternity before the creation in nothing but rejoicing and delights: The Father delights in his Son, and the Son rejoiceth in his Father. Conſider O my Soul, thou haſt ſometimes had a tickling to know, what God was a doing before the Creation; why now be ſober, and ſatisfied with this knowledge: God ſpent all that time (if I may call it time) in delighting himſelf in Jeſus; why, this was God's work to delight in his Son, and he ſo delighted in him, that he deſired no other pleaſure than the company and beholding of him; which accordingly he twice told from Heaven, while Chriſt was on earth, ſaying, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed: —— in whom I am well pleaſed. The firſt ſound was at his Baptiſm, Matth. 3. 17. and the ſound at his transfiguration, Matth. 17. 5.

2. Some other things God was doing in relation to his Creatures; they will fall in at our next conſideration: only this by the way. As God and Chriſt rejoiced in the fruition of one another without communicating the notice thereof to any Creature; ſo in the next verſe we find them rejoicing in the ſalvation Prov.8.3. of men: and my delights were with the ſons of men. Amidſt the other conſiderations, O my ſoul think of this: what, that God from all eternity ſhould delight in thy ſalvation; why this conſideration ſets out to purpoſe the heart and deſire of God to ſave thy ſoul: for, 1. Delights ariſe out of the ſtrongeſt and choiceſt deſires; men are pleaſed with many things in which they delight not. 2. God and Chriſt are mentioned here to delight in this work, and in no other work of theirs, not in the Angels, not in the World, nor in any thing in it. 3. This their delight is mentioned next to their delighting in each other. 4. This delight is aforehand, whilſt Gods heart was only in the expectation, and his mind but laying the plot of thy ſalvation, all theſe argue how great a matter this was in God's eſteem, and how much his heart was in it, even from everlaſting. O let theſe fall into thy conſideration!

2. Conſider Jeſus meerly in his relation to us: conſider him in that great tranſaction betwixt God and him for our ſalvation. And that we may ſettle our thoughts, and dwell here, ——

1. Conſider the Project. The great God having entertained thoughts within himſelf, to communicate himſelf out of his aloneneſs everlaſting, he lays this plot, that all he would do in that reſpect, it ſhould be to the praiſe of the glory of his grace. O my ſoul conſider, meditate Epheſ.2.6. and muſe on this plot of the Almighty: it is contained by the Apoſtle in a very few words, do thou weigh them all: here is, 1. The Praiſe. 2. The Glory. 3. Of his Grace. 1. Praiſe is a ſetting forth of this or that by word, or deed, or geſture; it contains in it reverend reſpect, an high eſteem, a ſtrong admiration. 2. Glory is the glorious being, or eſſence of God, the glory of God in himſelf. Sometimes we read of the glory of his power, that 2 Theſ. 1. 9. is, his glorious eſſence, which is moſt power- Iſa 2.16. ful, and ſometimes of the glory of his Majeſty, that is, his glorious eſſence, which is moſt Epheſ.1.6. Majeſtical; and ſometimes of the glory of his grace, that is, his glorious eſſence, which is moſt gracious and merciful. But, 3. Why the glory of his grace? mercy and grace meet both in love, only they differ thus, mercy is love as it helps the miſerable, and grace is love as it gives good things, freely without deſert; here then is the great deſign which God from everlaſting carried on, that the glorious eſſence of his free love, free grace, ſhould be eſpecially manifeſted to his Saints, that ſo they might admire it, eſteem it, honour it, and ſound forth the praiſes of it. All the other deſigns of God were but ſubſervient unto this. Some reckon up three great deſigns of the Almighty communicating himſelf; as, 1. The glory of his Saints. 2. The glory of Chriſt. 3. The glory of himſelf, and eſpecially the glory of his grace. 1. That his Saints ſhould be glorious, and to that purpoſe he made Heaven and Earth, and he makes them Lords of all, all things are yours. 2. That Chriſt ſhould be 1 Cor.3. 21. glorious, and to that purpoſe he makes the Saints, and gives them to Chriſt, all things are ver.23. yours, and you are Chriſts. And certainly ſaith 2Theſ.14. 10. the Apoſtle, at the laſt day, Chriſt ſhall come to be glorified in his Saints, and to be admired in all them that believe. 3. That God him- Prov.16. 4. ſelf ſhould be glorified; he made all things for himſelf. —— Bring my ſons from far, and my Iſa.4.36.7. daughters from the ends of the earth, even every one that is called by my Name, for I have created him for my glory. Now this is the high deſign of God, to which all the reſt are ſubſervient; mark the ſteps, all things are yours, and you are Chriſt's, and Chriſt is Gods (i. e.) For God, and for his glory: the two former deſigns are they to which, but not for which God worketh: he that buildeth an houſe, that he may lay a ſure foundation, and that he may raiſe the frame, he gives it the due filling which belongs to it: but theſe are not his proper ends, his main deſign: but that he may have an houſe for his habitation: So God works many things to our glory, and that in us Chriſt may be glorious; but the proper end, that high deſign which he hath in all, it is his own glory. And yet O my Soul, conſider a little further, the plot of our Salvation, of the Saints glory, and of Chriſts glory, as it aims at the glory of God, ſo eſpecially at the glory of his grace: As if we ſee that one doth this or that in wiſdom, it is the glory of his wiſdom: if he do it in ſtrength or power, it is the glory of his power: if he do it out of grace, it is the glory of his grace: ſo God deſigned the Salvation of our Souls out of his meer grace, fovour, love, he muſt needs intend to have his grace notified in us, and to have it (being known) accordingly admired and praiſed, and honoured by us; not but that God muſt be gloryfied in his wiſdom, power, juſtice, holineſs; and his other attributes; ay, but eſpecially in this, it is the grace of God in which he moſt delighteth, even as vertuous Kings affect, above all their other vertues, to be had in honour for their clemency, and bounty. So it is with our God the King of Kings, Lord of Lords; all he doth is to this end, that his grace may be manifeſted to his greater glory. And to this end is the glory of Chriſt, and the glory of Chriſtians referred. Why Lord, that this ſhould be thy plot, to ſave my ſoul, that my ſoul ſhould praiſe the glory of thy grace? that thy grace ſhould before all worlds think on me for good? O how ſhould I but think on thee and thy free grace? How ſhould I but admire it, adore it, praiſe it, exalt it above Sun and Moon, and Stars? how ſhould I but cry out with the Apoſtle, Oh! the depth of the riches of thy grace! for of him, and through him, and to him are all things, to whom be glory for ever, and ever, Amen. Rom.11. 36.

2. Conſider the counſels of God about thy ſalvation: he worketh all things after the counſel of his own will: and with him is counſel, and with him is underſtanding. Epheſ. 1. 11. This counſel (as we have diſcovered) was primarily about that reconciliation of the riches of his grace, and the glory of his juſtice. Conſider this, O my ſoul, thy ſin put all the attributes of God to a kind of conflict; hereupon was that great and mighty counſel, how God ſhould make way for his love and goodneſs, and yet ſatisfie his truth, and juſtice? at laſt the wiſdom of God found out that glorious and wonderful expedient, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt: is not this the meaning of the Apoſtle? whom God hath ſet forth to be a propitiation through faith in his Blood, to declare his righteouſneſs for remiſſion of ſins. Rom, 3. 25. Ponder and weigh theſe words! God ſets not forth Chriſt to be a propitiation to declare only his mercy in the forgiveneſs of ſins: how? is there any thing but mercy in the forgiveneſs of ſins? yes, there is ſome thing elſe, there is righteouſneſs alſo, and therefore he hath ſet forth Chriſt to be a propitiation, that he might declare his righteouſneſs; nay, ſee it repeated, to declare I ſay his righteouſneſs, that he might be juſt, and the juſtifier of him which believeth in Jeſus: ver. 26. not that he might be merciful, but that he might be juſt in juſtifying him that believeth in Jeſus. This Text Luther had a great deal ado to underſtand, and he prayed much, before he could get the right meaning of it.

This is the great myſtery of the Goſpel; no wonder if a poor man could not reach it: This is that which ſet the infinite wiſdom of God on work from all eternity, how to find a way to ſave ſinners, and to be infinitely righteous notwithſtanding. ——Nay, yet O my ſoul, conſider a little further; not only is the mercy of God in this way glorified, but the glory of his juſtice is as much, yea more than if the ſinner were eternally damned: —— It is made good thus, ——

1. When God appointed a Surety, his Son, and charged our debts upon him to ſatisfie his juſtice: in that God would not ſpare his Son the leaſt farthing token, I mean, not the leaſt degree of puniſhment; hereby the Lord ſhews a ſtronger love to juſtice than if he had damned ten thouſand thouſand creatures. Suppoſe a Malefactor comes before a Judge, the Judge will not ſpare the Malefactor, but commands ſatisfaction to the Law; this ſhews that the Judge loves Juſtice; but if the Judges own Son be a delinquent, and it appears before all the Country, that the Judge will not ſpare him, the Judge now doth more honour juſtice in this, than in condemning a thouſand others: So when the Lord ſhall caſt many thouſands to Hell, there to be tormented for ever, and ever, this ſhews that God loves juſtice; but when his own Son ſhall take our ſins upon him, and God will not ſpare him, (that is the very word in the Scripture, he ſpared not his own Son) this, Rom. 8. 32. ſurely this declares God's love to righteouſneſs more than if all the World ſhould be Damned.

2. Suppoſe the ſinner that is reconciled had been Damned, then the juſtice of God had been but in ſatisfying, and never had been fully ſatisfied: but in that way that God hath found out to ſave a ſinner, his juſtice is not only ſatisfying, but it comes fully to be ſatisfied, to have enough. As for inſtance; ſuppoſe a man to be a creditor to one, who owes him 100000 l. this man is poor, and the utmoſt he can pay is but a penny a day; ſuppoſe the creditor ſhould lay him in the Gaol until he had paid him the utmoſt farthing, it is true he would be receiving day after day, but he would never be paid ſo long as the debtor lives; now if another rich man ſhould come, and lay down an 100000 l. at once, the creditor is preſently ſatisfied. Why here is the difference betwixt Gods ſatisfying his juſtice upon ſinners, and upon Jeſus Chriſt; God comes upon the ſinner, and requires the debt of puniſhment, becauſe he did not pay the debt of obedience: God caſts him into Priſon, and the utmoſt he can pay, is but (as it were) a penny a day; and hence the poor ſinner muſt ſtill be paying, and paying, and paying to Eternity: this is the ground of their Eternal puniſhment in Hell, becauſe in any finite time they can never pay enough: But Now comes Jeſus Chriſt, and he fully pays the debt at once, ſo that juſtice ſaith, I have enough, I am ſatisfied: Surely this is the greater Glory to the very juſtice of God.

Theſe were the counſels of God from all Eternity, how he ſhould make way for his love and goodneſs, and yet ſatisfie his Truth and Juſtice. O my ſoul, conſider and wonder! Jeſus Chriſt was the Expedient, and in Chriſt not only Gods mercy, but his juſtice is Exalted, yea more Exalted, and more Glorified in thy ſalvation, then ever it could have been in thy Damnation.

3. Conſider the fore-knowledge of God;

he knew from everlaſting whom he would ſet apart for life and ſalvation. All the Saints of God from firſt to laſt, they were then preſent to him, and before him, and he did look on them in his Beloved Chriſt. Before there was a World, or a man, or any creature in it, he fore-knew Adam, and Abraham and Iſaac, and Jacob, and all the Patriarchs, and all the Prophets, and all the Apoſtles, and all the Diſciples of Chriſt, and Believers in Chriſt; And O my ſoul, if thou art one of Gods Elect, he foreknew thee with a knowledge of love and approbation, he had thee in his Eye, and Heart: he had thoughts on Jacob, when he was yet un- Rom.9.11. born, and had done neither good nor evil. Aſſure thy ſelf, the Lord works not without previſion or foreknowledge of the things effected; that cannot be in God, which is not to be found in a wiſe and prudent man; he that builds an houſe hath the frame of it firſt in himſelf; and Pſal.139. 16. the Pſalmiſt tells thee, that the eyes of God did ſee thy ſubſtance yet being unperfect: in this Book of knowledge were all thy members written, when as yet there was none of them! yea, he knew thee with a knowledge of ſingular love; he embraced thee in his Eternal love, as it is written; Jacob have I loved, but Eſau have I hated: Rom.9. 33. I will not ſay, that this love was actually beſtowed on thee till due time, ye it was prepared for thee from all Eternity: and hence it is called, an everlaſting love; The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, ſaying, I have loved thee with an everlaſtong love, therefore with loving Jer.31.3. kindneſs have I drawn thee.

O muſe, and meditate, and ponder on this love: it contains in it theſe particulars: as, 1. The eternal good will of God: what elſe is the love of God towards the Elect, but his everlaſting good will to ſhew them mercy, to do them good, and to ſave their ſouls? hence the Angels ſung that Anthem at Chriſt's birth, Glory to God in the higheſt, and on earth peace, good will towards men. 2. The Eternal pleaſure Luke.2.14 and delight of God in the Sons of men; the greateſt delight that God hath, or ever had, it is in communicating himſelf to his Son firſtly, and next unto his Saints: nay, ſuch delight he takes in letting out his mercy to his Saints: as that he was well pleaſed with the death of his own Son, as a means conducing thereunto. O wonderful! one would think that the death of Chriſt ſhould be the moſt abhorring to the heart of God of any thing in the world, and yet ſaith the Scripture, It pleaſed Iſa.53. 10. the Lord to bruiſe him; he took a pleaſure and delight in the very bruiſing of Jeſus Chriſt: the Lord ſaw this was the way for him to communicate himſelf in the fulneſs of his grace unto his Saints, and therefore though it coſt him ſo dear as the death of his own Son, yet he was well-pleaſed with it. 3. This love of God contains in it a fore-knowledge and approbation of all thoſe effects of his love, whether they be temporal concerning this life, or Eternal concerning the life to come. Concerning theſe effects of his love, ſaith John, Behold what 1 Joh.3.1. manner of love the Father hath beſtowed upon us, that we ſhould be called the Sons of God. q. d. Behold it, ſtand amazed at it, that children of wrath ſhould become the Sons of the moſt high God: for a beggar on the dunghil, a vagabond, a runagate from God, a prodigal, a ſtranger to God, whom the Lord had no cauſe to think on, to be made a Son of God Almighty, O divine love! Pauſe a while, and muſe on this! O my ſoul, that God ſhould fore-know thee from all Eternity with a knowledge of love and approbation, it is admirable to conſider, I ſay it is admirable to conſider.

4. Conſider the purpoſe of God concerning thy ſalvation: God hath not appointed (or purpoſed) 1 Theſ.5.9 us wrath, but to obtain Salvation by our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. As when we have a will to do any thing, there follows upon this in the mind a ſetled purpoſe to effect it; ſo when God hath loved ſome to life, there is in God a ſettled purpoſe of bringing them to it; that the purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, or Rom.9. 11. be ſure; it imports God's ſtability, and ſteadineſs, and conſtancy, and firmneſs in ſaving ſouls. There is much inconſtancy and fickleneſs in the love of man, or in the love of a woman, but the love of God to his people is a ſteady love; as the Bridegroom rejoyceth over the Bride, ſo ſhall thy God rejoyce over thee; not only Iſa. 62. 5. ſo doth thy God, but ſo ſhall thy God rejoyce over thee. Gods purpoſes are without any alteration, the love of Chriſt after thouſands of years, is ſtill as the love of a Bridegroom upon the wedding day; indeed then ordinarily love is hot, and appears much; ſo is Chriſt's love, and ſo is God's love ever hot; there is no moment of time from Eternity to Eternity wherein God rejoyceth not over his Saints, as the Bridegroom over his Bride, not only as an husband over his wife, but as a Bridegroom over his Bride, we may ſay of this purpoſe of God, as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever ſhall be, World without end.

O my ſoul, muſe and meditate on this purpoſe of God, and by conſequence on the ſure Iſa.55.3. mercies of David; it may be it is not always alike ſure to thee; the love of God as the ſhining of the Sun doth not always in the fruits of it ſhine out ſo gloriouſly, but the Sun keeps his courſe in a ſteady way: what though it be ſometimes clouded? what though at times it ſhine not ſo gloriouſly as at high-noon? yet the purpoſe of God according to Election muſt ſtand. All the Devils in Hell cannot fruſtrate God's Joh.6.39. purpoſe concerning only one ſoul: this is the Fathers will which ſent me (ſaith Chriſt) that of all which he hath given me I ſhould loſe none.

5. Conſider God's decree concerning thy ſoul's ſalvation, and the means to it. As the purpoſe of God, ſo the decree of God ſpeaks the ſtability and certainty of the thing decreed. 2 Tim.2. 16. The foundation of God ſtandeth ſure; (i. e.) The decree of God touching mans Salvation is unchangeable. If the Laws of the Medes and Perſians were ſo abſolute, that they could not be reverſed, then much leſs can the decrees of God be reverſed: no man that is not Elected can be Elected; and no man that is Elected can poſſibly be damned. My ſheep hear my voice (ſaith Chriſt) and I give unto them eternal life, John 10. 27,28. and they ſhall never periſh, neither ſhall any man pluck them out of my hand. And it muſt needs be ſo, for God's decree is grounded on the Eternal and unchangeable will of God; and hence we ſay that there is a certain number of the Elect known only to God, which cannot poſſibly be encreaſed or diminiſhed. I know whom I have Joh.13.18. choſen, ſaith Chriſt. And yet thou can'ſt not, O my ſoul, hence inferr, that thou mayeſt be ſecure; for in this decree the end and the means are joined together of God, and they cannot be ſeparated by any man: if thou beeſt not godly, never expect to be happy: Gods decree of Predeſtination is as well for the giving of grace, as for the giving of glory.

6. Conſider the Covenant ſtruck betwixt God and Chriſt for thy ſalvation. If thou would'ſt fain be acquainted with the very Articles of it, go on then, take Scripture along, and firſt on God's part thou mayeſt obſerve, and meditate, and conſider of theſe particulars.———

1. That there was a deſignation and appointment of Chriſt from all Eternity to the office of Mediatorſhip: whence Chriſt is ſaid to be ſealed by the Joh. 6.27. Father, for him hath God the Father ſealed: and Iſa. 42. 1. choſen of the Father, behold my ſervant whom I uphold, mine Elect, or choſen one.

2. There was a commandment from the Father to the Son, which he muſt obey, and ſubmit unto. As firſt, he had a command what to teach his people, as Joh. 12. 49. the Prophet of the Church, for I have not ſpoken of my ſelf, (ſaith Chriſt) but the Father which ſent me, he gave me a commandment, what I ſhould ſay, and what I ſhould ſpeak. Secondly, he had a commandment to lay down his life for thoſe that were given Joh. 10. 18. him, no man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my ſelf; I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again; this Commandment have I received of my Father.

3. There was a Promiſe from the Father to the Son: the Father covenants with him in theſe things; firſt, that he will give him the Spirit in abundance. Iſa. 42. 1. Behold my ſervant whom I uphold; —— I have put my Spirit upon him, he ſhall bring forth judgment to Iſa. 11. 1, 2. the Gentiles. ——— And the Spirit of the Lord ſhall reſt upon him, the Spirit of Wiſdom and underſtanding, the Spirit of counſel and might, the Spirit of knowledge, and of the fear of the Lord. Secondly, that he will give him aſſiſtance and help in this great Iſa. 42. 6. work of Redemption. I the Lord have called thee in righteouſneſs, and will hold thy hand; what's that? why, I will ſtrengthen thee with my Power, I will ſo hold thy hand that thou ſhalt not be diſcouraged in the work; He ſhall not fail, nor be diſcouraged till he hath ſet judgment upon the Earth. Thirdly, that he Iſa. 42. 4. will give him a bleſſed ſucceſs, that he ſhall not labour Iſa. 53. 10, 11. in vain, he ſhall ſee his Seed, he ſhall prolong his days and the pleaſure of the Lord ſhall proſper in his hands: he ſhall ſee of the travel of his ſoul, and ſhall be ſatisfied. Chriſt's ſufferings were as womans travail, though ſhe ſuffer many pains and pangs yet ſhe ſees her Child at laſt; ſo ſhall Chriſt ſee many believing on his Name; they are the promiſe made by the Father to the Son, that Nations that know him not ſhall run unto him. Iſa. 55. 5. Fourthly, that he will give him and his Redeemed ones everlaſting glory; to Chriſt himſelf there is a promiſe of glory, he hath glorified thee: And to the Members of Chriſt there is a promiſe of glory; and this promiſe of glory to them was made known to Chriſt from everlaſting: it was one of the ſecrets of God, and Chriſt brings out that ſecret from the boſom of his Father, Luke. 12. 32. and reveals it to his Diſciples. It is my Fathers pleaſure (ſaid he) to give you the Kingdom; Chriſt knew his Fathers will by the Covenant paſſing betwixt his Father and him, and this will of the Father concerning glory promiſed to the Saints, Chriſt doth bring forth to light. Theſe were the Articles of the Covenant on God's part; now O my ſoul, ſee them on Chriſt's part in theſe particulars. ——

1. There was an acceptation of the office to which he was deſigned by the Father; he did not take the office of Mediatorſhip upon himſelf, but firſt the Father Heb. 5. 5. calls him to it, and then the Son accepts it: Chriſt glorified not himſelf to be made an high Prieſt, but he that ſaid unto him, thou art my Son, this day have I begotten Heb. 1. 10. 7. thee; he called him, and then the Son anſwered, Lo I come.

2. There was a promiſe on Chriſt's part to depend and truſt upon God for help: And again I will put my truſt in him, Heb. 2. 13. they are the words of Chriſt to his Father. And Iſaiah brings in Chriſt as looking for help from God, for the Lord God will help me, therefore ſhall I Iſa. 50. 7, 8, 9. not be confounded — And behold the Lord will help me, who is he that ſhall condemn me? whereto agrees Iſa. 5. 95. that other paſſage, and my God ſhall be my ſtrength.

3. There was a promiſe of ſubmiſſion to his Fathers will in bearing the reproaches and injuries that ſhould be done to him, and to lay down his life for thoſe that were given to him by the Father: the Iſa. 50. 5, 6. Lord God opened my ear, and I was not rebellious, neither turned away back, I gave my back to the ſmiters, and my cheeks to them that plucked off the hair, I hid not my Face from ſhame and ſpitting, and therefore my Joh. 10 17. Father loves me, becauſe I lay down my life. Chriſt firſt thus covenanted with his Father, and then he was careful to diſcharge the ſame, and at laſt he tells God, I Joh. 17. 4. have finiſhed the work which thou gaveſt me to do.

4. There was an earneſt expectation of that glory which the Father promiſed Chriſt and his members: And O Father glorifie thou me with thine own Joh. 17. 5. ſelf, with the glory which I had with thee before the World was. And, Father, I will that they alſo whom Joh. 17. 24. thou haſt given me be with me where I am, that they may behold my glory which thou haſt given me, for thou lovedſt me before the Foundation of the World.--- Theſe were the Articles of the Covenant on Chriſt's part, and hence it is that God is called the God and Epheſ. 1. 3. Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; viz. by reaſon of the Covenant.

O my ſoul, with what delight mayeſt thou conſider, muſe, and ponder on theſe Articles? what, that God ſhould make a Covenant, and enter into theſe, and theſe Articles with his own Son for thy good, and for thy Eternal good? what, that God ſhould bring in the ſecond perſon in the Trinity to be the head of the Covenant on thy part? what a mercy is this? O run over and over this meditation, a thouſand, and a thouſand times! O conſider thy hope of Eternal life, Tit. 1. 2. which God, that cannot lye, promiſed before the world began! If thy ſoul queſtion what promiſe was there made before the World began? to whom was the promiſe made? who was there before the World began for God to make any promiſe to? why now thou haſt learned it was only to the Son of God, the ſecond Perſon in the Trinity. There was a moſt bleſſed tranſaction between God the Father and God the Son, before the world began, for thy everlaſting good; and upon that tranſaction depends all thy hope, and all thy ſalvation. O this is worthy of thy deep, and ſad, and ſerious, and inmoſt meditation. I have been particular and large in this paſſage of Looking unto, or, conſidering Jeſus, but I ſhall be brief in the reſt.

3. WE muſt deſire after Jeſus carrying on the great work of our ſalvation in that Eternity. It is not enough to know and conſider, but we muſt deſire. Now, deſire is a paſſion looking after the attainment of ſome good which we enjoy not, and which we imagine to be fitting for us. In this reſpect we cannot deſire after Jeſus, as now to carry on that work for our ſalvation before the World began, for that work is already perfectly done; But theſe things we may deſire after, as, 1. After the manifeſtation of that work in us. 2. After God and Chriſt the complotters and actors of that great work for us. 3. After the full and utmoſt execution, whereby God effectually works in time according to all his workings, or decrees before time.

1. We muſt deſire after the manifeſtation of this work in us. We have heard of marvellous, excellent, glorious things done by Jeſus Chriſt for his

Saints from all Eternity; and oh! what deſires now ſhould be in us to know that we are of that number? when I hear and conſider that there was ſuch a project, and ſuch counſels and ſuch love, and ſuch a purpoſe, and ſuch decrees, and ſuch a Covenant betwixt God and Chriſt for ſalvation of ſouls; and withal, that they are but few in compariſon concerning whom God and Chriſt have all this care, will not this whet on my deſires? and make me cry, and cry again, Oh! that theſe loves were mine! how happy were I, if I had a ſhare in theſe eternal thoughts of God? Methinks we ſhould not hear of ſuch tranſactions, but it ſhould ſtir up our hearts in infinite deſires; methinks we ſhould pant after aſſurance, and ſtill be wiſhing, Oh! what is truth? and what is Chriſt? and what did Chriſt for me before I was, or before the World was? I would I knew him, I would I could enjoy him, I would I were aſſured that he had one good thought of me in that Eternity! Chriſtians, If you have any ſhare in thoſe tranſactions, ſooner or later you will feel theſe deſires; nay, if my ſinful heart deceive me not, upon the very conſideration of theſe things I feel my ſelf another creature in my deſires than I was before. Tell me, you that have took a full view of God and Chriſt, and of all theſe wonders of Eternity: do you not ſenſibly differ from your ſelves in your affections? Is not the world, worldly pleaſures, worldly profits, and worldly honours fallen two, yea, ten in an hundred with you? have they not loſt their price? would you not rather be aſſured that your names are written in the Book of Life, than to have all the world yours; yea, and all the Devils in Hell ſubject to your commands? Certainly, if theſe revelations work nothing in your hearts, if your affections be ſo ſtrong and hearty to the world, and the vanities of it; if your deſires be ſo impure, and ſtrongly working downward, that God's ancient loves, and everlaſting workings, have no power on your hearts, it is a very
Pſa. 4. 6. ſad condition. If David may have his wiſh, it runs thus, Lord lift thou up the light of thy countenance upon us; he would have the manifeſtation of God's Eternal love; one ſmile of his countenance (as an image of that countenance which God had towards him before the world began) was more gladneſs to his heart, than all that which the men for the world had, in the time that their corn, and their wine encreaſed.

2. We may and muſt deſire after God and Chriſt, the complotters and actors of that great work for us; what, hath the Goſpel revealed this truth, that before the Creation God and Chriſt were buſied about our good? yea, and hath Chriſt eſpecially, that came out of the boſom of his Father, and brought the treaſures of his Fathers counſel to the world, diſcovered ſuch love to men? how then ſhould our deſires be after God in Pſa.73.35. Chriſt? Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none upon earth that I deſire beſide thee. A right beholding of Chriſt in his eternal workings, will cauſe a deſire of Chriſt above all deſires; the heart now thirſts for nothing but him that is all, all power, all love, all holineſs, all happineſs: tell ſuch a ſoul of the world, and gold, and glory; O what are theſe? the ſoul will quickly tell you, the world is dung, and Phil.3. 8. gold is dung, and glory is dung, all is but loſs and dung for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord. Give me God, and Chriſt, ſaith the ſoul, or I die; Oh! my deſires are to him who hath done all this for me. Is not this the period ſtill of thy expreſſion at the end of every diſcourſe, would Chriſt were mine? thou heareſt it may be, ſome worldings talk, ſuch a one, and ſuch a one, hath got ſo much in theſe times;
Luke. 16. 19. he that was yeſterday as poor as Lazarus, he is this day like that nameleſs rich man, cloathed in purple, and fine linen, and faring ſumptuouſly every day; ay, but doſt thou not reply either in word or heart, would Chriſt were mine, and then I had got more than he?

Poor ſoul, doſt thou not gaſp only after Chriſt, when thou fetcheſt (as I may ſay) the very deepeſt breath? can'ſt thou read over the generation of Jeſus the Son of God, the time when he was begotten, the manner of his begetting, the mutual kindneſs and love of him that begets, and of him that is begotten? and doſt not thou pant, and breath, and gaſp after Jeſus at every period? canſt thou read over Jeſus his acts and decrees in reference to thy ſelf? canſt thou turn over thoſe many leaves, in every of which is diſcovered thoſe everlaſting loves of God in his projects, counſels, fore-knowledge, purpoſe, decree, covenant for thy ſoul's happineſs? and art thou not ready at every diſcovery to ſing David's Pſalm, as the hart panteth after the water-brooks, ſo panteth my ſoul after thee O God, my ſoul thirſteth for God, for the Pſa,42 2. living God, O when ſhall I come and appear before God? O my ſoul, had'ſt thou but theſe pantings, thirſtings, breathings after God and Chriſt, thou mighteſt comfortably conclude, theſe are the fruits of God's Spirit, it is the Spirit of the Lord Jeſus which makes thoſe Rom.8.2
ſighs and groans in thee, which cannot be expreſſed. He and thee ſigh together, one in another; and one after another, O therefore look, Look unto Jeſus, and ſigh, and deſire after him.

3. We may and muſt deſire after the full and utmoſt execution whereby God effectually Works in time according to all his workings or decrees before time. God that purpoſed and decreed from all Eternity, he will not have done the full execution of that purpoſe or decree till that after-Eternity, in that world without end. Indeed ſome part is fulfilling now, but the main, the great part is yet to come: why then as we ſee the Plot, let us deſire after the full accompliſhment, let us deſire after the glory without end, to which we were predeſtinated before the beginning. It was was Paul's deſire to be diſſolved, and to be with Chriſt. As men burthened, ſo ſhould we deſire Phil.1.23.
and groan after the enjoyments of God in the world to come. O my ſoul, that thou were but caſt in the Apoſtle's mould, that thy affections were but on the wing, that they might take flight, and ſteer their courſe towards heaven, and thereupon that thou mighteſt ſay, *yond is the glorious houſe, the goodly building, made without hands, which God from all Eternity, decreed to be my home, my reſt, my dwelling place to all Eternity; and in yond ſtately Fabrick, is many an heavenly Inhabitant before I come: there are Angels, and there are all the ſouls of Saints, that from A*dam to this day have had their paſs out of this ſinful world: yea, there is Jeſus the Son of God; and there is God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghoſt; and if I am predeſtinated to this fellowſhip, Lord when ſhall I have run through the means that I may come to this end? O my end! where is my end? where is my Lord, my God, my Comforter? where is my reſt? where is my end? I cannot be at reſt without my end, and therefore come Lord Jeſus, come quickly, be like a Roe, or a young Hart upon the Mountains of Spices. Cant.8.14.
Chriſtians! why are not your Spirits always breathing thus after the glory, to which you are predeſtinated? why do you not long after full enjoyment! the utmoſt execution of God's decree? why are not your hearts, your ſouls, your ſpirits already in heaven? Surely there be your relations; your Father is there, your elder brother is there, and there are many, I dare ſay moſt of your other younger brethren: again, there is your intereſt, your eſtate is there, if you believe: and therefore, Where ſhould your hearts be, but where your treaſure is? come then, come, ſet in tune thoſe deſires of your ſouls, ſet your affections on things above, eſpecially in that one thing Jeſus Chriſt: Looking unto Jeſus.

Sect.

Sect. 4. Of hoping in Jeſus in that reſpect.

WE muſt hope in Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our Salvation for us in that Eternity. It is not enough to know and conſider, and deſire; but we muſt hope, and maintain our hope as to our own intereſt. Now hope is a paſſion, whereby we expect, probably or certainly ſome future good. All the queſtion is, whether that ſalvation, concerning which the great tranſaction was betwixt God and Chriſt, belongs now to me? and what are the grounds and foundation on which my hope is built? I know ſome exceedingly abuſe this Doctrine; If God had before all worlds appointed me to ſalvation, why then I may live as I liſt; I need not hear, or pray, or confer, or perform any holy Duty, for I am ſure I ſhall be ſaved. And thus at once they take away all grounds of hope. It is true, God's decrees are unchangeable, but they do not afford any ſuch inferences or deductions as theſe: you might as well ſay, the Lord hath appointed me to live to ſuch a time, and before that time I ſhall not, cannot die, and therefore I need no meat nor drink, nor cloaths, nor any other thing: Ah ſilly fooliſh, devilliſh, arguing! God's decree is for the means, as well as for the end; whom God hath decreed to ſave, them alſo hath he decreed to call, to juſtifie, to ſanctifie, before he ſave: O my Soul, look to the grounds whereon thy hope is built: if thoſe be weak, thy hope is weak: but if thoſe be ſtrong, thy hope will prove moſt ſtrong, and certain, and prudent.

In the diſquiſition of theſe grounds, ſay not in thine Rom. 10. 16. heart, who ſhall aſcend into heaven? or who ſhall deſcend into the deep? ſeek not above, or below: it is not poſſible for thee to go bodily into Heaven, to ſee the Records of Eternity, and to read thy name in the Book of Life, but ſearch into theſe fruits and effects of thy election. As ——

1. If thou be'ſt within God's decrees for ſalvation, then, ſooner or later, God will cauſe the power of his Word to come with authority and conviction up- 1 Theſ. 1. 4, 5. on thy conſcience: knowing brethren, beloved, your election of God, for our Goſpel came not unto you in Word only, but alſo in power. The Apoſtle ſpeaks thus of others; he might know they were the Elected of God, either by his judgment of charity, or by a ſpirit of diſcerning, which was vouchſafed to ſome in the Apoſtles times; but how comes he immediately to know this truth? by this glorious effect, our Goſpel came not in Word only, but alſo in power. Oh! tis good to conſider with what power the Word preached falls into thy heart; doth it convince thee, humble thee, mollifie thee, ſoften thee? this argues thou belongeſt to Cod. The Word preached will be more than the word of a man, more than a meer human Oration, or verbal declamation, where it comes in power: Oh! it will be like fire in thy bowels, like a two edged Sword in the ſecret places of thy heart; thou wilt cry out, verily God is here: Oh! the power! the conviction, the meltings of my ſoul that I feel within me!

2. If God hath ordained thee to Salvation, then, ſooner Rom. 8. 30. or later God will effectually call thee. Moreover, whom he did predeſtinate, them he alſo called; this calling is a calling of the ſoul from ſin, from amongſt the reſt of the World unto Jeſus Chriſt; it is ſuch a call as enables the ſoul to follow Chriſt; as Matthew be- Mat. 9. 9. ing called by Chriſt, he aroſe and followed Chriſt. Theſe two are linked together in Paul's golden chain, predeſtination and effectual vocation. We are bound to give thinks always unto God for you, brethren, beloved of the Lord; and why ſo? becauſe God hath from 2 Theſ. 2. 13, 14. the beginning choſen you to ſalvation —— Whereunto he called you by the Goſpel to the obtaining of the glory of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. All thoſe that belong to God's election, are ſome time or other effectually called by the Word and Spirit of Chriſt; and it muſt needs be ſo, becauſe as the Lord hath put a difference betwixt his Elect and others before the world was, and he will make a final difference betwixt them and others, after the end of the World; ſo he will have them differenced and diſtinguiſhed whileſt they are in this World by this inward, effectual, operative calling; they are men of other minds, wills, affections, diſpoſitions, converſations; they are called from darkneſs to light, and from the power of Satan unto God. As the Apoſtle, ye were Acts 26. 18. ſometimes darkneſs, but now are ye light in the Lord. Epheſ. 5. 7, 8. —— Be not ye therefore partakers with them.

3. If thou art choſen for ſalvation, then ſooner or later thou ſhalt have true ſoul-ſaving juſtifying faith; As many as were ordained to eternal life be- Acts 13. 48. lieved. When God hath a people to call home to himſelf, he either brings them to the means, or the means to them, and thoſe that belong to the Election of Grace believe; O my ſoul, haſt thou this ſaving faith? but not a fanſied faith, a dead faith, an eaſie faith, but ſaving faith; ſuch a faith as was wrought in thee by the Word and Spirit with power; ſuch a faith as was not in any power to give, nor in any power to receive, until God enable thee by his Spirit; then here is thy ground that thou art ordained to eternal life: for whom he calls, he juſtifies; and we are Rom. 8. 20 juſtified by faith. Rom. 5. 1. Not that the eſſence of faith juſtifies, but faith juſtifies inſtrumentally, in that it lays hold upon that which juſtifies, even the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt Jeſus.

4. If thou art decreed for ſalvation, then ſooner or later the Lord will beget and increaſe in thee Grace, Holineſs, and Sanctication: Elect according to 1 Pet. 1. 2. the fore-knowledge of God the Father, through ſanctification of the Spirit. God predeſtinates his people unto holineſs; he choſe us in Chriſt before the foun- Epheſ. 1. 4. dation of the World, that we ſhould be holy, and without blame before him. If God appoint thee to eternal life, he doth here in this World appoint thee to an holy gracious life. No ſanctification, no election; no grace, no glory; thou art to be a precious Jewel here, e're God will make thee up at that great day. Obſerve the chain, Rom. 8. 29. If I be ſanctified, with the Divine Nature, in which glory is begun, then I am juſtified; if juſtified, then I have been called according to purpoſe; if called, then I was perdeſtinated; and if predeſtinated to means, then I was fore-known, as one whom God would chooſe to the end, even immarceſſible and eternal glory.

5. If thou art appointed and prepared for glory, then God will give thee a thankful heart for ſo great a mercy: thou canſt no more keep in the heart from overflowing, when thou art ſenſible of this everlaſting love, than thou canſt put bounds to the Sea: Paul praiſing God for the election of himſelf and others: After I Epheſ. 1. 15, 16. heard of your faith and love, I ceaſe not to give thanks; and, Bleſſed be the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Epheſ. 1. 3, 4. Chriſt, who hath bleſſed us with all ſpiritual bleſſings in heavenly places in Chriſt, according as he hath choſen us in him before the foundation of the World. And what glorious triumphs doth Paul in the perſon of all the Elect, make over all kind of enemies that can be thought of? He challengeth every adverſary to put forth his ſting, and why? Even becauſe God hath e- Rom. 8. 33, 39. lected, and nothing can ſeparate them from this un- Rom. 7. 25 changeable love: and this was it that begot his thankſgiving, I thank God through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. O my ſoul, how is thy heart affected with praiſe and thankfulneſs in this matter? He that beſtoweth great things, looks for great return of thanks, eſpecially this being all thou canſt do.

6. If the project, counſel, love, purpoſe, decree, and covenant with God concerned thee, and thy ſoul's happineſs, then God will crown thee with perſeverance, and a ſtedfaſt continuance in the way of grace thou waſt firſt ſet in. Final apoſtaſie, and total backſliding from the ways of God, can never befal thoſe that are thus choſen: They went from us, be- 1 John 2. 19. cauſe they were not of us, ſaid the Apoſtle; and if it were Mat. 24. 24. poſſible, they ſhould deceive the very Elect, ſaid Chriſt: but it is certainly impoſſible, and why? I will put Jer. 32. 40. my fear in their hearts, that they ſhall never depart from me. O what a bleſſed mercy is this, when there are ſo many hours of temptation in the world, ſo many bluſtering ſtorms and tempeſts that are able to raiſe up the very roots, did not that immortal Seed preſerve them. Of this ſign we are ſure, if any of the former belongs to us; but to this we cannot actually ſeal till the end of our life.

Come now, are theſe, O my ſoul, the grounds of thy hopes? hath God's word come with power on thy heart? hath the Lord ſo effectually called thee, that thou haſt left all to follow Chriſt? doſt thou believe on the Lord Jeſus for life and for ſalvation? art thou holy? is thy life holy? doſt thou walk exactly, as the grace of God which bringeth to ſalvation teacheth? Canſt thou with enlarged thankfulneſs amplifie the love and grace of God in thy election? Surely theſe effects are the very fuel of hope, they are the bleſſed and clear evidences of thy ſoul's election; and therefore hope well, take ſtrong conſolation; it is clear as the Sun, that God hath predeſtinated thee to life, and that thy name is written in the Book of Life, and that none in Heaven, or on Earth, or in Hell, ſhall be able to blot it out again. Away with all ſad, dumpiſh, dejected thoughts: Look unto Jeſus; hope in Chriſt, that that very ſalvation concerning which that great tranſaction was betwixt God and Chriſt, belongs even to thee, and that one day thou ſhalt ſee it, and enjoy the happineſs of it to all eternity.

5. WE muſt believe in Jeſus, as carrying on that great work of Salvation for us in that Eternity. It is not enough to know, and conſider, and deſire, and hope but we muſt believe. Now this is the nature and property of Faith, to apply all theſe ancient and future doings and dealings of God to our ſelves, as if they were now preſent. Some difference there is betwixt Hope and Faith; as Hope hath reſpect to that which the Word promiſeth, rem verbi; but Faith reſpects the Word it ſelf, verbum rei; Hope eyes chiefly the mercy and goodneſs of the Promiſe, but Faith eyes mainly the authority and truth of the Promiſer; Hope looks upon its object as future, but Faith only looks upon the object as preſent, both make a particular application to themſelves, but Hope in a waiting for it; and Faith in a way of now enjoying it. Hence Faith is called, the ſubſtance of things Heb. 11. 1. hoped for; it is the ſubſtance, or confidence of things hoped for, as if we had them already in hand: Faith gives the Soul a preſent intereſt in God, in Chriſt, in all thoſe glorious things in the Goſpel of Chriſt; even in the things of eternal life. Faith is an appropriating, an applying, an uniting Grace; it is a bleſſed thing to have the ſight of God, there is much power in it; but to ſee God in his glory as my God, to ſee all the Majeſty, Greatneſs, and Goodneſs of God, as thoſe things that my Soul hath an intereſt in; to ſee how the eternal Counſels of God wrought for me to make me happy: why this is of the nature of Faith: And herein lies the ſweetneſs of Faith, in that we believe not Chriſt only to be a Saviour, and Righteouſneſs, but my Saviour, and my Righteouſneſs: And therefore Luther affirmed that the ſweetneſs of Christianity lay in pronouns; when a man can ſay, Gal. 2. 20. My Lord, and my God, and my Jeſus: I live by the Faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himſelf for me.

O my Soul! believe for thy ſelf; believe, and be confident of it, that thoſe eternal Projects, Counſels, Love, Purpoſe, Decree, and Covenant betwixt God and Chriſt, were all for thee: Haſt thou not a Promiſe? nay, was there not a Promiſe before the World began? and that very Promiſe the promiſe of eternal Life. Mark the words: In hope of eternal Tit. 1. 2. Life, which God that cannot lye, promiſed before the world began. Here's a Promiſe, and a Promiſe of eternal Life, and a promiſe of eternal life made by God, by God that cannot lye, and that before there was a world, or any man in the world. If thou enquir'ſt, To whom then was the Promiſe made? Sweet Soul, it was made to Chriſt for thee; many Promiſes thou haſt in Scripture, made more immediately to thy ſelf, but this was the grand Promiſe, and all the other Promiſes they are but a draught of that grand Promiſe that God the Father made to his Son before the World began.

O cries the Soul, I cannot believe. What? is it poſſible that God in his Eternity ſhould have any thought of me? What, of me, being not yet born, neither Rom. 9. 11 having done any good or evil? What? of me, born in theſe laſt times of the World, the leaſt of all Saints, the greateſt of Sinners, leſs than the leaſt of God's mercies? that of ſuch a one the great God, the Majeſty of Heaven and Earth, ſhould have a Thought, a Project, a Counſel, a Knowledge of Approbation, a Purpoſe, a Decree; nay, enter into a Covenant with his Son for my Salvation? I cannot believe it. Alas! what am I to God? or what need hath God of me? If all the Nations of the Earth are to him but Iſai. 40. 15. as a drop of a bucket, and as the ſmall duſt of the balance; O what a minim am I of that drop? or what a little, little atome am I of that ſmall duſt? and is it probable that the Greatneſs of God, the Goodneſs of God, the Power of God, the Wiſdom of God, the Eternal Counſels of God, ſhould work for me, to make me glorious, bleſſed, happy, to make me one with Himſelf, and one with his Son, and one with his Spirit? what care take I of every duſt of the Eatth, or of every ſand on the Sea-ſhore? and yet theſe are my fellow-creatures? there's a thouſand times more diſproportion betwixt God and me, and would God take care of me before I was, or before the World was? what would he buſie himſelf and his Son, about ſuch a worthleſs wretched worm? would he decree Chriſt to come from the Father for me, to be my Redeemer, my Jeſus, my Saviour? I cannot, I dare not, I will not believe.

O ſtay, my Soul, and be not faithleſs, but believing: I'll take thy Argument in pieces: As, 1. Thou ſayſt, Hath God any thoughts of me? Yes, ſaith God, I Jer. 29. 11. know the thoughts that I think towards you; thoughts of peace, and not of evil: And before the World was, my thoughts, and my delights were with the ſons Prov. 8. 31. of men. 2. Thou ſayſt, I have no thoughts, no care of my fellow-creatures; as of the duſt, or ſand, or atomes: And what then? my thoughts are not as your thoughts, Iſai. 55. 8. neither are your ways my ways, ſaith the Lord; for as the Heavens are higher than the Earth, ſo are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. What if thou haſt no thoughts or care of the ſmaller creatures? yet God extends his thoughts, and care, and providence not only to thee, but even to them: neither can a Sparrow fall to the ground, nor any hair from thy head, nor a leaf from the tree, without the Providence of our heavenly Father. 3. Thou ſayſt I dare not believe, I am aſtoniſhed at, Matth. 10. 29, 30. and confounded in theſe thoughts of God's eternal Love; it is too high for me, I cannot believe it. I anſwer, herein thou ſayſt ſomething: I know it is an hard thing to believe theſe great things in reference to thy ſelf: But ſee now how God and Chriſt ſtoop and condeſcend to make thee believe: God ſtands much upon this,that the hearts of Saints ſhould confide in him: he accounts not himſelf honoured, except they believe; and therefore mark,O my Soul, how Chriſt ſuits himſelf to my weakneſs; what is it that may beget this Faith,this confidence in thy Son? What is it (ſaith God) that you poor Creatures do one to another, when you would make things ſure between your ſelves? why, thus:

1. We engage our ſelves by promiſe one to another. And ſo will I, ſaith God: Poor Soul, thou haſt my Promiſe, my faithful Promiſe; I have made a Promiſe both to Jews and Gentiles,and thou art the one of theſe two ſorts; Acts 2.39. the promiſe is to you and to your children,and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God ſhall call. Be only ſatisfied in that ground of thy hope,that thou art called of God; and then every promiſe of eternal Life is thine, even thine. Thou mayſt find a thouſand Promiſes ſcattered here and there in the Book of God; and all theſe Promiſes are a draught of that Promiſe which was made from all Eternity, and therefore it is ſo much the more ſure; it is as if Chriſt ſhould ſay, Wilt thou have engagement by Promiſe? this is paſt long ago; my Father hath engaged himſelf to me before the World began; yea, and I have made many and many a Promiſe ſince the World began? Read in the Volume,and thou wilt find here and there a Promiſe,here and there a draught of the firſt Copy of that great Promiſe,which my Father made unto me from all Eternity.

2. When we would make things ſure to one another, we write it down: And ſo will I, ſaith God: thou haſt the Scripture,the Holy Writ,thoſe ſacred Volumes of Truth and Life, and therein thou haſt the golden Lines of many gracious Promiſes; are they not as the Stars in the Firmament of the Scripture? Thou haſt my Bible,and in the Bible thou haſt many bleſſed glorious Truths; but of all the Bible, methinks thou ſhouldſt not part with one of thoſe Promiſes,no not for a World. Luther obſerving the many Promiſes writ down in Scripture, expreſſeth thus: The whole Scripture doth eſpecially aim at this,that we ſhould not doubt, but hope, confide, believe that God is merciful, kind, patient, and hath a purpoſe and a delight to ſave our Souls.

3. When we would make things ſure to one another, we ſet to our Seals: And ſo will I, ſaith God: thou haſt my Seal, the Broad-Seal of Heaven, my Sacraments,the Seals of my Covenant; and thou haſt my Privy-Seal alſo,the Seal of my Spirit. Grieve not the Eph.4.30. Holy Spirit, whereby ye are Sealed unto the day of Redemption.

4. When we would make things ſure to one another,we take Witneſſes: And ſo will I, ſaith God: thou ſhalt have Witneſſes as many as thou wilt; Witneſſes of all ſorts,Witneſſes in Heaven,and Witneſſes on Earth: For there are three that bear record Joh.5.7,8. in Heaven,the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghoſt, and theſe three are one. And there are three that bear witneſs in Earth,the Spirit, and the Water, and the Blood, and theſe three agree in one.

5. When we would make things ſure to one another, we take an Oath: And ſo will I, ſaith God: Heb.6.17. God willing more abundantly to ſhew unto the heirs of promiſe, the immutability of his Counſel, confirmed it by an Oath, q. d. there is no ſuch need of an Oath, but I will be abundant to thee,becauſe I would have thee truſt me,and confide in me throughly: and as I ſwear (ſaith God) ſo will I ſwear the greateſt Oath that ever was, I ſwear by my ſelf: God ſwears by God; he could ſwear by no greater, and therefore he ſwears by himſelf: And why thus,but for their ſakes who are the Heirs of Promiſe? He knows our frame, Heb.6.13. and remembers, that we are but duſt; and therefore to ſuccour our Weakneſs, the Lord is pleaſed to ſwear, and to confirm all by his Oath.

6. When we would make things ſure to one another,we take a Pawn: And I will give thee a Pawn, ſaith God: And ſuch a Pawn, as if thou never hadſt any thing more, thou ſhouldſt be happy; it is the Pawn of my Spirit,Who alſo hath ſealed us,and given the earneſt of the Spirit in our hearts, q. d. 2 Cor. 1. 22. I will ſend my Spirit into your hearts, and the Spirit ſhall be a Pawn, an earneſt in your hearts, of all the good that I intend to do for you for ever.

7. When we would make things ſure to one another,ſomething it may be is preſently done,as an engagement of all that which is to come. And thus will I deal with thee, ſaith God, who liveſt in theſe laſt of times; why thou ſeeſt the greateſt part of thy Salvation already done; I made a Promiſe from all Eternity of ſending my Son into the World to be made a Curſe for Sin; yea, and if thou believeſt, for thy Sin; and this is the greateſt Work of all that is to be done to all Eternity. Surely,if I would have failed thee in any thing, it ſhould have been in this; it is not ſo much for me now, to bring thee to Heaven,to ſave thy Soul, as it was to ſend my Son into the World to be made a Curſe for Sin: but when I have done ſo great a Work, and have been already faithful in that Promiſe,how ſhouldſt thou but believe my faithfulneſs in making good all other Promiſes? If a man ſhould owe thee a thouſand pound, and pay thee nine hundred ninety and nine, thou wouldſt think ſurely he would never break for the reſt; why God hath paid his nine hundred ninety and nine; and all the Glory of Heaven is but as one, in compariſon of what he hath done: We may therefore well believe, that he who hath done ſo much for us, will not leave the little undone.

Come then, rouſe up, O my Soul,and believe thy intereſt in thoſe eternal Tranſactions betwixt God and Chriſt; is not here ground enough for thy Faith? if thou art but called,the Promiſe of God is thine: or if thou dareſt not rely on this Promiſe (which God forbid) thou haſt his Indenture, his Seal and Witneſſes of all ſorts, both in Heaven and Earth; or yet, if thou believeſt not, thou haſt an Oath, a Pawn,and the greateſt part of thy Salvation already done to thy hand: Nay, I'll tell thee more, poor Soul, than thus; even Chriſt himſelf from all Eternity hath engaged for thee that thou ſhalt believe: O then put not Chriſt to be challenged of his engagement by refuſing the Goſpel! ſurely when thou believeſt, thou makeſt Chriſt's word good; he that believeth not,makes God a lyer; though in another ſenſe,and for ought he knoweth, even in this, that he fruſtrates Chriſt's Undertakings in the Covenant. And therefore believe; yea,and cry,Lord,I believe, help thou my unbelief; increaſe my Faith, till I come to full aſſurance of Faith. Faith in this ſenſe is the very eye of the Soul, reading its name written in the Book of Life; it is an apprehenſion of our particular election. O believe, till thou comeſt up to this fulneſs of perſwaſion of God's Love in Chriſt.

6. WE muſt love Jeſus, as carrying on that great Work of our Salvation in that Eternity. And this is the fruit or effect of Faith if once we believe that all thoſe deſigns and tranſactions were for us, even for us; O then how ſhould we but love that God, and love that Chriſt, who thus firſtly and freely loved us? God loved us befoore we loved him; for he loved us in that Eternity before all Worlds; ſurely then we are bound to love him firſt,and above all things. As the Diamond formeth and faſhioneth the Diamond, ſo Love formeth and faſhioneth Love; or as Fire converteth Fuel into Fire, ſo this ancient Love of God and Chriſt, may well cauſe our Love again. O Chriſt! didſt not thou love us? who doubts it, that but reads over the Project, Councel, Fore-knowledge, Purpoſe, Decree, and Covenant of God and Chriſt? who doubts it that but reads the eternal Deſign of God, that Chriſt ſhould go out of himſelf, and ſuffer an ecſtaſie through the vehemency of his love? that Chriſt ſhould ſo far abaſe his Majeſty as to die for us, that we might not die, but live with him? O then how ſhould this but kindle in our hearts a moſt ardent love towards God and Chriſt? What more effectual motive to work man's love, than to be prevented by the love and bounty of another? That this fruit doth ſpring from Bern. Ep. 107. the ſenſe of our Election, Bernard obſerves, Who is righteous but he that requiteth the love of God with love again? which is never done, except the Holy Ghoſt reveal unto a man by faith, God's eternal purpoſe concerning his future Salvation. And hence it is that the Heart is moſt in frame, when it is a conſidering the eternal Love of God in Chriſt: As 2 Sam. 1. 26. David ſaid of Jonathan, Thou haſt been very pleaſant to me, thy love to me was wonderful; ſo a poor Soul gathering up all the Goodneſs of God in that Eternity, and feeding upon it, and the variety of it, it breaths out in that expreſſion, Thou haſt been very pleaſant to me, O God; thy love to me hath been wonderful. O my Soul, that thou couldeſt ſo live by Faith on theſe eternal paſſages, as that thou mighteſt attain to the higheſt fruits of Faith, not only to love God and Chriſt, but to love them with a burning love, with a mighty love, ſuch a love as lies in the moſt vigorous proſecution after Jeſus Chriſt, and in the moſt faithful reſignation of thy ſelf to God; ſuch a love as works the moſt delightful aſpect of God and Chriſt, as makes a man to behold God and Chriſt with all cheerfulneſs; ſuch a love as works a man to extol the praiſes of God. O in theſe things lies the ſtrength of love.

But alas this is, or at leaſt this ſhould be thy grief, that thou canſt not love ſo well, and ſo warmly as thou Cant. 8. 14 art beloved: Chriſt comes towards thee skipping like the hart or roe on the mountains of ſpices, but thy love towards Chriſt is creeping like the worm in the unwholſom valley. Indeed the beſt affections have their fits of ſwooning: It may be for the preſent thy love is cold; O but come up to this fire, conſider how God and Chriſt loved thee in every of theſe:——

1. His Project to ſave thy Soul ſprung out of his Love; Love was the firſt wheel that ſet all the eternal Works of God a going; what was that great deſign of God, but only an expreſſion of his Love? It was his pleaſure to communicate himſelf, and the riſe of that Communication was his Love.

2. The Counſels of God were all in love; had not love been as Preſident of the Councel, where hadſt thou been? when all the Attributes of God were at a ſtand, it was the Love of God in Chriſt that reſolved the Queſtion for thy Salvation.

3. The Fore-knowledge of God was a foreknowledge of Love and Approbation; in his eternal Love he embraced thee as his own; he fore-knew thee (i.) of his free love he ſet thee apart to Life and to Sal- Epheſ. 1. 4. vation; God hath choſen us in Chriſt before the foundation of the World: He choſe us in Chriſt, but not for Chriſt; nothing at all moved him to elect thee, but his own good pleaſure and free love.

4. The Purpoſe of God was a reſolution of Love, it ſpeaks his Love to be a conſtant, ſetled, abiding love; no unkindneſs ſhall alter it; for having loved Joh. 13. 1. his own, he loves them unto the end, nay, he loves them without end, from everlaſting to everlaſting.

5. The Decree of God was an Order (as I may call it) or an Act of Love, to give in time that Grace to his Elect, which before all time he decreed ſhould be an effectual means to bring them unto glory.

6. The Covenant betwixt God and Chriſt was an agreement of Love: God and Chriſt ſtruck hands to ſave Souls: Grace was given us in Jeſus Chriſt be- 2 Tim. 1. 9. fore the World began. Grace was given us, that is, the gracious Love and Favour of God in Chriſt was given us before all ſecular times. This was God's meaning from everlaſting, this was the deſign, yea the greateſt deſign that ever God had, to ſet out the infinite Glory, and the Riches of his Love in Jeſus Chriſt. No queſtion but he had other great deſigns in doing ſuch great things as he hath done; but above all the deſigns that ever God had in all his Works, this is the chief, to honour his Mercy, to glorifie the riches of his Love and Grace: Had it not been for this, he would never have made the World; and therefore in that World to come it will be the delight of God to ſhew his Saints and Angels what he is able to do for a Creature; yea, he will to all Eternity declare to them, to what an heighth of excellency and glory his Love and Mercy is able to raiſe poor Souls, ſo that the very Saints and Angels ſhall admire, and adore, and magnifie the Name of GOD everlaſtingly for it.

O my Soul, canſt thou ponder on this, and not love him dearly who has thus loved thee? Come, ſtir up the gift that is in thee; if thou art a Chriſtian, thou haſt ſome ſparks, though now (it may be) under the aſhes: Come, rub, chafe, and warm thy affections at this fire; Love, like a Watch, muſt be wound up, or elſe it will fall downwards: What doſt thou? why ſtandſt thou idle in the heat of the day? Chriſt hath fire in his hand, 'tis but looking up, and reaching out thy hand to take it from him: O take it with both thy hands, and be thankful for it. Prayer, Ejaculation, Contemplation, judicious Obſervation of the Spirits ſeaſon, are thy beſt Inſtruments to kindle this fire of Love in thee.

And methinks thy heart ſhould begin now to melt, methinks it ſhould receive more eaſie impreſſions from the object before it; methinks theſe eternal Works and Acts of God and Chriſt towards thy poor Soul, ſhould begin to overcome thee, and to burn thy Cant. 6. 5. heart as with coals of Juniper. Cant. 8. 6. Why, Lord, is it thus? was I elected from all eternity in Chriſt? was I ordained to a glorious inheritance before there was a World? was this buſineſs to make me happy, one of the chief deep Counſels of God? was this one of the Works of his Wiſdom, that he was exerciſed about before the World began? was this the great deſign of God in making the World, and in making Heaven, the place of Glory, to glorifie himſelf, and to glorifie ſuch a poor wretch as I am? O then how ſhould this but mightily inflame my heart with the love of God, and love of Chriſt? how ſhould I chuſe but ſay as the Martyr did, Oh that I had as many lives, as I have hairs on my head, to lay them down for Chriſt? Ah what flames of divine affection, what raptures of zeal, what raviſhments of delight, what ecſtaſies of obedience can be enough for my bleſſed God, and deareſt Redeemer.

Sect. 7. Of Joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

7. WE muſt joy in Jeſus, as carrying on that great Work of our Salvation in that eternity. This joy is a paſſion ariſing from the ſweetneſs of the object that we enjoy. O my ſoul, doſt thou believe? and art thou now caſt into a pang of love? how then ſhould thy joy but come on? As Chriſt ſaid to the 70, In this rejoice not, that the ſpirits are Luk. 10. 20. ſubject unto you; but rather rejoice becauſe your names are written in Heaven: So rejoice not thou in this, that the World is thine, that Riches are thine, that thou haſt ſubdued Men and Devils; but herein rejoice, that thy Name is written in the Book of Life. O what a comfortable point is this! that the Father and Chriſt ſhould tranſact a bargain from Eternity, concerning thee by Name, that the Father and the Son ſhould commune together concerning thy Heaven, as if their Language had been thus: Father, what ſhall be given to thy Juſtice to ranſom ſuch a one, Abraham, Iſaac, Jacob, Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Mary, Martha, Hannah, &c. Why no more but this, Thou ſhalt die, my Son, and whoſoever believeth in thee ſhall live for ever. Why then ſaith Chriſt, I will engage for ſuch, and ſuch a one; I will enter into Bond for ſuch and ſuch a perſon; Abraham ſhall believe in me: ſee, I have writ down his Name in the Book of Life. And who art thou that readeſt? art thou a Believer? doſt thou believe in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt? Chriſt ſaid the ſame of thee, and entered into a Bond for thee, and entered thy Name in the Book of Life: See the certainty of this Phil.4.3. in Phil 4.3. Thou Thomas, Andrew, Peter, Chriſt knows thee by Name, and thy Name is written in the Book of Life. O go thy way, and rejoice, and take ſtrong conſolation! Is there not cauſe? why, I tell thee thy Name is in the Book of Heaven; and if this may add to thy joy, know there is none in Heaven or Earth, ſhall ever be able to blot it out again. Rom.8.1. No, no, poor Soul, there is no condemnation to them that are in Chriſt Jeſus: God hath decreed thy Salvation, and God's Decree ſhall ſtand, let Men and Devils ſay what they will to the contrary: Pſa.33.11. The counſel of the Lord ſtandeth for ever; the thoughts of his heart to all generations: It is as poſſible for God to deny himſelf, as it is poſſible for thee a Believer to 1Pet.1.5. periſh. We are kept (ſaith the Apoſtle) by the power of God through faith to ſalvation; and therefore rejoice, and again rejoice; yea, raiſe up thy joy to that pitch of triumph, which is joy elevated; and elevated ſo high, that it comes to victoriouſneſs, and magnanimous conqueſt of heart over all things: Say with Rom.8.33, 35,38,39. the Apoſtle, What? my Name written in the Book of Life? who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? ——Who then ſhall ſeparate me from the love of Chriſt? ſhall tribulation, or diſtreſs, or perſecution, or famine, or nakedneſs, or peril, or ſword? nay, I am perſwaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things preſent, nor things to come, nor heighth, nor depth, nor any other creature, ſhall be able to ſeparate me from the love of God, which is in Chriſt Jeſus my Lord.

Sect. 8. Of calling on Jeſus in that reſpect.

8. WE muſt call on Jeſus, or on God the Father in and through Jeſus. This alſo is Pſa.123.1. included in looking, as David while praying, Unto thee do I lift up mine eyes, O thou that dwelleſt in the Heavens. Now this calling on God, or looking to God, contains Prayer and Praiſe. 1. We muſt pray that all theſe tranſactions betwixt God and Chriſt, may be aſſuredly ours, and that God would clear up our Titles more and more; yea, and ſeeing all good things tending to Salvation, were from all Eternity prepared for us; we are therefore to pray, that by Prayer we may draw them down from Heaven; for what though our Evidences be clear? yet this muſt not caſt out means; God doth not uſe to beſtow his ſaving Graces on lazy ſluggards; thoſe therefore who from the certainty of Predeſtination, do pretend that the duty of Prayer is ſuperfluous, Aquinas part. c. q. art. 8. do plainly ſhew that they have no certainty at all. Aquinas was Orthodox in this, the predeſtinate muſt pray, becauſe by theſe effects of Predeſtination, the Salvation of Souls is beſt aſcertained. The ſame ſpirit which witneſſeth to our Spirit that we are his choſen, is alſo the Spirit of Prayer and Supplication; and therefore he that believes that he is one of God's Elect, he cannot but pray for thoſe things which he believeth, that God hath prepared for him before the foundation of the World —— 2. We muſt praiſe God; what? that God ſhould look on us, and predeſtinate us to life? That he ſhould paſs by ſo many on the right hand and on the left, and that I ſhould be one whom the Lord did elect? what? ſuch a vile and ſinful wretch as I am? was there ever like love? was there ever like mercy? may not Heaven and Earth ſtand amazed at this? O what ſhall I do to be thankful enough to this dear God? Thus thou that knoweſt thy intereſt in Chriſt, ſtudy praiſe and thankfulneſs: Say in thy ſelf, Who made me to differ from thoſe Caſt-away Souls? Alas! we were all framed of the ſame Mould, hewed out of the ſame Rock. It is ſtoried of one of the late French Kings, that in a ſerious meditation, conſidering his own condition of being King and Ruler of that Nation, Oh (ſaid he) when I was born, a thouſand other Souls were born in this Kingdom with me, and what have I done to God more than they? O my Soul, what difference betwixt thee and thoſe many thouſands of Reprobates that live with thee in the World at this day? nothing, ſurely nothing but the free Mercy, Goodneſs, and Love of God in Jeſus Chriſt. O then praiſe this God, yea, ſound forth the Praiſe of the Glory of his Grace. Remember that was God's deſign, and that is thy Duty.

Sect. 9. Of conforming to Jeſus in that reſpect.

9. WE muſt conform to Jeſus: We muſt fix our Eyes on Jeſus for our Imitation, that alſo is the meaning of this Looking in the Text. And in reſpect of our Predeſtination, the Apoſtle ſpeaks expreſly, He did predeſtinate us to be conformed to the Image of his Son: Rom. 8. 29. This is one end of Predeſtination, and this is one end of looking unto Jeſus, nay it is included in it. A very look on Jeſus hath a power in it to conform us to the Image of Jeſus. We are changed by beholding, 2 Cor. 3. 18. ſaith the Apoſtle: Oh when I ſee God's love in Chriſt to me even from all Eternity, how ſhould this but ſtir up my Soul to be like Jeſus Chriſt? Where there is a dependance, there is a deſire to be like even among men; how much more conſidering my dependance on God in Chriſt, ſhould I deſire to be like Chriſt in diſpoſition? All the queſtion is, what is this Image of Chriſt, to which we muſt be conformed? I anſwer, Holineſs and Happineſs: but becauſe the latter is our Reward, and the former is our Duty, therefore look to that.

But wherein conſiſts that? I anſwer, in that reſemblance, likeneſs, and conformity to Chriſt in all the paſſages forementioned: And in every of thoſe we muſt conform to Chriſt. As ——

1. Chriſt is the Son of God; ſo muſt we be God's Sons: John 1.12. As many as received him, to them he gave power to become the Sons of God. Mal.1.6. 1Pet.1.17. O what duty lies upon us in this reſpect! If I be your Father, where is mine honour? and if ye call on the Father, paſs the time of your ſojourning here in fear. God looks for more honour, fear, reverence, duty, and obedience from a Son than from the Rabble of the World. If thou art God's Son, thy ſins more offend God than the ſins of all the reprobates in the World; why, alas, thy ſins are not mere tranſgreſſions of the Law, but committed againſt the Mercy, Bounty, and Goodneſs of God vouchſafed unto thee; thy ſins have a world of unthankfulneſs joyn'd with them, and therefore how ſhould God but viſit? you only have I known of Amos 3.2. all the Families of the Earth, therefore will I viſit you for all your Iniquities. O think of this, you that are God's Sons; and conform to Chriſt, for he was an obedient Son.

2. Chriſt the Son of God delights in the Father, and his delight is alſo with the Sons of men; ſo muſt we Pſa.37.4. delight in the Father, and delight in his Children. De- Pſa.16.3. light thy ſelf in the Lord, and he ſhall give thee the deſire of thy Heart. And the Saints that are on the Earth are they, in whom is all my delight, ſaith David. It is ſtoried of Dr. Taylor, that being in priſon he could delight in God; and he rejoiced that ever he came into Priſon, becauſe of his acquaintance with that Angel of God, as he called Mr. Bradford. O this is Heaven upon Earth! not only God, but the very Saints of God are ſweet Objects of delight. Mark them, and if they be Saints indeed, they are ſavory in their Diſcourſe, in their Duties, in their Carriages; their Example is powerful, their Society profitable, how ſhould we but delight in them?

3. God and Chriſt laid this Plot from all Eternity, that all he would do, ſhould be to the praiſe of the glory of his grace: So muſt we purpoſe this as the end of all our actions, whether we eat, or drink, or what- 1 Cor.10. 31. ſoever we do, we muſt do all to the glory of God. But eſpecially if from God we receive any ſpiritual Good, then give all again to the glory of his Grace: Bleſ- Dan.2.20, 23. ſed be the Name of God for ever and ever (ſaid Daniel) for Wiſdom and Might are his —— and I thank thee and praiſe thee, O God of my Fathers, who haſt given me Wiſdom and Might: An excellent ſpirit of Wiſdom and Might wrought in Daniel, and he acknowledges all to the Giver: Wiſdom and Might are his. Chriſtians, if you feel Grace in your hearts, I beſeech you acknowledge it to Chriſt: He does all, he ſubdues Luſts, heals Wounds, ſtays inward Iſſues, ſets broken Bones, and makes them to rejoice; and therefore let him have the glory of all; do you acknowledge Grace in its latitude to the God of all Grace.

4. God and Chriſt counſelled about our Salvation; there was a great conflict in the Attributes of God; Juſtice and Mercy could not be reconciled, till the Wiſdom of God found out the glorious and wonderful Expedient, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; ſo let us counſel about our Salvation; the fleſh and the ſpirit whereof we are compounded, draw ſeveral ways; the fleſh draws Hell-ward, and the ſpirit Heaven-ward: Come then, call we in heavenly and ſpiritual Wiſdom to decide this Controverſie; you may hear its Job 28.28. Language in Job 28.28. Behold the fear of the Lord, that is Wiſdom; and to depart from evil is Underſtanding. If we would draw Heaven-ward, and ſave our ſouls: Come then, let us hear the concluſion of Eccleſ. 12. 13. the whole matter; Fear God, and keep his Commandments, for this is the whole Duty of Man. Keep his Commandments in an Evangelical ſenſe (i. e.) look at the Expedient, Jeſus Chriſt, who hath kept them for us, and in whom, and through whom, our imperfect Obedience is accepted with God.

5. God and Chriſt loved us with an everlaſting love; ſo muſt we love him who hath firſt loved us: This is the nature of ſpiritual love; that it runs into its own Ocean, O love the Lord all ye his Saints! Pſ.31.13. who hath more cauſe to love him than you have? who hath been loved ſo much? or who hath ſo much come under the power of love as you have? hath not Chriſt loved you, not only with a love of well-wiſhing, which is from everlaſting (ſome call it the love of Election, the Fountain-love, the Well-head of Salvation) but alſo with a love of complacency? Hath not Chriſt ſhed abroad his love into your hearts, and ſhall he loſe by it? will not theſe cords of love draw up your hearts to love him again? ſure it is but reaſon to love him, who hath firſt loved you, yea, and loved you when you were unlovely, and had nothing in you worthy of love. Chriſtians! then it was that Chriſt loved you in Rags, it is meet therefore that you ſhould love him in Robes.

6. God and Chriſt appointed, or purpoſed us unto Salvation; his love was a ſure, and ſetled, and firm, and conſtant love: The purpoſe of God according to Rom.9.11 election muſt ſtand: So muſt we love him, and cleave Pſ. 119. unto him for ever: I have enclined my heart to per- 112. form thy Statutes alway even to the end. David's heart was much taken with the Statutes of God, and therefore he gives this expreſſion of the fulneſs of his heart, alway and even to the end. It is a kind of Pleonaſm, his reſolutions were ſuch that he would never depart from his God.

7. God and Chriſt decreed, booked, and ſealed our Salvation; and ſo muſt we put to our Seal that God is true (i. e.) we muſt believe in Chriſt; for when we believe, we make Chriſt's word good. He that believes not, makes God a Lyar, (as you have heard) in that he fruſtrates, or endeavours to fruſtrate Chriſt's undertaking in his predeſtination.

8. God and Chriſt entered into Covenant concerning our Salvation: So muſt we enter into Covenant with him; we muſt take him to be our God, and give up our ſelves to be his people:---Why thus we muſt in all particulars conform to Chriſt. The ſum of all is this, We muſt be like Chriſt in grace and gracious Actings.

O my Soul, ſee to this Grace, ſee to this conformity to Jeſus Chriſt in gracious Actings, and this will enable thee to read thy Name written in the Book of Life. O abhor and repel that Devil's dart, I am predeſtinated, and therefore I may live as I liſt. How contrary is this to the Apoſtle? He hath choſen us in him be- Epheſ.1.4. fore the foundation of the world, that we ſhould be holy, and without blame before him in love: And as the Elect of God put on bowels of mercy, kindneſs, humbleneſs of mind, meekneſs, long-ſuffering, forgiving one another,--Even as Chriſt forgave you. This confor- Col.3.12, 13. mity to Chriſt in grace is the very effect of our pre- Pſ.45.21. deſtination: O look unto Jeſus, and be in grace like unto Jeſus: Why, Chriſt is full of grace, a veſſel fill'd up to the lip, or very brim: Thou art fairer than the children of men, and grace is poured into thy lips. Chriſt was as it were Grace ſpeaking, Luke 4. 22. Grace ſighing, weeping, dying, Heb. 2.9. Grace living again, and now dropping, or rather raining down floods of grace on his living members, *Eph.*4.11. Chriſt is the great Apple-tree, dropping down Apples of Life, Cant. 2. 3. and all that falls from this tree, as apples, leaves, ſhadows, ſmells, bloſſoms, are but pieces of grace fallen down from him, who is the fulneſs of all, and hath filled all things. Chriſt is the Roſe of Sharon, and Cant.2.1. every leaf of this Roſe is an Heaven; every white and red in it is grace and glory, every act of breathing out its ſmell from everlaſting to everlaſting, is ſpotleſs and unmixed grace; why then, my Soul, if thou wilt conform to Chriſt, conform in this: Be John.1.16 holy as he is holy; of that fulneſs of grace that is in him, do thou receive even grace for grace.

Chriſtians! where are we? O that ever men ſhould hear of ſo much grace, and of ſuch acts of grace, in that Eternity before all Worlds, and yet no impreſſion of grace upon their hearts! O that God and Chriſt ſhould both be in that buſineſs of Eternity: that Heaven, Hell, Juſtice, Mercy, Souls, and deep Wiſdom, ſhould be all in that rare piece, and yet that men ſhould think more of a Farm, an Ox, an Houſe, a Pin, a Straw, or of the bones of a crazy livelihood: O look up, look up, if thou art Chriſt's, conſider what he hath done for thy Soul; why, thou art predeſtinate to be conformed to the Image of Chriſt.

Thus far we have looked on Jeſus as our Jeſus, in that Eternity before all time, until the Creation: Our next work is to look on Jeſus, carrying on the great work of Man's Salvation in the Creation, the beginning of time, until his firſt coming.

CHAP. I. SECT. I.

Of Chriſt promiſed by degrees.

IN this period, as in the former, we ſhall firſt lay down the Object; and then direct you how to look upon it.

The Object is Jeſus, carrying on the work of Man's Salvation in that dark time before his coming in the Fleſh.

No ſooner is the world made, and the things therein; but Man was created, that way might be made for God to ſhew his grace in the ſalvation of his Elect. And now was it that God's eternal project, and counſel, and fore-knowledge, and purpoſe, and decree, and covenant with Chriſt, was to come into execution. Indeed at the firſt there was no need of Chriſt; for Man at firſt was made in holineſs, the image of God, and to bear rule over the reſt of the viſible creatures; though this his ſtate was but of a little ſtanding. It was the received opinion in former times, that our firſt Parents fell the very ſame day in which they were created. Auguſtine amongſt the reſt writes, that they ſtood but ſix hours: but though we cannot deſcribe the certain time, very probable it is, that it was but ſhort: This we find, that Moſes having ſet down the creation of man, without the interpoſition of any thing elſe, he comes immediately to the fall; and the Devil no doubt took the firſt occaſion he poſſibly could, to bring man to the ſame damnation with himſelf. Well then long it was not but Adam by his ſin deprived himſelf, and all his poſterity of the image of God: All mankind was in his Loins, ſo by the order and appointment of God all mankind partake with him in the guilt of his ſins: Hence is the daily and continual cry, not only of Adam, Abraham, David, Paul, but of every Saint, O wretched man that I am, who ſhall deliver me from the body of this death? but ſweet Souls, ſtay your complaints, here's Goſpel-news.——

In this ſad hour of temptation God ſtepped in: he will not leave man without hope; he tells the Devil who begun this miſchief; I will put enmity between thee, and the woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed; it ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel. At the very inſtant, when God was pronouncing judgment upon the ſeveral delinquents in the fall; nay, before judgment was pronounced on the perſons tempted, Jeſus is hinted, the Covenant of grace is proclaimed. O the infinite riches of the mercy of God in Chriſt.

But you will ſay, how comes Jeſus in? how carried he on the great work of our ſalvation in this dark time?

I anſwer, 1. By aſſuming and taking upon him the form and ſhape of man, and ſo diſcharging ſome ſpecial offices in that reſpect: We read often of Chriſt's apparition before his Incarnation, and then eſpecially when he had to do with this great Negotiation of man's Eternal happineſs. Some think it not improbable that Chriſt aſſumed the form of man when he firſt created man; and ſo he made man, not only in is own image which he had as God, In holineſs, and true righteouſneſs, but in reſpect of that form which he had aſſumed. Howſoever this we find, that after man had ſinned, Chriſt then appeared firſt to Adam, then to Abraham, then to Iſaac, then to Jacob, then to Moſes, &c.——firſt, he appeared to Adam in the garden; And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day. God as he is God hath neither voice to ſpeak, nor feet to walk, but aſſuming the form and ſhape of a man he exciſed both; and ſo he was the firſt that publiſhed that firſt promiſe to the World, It ſhall bruiſe thy head.—— 2. He appeared to Abraham in the plain of Mamre, where the Lord talked with Abraham, and Abraham calls him the Judge of all the Earth, which can be aſcribed to none but Chriſt the Judge of quick and dead. Some from that ſaying of Chriſt, your Father Abraham rejoiced to ſee my day, and he ſaw it, and was glad, do gather that Abraham ſaw Chriſt, not only with the eyes of faith, (as all the reſt of the Patriarchs and Prophets did) but alſo in a viſible ſhape which he aſſumed, like unto that whereunto he was afterwards to be united; And ſo it was Chriſt that renewed the Covenant with Abraham, ſaying, I will eſtabliſh my Covenant between me and thee, and thy ſeed after thee in their generations, for an everlaſting Covenant, to be a God unto thee, and to thy ſeed after thee --3. He appeared to Iſaac, Gen. 26.2. and to Jacob, Gen. 32. 24. 30. and to Moſes, Exod. 20. 1, 2, 3. and to many others, of which I ſhall comment in order. And theſe apparitions of Chriſt were as præludiums of his Incarnation. But this is not the way I ſhall inſiſt upon.

2. Chriſt carried on the great work of our ſalvation in that dark time, not by himſelf exhibited (as when he was incarnate) but only promiſed. The great King would firſt have his Harbingers to lead the way, before he himſelf would come in perſon.

As the Lord had obſerved this method in creating the World, that firſt he would have darkneſs, and then light, and as ſtill he obſerves this method in upholding the world, that firſt he will have dawning, and then clear day; ſo in the framing and upholding of his Church, he will firſt have Chriſt held forth in Ceremonies, Rites, Figures, Types, Promiſes, Covenants; and then like a glorious Sun, or like the day-ſpring from on high he would viſit the world, to give light to them that ſit in darkneſs. To this purpoſe we read, that as Chriſt, ſo the Covenant of grace (which applies Chriſt to us) was firſt promiſed, and then promulgated: the Covenant of promiſe was that Covenant, which God made with Adam and Abraham, and Moſes, and David, and all Iſrael in Jeſus Chriſt; to be Incarnate, crucified, and riſen from the dead; and it was meet that the promiſe ſhould go before the Goſpel, and be fulfilled in the Goſpel, that ſo a great good might earneſtly be deſired, before it was beſtowed. In a time of darkneſs men deſire light; as the Morning watch watcheth and longeth for the Morning, ſo the obſcure revelation of Chriſt in a promiſe raiſed the hearts of the Patriarchs to an earneſt deſire of Chriſt his coming in the fleſh. But in this obſcurity; we may obſerve ſome degrees; before the Law given by Moſes the promiſe was more obſcure; the Law being given, even to the time of the Prophets, the promiſe was a little more clear; in the time of the Prophets, even to John the Baptiſt; it was clearer yet; as the coming of the Meſſias did approach nearer and nearer, ſo was the promiſe clearer and clearer ſtill: Juſt as the approach of the Sun is nearer or further off, ſo is the light that goes before it greater or leſſer. In like manner was the Revelation that went before Chriſt more dim or clear, as the riſing of the Sun of righteouſneſs was more remote, or nigh at hand. It was the good pleaſure of God to manifeſt the riches of his grace by degrees, and not all at once; we ſee to this very day, that God in his ſeveral approaches of mercy and goodneſs draws nearer and nearer to his Church: Even now in this marvellous light of the Goſpel we have our divine Ceremonies and Sacraments, we ſee him afar off, we know but in part; but time ſhall come (even before his ſecond coming) that we, or our Children ſhall ſee him more clearly, perfectly, immediately. My preſent buſineſs is to hold forth Jeſus in the Covenant of grace as promiſed, and becauſe the promiſe receives diſtinction of degrees according to the ſeveral breakings out of it to the dark world, we will conſider it as it was manifeſted,

1. From Adam till Abraham.
2. From Abraham till Moſes.
3. From Moſes till David.
4. From David till the Babyloniſh Captivity, or thereabout.
5. From the Captivity, or thereabout, till Chriſt.

In every of theſe periods will appear ſome further and further diſcoveries of God's mercy in Chriſt, of the Covenant of Grace, of our Jeſus carrying on the great work of Man's Eternal ſalvation in that dark time.

You heard before of the Covenant betwixt God and Chriſt concerning our ſalvation; but that was not the Covenant of grace which God immediately made with man as fallen; but a particular Covenant with Chriſt to be the Mediator. Or ſo far as it was a Covenant of grace, it was then made betwixt God and Chriſt, and after to be made betwixt God and us: for a time we were hid in the womb of God's Election, and not being then capable to enter into Covenant with God, Chriſt undertook for us, but yet ſo that when we come to be regenerate, we are then to ſtrike Covenant our ſelves. And hence we read expreſly of God's Covenanting with ſundry particular perſons, as with Adam, and Abraham, and Moſes, and David, &c. of which in the next Sections.

Sect. 2. Of the Covenant of Promiſe as manifeſt in Adam.

THE Covenant of grace in this ſenſe is nothing elſe but a compact made betwixt God and Man, touching reconciliation, and life Eternal by Chriſt. Now the firſt breaking forth of his gracious Covenant was to Adam and Eve, immediately after the Fall, expreſſed in theſe words, I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed; it ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel. Gen.3.13.

This promiſe as it is the firſt; ſo the hardeſt to be underſtood: it contains in it good news of the overthrow of Satan's Kingdom, and of man's freedom by the death of Chriſt. But the obſcurity is ſuch, that Luther exceedingly complains, The Text which of all men ſhould rightly be known, is of no man that I know (ſaith he) eſpecially and accurately unfolded: amongſt the Ancients there is not one that hath explicated this Text according to the dignity of it.

Textus qui omnibus debbat eſſe notiſſimus á nemine quod ego ſciam, diligenter & accurate explicatus, &c. Luther.

The occaſion was this. The Lord looking down from heaven, and ſeeing how Satan had prevailed againſt man, and in ſome ſort undone the whole fabrick of the creation, he reſolves upon Satan's ruin, and Man's preſervation; And the Lord God ſaid unto the Serpent, becauſe thou haſt done this, thou art curſed. Gen 3.14. This literally is underſtood of the Serpent, but Spiritually of the Devil; both were as means to draw man unto ſin, and therefore they are joined as one in the puniſhment; The Lord cut off the feet of the Serpent (ſay the Rabbies) and curſed him; and he caſt Samael (the Devil) and his company out of heaven, and curſed them. R Eliezer. c.14. Indeed man being in the tranſgreſſion, muſt alſo have his puniſhment, as it follows verſ. 17, 18, 19. and yet that God might manifeſt the riches of his grace, he includes in the Serpetns malediction this everlaſting Goſpel I will put enmity between thee and the woman, &c.

For the ſenſe of the Words we ſhall open theſe terms, as, 1. Who is the Serpent? 2. Who is the woman? 3. What is the ſeed of the Serpent? 4. What is the ſeed of the woman? 5. What is that Hu [in our Bible tranſlated it?] 6. What is the Serpent's head, and the bruiſing of it? 7. What is the heel of the ſeed of the woman, and the bruiſing of it? 8. Amongſt whom was the enmity, or rather enmities? for in the Text we find many Armies; I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed, &c.

1. Who is the Serpent? I find diverſity of opinions among Interpreters: Some ſay, it was only the Serpent, and that which belongs unto Satan is but myſtically underſtood: others ſay, it was only Satan under the notion of a Serpent, as ſometimes he is called the great Dragon, And the great Dragon was caſt out, that old Serpent called the Devil, and Satan which deceived the whole world. Rev. 12.9 Others ſay, it was both Satan and the Serpent; as men are ſaid to be poſſeſſed of Satan, ſo was the Serpent poſſeſſed of the Devil. Satan could not provoke our firſt Parents to ſin by any inward temptation, as now he doth by the help of our corruption: nor could he enter into their bodies or minds, becauſe of the holineſs and glory that was in them; and therefore he preſumed to take a beaſt of the earth, and by diſpoſing of his Tongue he ſpeaks within him. But what? muſt the Serpent have puniſhment that was only Satan's inſtrument in the temptation? yes:

Such was God's love to man, that he condemns both the Author and inſtrument of that evil: as one that in anger breaks the ſword wherewith his ſon, or his friend was wounded; ſo God breaks Satan's ſword: the Serpent is puniſhed according to the letter of the Text, and Satan is puniſhed in the ſpiritual meaning of the Lord.

Who is the woman? Some are all for Allegories, and they will tell you that the Serpent and the Woman are the ſuperior and inferiour faculties of the Soul; and that ever ſince the Fall there hath been a continual War betwixt theſe: but I look at this Commentary as vain and trifling, though it be fathered on ſome of the Ancients, and of no ſmall note; others ſay, this Woman is the Bleſſed Virgin, in relation to which, they read the laſt words thus, ſhe ſhall bruiſe thy head; this reading is not only allowed, but confirmed by the Council of Trent, and in Antiphona de domina noſtra ſecundum uſum Eccleſ. Hildenſhem. ſome of their Prayer books, they call her The Mother of the Lord, the Tree of Life, the breaker of the Serpents head, and the Gate of Heaven. But I look on this Commentary as ignorant and Idolatrous, and wholly derogatory to the Kingdom of Chriſt. Others are not ſo eaſily miſled, and therefore ſay, that the Woman whereſoever mentioned in this Text, is Eve, and none but Eve; ſhe it was whom the tempter had ſeduced, and in juſt judgment for her familiarity with the tempter, God meets with her, I will put enmity (ſaith God) between thee and the Woman.

3. What is the Seed of the Serpent? In Scripture phraſe Seed is ſometimes taken collectively, for many Gen. 17. 17, 18. at once; as when the Lord ſaid to Abraham, I will be thy God, and the God of thy Seed: and to thee and thy Seed will I give this Land: And I will multiply thy Seed as the ſand of the Sea: and ſometimes it is taken ſingularly for one only perſon; thus Eve called her Son Gen. 4. 25. Seth, for God, ſaid ſhe, hath appointed me another Seed Gen. 22. 18. inſtead of Abel: and ſo it is ſaid of Chriſt, in thy Seed ſhall all the Nations of the Earth be bleſſed. Now in this place the Seed of the Serpent is taken collectively, Mat. 25. 4. for all the families of Devils, for the Devil and his Angels (as Chriſt calls them) and for all the Sons of the Devil (i. e.) for all reprobate men whoſe Father and prince is the Devil; as Chriſt told the Jews, John 8. 44. ye are of your Father the Devil and the luſts of your Father ye will do: and as John tells us, he that committeth ſin is 1 John 3. 8, 10. of the Devil——in this the children of God are manifeſt, and the Children of the Devil; and thus both Devils and reprobates are reckoned as the ſeed of the Serpent.

4. What is the Seed of the Woman?——The Seed of the Woman is that poſterity of the Woman which do not degenerate into the Seed of the Serpent: that is the meaning of the firſt ſentence, I will put enmity;——and then it follows, between thy Seed and her Seed: and for this ſenſe we have theſe arguments. 1. The oppoſition of the Seeds, for as the Seed of the Serpent is taken collectively, ſo the Seed of the Woman muſt be taken collectively, that he oppoſition may be fit. 2. The enmities fore-ſpoken do ſtrongly evince it: now the enmities pertain both to Eve and to all her poſterity (if godly) to the end of the world; hence all that will live godly in Chriſt Jeſus ſhall ſuffer perſecution, ſaith the Apoſtle; And I will put enmity (ſaith God) 2 Tim. 3. 12. between thee and the woman; is that all? no but alſo between thy Seed and her Seed: and who can deny but theſe Epheſ. 6. 12. enmities have been ever ſince betwixt Satan's brood and the Saints? we are all wreſtlers againſt Principalities and Powers, and Rulers of the darkneſs of this World, and againſt ſpiritual wickedneſſes in high places.

5. What is that Hu] in our Bible tranſlated, it?] it ſhall bruiſe thy head? Some obſerve this Hu, it] is of the maſculine gender; and Zera, Seed, is of the maſculine gender; and Jeſaphtra, ſhall bruiſe, is of the maſculine gender, which confutes the Tranſlation, that renders it thus, ſhe ſhall bruiſe thy head: and which confirms our Tranſlation which is thus, he or, it, or that ſame Seed (i.e.) one ſingular perſon of that ſame Seed, ſhall bruiſe thy head. Well then, who is this he? or what one is he?] even Jeſus the Son of the Living God: Here is the firſt hint of Jeſus that ever was read, or heard of in this world. This was the Proto-evangel, or firſt Goſpel that ever was publiſhed after the Creation. O bleſſed news, fit for God's mouth to ſpeak, and to break firſt to the World now fallen! O dear Parents! how would you have deſpaired, if before ſentence you had not heard theſe bleſſed tidings! O our firſt Parents upon earth! where had you and we been, if this bleſſed Text had not been? Come, ſet a Star upon it, write it in letters of Gold, or rather write it on the very Tables of our Hearts: here is the bleſſed'ſt news that ever was, or ever ſhall be; but for this we had been all Fire-brands of Hell; yea, but for this, Adam and Eve, and all their Sons and Daughters that are now gone out of this World, had been ſmoaking and frying in Hell-fire. Away with all groſs miſtakes, erroneous conceits, and as you love your Souls, yield to this bleſſed ſenſe! This it [or he] is one of that ſame Seed, and this one of that ſame Seed is Jeſus, and only Jeſus, and none but Jeſus; and for this ſenſe we have theſe arguments.

1. Some obſerve that this Sentence is ſeparated from the former with a Period or great ſtop: however God goes on to ſpeak of the Seed of the Woman, yet he ſays not, and that Seed ſhall bruiſe thy head, for ſo we might have thought he had ſpoken of that Seed collectively as he did before; but ſtopping there, and not repeating the ſame word again, he gives it thus, it or he ſhall bruiſe thy head; (i.e.) ſome individual perſon of that ſame Seed, ſome ſingular one of that ſame common Seed of the Woman, ſhall bruiſe thy head; as David alone of all the Hoſt of Iſrael goes forth to fight with Goliah, and overcomes him; ſo Chriſt alone of all the Seed of the Woman was ſo to fight with the Serpent by his one power as to overcome him and to bruiſe his head.

2. The Seventy in their Tranſlations of this place (with which agrees the Chaldee Paraphraſt) renders it αὐτὸς, he] which needs muſt denote ſome ſingular perſon, or Son of the woman; and the rather becauſe the Seed ſpoken of before is rendred, τὸ σπέρμα, to which if the relative had rightly agreed, it ſhould have been αὐτὸ or τȣτο, and not αὐτὸς; Hereto we may add, that to this it] or he] the Seed, of the Serpent is not oppoſed as it was in the former ſentence; but the ſerpent it ſelf, one ſingular Antagoniſt; here, is ſingularis μονομαχια, a duel, or a combate of two, hand to hand, only Chriſt and the Serpent; he ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel.

3. The bruiſing of the head doth plainly diſcover this it, or he is Jeſus Chriſt: for none can bruiſe the Serpent's head but only God: the God of Peace (ſaith Rom. 16. 10. the Apoſtle) ſhall bruiſe Satan under your feet ſhortly. Now there was none of the Seed of the woman, that was ever God but only Chriſt, God-man, Man-God, bleſſed for ever; and therefore it muſt needs be Chriſt; and only Chriſt that can bruiſe this Serpents head: O there's a Divine Power, a power and vertue of God in it to bruiſe the Serpents head; obſerve but the manner of this Duel: Chriſt treads on the Serpent; and by this means he comes to have a bruiſe in the heel, whilſt with his heel he bruiſeth the Serpents head; a wonderful thing that Chriſt ſhould lay at the Serpents head with no other weapon but only with his heel; it were much for any man to ſtrike at any common Serpent with a bare and naked foot: rather would he take a dart, or club, or any other Weapon; but with a foot to bruiſe Satan's head (that great and fierce, and monſtrous Serpent) this exceeds any man's power, or any man's daring to attempt: hence it is, that ſome one perſon of more than humane ſtrength muſt do this deed, and who is that of the Seed of the Woman but only Jeſus Chriſt?

4. God himſelf in other places of Scripture doth Gen. 22. 18. expreſly declare that this Seed here promiſed is Chriſt, and only Chriſt: mark but where this promiſe is 1 Chro. 17. 11. repeated to the Patriarchs, as when the Lord ſaid to Abraham, in thy Seed ſhall all the Nations of the Earth be bleſſed: and when the Lord ſaid to David, I will raiſe up thy Seed after thee, which ſhall be of thy Sons, and I will eſtabliſh his Kingdom; and you may ſee it clear that this Seed is Chriſt, and only Chriſt, concerning Gal. 3. 16. that promiſe to Abraham the Apoſtle ſo interprets it, now to Abraham and his ſeed were the promiſes made; he ſaith not, and to Seeds, as of many, but as of one, and to thy Seed, which is Chriſt: and concerning that Iſa. 9. 6, 7. promiſe to David, the Prophet ſo interprets it, He ſhall ſit upon the Throne of David, and upon his Kingdom to order it, and to eſtabliſh it, ——— Who is that? in the former verſe, his name is Wonderful, Counſellor, the mighty God, the everlaſting Father, the Prince of Peace. (i.e.) Chriſt and none but Chriſt, for unto us a Child is born, and unto us a Son is given, &c. and who is that but Jeſus Chriſt?

5. The accompliſhment of this promiſe in Chriſt is expreſly and clearly made out in the new Teſtament. Was not Jeſus Chriſt of the Seed of the woman, born of a Virgin? was not his heel bruiſed, himſelf Crucified? and did he not bruiſe the Serpents 1 John 3. 8. head, break the Power and Dominion of Satan? Luk. 10. 17, 18, 19. What ſaith the Goſpel: for this purpoſe the Son of God was manifeſted, that he might deſtroy the works of the Devil. ——— And the ſeventy returned again with joy, ſaying, Lord, even the Devils are ſubject unto us, through thy name: and he ſaid unto them, I beheld Satan as Lightning fall from Heaven; behold I give unto you power to tread on Serpents, and Scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing ſhall by any means hurt you. —— And now is the judgment of this world, now ſhall the Prince of this world be caſt out. —— And for as much as children are partakers of fleſh and blood, He alſo himſelf likewiſe took part of the ſame, that through death he might deſtroy him that had the power of death, that is, the Devil. In theſe and many other places we find this very promiſe fulfilled in Chriſt, and only in Chriſt; and therefore he and only he is the Seed of the Woman (that Hu, it, or he) that ſhall bruiſe the Serpents head. Yet I will not deny, but by way of participation this promiſe may pertain to the Rom. 8. 37 whole body of Chriſt; Through him that loved us we are more than Conquerors, ſaith the Apoſtle; we may Conquer Satan, though not in our own ſtrength, but Chriſt's; and ſo in a ſecondary ſenſe, by way of communication with Chriſt, under this Seed all the faithful are and may be contained; 1. Becauſe the Head and Members are all one body, both he that Heb. 2. 11. ſanctifieth, and they who are ſanctified are all one. 2. Becauſe the faithful are called the ſeed of Chriſt, when Iſa. 53. 10. thou ſhalt make his Soul an offering for ſin, he ſhall ſee his ſeed. 3. Becauſe Satan doth not only bruiſe the 2 Tim. 3. 12. heel of Chriſt, but of all the faithful, all that will live Godly in Chriſt Jeſus ſhall ſuffer Perſecution. 4. Becauſe Satans overthrow by Chriſt our Head is dif- Rom. 16. 20. fuſed to all the Members, and the God of peace ſhall bruiſe Satan under your feet ſhortly. In this ſenſe many of the ancient and modern Divines do extend this ſeed to the whole body of Chriſt: but primarily, originally, eſpecially, and properly, it belongs only to Chriſt, and to none but the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. He only is the ſeed by whom the promiſe is accompliſhed, though the faithful alſo are the ſeed to whom and for whom the promiſe was made.

6. What is the Serpents head, and the bruiſing of it? 1. For the Serpents head, it is the power, rage, reign and Kingdom of Satan; It is obſerved that in the head of a Serpent lies the ſtrength, power, and life of a Serpent; ſo by a phraſe of ſpeech fitted to the condition of this Serpent that was Satan's inſtrument, God tells the Devil of the danger of his head, (i.e.) of his power and Kingdom. Now this Power and Kingdom of Satan conſiſts more eſpecially in Sin and 1 Cor. 15. 26. death, for the ſting of Death is ſin, and the power of Death is Heb. 2. 14. in Satan. Hence ſin and death; are uſually called the wages and works of Satan; they are his own, he owns them, and carries them at his girdle. 2. For the bruiſing of this head, it is the overthrowing of Satan's power; he ſhall bruiſe thy head (i. e.) Chriſt ſhall break thy power, Chriſt ſhall deſtroy ſin, and death, and him that 1 Joh. 2. 13 had the Power of death, that is the Devil. I ſay Chriſt ſhall do it, though as I have ſaid in a ſecondary ſenſe the faithful ſhall do it; Chriſt overcomes by his own power, and the faithful overcome by the power of Chriſt; the victory is common to all the ſeed, but the Author of victory is only Chriſt the Head and chief of all the ſeed: ye have overcome the evil one, Rom. 16. 20. but how? not of your ſelves, no, it is the God of peace that bruiſeth Satan. Well then, here is the ſenſe, the Serpents head is bruiſed (i. e.) the Devil, and ſin, and death, and hell are overthrown; not only the Devil in his perſon, but the works of the Devil, which by the fall he had planted in our natures, as pride, vainglory, ignorance, luſt, &c. nor only Satan's works, but the fruits and effects of his works, as Death and Hell; ſo that all the faithful may ſing with Paul; O death where is thy ſting? O grave where is thy victory? 1 Cor. 15. 55, 57. Thanks be to God which giveth us victory through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

7. What is the heel of the ſeed of the woman, and the bruiſing of it? 1. For the heel it is the humanity of Chriſt according to which properly Chriſt hath an heel: Or (as others) it is the ways of Chriſt, which Satan, by all the means he could poſſibly would ſeek to ſuppreſs. 2. For the bruiſing of his heel, it is the miſeries, mockings, woundings, Death and Burial of Chriſt, all which he endured in his heel (i. e.) in his humanity; or it extends further, to all the hurts, reproaches, afflictions, perſecutions of the faithful by the Devil and his agents: all which are but as a bruiſe in the heel, which cannot endanger the ſpiritual life of their ſouls. It is obſerved, that the Serpent hath but one head, but the ſeed of the woman hath two heels; ſo that the one may be ſome help, while the other is hurt; beſides, an hurt in the heel is far from the head and heart; and though it may be painful, it is not mortal. Indeed, Chriſt's heel was bruiſed, (i. e.) He was delivered to death, even to the death of the Croſs; yet he roſe again from the dead; neither had the Devil any advantage by his death; for as angry Bees ſtinging once, make themſelves drones; ſo the Devil, now he may hiſs at us, but he cannot hurt us; by that wound which Chriſt received at his death, he wounded all his enemies irrecoverably; the very ſight it ſelf was Chriſt's triumph; even then was the Kingdom of darkneſs utterly overthrown; ſin, death, and Satan were conquered, and taken captive, and whatſoever might be brought againſt us, was taken away, as the leaſt bill, or ſcroll: O bleſſed riddle! Out of the Eater came forth meat, and Judg. 14. 14. out of the ſtrong came forth ſweetneſs. In reference to the promiſe, thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel, Chriſt is ſaid to be the Lamb ſlain from the foundation of the world. Rev. 13. 8. Here's good news betimes.

8. Amongſt whom was the enmity, or this hoſtile war? we find in the Text three Hoſts, and three battles: As ———

1. Betwixt Satan and the woman; I will put en- mity between thee and the woman : (i. e.) Betwixt thee the ſeducer, and her whom thou haſt ſeduced. This enmity is oppoſed to the amity and familiarity, which had been between the woman, and the Serpent, and upon that account the woman, and not the man is named ; not but that enmity muſt be betwixt the Devil and man, as well as betwixt the Devil and the woman : but becauſe the Woman had more tampered with Satan, and being deceived by Satan, was firſt in the tranſgreſſion, therefore ſhe is only named, I will put enmity between thee and the woman.

2. Betwixt Satan's Seed, and the Seed of the woman : I will put enmity, not only between thee and the woman, but alſo between thy Seed, and her Seed, q. d. This enmity ſhall not ceaſe with the death of the woman, but it ſhall continue to her Seed, and to her Seeds Seed, even to the end of the World. We ſee to this day how the Serpent and Serpents Seed are ſtriving and warring againſt the Church ; and a wonder it is (conſidering the malice of the enemy) that there is a Church upon Earth, but only that we have Chriſt's Promiſe, The gates of Hell ſhall not prevail againſt it ; and lo I am with you always, even to the end of the World.

3. Betwixt Chriſt and the Serpent. O this is a bloody conflict on both ſides ! He ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel. 1. He ſhall bruiſe thy head ; Chriſt ſhall break thy power ; thy power, (i. e.) the power of the Serpent, or of the devil himſelf : He fights not ſo much with the Seed, as with the Serpent : if Satan be overthrown, his Seed cannot ſtand. 2. Thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel ; thou ſhalt afflict him and his, thou ſhalt caſt out of thy mouth a flood of perſecutions ; thou ſhalt make war with him, and all them which keep the Commandments of God, and have the teſtimony of Jeſus Chriſt. Rev. 12. 17.

I have held you a while in the explication of this firſt promiſe, and the rather becauſe of the darkneſs of it, and the much ſweetneſs that is contained in it ; it is full of Goſpel-truths : ſtrike but the flint, and there will fly out theſe glorious ſparkles.

1. That a Saviour was promiſed from the beginning of the World. 2. That this Saviour ſhould free all his Saints from Sin, Death, and Hell ; the head and power of the Devil. 3. That to this end this Saviour ſhould be a Mediator ; for God would not grant an immediate pardon, but the promiſed Seed muſt firſt intervene. 4. That this Mediator ſhould be of the Seed of the Woman ; that is a man, and yet ſtronger than the Devil, endued with a divine Power, and ſo he is God. 5. That this Man-God ſhould according to his prieſtly Office, be a Sacrifice for ſin, the Serpent ſhould bruiſe his heel, he ſhould ſuffer and die for the People ; and yet accordingly to his Kingly Office he ſhould overcome Satan ; for he ſhould bruiſe his head, overthrow his Kingdom, and make us more than Conquerours in him that loved us. That this promiſe of Chriſt, and of our Juſtification is free ; God of meer mercy and free grace, brings forth this promiſe, there could be now after the Fall no merit in man ; and even now he promiſeth remiſſion of ſins, and life eternal, in, for, and through the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. No queſtion but in belief of this promiſe, the Patriarchs and Fathers of old obtained life, glory, and immortality : By faith the elders obtained a good report : by faith Abel obtained witneſs that he was righteous : by faith Enoch was tranſlated that he ſhould not ſee death : by faith Noah became heir of the righteouſneſs of Chriſt : And how ſhould it but revive us in theſe laſt times, to hear that the firſt thing that ever God did after the World was fallen, it was this act of mercy, to make a promiſe of Chriſt, and to reconcile loſt Man to himſelf through the ſame Jeſus Chriſt ? ſurely he began to do that ſoon, which he meant to be always a doing, even to the end of the World. Thus far of the promiſe, as it was manifeſted from Adam to Abraham.

Sect. 3. Of the Covenant of Promiſe as manifeſted to Abraham.

THe ſecond breaking forth of this gracious Covenant, was to Abraham ; and now it ſhines in a more glorious light than it did before : At firſt it was propounded in very dark and cloudy terms, not eaſie to be underſtood, and moſt things ſparingly expreſſed ; but in this ſecond riſe and manifeſtation, we have it laid down in plainer terms : I will eſtabliſh my Covenant between me and thee, and thy ſeed after thee, in their generation for an everlaſting Covenant, to be a God to thee, and to thy ſeed after thee. —— For the right underſtanding of this, we ſhall examine theſe particulars. —— —— Gen. 17. 17.

1. What a Covenant is ?
2. What is the eſtabliſhing of this Covenant ?
3. Betwixt whom is the Covenant to be eſtabliſhed ?
4. For what time is the eſtabliſhed Covenant to endure ?
5. What are the privileges of this Covenant?
6. What is the condition of this Covenant.
7. Who is the head, both as Undertaker, and Purchaſer, and Treaſurer, upon whom this Covenant is eſtabliſted ?

1. What is a Covenant ? It is a Contract of mutual Peace and good will, obliging Parties on both hands to the performing of mutual Benefits and Offices. Thus was the Covenant betwixt God and Abraham, there was a mutual ſtipulation in it on God's part, to perform his Promiſes of temporal, Spiritual, and Eternal Grace ; and on Abraham's part to receive this Grace by Faith, and to perform due obedience and thankfulneſs to God. Hence a little nearer, we ſay the Covenant is a mutual Compact, or Agreement betwixt God and Man, whereby God promiſed all good things, eſpecially eternal happineſs unto Man ; and Man doth promiſe to walk before God in all acceptable, free, and willing obedience, expecting all good from God, and happineſs in God, according to his promiſe, for the praiſe and glory of his Grace. Others, deſcribing the Covenant of Grace (for with the Covenant of Works we will not meddle) they give it thus : The Covenant of Grace is a free and gracious Compact, which God of his meer mercy in Jeſus Chriſt hath made with Sinful Man, promiſing unto him pardon of Sins and eternal happineſs, if he will but repent of Sin, aud embrace mercy reaching forth by faith unfeigned, and walk before God in willing, faithful, and ſincere obedience. —— In this deſcription many things are conſidered : As, 1. That the Author of this Covenant is God ; not as our Creator, but as our merciful God and Father in Chriſt Jeſus. 2. That the cauſe of this Covenant is not any worth, or dignity, or merit in man, but the meer mercy, love, and favour of God. 3. That the foundation of this Covenant is Jeſus Chriſt, in and through whom we are reconciled unto God ; for ſince God and man were ſeparated by ſin, no Coveoant can paſs betwixt them, no reconciliation can be expected, nor pardon obtained but in and through a Mediator. 4. That the party Covenanted with, is ſinful man ; the fall of our firſt Parents was the occaſion of this Covenant ; and God was pleaſed to permit the fall, that he might manifeſt the Riches of his mercy in man's recovery. 5. That the form of this Covenant ſtands on God's part in gracious and free promiſes of forgiveneſs, holineſs, happineſs ; and on man's part in a reſtipulation of ſuch Duties as will ſtand with the free grace and mercy of God in Chriſt. 6. That the ſtipulation on man's part required, is repentance from ſin, beleif in the promiſes ; and a yielding of fear, reverence, worſhip, and obedience to God according to his word. Theſe I might inſiſt on, but my purpoſed brevity will not permit.

2. What is the eſtabliſhing of this Covenant? Some ſay, this ſpeaks the duration of it, of which anon; I ſuppoſe it intends alſo the confirmation of it. We find that the Lord had before made a Covenant with Gen. 15.4, 5. Abraham, Gen. 15. 4, 5. And now he doth not aboliſh the former, and make another; but rather, he renews, confirms, and eſtabliſheth the former. It may be there was ſome heſitation or doubting in *Abra*Gen. 15.1, 2, 3. ham; ſo we ſee Gen. 15. 1, 2. But now God would aſſure him infallibly of his will and purpoſe: O when a man hears that God will vouchſafe ſo much favour as to enter into a Covenant with him; he is ready to Judg. 6.15 ſay as Gideon did, Alas my Family is poor in Manaſſes, and I am the leaſt in all my Father's houſe; and who am I that I ſhould be raiſed up hitherto? that God ſhould make ſuch promiſes as theſe to me? And hence, to prevent ſuch Objections, the Lord will confirm and eſtabliſh his Covenant; as ſometimes by his promiſes, ſometimes by an Oath, ſometimes by the blood of Chriſt himſelf, ſometimes by Seals. So here in this very place, God adds the Seal of Circumciſion, Ye ſhall circumciſe the Gen. 17. 11. fleſh of your fore-skin (ſaith God) and it ſhall be a token of the Covenant betwixt me and you. As ſometimes he ſaid of the Rain-bow, I do ſet my Bow in the Cloud, and Gen. 9.13, 15, 16. it ſhall be for a token of a Covenant between me and the earth; ——That the waters ſhall no more become a flood to deſtroy all fleſh—— For I will look upon the Bow, that I may remember the everlaſting Covenant. After this manner are the Signs and Seals of the Covenant: Circumciſe your ſelves, ſaith God, and when I ſee the Circumciſion, I will remember my Covenant, and I will make good to you all the promiſes thereof.——But what is Circumciſion to the Covenant? Much every way: Circumciſion was not without ſhedding of Blood, becauſe the Covenant was not yet eſtabliſhed in the Blood of the Meſſiah; ſure there was much in this, howſoever the rite of it ſelf was nothing; yet as it led the faithful Patriarchs to the blood of Chriſt, and as it aſſured the purging away of ſin by the blood of Chriſt, and as it ſigned the Circumciſion of the Heart by the Spirit of Chriſt, ſo it found acceptance with God; no ſooner he looks on it, but he remembers his Covenant, and confirms it, and makes it good to Abraham, and to his Seed after him.

3. Betwixt whom is the Covenant to be eſtabliſhed? Between me and thee (ſaith God) and thy ſeed after thee. The two heads of this Covenant are God and Abraham; on God's part are the whole Trinity of Perſons, the bleſſed Angels, and all the hoſt of heaven; on Abraham's part are all his Seed and his poſterity, yet Rom. 9.6, 7, 8. with this limitation, that all are not Iſrael, which are of Iſrael; neither be cauſe they are the ſeed of Abraham, are they all Children of Abraham; but in Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed be called; that is they which are the children of the fleſh, are not the children of God; but the children of the promiſe are counted for the ſeed. No Queſtion this Covenant was not to be extended to the Iſhmaelites, Idumeans, or Kethureans. Abraham's carnal ſeed; theſe quickly departed both out of Abraham's Family, and Abraham's Faith: No, Gen. 17. 19. no, ſaith God, I will eſtabliſh my Covenant with Iſaac, for an everlaſting Covenant, and with his ſeed after him, With Iſaac, and with his Seed (i. e.) with the ſpiritual Seed of Abraham: Now under the Seed, 1. All believing Jews, and 2. All Gentiles are comprehended; all may be called the ſpiritual Seed of Abraham, that walk in the ſteps of the faith of Abraham; and indeed thus runs the promiſe: In thee ſhall all the Families of the earth be bleſſed, Gen. 12. 3. And in thee ſhall all the Nations of the Earth be bleſſed, Gen. 18. 18. Theſe Families and Nations muſt needs comprehend Rom. 4. 17, 11. Gal. 3.14. the Gentiles; the Apoſtle is very plain: As it is written, I have made thee a Father of many Nations.——That he might be the Father of all them that believe, though they be not circumciſed.——That the bleſſing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Jeſus Chriſt, that we might receive the promiſe of the ſpirit through faith. Chriſtians! here is our happineſs, the Covenant was not written for Abraham's ſake alone, but for us alſo, if Rom. 4. 23, 24. we believe in him that raiſed up Jeſus our Lord from the dead You may think all this while we are only diſcovering the privileges of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and of the Jews; no, bleſſed be God, Heaven is no freer to a Jew, than to a Gentile; there is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, male nor female, Gal. 3. 28, 29. &c. But if ye be Chriſt's, then are ye Abraham's ſeed, and heirs according to the promiſe.

4. For what time is the eſtabliſhed Covenant to endure? It is not for a few days, or months, or years, but for ever and ever; it is an everlaſting Covenant; and indeed the word Eſtabliſhed, ſounds this way, I will eſtabliſh my Covenant, that is (ſay ſome) Pſ. 89.28. I will have it ſtand and continue for ever; as it was Pſ. 89.28. ſaid of David, I have made a Covenant with my choſen, I have ſworn unto David my ſervant, thy ſeed will I eſtabliſh for ever; and again, my mercy will I keep for him for evermore, my Covenant ſhall ſtand faſt with him.——

1. A parte ante, as being from everlaſting in reſpect of the promiſe made to Chriſt for us, which was done (as you have heard) before the foundation of the world; it is not an infant of days; this Covenant bears the ſame date with the Divine being it ſelf; As Pſal. 103. 17. the mercy of God is from everlaſting, ſo the Covenant of Grace is from everlaſting; the Writs, Evidences, and Charters of our ſalvation were concluded, and paſſed the ſign and ſeal of the bleſſed Trinity from eternity; the Goſpel and this Covenant is not of yeſterday, no, no, it is an old counſel of the infinite wiſdom of God.

2. A parte poſt, as continuing from everlaſting to 1 Chron. 13. 5. everlaſting. Hence it is called a Covenant of ſalt, becauſe it corrupteth not, it faileth not, hence all the bleſſings of the Covenant are ſaid to be everlaſting; forgiveneſs of ſins is everlaſting, being once forgiven they are never remembred any more; peace and joy is Jer. 31.13. everlaſting, your heart ſhall rejoice, and your joy no man Joh. 16.22 taketh from you; ſalvation is everlaſting. Iſrael ſhall Iſa. 45. 17 be ſaved in the Lord with an everlaſting ſalvation; decretal Covenant mercy was not a leaſe, but a making the fee-ſimple (as we call it) of grace and glory to the Saints for ever: death may put an end to other Covenants, as betwixt man and man, or betwixt man and wife: but this Covenant betwixt God and us ſtands faſt for ever; though Abraham be dead, yet God is Abraham's God ſtill, and by vertue of this Covenant Abraham ſhall be raiſed up at the laſt day.

5. What are the privileges of the Covenant? I anſwer, the privileges of the Covenant are many, as they are great things, and great bleſſings which our great God promiſeth, ſo they are very many and numerous; the Covenant is full of bleſſings, it is a rich ſtore-houſe, repleniſhed with all manner of bleſſings; it is not dry, nor barren, but like the fat Olive or fruitful Vine, it is a well of ſalvation, a fountain of good things, a treaſure full of goods or unſearchable riches, which can never be emptied, nor come to an end. Hence it is that our finite narrow capacities can never apprehend the infinite grace that this Covenant contains yet as we may ſee things darkly in a Map, ſo let us endeavour as we are able to view them in ſome Map, or brief compendium; that by the little we do ſee, we may be raiſed up to the conſideration of things not ſeen, which ſhall be revealed in due time

The privileges of the Covenant are folded and wrapped up in the promiſes of it; every promiſe contains a privilege, but the time of unfolding every promiſe is not yet come; then only ſhall the promiſes of all ſorts be unfolded, when the heavens as Heb.1.12. a veſture ſhall be folded up. In the mean time we have a right and intereſt in the privileges of eternity by virtue of the promiſe; and hence the very terms of Covenant or promiſe are taken for the ſame, Epheſ. 2. 12. Rom. 9. 4. I ſhall for the preſent confine my ſelf only to thoſe promiſes and privileges of the Covenant which were manifeſted to Abraham. And they were

Of things } Temporal.
Spiritual.

1. Of things Temporal. Thus we read God promiſeth Abraham, I will make of thee a great Nation, and I will bleſs thee and make thy name great, and thou ſhalt be a bleſſing, and I will bleſs them that bleſs thee, and curſe him that curſeth thee, and unto thy ſeed will I give Gen.12.2. 3,7. this Land. We may add hereto the repetitions that God makes of theſe promiſes over and over; lift up now thine eyes and lock from the place where thou art, North-ward, and South-ward, and Eaſt-ward, and Weſt ward, for all the Land which thou ſeeſt, to thee will I give it, and Gen.13. 14,15,16. to thy ſeed for ever. And I will make thy ſeed as the duſt of the Earth, ſo that if a man can number the duſt of the Darth, then ſhall thy ſeed alſo be numbred——And the Lord brought forth Abraham abroad, and ſaid, lock now towards Heaven, and tell the ſtars, if thou be able to number them; and he ſaid unto him, ſo ſhall thy ſeed be. Gen.15.5. ——And the Lord again appeared to Abraham, and ſaid,——I will make my Covenant between me and thee, and will multiply thee exceedingly,——and thou Gen.17.2, 4,5,6,8. ſhalt be a Father of many Nations, neither ſhall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name ſhall be Abraham, for a Father of many Nations have I made thee; and I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and I will make Nations of thee, and Kings ſhall come out of thee,——and I will give unto thee, and thy ſeed after thee, the Land wherein thou art a ſtranger, all the Land of Canaan for an everlaſting poſſeſſion.——By my ſelf have I ſworn, ſaith the Lord, that in bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy ſeed as the Stars of the Heaven, and Gen.22. 16, 17. as the ſand upon the Sea-ſhore, and thy ſeed ſhall poſſeſs the gate of his enemies. See here the temporal bleſſings that God promiſes Abraham; they are heaped together in Gen. 12. 2, 3.—— As.

1. I will make of thee a great Nation, and this he promiſeth and once again; it ſeemed a thing incredible, Gen.12.2. 3.7. becauſe Abraham was old, and Sarah was barren and old, and it ceaſed to be with Sarah after the manner of women; yet for all this God is all ſufficient; Abraham ſhall have his deſire, he ſhall be a Father, not only of a few Children, but of a numerous Nation, yea of many Nations; Iſhmaelites, and Midianites, and that famous Nation of the Jews (of whom it is ſaid, what Nation is ſo great) muſt all deſcend from Abraham: Scripture and heathen Authors uſe three things proverbially, to ſignifie an huge and Deut.4.7, 8. exceeding great number; the duſt of the Earth, the ſands of the Sea, and Stars of Heaven: and all theſe are brought in to reſemble the number into which the Seed of Abraham ſhould break forth.

2. I will bleſs thee, ſaith God; and this bleſſing had relation to his wealth and riches, Abraham was very rich in Cattle, in ſilver and in gold. No queſtion thoſe riches came from this bleſſing; the bleſſing of the Gen.13.2. Lord it maketh rich, and he addeth no ſorrow with it. This was God's care of the Children of Abraham, that he Prov.10. 22. would give them riches; but leſt their hearts ſhould be lifted up, and they ſhould forget the Lord in the midſt of their riches, he learns them and bids them remember this leſſon; ſay not in thine heart, my power and the might of my hand hath gotten me this Wealth; but remember the Lord thy God, for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth; that he may eſtabliſh his covenant, which he ſware unto thy fathers, as it is this day. Deut.8.17, 18. True riches come from God, and by virtue of this Covenant: O that none of us had any wealth, but ſuch as comes by virtue of a promiſe, and of the Covenant of grace!

3. I will make thy name great, ſaith God; no Monarch was ever ſo famous in conquering nations or the whole world, as Abraham for his faith and obedience; God hath magnified his name amongſt the Hebrews, who for theſe three thouſand years and upwards have acknowledged none (except Moſes) greater than Abraham; the Jews could ſay to very Chriſt, art thou greater than our father Abraham? ——whom makeſt thou thy ſelf? and God hath ſo magnified his name amongſt Chriſtians, that all believers look upon it as John.8.53. a glory to be called children of Abraham; nay, we cannot be Chriſt's, we have no part in Chriſt, unleſs we are Abraham's ſeed, and heirs according to promiſe.

4. Unto thy ſeed I will give this Land, ſaith God, as an everlaſting poſſeſſion, Gen. 17. 8. But how ſhould Gal.3.29. that which the Iſraelites poſſeſſed only for a time, be Gen.17. called an everlaſting poſſeſſion? 8. The anſwer is, that the word tranſlated everlaſting, doth not ever ſignifie that which ſhall have no end, but an age, a term, or continuance; as it was ſaid of Samuel, he ſhould appear before the Lord, and there abide for ever, (i.) as long as he lived: and I will praiſe the Lord (ſaith David) for 1 Sam.1. 2,2. ever and ever (i) whiles I live will I praiſe the Lord, as long as I ſhall have any being I will ſing praiſes unto Pſal. 145. 1, 2. my God. And the deſolations of the captivity were called perpetual deſolations, (i.) long deſolations, even Pſal.146.2 for ſeventy years.

Jer.25 9. Touching theſe bleſſings, or privileges, I have no more to ſay but this, that God gave more of the temporal, leſs of the ſpiritual, to the natural ſeed in the firſt ages; but in the latter ages more of the ſpiritual privileges, and leſs of the temporal; yea, and thus it is this day for the moſt-what among the Chriſtian ſeed of the Gentiles; for ye ſee your calling brethren, how that not many wiſe men after the fleſh, not many mighty, not many noble are called.

2. Of things ſpiritual, thus we read, fear not 1.Cor.1. 26. Abraham, I am thy ſhield, and thy exceeding great reward; I am God all-ſufficient or omnipotent, the almighty God, and I will be a God unto thee, and to thy ſeed after thee: O Gen.15.1. what precious promiſes are theſe! 1. I am thy ſhield, Gen.17.1. 17.7. to keep thee from all evil, ſuch a ſhield that no creature can pry through, ſuch a ſhield as ſhall cover thee over; nay, ſuch a ſhield as ſhall cover thee about; as ſometimes God ſpoke of Jeruſalem, I, ſaith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about. So here, I will be a ſhield, a wall of fire round about; Zach.2. 5. not only a wall to keep thee ſafe, but a wall of fire to conſume all them that are againſt thee; as a fire which ſtands about like a wall, doth not only defend thoſe that are within, but it burns thoſe without that come near unto it; ſo is God to his people. 2. I am thy exceeding great reward: I am the almighty God; I will be a God unto thee. This is the very ſoul of the covenant, and of all the promiſes of God: q. d. quantus, quantus ſim, veſter ero; all I am is thine, my ſelf, my goods my grace, my glory whatſoever is in me, all that I have, and all my attributes are thine; my power, my wiſdom, my counſel, my goodneſs, my riches, whatſoever is mine in the whole world, I will give it thee for thy portion; I and all that I have are thine, for thy uſe; Chriſtians! was not this an exceeding great reward? who can underſtand the heighth, and depth, and length, and breadth of this reward? ſurely happy is the people that is in ſuch a caſe, yea, happy is that people whoſe God is the Lord: But more of this hereafter. Pſal.144. 15.

6. What is the condition of this Covenant? I anſwer, the Condition of the covenant of grace is faith and only faith; to this purpoſe it is ſaid of Abraham, he believed in the Lord, and he counted it to Gen.15.6. him for righteouſneſs. This text is often alledged by Rom.4.3. the Apoſtles; the word belived imports, that he Gal.3.6. thought the Word of God to be ſure, certain, ſtable, Jam.2.23. and conſtant; it is ſuch a belief as is oppoſed to fainting, Gen.45. as it is ſaid of Jacob when he heard the report 25. 26. of his ſons that Joſeph was alive, his heart fainted, becauſe he believed not; but when he believed, his heart revived; and David ſaith of himſelf, Pſal.27. 13. I had fainted, unleſs I had belived. So that it is a lively motion of the heart, aſſenting unto, and truſting in God, and in the word of God as firm and conſtant. This was the very condition of the Covenant, which God required of Abraham; q. d. Abraham, doſt thou believe that ſuch a Meſſiah ſhall be ſent into the world? art thou able to belive? yes, I believe Lord, ſaith Abraham: Well, ſaith God, I will put thee to the trial; I will give thee a ſon, though thou art as a dead Man, and Sarah as a dead Woman; yet I will promiſe thee a ſon, art thou able to believe? Again, thou ſeeſt the land of Canaan, thou haſt not one foot in it, yet I will give thee this Land in the length and breadth of it for thy poſſeſſion, art thou able to believe this? You will ſay, what are theſe to the condition of the Covenant, which is only to believe in God, and to believe in Jeſus Chriſt? O yes; 1. Theſe were ſhadows of the great promiſe, Chriſt; and therefore that act of faith, whereby Abraham believed that he ſhould have a ſon, and that his Children ſhould poſſeſs the land of Canaan was likewiſe a branch, a ſhadow a pledge of that main act of faith, whereby he believed the promiſed ſeed, in whom himſelf and all the Nations of the earth ſhould be bleſſed. But, 2. Let this be remembred that Abraham did not only believe the temporal promiſes, but every promiſe; as I will be thy ſhield, and thy exceeding great reward; now who is our ſhield but Chriſt? and who is our reward but Chriſt? but eſpecially he believed the promiſe of the ſeed, and who is the head of the ſeed but Chriſt? yea, he believed in that promiſed ſeed, in whom all the Nati- John8.56. ons of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed; and who was that but Chriſt? your father Abraham (ſaith Chriſt) rejoiced to ſee my day, and he ſaw it, and was glad. He ſaw it? how could he ſee it? thou art not yet fifty years old, (ſaid the Jews) and haſt thou ſeen Abraham? or could Abraham ſee thee, or thy day? Yes, even then he ſaw it when he believed in Chriſt? he could ſee it no other ways but by an eye of faith; and therefore no queſtion he believed in Chriſt, and that was counted to him for righteouſneſs.

But (may ſome ſay) if faith alone be the condition of the Covenant, then what need is there of any obedience, or works of holyneſs? —— this was Jam.8.20. the old plea of looſe libertines in the Apoſtles times, to whom James gave anſwer, But wilt thou know O vain man, that faith without works is dead! a good tree (ſaith Chriſt) is known by its fruits; and ſo is right and ſound faith; let a man believe in truth, and he cannot but love; and if he love, he cannot but be full of good works; thus Abraham was juſtified by faith, Abraham believed God (ſaith the Apoſtle) and it was Jam.2.23. compared with 21. 22. imputed to him for righteouſneſs; but was not this faith accompanied with works? obſerve but (ſaith the Apoſtle) when God bad him offer his Son, did he not do it? and was not that an exceeding great work? ſurely his faith wrought with his works, and by faith was his works made perfect.

7. Who is the head both as undertaker, and purchaſer, and treaſurer upon whom this Covenant is eſtabliſhed? I anſwer, Chriſt, and none but Chriſt. All the promiſes of God in him are Yea, and Amen, unto 2 Cor. 1. 20. the glory of God by us. This was very darkly held forth in the firſt manifeſtation of the Covenant to Adam, but now in this ſecond breaking forth of it, it is very fully expreſſed and often repeated; thus Gen. 12. 3. in thee ſhall all the families of the earth be bleſſed; Gen.12.3. and Gen. 18. 18. all the nations of the earth be bleſſed Gen.18. 18. in Abraham, and Gen. 22. 18. in thy ſeed ſhall all the Gen.22. 18. Nations of the earth be bleſſed. In comparing theſe See the ſam ein Gen.26.4. and28.14. texts we have a clear underſtanding thereof; in thee, in Abraham, ſhall all the Families, and nations of the Earth be bleſſed; but leſt Abraham himſelf ſhould be thought author of this univerſal bleſſing, therefore is the explication, in thee (i.) in thy ſeed, ſaith the Apoſtle very expreſly, is Jeſus Chriſt; now to Abraham Gal. 3.16. and his ſeed were the promiſes made; he ſaith not, and to ſeeds, as of many, but as of one, and to thy ſeed which is Chriſt. So then here is the ſenſe; out of thy poſterity, ſhall Spring the Meſſiah, by whom not only thy poſterity, but all the nations of the earth ſhall be bleſſed. you may remember in the firſt promiſe Chriſt was callde the ſeed of the woman; but now the ſeed of Abraham; Chriſt was the Son of Eve, or (if you will) the Son of Mary, and ſo the ſeed of the woman; and Mary was a daughter of Abraham, and ſo Chriſt, and Mary and all upwards were of the ſeed of Abraham. But where ſhall we find mention of the paſſion of Chriſt in this expreſſure of his Covenant to Abraham? in the firſt manifeſtation it was included in that phraſe of bruiſing his heel, and ſurely this is eſſential to the covenant of grace in any overture of it: ſome anſwer that this is thrice put on in the paſſage of this Covenant with Abraham: firſt, in the federal confirmation by the ſmoaking furnace, and burning lamp, Gen. 15. 17. that paſſed between thoſe pieces of the ſacrifice: as the ſacrifice was divided, ſo was Chriſt's body torn: and as the ſmoaking furnace, and burning lamp paſſed between the divide pieces, ſo the wrath of God run betwixt (as I may ſay) and yet did not conſume the Gen.17. 10,11. rent and torn nature of Chriſt. 2. In that federal confirmation by the ſign of circumciſion: there could not be circumciſion without ſhedding of blood, and where God commands ſhedding of blood in any of his ancient ordinances, it doth certainly reach to the blood of Chriſt, and his everlaſting teſtament. 3. In the reſolved Sacrifice of Iſaac, which was a plain type of the death of Chriſt. See it in theſe particulars Gen. 22. 10. 1. Iſaac was Abraham's ſon, his only ſon, his innocent ſon, the beloved ſon of his Father; and yet Abraham freely offers up his ſon; ſo Chriſt was the ſon of God, his only Son, his innocent ſon, like to us in all things, ſin only excepted; and the beloved ſon of his Father, this is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed; and yet God more freely offers up his Son out of his own boſom. 2. Abraham by God's commiſſion roſe early in the Morning to ſacrifice his Son; and the Jews by God's permiſſion riſe early in the morning to condemn the Son of God: and hence he is called the Pſal.22.1. Hind of the morning, compaſſed with dogs that hunted and purſued his life. 3. Abraham muſt offer his Son upon the Mount, the very Mount on which Solomon's Temple was built, which typified the body of Jeſus John.2.19 Chriſt, Joh. 2. 19. So God offered his Son upon the Mount, if not on the ſame Mount (as Auguſtine thinks) yet on a Mount not far diſtant from it; Golgotha was the very skirt of Moriah; the one being within the gate of the City, and the other not far without, the very neareſt to the City of all. 4. Abraham firſt laid the wood on Iſaac, and then he laid Iſaac on the wood; ſo God firſt lays the Croſs on Chriſt, Joh.19.17 18. He bearing his Croſs, went forth into a place called a place of a skull, and then he lays Chriſt on the Croſs, there they crucified him, ſaith John; or there they bound him to the Croſs, and faſtened his hands and feet thereto with nails. 5. Iſaac muſt be offered alone, the ſervants muſt ſtay at the foot of the hill, little knowing the buſineſs and ſorrow in hand; ſo Chriſt muſt Iſa. 63. 3. tread the wine-preſs alone: the Diſciples fear and fly, and little conſider the agony of their Maſter. 6. Abraham carries in his hand the ſword and fire againſt his Son, ſo God carries in his hand the ſword and fire: the ſword ſignifying the Juſtice of God, the fire his burning wrath againſt the ſins of men? and both theſe were bent againſt Chriſt, in whom the juſtice of God is ſatisfyed, and the flame of his wrath extinct and quenched. That this was a plain type of Chriſt's paſſion is hinted at in the bleſſing that God ſpeaks to Gen. 22. 16, 17, 18. Abraham after this trial, by my ſelf have I ſworn, ſaith the Lord, for becauſe thou haſt done this thing, and haſt not withheld thy Son, thine only Son, that in bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and in thy Seed ſhall all the Nations of the earth be bleſſed. All believers are bleſſed in the death of Chriſt who was that ſeed of Abraham, typified by Iſaac, Abraham's Son; for as Abraham intended, ſo God truly ſacrificed his Son, his only Son, to take away ſin.

Thus far of the Covenant of promiſe as it was manifeſted from Abraham to Moſes.

Sect. 4. Of the Covenant of promiſe as manifeſted to Moſes.

THE next breaking forth of this gracious Covenant was to Moſes, the revenging juſtice of God had now ſeized on mankind for many generations, even thouſands of years, ſo that now it was high time for God in the midſt of wrath to remember mercy, and to break out into a clearer expreſſion of the promiſe, or Covenant of Grace. To this purpoſe the Lord calls up Moſes to Mount Sinai, and there of his infinite Exod. 20. 2. love and undeſerved mercy he makes, or renews his Covenant with him and the children of Iſrael. I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the Land of Egypt, out of the houſe of bondage, thou ſhalt have no other gods before me.

For the right underſtanding of this, we ſhall examine theſe particulars.

1. Whether the Law was delivered in a Covenant way?

2. In what ſence is the Law a Covenant of grace?

3. How may it appear that the Law in any ſence is a Covenant of grace?

4. Why ſhould God in the Law deal with us in a Covenant-way rather then a meer abſolute ſupreme way?

5. What are the good things promiſed in this expreſſure of the Covenant?

6. What is the condition of this Covenant on our part, as we may gather it hence?

7. Who was the Mediator of this Covenant?

8. What of Chriſt, and his death, do we find in this manifeſtation of the Covenant;

For the firſt, whether the Law was delivered in a Covenant-way? it is affirmed on theſe grounds.

1. In that it hath the name of a Covenant. 2. In that it hath the real properties of a Covenant. 1. The name of a Covenant as it appears in theſe Texts. Exod. 34. 27, 28. And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, write theſe words, for after the tenor of theſe words, I have made a Covenant with thee, and with Iſrael: and he was there with the Lord forty days, and forty nights, he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. and he wrote upon the tables the words of the Covenant the ten Commandments: ——— Deut. 4. 13. And he declared unto you his Covenant, which he commanded you to perform, even the ten Commandments, and he wrote them upon two Deut 9. 9. tables of ſtone, ——— When I was gone (ſays Moſes) up into the Mount to receive the two Tables of ſtone, even the tables of the Covenant which the ver. 11. Lord made with you, then I abode in the Mount forty days and forty nights; I neither did eat bread nor drink water. --- And it came to paſs at the end of forty days, and forty nights, that the Lord gave me the two tables of ſtone, even the tables of the Covenant. ——— So I turned and came ver. 15. down from the Mount, and the Mount burned with fire, and the two tables of the Covenant were in my two hands. It appears plainly and expreſly in theſe Texts that the Law is a Covenant.

2. The Law hath the real properties of a Covenant, which are the mutual conſent and ſtipulation on both ſides. You may ſee a full relation of this in Exod. 24. 3, 4, 5, 6. 7, 8. And Moſes came and told Exod. 24. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. the people all the words of the Lord, and all the judgments: and all the people anſwered with one voice, all the words which the Lord hath ſaid will we do: And Moſes wrote all the words of the Lord, and roſe up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Iſrael? And he ſent young men of the children of Iſrael, which offered burnt offerings and ſacrificed peace-offerings of oxen unto the Lord; And Moſes took half of the blood and put it in baſons, and half of the blood he ſprinkled on the Altar, And he took the book of the Covenant, and read in the audience of the people, and they ſaid, all that the Lord hath ſaid, will we do, and be obedient; and Moſes took the blood, and ſprinkled it on the people, and ſaid, Behold the blood of the Covenant which the Lord hath made with you concerning all theſe words. This very paſſage is related in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, when Moſes had ſpoken every precept to all the Heb. 9. 19, 20. people, according to the Law, he took the blood of the calves and goats, with water and ſcarlet-wooll, and hiſſop, and ſprinkled both the book, and all the people ſaying, This is the blood of the Teſtament, (or Covenant) which God hath enjoined unto you. In the words you may obſerve theſe properties of a Covenant; 1. That God on his part expreſſeth his conſent and willingneſs to be their God: this will appear in the preface of the Law, of which hereafter. 2. That the people on their part give their full conſents, and ready willingneſs to be his ſervants. Both theſe appear in that, 1. Moſes writes down the Covenant Covenant-wiſe. 2. He confirms the Covenant by outward ſigns, as by the blood of Calves and Goats; whereof one half he puts in baſons, to ſprinkle it on the people; and the other half of the blood he ſprinkles on the Altar; that ſprinkling on the people ſignified their voluntary Covenanting with the God, and the blood ſprinkled on the Altar ſignified God's entering into Covenant with the people. Thus we have real Covenanting when the Law is given.

2. In what ſence is the Law a Covenant of Grace? I anſwer, the Law may be conſidered in ſeveral ſences; as 1. Sometimes it ſignifies largly any heavenly Doctrine, whether it be promiſe or precept, and in this ſence the Apoſtle tells us of the Law of works, and Rom. 3. 27 of the Law of faith. 2. Sometimes it ſignifies any part of the old Teſtament in which ſence Jeſus anſwered the Jews, Is it not written in your Law, I ſaid Joh. 12. 34 ye are God's? Now where was that written but in the book of the Pſalms? 3. Sometimes it ſignifies the Pſal. 82. 6. whole œconomy, and peculiar diſpenſation of God's worſhip unto the Jews, according to the moral, ceremonial, and judicial Law in which ſence it is ſaid to continue until John, The Law and the Prophets were Luk. 16. 16. until John: But ſince that time the Kingdom of God is preached. 4. Sometimes it is taken ſynecdochically Gal. 5. 23. for ſome acts of the Law only. Againſt ſuch there is no Law. 5. Sometimes it is taken only for the Ceremonial Law, The Law having a ſhadow of good things to Heb. 10. 1. come. 6. Sometimes it is uſed in the ſence of the Jews? as ſufficient to ſave without Chriſt; and thus the Apoſtle generally takes it in his Epiſtle to the Romans, and Galatians. 7. Sometimes it is taken for that part of the Moral Law, which is meerly mandative and preceptive, without any promiſe at all. 8. Sometimes it is taken for the whole Moral Law, with the preface and promiſes added to it; and in this laſt ſence we take it, when we ſay it is a Covenant of grace?

3. How may it appear that the Law in this ſence is a Covenant of grace? it appears, 1. By that contract betwixt God and Iſrael before the promulgation of the Law. Exod. 19. 5, 6. If ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my Covenant, then ye ſhall be a peculiar treaſure unto me above all people, for all the earth is mine? and ye ſhall be Jer. 11. 4. unto me a Kingdom of Prieſts and an holy nation. Whereunto the Prophet Jeremy hath reference, ſaying, obey my voice, and do them according to all which I command you, ſo ſhall you be my people, and I will be your God. Both theſe Scriptures ſpeak of the Moral Law, or ten Commandments, containing the preface and promiſes; and how ſhould that Law, be any other but a Covenant of grace, which runs in this tenor, I will be your God, and you ſhall be my people; my peculiar treaſure; a Kingdom of Prieſts, an holy nation, if you will but hear and obey my Commandments? Surely theſe privileges could never have been obtained by a Covenant of works; what? to be a Kingdom of Prieſts, an holy Nation, a peculiar treaſure to the Lord? what? to be beloved of God as a deſirable treaſure (for ſo it is in the original) which a King delivers not into the hands of any of his Officers, but keepeth it to himſelf? this cannot be of works; No, no, theſe are privileges vouchſafed of meer grace in Jeſus Chriſt; and therefore Peter applies this very promiſe to the 1 Pet. 2. 9. people of God under the Goſpel, 1 Pet. 2. 9.

2. It appears by that contract betwixt God and Iſrael in the promulgation of the Law; then it was that God proclaimed himſelf to be the God of Iſrael; ſaying, I am the Lord thy God which brought thee out of the Land of Egypt, out of the Houſe of bondage. Some hold this to be the affirmative part of the firſt Commandment, in which the Goſpel is preached, and the promiſes therein contained are offered. We ſay it is a preface to the whole Law, prefixed as a reaſon to perſwade obedience to every Commandment. But all univerſally acknowledge that it is a free Covenant, which promiſeth pardon of ſin, and requireth faith in the Meſſiah, when God ſaith to Iſrael, I am the Lord thy God which brought thee out of the Land of Egypt, doth he not propound himſelf as their King, Judge, Saviour, and Redeemer; yea, and ſpiritual Redeemer, from their bondage of ſin and Satan whereof that temporal deliverance from Egypt was truly a type? the Lord begins his Commandments with an evangelical promiſe: And it is very obſervable, that as theſe words, I am the Lord thy God, are prefixed immediately to the firſt Commandment, ſo in ſundry places of Lev. 19. 3, 11, 12, 16, 18, 37. Scripture they are annexed to all the reſt; ye ſhall fear every man his Mother, and his Father; and keep my Sabbaths, I am the Lord your God: Ye ſhall not ſteal, neither deal falſely, neither lye one to another, and ye ſhall not ſwear by my Name falſely, neither ſhalt thou profane the Name of thy God; I am the Lord—— Neither ſhalt thou ſtand againſt the blood of thy neighbour, I am the Lord—— In a word thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thy ſelf, I am the Lord; or if that contain only the ſecond Table, therefore ſhall ye obſerve all my ſtatutes, and all my judgments, and do them; I am the Lord. Add we to this, that in the ſecond Commandment God is deſcribed to be one ſhewing mercy unto thouſands, all which muſt needs argue the Law to be a Covenant of grace. 3. It appears by the Contract betwixt God and Iſrael after the promulgation of the Law: is it not plainly expreſſed by Moſes, Deu. 26. 17, 18. Thou haſt avouched the Lord this day to be thy God; and to walk in his ways, and to keep his ſtatutes and commandments. -- And the Lord hath avouched thee this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promiſed thee, and that thou ſhouldſt keep his commandments? Yea, and after this in the Land of Moab, Moſes was commanded by the Lord to make a Covenant with the children of Iſrael, beſides the Covenant which he made with them in Horeb; now this was the very ſame that God made with them on Sinai, only it muſt be renewed, and it is expreſly ſaid, ye ſtand this day to enter into a Covenant with the Lord your God, —— That he may eſtabliſh Deu. 29. 12, 13. you to be a people unto himſelf, and that he may be a God unto you, as he had ſworn to Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob. Surely this muſt needs be a Covenant of grace, how ſhould it be but of grace that God promiſed to be the God of Iſrael? Here are many ſweet and precious promiſes, and they are all free and gracious; and therefore we conclude the Law, in the ſence aforeſaid to be a Covenant of grace.

4. Why ſhould God in the Law deal with us in a Covenant-way rather than a meer abſolute ſupreme way? I anſwer, 1. In reſpect of God? it was his pleaſure in giving the Law not only to manifeſt his Wiſdom, and Power, and Soveraignty, but his faithfulneſs, and truth, and love, and the glory of his grace; that he might make known (as the Apoſtle Rom. 9. ſpeaks) the riches of his glory on the veſſels of mercy 1 John. 4. 8. which he had afore prepared unto glory. God's love is a part of his name, for God is love, and God's faithfulneſs is a part of his Name, I ſaw heaven opened Rev. 19. 11. (ſaid John in a viſion) and behold a white horſe, and he that ſate upon him was called faithful and true: now, how ſhould we ever have known God's love at leaſt in ſuch a meaſure? Or how ſhould we ever have known God's faithfulneſs and truth at all, if he had not entered into a Covenant with us? It is true, if he had given the Law in a meer abſolute ſupreme way, if he had given the precept without any promiſe, he might fully have diſcovered his illimited ſupreme power, but his ſo dear love and faithfulneſs could not have been known: Now therefore let the world take notice of his ſingular love, and of his faithfulneſs; as Moſes ſaid to Iſrael, Becauſe the Lord Deut. 7. 8, 9. loved you, and becauſe he would keep the oath which he had ſworn unto your fathers, hath the Lord brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the hands of bondmen, from the hand of Pharaoh, King of Egypt; Know therefore that the Lord thy God he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth Covenant and mercy with them that love him, and keep his Commandments, to a thouſand generations.

2. In reſpect of us, God would rather deal with us in a Covenant-way, then in a meer abſolute ſupreme way, upon theſe grounds—— 1. That he might bind us the faſter to himſelf: A Covenant binds on both parts: The Lord doth not bind himſelf to us, and leave us free; No, I will bring you Eze. 20. 37. (ſaith God) into the bond of the Covenant. The Lord ſees how ſlippery and unſtable our hearts are, how apt we are to ſtart aſide from our duty towards him, Jer. 14. 10. we love to wander; and therefore to prevent this inconſtancy and unſettledneſs in us, and to keep our hearts more ſtable in our obedient walking before him, it pleaſed the Lord to bind us in the bond of Covenant, that as we look for a bleſſing from God, ſo we look to keep Covenant with God: you may ſay a command binds as well as a Covenant; it is true, but a Covenant doth as it were twiſt the cords of the Law, and double the precept upon the ſoul; when it is only a precept, then God alone commands it, but when I have made a promiſe to it, then I command it and bind it upon my ſelf.

2. That our obedience might be more willing and free; an abſolute Law might ſeem to extort obedience, but a Covenant and agreement makes it clearly to appear more free and willing. This is of the nature of the Covenant of grace; firſt God promiſeth mercy, to be our exceeding great reward; and then we promiſe obedience, to be his free, and willing people; and thus we become Gods, not only by a property founded in his ſovereign power and love, but by a property growing out of our own voluntary conſents; we are not only his people, but his willing people; we give him our hand, when we become his and enter into Covenant with him: Ezek.17. 18. See the expreſſion, Ezek. 17. 18. He deſpiſed the oath by breaking the Covenant, when lo he had given his hand. We are his, as the wife is her husbands: Ezek.16. 8. I entred into Covenant with thee, ſaith the Lord God, and thou becameſt mine; now in marriages, free and mutual conſent you know is ever given, and ſo it is here.

3 That our conſolations might be ſtronger; that in all our difficulties and diſtreſſes we might ever have recourſe to the faithfulneſs and love of Chron.17. 27. God. 1. To the faithfulneſs of God This was David's ſtay, and this may be ours; though friends be unfaithful, and may deceive, yet the 2 Cor.1. 20. Lord is faithful, and cannot fail his people, his promiſes are Yea, and Amen, we may build upon it. 2. That we might have recourſe to the love of God: This indeed was the prime end why God delivered his Law in way of a Covenant, that he might ſweeten and indear himſelf to us, and ſo draw us to him with cords of love; had God ſo pleaſed, he might have required all obedience from us, and when we had done all, he might have reduced us into nothing, or at leaſt not have given us heaven for an inheritance, or himſelf for a portion; but his love is ſuch, that he will not only command, but he will Covenant, that he might further expreſs and communicate his love: how then ſhould this but incourage us to go to God in all diſtreſſes? O what thankful loving thoughts ſhould we have of God that would thus infinitely condeſcend to Covenant with us!

5 What are the good things promiſed in this expreſſure of the Covenant? not to reckon up the temporal promiſes of riches, honour, victory, peace, and protection in a Land of Oil, Olive, and Honey, the great mercies of God are expreſſed in theſe terms, I am the Lord thy God which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the houſe of bondage. This is the great promiſe of the Covenant, it is as great as God himſelf: That we may better ſee it, and know it, I ſhall take it in pieces; the gold is ſo pure, that it is pity the leaſt filing ſhould be loſt. Here God deſcribes himſelf by theſe notes. 1. By his only eternal and perfect Eſſence, I am the Lord. 2. By the plurality of perſons in that one Eſſence, I am the Lord God, Jehovah Elohim. 3. By the propriety his people have in Jehovah Elohim, I am the Lord thy God. 4. By the fruit of that propriety in reference to Iſrael, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the houſe of bondage.

Exod.6.3. 1. I am Jehovah: We read he appeared to Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, by the name of God Almighty, but now he was known to the Iſraelites by his name Jehovah, I am the Lord. Why, was it not by that name that he appeared to Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob? No, no, ſaith God; By my name Jehovah was I not known unto them. This hath occaſioned a queſtion, how can this be? do we not read expreſly that God ſaid to Gen.15.7. Gen.28. 13. Abraham, I am the Lord that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees? and again, I am the Lord God of Abraham thy Father, and the God of Iſaac? how then is it ſaid that by his name Jehovah he was not known unto them? This place hath perplexed many of the learned: But the meaning ſeems to be this, that though he was known to the Patriarchs by his name Jehovah, as it conſiſts of letters, ſyllables, and ſounds; yet he was not experimentally known unto them in his conſtancy to perform his promiſe in bringing them out of the land of Egypt until now. This name Jehovah denotes both his being in himſelf and his giving of being, or performance to his word, and promiſe; thus indeed he was not known, or manifeſted to the patriarchs: They only were ſuſtained by faith in God's Almighty power, without receiving the thing promiſed; it is ſaid of Abraham, that while he was yet alive, God gave him no Acts 7.5. inheritance in Canaan, no not ſo much as to ſet his foot on, yet he promiſed that he would give it to him for a poſſeſſion, and to his ſeed after him; and now when his ſeed came to receive the promiſe, and to have full knowledge and experience of his power and goodneſs, then they knew the efficacy of his name Jehovah. So upon performance of further promiſes, he ſaith, they ſhall know him to be Jehovah, and thou Iſa.49.2,3. ſhalt know that I am the Lord——Therefore my people Iſa.52.6. ſhall know my name, they ſhall know in that day that I am he that doth ſpeak, behold it is I.

2. I am Jehovah Elohim, this denotes the plurality of perſons; God in delivering of the law, doth not only ſhew his being but the manner of his being; that is the three manners of ſubſiſting in that one ſimple and eternal being; or the Trinity of perſons in that unity of Eſſence, the word ſignifies ſtrong, potent, mighty; or if we expreſs it plurally, it ſignifies the Almighties, or the Almighty Powers; hence the Scriptures apply the general name, God, to the perſons ſeverally, the Father is God, Heb. 1.1, 2. the Son is God, Act. 20. 28. and the Holy Ghoſt is God, Acts 5. 3, 4. Now God is ſaid to be the Author of theſe Laws delivered in a Covenant-way by Moſes, that ſo the greater authority may be procured to them; and hence all Law-givers have endeavoured to perſwade the people, that they had their Laws from God.

3. I am the Lord thy God; herein is the propriety, and indeed here is the mercy that God ſpeaks thus to every faithful Soul, I am thy God, by this appropriation God gives us a right in him, yea a poſſeſſion of him. 1. A right in him; as the woman may ſay of him to whom ſhe is Married, this man is my husband, ſo may every faithful ſoul ſay of the Lord, he is my God. 2. A poſſeſſion of him; God doth not only ſhew himſelf unto us, but he doth communicate himſelf unto us in his holineſs, mercy, 1 John.1.3. truth, grace, and goodneſs; hence it is ſaid, we have fellowſhip with the Father and with the Son Jeſus Chriſt, and Chriſt is ſaid to come and ſup with us; Rev. 3 20. and to kiſs us with the kiſſes of his mouth; and to be Cant.1.1, 2. near to us in all that we call upon him for, ſurely this Deut. 4.7. is the higheſt happineſs of the Saints, that God is their God; when they can ſay this, they have enough; if we could ſay, this Houſe is mine, this Town, this City, this Kingdom, this World is mine, what is all this? O but when a Chriſtian comes at length, and ſays, this God that made all the world is mine, this is enough, indeed this is the greateſt promiſe that ever was made, or ever can be made to any creature. Angels or Men herein (if we obſerve it) God gives himſelf to be wholly ours, conſider God eſſentially, or perſonally. Conſider Jehovah Elohim, all is ours; God in his eſſence, and glorious attributes communicates himſelf to us for good, and God perſonally conſidered, as Father, Son and Holy Ghoſt, they all enter into Covenant with us.

1. The Father enters into Covenant with us; he promiſeth to be a father to us, hence ſaith the Lord, Iſrael is my Son, my firſt born; and again, is Exod.4. 22. Ephraim my dear Son? Is he a pleaſant Child; The Jer.31.20. Lord ſpeaketh as though he were fond of his Children; as delighting in them, for ſo it is ſaid, the Lord taketh pleaſure in them that fear him: Pſ.14.11. Or as even pitying of them, for ſo it is ſaid like- Pſal 103. wiſe, like as a father pityeth his Children, 13.

his children, ſo the Lord pityeth them that fear him.

2. The Son is in Covenant with us, and ſpeaks to us in this language, thou art mine; how comes that about? Why I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name, and therefore thou art mine, this is Chriſt's Covenant with us; he brings us back to his Father, from whoſe preſence we were baniſhed, and ſets us before his face for ever; he undertakes for us to take up all controverſies which may fall out between God and us; he promiſeth to reſtore us to the Adoption of Sons; and not only to the title, but to the inheritance of Sons, that we might be where he is. 3. The Holy Ghoſt makes a Covenant with us. By one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified; whereof the Holy Ghoſt alſo is a witneſs and a worker.——This is the Covenant that I will make with them, I will put my Law into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them. I know the Father is implied in this, yet here is the proper work of the Holy Ghoſt. What the Father hath propoſed for us from all Eternity, and the Son hath purchaſed for us in his time, that the Holy Ghoſt effects in us, and for us as in our time, he applies the blood of Chriſt for the remiſſion of Sins: He writes the Law in our hearts: He comforts us in our ſadneſs: He ſupports us in our faintings and guides us in our wanderings. Now he that effects theſe things for us, and in our behalf he is therefore ſaid to make a Covenant with us. Thus Elohim, God perſonally conſidered, Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt are, in Convenant with us.

4. This is the great promiſe, what can be greater? When God ſaid to Abraham I will be thy God, what Heb.6.13. could he give more? So when God tells us, I am the Lord thy God, what could he ſay more? God having no greater to ſwear by (ſaith the Apoſtle) he ſwore by himſelf. So God being minded to do great things for his People; and having no greater thing to give, he gives himſelf. O the goodneſs of God in Chriſt! I am the Lord thy God. 5. Let us ſee the fruit of this in reference to Iſrael; which brought thee out of the Land of Egypt, out of the houſe of bondage. This was God's promiſe long before to Abraham, know of a ſurety, that thy ſeed ſhall be a ſtranger in a Land that Gen.15. 13,14. is not theirs, and ſhall ſerve them, and they ſhall afflict them four hundred years: and alſo that Nation whom they ſhall ſerve will I judge and afterwards they ſhall come out with great ſubſtance. See here Iſrael muſt be ſtrangers in Egypt, and ſerve the Egyptians four hundred years, but then he will bring the mount of the land of Egypt, and out of their ſervile bondage: Why this argues that God is Jehovah: Now he has performed what he had foretold, and this argues that God in Chriſt is our Redeemer: For what was this redemption from Egypt, but a type of our freedom from ſin, death and hell? Here is the work of redemption joined with that great name Jehovah Elohim, to ſignifie that ſuch a redemption is a clear teſtimony of a true and mighty God. Whether this were laid down only as a peculiar argument to the Jews to keep the Commandments, or it belongs alſo to us, being grafted in, and become of the ſame ſtock with them, I ſhall not diſpute: This is without any controverſie that their bondage was typical, and our's ſpiritual: You ſee the good things promiſed in this Covenant.

6. What is the condition of this Covenant on our part as we may gather it hence; The condition of this Covenant is faith in Jeſus, which is implied in the promiſe, I will be thy God, or I am the Lord thy God: And commanded in the precept built upon it, thou ſhalt have me to be thy God, or thou ſhalt have no other Gods before me. But where is faith in Jeſus Chriſt mentioned either in promiſe or precept? I anſwer, if it be not expreſſed, it is very plainly intended, or meant: God is not the God of Iſrael but in and through the Mediator: Neither can Iſrael take God to be their God but by faith in the Meſſiah. In the prophets we read frequently theſe exhortations: Truſt in the Lord, commit thy ſelf unto the Lord, lean upon the Lord, and rule thy burden upon the Lord: But what the Prophets exhort unto, that is commanded in this expreſſure of the Covenant. And who can truſt in the Lord, or commit himſelf to the Lord, or lean upon the Lord, or roul his burthen on the Lord, if he be a ſinner, unleſs it be in and through a Mediator? Iſrael muſt walk before God in all well-pleaſing; and the Apoſtle tells us, that without faith it is impoſſible to pleaſe God. But to go further, what is the meaning of this firſt commandment in the affirmative part, but to have one God in Chriſt to be our God by faith? It is Heb.11.6. true, there is no mention made of Chriſt, or faith, but that is nothing; there is no mention of Love, and yet our Saviour diſcovers and commands it there; when the Lawyer tempted Chriſt, Maſter, which is the great Commandment in the Mat.22. 36,37,38. Law? You know Chriſt's anſwer, thou ſhalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy ſoul, and with all thy mind, this is the firſt and great Commandment, Mat. 22. 36, 37, 38. Now as our Saviour diſcovers love there, ſo in like manner is Faith and Chriſt there the neceſſary conſequents. But you may object, what ſay we to obedience? Is not that rather the condition of this Covenant thus ſhining in the Law?

Indeed the Law and Obedience are Correlatives. But in this caſe we are not to look to the Laws as meerly mandatory; we gave you the ſence of the word, and how it is uſed as a Covenant of grace? Remember only this; the Law is conſidered either more ſtrictly, as it is an abſtracted rule of righteouſneſs, holding forth life upon no other terms but perfect Obedience; or more largely, as that whole Doctrine delivered on Mount Sinai, with the Preface and Promiſes adjoined: In the former ſence it is a Covenant of works? But in the latter ſence it is a Covenant of grace,——And yet I dare not ſay, that as the Law is a Covenant of grace, it doth exclude obedience. In ſome ſort Obedience as well as Faith may be ſaid to be a condition of the Covenant of grace; I ſhall give you my thoughts in this diſtinction, Obedience to all God's Commandments is either conſiderable as a cauſe of life, or as a qualification of the ſubject; in the former ſence it cannot be a condition of the Covenant of grace, but in the latter ſence it may, if by condition we underſtand whatſoever is required on our part, as precedent, concomitant, or ſubſequent to the Covenant of grace, repentance, faith and obedience are all conditions; but if by Condition we underſtand whatſoever is required on our part as the cauſe of the good promiſed, though only inſtrumental, why then faith, or belief in the promiſes of the Covenant is the only condition: Faith and obedience are oppoſed in the matter of juſtification and ſalvation in the Covenant, not that they cannot ſtand together in one ſubject, for they are inſeparably united; but becauſe they cannot concur and meet together in one Court, as the cauſe of juſtification or ſalvation. Now when we ſpeak of the condition of the Covenant of grace, we intend ſuch a condition as is among the number of true cauſes; indeed in the Covenant of works, obedience is required as the cauſe of life; but in the Covenant of grace, though obedience muſt accompany faith, yet not obedience, but only faith is the cauſe of life contained in the Covenant.

7. Who was the Mediator of this Covenant? To this we diſtinguiſh of a double Mediator, viz. typical, and ſpiritual; Moſes was a typical, but Chriſt was the ſpiritual Mediator:

And herein was Moſes privileged above all before him; he was the Mediator of the Old Teſtament, Chriſt reſerving himſelf to be the Mediator of a better Heb. 8. 6. Covenant (i. e.) of the New Teſtament. Moſes received the Law from God, and delivered it to the People, and ſo he ſtood a Mediator between God and the People; never was Mortal Man ſo near to God as Moſes was; Abraham indeed was called God's friend; but Moſes was God's favorite; and never was Mortal Man either in knowledge, love or authority ſo near unto the People as Moſes was (which makes the Jews) (O wonder) to Idolize him to this very day. Moſes was called in, as a Mediator on both parts. 1. On God's part, when he called him up to receive the Law, and all thoſe meſſages which God ſent by him to the People. 2. On the Peoples part, when they deſired him to receive the Law; for they were afraid by reaſon of the fire, Deut. 5. 5. and durſt not go up into the Mount: Mark how he ſtiles him as a Mediator: At that time (ſaith he) I ſtood between the Lord and you to ſhew you the word of the Lord: He was God's mouth to them, and he was their mouth to God; and he was a prevailing Mediator on both parts: He prevailed with God for the ſuſpending of his Juſtice, that it ſhould not break out, upon the people; and he prevailed with the people to bind them in Covenant unto God, and to make profeſſion of that Obedience which the Lord required and called for; yet for all this, I call him not a Mediator of Redemption, but Relation: A great deal of difference there is betwixt Moſes and Chriſt: As, 1. Moſes only received the Law, and delivered it to the people; but Chriſt our true Moſes fulfilled it. 2. Moſes broke the Tables, to ſhew how we in our Nature had broken the Law, but Chriſt our true Moſes repairs it again. 3. Moſes had the Law only writ in Tables of Stone, but Chriſt writes it in the Tables of our hearts. 4. Moſes was meer Man, but Chriſt is God as well as Man: Moſes was only a Servant in God's Houſe, but Chriſt is a Son; yea, Chriſt is Lord of his own Houſe the Church: Moſes's mediation was of this uſe, to ſhew what was the true manner of Worſhipping God, but he did not inſpire force and power to follow it; he could not reconcile Men to God as of himſelf, and therefore it appeared that there was need of another reconciler, viz. the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

8. What of Chriſt, and of his death, do we find in this manifeſtation of the Covenant? I anſwer, 1. In delivering the Law, we find ſomething of Chriſt: There is a queſtion whether the Lord himſelf immediately in his own perſon delivered the Deut. 5. 22. Law? And ſome conclude affirmatively from the Preface, God ſpake theſe words, and ſaid] and from that paſſage of Moſes, theſe words the Lord ſpake unto all your Aſſembly in the Mount out of the midſt of the fire,——— and wrote them on two Tables of Stone, and delivered them unto me. But others are for the negative, and ſay, this proves not that they were pronounced or delivered immediately by God; for we find in Scripture, that when the Angels were the immediate perſons, yet the Lord himſelf is reported to have ſpoken unto Men, Gen. 18. 2, 13. Exod. 3. Aug. de Trin. l. 2. c. 15. 2, 6, 7. And Auguſtine is reſolute, that Almighty God himſelf in the time of the Old Teſtament did not ſpeak to the Jews with his own immediate voice, but only by Chriſt, or by his Angels, or by his Prophets; and for this Miniſterial voice of his Angels Acts 7. 5. Gal. 3. 19. ſome produce theſe Texts: who have received the Law by the Ordinance of Angels, and wherefore then ſerveth Heb. 2. 2. the Law? It was added becauſe of tranſgreſſions till the ſeed ſhould come, to whom the promiſe was made, and it was ordained by Angels in the hand of a Mediator. And, if the word ſpoken by Angels was ſtedfaſt, &c. For my part, it hath puzled me at times, whether of theſe opinions to take; but others ſay (and I am now as apt to join with them as with either of the former) That Jeſus Chriſt the ſecond perſon of the Trinity, to be incarnate, who is called the Angel of the Covenant, Mal. 3. 1. and the Angel of his preſence, Iſa. 63. 9. was he that uttered and deliver'd the Law unto Acts 7. 38. Moſes; and to this purpoſe are produced theſe Texts, This Moſes is he that was in the Congregation with the Angel, which ſpake to him in the Mount Sinai. Now this Angel was Chriſt, as it is cleared in the following verſe; Acts 7. 31. whom (or which Angel) our Fathers would not obey, but thruſt him from them, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt. They would not obey the Angel, but thruſt him from them, (i. e.) they tempted the Angel whom they ſhould have obeyed; 1 Cor. 10. 9. and who was that but Jeſus Chriſt? As it is cleared more fully and expreſly by the Apoſtle, Neither let us tempt Chriſt as ſome of them alſo tempted, and were deſtroyed of Serpents. Some of the Learned are of opinion that Chriſt the Son of God did in the ſhape of a Man deliver the Law. But I leave that.

2. In the Law it ſelf, as it is a Covenant of Grace, we find ſomething of Chriſt; in the Preface he Proclaims himſelf to be our God; and in the firſt Commandment we are bound to take this God to be our God; and in the ſecond, he gives us a double Reaſon or Motive to obey; for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, I ſhew mercy unto thouſands of them that love me and keep my Commandments. And in the fifth Commandment he gives a promiſe of long life in Canaan, which is either to be look'd at as a type of Heaven, or literally, for a proſperous condition here on Earth; but howſoever it is by virtue of the Covenant, and as a Teſtimony of God's love; now all theſe promiſes are made in Chriſt. God is not our God but in and through Jeſus Chriſt; God will not ſhew mercy unto thouſands, nor unto one of all the thouſands of his Saints, but as they are in Jeſus Chriſt: God will not give us long life here, or eternal life hereafter, but in, for, and through the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; what if Moſes writ not down the word Chriſt] yet certainly Moſes writ of Chriſt] his words John 5. 46. imply Chriſt, as Chriſt himſelf told the Jews, Had ye John 1. 45. believed Moſes, ye would have believed me; for Moſes wrote of me; and as Philip told Nathanael, we have found him of whom Moſes in the Law and the Prophets write, Jeſus of Nazareth, John 1. 45. Surely Chriſt was, if not the only ſubject, yet the only ſcope of all the writings of Moſes; and therefore in the Law it ſelf you ſee we find ſomething of Chriſt.

3. In the Expoſition of the Law, as Moſes gives it here and there, we find ſomething of Chriſt. Yea if we obſerve it, Moſes brought ſomething more to the expreſſion of Chriſt, and of the Covenant of Grace, than ever was before: In the firſt promiſe it was revealed that Chriſt ſhould be the Seed of the Woman; in the ſecond manifeſtation of the promiſe, it was revealed that Chriſt ſhould be of the Seed of Abraham; but in Moſes's writings, and Moſes's time, we learn more expreſly that Chriſt was to be incarnate, and to have his Converſation amongſt Men: The promiſe runs thus; And I will dwell among the Children of Iſrael, and will be their God, and Exod. 29. 45, 46. they ſhall know that I am the Lord their God, that brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell amongſt them; I am the Lord their God. The ſame promiſe is renewed and repeated; and I will Lev. 46. 11, 12. ſet my Tabernacle amongſt you, and my Soul ſhall not abhor you; and I will walk among you and I will be your God, and ye ſhall be my People; this promiſe was punctually fulfilled when Chriſt was incarnate; for then was the Word made fleſh, and dwelt amongſt us, John 1. 14. Or if it be referred to John 1. 14.

the habitation of God by his Spirit among the ſpiritual ſeed of Abraham, then it implies the incarnation of Chriſt, becauſe that was to go before the plentiful habitation of Chriſt's Spirit in the Saints Deut. 18. 15. Again, Moſes writing of Chriſt, The Lord thy God (ſaith he) will raiſe up unto thee a Prophet from the midſt of thee, of thy Brethren like unto me, unto him ſhall ye hearken. Was not this a plain expreſſion? Peter in his Sermon to the Jews, Preached Jeſus Chriſt, and he tells the Jews that this Jeſus Chriſt was Preached unto them before: When before? Even in Moſe's time; and for proof he cites this very Text, Acts 3. 20, 22. For Moſes truly ſaid unto the Fathers, a Prophet ſhall the Lord your God raiſe up unto you, of your brethren, like unto me, him ſhall ye hear in all things, whatſoever he ſhall ſay unto you.

4. In the confirmation of the Law we find ſomething of Chriſt. It was confirmed by Seals and Sacrifices, &c. What, were all theſe but a type of Chriſt, in the former expreſſion of the Covenant we found the Seal of Circumciſion, but now it pleaſed God to add unto the former another Seal for Confirmation of their Faith, ſc. The Paſſover: And was not this a type of Chriſt, the immaculate Lamb of God, which taketh away the ſins of the World? Again, in this manifeſtation Moſes brought in the Prieſthood as a ſetled Ordinance to offer ſacrifices for the people: And was not this a type of Chriſt, our true and unchangeable High Prieſt? I have ſometimes ſeen the Articles of a believing Jews Creed, collected out of Moſes's Law; as thus, I believe that the Meſſiah ſhould die to make ſatisfaction for ſin: This they ſaw in their continued bloody Sacrifices, and their deliverance from Egypt by the death of a Lamb, taught them no leſs. 2. I believe that he ſhall not die for his own ſins, but for the ſins of others; This they might eaſily obſerve in every ſacrifice, when (according to Law) they ſaw the moſt harmleſs Birds and Beaſts were offered. 3. I believe to be ſaved by laying hold upon his merits: This they might gather by laying their right hand upon the head of every Beaſt that they brought to be offered up, and by laying hold on the horns of the Altar, being a Sanctuary or Refuge from purſuing vengeance. Thus we might go on: No queſtion the Death and Reſurrection of Chriſt, the Prieſthood and Kingdom of Chriſt were prefigured and typed by the Sacrifices, and the brazen Serpent, and the Prieſthood of Aaron, and the Kingdom of Iſrael. And I cannot but think that the Godly, ſpiritual Jews underſtood this very well; and that theſe did not reſt in Sacrifices or Sacraments, but that by faith they did really enjoy Chriſt in every of them.

5. In the intention of God's giving the Law we find ſomething of Chriſt. The very end of God in holding forth the Law, was, that upon the ſenſe of our impoſſibility to keep it, and of our danger to break it, we ſhould deſire earneſtly, and ſeek out diligently for Jeſus Chriſt: To this purpoſe ſaith the Apoſtle, Chriſt is the end of the Law for righteouſneſs to every one that believeth. Chriſt is the end of the Law (i. e.) Chriſt is the end of intention; God by giving ſo holy a Law, and by requiring ſuch perfect obedience, he would thereby humble and debaſe the Iſraelites, ſo that they ſhould earneſtly fly to Chriſt: In this ſence the Law is our School-maſter to bring us to Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by faith. A School-Maſter (you know) doth not only whip or correct, but alſo teach and direct: So the Law doth not only threaten and curſe if the work be not done, but it ſhews where power and help is to be had, viz. From the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. If this be ſo, how much to blame are they, that under pretence of Free grace and Chriſt, cry down the Law? Rather let us cry it up; and this is the way to ſet up Free-grace and Chriſt. Surely he that diſcovers his defects by the perfect rule of the Law, and whoſe Soul is imbittered and humbled becauſe of thoſe defects, he muſt needs prize Chriſt, deſire Chriſt, advance Chriſt in his thoughts above all the Men in the World.

Sect. 5. Of the Covenant of Promiſe, as manifeſted to David.

THE next breaking forth of this gracious Covenant was to David; and in this manifeſtation, appears yet more of Chriſt; the expreſſion of it is chiefly in theſe words. 2 Sam. 23. 5. Although my Houſe be not ſo with God, yet he hath made with me an everlaſting Covenant, ordered in all things and ſure.

For the right underſtanding of this, we ſhall examine theſe Particulars.——

1. Who is the Author of this Covenant?
2. To whom is the Covenant made?
3. What is this, that the Covenant is ſaid to be made?
4. How is the Covenant ordered?
5. Wherein is the Covenant ſure?
6. Whether is Chriſt more clearly manifeſted in this breaking forth of the Covenant, than in any of the former?

1. Who is the Author of this Covenant? David ſays, he hath made it: He (i. e.) God; the Rock of Iſrael, the everlaſting Rock; The Rock of their Salvation. Pſal. 19. 5. The Rock of their ſtrength, Pſal. 62. 7. The Rock of their Heart, Pſal. 73. 26. The Rock of their Refuge, Pſal. 94. 22. Their Rock and their Redeemer, Pſal. 19. 14. The Pſalmiſt is frequent and ordinary in this ſtile, to ſhew that God is the mighty, ſtable and immutable foundation and defence of all the faithful, who fly unto him, and will truſt in him; he is ſuch a Rock as will not ſhrink nor fail his Creatures; Man is unſtable, but he is God, and not Man, who is the Author of this Covenant.

2. To whom is the Covenant made? Why, ſaith David, He hath made with me an everlaſting Covenant; (i. e.) either with Chriſt the Antitype, or elſe with David himſelf, the type of Chriſt. To the former ſence we have ſpoken elſewhere; the latter I ſuppoſe more genuine; the Covenant indeed was firſt made with Chriſt, and then with David as a Member of Jeſus Chriſt. Some are wholly for a Covenant betwixt God and Chriſt, and they deny any ſuch thing as a Covenant betwixt God and Man; but are not the Teſtimonies expreſs? Deut. 4. 23. Take heed to your ſelves, leſt you forget the Covenant which the Lord hath made with you. And, Jer. 31. 31. I will make a new Covenant with the Houſe of Iſrael, and with the Houſe of Judah. And by name do we not ſee God Covenanting with Abraham, with Iſaac and with Jacob? Gen. 17. 7. Gen. 26. 2. Gen. 35. 12. Levit. 26. 42. And here do we not ſee God Covenanting with David? Pſal. 89. 3. 35. I have made a Covenant with my choſen, I have ſworn unto David; and, once have I ſworn by my holineſs, that I will not lye unto David, and, Pſal. 132. 11. the Lord hath ſworn in truth unto David, he will not turn from it. Oh! Take heed of ſuch Doctrines as tend unto Liberty and Licentiouſneſs! The Covenant God makes with us binds us faſter to God: And if there be no Covenant betwixt God and us, it opens a gap to the looſneſs of our ſpirits; for how ſhou'd we be charged with unfaithfulneſs unto God, if we have not all entred into a Covenant with God.

3. What is this that the Covenant is ſaid to be made? This holds forth to us the freeneſs of God's entring into Covenant with us: I will make my Covenant

Gen.17.2. nant between me and thee, ſaith God: Or, I will give my Covenant, I will diſpoſe my Covenant between me and thee, ſo it is in the Original. And elſewhere it is plain, Behold I give unto him my Covenant of Peace: When God makes a Covenant, then he gives the Covenant of Grace unto all that he takes into Covenant with him: The Lord ſet his love upon you (ſaid Num. 25. 12. Moſes to Iſrael) to take you into Covenant with him, not becauſe ye were more in number than other People, but be- Deut.7.7, 8. cauſe he loved you, and choſe your Fathers; as noting out the freeneſs of his love towards them: He loved them: Why? He loved them becauſe he loved them. This freeneſs of his Grace in giving a Covenant, may appear in theſe Particulars.

1. In that God is the firſt that ſeeks after us, to draw us into Covenant with him; we ſeek not him; but he ſeeks us; we chuſe not him, but he chuſeth us, he loves us firſt; I am found of them that ſought me not; I ſaid, behold me, behold me, unto a Nation 1 John 4. 19. that was not called by my name.

1. In that there is nothing in us, to draw God in- Iſa.65.1. to a Covenant with us: Many a Man ſeeks firſt after the unmarried Virgin, but then there is Beauty, or there is Dowry, or there is ſomething or other which draws on the Man; but there is no ſuch thing in us: This made David ſay, when he heard of God's Covenant with him and his, Who am I, O Lord God? And what is my Father's Houſe that thou haſt brought me hitherto;——and is this the manner of 2 Sam. 7. 18, 19. Man, O Lord God? q. d. O Lord God, thou dealeſt familiarly with me as a Man dealeth with Man; or as it is elſewhere, Thou haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a Man of high degree. It would make any ſoul cry out, that deeply weighs the freeneſs of 1 Chron. 17. 17. this Covenant; Lord, what is man that thou art mindful of him, or the ſon of man, that thou viſiteſt him?

Pſal. 8.4. 3. In that there is enough in us to keep off the Lord from ever owning us; we are as contrary to God as darkneſs is to light, or as evil is to good: The carnal mind is enmity againſt God (ſaith the Apoſtle) it is not ſubject to the Law of God, neither indeed Rom.8.7. can it be. We are a crooked Generation, that cannot abide the ſtraight ways of the Lord; our whole nature is ſinful and corrupt before him, and for the moſt part when we are moſt averſe and backward, and have leaſt thought of ever ſeeking after him, then it is that he ſeeks us, to take us unto himſelf; thus the Lord called Saul when he was perſecuting, and raging, and breathing out ſlaughter againſt the Lord, and againſt his Saints: And thus the Lord called thoſe Jews that mocked the Apoſtles when they ſpake divers Languages, Theſe men are full of new wine; ay, but the next word that they ſpake, is, Acts 9.4. Men and Brethren, what ſhall we do? O the free and Acts 2.13, 37. unexpected Grace of our God!

4. In that we are by nature no better than others that are without God, and without Covenant: What makes the difference betwixt us and them, but this Eph.2.12. free Grace of God? Is there any reaſon in us why one is taken into a Covenant, and another is not? Nay, I'll tell you a wonder; ſo it pleaſeth the Lord, that ſometimes God chuſeth the worſt, and leaves thoſe that are better than they; We read that Publicans and Harlots were taken in, and the righteous Generation which juſtified themſelves, and were juſtified by others, were paſſed by: Surely God reſpects none for any thing in them, his deſign is that the freeneſs of his Grace might be ſeen in thoſe whom he takes to himſelf. Hence the Apoſtle, God chuſeth the fooliſh things of this world, and the weak 1 Cor. 1. 27,28,29. things of this world, baſe and deſpiſed things; whileſt in the mean time he paſſeth by the wiſe and mighty, and things of high eſteem, that all men might ſee, it is the Grace of God, and not any thing in Man, by which we are taken into Covenant with him.

5. How is the Covenant ſaid to be ordered? The word ordered will help us in the Anſwer: It ſets out to us a marſhalling, and fit laying of things together, in oppoſition to diſorder and confuſion, the Septuagint renders it ἑτοίμασας, which ſignifies marſhalled, diſpoſed, prepared, ſet forth, as an Army in comely order: The ſame word is in Judg. 20. 22. And the men of Iſrael encouraged themſelves, and ſet their Battle again in array. As we ſee in an Ar- Judg. 20. 22. my every one is ſet in rank and file; ſo is every thing in this Covenant ranked, diſpoſed, ordered, that it ſtands at beſt advantage to receive and repel the enemy: A poor Chriſtian that hath a troubled ſpirit, he ſets himſelf againſt free Grace and this everlaſting Covenant, he raiſeth thouſands of objections againſt it; but now the Covenant is ordered, it ſtands like a marſhall'd Army to receive him, and repel him. Come, let us ſee how it is ordered in all things. I ſhall inſtance only in theſe particulars: As,——

1. It is well ordered in reſpect of the Root out of which it grew. This (ſay Divines) was the infinite Soveraignty, and Wiſdom, and Mercy of God. 1. It was founded in God's Soveraignty; he had a right to do what he would with his fallen Creatures: he might damn or ſave whom he pleaſed: Hath not the Potter Power over the Clay, of the ſame lump to make one Veſſel unto honour, and another unto diſhonour? Rom. 9. 21. 2. It was founded in wiſdom: The Covenant of Grace was a reſult of Council; it was no raſh act, but a deliberate act with infinite wiſdom: God being the Soveraign of all his Creatures, and ſeeing mankind in a periſhing condition, he determined within himſelf deliberately to make ſuch a Covenant of Peace, firſt with Chriſt, and then with all the Elect in Chriſt. 3. It was founded in Mercy, (i.e.) in the goodneſs of God flowing out freely to one in miſery: for mercy, we ſay, is made up of theſe two Acts. 1. There muſt be an Object of Miſery. 2. There muſt be a free efflux of goodneſs on that Object. Now the Covenant of Grace was founded on theſe; as, 1. There was an object of Miſery, loſt man, wretched man, undone by ſin: and, 2. There was an efflux of Gods goodneſs, his very Bowels moved within him, and they could not hold: I have loved thee with an everlaſting love (ſaith God) therefore with loving kindneſs have I drawn thee. Surely this was well ordered; a perplexed ſoul may have his Jer. 31. 3. ſpirit up in Arms againſt the Covenant of Grace, O, cries the Soul, in its ſad condition, I am miſerable, I ſhall not live, but die, my ſins will damn me, I am loſt for ever. Why, but ſee how the Covenant is ordered in reſpect of the root or riſe: it ſtands like a well marſhalled Army to receive, and to repel thoſe doubts: as, 1. God acted in a way of Soveraignty, and cannot God ſave thee if he will? 2. God acted in a way of Wiſdom, and though thou ſeeſt no way but one with thee, Death and Damnation; yet cannot infinite wiſdom contrive another way? 3. God acted in a way of Mercy, and, O thou afflicted toſſed with tempeſts, and not comforted, is not infinite Mercy above all thy Miſery? Why ſee, ſee, poor ſoul, how the Covenant repels Iſa. 54.11. all thy oppoſitions in reſpect of its riſe.

2. It is well ordered in reſpect of the perſons intereſted in it from all eternity, and they are God the Father, and in Jeſus Chriſt his Son; as for the Saints Elect, they were not then, and therefore the Covenant could not be immediately ſtruck with them; now there was great need of this order; for ſhould the Covenant have been made betwixt God the Father and the Elect from all eternity, and that immediately, a troubled ſoul would have oppo-led it thus. 1. If it was from all eternity, how then ſhall I be capable of it? alas my being was not ſo long ſince. 2. If it were made with me immediately, then I had ſome part to perform of mine own Power and Strength; but alas I have failed, I can do nothing: O but now the Covenant is a well ordered Covenant, in theſe reſpects: For,

1. Chriſt hath been from all eternity? and thou, as an Elect Veſſel hadſt thy being in him, as he was thy Head.

2. Chriſt is able to perform the Covenant, and being contractor, it lies upon his ſcore to ſatisfie his Father; he that firſt made the bargain, muſt look to fulfil it: and for thy part, if thou doſt any thing Joh. 15. 5. it muſt be through him. Without me ye can do nothing. Why, ſee now, ſee how the Covenant repels all thy oppoſitions in reſpect of the Perſons intereſted in it from all eternity; God hath his place, and Chriſt his place, and Faith his place, and the Sinner his place.

3. It is well ordered in reſpect of the method of the Articles in their ſeveral workings? firſt God begins, then we come on: firſt God, on his part, gives grace and glory, and then we, on our parts, act Faith and Obedience: God hath ever the firſt work; Jer. 31. 33. as firſt, I will be your God, and then ye ſhall be my People: Ezek. 36. 26, 31. firſt, I will take away the ſtony heart, and give an heart of fleſh, and then you ſhall loath your ſelves for your Ezek. 36. 25. iniquities and for your abominations: firſt I will ſprinkle Ezek. 36. 27. water upon you, and then ye ſhall be clean from all your filthineſs: firſt, I will put my Spirit into you, and cauſe Zech. 12. 10. you to walk in my Statutes, and then ye ſhall keep my judgments and do them: firſt, I will pour out my Spirit of Grace, and ſupplication upon you, and then ye ſhall mourn as a man mourning for his only Son: firſt, I will do all, and then ye ſhall do ſomething: a perplexed troubled Spirit is apt to cry out, O! alas I can do nothing; I can as well diſſolve a Rock, as make my heart of ſtone a heart of fleſh! Mark now how the Covenant ſtands well ordered like an Army: I will do all, ſaith God, and then thou ſhalt do ſomething? I will ſtrengthen and quicken you, and then ye ſhall ſerve me, ſaith the Lord.

4. It is well ordered in reſpect of the end and aim, to which all the parts of the Covenant are re- Eph. 1. 6. ferred; the end of the Covenant is the praiſe of the Glory of his Grace: the parts of the Covenant are the Promiſe and the Stipulation; the Promiſes either Principal or Immediate, and that is God and Chriſt; or ſecondary and conſequential, and that is Pardon, Juſtification, Reconciliation, Sanctification, Glorification; and the ſtipulation on our parts are Faith and Obedience: we muſt believe in him that Juſtifies the ungodly, and walk before him in all well pleaſing. Obſerve now the main deſign and aim of the Covenant, and ſee but how all the ſtreams run towards that Ocean: God gives himſelf to the Praiſe of the glory of his grace, God gives Chriſt to the Praiſe of the Glory of his Grace, God gives Pardon, Juſtification, ſanctification, ſalvation to the praiſe of the Glory of his Grace; and we Believe, we Obey to the Praiſe of the Glory of his Grace; and good reaſon, for all is of Grace, and therefore all muſt tend to the Praiſe of the Glory of his Grace: it is of Grace that God hath given himſelf, Chriſt, Pardon, juſtification, reconciliation, ſanctification, ſalvation Eph. 2. 8. to any ſoul; it is of grace that we believe; By grace ye are ſaved through faith, not of your ſelves, it is the gift of God. O the ſweet and comely order of this Covenant! All is of Grace, and all tends to the praiſe of the glory of this grace, and therefore it is called a Covenant of grace: Many a ſweet ſoul is forced to cry, I cannot believe, I may as well reach heaven with a finger, as lay hold on Chriſt by the hand of faith; but mark how the Covenant ſtands like a well marſhalled army to repel this doubt; if thou canſt not believe, God will enable thee to believe; to you it is given to believe: Phil. 1. 29. O the Covenant of grace is a gracious Covenant: God will not only promiſe good things, but he helps us by his Spirit to perform the condition: He works our hearts to believe in God, and to believe in Chriſt, all is of grace, that all may tend to the praiſe of the glory of his grace.

5. Wherein is the Covenant ſure? I anſwer, it is ſure in the performance and accompliſhment of it. Hence Iſa. 55. 3. the promiſes of the Covenant are called the ſure mercies of David; not becauſe they are ſure unto David alone, but becauſe they are ſure, and ſhall be ſure unto all the Seed of David, that are in Covenant with God, as David was: the promiſes of Gods Covenant are not Yea and Nay, various and uncertain, but they are 2 Cor. 1. 20. Yea and Amen, ſure to be fulfilled. Hence the ſtability of Gods Covenant is compared to the firmneſs and unmoveableneſs of the mighty Mountains; nay Iſa. 54. 10. Mountains may depart, and the Hills be removed by a miracle, but, my kindneſs ſhall not depart from thee, neither ſhall the Covenant of my peace be removed, ſaith the Lord, that hath mercy on thee. Sooner ſhall the Rocks be removed, the Fire ceaſe to burn, the Sun be turned into darkneſs, and the very heavens be confounded with the earth, than the promiſe of God ſhall Pſ. 19. 17. fail. The teſtimony of the Lord is ſure, ſaith David: Chriſt made it, and writ it with his own blood; to this very end was Chriſt appointed, and it hath been all his work to enſure Heaven to his Saints. Some queſtion whether it be in Gods preſent power to blot a name out of the Book of Life? We ſay no; his deed was at firſt free, but now it is neceſſary, not abſolutely, but ex Hypotheſi, upon ſuppoſition of his eternal Covenant. Hence it is, that the Apoſtle ſays, 1 John 1. 9. If we confeſs our Sins, he is faithful and juſt to forgive us our Sins: It is Juſtice with God to pardon the Elect's Sins, as the caſe now ſtands. Indeed Mercy was all that ſaved us primarily; but now Truth ſaves us, and ſtands engaged with Mercy, for our Heaven: And therefore, David prays, ſend forth Mercy and Pſ. 57. 3. Truth, and ſave me. We find it often in the Pſalms, Pſ. 31. 1. 3. 24. as a Prayer of David; Deliver me in thy Righteouſneſs; 119. 40. and Judge me according to thy Righteouſneſs; and Quicken 143. 1. me in thy Righteouſneſs; and in thy faithfulneſs anſwer me; and in thy Righteouſneſs. Now, if it had not been for the Covenant of grace, ſurely David durſt not have ſaid ſuch a word. The Covenant is ſure Iſa. 55. 3. in every reſpect; I will make an everlaſting Covenant with you (ſaith God) even the ſure Mercies of David.

6. Whether is Chriſt more clearly manifeſted in this breaking forth of the Covenant, than in any of the Former? The Affirmative will appear, in that we find in this Manifeſtation, theſe Particulars—

1. That He was God, and Man, in One Perſon; David's Son, and yet David's Lord: The Lord, ſaid Pſ. 110. 1. unto my Lord, Sit thou on My Right Hand, until I make thine enemies Thy Foot ſtool.

2. That he ſuffered for us; and in his Sufferings, Pſ. 22. 1. How many particulars are diſcovered? As firſt, His Cry, My God, My God, Why haſt Thou forſaken Me? Mat. 27. 46. Secondly, The Jews Taunts; He truſted on the Lord, Pſ. 22. 8. that He would deliver Him; let him deliver him Mat. 27. 43. *if He delight in him. 3. That He Roſe again for us; Thou wilt not leave Pſ. 16. 10. Acts 2. 31. My Soul in Hell, neither wilt Thou ſuffer Thine Holy One to ſee Corruption.

Heb. 10. 5, 7. mine Ear haſt Thou bored; Burnt-Offering, and Sin Offering haſt thou not required. Then ſaid I, Loe I come: In the Volume of the Book it is written of me, That I ſhould do Thy Will, O God. Mine Ears haſt Thou bored, or digged open; The Septuagint, to make the Sence plainer, ſay; But a Body haſt Thou fitted me, or prepared for me: Meaning that his Body was ordained, and fitted to be a Sacrifice for the Sins of the World, when other legal Sacrifices were refuſed as unprofitable. O ſee, how clearly Chriſt is revealed in the Expreſſure of the Covenant! It was never thus before.

And thus far of the Covenant of Promiſe, as it was manifeſted from David till the Captivity.

Sect. 6. Of the Covenant of Promiſe, as manifeſted to Iſrael, about the time of the Captivity.

THE great breaking-forth of this Gracious Covenant was to Iſrael about the time of their Captivity. By reaſon of that Captivity of Babylon, Iſrael was almoſt clean deſtroyed; and therefore, then it was high time, that the Lord ſhould appear like a Sun after a ſtormy Rain, and give them ſome clear Light of Chriſt, and of this Covenant of Grace than ever yet. He doth ſo, and it appears eſpecially in theſe words; Behold, the days come, Jer. 31. 31, 32. ſaith the Lord, that I will make a new Covenant with the houſe of Iſrael, and with the Houſe of Judah; not according to the Covenant which I made with their Fathers, in the day that I took them by the Hand, to bring them out of the Land of Egypt; which my Covenant they 33, 34. break, although I was an Husband unto them, ſaith the Lord; but this ſhall be the Covenant that I will make with the Houſe of Iſrael: After thoſe days, ſaith the Lord, I will put my Law in their inward Parts, and write it in their Hearts; and I will be their God, and they ſhall be My People; and they ſhall teach no more, every Man his Neighbour, and every Man his Brother, ſaying, Know the Lord; for they ſhall all know Me from the Leaſt of them unto the Greateſt of them, ſaith the Lord; for I will forgive their Iniquity, and remember their Sin no more. In this Expreſſure of the Covenant, we ſhall examine theſe Particulars:——

1. Why it is called a New Covenant.
2. Wherein the Expreſſure of this Covenant doth excel the former, which God made with their Fathers?
3. How doth God put the Law into our inward Parts?
4. What is it to have the Law written in our Hearts?
5. How are we taught of God, ſo as not to need any other kind of Teaching comparatively?
6. What is the Univerſality of this Knowledge, in that All ſhall know me, ſaith the Lord?
7. How is God ſaid to forgive Iniquity, and never more to remember ſin?

1. Why is it called a New Covenant? I anſwer; It is called New, either in reſpect of the late and new Bleſſings, which God vouchſafed Iſrael, in bringing back their Captivity with Joy, and planting them in their own Land again; or it is called New, in reſpect of the Excellency of this Covenant: Thus the Hebrews were wont to call any thing Excellent, O ſing unto the Lord a New Song, Pſal. 96. Pſ. 96. 1. 1. that is, an Excellent Song: Or is it called New, in contradiction to the Covenant of Promiſe before Chriſt came. In this latter Sence, the very ſame words here, are repeated in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews: Behold the Days come, ſaith the Lord, when I will make a New Covenant with the Houſe of Iſrael, and Heb. 8. 8, 13. the Houſe of Judah.—— In that He ſaith a New Covenant, He hath made the Firſt Old; now that which decayeth, and waxeth old, is ready to vaniſh away. The New Covenant is uſually underſtood in the latter Sence; it is New, becauſe diverſe from that which God made with the Fathers before Chriſt; it hath a new Worſhip, new Adoration, a new Form of the Church, new Witneſſes, new Tables, new Sacraments and Ordinances: and theſe never to be abrogated or diſanulled, never to wax Old, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks: Yet in reſpect of thoſe new Bleſſings, which God beſtowed upon Iſrael immediately after the Captivity, this very Manifeſtation may be called New: And in reference to this; Behold the days come, ſaith the Lord, that they ſhall no more ſay, The Lord Jer. 23. 7, 8. liveth, which brought up the Children of Iſrael out of the Land of Egypt; but the Lord liveth, which brought up, and which led the Seed of the Houſe of Iſrael out of the North-Country, and from all Countreys whither I had driven them, and they ſhall dwell in their own Land.

2. Wherein doth the Expreſſure of His Covenant excel the former, which God made with their Fathers? I anſwer,——

1. It excels in the very Tenor, or outward Adminiſtration of the Covenant; for this Covenant, after it once began, continued without Interruption until Chriſt, whereas the Former was broken, or did expire. Hence God calls it a New Covenant;——Not according to the Covenant, which I made with their Fathers in the Day that I took them by the Hand, to bring them out of the Land of Egypt, which my Covenant they brake, altho I was an Husband unto them, ſaith the Lord. In this reſpect it might be called New, or, at leaſt, it may be called an Inchoation of the New, becauſe it continued till Chriſt, which no other Expreſſure of the Covenant did before, and ſo it excelled all the former.

2. It excels in the Spiritual Benefits and Graces of the Spirit. We find, that under this Covenant they were more plentifully beſtowed upon the Church, than formerly. Mark the Promiſes: I will ſet My Eye upon them for Good, and I will bring them again to this Land; Jer. 24. 6, 7. and I will build them, and not pull them down; and I will plant them, and not pluck them up; and I will give them a Heart to know Me, that I am the Lord; and they ſhall be My People, and I will be their God; for they ſhall return unto Me with their whole Heart.—— Again, I will ſhake all Nations, and the Deſire of the Nations ſhall come, Hag. 2. 7, 8, 9. and I will fill this Houſe with Glory, ſaith the Lord of Hoſts: The Silver is mine, and the Gold is mine, ſaith the Lord of Hoſts; the Glory of this latter Houſe ſhall be greater than of the former, ſaith the Lord of Hoſts, And will put my Law in their inward parts, and write it in their Hearts, and I will be their God, and Jer. 31. 33, 34. they ſhall be my People, and they ſhall teach no more every Man his Neighbour, and every Man his Brother, ſaying, Know the Lord; for they ſhall all know me from the leaſt of them unto the greateſt of them, ſaith the Lord : for I will forgive their iniquities, and I will remember their Sins no more.

3. It excels in the diſcovery and revelation of the Mediator, in and through whom this Covenant was made : In the former expreſſion we diſcovered much, yet in none of them was ſo plainly revealed the time of his coming, the place of his birth, his name, the paſſages of his nativity, his humiliation and kingdom, as we find them in this.——

Dan.9.24. 1. Concerning the time of his Coming ; Seventy weeks ſhall be determined upon thy people, and upon thy holy City, to finiſh the Tranſgreſſion, and to make an end of ſins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlaſting righteouſneſs, and to ſeal up the viſion and prophecy, and to anoint the moſt holy.

Mica. 5.2. 2. Concerning the place of his Birth : But thou Bethlehem Ephrata, though thou be little among the thouſands of Judah, yet out of thee ſhall he come forth unto me, that is to be ruler in Iſrael, whoſe goings forth have been from of old, from everlaſting.

Iſa. 9. 6. 3. Concerning his Name : Unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given, and the Government ſhall be upon his Shoulders ; and his Name ſhall be called Wonderful, Counſellor, the Mighty God, the Everlaſting
Jer. 23. 6. Father, the Prince of Peace——In his days Judah ſhall be ſaved, and Iſrael ſhall dwell ſafely, and this his Name whereby he ſhall be called, the Lord our Righteouſneſs—— Iſa. 7. 14. Behold a Virgin ſhall conceive, and bear a Son, and thou O Virgin, ſhall call his Name Immanuel.

4. Concerning the paſſages of his Nativity, that he ſhould be born of a Virgin, Iſa. 7. 14. That at his Birth all the Infants round about Bethlehem ſhould be ſlain, Jer. 31. 15. That John the Baptiſt ſhould be his Prodromus, or forerunner, to prepare his way, Mal. 3. 1. That he ſhould flee into Egypt, and be recalled thence again, Hoſ. 11. 1. I might add many Particulars of this kind.

5. Concerning his humiliation : Surely he hath
Iſa. 53. 4. born our griefs and carried our ſorrows, yet we did not eſteem him ſtricken, ſmitten of God, and afflicted ; but he was wounded for our tranſgreſſions, he was bruiſed for our iniquities, the chaſtiſement of our peace was upon him, and with his ſtripe were we healed.——He was
5. oppreſſed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his Mouth.
7. ——He was taken from Priſon, and from Judgment, and who ſhall declare his Generation? He was cut off out of the Land of the Living ; for the tranſgreſſion of my
8. people was he ſtricken——It pleaſed the Lord to bruiſe him, he hath put him to grief.——Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he ſhall divide the ſpoil with the ſtrong, becauſe he hath poured out his Soul unto Death, and he was numbred with the tranſgreſſors, and he bare the Sin of many, and made interceſſion for the tranſgreſſors. One would think this were rather a Hiſtory than a Prophecy of Chriſt's sufferings ; you may if you will take the pains, ſee the circumſtances of his ſufferings, as that he was ſold for thirty pieces of ſilver, Zech. 11. 12. and that with thoſe thirty pieces of ſilver there was bought afterwards a Potters field, Zech. 11. 13. That he muſt ride into Jeruſalem before his Paſſion on an Aſs, Zech. 9.9. Zech. 9. 9. I might ſeem tedious if I ſhould proceed.

6. Concerning his Kingdom. Rejoice greatly O
Iſa.62.11. Daughter of Zion, ſhout O Daughter of Jeruſalem, behold Mat.21.5. thy King cometh unto thee ; he is juſt and having Salvation, lowly, and riding upon an Aſs, and upon a Colt the Foal of an Aſs. Behold a King, behold thy King ; behold thy King cometh, and he comes unto thee. 1. He is a King, and therefore able. 2. He is thy King, and therefore willing ; wonderful Love that he would come, but more wonderful was the manner of his coming : He that before made man a Soul after the Image of God, then made himſelf a Body after the Image of Man. And thus we ſee how this Covenant excels the former in every of theſe reſpects.

3. How doth God put the Law into our inward parts? I anſwer, God puts the Law into our inward parts by enlivening or qualifying of a Man with the Graces of Gods Spirit, ſuitable to his Commandment ; firſt, there is the Law of God without us, as we ſee it or read it in Scriptures ; but when it is put within us, then God hath wrought an inward diſpoſition in our minds, that anſwers to that Law without us ; for example, this is the Law without ;
Thou ſhalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Heart, and Deut. 6.5.
with all thy Soul, and with all thy Strength ; To An- Deut. 30.
ſwer which, there is a promiſe ; I will circumciſe thy 6.
Heart, and the Heart of thy Seed, to Love the Lord thy God with all thy Heart, and with all thy Soul ; now when this promiſe is fulfilled, when God hath put the affections and grace of Love within our hearts, when the habit of Love is within, anſwerable in all things to the command without, then is the Law put into our inward parts. Again, this is the Law without, Thou ſhalt fear the Lord, and keep his Ordinances, Deut. 13.
and his Statutes, and his Commandments to do them : to 4.
anſwer which, there is a promiſe ; I will make a Co- Jer. 32.
venant with you, and I will not turn away from you to 40.
do you good, but I will put my fear into your hearts, and you ſhall not depart from Me ; now when this promiſe is accompliſhed, when God hath put the affection and grace of fear within our hearts, when the habit of fear is within, anſwerable to that Command without, then is the Law put into our hearts. Surely this is Mercy that God ſaith in his Covenant, I will put my law in their inward parts ; many a time a poor Soul cries out, he is troubled with ſuch and ſuch a luſt, and he cannot keep this and that Commandment, he cannot out-wreſtle ſuch and ſuch ſtrong inclinations to evil, O but then go to God, and preſs him with this, Lord, it is a part of thy Covenant, thou haſt ſaid, thou wilt circumciſe my heart ; thou haſt ſaid, thou wilt put thy Law in my inward parts ; thou haſt ſaid, thou wilt diſſolve theſe luſts, Lord I beſeech thee do it for thy Covenants ſake.——But here's another Queſtion.

How may we know this inward work of Grace, this Law in our inward parts? The beſt way to ſatiſfy our doubts in this, is to look within ; open we the door and cloſet of our hearts, and ſee what lies neareſt and cloſeſt there ; that we ſay is intimate and within a man, which lies next to his heart : He that Mat. 10.
loveth Father or Mother more than Me (ſaith Chriſt) is 37.
not worthy of Me : We know the love of Father or Mother, is a moſt natural thing ; it comes not by teaching, but it is inbred in us as ſoon as we are born ; and yet if we love not Chriſt more than theſe, if Chriſt lie not cloſer to our hearts than Father or Mother, we are not worthy of Chriſt ; our natural life is a moſt inward and deep thing in a man, it lies near the heart ; Skin for Skin (ſaid the Devil once truly) and all Job 2. 4. that a man hath will he give for his Life ; but he that hates Luke 14.
not Father and Mother yea and his own life alſo (ſaid 26.
Chriſt) he cannot be my Diſciple. Hence the Apoſtle, to Gal.2.20.
expreſs this intimate, inward life of grace, he ſaith, I live, yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me ; the life which I now live in the fleſh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave himſelf for me. What an emphatical ſtrange expreſſion is this? I live, yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me ; q. d. I live not the life of ſenſe, I breath not bodily breath, that is, comparatively to the life of faith ; his very natural life, tho inward, is ſaid not to be lived, in reſpect of his life of grace, which is more inward. And let this ſerve for reſolution to that queſtion.

4. What is it to have the Law written in our hearts? This writing contains the former, and is ſomething more ; the Metaphor is expreſſed in theſe Particulars.——

1. It is ſaid to be written, that there might be ſomething within, anſwerable to the Law without; it was written without, and ſo it was written within. This Writing is the very ſame with Copying or Tranſcribing. The Writing within is every way anſwerable to the Writing without: Oh what a mercy is this, that the ſame God who writ the Law with his own Finger in the Tables of Stone, ſhould alſo write the ſame Law with the Finger of his Spirit in the Tables of our Hearts! as you ſee in a Seal, when you have put the Seal on the Wax, and you take it off again, you find in the Wax the ſame Impreſſion that was on the Seal: So it is in the Hearts of the Faithful, when the Spirit hath once ſoftned them, then he writes the Law (i. e.) he ſtamps an inward aptneſs, an inward diſpoſition on the Heart, anſwering to every particular of the Law; Rom. 7. 23. this is that which the Apoſtle calls the Law of the mind, I ſee another Law in my Members warring againſt the Law of my mind. Now what is this Law in the mind, but a diſpoſition within, to keep in ſome meaſure every Commandment of the Law without? And this is the Writing of the Law (or if you will) the Copying or Tranſcribing of the Law within us.

2. It is ſaid to be written that it might be rooted, and rivetted in the Heart, as when Letters are engraven in Marble; ſo is the manner of Gods writing: if God write, it can never be obliterated or blotted out: Letters in Marble are not eaſily worn out again; no more are the writings of God's Spirit: Some indeed would have them as writings in duſt: but if Pilate could ſay, What I have written, I have written; how much more may God? Hence are all thoſe Promiſes of Perſeverance; My Covenant ſhall ſtand faſt with him, Pſal. 89. 28. and, The root of the righteous ſhall not be moved, Prov. 12. 3. and, Even to your old Age I am he; and even to hoary hairs will I carry you, Iſa. 46. 4. I deny not, but men of glorious Gifts may fall away; but ſurely the pooreſt Chriſtian that hath but the ſmalleſt meaſure of Grace, he ſhall never fall away; if the Law be written in our hearts, it ſtill remains there; Grace habitual is not removable: ſooner will the Sun diſcard its own beams, than Chriſt will deſert or deſtroy the leaſt meaſure of true Grace which is a beam from the Sun of Righteouſneſs.

3. It is ſaid to be written, that it might be as a thing legible to God, to others, and to our ſelves. 1. To God, he writes it that he may read it, and take notice of it; he exceedingly delights himſelf in the graces of his own Spirit: and therefore the Spouſe after this writing, after the planting of his Grace in her, ſhe deſires him to come into his Garden, Cant. 4. 6. and eat his pleaſant Fruits; q. d. Come, read what thou haſt written; come, and delight thy ſelf in the Graces of thy own Spirit: the only delight that God has in the World is in his Garden, a gracious ſoul; and that he might more delight in it, he makes it fruitful: and thoſe Fruits are precious Fruits; as growing from Plants ſet by his own Hand, reliſhing of his own Spirit, and ſo fitted for his own Taſte 2. The Law is written that it might be legible to others. 2 Cor. 3. 2, 3. So Paul tells the Corinthians, You are manifeſtly declared to be the Epiſtle of Chriſt: How manifeſtly declared? why, known and read of all Men. As we are able to read Letters graven in Stone, ſo may others read and ſee the Fruits and Effects of this Law written in our Hearts. And good reaſon; for wheresoever God works the principles of Grace within, it cannot but ſhew it ſelf in the outward Life and Converſation: Ezek. 36. 27. it is God's Promiſe, firſt, I will put my Spirit within them, and then, I will cauſe them to walk in my ſtatutes; Mat. 12. 34. and it is God's Truth, Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth ſpeaketh. What the mind thinketh, the hand worketh. 3. The Law is written that it may be legible to our ſelves; a gracious heart is privy to its own grace and ſincerity, when it is in a right Temper: if others may read it by its Fruits, How much more we our ſelves, who both ſee the Fruits, and feel that habitual diſpoſition infuſed into us? Nor is this without its bleſſed Uſe; for by this means we come to have a comfortable evidence both of God's Love to us, and of our Love to God. You ſee now what we mean by this writing of the Law within us.

5. How are we taught of God, ſo as not to need any other kind of teaching comparatively? I anſwer——

1. God teacheth inwardly, In the hidden part thou Pſ. 51. 6. haſt made me know wiſdom, ſaith David; and again, I thank the Lord that gave me counſel, my reins alſo inſtruct Pſ. 16. 17. me in the night ſeaſon. The reins are the moſt inward part of the Body, and the night ſeaſon the moſt retired and private time; both expreſs the intimacy of divine teaching; man may teach the brains, but God only teacheth the reins: the knowledge which man teacheth, is a ſwiming knowledge; but the knowledge which God teacheth, is a ſoaking knowledge. God who commanded light to ſhine out of darkneſs, hath ſhined into our hearts. Mans light may ſhine into the head, but Gods light doth ſhine into the heart: His Chair is in Heaven that teacheth hearts, ſaith Auſtin. Cathedram habet in cœlis qui corda docet. Aug.

2. God teacheth clearly, Elihu offering himſelf inſtead of God to reaſon with Job, he tells him, My Job 33. 3. words ſhall be of the uprightneſs of my heart, and my lips ſhall utter knowledge clearly. If ever the Word come home to an heart, it comes with a convincing clearneſs. So the Apoſtle, Our Goſpel came unto you, not in word only, but in power, and in the Holy Ghoſt, and in 2 Theſ. 1. 5. much full aſſurance. The word hath a treble Emphaſis, aſſurance, full aſſurance, and much full aſſurance; here is clear work.

3. God teacheth experimentally; the ſoul that is taught of God can ſpeak experimeetally of the truth it knows. 2 Tim. 1. 12. I know whom I have believed, ſaith Paul; I have experienced his faithfulneſs and all-ſufficiency, I dare truſt my all with him, I am ſure he will keep it ſafe to that day. Common knowledge reſts in generals, but they that are taught of God, can ſay, As we have heard, ſo we have ſeen, they can go along with every truth, and ſay, It is ſo indeed, I have experienced this and that Word upon my own Heart. In this caſe the Scripture is the Original, and their Heart is the Copy of it, as you have heard; they can read over the Promiſes and Threatnings, and ſay Probatum eſt. David in his Pſalms, and Paul in his Epiſtles ſpeaks their very Hearts, and feels their very temptations, and makes their very objections: They can ſet to their Seal that God is true; John 3. 33. they can ſolemnly declare by their lives and converſations that God is true and faithful in his word and promiſes.

4. God teacheth ſweetly and comfortably: Thou Pſal. 119. 102, 103. haſt taught me, ſaith David, and then it follows, How ſweet are thy words unto my taſte? Yea, ſweeter than the Honey to my Mouth? He rolled the word and promiſes as Sugar under his Tongue, and ſucked from thence more ſweetneſs than Sampſon did from his Honeycomb: Luther ſaid, he would not live in Paradiſe if he muſt live without the Word; but with the Word (ſaid he) I could live in Hell. Cum verbo in inferno facile eſt vivere. Luth. 4. tom. oper. lat. When Chriſt put his hand in by the hole of the door to teach the heart, her bowels were moved, and then her fingers drop upon the handles of the Lock ſweet ſmelling myrrh, Cant. 5. 5. The teachings of Chriſt left ſuch a bleſſing upon the firſt motions of the Spouſes heart, that with the very touch of them ſhe is refreſhed, her fingers drop myrrh, and her bowels are moved as the very monuments of his gracious teachings; So in Cant. 1. 3. Cant 1. 3. Becauſe of the ſavour of thy Ointment, thy Name is as an Ointment poured forth, therefore do the virgins love thee. Chriſt in Ordinances doth as Mary open a Box of Ointments, which diffuſeth a ſpiritual ſavour in Church-Aſſemblies, and this only the ſpiritual Chriſtian feels. Hence the Church is compared to a Garden ſhut up; Cant.4.12 a Fountain ſealed; wicked men are not able to drink of her delicacies or ſmell of her ſweetneſs; a ſpiritual Sermon is a Fountain Sealed up, the ſpiritual adminiſtration of a Sacrament is a Garden Aug. l. 16. Confeſ. c. 40. encloſed: Sometimes, O Lord, thou giveſt me a ſtrange motion, or affection (ſaid Auguſtine) which if it were but perfected in me, I could not imagine what it ſhould be but eternal life. Chriſtians! Theſe are the teachings of God, and in reference to this we ſhall no more teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, ſaying, know the Lord. God's teaching is another kind of teaching than we can have from the hands of men, there is no man in the world can teach thus; and therefore they whom God teacheth, need not any other kind of teaching reſpectively or comparatively.

6. What is the univerſality of this knowledg, They ſhall all know me from the leaſt of them to the greateſt of them, ſaith the Lord; The meaning is, that all that are in the Covenant of grace, ſhall be ſo taught of God, as that in ſome meaſure or other they ſhall every one know God inwardly, clearly, experimentally, ſweetly and ſavingly. I know there are ſeveral degrees of this knowledge; God hath ſeveral Forms in his School: There are fathers for ex- 1 John 2. 12. perience, young men for ſtrength, and babes for the truth and being of Grace: As one Star differeth from another in glory, ſo alſo is the School of Chriſt; But here I am beſet on both ſides. 1. Many are apt to complain, alas they know little of God! ſweet babes conſider, 1. It is free grace, you are Stars; though you are not Stars of the firſt and ſecond magnitude: It is of the Covenant of grace, that God hath let into your ſouls a little glimmering, though not ſo much light as others poſſibly may have in point of holy emulation (as one notes well) we ſhould Caſe Correc. inſtruct. look at degrees of grace, but in point of thankfulneſs and comfort, we ſhould look at the truth, and being of grace. 2. If you know but a little, you may in time know more: God doth not teach all his leſſons at firſt en- Pſal. 119. 130. trance; it is true, The entrance of thy Word giveth Light; but this is as true, that God lets in his Light by degrees; it is not to be deſpiſed if God do but engage the heart in holy deſires and longings after knowledg, ſo that it can ſay Pſal. 19. 20. in ſincerity, My Soul breaketh for the longing that it hath unto thy judgments at all times.

Others on the contrary, ground themſelves ſo learned from this very promiſe, that they exclude 1 John 2. 27. Jer. 31. 34. all teachings of men. The anointing (ſay they) teacheth us all things, and we need not that any man teach us: And they ſhall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, ſaying, Know the Lord, for they ſhall all, &c. I anſwer, the words either relate to the grounds of Religion, and ſo in Goſpel-times Chriſtians need not to be taught in theſe fundamental points; for now all know the Lord, from the leaſt to the greateſt; or elſe theſe words are an Hebraiſm, which deny poſitively, when they intend it only comparatively, or ſecundum quid, as when God and men are compared together, man is vanity, lighter than vanity, and a very nothing: Here is a compariſon of knowledge in Goſpeltimes with the knowledge of Iſrael in thoſe dark times, when God brought them out of the Land of Egypt; then all was dark, and they were fain to teach one another the very principles, the Rudiments of Religion, there was very little effuſion of God's Spirit in thoſe times; but in Goſpel-times (ſaith the Prophet) the Spirit of grace and knowledge ſhall be ſo abundant, that rather God himſelf ſhall be the teacher, than one man ſhall teach another. There ſhall be ſuch exuberancy and ſeas of knowledge under the new Covenant, above the Covenant made with his people when he brought them out of Egypt, that men ſhall not need to teach one another comparatively; for all ſhall know the Lord, who are taught of God from the leaſt to the greateſt; An high way ſhall be there, and it ſhall Iſa. 35. 8. be called the way of holineſs ——— the way-faring men, though fools ſhall not err therein.

7. How is God ſaid to forgive iniquity, and never more to remember Sin?

For the firſt, God is ſaid to forgive iniquity when guilt of ſin is taken away; and for the ſecond, God is ſaid never more to remember Sin, in that the Sinner, after pardon, is never more looked on as a Sinner. Is not this the Covenant? q. d. I will remove thy Sins, and do them away, as if they had never been; I will blot them out of the Book of my Memory; I will obliterate the Writing, that none ſhall be able to read it. But you will ſay, If Sin remain ſtill in the Regenerate, How are they ſo forgiven, as to be remembered no more? Divines tell us of two things in every Sin; there is macula & reatus; the Filth, and the Guilt: This Guilt ſome again diſtinguiſh into the Guilt of Sin, which they call the inward Dignity, and deſert of Damnation; and the Guilt of Puniſhment, which is the actual Ordination of a Sinner unto Damnation. Now in different reſpects we ſay, That Sin remains ſtill in Believers, and Sin doth not remain in Believers: Firſt, if we ſpeak of the Filth of Sin, or of the deſert of Damnation; ſo it remains ſtill: But if we ſpeak of the actual Obligation of a Sinner to Condemnation, ſo it remains not after Pardon; but the Sinner is as free as if he had never ſinned.

But you will ſay, Is not the filth of Sin done away, when Sin is remitted? I anſwer, The filth of Sin is not done away by Remiſſion, but by Sanctification and Renovation; and becauſe in this Life we have not a perfect inherent Holineſs, (Sanctification at beſt being but imperfect, and wrought in us by degrees) therefore during this Life there is ſomething of the filth of Sin, and eſpecially of the effects of original Sin ſticking, and ſtill cleaving to us. But here is our Comfort, and herein lies the ſweet of the promiſe, that when God hath pardoned Sin, he takes away the Guilt, as to Condemnation; He acquits the Sinner of that Obligation; He now looks upon him not as a Sinner, but as a juſt Man; and ſo in this Sence he will forgive, and never more remember his Sin. Ah Chriſtians! Take heed of their Doctrines, who would have Juſtification and Abolition of Sin in its real Eſſence, and Phyſical in-dwelling; let us rather ſay with Scripture, that all juſtified Saints muſt take down their Top-ſail, and go to Heaven halting, and that they carry their Bolts and Fetters of in-dwelling ſin through the Field of Free-Grace, even to the Gates of Glory: Chriſt daily waſhing, and we daily defiling, to the end that grace may be Grace.

I have run through all the manifeſtations of the Covenant of Grace, as we have them diſcovered in the Old Teſtament: And yet, that we may ſee the better how theſe things concern us, I ſhall only propound theſe Two Queries more, and then we have done.

1. Whether is the Covenant of Grace the ſame for Subſtance, in all Ages of the World? We anſwer, Yea: The Fathers before Chriſt had but one Covenant, and we another, but the ſame Covenant of Grace belongs to us both. This appears, in that firſt, they had the ſame promiſe, ſecondly, they had it upon the ſame Grounds.

Lev.26.12 Deut. 33. 20. 1. They had the ſame Promiſe; as, I will be your God, and you ſhall be My people. And Happy art thou, O Iſrael, ſaved by the Lord. And, The Lord is our Iſ. 33. 22. King, and He will ſave us. They had not only the hopes of an Earthly Inheritance in Canaan, (as ſome fondly imagin) but of an Heavenly Inheritance in the Kingdom of God: And to this purpoſe, our Savi- Mat. 8.11. our ſpeaks expreſly; Many ſhall come from the Eaſt and Weſt, and ſhall ſit down with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, in the Kingdom of Heaven.

2. As they had the ſame Promiſe, ſo they had it upon the ſame ground that we have; even by Faith in Chriſt Jeſus: Abraham ſaw My Day, ſaid John 8 56. Chriſt; and, Chriſt is the ſame Yeſterday, and to Day, Heb.8.18. and for Ever. He is the ſame not only in regard of Eſſence, but alſo in regard of the Efficacy of His Office, from the beginning to the end of the World. Act. 15. We believe (ſaid Peter) that through the Grace of the 11. Lord Jeſus Chriſt, we ſhall be ſaved even as they: And, Heb. 4. 2. Unto us was the Goſpel preached (ſaith Paul) as unto them. Some may think they had no Goſpel, but only the Law, before Chriſt: But, What ſay you? Have we not obſerved a thread of the Goſpel, and of the Covenant of Grace, to run through all the Old-Teſtament, from firſt to Laſt? And, How plain 1 Pet.4.6. is the Apoſtle? For this cauſe alſo was the Goſpel preached alſo to them that are Dead. Dead long ſince; for he ſpeaks of them, who lived in the Days of Noah. Nay, the Apoſtle to the Hebrews, give us a Catalogue of Old Teſtament Believers: By Faith, Abel offered up Heb.11.4, unto God a more excellent Sacrifice, them Cain.—— 5,7,8,13. By Faith, Enoch was tranſlated, that he ſhould not ſee Death.—— By Faith, Noah being warned by God, prepared an Arke.—— By Faith, Abraham, when he was called to go into a place which he ſhould after receive for an Inheritance, obeyed, and he went out, not knowing whither he went.—— Theſe all dyed in the Faith not having received the Promiſes, but having ſeen them afar off, and were preſwaded of them, and embraced them Beſides theſe he reckons up the Faith of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and Joſeph, and Moſes, and Rahab, and Gideon, and Barak, and Sampſon, and Jephtha, and David, and Samuel, and of all the Prophets; who through Faith did marvellous things, as it there appears. Surely they had the ſame Doctrine of Grace as we have; it is the very ſame for Subſtance, without any difference. 2. Wherein is the difference then betwixt the Old and New-Teſtament, or betwixt the Old and New Manner of the Diſpenſation of the Covenant of Grace?

They are one for Subſtance; but in regard of the manner of Diſpenſation, and revealing in the ſeveral Times, Ages, States, and Conditions of the Church there is a difference. I ſhall reduce all to theſe Particulars: They are diſtinguiſhed,——

1. In the object: In the Old adminiſtration Chriſt was promiſed; but in the New-Covenant Chriſt is exhibited: It was meet, the promiſe ſhould go before the Goſpel, and be fulfilled in the Goſpel, that ſo great a Good might earneſtly be deſired before it was beſtowed.

2. In the federates: Under the Old Diſpenſation they are compared to an Heir under Age, needing a Guardian, Tutor, or Schoolmaſter; little differing from a Servant: But in the New Teſtament they are compared to an Heir come to ripe Years; ſee Gal. 4. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.

3. In the Manner of their Worſhip: In the Old Teſtament they were held under the Ceremonial Law; and Oh! What an heap of Ceremonies, Rites, Figures, and Shadows did they uſe in their Worſhip? Certainly theſe declared the Infancy and Non-age of the Jews, who being not capable of the high Myſteries of the Goſpel, they were taught by their Eyes, as well as their Ears. Theſe Ceremonies were as Rudiments, and Introductions fitted to the groſs and weak Senſes of that Church, who were to be brought on by little and little, through ſuch Shadows and Figures, to the true Image, and thing ſignified: But in the New-Covenant or Teſtament, our Worſhip is more ſpritiual: Our Saviour hath told us, That as God is a Spirit; John 4.23 24. ſo, They that worſhip Him, muſt worſhip Him in Spirit and Truth. The Hour cometh, and now is (ſaith Chriſt) when the true Worſhipers ſhall worſhip the Father in Spirit, and in Truth; for the Father ſeeketh ſuch to worſhip Him.

4. In the burthen of Ceremonies: Peter calls the Ceremonies of old, A Yoke, which neither our Fathers Acts 15. nor we (ſaith he) were able to bear. And no won- 10. der, if we conſider, 1. The burthen of their coſtly Sacrifices; if any had but touched an unclean Thing, he muſt come and offer a Sacrifice; as ſometimes a Bullock, and ſometimes a Lamb: You that think every thing too much for a Miniſter of Chriſt, if for every Offence you were to offer ſuch Sacrifices now, you would count it an heavy burthen indeed. 2. They had long and tedious Journeys to Jeruſalem; the Land lay more in length than breadth, and Jeruſalem ſtood almoſt at one End of it; and thither Thrice a year all the Males were to Deut. 16. go and appear before God. 16. 3. They were tied to the Obſervation of many Days, the New Moons, and many Ceremonial Sabbaths; and they were reſtrained from many Liberties, as in Meats, and the like: Oh! What Burthens were upon them! But in the New-Covenant, or Teſtament, the Yoke is made more eaſie: We are bound indeed to the Duties of the Moral Law, as well as they, yet a great Yoke is taken off from us; and therefore Chriſt, inviting us to the Goſpel, He gives it out thus; Take my Yoke Mat. 11. upon you, (ſaith He) for My Yoke is eaſie, and My Bur- 29. then light.

5. In the Weakneſs of the Law of Old: The Law then was unable to give Life, to purge the Conſcience, to pacifie God's Wrath; and therefore, ſaith the Apoſtle, There is verily a diſ-annulling of the Heb. 7.18. Commandment going before, for the weakneſs and unprofitableneſs thereof. Hence they are called weak Gal. 4. 9 and beggarly Rudiments; in compariſon of the New-Teſtament, there was then a leſs forcible Influence of the Spirit, accompanying that Diſpenſation of the Covenant: The Spirit was not then given in that large Meaſure as now; Becauſe Chriſt was not then glorified. It appears in theſe Particulars.

1. There was leſs Power of Faith in the Saints, John 7.39. before Chriſt; when the Doctrin of Faith was more fully revealed, then was Faith it ſelf more fully revealed in the hearts and lives of God's People, Before Faith came (ſaith the Apoſtle) we were kept Gal.3. 23. under the Law, ſhut up unto the Faith, which ſhould afterwards be revealed. Surely this implies there was a Time, when there was leſs Faith in God's People; and that was the time of the Law.

2. There was leſs Power of Love in the Saints before Chriſt; according to the meaſure of our Faith, ſo is our Love: The leſs they knew the Loving-kindneſs of God towards them in Chriſt, the leſs they loved. It may be, they were more drawn by the terrors of the Law, than by the promiſes of grace; and therefore they had leſs Love in them.

5. They had a leſs meaſure of Comfort to cary Luk.2.25. them on in all their Troubles. Chriſt exhibited, is called the Conſolation of Iſrael: And therefore the more Chriſt is imparted, the more means of Comfort: Hence the Primitive Saints after Chriſt, are Acts 9.31. ſaid to walk in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghoſt. Certainly the Spirit was poured in leſs plenty on the faithful in the Old Teſtament, becauſe that benefit was reſerved to the times of Chriſt, who was firſt to receive the Spirit above meaſure in his humane Nature, and thence to derive Grace to his Saints.

6. In the darkneſs of that adminiſtration of Old, Chriſt was but ſhadowed out to the Fathers in Types and Figures, and dark Prophecies, but now 2 Cor. 5. 18. we ſee him with open Face. Obſerve the difference in reference to the Perſon of Chriſt, and to the Offices of Chriſt, and to the benefits that come by Chriſt. 1. Concerning the Perſon of Chriſt; it was revealed to them that he ſhould be God, Iſa. 9. Iſa. 9. 6. 6. And that he ſhould be man, Iſa. 9. 6. The ſame verſe ſpeaks of a Child that is born, and of a mighty God. But how he ſhould be God and man in one perſon, it was very darkly revealed. 2. Concerning the Offices of Chriſt; his Mediatorſhip was typed out by Moſes? his Prieſthood was typed out by Melchiſedeck among the Canaanites, and Aaron among the Jews; his Prophetical Office was typed out by Noah, a Preacher of Righteouſneſs; his Kingly Office was typed out by David: But how dark theſe things were unto them, we may gueſs by the Apoſtles who knew not he ſhould die, who dreamed of an earthly Kingdom; and till the Holy Ghoſt came, were ignorant of many things pertaining to the Kingdom of God. 3. Concerning the benefits that come by Chriſt; Juſtification was ſignified by the ſprinkling of Blood, and Sanctification by the water of Purification, Heaven and Glorification by their Land flowing with Oil, Olive, and Honey: Thus the Lord ſhewed the Jews theſe principal Myſteries, not in themſeves but in Types and Shadows, as they were able to ſee them from day to day: But in the new Covenant Chriſt is offered to be ſeen in a fuller view: The Truth, and Subſtance, and body of the things themſelves is now exhibited; Chriſt is clearly revealed without any Type at all to 2 Cor. 1. 30. be our Wiſdom, Righteouſneſs, Sanctification and Redemption.

7. In the number of them that partake of the Covenant; at firſt the Covenant was included in the Families of the Patriarchs, and then within the Confines of Judæa, but now is the partition Wall betwixt Jew and Gentile broken down, and the Covenant of grace is made with all Nations, He is the Rom. 3.29. God of the Gentiles alſo, and not of the Jews only. Chriſtians! Here comes in our happineſs; Oh! How thankful ſhould we be? That our Fathers for many Hundreds and Thouſands of years together ſhould ſit in darkneſs, and that we ſhould partake of this grace! What? we that were Dogs before, ſhould now be ſet at the Childrens Table? The very Jews themſelves hearing of this, are ſaid Acts 11. 18. to glorifie God. When they heard theſe things, they held their peace and glorified God, ſaying, then hath God alſo to the Gentiles granted Repentance unto Life. If they praiſed God for it, how much more ſhould we do it our ſelves? But of that hereafter.

I have now propounded the Object we are to look unto; it is Jeſus, as held forth in a way of Promiſe or Covenant; in that dark time from the Creation, till his firſt coming in the Fleſh: Our next Buſineſs is to direct you in the Art or Myſtery of Grace, how you are to look to Him in this reſpect.

CHAP. II.

Sect. 1. Of knowing Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our Salvation from the Creation until his firſt coming.

LOoking comprehends konwing, conſidering, deſiring, &c. as you have heard; and accordingly that we may practiſe,

1. We muſt know Jeſus carrying on the great work of our Salvation in the beginning, and from the beginning of the World: Come let us learn what he did for us ſo early in the morning of this World: He made it for us, and he made us more eſpecially for his own Glory; but preſently after we were made, we ſinned and marred the Image wherein God made us; this was the ſaddeſt Act that ever was; it was the undoing of man, and (without the mercy of God) the damning of all Souls, both of men and women to all Eternity; and, O my Soul, know this for thy ſelf, thou waſt in the loins of Adam at that ſame time, ſo that what he did, thou did'ſt; thou waſt pertaker of his Sins, and thou waſt to partake with him in his puniſhment: But well may'ſt thou ſay, Bleſſed be God for Jeſus Chriſt; at the very inſtant when all ſhould have been damned, Chriſt intervened; a Covenant of Grace is made with man, and Chriſt is the Foundation, in and through whom we muſt be reconciled unto God: Come ſoul, and ſtudy this Covenant of grace in reference to thy ſelf; had not this been, where hadſt thou been? Nay, where had all the World been at this day? Surely it concerns thee to take notice of this great Tranſaction. After Man had fallen by Sin, Chriſt is promiſed; and that all the Saints might partake of Chriſt, a Covenant is entred; this at the beginning of the World, was more dim, but the nearer to Chriſt's coming in the Fleſh, the more and more clearly it appeared: Howſoever dimly or clearly, thus it pleaſed God in Chriſt to carry on the great work of our Salvation at that time, viz. by a Promiſe of Chriſt, and by a Covenant in Chriſt, and for thy better knowledge of it, ſtudy the Promiſe made to Adam, and Abraham, and Moſes, and David, and Iſrael. Come Soul, ſtudy theſe ſeveral breakings out of the Covenant of grace; it is worth thy pains, it is a Myſtery which hath been hid from Ages, Col. 1.26. and from Generations, but now is made manifeſt to the Saints. Here lies the firſt and moſt firm Foundation of a Chriſtian's comfort; if thou canſt but ſtudy this, and aſſure thy ſelf of thy part in this, thou art bleſſed for ever; O how incomparably ſweet and ſatisfying is it to a ſelf-ſtudying Chriſtian, to know the faithful engagements of the Almighty God through that Son of his Loves, in a Covenant of Grace!

Sect. II. Of Conſidering Jeſus in that Reſpect.

2. WE muſt Conſider Jeſus carrying on the great work of our Salvation in that dark time: it is not enough to ſtudy it and know it, but we muſt ſeriouſly muſe, and meditate, and ponder, and conſider of it, till we bring it to ſome profitable Iſſue: This is the Conſideration I mean, when we hold our thoughts to this or that ſpiritual ſubject, till we perceive ſucceſs, and the work do thrive and proſper in our hands. Now to help us in this,———

1. Conſider Jeſus in the firſt Promiſe made to Gen.3.15. man; It ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel. When all men were under guilt of ſin, and in the power of Satan; and when thou, my Soul, wert in as bad a caſe as any other, then to hear the ſound of theſe glad tidings, then to hear of Jeſus, a Saviour, and Redeemer, ſure this was welcome News. Come, draw the caſe nearer to thy ſelf; thou waſt in Adam's Loins, ſuppoſe thou hadſt been in Adam's ſtead; ſuppoſe thou hadſt heard the Voice
Gen.3.8,9 of the Lord walking in the Garden, ſuppoſe thou hadſt heard him call, Adam, where art thou? Peter, Andrew, Thomas, where art thou? What; Haſt thou eaten of the Tree whereof I commanded thee that thou ſhouldeſt not eat? Why then, appear and come to judgment, the Gen.2.17. Law is irrevocable, In the day that thou eateth thereof thou ſhalt ſurely die; there is nothing to be looked for but death temporal and death ſpiritual, and death eternal; O what a fearful condition is this! No ſooner to come into the world, but preſently to be turned over into Hell; for one day to be Monarch of the World, and of all Creatures in the world, and the very next day to be a ſlave of Satan, and to be bound hand and foot in a darkſome dungeon? for a few hours to live in Eden, to enjoy every tree in the Garden, Pleaſant to the ſight, and good for food, and then to enter into the confines of eternity, and ever, ever, ever, to be tormented with the Devil and his
Gen.3.8. Angels? It is no wonder if Adam hid himſelf from the preſence of the Lord God amongſt the trees of the Garden: O my ſoul, in that caſe thou would'ſt have cried to the Rocks and to the Mountains, fall on me, and hide me
Rev.6.16, 17. from the face of him that ſitteth on the Throne. If God be angry, who may abide it? When the great day of his wrath is come, who ſhall be able to ſtand? And yet deſpair not, cheer up, O my ſoul; for in the very midſt of wrath God is pleaſed to remember Mercy; even now when all the world ſhould have been damned, a Jeſus is proclaimed and promiſed, and he it is that muſt die according to the Commination; for he is our ſurety, and he it is that by Death muſt overcome Death and the Devil; it ſhall bruiſe thy Head; ſaith God to Satan, q. d. Come Satan, thou haſt taken Captive ten thouſands of ſouls; Adam and Eve are now enſnared, and in their Loins all the Men and Women that ever ſhall be from this beginning of the world to the end thereof; now is thy day of triumph, now thou keepeſt Holyday in Hell; but thou ſhalt not carry it thus. I foreſaw from all Eternity what thou haſt done, I knew thou wouldſt dig a hole through the comely and beautiful frame of the Creation; but I have decreed of old a Counter-work; out of the Seed of the woman ſhall ſpring a Branch, and he ſhall bruiſe thy Head, he ſhall break thy Power, he ſhall tread thy Dominion under foot, he ſhall lead thy Captivity Captive, he ſhall take away ſin, he ſhall point out to Men and Angels the glory of Heaven, and a new world of free grace. In this promiſe, O my Soul, is folded and wrapped up thy hope, thy Heaven, thy Salvation; and therefore conſider of it, turn it upſide down, look on all ſides of it, view it over and over; there is a Jeſus in it, it is a field that contains in the bowels of it a precious treaſure, there is in it a Saviour, a Redeemer, a Deliverer from ſin, death and hell: Are not theſe dainties to feed upon: Are not theſe rareties to dwell on in our meditations?

2. Conſider Jeſus in that next promiſe made to Abraham: I will eſtabliſh thy Covenant between me Gen.17.7. and thee, and thy Seed after thee in their generations for an everlaſting Covenant, to be a God to thee and to thy Seed after thee: In reſpect of this Covenant Abra- Rom. 4.
ham is called the Father of the Faithful, and they which 11.

And O my ſoul, if thou art in Covenant with God, ſurely thou doſt by Faith draw it through Abraham: to whom this promiſe was made: For if ye be Chriſt's then Gal.3.29.
are ye Abraham's Seed, and Heirs according to the promiſe: Conſider, what a Mercy is this, that God ſhould enter into a Covenant with thee in the loins of Abraham? God made a promiſe of Chriſt, and incluſively a Covenant of Grace in his comforting Adam; but he makes a Covenant expreſly under the name of Covenant, with Abraham and his Seed. O Muſe, and be amazed! What? That the great and glorious God of Heaven and Earth ſhould be willing to make himſelf a Debtor to us? O my Soul think of it ſeriouſly, he is in Heaven, and thou art on Earth, he is the Creator, and thou art his Creature: Ah what art thou! Or what is thy Fathers Houſe that thou ſhouldſt be raiſed up hitherto! The very Covenant is a wonder; as it relates to God and us; what is it but a compact, an agreement, a tying, a binding of God and us; When Jehoſhaphat and Ahab were in Covenant, ſee how Jehoſhaphat expreſ-

us. If once he gives us the Covenant, then his ſtrength is our ſtrength, his power is our power, his armies are our armies, his attributes are our attributes, we have intereſt in all; there is an offenſive and a defenſive Language (as I may ſay) betwixt God and us; and if we put him in mind of it in all our ſtraits, he cannot deny us. As it was with the Nations allyed to Rome, if they fought at any time, the Romans were bound in honour to defend them; and they did it with as much diligence as they defended their own City of Rome; ſo it is with the People allyed to God, he is bound in honour to defend his People, and he will do it if they implore his aid; how elſe, is it impoſſible God ſhould break his Covenant? will he not ſtir up himſelf to ſcatter his, and our ſpiritual enemies? Certainly he will. Thus runs the tenour of his Covenant, I will be a God to thee and to thy Seed after thee. This is the general Promiſe; I may call it the Mother-Promiſe, that carries all other Promiſes in its Womb, and we find a Jeſus in this Promiſe, conſider that it is God in Chriſt, that is held forth to us in this Phraſe, I will be as a God to thee: O ſweet! Here is the greateſt Promiſe that ever was made: Chriſt God is more then Grace, Pardon, Holineſs, Heaven, as the Husband is more excellent then the Marriage-Robe, Bracelets, Rings; the Well and Fountain of Life is of more excellency than the ſtreams; Chriſt Jeſus the objective happineſs, is far above a created and formal Beatitude which iſſueth from him. O my Soul is not this worthy of thy inmoſt conſideration? But of this more in the next.

3. Conſider Jeſus in that promiſe made to Moſes and the Iſraelites, I am the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the Land of Egypt, out of the Houſe of Bondage. Much hath been ſaid to this Promiſe before as matter of thy conſideration; but to contract it, conſider in the Promiſe the ſufficiency and propriety ; 1. Here is ſufficiency: It is a promiſe of infinite worth, an hid treaſure, a rich poſſeſſion, an overflowing bleſſing which none can rightly value; it is no leſs then the great, and mighty, and infinite God, if we had a promiſe of an hundred worlds, or of ten heavens, this is more than all; heaven indeed is beautiful, but God is more beautiful; for he is the God of heaven: And hence it is that the Saints in heaven are not ſatisfied without their God; it is a ſweet expreſſion of Benard, As whatſoever we give unto thee, Lord, unleſs we give our ſelves, cannot ſatisfie thee; ſo whatſoever thou giveſt unto us, Lord, unleſs thou giveſt thy ſelf, it cannot ſatisfie us: And hence it is, that as God doth make the Saints his Portion, ſo God is the Portion and inheritance of his Saints. Conſider the greatneſs, the goodneſs, the all-ſufficiency of this promiſe, I Exod.33. 15. am the Lord thy God! No queſtion but Moſes had many other rich promiſes from God, but he could not be ſatisfied without God himſelf: If thy preſence be not with us, bring us not hence. And no wonder, for without God all things are nothing; but in the want of all other things, God himſelf is inſtead of all: It is God's alone Prerogative to be an univerſal good. The things of this world can but help in this or that particular thing: As bread againſt hunger, Drink againſt thirſt, Cloths againſt cold and nakedneſs, Houſe againſt wind and weather, Riches againſt poverty, Phyſick againſt ſickneſs, Friends againſt ſolitarineſs: But God is an all-ſufficient good: he is all in all both to the inner and outward man. Are we guilty of Sin? There is mercy in God to pardon us. Are we full of infirmities? There is Grace in God to heal us. Are we ſtrong in Corruptions? There is power in God to ſubdue them in us. Are we diſquieted in Conſcience? There is that Spirit in God that is the Comforter, that can fill us with Joy unſpeakable and glorious: And for our outward man all our welfare is laid up in God, he is the God of our Life, Pſal. 42. 8. he is the ſtrength of our Life, Pſal. 27. 1. he is a quickning Spirit, 1 Cor. 15. 45. Which though it be in regard of the inner man, yet there it is ſpoken of the inward man, which the Lord ſhall quicken after Acts 17. 28. death, and doth now keep alive by his mighty power; for in him we live, and move, and have our being.

O my Soul, that thou wouldeſt but ruminate, and meditate, and conſider this promiſe in all thy wants and diſcontents: When means fail, and the ſtreams run no more, O that thou wouldeſt then go to the Fountain, where the waters Gen.41. 16. run ſweeter, and more ſure: For as Joſeph ſaid to Pharaoh it is not in me, God ſhall give Pharaoh an anſwer of peace: So may Silver and gold, and ſuch things ſay to thee, It is not in us; God ſhall give 2 Cor.6. 10. enough out of himſelf: Have God, and have all: Want God, and there is no content in the enjoyment of all: It was the Apoſtles caſe, as having nothing, and yet poſſeſſing all things: ſurely he lived to God and enjoyed God and he was an all-ſufficient good unto him: God may be enjoyed in any condition, in the meaneſt, as well as the greateſt, in the pooreſt as well as the richeſt: God will go into a wilderneſs, into a Priſon with his people, and there he will make up all that they are cut ſhort of. Thy diſcontents therefore ariſe not from the want of outward means, but from want of inward fellowſhip with God: And if thou doſt not find a ſufficiency, it is becauſe thou doſt not enjoy him who is thy all-ſufficient good: O ſtir up Faith, and conſider the Covenant, think ſeriouſly on this promiſe, I am God all-ſufficient: I am the Lord thy God.

2. Here is the propriety of Saints, the Lord thy God. O what is this that God is thy God? Heaven and Earth, Angels and Men may ſtand aſtoniſhed at it: What, that the great and mighty God, God Almighty, and God all-ſufficient ſhould be called thy God! It is obſervable what the Apoſtle ſpeaks, God is not aſhamed to be called their God: Would Heb.11. 16. not a Prince be aſhamed to take a Beggar, a Runagate, a baſe and adulterous Woman to be his Wife? But we are worſe than ſo, and God is better than ſo; ſin hath made us worſe than the worſt of Women, and God is better, holier, higher than the beſt of Princes: And yet God is not aſhamed to own us, nor aſhamed that we own him as our own, I am thy God: It is as if the Lord ſhould ſay, uſe me, and all my Power, Grace, Mercy, Kindneſs, as thine own: Go through all my attributes; conſider my Almighty Power, conſider my Wiſdom, Council, Underſtanding, conſider my Goodneſs, Truth, Faithfulneſs: Conſider my Patience, Long-ſuffering, Forbearance, all theſe are thine: As thus, My Power is thine, to work all thy works for thee, and in thee, to make paſſage for thee in all thy ſtraits, to deliver thee out of ſix troubles, and out of ſeven; my Wiſdom is thine, to counſel thee in any difficult caſes, to inſtruct thee in things that be obſcure, to reveal to thee the myſteries of Grace, and the wonderful things contained in my Law: My Juſtice is thine, to deliver thee when thou art oppreſſed, to defend thee in thy Innocency, and to vindicate thee from the injuries of men: What needs more? O my Soul, think of theſe, and all other Gods Attributes: ſay in thy ſelf all theſe are mine: Nay more, think of God in Chriſt (for otherwiſe what haſt thou to do with God in a Covenant of Grace?) and ſay in thy heart Jeſus Chriſt is mine, my Saviour, my Redeemer, my Head, my elder Brother: His doings are mine, and his ſufferings are mine, his Life and his Death; his Reſurrection and Aſcenſion, his Seſſion and Interceſſion, all are mine: Nay more, if Chriſt be mine, why then all good things are mine in Chriſt; I ſay in Chriſt, for they come not immediately, but through the hands of a ſweet Redeemer; and though he be a man who redeemed us, yet becauſe he is God as well as Man, there is more of God and Heaven, and free-love in all our good things, than if we received them immediately from God: Ravens have their food, and Devils have their being from God by creature-right; but we have all we have from God in Chriſt by Covenant-right: This ſurely, this very promiſe is the main and principal promiſe of the Covenant, it is the very Subſtance, Soul and Life of all: O then how careful ſhouldſt thou be to improve the ſtrength of thy mind, thoughts, and affections on this only ſubject?

4. Conſider Jeſus in that promiſe made to David, He hath made with me an everlaſting Covenant, orde- 1 Sam.23. 5. red in all things, and ſure. 1. An everlaſting Covenant: Conſider in this the etenarl efficacy, and not in the outward adminiſtration? It is Chriſt that hath built and prepared a Kingdom, that ſhall never fade, a ſpiritual and an heavenly Kingdom which ſhall never ceaſe: And as he hath prepared it, ſo if thou believeſt, he hath entred into a Covenant with thy ſoul to beſtow it on thee; it is an everlaſting Covenant, and he will give thee everlaſting life.

2. It is ordered in all things: The Covenant of grace is ſo marſhalled and ordered, that it ſtands at beſt advantage to receive and repel all thy objections. Many and many an objection haſt thou raiſed; how often have ſuch thoughts been in thee? Oh! I am miſerable, I ſhall not live but die, my ſins will damn me I am loſt for ever! And again,

If God hath made with me a Covenant, why then have I ſomething to do on my part? for this is the nature of the Covenant, to bind on both parts; but alas I have failed, I can do nothing, I can as well diſſolve a Rock as make my heart of ſtone a heart of fleſh, I can as well reach heaven with a finger as lay hold on Chriſt by the hand of Faith! Have not ſuch arguings as theſe been many and many a time in thy heart? O conſider how the Covenant is ordered and marſhalled in reſpect of the Author of it, of the Perſons intereſted in it, of the parts of which it conſiſts, of the end and aim to which it refers: And in ſome of theſe, if not in all of theſe, thou wilt find thy Objections anſwered, removed, routed. 3. It is ſure: God is not faſt and looſe in his Covenant? Heaven and Earth ſhall paſs away, before one jot or tittle of his Word ſhall fail: Conſider O my Soul, he both can and will perform his Word; his Power, his Love, his Faithfulneſs, his Conſtancy, all ſtand engaged. What ſweet matter is here for a Soul to dwell upon? What needs it go out to other objects, whilſt it may find enough here? But eſpecially what needs it to beſtow it ſelf upon vain things? O that ſo much precious ſand of our thoughts ſhould run out after Sin, and ſo little after grace, or after this Covenant of grace!

5. Conſider Jeſus in that new Covenant or Promiſe which God made with Iſrael and Judah, I will put my Law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts, and I will be their God and they ſhall be my People; and they ſhall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, ſaying, Know the Lord; for they ſhall all know me from the leaſt of them to the greateſt of them, ſaith the Lord, for I will forgive their Iniquity, and I will remember their Sins no more. Jer. 31. 33, 34. Oh what an error is it, that there is no inherent righteouſneſs in the Saints, and there is no grace in the ſoul of a believer, but only in Chriſt! Is not this the ordinary Scripture phraſe? I will put my Spirit within you: Ezek. 36. 27. And the water that I ſhall give you, ſhall be in you a Well of water ſpringing up into everlaſting Life: John. 4. 14. And the anointing which you have received of him, abideth in you: 1 John. 2. 27. And Chriſt in you the hope of glory. Col. 1. 27. Obſerve how the ſpirit of the living Creatures was in the Wheels, Ezek. 1. 20. ſo that when the Spirit went, they went, and when the Spirit was lifted up, they were lifted up; even ſo is the Spirit of Chriſt, acting, and guiding, and framing and diſpoſing them to move and walk according to his Laws. The Kingdom of Heaven is within you, ſaith Chriſt: Luk. 17. 21. And I delight to do thy Will, O God, (ſaith David) yea thy Law is within my heart. Pſal. 46. 8. O my Soul, if thou art in Covenant with God, beſides the in-dwelling of the Spirit, there is a certain ſpiritual Power or Principle of Grace, which Chriſt by his Spirit hath put into thy heart, enabling thee in ſome meaſure to move thy ſelf towards God. And this Principle is ſometimes called a new Life, Rom. 6. 4. Sometimes a Living with Chriſt, Rom. 6. 8. Sometimes a being alive to God, Rom. 6. 11. Sometimes a revealing of his ſon in man, Gal. 1. 15. And ſometimes a putting of the Law into our inward parts, and a writing of the Law within the heart, Jer. 31. 33. O conſider of this inward Principle, it is an excellent ſubject, worthy of thy conſideration!

2. I will be their God, and they ſhall be my people: Conſider God eſſentially, and perſonally, God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghoſt, God in himſelf and God in his Creatures: This very promiſe turns over heaven, and earth, and ſea, and land, and bread, and cloths, and ſleep, and the world, and life, and death, into free grace. No wonder if God ſet this promiſe in the midſt of the Covenant, as the heart in the midſt of the Body, to communicate life to all the reſt; this promiſe hath an influence into all other promiſes; it is the great promiſe of the new Covenant, it is as great as God is, though the heavens, and heaven of heavens be not able to contain him: Yet this promiſe contains him; God ſhuts up himſelf (as it were) in it. I will be their God. 2. They ſhall be my People (i. e.) They ſhall be to me a peculiar People, Tit. 2. 14. The word hath this Emphaſis in it, that God looks upon all other things as accidents in compariſon, and his ſubſtance is his People; they are his very Portion: For the Lord's Portion is his People, Jacob is the Lot of his Inheritance. Deu. 32. 9. They are his treaſure, his peculiar treaſure: His peculiar treaſure above all People: If ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my Covenant, then ſhall ye be a peculiar treaſure unto me, and above all people; for all the earth is mine: Exod. 19. 5. Obſerve O my ſoul, all the earth is mine, q. d. All people is my people; but I have a ſpecial intereſt in my covenanted people, they are only my portion, my peculiar treaſure. Bleſſed be Egypt my People, Aſſyria the work of my hands, and Iſrael mine Inheritance. I have made all People; Egypt and Aſſyria, and all the world is mine, but only Iſrael is my Inheritance: The Saints are thoſe that God ſatisfies himſelf in; the Saints are thoſe that God hath ſet his heart upon; they are children of the high God, they are the Spouſe that are Married to the Lamb, they are nearer God in ſome reſpects than the very Angels themſelves, for the Angels are not in a myſtical union ſo married to Chriſt as God's People are. O the happineſs of Saints! I will be their God and they ſhall be my People. Iſa. 19. 28.

3. They ſhall teach no more every man his Neighbour, and every man his Brother, ſaying, Know the Lord; for they ſhall all know me from the leaſt of them to the greateſt of them, ſaith the Lord. Conſider of this! O poor Soul, thou complaineſt many time of thy weakneſs, thou knoweſt little or nothing: Why, ſee here a Glorious promiſe; if thou art but in Covenant with God, thou ſhalt be taught of God, and then thou ſhalt know God far more clearly than the Jews of old; he will open to thee all his treaſures of wiſdom and knowledge, he will beſtow on thee a greater meaſure of his Spirit, ſo that out of thy belly ſhall flow Rivers of Living waters. Joh. 7. 38. We ſay a good Tutor may teach more in a day than another in a week, in a month; now the promiſe runs thus, that all thy Children ſhall be taught of God; Iſa. 54. 13. not that private inſtruction, or publick Miniſtry muſt be excluded, we know theſe are appointed under the New Teſtament, and are ſubordinate to the Spirit's teaching; but that the teachings of God do far ſurpaſs the teachings of men, and therefore the knowledge of God under the New Teſtament ſhall far ſurpaſs that under the old: Herein appears the excellency of Chriſt's prophetical Office, He is ſuch a Prophet as enlightens every man within, that comes into the World: John 19. 33. He is ſuch a Prophet as baptizeth with the Holy Ghoſt, and with Fire: He is ſuch a Prophet as makes men's hearts to burn within them, when he ſpeaks unto them: He is ſuch a Prophet as bids his Miniſter, Go, teach all Nations, and I will be with you; Luk. 24. 32. and I will make you able Miniſters, not of the Letter, but of the Spirit: Mat. 28. 19, 20. He is ſuch a Prophet as teacheth inwardly, clearly, experimentally, and ſweetly: No man in the world can ſay this, or do this, but Jeſus Chriſt, the great Prophet of the Church, whom God hath raiſed up like unto Moſes, or far above Moſes; Oh! my Soul conſider if thou art thus taught of God.

4. I will forgive their Iniquity, and I will remember their Sins no more. Conſider of this! Bleſſed are they whoſe Iniquities are forgiven, and whoſe Sins are covered. Rom. 4. 7. Conſider O my ſoul, ſuppoſe thy caſe and thy condition thus: As thou liveſt under under Laws of men, ſo for the tranſgreſſion of thoſe Laws thou art called to account; the Judge weighs, and gives an impartial and juſt judgment, he dooms thee to the Axe, or Rack, or Wheel; and becauſe of the aggravation of thy Crime, he commands thee to be tortured leiſurely, that Bones, Sinews, Lights, Joints might be pained, for twenty, thirty, forty, fifty years; that ſo much of thy fleſh ſhould be cut off every day; that ſuch and ſuch a Bone ſhould be broken, ſuch and ſuch a day; and that by art the fleſh ſhould be reſtored, and the Bone cured again; that for ſo many years as is ſaid, thou mighteſt be kept every day dying, and yet never die; that all this while thou muſt have no Sleep, nor Eaſe, nor Food, nor Cloathing convenient for thee; that Whips of Iron, Laſhes and Scourges of Scorpions, that Racks, Wheels, Cauldrons full of melted Lead, ſhould be prepared inſtruments of thy continual, horrible, terrible Torments; in this caſe; ſuppoſe a mighty Prince, by an Act of free and ſpecial Grace, ſhould deliver thee from this Pain and Torture, and not only ſo, but ſhould give thee a Life in perfect health, ſhould put thee into a Paradiſe of Pleaſures, where all the honour, acclamations, love, and ſervice, of a world of Men and Angels ſhould a-wait thee, and where thou ſhouldeſt be elevated to the top of all imaginable Happineſs, above Solomon in the higheſt Royalty, or Adam in his firſt Innocency; were not this mercy? Wouldeſt thou not think it the higheſt Act of Grace and Love, that any creature could extend to his fellow-creature? And yet O my Soul, all this is nothing but a ſhadow of grace in compariſon of the love and rich grace of God in Chriſt in the juſtification of a ſinner. If thou haſt a right to this promiſe, I will forgive thy Iniquity, and I will remember thy ſin no more. Thou art delivered from eternal Death, and thou art entituled to an eternal Kingdom. O know thy bleſſedneſs aright! Conſider how infinitely thou art engaged to God, and Chriſt, and mercy, and free-grace! This promiſe ſounds forth nothing but grace and bleſſing; grace from God, and bleſſing on us; it is grace, becauſe nothing but grace and mercy can forgive: It is grace, becauſe God, if he will, hath power in his hand to Revenge; he doth not paſs by ſin as men do offences, when they diſſemble forgiveneſs; they may forgive, becauſe they have not power to avenge: It is otherwiſe with God; Deut. 32. 35. To me belongs Vengeance and Recompence, ſaith God: He is able to deſtroy, and yet he chuſeth to forgive; this is Exod. 36. 4. his Name, ſtrong and gracious.

O my Soul thou art apt to complain what? Will the Lord forgive my Sins? What reaſon hath God to look on me, to pardon me, to pluck me as a fire-brand out of the Fire of Hell? Why ſhould God forgive me? But now conſider, (if thy heart be humbled)——the Lord will do it.——

1. Becauſe he delighteth in Mercy; it is a pleaſure Micah. 7. 18. to God to forgive Sins: Never did we take more pleaſure, nor ſo much pleaſure in acting and committing of ſin, as he doth in the pardoning of ſin; he is the Father of Mercies, 2 Cor. 1. 3. he delights in mercy as a Father in his Children, it doth him good to ſee the Fruits of his own mercy, in taking away the ſins of his own people.

2. Becauſe it is his purpoſe which he hath purpoſed within himſelf from all Eternity; this was the great deſign of God (as you have heard) to make his grace glorious in thoſe whom he intends to ſave; he will have the praiſe of the glory of his Grace: Eph. 1. 6. He will not loſe his glory; 2 Theſ. 1. 10. he will be admired in his Saints; he will make the World to wonder, when it ſhall be known what ſin hath been committed by them, and pardoned by him. And hence it is that God's people are called Veſſels of Mercy, that he might make known the Riches of his Glory on the Veſſels of Mercy: For, as Veſſels are or may be filled up to Rom. 9. 23. the brims, ſo the Veſſels of Mercy ſhall be filled with Mercy, up to the brim, that the Riches of his Glory in the pardon of Sin, may be ſeen and known to the wonder of all the world.

3. Becauſe it is his Nature and Inclination to pardon Sin: This appears, 1. In the proclaiming of his Name, the Lord, the Lord, Merciful, and Gracious, Long-ſuffering, abundant in Goodneſs and Truth, keeping Mercy for Thouſands, forgiving Iniquity, and Exod. 34. 6. Tranſgreſſion, and Sin.

2. In his gracious Invitations, Come unto me, ſaith Mat. 11. 28. Chriſt, if ſin burden you, I will eaſe you. 3. In his patience and waiting for Repentance; he waits to this very end that he might be gracious, and that he Iſa. 30. 18. may have mercy: for the Lord is a God of judgment.

4. Becauſe it is his promiſe to pardon ſin; I, even I, am he that blots out thy tranſgreſſions for my own ſake, Iſa. 43. 25. and will not remember thy ſins. This promiſe of Pardon is one of the great bleſſings of the Covenant of Grace, you hear the words in this very expreſſure of it, I will forgive their Iniquity, and I will re- Jer. 31. 34. member their ſins no more.

Now come, conſider O my ſoul, of every particular in this gracious Covenant, and O be ſerious in thy Conſideration; ſurely there is too much expence of thy ſpirit upon vain, and tranſitory, and worldly things; alas, alas, thou haſt but a ſhort time to live; and the ſtrength of thy mind, that I call for, it is the moſt precious thing thou haſt; O then let the buſineſs and activeneſs of thy mind, let thy inmoſt thoughts and deep affections be acted and exerciſed on this Subject; be careful that none of theſe waters run beſides the Mill. If God and Jeſus, and all thy good be included here, why ſhould not thy whole ſoul be intent on this? Why ſhouldeſt thou ſpend it on the Creature; why ſhouldeſt thou be ſo ſubject to carnal griefs and fears? Surely all theſe are fitter to be fixed on God in Chriſt, on Jeſus in a Covenant of Grace.

Sect. 3. Of Deſiring Jeſus in that reſpect.

3. WE muſt deſire after Jeſus, carrying on the great work of our Salvation in a way of Covenant before his coming in the fleſh. It is not enough to know and conſider, but we muſt deſire. Thus is the order of God's work, no ſooner hath his Spirit clearly revealed the goodneſs of the Promiſe that we come to know, but the ſoul conſiders of it, turns it upſide down, views it in all its excellencies, weighs it in the balance of its beſt and deepeſt meditation. This done, the Affections begin to ſtir, and the ſoul begins thus to reaſon; O happy I, that I ſee the goodneſs of this gracious Promiſe; but miſerable I, if I come to ſee this, and never have a ſhare in it. O why not I Lord? Why not my Sins Pardoned? Why not my Corruptions ſubdued? Why not the Law written in my heart, and put into my inward parts? Why may not I ſay, my Lord and my God? Or I am my Beloveds, and my Beloved is mine? Why not this Covenant eſtabliſhed between God and me? Now my Soul thirſts after this as a thirſty Land, my affections hunger after Jeſus in a Covenant of Grace: Oh! I would fain be in Covenant with God; for this is all my Salvation and all my deſire, 2 Sam. 23. 5.——————But here is an Objection.——

Object. The Object of this deſire is apprehended as abſent and diſtant; we do not covet thoſe things that we do enjoy; if they are preſent, we rather reſt in them, than move toward them, or deſire after them; how then ſhould David or any ſoul already in a Covenant of grace deſire after the Covenant; what is this? 2 Sam. 23. 5. He hath made with me an everlaſting Covenant, ordered in all things, and ſure, for this is all my Salvation and all my Deſire.

Anſw. It is true, the Object of deſire, qua tale, is ſomething abſent, yet not always abſent in the whole, but in the parts and degrees of it; the very preſence of a good thing, doth in ſome ſort quicken the deſires toward the ſame thing, ſo far forth as it is capable of improvements or augmentation: As we ſee in external Riches of the Body, none deſire them more eagerly than thoſe that poſſeſs them; and the more gracious the Soul is, the more is the heart enlarged in the appetition of a greater meaſure of Grace; as the putting in of ſome water into a Pump, doth draw forth more: No man is ſo importunate in praying, Lord help my unbelief, as he that can ſay, Lord, I believe: Things may be deſired in order to improvement and further degrees of them. Again, things preſent may be the Object of our deſires unto continuance; as he that delighteth in a good thing that he hath, he deſireth the continuance of that delight; ſo the ſoul of a man having a reach as far as immortality, it may juſtly deſire as well the perpetuity, as the preſence of thoſe good things it enjoyeth.——

Come then, O my ſoul, and whet on thy deſires in every of theſe reſpects; as, 1. Deſire after thy intereſt in the Covenant. 2. Deſire after thy improvement of the Covenant. 3. Deſire after the continuance of thy Covenant ſtate. 4. Deſire after Jeſus the great buſineſs, or the all in all in a Covenant of Grace.

1. Deſire after thy intereſt in the Covenant; O ſay in thy ſelf, it is thus? Is the Lord willing to re- Prov. 1. 22, 23. ceive me to his Grace? Was that his voice in the ſtreets, how long ye ſimple ones, will ye love ſimplicity? Turn ye at my reproof, behold I will pour out my Spirit upon you? Iſa. 55. 1, 3. Was that his Proclamation, Ho, every one that thirſteth, come ye to the waters, encline your ear and come unto me, ——and I will make an everlaſting Covenant with you, even the ſure mercies of David; And are theſe the pro- Jer. 31. 33. miſes offered in the Covenant, I will put my Law into their inward parts, and I will write it in your hearts, and Deut. 33. 29. I will be your God, and ye ſhall be my People. But ah! what can I ſay; no ſin like unto my ſin, no miſery like unto my miſery; alas, I am an alien unto God, I am ſeparated from his People, I am out of the Covenant; like a poor Prodigal, I die for hunger, whileſt thoſe that are in my Father's houſe have bread enough: Oh! that I were in their condition! Never did David long more for the waters of the Well of Bethlehem, than my Soul now touched with the ſenſe of Sin, doth deſire to be at peace with God, and in Covenant with God; O I thirſt, I pant, I gaſp after him, I long for communion, and Peace Iſa. 26. 9. with him; with my ſoul do I deſire thee in the night, yea, with my Spirit within me do I ſeek thee early.

2. Deſire after the Improvement of the Covenant; it may be God hath given thee an intereſt in it, but alas thy hold is ſo weak that thou ſcarce knoweſt the meaning of it; the Lord may anſwer, but yet he ſpeaks darkly, as ſometimes he ſpake to John 8. 11. the woman, go thy way and ſin no more; it is a middle kind of expreſſion, neither aſſuring that her Sin was pardoned, nor yet putting her out of hope but it might be pardoned; ſo it may be God hath given thee ſome little eaſe, but he hath not ſpoken full peace; go on then and deſire more and more after confirmation: Say in thine heart, O Lord thou haſt begun to ſhew grace unto thy Servant, but oh! Manifeſt to me all thy goodneſs, thou haſt given me a drop, and I feel it ſo ſweet, that now I thirſt, and long to enjoy the Fountain; thou haſt given me a kiſs of thy mouth, and now I pant to be united to thee in a more perfect and Rom. 8. 23. conſummate marriage; thou haſt given me a taſte, but my appetite and deſire is not thereby diminiſhed, but enlarged; and good reaſon, for what are theſe drops, and Epheſ. 1. 14. taſts, but only the firſt fruits of the Spirit? and earneſts of the ſpirit. Oh! Then what are thoſe harveſts, of Joy? What are thoſe treaſures of wiſdom, and free grace hid in God? I have indeed beheld a feaſt of fat things, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees, of wines on the lees well refined; but O what a Famine is yet in my Spirit! O Lord I have longed for thy Salvation, I am ready to ſwoon for further union, and clearer manifeſtation of my ſhare and intereſt in this Covenant of grace, come Lord Jeſus, come quickly.

3. Deſire after continuance of the Covenant-ſtate, Many a ſweet ſoul cannot deny but that the Lord hath ſhewed mercy on him, but he fears that he ſhall not hold out: He feels within ſuch a Power of corruption, ſuch ſtrong temptations, ſo many luſts, that now he doubts, O what will become of my poor Soul? What will be the iſſue of this woful work? Why come now and deſire after perſeverance: When Peter was raviſhed on the mount, it is good be- Mat. 17. 4. ing here (ſays he) let us build three Tabernacles; his deſire was to have continued there for ever; and it Luk. 22. 3 was the Prayer of Chriſt in Peter's behalf, I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not; what was this Prayer but Chriſt's vehement deſire of Peter's continuing in the Faith? Shall Chriſt deſire, and wilt not thou deſire after thy own perfection? O come with theſe Pantings, and Breathings after God; put forth thy deſires in theſe or the like expreſſions, Hoſea 2. 19. O Lord thou haſt ſaid I will betroth thee unto me for ever; and what means this but that the conjugal love of Chriſt with a gracious ſoul ſhall never be broken? What means this but that the bond of union in a believer to Chriſt is faſtened upon God, and the ſpirit of God holds the other end of it, and ſo it can never be broken? 2. O Lord thou haſt diſcovered in thy Word, that this union is in 2 Tim. 2. 19. the Father, who hath laid a ſure foundation, the foundation of God ſtandeth ſure, having this ſeal, the Lord knoweth them that are his: And that this union is in the Son, who loves his to the end: And that this union is in John 13. 1. the ſpirit who abides in the elect for ever. 3. Thou haſt diſcovered, that the mountains ſhall depart, and the hills be removed, but my kindneſs ſhall not depart from thee, Iſa. 54. 10. neither ſhall the Covenant of my peace be removed, ſaith the Lord, that hath mercy on thee. 4. Thou haſt ſaid that the Saints ſhall be kept by the Power of God. q. d. 1 Pet. 1. 5. The ſpecial Power I mean to put forth in this world, it is to uphold the ſpirits of my Saints; the ſpecial work I have in the world, to exerciſe my power about, it is to keep Chriſt and the Saints together; it is through the power of God that heaven and earth is kept up, but if God muſt withdraw his Power from the one of theſe, ſooner ſhould heaven and earth fall in pieces, than God would not uphold one gracious ſoul that hath Union with his Son Jeſus Chriſt. And if theſe be thy ſayings, why then Lord I deſire the accompliſhment; O fulfil what thou haſt ſaid; it would break my heart if ever the Covenant ſhould be broken betwixt me and thee: My deſire is towards thee, and the more I enjoy thee, the more and more I deſire and pant after thee; my deſires are like thy ſelf, infinite, eternal, everlaſting deſires.

4. Deſire after Jeſus, the great buſineſs, or the all in all in a Covenant of Grace: The moſt proper object of deſire, eſpecially to man fallen, is Jeſus Chriſt: Hence it is that a poor ſinner under the ſenſe of ſin, cries out with the vehemency of deſire, Ruther's trial of Faith. Chriſt, and none but Chriſt ; give me Chriſt or I die, I am undone, I am loſt for ever. But what is Chriſt or Jeſus to a Covenant of grace? I anſwer, he is the great buſineſs, he is the all in all. Chriſt hath at leaſt a Six-fold relation to the Covenant of grace. 1. As he is more than a creature, he is the Covenant himſelf. 2. As he deals betwixt parties, he is the meſſenger of the Covenant. 3. As he ſaw, and heard, and teſtifieth all, he is the witneſs of the Covenant. 4. As he undertaketh for the parties at variance, he is the ſurety of the Covenant. 5. As he ſtandeth between the contrary parties, he is the Mediator of the Covenant. 6. As he ſignifieth the Covenant, and cloſeth all the Articles, he is the Teſtator of the Covenant. Oh! Here is the abundance of fuel for thy deſire to work upon. 1. Conſider the fuel, and then ſet on the flame thy deſire.

1. Chriſt is the Covenant it ſelf. I gave thee for a Iſa. 42. 6. Covenant of the People, for a light of the gentiles. And Iſa. 41. 9. I will preſerve thee, and give thee for a Covenant of the People. Chriſt, God and Man, is all the Covenant: 1. Fundamentally, he is the original of the Covenant; the Covenant of grace takes its being and beginning from Chriſt; he is the Covenant-maker, Undertaker, Manager, Diſpatcher, he doth every thing in the Covenant; 2. Materially, the very ſubſtance of the Covenant ſtands in this, I will be their God, and they ſhall be my People; now Chriſt he is both theſe in himſelf; he is God unto his People and he is the people repreſentatively unto God, and before God. 3. Equivalently; many branches or fruits of the Covenant are to be fulfilled to believers in their ſeaſon, but as ſoon as ever they are Juſtified, Chriſt is ſaid to be the Covenant, as a preſent pawn or earneſt delivered into the hands of a man at the very inſtant of his juſtification; and this pawn is of equal value and worth with the whole Covenant when it is fulfilled to the uttermoſt. Thus Chriſt in every one of theſe reſpects is the Covenant it ſelf; he is very peace, and reconciliation it ſelf, and this man Mic. 5.5. ſhall be the Peace when the Aſſyrian ſhall come into our Land. As fire is hot for it ſelf, and all other things hot for it, as they participate of it; ſo Chriſt is the Covenant it ſelf, and all we are ſo far in Covenant to Chriſt, as we have any thing of Chriſt; want Chriſt, and want peace, and want the Covenant of grace.

2. Chriſt is the meſſenger of this Covenant. The Mal. 3. 1. Lord whom ye ſeek ſhall ſuddenly come to his Temple, even John 15.1. the meſſenger of the Covenant whom ye delight in. Chriſt John 6.29. travels with tydings between parties of the Covenant. John 6.48. John 8.12. 1. He reports of God to us, he commends his Father John 19.9, 11. unto us, My Father is the Husband-man; and this is the Prov. 1.20. Father's will which hath ſent me, that of all which he Prov. 9.5. hath given me, I ſhall loſe nothing; and he commends himſelf to us, it became the Lord Jeſus to commend himſelf, I am the bread of Life, I am the Light of the world, I am the Door, I am the good Shepherd. It is a wonderful thing how Chriſt is a broker (as I may ſay) for Chriſt, wiſdom cryeth out, ſhe uttereth her voice in the ſtreets; come, eat of my bread, and drink of my wine which I have mingled: Miniſters cannot ſpeak of Chriſt, and of his Father, as he can do himſelf. O my Soul to excite thy deſires, come, and hear Chriſt ſpeak of Chriſt, and of his Father, and of Heaven, for he ſaw all. 2. He reports of us to God; he commends us to his Joh. 17.25. Father; O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee, but I have know thee, and theſe have known that thou haſt ſent me. Chriſt gives a good report of the Saints in Heaven, the Father and the Son are ſpeaking of him (as I may ſay) behind back, and ſurely a good report in heaven is of high eſteem; Chriſt tells over Ephraim's prayers behind his back, I have ſurely heard Ephraim bemoaning himſelf thus, Thou haſt Jer. 31.18, 20. chaſtiſed me, and I was chaſtiſed, as a Bullock unaccuſtomed to the yoke, turn thou me and I ſhall be turned, thou art the Lord my God: and thereupon God reſolves, Is Ephraim my dear Son? Is he a pleaſant Child? For ſince I ſpeak againſt him I do earneſtly remember him ſtill, therefore my bowels are troubled for him, I will ſurely have mercy upon him, ſaith the Lord. Happy ſouls of whom Chriſt is telling good Tidings in Heaven; for he is the Angel of the Covenant.

3. He is the witneſs of the Covenant; he ſaw, and heard all, Behold I have given him for a witneſs to Iſa. 55. 4. the people And he is called the faithful witneſs. Rev. 1. 5. The Amen: The faithful and true witneſs. Rev. 3.14. The Covenant ſaith, The Son of man came to ſeek, and to ſave that Luke 19. 10. which was loſt; Amen ſaith Chriſt, I can witneſs that to be true; the Covenant ſaith, Chriſt dyed, and roſe again for ſinners; Amen ſaith Chriſt, I was Rev. 1.18. dead, and behold I live for evermore; Amen. There's not any thing ſaid in the Covenant, But Chriſt is a witneſs to it; and therefore we read in the very end of the Bible, this Subſcription (as I may call it) in relation to Chriſt: He which teſtifieth theſe things Rev. 22. 20. ſaith ſurely I come quickly. Amen.

4. Chriſt is the Surety of the Covenant. In as Heb. 7. 20, 22. much as not without an oath he was made a Prieſt, by ſo much was Jeſus made a ſurety of a better Teſtament. The Covenant of works had a promiſe, but becauſe it was to be broken, and done away, it had no oath of God, as this hath; O doubting Soul, thou ſayeſt thy ſalvation is not ſure, think on this Scripture, thou haſt the oath of God for it; it is a ſworn article of the Covenant, Believe in the Lord Jeſus and thou ſhalt be ſaved; and to this end is Chriſt a Surety. 1. Surety for God, he undertakes that God ſhall fulfil his part of the Covenant, Fear not little flock, Luke 12. 32. for it is your Fathers good pleaſure to give you the Kingdom. And all that the Father giveth me, ſhall come to John 6.37. me, and him that cometh unto me, I will in no wiſe caſt out. 2. Surety for us; and to this purpoſe he hath paid a ranſom for us; and giveth a new heart to us; and he is ingaged to loſe none of us. Thoſe that John 17. 12. thou gaveſt me I have kept, and none of them is loſt.

5. Chriſt is the Mediator of the Covenant: The Apoſtle calls him Jeſus, the Mediator of the new Covenant, Heb. 12. 24. He hath ſomething of God, as being true God, and ſomething of man, as ſharing with us of the nature of man; hence he is Mediator by office, and layeth his hands on both parties, as a days-man Job. 9. 33. doth; and in this reſpect he is a friend, a reconciler, and a ſervant. 1. A friend to both parties, he hath God's heart for man, to be gracious, and he hath Man's heart for God to ſatisfie juſtice. 2. A reconciler of both parties; he brings down God to a treaty of peace, and he brings up man by a ranſom paid, ſo that he may ſay unto both, Father come down Iſa. 24. 1. to my brethren, my kindred and fleſh; and thou my Siſter Iſa. 53.11. and Spouſe come up to my Father, and thy Father, to my Mat. 20. 28. God, and thy God. 3. He is a ſervant to both parties, Behold my ſervant, ſaith God, my righteous ſervant. Yea, and our ſervant, He came not to be ſerved, but to ſerve, and to give his life a ranſom for many.

6. Chriſt is the Teſtator of the Covenant: He died to this very end, that he might confirm the Covenant, Where a Teſtament is, there muſt alſo of neceſſity Heb. 9. 16, 17. be the death of the Teſtator, for a Teſtament is of force, after men are dead, otherwiſe it is of no ſtrength at all, whiles the Teſtator liveth. Chriſt then muſt die, and Chriſt's blood muſt be ſhed, to ſeal the Covenant of grace; it is not every blood, but Chriſt's blood that muſt ſeal the everlaſting Covenant, Heb. 13. 20. And his blood being ſhed, he is then rightly called the Teſtator of the Covenant.

O What fewel is here to ſet our deſires on flame?

Come ſoul, and bend thy deſires towards Chriſt, as the Sun-flower towards the Sun, the Iron to the Load-ſtone, and the Load-ſtone to the Pole-ſtar; yea, the nearer thou draweſt towards Chriſt, the more and more do thou deſire after Chriſt; true deſires never determine or expire: He that thirſts let him thirſt Bern. de leƈt. evang. ſerm. more (ſaith Bernard) and he that deſires let him deſire yet more abundantly, Is there not cauſe? O what excellencies haſt thou found in Chriſt? Poor ſoul thou haſt undone thy ſelf by ſin, there's but a ſtep betwixt thee and damnation; but to ſave thy ſoul, Chriſt comes leaping on the Mountains, and skipping on the Hills; he enters into a Covenant with God; he is the Covenant, the Meſſenger of the Covenant, the Witneſs of the Covenant, the Surety of the Covenant, the Mediator of the Covenant, the Teſtator of the Covenant, the great buſineſs, the all in all Pſ.119.20. in a Covenant of grace; If David could ſay, My ſoul breaks for the longing that it hath to thy judgments at all times, how mayeſt thou ſay, My ſoul breaks for the longings that it hath to thy Mercies, and my Jeſus at all times. Oh! I gaſp for grace, as the thirſty land for drops of rain; I thirſt, I faint, I languiſh, I long for an hearty draught of the Fountain opened to the houſe of David, and to the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem. Oh! That I could ſee Jeſus flying through the midſt of Heaven, with the Covenant in his hand! Oh! I long for that Angel of the Covenant; I long to ſee ſuch another viſion as John did, when he ſaid, And I ſaw another Angel fly in the midſt of Heaven, having the everlaſting Goſpel to preach unto them that dwell upon the Earth. What? Is that Covenant in the hand of Chriſt? And is my name written in that Roll? Say, Lord, Is my name written on the Heart of Chriſt? Oh! If I had the glory and poſſeſſion of all the world, If I had ten thouſand worlds, and ten thouſand lives, I would lay them all down, to have this poor trembling ſoul of mine aſſured of this: Oh! My thirſt is inſatiable, my bowels are hot within me, my deſire after Jeſus in reference to the Covenant is greedy as the grave, the coals thereof are as coals of fire, which hath a moſt vehement flame.

Sect. IV. Of hoping in Jeſus in that reſpect.

WE muſt hope in Jeſus carrying on the great work of our ſalvation in a way of Covenant; now what is hope but a good opinion of enjoying it's object; indeed a good opinion is ſo neceſſary for hope, that it makes almoſt all its kinds and differences; as it is greater or leſſer, ſo it cauſeth the ſtrength or weakneſs, the exceſs or defect of this paſſion, hope: This good opinion is that which renders hope either doubtful, or certain; if certain, it produceth confidence or preſumption; preſumption is nothing but an immoderate hope without a ground: But confidence is that aſſurance of the thing hop'd for in ſome meaſure, as if we had it already in hand. Hence it is that we uſually ſay we have great, and ſtrong, and good hopes, when we would ſpeak them aſſured; which hath occaſioned ſome to define it thus: Hope is a certain grounded confidence that the deſired good will come; not to inſiſt on this; all the queſtion is, Whether thoſe promiſes contained in the Covenant of grace belong unto me? And what are the grounds and foundations on which my hope is built? If the grounds be weak, then hope is doubtful, or preſumptuous; but if the grounds be right, then hope is right, and I may caſt Anchor, and build upon it.

In the diſquiſition of theſe grounds, we ſhall only ſearch into thoſe qualifications which the Scripture tells us they are qualified with, with whom the Lord enters into a Covenant of grace; and theſe we ſhall reduce, 1. To the condition of the Covenant. 2. to the promiſe of the Covenant. As——

1. If thou art in a Covenant with God, then hath God wrought in thee that condition of the Covenant, a true, and lively, and ſoul-ſaving, and juſtifying faith. Believe on the Lord Jeſus, and thou Acts 16. 31. ſhalt be ſaved. If thou Believeſt, thou ſhalt be ſaved. Rom. 10. 9. The promiſe of life contained in the Covenant is made only to believers; This is ſo ſure a way of trial, that the Apoſtle himſelf directs us thereunto: Examine your ſelves whether ye be in the Faith; 1 Cor. 13. 5. Ay, But how ſhall I examine, for there are many pretenders to faith in theſe days? Why thus,

1. True faith will carry thee out of thy ſelf into Chriſt, I live yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me; Gal. 2.20. a faithful man hath not his life in himſelf, but in Chriſt Jeſus: he hath his ſpiritual being in the Father, and in his Son Jeſus Chriſt; he is joyned to the Lord, and is one Spirit; he ſeeth the Father in the Son, and the Son within himſelf, and alſo the Father within himſelf through the Son; Know 2 Cor. 13. 5. ye not that Chriſt Jeſus is in you, except ye be reprobates? Ye ſhall know me (ſaith Chriſt) that I am in John 14. 20. the Father, and you in me, and I in you. By faith we enjoy the glory of union. The Glory which thou haſt Joh. 17. 22,23. given me, I have given them that they may be one even as we are one, I in them, and thou in me; though we have not the glory of equality, yet we have the glory of likeneſs; we are one with Chriſt, and one with the Father by Faith in Chiriſt.——2. True faith will carry thee beyond the world; a believer looks on Chriſt over coming the world for him, and ſo by that faith he overcomes the world through him; This is the Victory that overcometh the world, 1 John 5,4. even your faith: Hence it is that the Saints are ſaid To Rev. 1. 12. be cloathed with the Sun, and to have the moon under their feet, when through faith they are cloathed with the Son of Righteouſneſs, the Lord Jeſus; then they trample upon all ſublunary things, as nothing worth in compariſon of Chriſt. 3. True faith is ever accompanied with true love: if once by faith thou apprehendeſt Gods love, and Chriſts love to thee, thou canſt not but love that God, and love that Chriſt who loved thee, and gave himſelf for thee; We love him, because he firſt loved us; 1 John 4. 19. he that loveth not God, hath not apprehended Gods love to him; if ever God in Chriſt be preſented to thee for thy juſtification, it is ſuch a lovely object, that thou canſt not but love him; He that loveth not, knoweth 1 John 4. 8. not God, for God is love. 4. True faith purifies the heart, and purgeth out ſin; when God diſcovers this, that he will heal back-ſliding, and love freely, and turn away his anger, then Ephraim ſhall ſay, What Hoſ. 14.8 have I any more to do with Idols? If ever Chriſt reveal himſelf as the object of our Juſtification, he will be ſure to preſent himſelf as the pattern of our Sanctification: the knowledge of Gods Goodneſs will make us in love with holineſs; they ſhall fear and tremble, Jer. 33.9. for all the goodneſs, and for all the proſperity that I procure unto them, ſaith the Lord: The golden chain of Mercy let down from Heaven, doth bind us faſter to the ſervice of our God. 5. Above all, obſerve the riſe: true faith, if it be true, it is ever bottomed upon the ſence and pain of a loſt condition, ſpiritual poverty is the neareſt capacity of believing: this is faiths method, be condemned to be ſaved: be ſick and be healed. Faith is a flower of Chriſt's own planting, but it grows in no Soul but only on the margin and bank of the Lake of fire and brimſtone; in regard there's none ſo fit for Chriſt and Heaven, as thoſe who are ſelf-ſick, and ſelf condemned to Hell. They that be whole, need not a Phyſician (ſaith Mat. 9.13. Chriſt) but they that are not ſick. This is a Foundation of Chriſt, that becauſe the man is broken and hath not bread, therefore he muſt be ſold and Chriſt muſt buy him, and take him home to his fire-ſide, and cloath him, and feed him there. I know Satan argues thus, Thou art not worthy of Chriſt, and therefore what haſt thou to do with Chriſt? but Faith concludes otherwiſe, I am not worthy of Chriſt, I am out of meaſure ſinful, I tremble at it, and I am ſenſible of it, and therefore ought I, and therefore muſt I come to Chriſt? this arguing is Goſpel-Logick, and the right method of a true and ſaving-faith; for what is faith, but the act of a ſinner humbled, weary, leaden, poor and ſelf-condemned? Oh take heed of their doctrin who make faith the act of ſome vile perſon never humbled, but applying with an immediate touch, his hot boiling, and ſmoaking Luſts, to the bleeding bleſſed Wounds, and Death of Jeſus Chriſt.

2. If thou art in Covenant with God, than hath God fulfilled in ſome part the promiſes of this Covenant to thy Soul: As——

1. Then hath God put the Law into thy inward parts, and writ it in thy heart: Look as Indenture anſwers to Indenture, or as a face in the glaſs anſwers to a face, ſo the conformity of thy heart, and inwards to the Law of God; thou obeyeſt Pſal. 40. 8. God's will. and delighteſt in that obedience; Thou ſayeſt with David, I delight to do thy will O God; yea thy Law is within my Heart.

2. Thou haſt a Covenant-relation to God, and a Covenant-Intereſt in God; and thou art by Covenant as one of the people of God. Chriſt hath thy ſoul, thy body, thy affections, thy Love to the very uttermoſt; God hath a propriety and a peculiarity in thee; thou art Chriſt's by Marriage; thou haſt paſt over thy ſelf unto him to be his Jewel, his Spouſe, his Diadem, his Crown, his Servant, his Child for ever.

3. Then art thou clearly taught to know the Ezek. 16. 60, 61. Lord thou knoweſt him in another manner than thou didſt before; I will eſtabliſh my Covenant with thee, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord. There is a double knowledge. 1. A ſpeculative knowledge, and thus men may know, much but they are not affected according to the things they know. 2. A practical knowledge; and thus if we know the Lord we ſhall ſee in him that excellency and beauty, that our Hearts will be affectioned towards him, and we ſhall be able to ſay, that we love him with all our Heart, and with all our Soul, and with all our Strength.

4. Then hath God pardoned thy ſins, and He will remember thy ſins no more? But how ſhould I be aſſured of that? Why thus,—— 1. If thou haſt ſincerely confeſſed, bewailed, and for- Iſa. 1. 16, 18. ſaken thy ſins; Waſh ye, make ye clean, put away the evil of your doings from before mine Eys, ceaſe to do evil:——And preſently it follows, come now and let us reaſon together, ſaith the Lord; though your ſins be Iſa. 55. 7. as Scarlet, they ſhall be as white as Snow, though they be red like crimſon, they ſhall be as wool. To the ſame purpoſe, Let the wicked forſake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have Mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. 2. If thy heart, after many ſtorms and troubles be calmed, Rom. 5. 1. and quieted through faith in Chriſt Being juſtified by faith, we have peace with God? What? Haſt thou peace with God? And hath God ſtill'd thy Soul with peace? This is an argument of thy ſins Pardon Luke 7. 47. —— 3. If thine Heart be ſingularly inflamed with the love of Chriſt; the Woman that had many ſins forgiven her by Chriſt, ſhe loved him much. Upon that account ſhe wept, and waſhed his feet with her tears, and ſo wiped them with the hairs of her head; ſhe kiſſed his feet, and anointed them with Ointment nothing was too good for Chriſt, who had forgiven all her ſins——

4. If thy heart, and ſoul, and all that is within be ſingularly enlarged to praiſe God for his pardons; Bleſs Pſ. 103. 1, 2, 3. the Lord, O my ſoul, and forget not all his benefits, who forgiveth all thine iniquities. If thine heart feel his pardons thy mouth will ſing his praiſes; and hereby thou may'ſt be aſſured that God hath pardoned all thy ſins.

Come now; are theſe, O my Soul, the grounds of thy Hopes? a lively faith in Jeſus? an accompliſhment in ſome meaſure of the promiſes of the Covenant? why, theſe are the Fewel of Hope; if this be thy caſe, act thy hope ſtrongly on Chriſt, and on the Covenant of Grace; ſay not, Hope is only of things future, and therefore if I be already in Covenant, What need I hope? For whether thou art in Covenant or no, it is the main Queſtion here; nay, though it be granted that thou art in Covenant, and that hope is ſwallowed up in the compleat preſence of its object; yet it is not at all diminiſhed, but rather increaſed by a partial preſence. As in maſſy bodies, though violent motion be weakeſt in the end, yet natural motions are ever ſwifteſt towards the center: ſo in the hopes of men, though ſuch as are violent and groundleſs, prove weaker and weaker, yet thoſe that are ſtayed and natural (or rather gracious) are evermore ſtronger and ſtronger, till they procure the utmoſt preſence and union of their object. The nearer we come to a fruition of a good, the more impatient we are to want it. O then hope in Jeſus .draw on thy hope yet more and more in this Covenant of grace! be not content only with an hope of expectation, but bring it on to an hope of confidence, or aſſurance; thou canſt not fail if thou hangeſt thy hope on Jeſus: Chriſt is not faſtned as a looſe nail, or as a broken rotten hedge in the Covenant of grace; he is there as a nail in a ſure Iſa. 22. 23, 24. place; and they ſhall hang on him all the glory of his Fathers houſe; the off ſpring and the Iſſue; all veſſels of ſmall quantity, from the veſſels of cups, even to all the veſſels of flaggons, Come ſoul, thou art a veſſel of ſmall quantity, hang all thy weight on Chriſt, he is a nail that cannot break.

5. WE muſt believe on Jeſus carrying on this great work of our ſalvation in a way of Covenant. Many a time Satan comes and hurles in a Temptation, What? Is it likely that God ſhould enter into a Covenant with thee? Yea, ſometimes he ſo rivets in this Temptation, that he darkens all within, and there's no ſight of comfort in the Soul: O but now believe! now if ever is the ſeaſon for Faith to act; little evidence and much adherence ſpeaks faith to purpoſe. We read of ſome who could ſtay themſelves upon the Lord, whiles they walked in darkneſs, upon the margin and borders of an hundred deaths. David fears no evil, Pſ. 23. 4. though he walked through the valley of the ſhadow of Pſ. 88. 7. death; for his faith told him, that God was with him, Heman could ſay, thy wrath lieth hard upon me, thou haſt afflicted me with all thy waves; ſure he thought, God could do no more to drown him; not only a wave or two, but all God's waves were on him, and over him; and yet he believes, Lord I ver. 9. have called daily upon thee. Hezekiah's Comforts were at an hard pinch, mine eyes fail with looking upwards: O Lord I am oppreſſed; yet praying argues believing, Iſa. 39. 14 Lord undertake for me. Chriſt's ſence of comforts was ebb and low, when he wept, and cried, that he was forſaken of God; yet then his Faith is doubled, as the Cable of an Anchor is doubled when the ſtorm is more than ordinary, my God, my Mat. 27. 46. God

Poor Soul! thou ſtandeſt wondering at this great Condeſcenſion of God; What? That God ſhould enter into Covenant with me? What? that ſhould make ſuch great and precious promiſes with me? Surely theſe comforts, and theſe priviledges, are too high for me, or for my Soul breathing.——It may be ſo; and yet be not diſcouraged, for God will magnifie his grace, and therefore he will do this great thing; all that thou haſt to do, and all that God requires of thee, in this caſe is only to believe; indeed thou haſt no part in Chriſt, no part in the Covenant of grace, if thou wilt not believe; faith is the condition of the Covenant of grace; and therefore either believe, or no Covenant.

I know it is not eaſie to believe; nay it is one of the hardeſt things under heaven to perſwade a Soul into faith: What? Will the great God of Heaven make a Covenant with ſuch a wretch as I am? I cannot believe it. Why, What's the matter? Ah my ſins, my ſins, my ſins! God is a conſuming fire againſt ſuch, he cannot endure to behold iniquity; little hopes that ever God ſhould enter into a Covenant with me. But to help on, or to allure a ſoul in, conſider, O thou ſoul, of theſe following paſſages.

1. Conſider of the ſweet and gracious nature of God: that which undoes broken hearts, and trembling ſouls, it is miſconceivings of God: we have many times low, diminiſhing, extenuating thoughts of God's goodneſs; but we have large thoughts of his power and wrath: now to rectifie theſe miſapprehenſions, conſider his name, and therein his nature the Lord, the Lord, Merciful, and Gracious, Long ſuffering, and abundant in Goodneſs, and Truth, Exod.34. 6,7. keeping mercy for Thouſands forgiving Iniquity, Tranſgreſſions, and Sins; and will by no means clear the guilty, viſiting the Iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children, and upon the Childrens Children, unto the Third and Fourth Generation. O terrible Text! ſays the Soul, alas I am guilty of thouſands of ſins; and if this be his Name I am undone, woe to me and mine, unto the Third and fourth Generation. But conſider again, and in this deſcription of God we ſhall find an Ocean of Mercy to a Drop of Wrath; a Sea of Oil to an half drop of ſcalding Lead. For——

1. God doth not begin, the Lord, the Lord, that will by no means clear the guilty; but, the Lord, the Lord, Merciful, and Gracious, Long-ſuffering; this is the firſt, and greateſt part of his Name; God is loath to ſpeak in juſtice, and wrath; he keeps it to the laſt; mercy lies uppermoſt in Gods heart; if the ſentence muſt come, it ſhall be the laſt day of the Aſſize.

2. Many words are uſed to ſpeak his goodneſs: Merciful, Gracious, Long-ſuffering and abundant in goodneſs, keeping Mercy for Thouſands, forgiving Iniquity, Tranſgreſſion and Sin; here be ſix ſeveral phraſes, to ſhew the Riches of his Goodneſs, but when he ſpeaks his wrath, what haſte makes he over it? there's only two expreſſions of that; it was a Theme he took no delight in; Judgment is his Work, his Iſa.28. 21. ſtrange Work; for he doth not afflict willingly nor grieve the Children of Men.

Lam.3.33. 3. There's a difference in the expreſſion; when God ſpeaks of mercy, he expreſſeth it thus, abundant in Mercy, keeping Mercy for Thouſands. But in viſiting ſins, it is not to thouſands, but only to the Third or Fourth Generation. Surely Mercy rejoiceth a- Jam.2.13. gainſt Judgment. God would ſhew Mercy to Thouſands, rather than he would deſtroy three or four.

4. What if by no means God will clear the guilty? ſtubbornly guilty? yet never will he deſtroy humble ſouls that lie at his feet, and are willing to have mercy on his eaſie terms. Hoſ.11. 8,9. How ſhall I give thee up Ephraim, how ſhall I deliver thee O Iſrael, how ſhall I make thee as Admah; How ſhall I ſet thee as Zeboim; My heart is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together I will not execute the fierceneſs of Mine anger, I will not deſtroy Ephraim, for I am God and not Man the holy one in the midſt of thee; O my ſoul! Why ſtandeſt thou at a diſtance with God, why doſt thou fancy a Lion in the way; O believe in God, believe in Jeſus! and believe thy portion in this Covenant of grace! have ſweet and delightful thoughts of Gods nature, and thou wilt not, thou canſt not fly from him! ſome are of opinion that a ſoul may fetch more encouragements to believe, from the conſideration of God's gracious and merciful nature, than from the promiſe it ſelf.

2. Conſider of the ſweet and gracious nature of Jeſus Chriſt: our thoughts of God are neceſſarily more ſtrange than of Jeſus Chriſt, becauſe of our infinite diſtance from the God head; but in Chriſt, God is come down into our nature, and ſo infinite godneſs, and mercy is incarnate: art thou afraid, O my ſoul, at his name Jah, and Jehovah? O remember his name is Emanuel; the Lyon is here diſrobed of his garment of terrour; his rough Hair is turned into a ſoft wooll; ſee thy God diſrobed of his terrible Majeſty, ſee thy God is a man, and thy Judge is a Brother; mince Jehovah with Jeſus; and the Serpent will be a rod; O that Balſomy name, Jeſus; that name that ſounds healing for every wound, ſettlement for every diſtraction, comfort for every ſorrow: but here's the miſery; ſouls in diſtreſs had rather be poring on hell than heaven; rather frighting themſelves with the terrours of juſtice, than ſtaying themſelves with the flaggons of Mercy. O my ſoul, how canſt thou more contradict the nature of Chriſt, and the Goſpel-deſcription of Chriſt than to think him a deſtroyer of men? but wherein appears the gracious nature of Chriſt? I anſwer, in his being incarnate, O how could Jeſus have manifeſted more willingneſs to ſave, than that the God-head ſhould condeſcend to aſſume our nature? ſurely this is ten thouſand times more condeſcention, than for the greateſt King to become a fly, or a toad, to ſave ſuch creatures as toads and flies. 2. In his tender dealing with all ſorts of ſinners, he profeſſed that he came into the world, not to condemn the world, but Mat.23.37 that the world through him might be ſaved. He wept over Jeruſalem, ſaying, O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, how oft would I have gathered thee as an Hen gathereth her chickens under her wings? but ye would not. I would, but ye wou'd not, And when his Diſciples would have had fire come down from Heaven to conſume thoſe that refuſe him, he reproves them, and tells them, they knew not of what ſpirits they were. 3. In his care of his own; not caring what he ſuffered, ſo they might be ſaved. Alas, alas, that the Lord Jeſus ſhould paſs through a life of miſery, to a death more miſerable, to manifeſt openly to the world the abundance of his love: and yet that any ſoul ſhould ſuſpect him of cruelty, or unwillingneſs to ſhew mercy! Ah my ſoul, believe; never cry out my ſins, my ſins, my ſins; there is a gracious nature and inclination in Jeſus Chriſt to pardon all.

3. Conſider of that office of ſaving, and ſhewing mercy, which Chriſt hath ſet up; this is more than meerly a gracious inclination; Chriſt hath undertaken and ſet up an office to ſeek, and to ſave that which was loſt; to bring home ſtraying Souls to his Father, to be the great Peace-maker between God and Man, to reconcile God to man, and man to God, and ſo to be the Head and Husband of his People. Is not here a world of encouragement to believe in Jeſus? what? to conſider him as one who hath made it his office to heal, and relieve, and to re-

hath not bread, therefore he muſt be ſold and Chriſt muſt buy him, and take him home to his fire-ſide, and cloath him, and feed him there. I know Satan argues thus, Thou art not worthy of Chriſt, and therefore what haſt thou to do with Chriſt? but Faith concludes otherwiſe, I am not worthy of Chriſt, I am out of meaſure ſinful, I tremble at it, and I am ſenſible of it, and therefore ought I, and therefore muſt I come to Chriſt? this arguing is Goſpel-Logick, and the right method of a true and ſaving-faith; for what is faith, but the act of a ſinner humbled, weary, leaden, poor and ſelf-condemned? Oh take heed of their doctrin who make faith the act of ſome vile perſon never humbled, but applying with an immediate touch, his hot boiling, and ſmoaking Luſts, to the bleeding bleſſed Wounds, and Death of Jeſus Chriſt.

2. If thou art in Covenant with God, than hath God fulfilled in ſome part the promiſes of this Covenant to thy Soul: As——

1. Then hath God put the Law into thy inward parts, and writ it in thy heart: Look as Indenture anſwers to Indenture, or as a face in the glaſs anſwers to a face, ſo the conformity of thy heart, and inwards to the Law of God; thou obeyeſt Pſal.40. 8. God's will. and delighteſt in that obedience; Thou ſayeſt with David, I delight to do thy will O God; yea thy Law is within my Heart.

2. Thou haſt a Covenant-relation to God, and a Covenant-Intereſt in God; and thou art by Covenant as one of the people, of God. Chriſt hath thy ſoul, thy body, thy affections, thy Love to the very uttermoſt; God hath a propriety and a peculiarity in thee; thou art Chriſt's by Marriage; thou haſt paſt over thy ſelf unto him to be his Jewel, his Spouſe, his Diadem, his Crown, his Servant, his Child for ever.

3. Then art thou clearly taught to know the Ezek. 16. 60,61. Lord thou knoweſt him in another manner than thou didſt before; I will eſtabliſh my Covenant with thee, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord. There is a double knowledge. 1. A ſpeculative knowledge, and thus men may know, much but they are not affected according to the things they know. 2. A practical knowledge; and thus if we know the Lord we ſhall ſee in him that excellency and beauty, that our Hearts will be affectioned towards him, and we ſhall be able to ſay, that we love him with all our Heart, and with all our Soul, and with all our Strength.

4. Then hath God pardoned thy ſins, and He will remember thy ſins no more? But how ſhould I be aſſured of that? Why thus,—— 1. If thou haſt ſincerely confeſſed, bewailed, and for- Iſa. 1. 16, 18. ſaken thy ſins; Waſh ye, make ye clean, put away the evil of your doings from before mine Eys, ceaſe to do evil:——And preſently it follows, come now and let us reaſon together, ſaith the Lord; though your ſins be Iſa. 55. 7. as Scarlet, they ſhall be as white as Snow, though they be red like crimſon, they ſhall be as wool. To the ſame purpoſe, Let the wicked forſake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have Mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. 2. If thy heart, after many ſtorms and troubles be calmed, Rom. 5.1. and quieted through faith in Chriſt Being juſtified by faith, we have peace with God? What? Haſt thou peace with God? And hath God ſtill'd thy Soul with peace? This is an argument of thy ſins Pardon Luke 7. 47. —— 3. If thine Heart be ſingularly inflamed with the love of Chriſt; the Woman that had many ſins forgiven her by Chriſt, ſhe loved him much. Upon that account ſhe wept, and waſhed his feet with her tears, and ſo wiped them with the hairs of her head; ſhe kiſſed his feet, and anointed them with Ointment nothing was too good for Chriſt, who had forgiven all her ſins——

4. If thy heart, and ſoul, and all that is within be ſingularly enlarged to praiſe God for his pardons; Bleſs Pſ. 103. 1, 2, 3. the Lord, O my ſoul, and forget not all his benefits, who forgiveth all thine iniquities. If thine heart feel his pardons thy mouth will ſing his praiſes; and hereby thou may'ſt be aſſured that God hath pardoned all thy ſins.

Come now; are theſe, O my Soul, the grounds of thy Hopes? a lively faith in Jeſus? an accompliſhment in ſome meaſure of the promiſes of the Covenant? why, theſe are the Fewel of Hope; if this be thy caſe, act thy hope ſtrongly on Chriſt, and on the Covenant of Grace; ſay not, Hope is only of things future, and therefore if I be already in Covenant, What need I hope? For whether thou art in Covenant or no, it is the main Queſtion here; nay, though it be granted that thou art in Covenant, and that hope is ſwallowed up in the compleat preſence of its object; yet it is not at all diminiſhed, but rather increaſed by a partial preſence. As in maſſy bodies, though violent motion be weakeſt in the end, yet natural motions are ever ſwifteſt towards the center: ſo in the hopes of men, though ſuch as are violent and groundleſs, prove weaker and weaker, yet thoſe that are ſtayed and natural (or rather gracious) are evermore ſtronger and ſtronger, till they procure the utmoſt preſence and union of their object. The nearer we come to a fruition of a good, the more impatient we are to want it. O then hope in Jeſus .draw on thy hope yet more and more in this Covenant of grace! be not content only with an hope of expectation, but bring it on to an hope of confidence, or aſſurance; thou canſt not fail if thou hangeſt thy hope on Jeſus: Chriſt is not faſtned as a looſe nail, or as a broken rotten hedge in the Covenant of grace; he is there as a nail in a ſure Iſa. 22.23, 24. place; and they ſhall hang on him all the glory of his Fathers houſe; the off ſpring and the Iſſue; all veſſels of ſmall quantity, from the veſſels of cups, even to all the veſſels of flaggons, Come ſoul, thou art a veſſel of ſmall quantity, hang all thy weight on Chriſt, he is a nail that cannot break.

Sect. 5. Of believing in Jeſus in that Reſpect.

5. WE muſt believe on Jeſus carrying on this great work of our ſalvation in a way of Covenant. Many a time Satan comes and hurles in a Temptation, What? Is it likely that God ſhould enter into a Covenant with thee? Yea, ſometimes he ſo rivets in this Temptation, that he darkens all within, and there's no ſight of comfort in the Soul: O but now believe! now if ever is the ſeaſon for Faith to act; little evidence and much adherence ſpeaks faith to purpoſe. We read of ſome who could ſtay themſelves upon the Lord, whiles they walked in darkneſs, upon the margin and borders of an hundred deaths. David fears no evil, Pſ. 23. 4 though he walked through the valley of the ſhadow of Pſ. 88. 7. death; for his faith told him, that God was with him, Heman could ſay, thy wrath lieth hard upon me, thou haſt afflicted me with all thy waves; ſure he thought, God could do no more to drown him; not only a wave or two, but all God's waves were on him, and over him; and yet he believes, Lord I ver. 9. have called daily upon thee. Hezekiah's Comforts were at an hard pinch, mine eyes fail with looking upwards: O Lord I am oppreſſed; yet praying argues believing, Iſa. 39.14 Lord undertake for me. Chriſt's ſence of comforts was ebb and low, when he wept, and cried, that he was forſaken of God; yet then his Faith is doubled, as the Cable of an Anchor is doubled when the ſtorm is more than ordinary, my God, my Mat.27.46. God

Poor Soul! thou ſtandeſt wondering at this great Condeſcenſion of God; What? That God ſhould enter into Covenant with me? What? that ſhould make ſuch great and precious promiſes with me? Surely theſe comforts, and theſe priviledges, are too high for me, or for my Soul breathing.——It may be ſo; and yet be not diſcouraged, for God will magnifie his grace, and therefore he will do this great thing; all that thou haſt to do, and all that God requires of thee, in this caſe is only to believe; indeed thou haſt no part in Chriſt, no part in the Covenant of grace, if thou wilt not believe; faith is the condition of the Covenant of grace; and therefore either believe, or no Covenant.

I know it is not eaſie to believe; nay it is one of the hardeſt things under heaven to perſwade a Soul into faith: What? Will the great God of Heaven make a Covenant with ſuch a wretch as I am? I cannot believe it. Why, What's the matter? Ah my ſins, my ſins, my ſins! God is a conſuming fire againſt ſuch, he cannot endure to behold iniquity; little hopes that ever God ſhould enter into a Covenant with me. But to help on, or to allure a ſoul in, conſider, O thou ſoul, of theſe following paſſages.

Is not here a world of encouragement to believe in Jeſus? what? to conſider him as one who hath made it his office to heal, and relieve, and to reſtore ſtore, and to reconcile? Among Merchants I remember they have an office of ſecurity, that if you dare not adventure on Seas, yet there you may be enſured, if you will but put in at that office: in this manner Chriſt hath conſtituted and aſſumed the office of being a Mediator, the Redeemer, and Saviour of men; he hath erected, and ſet up on purpoſe an office of meer love, and tender compaſſion, for the relief of all poor diſtreſſed ſinners: if they dare not venture otherwiſe, yet let them put in at this office. O what jealous hearts have we that will not truſt Chriſt, that will not take the word of Chriſt without an office of ſecurity? ſurely Chriſt never ſo carried himſelf to any ſoul, that it need be jealous of his love and faithfulneſs, yet this dear husband meets with many a jealous ſpouſe: O my ſoul take heed of this: Satan hath no greater deſign upon thee than to perſwade thee to entertain hard thoughts of Chriſt: believe! never ſay God will not take thee into Covenant, for to this purpoſe he hath erected an office to ſave and have mercy.

Conſider of thoſe tenders and offers of Chriſt, thoſe intreaties and beſeechings to accept of Chriſt, which are made in the Goſpel. What is the Goſple? or what is the ſum of all the Goſpel, but this; O take Chriſt, and life in Chriſt, that thou may'ſt be ſaved: what mean theſe free offers, Ho every one that thirſteth come to the waters, and whoſoever will, let him take of the Waters of Life freely: and God ſo loved the World that he gave his only begotten Son, &c. God is the firſt ſuitor and ſollicitor, he firſt prays the ſoul to take Chriſt. Hark at the door! who is it that knocks there? who is it that calls now, even now? Cant. 5,2. Open unto me my Siſter, my Love, my Dove, my Undefiled, for my head is filled with dew. and my locks with the drops of the night? See him through the windows, this can be none but Chriſt: his ſweet language of Siſter, Love, and Dove, beſpeaks him Chriſt; his ſuffering language, that his head is filled with dew, and his locks with the drops of the Night, beſpeaks him Chriſt; But hearken the motion he makes to thy Soul; Soul! conſider what price I have given to ſave thee; this my body was crucified, my hands and feet nailed, my heart pierced, and through anguiſh I was forced to cry, My ſoul is heavy, heavy unto death, and now what remains for thee but only to believe? See all things ready on my part, remiſſion, juſtification, ſanctification, ſalvation; I will be thy God and thou ſhalt be of the number of my People; I offer now my ſelf and merits, and benefits flowing therefrom, and I intreat thee accept of this offer. O take Chriſt, and Life, and Salvation in Chriſt. What, is this the voice of my beloved? are theſe the intreaties of Jeſus, and O my ſoul, wilt thou not believe? Wilt thou not accept of this Gracious offer of Chriſt? O conſider who is this that proclaimeth, inviteth, beſeecheth? if a poor man ſhould offer thee mountains of gold thou mighteſt doubt of performance, becauſe he is not of that Power; if a covetous rich man ſhould offer thee thouſands of ſilver, thou mighteſt doubt of performance, becauſe it is contrary to his nature; but Chriſt is neither poor, nor coveteous; as he is able, ſo his name is gracious, and his nature is to be faithful in performance, his Covenant is ſealed with his blood, and confirmed by his oath, that all ſhall have pardon that will but come in, and believe: O then let theſe words of Chriſt (whoſe lips like lilies are dropping down pure myrrhe) prevail with thy ſoul, ſay Amen to his offer, I believe, Lord help my unbelief.

5. Conſider of thoſe Commands of Chriſt; which notwithſtanding all thy excuſes and pretences, he faſtens on thee to believe: And this is his Commandment, that we ſhould believe on the name of his Son Jeſus Chriſt. Surely this Command ſhould infinitely out-weigh and prevail againſt all other Countermands of Fleſh and Blood, of Satan, Nature, Reaſon, Senſe, and all the World. Why this Command is thy very ground and warrant, againſt which the very Gates of Hell can never poſſibly prevail: when Abraham had a command to kill his own only dear Son, with his own hand, though it was matter of as great grief as could poſſibly pierce his heart; yet he would readily and willingly ſubmit to it; how much more ſhouldſt thou obey, when God commands no more, but that thou ſhouldeſt believe on the name of his Son Jeſus Chriſt? There's no evil in this Command; no, no, it comprehends in it all good Imaginable; have Chriſt, & thou haſt with him the excellency and variety of all bleſſings both of heaven and earth; have Chriſt, and thou haſt with him a diſcharge of all thoſe endleſs and eaſeleſs torments of Hell; have Chriſt, and thou haſt with him the glorious Deity it ſelf, to be enjoyed through him to all Eternity. O then believe in Jeſus! ſuffer not the Devils cavils, and the groundleſs exceptions of thine own heart to prevail with thee againſt the direct Commandment of Almighty God.

6. Conſider of the Meſſages of Chriſt, which he daily ſends by the hands of his Goſpel-Miniſters. 2 Cor. 5. 20. Now then we are Ambaſſadors for Chriſt, as though God did beſeech you by us; we pray you in Chriſts ſtead, be ye Reconciled unto God What a wonder is here! Would not an earthly Prince diſdain and hold it in foul ſcorn to ſend unto his inferior rebellious ſlaves for reconcilement? It is otherwiſe with Chriſt; he is content to put up at our hands all indignities and affronts; he is glad to ſue to us firſt, and to ſend his Ambaſſadors day after day, beſeeching us to be reconciled unto him, O incomprehenſible depth of unſpeakable Mercy, and Incouragement to come to Chriſt! That I may digreſs a little, ſay thou that readeſt, wilt thou take Chriſt to thy Bridegroom, and forſake all others? This is the Meſſage which God hath bid me (unworthy Ambaſſadour) to deliver to thee: the Lord Jeſus expects an anſwer from thee; and I ſhould be glad at heart to return a fit anſwer to him that ſent me; ſay then, doſt thou like well of the Match; wilt thou have Chriſt for thy Husband? wilt thou enter into Covenant with him? wilt thou ſurrender up thy Soul to thy God? wilt thou rely on Chriſt, and apply Chriſt's merits particularly to thy ſelf? wilt thou believe? for that is it I mean by taking, and receiving, and marrying of Chriſt: O happy if I could but join Chriſt and thy Soul together this day! Oh happy thou, if thou wouldeſt this day be preſwaded by a poor Ambaſſador of Chriſt! Blame me not if I am an importunate Meſſenger; If ever I hear from thee, let me hear ſome good News, that I may return it to Heaven, and give God the Glory. Come, ſay on; art thou willing to have Chriſt? wouldſt thou have thy name enrolled in the Covenant of Grace? ſhall God be thy God, and Chriſt thy Chriſt? wilt thou have the Perſon of Chriſt, and all thoſe privileges flowing from the Blood of Chriſt? ſure thou art willing, art thou not? ſtay then; thou muſt take Chriſt on theſe terms; thou muſt believe on him (i. e.) Thou muſt take him as thy Saviour and Lord, thou muſt take him, and forſake all others for him. This is the true Faith, the condition of the Covenant: O believe in Jeſus, and the Match is made, the hands are ſtruck, the Covenant eſtabliſhed, and all doubts removed.

Sect. 6. Of loving Jeſus in reſpect.

6. WE muſt love Jeſus, as carrying on this great work of our Salvation in a way of Covenant. I know Love is reckoned as the firſt and fundamental Paſſion of all the reſt; ſome call it the firſt ſpringing and out-going affection of the Soul; and therefore I might have put it in the firſt place, before Hope or Deſire; but I chuſe rather to place it in this Method, as (methinks) moſt agreeing (if not to the order of Nature, yet) to the ſpiritual workings, as they appear in my Soul. When a Good is propounded, firſt I deſire, and then I hope, and then I believe, and then I love. And ſome deſcribing this ſpiritual love, they tell me, Dr. Preſton of Love. it is an holy diſpoſition of the heart, ariſing from Faith. But to let theſe niceties paſs for a Spiders web (curious, but thin) certain it is that I cannot believe all theſe tranſactions of God, by Chriſt in a Covenant-way for me, but I muſt needs love that God, and love that Chriſt who hath thus firſtly and freely loved my ſoul; go on then, O my Soul, put fire to the hearth, blow on thy little ſpark, ſet before thee God's Love and thou canſt not but love; and therein Conſider, 1. The Time. 2. The Properties. 3. The Effects of Gods love. 1. For The time; He loved thee before the World was made: haſt thou not heard? And wilt thou ever forget it? Were not thoſe antient Loves from all eternity admirable, aſtoniſhing, raviſhing Loves? 2. He Loved thee in the very beginning of the world: was not the promiſe expreſſed to Adam intended for thee? As thou ſinnedſt in his loins, ſo didſt thou in his loins receive the Promiſe, It ſhall bruiſe thy head: And not long after, when God eſtabliſhed his Covenant with Abraham and his Seed, waſt thou not one Gal. 3.29. of that Seed of Abraham? If ye are Chriſts, than are ye Abrahams Seed, and heirs according to the Promiſe. 3. He loves thee now more eſpecially, not only with a Love of benevolence, as before; but with a love of complacency: not only hath he ſtruck Covenant with Chriſt, with Adam, with Abraham in thy behalf, but particularly and perſonally with thy ſelf; and O what Love is this? If a woman lately conceiving, love her future fruit; how much more doth ſhe love it when it is born and embraced in her Arms? So if God loved thee before thou hadſt a being, yea before the world or any Creature in it had a being, how much more now? O the heighth, and depth, and length and breadth of this immeaſurable Love! O my Soul, I cannot expreſs the Loves of God in Chriſt to thee; I do but draw the Picture of the Son with a coal, when I endeavour to expreſs Gods love in Chriſt.

2. For the properties of this Love: 1. Gods Love to thee is an eternal Love. He was thinking in his eternity of thee in this manner, At ſuch a time there ſhall be ſuch a Man and ſuch a Woman living on the earth: in the laſt times ſuch a one (I mean thou that readeſt, if thou believeſt) and to that Soul I will reveal my ſelf, and communicate my loves; to that Soul I will offer Chriſt, and give it the hand of Chriſt to lay hold on Chriſt; and to that purpoſe now I write down the Name in the Book of Life, and none ſhall be able to blot it out again. O eternal Love! Oh the bleſſed tranſactions between the Father and the Son, from all eternity to manifeſt his Love to thy very Soul!

2. Gods love to thee is a choice Love; it is an Mal. 1.2,3. elective, ſeparating Love: when he paſſed by and left many thouſands, then, even then he ſets his heart on thee: Was not Eſau Jacobs brother? Saith God, yet I loved Jacob, and hated Eſau. So, wert not thou ſuch an ones Brother, or ſuch an ones Siſter that remained wicked and ungodly? Wert not thou of ſuch a Family; whereas many, or ſome are paſſed by, yet God hath loved thee, and pitched his Love on thee: ſurely this is choice Love.

3. Gods Love to thee is a free Love, I will love them freely, ſaith God, And the Lord did not ſet his Hoſ. 14.4. Deut. 7.7, 8. Love upon you, and chuſe you, becauſe ye were more in number than any people,——but becauſe the Lord loved you; there can be no other reaſon why the Lord loved thee, but becauſe he loved thee. We uſe to ſay, this is a Womans reaſon, I will do it, becauſe I will do it; but here we find it is Gods reaſon, tho it may ſeem ſtrange arguing; yet Moſes can go no higher, he loved thee, why? Becauſe he loved thee.

Gods love to thee is the Love of all relations: look what a friends Love is to a friend, or what a Fathers Love is towards a Child, or what an Husbands Love is towards a Wife; ſuch is Gods Love to thee; thou art his Friend, his Son, his Daughter, his Spouſe; and God is thy All in All.

3. For the Effects of his Love: 1. God ſo Loves thee, as that he hath entered into a Covenant with thee. O what a Love is this? Tell me, O my ſoul, is there not an infinite diſparity betwixt God and thee? He is God above, and thou art a Worm below: He is the High and Lofty one that inhabiteth eternity, whoſe Name is Holy: and thou art leſs than the leaſt of all the Mercies of God: O wonder at ſuch a condeſcention! that ſuch a Potter, and ſuch a Former of things ſhould come on terms of bargaining with ſuch clay as is guilty before him! Had we the tongues of Men and Angels, we could never expreſs it!

God ſo loves thee, as that in the Covenant he gives thee all his Promiſes? Indeed what is the Covenant but an accumulation, or heap of Promiſes? As a cluſter of ſtars makes a Conſtellation; ſo as a maſs of promiſes concureth in the Covenant of Grace; where ever Chriſt is, cluſters of divine promiſes grow out of him; as the motes, rayes and beams are from the Sun. I ſhall inſtance in ſome few. As,——

1. God in the Covenant gives the World. All is yours, whether Paul, or Apollo, or Cephas or the World, Mat. 6.33. 1 Cor. 3.22. Firſt ſeek the Kingdom of God, and his righteouſneſs, and all theſe things ſhall be added unto you. Theſe temporary bleſſings are a part of the Covenant which God hath made to his People; It is he that giveth thee Power to get wealth, that he may eſtabliſh Deut. 8. 18. his Covenant which he ſware unto thy Fathers. Others, I know, may have the World, but they have it not by a Covenant-right; it may be thou haſt but a little, a very little of the world; well, but thou haſt it by a Covenant-right, and ſo it is an earneſt of all the reſt.

2. As God in the Covenant gives thee the World, ſo in compariſon of thee and his other Saints, he cares not what becomes of the World. I loved thee, ſaith God, therefore will I give men for thee, and People for Iſa. 43. 4. thy Life: If the caſe be ſo that it cannot be well with thee, but great evils muſt come upon others, kindred, people and nations, I do not ſo much care for them, ſaith God, my heart is on thee, ſo as in compariſon of thee, I care not what becomes of all the World. O the Love of God to his Saints!

3. God in the Covenant pardons thy ſins; this is another fruit of Gods love: Unto him that loved us, and Rev. 1. 5. waſhed us from our ſins by his own blood; it coſt him dear to pardon our ſins; even the heart-blood of Chriſt: ſuch were the tranſactions betwixt God and Chriſt: if thou wilt take upon thee to deliver ſouls from ſin (ſaith God to his Son) thou muſt come thy ſelf, and be made a Curſe for their Sin: Well (ſaith Chriſt) thy will be done in it; tho I loſe my Life, tho it coſt me the beſt blood in my heart, yet let me deliver them from ſin: This exceedingly heightens Chriſts love, that he ſhould foreſee thy ſin, and that yet he ſhould love. Many times we ſet our Love on ſome outward unthankful Creatures, and we ſay, could I but have foreſeen this untowardneſs, they ſhould never have had my Love: but now the Lord did foreſee all thy ſins, and all thy ill requitals for love, and yet it did not once his love towards thee, but he puts this in the Covenant, Ezek. 36. 25. I will forgive their Iniquities, and remember their ſins no more.

4. God in the Covenant gives thee Holineſs and Sanctification. I will ſprinkle clean water upon you, and ye ſhall be clean from all filthineſs, and from all your Idols will I cleanſe you: This Holineſs is our excellency in the eyes of Men and Angels: this is the Crown and Diadem upon the heads of Saints: Pſal. 16. 3. Whence David calls them by the name of excellent ones. Holineſs is a Spirit of glory, 1 Pet. 4. 14. 1 Pet. 4. 14. it is the delight of God: As a Father delights himſelf in ſeeing his own Image in his Children, ſo God delights himſelf in the Holineſs of his Saints: God loved them before with a love of benevolence and good-will, but now he loves them with a Pſal. 47. 11. Pſal. 149. 4. love of complacency. The Lord takes pleaſure in thoſe that fear him, the Lord takes pleaſure in his People. Holineſs is the very Eſſence of God, the Divine Nature of God: O what is this, that God ſhould put his own Nature into thee; You are partakers of the Divine Nature. O what a love is this that God ſhould put his own Life into thee? That he ſhould enable thee to live the very ſame life that he himſelf lives? Remember that piece of the Covenant, I will put my Law into their inward parts, and write it in their hearts.

5. God in the Covenant gives thee the knowledge of himſelf: It may be thou kneweſt him before: But 'tis another kind of knowledge that God now gives thee than thou hadſt before. When God teaches the Soul to know him, it looks on God with another eye: It ſees now another beauty in God than ever it ſaw before: For all that knowledge that it had before, bred not love: Only Covenant-knowledge of God works in the Soul a true love of God. But how doth this Covenant-knowledge work this love? I ſhall tell you my own experiences: I go through all the Virtues, Graces and Excellencies that are moſt amiable: And I look in the Scriptures, and there I find them in God alone: If ever I ſaw any excellency in any Man, or in any Creature, I think with my ſelf, there is more in God that made that Creature: He that made the Eye ſhall he not ſee? And ſo, he that made that lovelineſs, is not he lovely? Now when by theſe Mediums I have preſented God thus lovely to my Soul, then I begin to feel my heart to warm. As when I conceive ſuch an Idea of a man, that he is of ſuch a carriage, behaviour, diſpoſition, that he hath a mind thus, and thus framed, qualified and beautified, why then I love him; ſo when I apprehend the Lord aright, when I obſerve him as he is deſcribed in his Word, when I obſerve his doings, and conſider his workings, and learn from all theſe together a right Idea, opinion or apprehenſion of him, then my will follows my underſtanding, and my affections follow them both; and I come to love God, and to delight in God. O here's a ſweet knowledge! Surely it was God's love in Chriſt to put this bleſſed Article into the Covenant of grace; They ſhall all know me from the leaſt of them unto the greateſt of them, ſaith the Lord.

6. God in the Covenant of grace gives thee his Son. John 13. 6 God ſo loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whoſoever believeth in him ſhould not periſh, but have everlaſting life. Nay more, as God hath given thee his Son, ſo he hath given thee himſelf. O my Soul, wouldſt thou not think it a marvellous love, if God ſhould ſay to thee, Come Soul I will give thee all the world for thy Portion; or that I may give thee a teſtimony that I love thee, I will make another World for thy ſake, and I will make thee Emperor of that World alſo. Surely thou wouldſt ſay, God loves me dearly; ay, but in that God hath given thee his Son, and given thee himſelf, this is a greater degree of Love. Chriſtians! Stand amazed; Oh! What love is this to the Children of Men! Oh! That we ſhould live to have our ears filled with this ſound from Heaven! I will be a God to thee and to thy Seed after thee, I am the Lord thy God; I will be their God, and they ſhall be my People. O my Soul, where haſt thou been? Rouſe up, and recollect, and ſet before thee all theſe paſſages of God's Love in Chriſt; are not theſe ſtrong attractives to gain thy love; What wilt thou do? Canſt thou chuſe to love the Lord thy God? Shall not all this love of God in Chriſt to thee conſtrain thy love? It is the expreſſion of the Apoſtle, The Love of God conſtrains us: God in Chriſt is the 1 Cor. 5. 14. very Element of Love, and whither ſhould love go but to the Element? Air goes to Air, and Earth to Earth, and all the Rivers to the Sea: Every Element will to its proper place: 1 John 4. 16. Now God is Love, and whither ſhould thy Love be carried, but to this Ocean, or Sea of Love? Come my Beloved (ſaid the Spouſe Cant. 2. 12 to Chriſt) let us get up early to the Vineyards, let us ſee if the Vines flouriſh, whether the tender Grapes appear; there I will give thee my Loves: The flouriſhing of the Vine, and the appearing of the tender grapes are the fruits of the graces of God in the Aſſemblies of his Saints; now whereſoever theſe things appear whether in Aſſemblies, or in ſecret Ordinances, then and there (ſaith the Bride) will I give thee my Loves; when thou comeſt to the Word Prayer, Meditation, be ſure of this, to give Chriſt thy love: What? Doth Chriſt manifeſt his preſence there? Is there any abounding of his graces there? O let thy love abound: By how much more thou feeleſt Gods Love towards thee, by ſo much more do thou love thy God again: Many ſins being forgiven, how ſhouldſt thou but love much.

Sect. VII. Of joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

WE muſt joy in Jeſus as carrying on the great work of our Salvation in a way of Covenant. I know our joy here is but in part; ſuch is the excellency of ſpiritual joy, that it is reſerved for Heaven; God will not permit it to be pure and perfect here below: And yet ſuch as it is (though mingled with cares and pains) it is a bleſſed duty; it is the light of our ſouls: and were it quite taken away, our lives would be nothing but Horror and Confuſion: O my Soul, if thou didſt not hope to encounter joy in all thy acts, thou wouldeſt remain languiſhing and immoveable, thou wouldeſt be without action and vigour, thou wouldeſt ſpeak no more of Jeſus, or of a Covenant of grace, or of God, or Chriſt, or Life or glory. ——Well then go on, O my Soul, and joy in Jeſus; if thou loveſt him, what ſhould hinder thy rejoycing in him? It is a Maxim, that as Love proceeds, ſo if there be nothing that retains appetite it always goes from Love to Joy. Eph. 5. 2. One motion of Appetite towards good is to enjoy it: Now Love conſiſts in union, and joy in fruition; for what is fruition, but a joy that we find in the poſſeſſion of that thing we Love? Much ado there is amongſt Philoſophers concerning the difference of Love and Joy. Some give it thus; as in the motion of fluid Bodies which run towards their Center, and think to find their reſt there; but being there, they ſtop not, and therefore they return, and ſcatter themſelves on themſelves, they ſwell and overflow: ſo in the paſſion of Love, the Appetite runs to the beloved Object, and unites it ſelf to it, and yet its motion ends not there? for by this paſſion of joy it returns the ſame way; again it ſcatters ſelf on it ſelf, and overflows thoſe Powers which are neareſt to it; by this effuſion the ſoul doubles on the Image of the good it hath received, and ſo it thinks to poſſeſs it more; it diſtills it ſelf into that faculty, which firſt acquainted it with the knowledge of the Object, and by that means it makes all the parts of the Soul concur to the poſſeſſion of it. Hence they ſay, That joy is an effuſſion of the Appetite, whereby the Soul ſpreads it ſelf on what is good, to poſſeſs it the more perfectly.

But not to ſtay in the inquiry of its Nature, O my Soul, be thou in the exerciſe of this Joy; Is there not cauſe? Come ſee, and own thy Bleſſedneſs; take notice of the great things the Lord hath done for thee, As,———1. He hath made a Covenant with thee of temporal mercies; thou haſt all thou haſt by freeholding of Covenant-Grace: Thy Bread is by Covenant, thy ſleep is by Covenant, thy ſafety from Sword is by the Covenant, the very tilling of thy Land is by a Covenant of Grace, Ezek. 36. 34. O how ſweet is this? Every Crum is from Chriſt, and by virtue of a Covenant of Grace.

2 He hath made a Covenant with thee, of ſpiritual mercies; even a Covenant of Peace, and Grace, and Bleſſing, and Life for evermore; God is become thy God, he is all things to thee; he hath forgiven thy ſins, he hath given thee his Spirit, to lead thee, to ſanctifie thee, to uphold thee in that ſtate wherein thou ſtandeſt; and at laſt he will bring thee to a full enjoyment of himſelf in Glory, where thou ſhalt bleſs him and rejoice before him with joy unſpeakable and full of Glory. O pluck up thy heart, lift up thy head, ſtrengthen the weak hands and the feeble knees; ſerve the Lord with gladneſs and joyfulneſs of Spirit, conſidering the day of thy Salvation draweth nigh. Write it in Letters of Gold, that thy God is in Covenant with thee, to love thee, to bleſs thee, and to ſave thee. yet a little while, and he that ſhall come will come, and receive thee to himſelf, and then thou ſhalt fully know what it is to have God to be thy God, or to be in Covenant with God. I know theſe Objects rejoice not every heart; a Man out of Covenant, if he look on God, he is a conſuming fire: If on the Law, it is a Sentence of Condemnation; if on the Earth, it brings forth Thorns by reaſon of ſins; if on Heaven, the Gate is ſhut; if on the Signs in Heaven, Fire, Meteors, Thunder, ſtrike in him a terror. But O my Soul, this is not thy caſe: A man in Covenant with God looks on theſe things with another eye; if he looks on God, he ſaith, This is my Father; if on Chriſt, This is my elder Brother; if on Angels, Theſe are my Keepers; if on Heaven, This is my Houſe; If on the Signs of Heaven, Fire, Meteors, Thunder, Theſe are but the effects of my Father's Power; if on the Law, The Son of God hath fulfilled it for me; if on Proſperity, God hath yet better things for me in ſtore; if on adverſity, Jeſus Chriſt hath ſuffered much more for me than this; if on the Devil, Death, and Hell, he ſaith with the Apoſtle, O Death! Where is thy Sting? O Grave! Where is thy Victory? Come poor ſoul, it is not thus with thee? What? Art thou in Covenant with God, or art thou not? If yet thou doubteſt, review thy grounds of hope, and leave not there, till thou comeſt up to ſome meaſure of aſſurance: But if thou art perſwaded of thy Intereſt, O then rejoyce, therein; it is not a Goſpel-duty to rejoice in the Lord and again to rejoyce? The Lord is delighted in thy delights: he would fain have it thy conſtant frame and daily buſineſs to live in joy, and to be always delighting thy ſelf in him.

Phil. 4.4.

This one promiſe, I am the Lord thy God, is enough to cauſe thy appetite to run to it, and to unite it ſelf to it, by Love; and to ſcatter it ſelf on it, and to overflow thoſe powers of the Soul that are neareſt to it, that every part of the Soul may concur to the poſſeſſion of it. Bleſs the Lord, O my Soul (ſaith David) and all that is within me bleſs his holy Name. So rejoice in the Lord, O my Soul, and all that is within me, rejoice in the name of God. This is true joy, when the ſoul unites it ſelf to the good poſſeſſed in all its parts: And was there ever ſuch an object of true joy as this; Heark, as if Heaven opened, and the voice came from God in Heaven; I will be a God to thee and to thy ſeed after thee: I am the Lord thy God; and I will be thy God. What? Doth not thy heart leap in thy boſom at this ſound? John the Baptiſt leaped in his Mothers womb for joy, at the ſound of Maries Voice; and doth not thy ſoul ſpring within thee at this voice of God? O wonder! Some can delight themſelves in ſin; and is not God better than ſin? Others more refined, and indeed ſanctified, can delight themſelves in remiſſion of Sin, in Grace, Pardon, Holineſs, Fore-thoughts of Heaven; how exceedingly have ſome gracious hearts been raviſhed with ſuch thoughts? But is not God, the objective happineſs, the fountain bleſſedneſs, more rejoicing than all theſe? why? Dear ſoul if there be in thee any rejoicing faculty, now awake, and ſtir it up; it is the Lord thy God whom thou art to rejoice in: It is he whom the glorious ſpirits joy in: It is he who is the top of heaven's joy, their exceeding joy: And it is he who is thy God as well as their God. Enough! Enough! Or if this be not enough, hear thy Duty as the Lord commands thee: Rejoice in the Lord, Phil. 3. 1. Be glad ye Children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God, Joel 2. 23. Rejoice in the Lord all ye Righteous, for praiſe is comely for the upright, Pſal. 33. 1. Rejoice in the Lord ye Righteous. and give thanks at the remembrance of his holyneſs, Pſal. 97. 12. Let all thoſe that put their truſt in thee rejoyce, let them ever ſhout for joy, becauſe thou defendeſt them; let them alſo that love thy Name be joyful in thee, Pſal. 5. 11. Let the Righteous be glad, let them rejoice before God, yea let them exceedingly rejoice, Pſal. 68. 3. Glory ye in his holy Name, let the heart of them rejoice that ſeek the Lord, Pſal. 105. 3. Let Iſrael rejoice in him that made him, Let the Children of Zion be joyful in their King, Pſal. 149. 3. Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice O ye Righteous, and ſhout for joy all ye that are upright in heart, Pſal. 23. 11. O what preſſing Commands are theſe?

Sect. 8. Of calling on Jeſus in that reſpect.

1. WE muſt call on Jeſus, or on God the Father in and through Jeſus in reference to this gracious Covenant: Now this calling on God contains Prayer and Praiſe.

1. We muſt pray: We muſt uſe Arguments of Faith challenging God, Turn thou me, and I ſhall be turned: Why; For thou art the Lord my God. This Covenant is the ground on which all prayers muſt be bottomed; The Covenant we know contains all the Promiſes, and what is Prayer but Promiſes turned into Petitions? Thus prayed the Prophet Jeremy, Do not abhor us for thy Names ſake, do not diſgrace the Throne of thy Glory, remember, break not thy Covenant with us.——Why? Art not thou he the Lord our God? And thus prayed the Prophet Iſaiah, Be not wrath very ſore, neither remember iniquity for ever, behold we beſeech thee; and why ſo, We are all thy people: q. d. Every one doth for its own: The Prince for his People, the Father for his Children, and the Shepherd for his Sheep: And will not God do for his own in Covenant with him? Be thy ſoul in the ſaddeſt deſertion, yet come and ſpread the Covenant before God: A ſoul in the greateſt depth, ſwiming on this Covenant of Grace, it keeps it from ſinking; whence Chriſt in his blackeſt, ſaddeſt hour, prayed thus, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? Be thy Soul in trouble for ſin and prevailing corruption: Yet go to God, and plead his promiſe and Covenant: Say as Jehoſhaphat, Lord, I am ſo born down by the power of my ſin, that I know not what to do, only mine eyes are unto thee; O do thou ſubdue mine iniquities. Be thy ſoul troubled for want of ſtrength to do this or that duty; yet go to God and Chriſt in the Covenant of Grace, and ſay, Lord thou konweſt I have no ſtrength of my ſelf, I am a barren Wilderneſs, but thou haſt entred into a Covenant of Ezek. 36. 27. Grace with me, that thou wilt put thy Law into my inward parts, thou wilt cauſe me to keep thy judgments, and do them, Ezek. 36. 27. As ſometimes Judg. 6. 16. thou ſaidſt to Gideon; I have ſent thee, therefore I will be with thee, Judg. 6. 16. Many are apt to ſet upon their duties in their own ſtrength; but Oh! My ſoul, look thou to the promiſe of Grace, and of the Spirit, and put them in ſuit, and alledge them unto Chriſt. Many are apt to work out their Sanctifications by their Watchfulneſs, Reſolutions, Vows, Promiſes made unto God, but alas, were there not more help in God's Promiſes which he makes to us, than in our promiſes which we make to him, we might lie in our pollutions for ever. O here's the way; in every want, or ſtrait, or neceſſity, fly to God and Chriſt, ſaying, Thou art our Father and we are thy People, O break not thy Covenant with us. I confeſs ſtrong expreſſions and affections are good in Prayer, but ſurely ſtrength of faith in the Covenant of God is the greateſt ſtrength of our Prayer.

Object. Here it may be ſome Soul will object, O if I were aſſured that I were in Covenant with God, thus would I pray: But alas, I am a ſtranger, an Alien, and ſo have been to this very day, I have no part in the Covenant.

Anſw. I anſwer, If thou art not actually in Covenant, yet thou may'ſt be in Covenant in reſpect of God's purpoſe and gracious intention. Howſoever, to encourage all to ſeek unto God, Conſider theſe Particulars.

1. The Freeneſs of the promiſe in this Covenant Iſa. 55. 2. Rev. 22. 17. of Grace: Come and buy Wine without Money or Money-worth, come, and drink of the Waters of Life freely.

2. The extent of the Promiſe in this Covenant of Grace: I will pour out my Spirit upon all fleſh; hence the Goſpel is compared to a Feaſt, and God in- Mat. 22. 9. vites univerſally: As many as you find, bid to the marriage. As perſons are in eſtate, ſo they invite, and ſo they feaſt, Now Chriſt is a great King over all the Earth; he hath one Houſe that will hold all; he hath one Table that will hold all; Yea, he hath one Diſh that will ſerve all; and anſwerably he invites all: Ho every one that thirſteth.

3. The forwardneſs of Chriſt, that gives to every one that asketh, according to his promiſe. Hadſt John 4. 10. thou but asked (ſaid Chriſt to the Samaritan Woman) I would have given thee living water. Mark here the occaſion of Chriſt's words; Chriſt being weary and thirſty by reaſon of his Journey, he asked of the Woman a Cup of water to drink; no great matter; he asks but a Cup of water, and the Woman ſtands at the well-ſide where was water enough; yet ſhe gives not, but ſtands wondering that he being a Jew ſhould ask water of her that was a Samaritan; well, ſaith Chriſt, thou denieſt me a Cup of cold water, being weary and thirſty, but hadſt thou asked of me, I would have given thee water of Life. Wonderful! Chriſt is more ready to give water of Life, the very Spirit of God, to a poor ſinner, than we are to give a cup of common water to a thirſty Soul. Go then thou that haſt denied the leaſt mercy and kindneſs to Chriſt in any of his Members, yet ſeek Grace from him, O look up unto Jeſus! Ask his Spirit, intreat him to make thy heart new within thee; plead the promiſe of his Covenant, and wait in hope.

2. We muſt praiſe: 1. If we would have the bleſſing, let us ſeek it with the ſame mind that God offers it (i. e.) with a purpoſe and deſire to have Grace exalted; thus Moſes ſought pardon to this very end, that his mercy might appear; If thou wilt Exod. 32. 32. pardon their Sin, thy mercy ſhall appear, and we ſhall be thankful unto thee for it; ſo the words are made out by Expoſitors, which in the Text are either paſſionately or modeſtly ſuſpended. Theſe are prevailing requeſts with God, when we plead for the glorifying of his own Grace. Father glorifie thy Name, ſaid John 12. 28. Chriſt; and preſently there comes a voice out of the Cloud, I have glorified it, and I will glorifie it again.

2. If we have the bleſſing already, then be ſure to aſcribe glory unto him, that hath made good his promiſe unto us, Who is a God like unto thee, who Micah 7. 18. paſſeſt by the tranſgreſſions of the remnant of thy Heritage? We ſhould make the praiſe of his Grace to ring through the world, that Heaven and Earth might take notice of it, and wonder at the grace that hath been ſhewed us. I will mention the loving kindneſs of the Lord, and the praiſes of the Lord, according to all Iſa. 63. 7. that the Lord hath beſtowed on us, and the great goodneſs towards the Houſe of Iſrael, which he hath beſtowed on them, according to his Mercies, and according to the Multitude of his loving kindneſſes. See how the Prophet mentions the kindneſſes, the loving kindneſſes, the multitude of his loving kindneſſes, the goodneſs, and the great goodneſs of God; he could hardly get off it? he would have God and Grace to have all the Glory: O my Soul, hath God entred thee into a Covenant of Grace? Why then bleſs the Lord O my Pſal. 103. 1. ſoul, and all that is within me, bleſs his holy Name; But of this more anon.

Sect. 9. Of conforming to Jeſus in that reſpect.

9 WE muſt conform to Jeſus in reference to this Covenant of Grace: We are changed by beholding, into the ſame Image, 2 Cor. 3. 18. If we look unto Jeſus in this reſpect, this Look will have ſuch an influence upon us, that we ſhall conform to Jeſus. But wherein conſiſts this Conformity? I anſwer, in theſe ſeveral particulars:

1. God in Chriſt offers his Covenant to us; ſo we through Chriſt ſhould embrace his offer.

2. God in Chriſt keeps Covenant with us; ſo we through Chriſt ſhould be careful to keep Covenant with him.

3. God in Chriſt hath highly honoured us as we are his People, So we through Chriſt ſhould highly honour him as he is our God.

1. God in Chriſt offers a Covenant of Grace to us; So we through Chriſt ſhould embrace this gracious offer. His offers have appeared from firſt to laſt: As, 1. To Adam. 2. To Abraham. 3. To Moſes. 4. To David. 5. To Iſrael, and to Judah. Take notice of it in that great promiſe of the Covenant, I will be thy God: q. d. Come Soul, if thou wilt but have me, I am thine, here I offer my ſelf, my ſon, my ſpirit, Juſtification, Sanctification, Adoption, Salvation: whatſoever I am, or whatſoever I have, all is thine, if thou wilt but accept of me: Look over all this wide, wide world, and if there be any thing in it that can pleaſe thy ſoul; and when thou haſt gone through all the world, then come and take a view of me, and ſee me in my glory, Beauty and excellency; view me in my attributes, and ſee if thou findeſt not enough in me worthy of thy acceptance: All this, and more than this, nay more than eye can ſee, or ear can hear, or heart can conceive I offer to thee, if thou wilt but have me; Loe, I will be thy God. So Chriſtians! God is firſt with us, he is the firſt mover, he begins with us before we begin with him: I will bring them (ſaith God) into the bond of the Covenant. Now in this let us conform; doth he offer?

fer? O let us embrace the offer! doth he lead the way? O let us follow him ſtep by ſtep in that very way as he goes before us! Let us not preſcribe unto God, let not us preſume to appoint the Conditions of the Covenant; let us not ſeek to wind about the Promiſe of Grace to our own Mind and Will: Let us not ſay, We will have it thus, thus and thus it ſhall be, or elſe we will admit of no Conditions of Peace: But, O come, take God and Chriſt upon his own Terms; ſubmit to that way of the Covenant, and to thoſe Conditions of Peace which the Lord preſcribeth; why? This is to comform to his gracious Offers. There is much of this Offer of Chriſt and conforming to Chriſt, and therefore give me leave to enlarge. As in the Offer God uſually ſcatters ſome little Seeds of Faith in the hearts of thoſe that he will bring to himſelf; ſo it is worth the while to obſerve the work of Faith in receiving and accepting of this gracious Offer; only I ſhall not herein limit the Lord; but I will ſhew what ſome conceive the moſt uſual and ordinary courſe of Faith's working, and of the ſouls conforming to Jeſus Chriſt in its cloſing with Chriſt. As thus—— 1. Faith hearing the great things propoſed in the Covenant of Grace, it ſtirs up in the heart a ſerious conſideration of their bleſſed condition, that are in Covenant with God;
Deut. 33. 29. bleſſed art thou O Iſrael, a People ſaved by the Lord——
What Nation in the Earth is like thy People, even like
2 Sam. 7. 2, 3. Iſrael, whom God went to redeem for a People unto himſelf? Time was, (ſaith the Soul) that I counted the proud bleſſed, and the rich bleſſed, and the honourable bleſſed; time was when I placed my bleſſedneſs in other things, as in Riches, Preferments, Favour, Credit with men; but now theſe are become vile, and things of no value; Faith makes us change
Pſal. 144. 15. our voice, and to ſpeak as the Pſalmiſt, Bleſſed are the People whoſe God is the Lord.

2. Faith ſtirs in the heart a longing deſire after this condition; good being believed, cannot but be deſired and longed for; Deſire naturally ſprings from the apprehenſion of any good being made known; hence Faith (we ſay) is both in the underſtanding and in the will as it is in the Underſtanding, it opens the eye to ſee, and clearly to diſcern the Bleſſing of the Covenant; at it is in the will, it purſues and deſires the attaining of the Grace revealed; nor are theſe deſires faint deſires, but very earneſt, eager, violent; ſometimes it is called a thriſting after God; and ſometimes a panting after God; and ſometimes a gaſping after God: It is ſuch a deſire as cannot be ſatisfied by any thing without God himſelf.

3. Faith ſtirs in the heart ſome hope to enjoy this condition; I ſay ſome hope; for Faith being as yet in the Bud, or in the Seed, though its deſire be ſtrong, yet hope of obtaining is but feeble and weak; hence Faith is taken up with many thoughts: fain would the Soul be joined to Chriſt, but being as yet diſmayed with the ſenſe of Sin, it ſtands like the Publican, a far off; as yet Faith can ſcarce ſpeak a word to God, only with Jonah, it can look towards, his holy Temple. As a poor weak babe who lies in the Cradle ſick, and weak, and ſpeechleſs, only it can look towards the Mother for help; the caſt of the eye expreſſeth in ſome ſort what it would ſay; thus Faith being weak, it would ſpeak to God, but it cannot, or dares not; only it hath its eye towards
2 Chr. 20. 12. Heaven; as Jehoſhaphat ſometimes ſaid, Our eyes are towards thee. It feels a need, and fain would have; but ſenſe of unworthyneſs, and the ſenſe of the Law ſtrikes ſuch a fear into the heart, that it dares not come near. Conſider Iſraels Caſe, and we ſhall find it parallel to this: God proclaims on the Mount, I am the Lord thy God: what was this but Gods offer to be in Covenant with Iſrael? and yet the terrour of the Thunder was ſo great, that Iſrael durſt not come near: a poor Soul hearing the Lord to offer himſelf to be in Covenant in him, Come ſoul, I am the Lord thy God. Why alas it dear not come near: What am I the Lord? or what is my Fathers Houſe, that I ſhould enter into a Covenant with the moſt high God? The Soul is unquiet within it ſelf, it is hurried to and fro, and finds no reſt; it hears of Peace with God, but feels it not; there is much ado with the Soul to ſuſtain its hope; only Faith ſets the mind again and again to conſider the promiſes, invitations, and all other encouragements, which God hath given in his Word.

4. Faith ſtirs in the heart ſome reſolves to go to Jonah 3. 9. Gods Throne, and to ſue for Grace; Faith ſpeaks
Amos 5. 15. within as they did, Who can tell whether the Lord will return? And it may be the Lord God of Hoſts will be gracious to the remnant of Joſeph. So, Who can tell? ſaith the Soul; It may be the Lord will, ſaith the Soul: and this begets ſome reſolves as thoſe Lepers in Samaria knew they were ſure to periſh, if they ſate ſtill; therefore they reſolved to try whether the Aramites would ſave them: Or as Eſther, knowing all was undone if ſhe would not ſtir, ſhe would try whether the King would hold out his Golden Scepter: So the poor Soul, knowing there is no way but periſhing, if it continue in its Natural State, therefore it reſolves to go to God: Doth the Lord ſay, Seek my Face? Why, thy Face Lord will I ſeek, —— Doth the Lord ſay, Come unto Me? Why, Behold Lord, I
Jer. 3. 22. come unto Thee; for Thou art the Lord our God. And now, the Soul betakes it ſelf unto God, it ſends up Complaints of it ſelf, it laments its own ſinful Rebellions, it puts out a whole Volley of Sighs, Groans, and ſtrong Cries towards Heaven, it confeſſeth with Grief and bitter Mourning, all its former iniquities, it ſmites with Repenting Ephraim, upon its Thigh; it lies down at God's Foot-ſtool, it puts its Mouth in the Duſt, it acknowledgeth God's Righteouſneſs if He ſhould condemn, and caſt off for ever; and yet withal, it pleads for Grace, that it may be accepted as one of His: It ſays unto God; Lord, I have nothing to plead, why Thou may'ſt not Condemn me; but if Thou wilt receive me, Thy Mercy ſhall appear in me: O let Thy Mercy appear, take away all iniquity, and receive me graciouſly. Thus the Soul lies at God's Throne, and pleads for Grace.

5. As Faith is thus earneſt in ſuing to God for Grace, ſo it is no leſs vigilant and watchful in obſerving what anſwer comes from the Lord; even as the Priſoner at the Bar, not only cries for Mercy, but he marks every word which falls from the Judges Mouth, if any thing may give him hope; or as Benhadad's Servants lay at catch with the King of Iſrael, to ſee if they could take occaſion by any thing which fell from him, to plead for the Life of Benhadad: So the poor Soul that is now pleading for Life and Grace, it watcheth narrowly, to ſee if any thing may come from God, any intimation of Favour, any word of Comfort, that may tend to Peace. O let me hear Joy and Gladneſs.——I will hear what the Lord will ſay; for He will ſpeak Peace unto his People.

6. As Faith waits for an anſwer, ſo accordingly it demeans it ſelf.

1. Sometimes God anſwers not, and Faith takes on, and follows God ſtill, and cries after Him with more Strength; as reſolving never to give over, till the Lord either ſave or deſtroy: Nay, if the Lord will diſtroy, Faith chuſeth to die at God's Feet; as when Joab was bidden to come forth from the Horns of the Altar, and to take his death in another Place; Nay, (ſaith Joab) but I will die here:
Luke 22. 44. Or, as when Chriſt ſaw no deliverance come in his Agony, He prayed more earneſtly: So a poor Soul in the time of its Agony, when it is ſtriving as for Life and Death, if help come not at firſt call, it prays again, and that more earneſtly. Faith is very urgent with God; and the more ſlack the Lord ſeems in anſwering, the more earneſt is Faith in plying God with its prayers: It will wreſtle with God, as Jacob with the Angel; it will take no Denial, but will crave ſtill: Bleſs me, even me alſo; O ſend me not away without a Bleſſing.

2. Sometimes God anſwers in part; He ſpeaks as it were out of a Dark Cloud; He gives ſome little Eaſe, but he ſpeaks not full Peace: In this manner He ſpeaks to the Woman; Go thy way, and ſin no more. John 8. 11. He doth not ſay; Go in Peace, thy Sin is forgiven thee; No, no; but, Go thy way, and ſin no more. Hereby Faith uſually gets a little Strength, and looks after the Lord with more Hope; It begins to plead with God, as Moſes did; O Lord, Thou haſt begun to ſhew Grace unto Thy Servant; go on, Lord, to manifeſt unto me all Thy Goodneſs. Here Faith takes a little hold on the Covenant of Grace: It may be the Hand of Faith is feeble, ſhaking and trembling; yet it takes a little hold, it receives ſome encouragement, it finds that its former ſeeking is not in vain.

3. Sometimes God anſwers more fully and ſatisfactorily; He applies ſome Promiſe of Grace to the Conſcience by His Spirit; He lets the Soul feel and taſte the Comfort of himſelf, or of ſuch and ſuch a Promiſe, more effectually than ever before: Fear not, (ſaith God) for I am thy God. Iſa. 41. 10. Here Faith waxeth bold, and with a glad Heart entertains the Promiſe brought home unto it. The Apoſtle calls this the Embracing of the Promiſes: Heb. 11. 13. Now, Embracing implies an Affectionate Receiving with both Arms opened: So the Soul embraceth the Promiſe, and the Lord Jeſus in the Promiſe; and having Him, like Simeon, in his Arms, it lays Him in the Boſom, it brings Him into the Chamber of the Heart, there to reſt and abide for ever. And now is the Covenant ſtruck betwixt God, and the Soul: Now the Soul poſſeſſeth God in Chriſt, as her own; it reſts in Him, and is ſatisfied with Him, it praiſeth God for his Mercy, as Simeon did, when he had Chriſt in his Arms; it commits it ſelf wholly, and for ever to that Goodneſs and Mercy, which hath been revealed to it.

O my Soul, Haſt thou come thus by little and little, to touch the Top of Chriſt's Golden Scepter? Why then, Is thy Hand given to God? Then art thou entred into a Covenant of Peace? Chriſt's Offering, and thy Receiving the Covenant of Grace, bears a ſweet Agreement, an harmonious Conformity.

2. God in Chriſt keeps Covenant with us; ſo we through Chriſt ſhould be careful and diligent to keep Covenant with God: In the Things of this Life, a ſtrict Eye is had to the Covenants we make. Now, it is not enough for us to enter into Covenant with God; but we muſt keep it: The Lord never will, never hath broken Covenants on His Part; but Alas, we on our Parts have broken the firſt Covenant of Works: Take heed we break not the ſecond; for then there remains not any more place for any more Covenants. As the Lord keeps Covenant with us; ſo let us keep Covenant with Him: and therein is the Bleſſing; The Mercy of the Lord is from Everlaſting to Everlaſting,—to ſuch as keep his Covenant, Pſal. 103. 17, 18.

There is much alſo in this keeping of the Covenant; and therefore give me leave a little to enlarge. Sundry Acts of Faith are required to this keeping of the Covenant: As thus,———

1. Faith in keeping the Covenant, hath always an Eye to the Rule and Command of God: As in Things to be believed, Faith looks on the Promiſe; ſo in Things to be practiſed, Faith looks upon the Command. Faith will preſent no ſtrange Fire before the Lord, it knows that God will accept of nothing, but what is according to his own Will.

2. As Faith takes direction from the Rule; ſo in keeping of the Covenant, it directs us to the right End, that is, to the Glory of God. We are of Him, and live in Him; and by Faith we muſt live to Him, and for Him: For none of us liveth to himſelf, and no Man dieth to himſelf; for whether we live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore or die, we are the Lord's. Rom. 14. 7, 8. Again, He died for all, that they which live ſhould not henceforth live unto themſelves, but unto Him which died for them. 2 Cor. 5. 15. This God claims as His right and due: Thou ſhalt glorifie Me, ſaith God: Pſal. 50. 15. Yes, ſaith Faith, I will glorifie thee for ever. Pſal. 86. 12.

3. Faith in keeping the Covenant, ſhields the Soul againſt all Hinderances that it meets withal: As for inſtance, Sometimes we are tempted on the Right Hand by the Baits and Allurements of the World; All theſe will I give thee, ſaith the World, if thou wilt be mine, but then Faith overcomes the World, by ſetting afore us better Things than theſe; Sometimes we are tempted on the Left Hand, by Croſſes, Afflictions, Perſecutions, and Sufferings for the Name of Chriſt; but then Faith helps us to overcome, and makes us Conquerours through Chriſt that loved us, by ſetting before us the End of our Faith and Patience. It is ſaid of Jeſus, That for the Joy that was ſet before Him, He endured the Croſs and deſpiſed the Shame. Heb. 12. 2.

4. Faith encourageth the Soul, that the Lord will have a Gracious Reſpect unto its keeping Covenant: In every Nation he that feareth Him, and worketh Righteouſneſs, is accepted with Him. Acts 10. 33. Surely this is no ſmall encouragement to well-doing: What would not a Servant do, if he knew his Lord would take it in good part? Now, Faith aſſures the Soul, there is not one Prayer, one Holy Deſire, or one good Thought, or Word which is ſpoken or done to the Glory of God, but God takes notice of it, and accepts it in good part. Then they that feared the Lord, Mal. 3. 16. ſpake often one to another; and the Lord hearkned, and heard it; and a Book of Remembrance was written before Him, for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon His Name.

5. Faith furniſheth the Soul with Strength and Ability to keep the Covenant: By Faith we get a Power and Strength of Grace. As thus:———

1. By Faith we look at Chriſt, as having all Fulneſs of Grace in Himſelf; It pleaſed the Father, that in Him ſhould all Fulneſs dwell: Col. 1. 19. All others have but their Meaſures, ſome more, ſome leſs, according to the Meaſure of the Gift of Chriſt; but Chriſt hath received the Spirit, not by Meaſure, but in the Fulneſs of it. John 3. 34.

2. By Faith we know, that whatever Fulneſs of Grace is in Chriſt, He had it not for Himſelf only, but for us: He received Gifts for Men, ſaid the Pſalmiſt; Pſal. 68. 18. not for Himſelf meerly, but for Men: Of His Fulneſs we receive Grace for Grace, ſaith John: John 1. 16. His Wiſdom to make us wiſe, His Meekneſs to make us meek, and His Patience to make us patient.

3. By Faith we look at Chriſt, as Faithful to diſtribute ſuch Grace unto us, as He received for us: He is faithful in all the Houſe of God; Heb. 4. 2. He is Faithful in diſpenſing all the Treaſures of Grace committed unto Him, for His Churches Good: He keeps nothing back: His Faithfulneſs will not ſuffer Him to keep that to Himſelf, which he hath received for us. Hence as the Pſalmiſt ſaith, He received Gifts for Men; Pſal. 68. 18. ſo the Apoſtle renders it, He gave Gifts unto Men: Epheſ. 4. 8.

Men: As he receives, ſo he gives; being faithful in all that is committed to him.

4. By Faith we ſeek God, and beg Performance of his Promiſes according to our need. Do we want Wiſdom, Meekneſs, Patience, or any other Grace? Faith carries us by Prayer unto the Fountain, and in this way waits and reſpects to receive the Grace we want. As the Child by ſucking the Breaſt, draws forth Milk for its own Nouriſhment, and thereby it grows in ſtrength; ſo do we by the Prayer of Faith, ſuck from Chriſt, and from the promiſe of Grace, and by that means derive Strength to our inner man, to fulfil the Covenant which we have made with God.

6. As Faith Strengthens us; ſo if at any times, by occaſion or temptation, we fail in our Covenant-keeping, Faith recovers us, and reſtores us again to our former eſtate: I do not ſay, the Covenant can be broken betwixt God and Us; we may offend God, and fail in the ſervice of God; but till we refuſe God, and leave God, and chuſe another Maſter Lord and Husband beſides God, there is no Diſſolution of the Covenant of Grace. Now, this, a true Believer cannot do: He may fall, and fall often; yet he doth not fall, but he riſes again: He may turn aſide, but yet he returns again into the way of the Covenant. What a ſweet Point is this? Chriſtians, We may, and ſometimes we do walk weakly, in keeping of Covenants; our feet ſlip, and we ſtep aſide out of God's Path; yet Faith brings us back again to God: It caſts Shame on our Faces, that after all the Grace ſhewed us, we ſhould ſo ill requite God: It reminds us of thoſe Promiſes, Zech. 1. 3. Return unto Me, and I will return unto you.
1 Sam. 12. 20,22. Ye have done all this Wickedneſs, yet turn not aſide from following the Lord: ——— For the Lord will not forſake his People, for his great Names ſake; becauſe it hath pleaſeth the Lord to make you his people. In the minding of theſe, and ſuch other Promiſes, Faith doth Encourage us to turn unto God, to take Words unto our ſelves, and to plead the Covenant of his Grace towards us: This Work of Faith brought Peter back to Chriſt; whereas Judas wanting this Faith, lies down in deſperate Sorrow, never able to riſe up, or recover himſelf.

O my Soul! Art thou acquainted with theſe Acts of Faith, enabling thee in ſome good meaſure to keep Covenant with God? Then is there a ſweet Conformity betwixt Thee, and Jeſus.

3. God in Chriſt hath highly honoured us, as we are his people; ſo we through Chriſt ſhould honour Him highly, as He is our God: This is the main End of the Covenant; and I ſhall end with this: O my Soul, be like to God, bear the Image and Reſemblance of God thy Father, in this reſpect: He hath humbled Himſelf to advance Thee; O then humble thy ſelf to advance Him; endeavour every way to exalt his Name.

We are willing to be in Covenant with God, that we may ſet up our ſelves, that we may ſit upon Thrones, and poſſeſs a Kingdom: But we muſt think eſpecially of ſetting up the Lord upon his Throne: Aſcribe Greatneſs to our God, ſaith Moſes; make it a Name, and a Praiſe unto Him, that he hath vouchſafed to make us his People, and to take us into Covenant with Himſelf: Honour Him as he is God: but honour Him more abundantly, as he is our God; Who ſhould Honour Him, if his People will not? The World knows Him not; The Wicked will not ſeek after God, ——— God is not in all his thoughts. Pſal. 10.4. And, ſhall God have no honour? Shall He that ſtretched out the Heavens, and laid the Foundations of the Earth, and formed Man upon it, have no Glory? O yes! The Lord Himſelf anſwers; This People have I formed for My Self; they ſhall ſhew forth My Praiſe: Iſa. 43.21. Surely, God will have Praiſe from his own People, whom he hath taken unto Himſelf: He will be glorified in all thoſe that come near him. Lev. 10.3.

But, How ſhould we honour God? I anſwer: ——

1. We muſt ſet Him up as chief and higheſt in our eſteem: Kings account not themſelves honoured, if they be not ſet above other Men: And hence God's People have uſed ſuch Expreſſions concerning God, as do ſingle Him forth beyond the Compariſon of all Creatures. Thus Moſes; Who is like unto thee, glorious in Holineſs, fearful in Praiſes, doing Wonders? Exod. 15. 11. Thus David; Thou art great, O Lord God, for there is none like Thee, neither is there any God beſides Thee, according to all that we have heard with our Ears. 2 Sam. 7. 22. Thus Solomon, Lord God of Iſrael, there is no God, like unto Thee in Heaven above, or in the Earth beneath; who keepeſt Covenant and Mercy with Thy Servants? 1 King. 18. 22. Thus Micah; Who is a God like unto Thee, which paſſeſt by the Tranſgreſſions of the Remnant of thine Heritage? Mich. 7. 18. And thus ſhould we riſe up in our Thoughts and Apprehenſions of God, until we come to an Holy Ecſtaſie and Admiration of God.

2. We muſt count it our Bleſſedneſs, and higheſt Dignity, to be a People in Covenant with God. Are we Honourable? yet eſteem this as our greateſt Honour, that God is our God: Are we low and deſpiſed in the World? Yet count this Honour enough, that God hath lifted us up to be his People. Chriſtians, if when we are counted as things of nought, we can quiet our ſelves in this, that God is our God; if when we are perſecuted, impriſoned, diſtreſſed, we can ſay with Jacob, I have enough, becauſe the Lord hath Mercy on me, and hath taken me into Covenant with him; Surely then we do bear Witneſs of God before Heaven and Earth, that he is better to us than Corn, or Wine, or Oil, or whatſoever this World affords.

3. We muſt lie under the Authority of every Word of God, and we muſt conform our ſelves to the Examples of God; that is, we muſt labour to become Followers of God, and imitate his Vertues. It is a part of that Honour, which Children owe to their Parents to obey their Commands, and to imitate their Godly Example: We cannot honour God more, than when we are Humbed at his Feet to receive his word, Deut. 31.3 than when we renounce the Manners of the World, to become his Followers as dear Children. Eph. 5. 1. O think of this; For when we conform indeed, then are we Holy as he is Holy, and Pure as he is Pure; and then, How ſhould this but tend to the Honour and Glory of our Good God?

Thus far we have looked on Jeſus, as our Jeſus, in that dark Time, before his Coming in the Fleſh: Our next Work is to Look on Jeſus, carrying on the Great Work of Man's Salvation, in His Firſt Coming or Incarnation.

LOOKING UNTO JESUS,

In His Birth.

The Fourth Book.

LUKE 2. 25.

Let us now go even to Bethlehem, and ſee this Thing.

CHAP. I. SECT. I.

Of the Tidings of Chriſt.

IN this Period, as in the former, we ſhall firſt lay down the Object; and ſecondly, direct you how to Look unto it.

The Object is Jeſus, carrying on the Work of Man's Salvation, in His firſt Coming in the Fleſh, until His Coming again. But becauſe in this long Period we have many Tranſactions, which we cannot with Conveniency diſpatch together; we ſhall therefore break it into ſmaller pieces, and preſent this Object, Jeſus Chriſt: 1. In his Birth. 2. In his Life. 3. In his Death. 4. In his Reſurrection. 5. In his Aſcenſion, Seſſion at God's Right Hand, and Miſſion of his Holy Spirit. 6. In his Interceſſion for his Saints; in which Buſineſs he now is, and will be employed till his Second Coming to Judgment.

1. Firſt, For the Tranſactions of Jeſus in his Birth: Some things we muſt propound before, and ſome things after his Birth; ſo that we ſhall continue this Period till the Time of John's Baptiſm, or the Exerciſe of his Miniſtry upon Earth. Now in all the Tranſactions of this Time, we ſhall eſpecially handle theſe: 1. The Tidings of Chriſt. 2. The Conception of Chriſt. 3. The Duplicity of Natures in Chriſt. 4. The real Diſtinction in that Duty. 5. The wonderful Union, notwithſtanding that Diſtinction. 6. The Birth of Chriſt. 7. Some Conſequents after his Birth, whil'ſt yet a Child of Twelve Years old.

The Firſt Paſſage in Relation to his Birth, is, The Tidings of Chriſt: This appears, Luke 1. 26, 27, 28, &c. And in the Sixth Month, the Angel Gabriel was ſent from God, &c. I ſhall a little inſiſt on ſome of theſe Words. Luke 1. 26, 31.

1. The Meſſenger is an Angel. Man was too mean to carry the News of the Conception of God: Never any buſineſs was conceived in Heaven, that did ſo much concern the Earth, as the Conception of the God of Heaven in a Womb of Earth; no leſs therefore than an Angel was worthy to bear theſe Tidings; and never Angel received a greater Honour, than of this Embaſſage. Angels have been ſent to divers; as to Gideon, Manoah, David, Daniel, Eliah, Zechariah, &c. And then the Angel honoured the Meſſage; but here's a Meſſage that doth honour the Angel, he was highly glorious before; but this added to his glory. Indeed, the Incarnation of God could have no leſs a Reporter than the Angel of God: When God intended to begin his Goſpel, he would firſt viſit the World with his Angel, before he would viſit the World with his Son; His Angel muſt come in the Form of Man, before his Son muſt come in the Nature of Man.

This Angel ſalutes the Virgin; Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee; bleſſed art thou among Women. Luke 1. 28. Many Men and Women have been, and are the Spiritual Temples of God; but never was any the material Temple of God, but only Mary; and therefore, Bleſſed art thou amongſt Women: And yet we cannot ſay that ſhe was ſo Bleſſed in Bearing Chriſt, as ſhe was in believing in Chriſt; her Bearing indeed was more miraculous, but her Believing was more Beneficial to her Soul: That was her Privilege, but this was her Happineſs. Chriſtians, if we believe in Chriſt, and if we obey the Word of Chriſt, we are the Mothers of Chriſt: Whoſoever doth the Will of My Father which is in Heaven, he is my Brother, and Siſter, and Mother. Mat. 12. 50. Every renewed heart is another Mary, a ſpiritual Sanctuary of the Lord Jeſus. It was the Woman's Acclamation, Bleſſed is the Womb that bare thee, and the Paps that gave thee ſuck. Luke 11. 27. True, ſaid Chriſt; but that Bleſſing extends only to one: I will tell you how many are Bleſſed, and rather Bleſſed; Yea, rather Bleſſed are they that hear God's Word, and keep it: Ver. 28. Bleſſed are they that ſo incarnate the written Word by doing it, as the Bleſſed Virgin gave Fleſh to the Eternal Word by bearing it; thoſe that hear and keep God's Word, are they that Travel in Birth again, until Chriſt be formed in them. Gal. 4. 9. Hearing, they Receive the Immortal Seed of the Word, by a firm Purpoſe of doing they conceive, by a longing deſire they quicken, by an earneſt Endeavour they travel, and when the Work is wrought, then have they incarnate the Word, and Chriſt is formed in them. In this Reſpect was Mary Bleſſed; and I make no queſtion, but in this Reſpect alſo the Angel calls her Bleſſed, and Elizabeth calls her Bleſſed, and Simeon calls her Bleſſed, and She calls her ſelf Bleſſed, and all Generations call her Bleſſed, and God Himſelf calls and makes her Bleſſed; yea, as Paul ſaith, Rom. 4. 9. Cometh this Bleſſedneſs on the Circumciſion only? So, cometh this Bleſſedneſs on the Virgin only? No, Mat. 5. 3, 4, 5. even Bleſſed are the Poor in Spirit, Bleſſed are they that mourn, and Bleſſed are the Meek; and Bleſſed are they, whoſe Sins are not imputed. Pſal. 32. 2. Even theſe hath God bleſſed with ſpiritual Bleſſings in Heavenly Places; and theſe ſhall Chriſt entertain with a Come ye Bleſſed of my Father.

Luke 1. 29. 3. This Virgin is Troubled at this Salute. She might well be troubled; For, 1. If it had been but a Man that had come in ſo ſuddenly, when ſhe expected none; or ſo ſecretly, when ſhe had no other Company; or ſo ſtrangely, the Doors being probably ſhut; ſhe had cauſe to be troubled: How much more, when the ſhining Glory of the Angel ſo heightned the Aſtoniſhment? 2. Her Sex was more ſubject to fear, if Zachary were amazed with the ſight of this Angel, how much more the Virgin? We flatter our ſelves how well we could endure ſuch Viſions; but there is a difference betwixt our Faith, and our Senſes; to apprehend here the preſence of God by Faith, this goes down ſweetly: But ſhould a Glorious Angel appear among us, it would amaze us all. But for this, the Angel com-

Ver. 30. forts her; Fear not Mary, for thou haſt found Favour with God. The Troubles of Holy Minds ever end in Peace or Comfort; Joy was the Errand of the Angel, and not Terror; and therefore, ſuddenly he revives her Spirit with a chearful Excitation; Fear not; q. d. Let thoſe fear who know they are in Diſpleaſure, or know not they are gracious: Thine happy Eſtate calls for Confidence, and that Confidence calls for Joy: What ſhould they fear, that are favoured of Him at whom the Devils Tremble? O Mary? How ſhould Joy but enter into thy Heart, out of whoſe Womb ſhall come Salvation? I queſtion, not but theſe very words revived the Virgin: What remote Corner of her Soul was there, into which theſe Beams of Conſolation did not ſhine?

Luke 1. 31, 33. 4. Here is the Foundation of her Comfort, and our Happineſs; Behold, thou ſhalt Conceive in thy Womb, and bring forth a Son, and ſhalt call his Name Jeſus. Never was Mortal Creature thus honoured, that her Womb ſhould yield that Fleſh, which was perſonally united to the God head; that ſhe ſhould bear Him that upholds the World. There's one Wonder in the Conception, another in the Fruit; both are marvellous: But the latter, I take it, is more Myſterious; and fuller of Admiration; the Fruit of the Womb is Jeſus, a Saviour, the Son of the higheſt; a King, God ſhall give Him a Throne, and He ſhall reign for ever; for of His Kingdom there ſhall be no end. Here was a Son, and ſuch a Son as the World never had before; and here was the Ground of Mary's Joy: How could ſhe but rejoice, to hear what her Son ſhould be before He was? Surely, never was any Mother ſo glad of her Son Born, as this Virgin was of her Son before He was Conceived.

The Ground of this Joy lay more eſpecially in that Name Jeſus. Here Chriſtians! Here is the Object that you are to Look unto. The firſt Title that the Angel gives our Saviour, it is Jeſus, a Saviour. O come! Let us dwell a little here. Without Jeſus we had never known God our Friend; and without Jeſus, God had never known us for any other than his Enemies. This Name Jeſus is better to us, than all the Titles of God; Indeed there is Goodneſs and Greatneſs enough in the Name Jehovah; but we merited ſo little Good, and demerited ſo much Evil, that in it alone there had been ſmall Comfort for us; but in the Name Jeſus there is Comfort, and with the Name Jeſus there is Comfort in the Name of God. In old times, God was known by His Names of Power, and of Majeſty, and of His Nature; but His Name of Mercy was reſerved till now, when God did purpoſe to pour out the whole Treaſure of his Mercy, by the Meditation of his Son. And as this Name is exalted above all Names; ſo are we to exalt his Mercy above all his Works. O it is an uſeful Name! In all Depths. Diſtreſſes, Miſeries, Perplexities, we beſeech God by the Name of Jeſus, to make good his own Name, not to bear it for nought; but as He is a Saviour, ſo to ſave us: And this is our Comfort, that God will never ſo remember our wretched Sins, as to forget His own Bleſſed Name; and eſpecially this Name Jeſus. O it is the Higheſt, the Deareſt, the Sweeteſt Name to us of all the Names of God.

The reaſon of this Name was given by the Angel to Joſeph: Thou ſhalt call his Name Jeſus, for He ſhall ſave His People from their Sins. But why from their Sins? We ſeem rather willing to be ſaved from Poverty, Ignominy, Plague, Priſon, Death, Hell, the Devil. Sin is a thing that troubles but a few: O how few! How very few be there, that break their ſleep for their Sins? Alas, alas! Sin (if we underſtand) is the very worſt of Evils: There is no Poverty but Sin, there is no Shame but Sin, there is no Plague to that of Sin; there is no Priſon but that Priſon is a Paradiſe without Sin; there is no Death that hath any Sting in it, but for Sin; the Sting of Death is Sin, ſaith the Apoſtle, take out the Sting, and you may put the Serpent in your Boſom: Nay, I'll ſay more, there is no Hell, but for Sin; Sin firſt kindled the Fire of Hell, Sin fuels it; take away Sin, and that tormenting Flame goes out. And for the Devil; Sin is his Inſtrument, whereby he works all miſchief: How comes a Man to be a ſlave to Satan, but by Sin? But for Sin, the Devil had no Buſineſs in the World; but for Sin he could never hurt a ſoul.

1 Cor. 15. 56.

What abundance of Benefits are here in one Word; He ſhall ſave His People from their Sins? There is no Evil incident to Man, but it ceaſeth to be Evil when Sin is gone. If Jeſus take away Sin, he doth bleſs our very Bleſſings, and ſanctifie our very Afflictions: He fetcheth Peace out of Trouble, Riches out of Poverty, Honour out of Contempt; Liberty out of Bondage; He pulls out the Sting of Death, puts out the Fire of Hell: As all Evils are wrap'd up in Sin; ſo he that ſaves us from Sin, he ſaves us from all Evils whatſoever.

But, Is not Chriſt as precious a Name as Jeſus is? I anſwer, No: For, 1. Chriſt is not the Name of God: God as he is God, cannot be anointed; but Jeſus is the Name of God, and that wherein He more eſpecially delights. 2. Chriſt is Communicated to others; Princes are called Chriſt's; but Jeſus is proper to Himſelf: There is no Saviour but He. 3. Chriſt is anointed; To what End, but to be a Saviour? Jeſus is therefore the End, and the End is always above the Means —— Why? This is that Jeſus, the Son of God's Love, the Author of our Salvation, In whom alone God is well pleaſed; and whom the Angel publiſhed afore He was Conceived: Thou ſhalt conceive, and bring forth a Son, and ſhalt call His Name Jeſus.

Sect. 2. Of the Conception of Chriſt.

2. THE Conception of Chriſt, was the Concluſion of the Angel's Meſſage. No ſooner had the Virgin ſaid, Be it to me according to Thy Word; but according to that Word it was: Immediately the Holy Ghoſt over-ſhadowed her, and forms our Saviour in her Womb. Now Chriſtians! Now was the time of Love; eſpecially, if we relate to His Conception and Birth: Well may we ſay, Now was it that the Day brake up, that the Sun aroſe, that Darkneſs vaniſhed, that Wrath and Anger gave place to Favour and Salvation: Now was it, that Free Grace came down from Heaven, Thouſands of Angels waiting on her; the very Clouds part (as it were) to give her way; the Earth ſprings to welcome her;

the Flouds clap their Hands for Joy; the Heavenly Hoſts ſing as ſhe goes along, Glory to God in the Higheſt, Peace upon Earth, Good Will towards Men: Truth and Righteouſneſs go before her, Peace and Proſperity follow after her, Pity and Mercy wait on either Hand; and when ſhe firſt ſets Foot on the Earth, ſhe cries a Jeſus, a Saviour! Hear ye Sons of Men! The Lord hath ſent me down to bring you News of a Jeſus! Grace and Peace be unto you: I will live with you in this World, and you ſhall live with me in the World to come. O here was Bleſſed News! Why, this is Goſpel, pure Goſpel; this is the Glad Tidings: Free Grace proclaims a Jeſus; and a Jeſus is made up (as it were) all of Free-Grace. O what Eternal Thanks do we owe to the Eternal God! If there had not been a Jeſus (to borrow that Expreſſion) made all of Grace, of Grace it ſelf, we could never have had Dealing with God. O how may we ſay with the Angels; Glory to God: Bleſſed be God, for Jeſus Chriſt!

But in this Conception of Chriſt are ſo many Wonders, that e'er we begin to ſpeak them, we may ſtand amazed: Without Controverſie, great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs? God manifeſted in the Fleſh. 1 Tim. 3. 16. Say, Is it not a Wonder, a Myſtery, a great Myſtery, a great Myſtery without all Controverſie, that the Son of God ſhould be made of a Woman, even made of that Woman which was made by Himſelf? Is it not a Wonder, that her Womb then, and that the Heavens now, ſhould contain Him, whom the Heaven of Heavens cannot contain? Concerning this Conception of Chriſt, I ſhall ſpeak a little, and but a little: What Man can conceive much of this Conception, which was a Conception without Help of Man? Our greateſt Light we borrow from the Angel, who deſcribes it thus; Luke 1. 35. The Holy Ghoſt ſhall come upon thee, and the Power of the Higheſt ſhall overſhadow thee.

Out of theſe Words, obſerve, 1. The Agent or Efficient. 2. The Fruit or Effect.

1. The Agent or Efficient Cauſe of Chriſt's Conception, is the Holy Ghoſt. This agrees with that Speech of the Angel to Joſeph; That which is Conceived in her, is of the Holy Ghoſt. Matth. 1. 20. Here it may be demanded, why the Conception of Chriſt ſhould be aſcribed to the Holy Ghoſt, which is common to all the Actions in the Trinity! I anſwer, Not to exclude the reſt; but firſt, to ſhew it was the free Grace of God, which is often termed the Holy Ghoſt. 2. Becauſe the Father and the Son effected it by the Holy Ghoſt, ſo was it his Work immediately, and in a ſpecial manner: Good reaſon have we to be thankful to all the Three Perſons; to the Father, for ordaining this Garment; to the Holy Ghoſt, for weaving it; to the Son, for wearing it; to the whole Deity, for cloathing us with it, and making us Righteous by it.——Neither yet is the Holy Ghoſt Chriſt's Father; he did not beget Him, he did not form Him, he did not miniſter Matter from his own Subſtance whereof Chriſt was made; but took a part of Humane Nature from the Virgin, and of that he made the Body of Chriſt within her. Away with all groſs Opinions and old Hereſies! This Conception of Chriſt was not by any Carnal Effuſion of Seminal Humour; but by way of Manufacture, (i. e.) by Handy-work, or Operation, or Virtue of the Holy Ghoſt; or elſe by the Energetical Command and Ordination of the Holy Ghoſt, whereby that part of the Virgin's Blood, or Seed, whereof the Body of Chriſt was to be framed, was ſo cleanſed and ſanctified, that in it there ſhould be neither Spot nor Stain of Original Pollution.

2. The Fruit or Effect was the framing of Chriſt's Manhood, in which we may obſerve the Matter and Manner. 1. For the Matter: Obſerve we the Matter of the Body, and of the Soul of Chriſt. 1. The Matter of the Body of Chriſt, it was the very Fleſh and Blood of the Virgin: He was made of Woman, ſaith the Apoſtle, (i. e.) of the Gal. 4. 4. Fleſh and Blood, and Subſtance of the Woman: And He was made of the Seed of David (ſaith the Apoſtle) Rom. 1. 6. according to the Fleſh, otherwiſe He could not have been the Son of David, according to the Fleſh: And, if it be true which the Philoſophers ſay, That the Seed of the Man doth not fall into the Subſtance of the Child, but only doth diſpoſe the Seed of the Woman, (as a Work-man frameth and diſpoſeth his Work) to make the ſame into the Form of a Man: Why then, I know not wherein the Conception of Chriſt ſhould differ in the Matter at all from our Conception; ſave only the Agent, or Worker of his Subſtance, who was the Holy Ghoſt. 2. The Matter or Subſtance of the Soul of Chriſt, was not derived from the Soul of the Virgin, as a part thereof; but it was made as the Souls of other Men be, (i. e.) of nothing, by the Power of God; and ſo infuſed into the Body by the Hand of God: But of theſe Things (of His Body and Soul, and Humane Nature) we ſhall ſpeak more largely in the next Section.

2. For the manner of forming Chriſt's humane Nature, it was miraculous. The Angel aſcribes two actions to the Holy Ghoſt in this great work; the one to come upon the Virgin, the other to overſhadow her; by the firſt is ſignified the extraordinary work of the Holy Ghoſt in faſhioning the humane Nature of Chriſt; as it was ſaid of Sampſon, The Spirit of the Lord came upon him (i. e.) the Holy Ghoſt inſpired him with an extraordinary ſtrength; Judg. 14. 6. ſo the Spirit of the Lord came upon her (i. e.) the Holy Ghoſt wrought in her in an extraordinary way. As for inſtance; in ordinary Generation our Subſtance and Parts are framed ſucceſſively by Degrees, as firſt, the seminal humour becomes an Embryo, then a Body inorganical; then are faſhioned the Liver, Heart, and Brain, and then the reſt one after another? And it is at leaſt forty days before the Body of a Child be fully formed: Now it was otherwiſe with the Body of Chriſt; for in the very inſtant of his Conception, he was made perfect in Body and Soul, void of Sin, and full of Grace; in the very inſtant of his Conception he was perfectly framed, and inſtantly united unto the eternal Word, perfect God and perfect Man. Surely this was extraordinary, and this is the property of the Holy Ghoſt ſubito operari, to work inſtantly and perfectly; as ſoon as ever the Fleſh was conceived, it was preſently united, and made the fleſh of the Son of God; Aug. De fide ad Pet. c. 18. it was ſuddenly made, perfectly made, holily made.

The ſecond action aſcribed to the Holy Ghoſt, is adumbration, or overſhadowing of the Virgin; this teacheth us that we ſhould not ſearch overmuch into this great Myſtery. Alas it is too high for us; if the courſe of ordinary Generation be a ſecret, how paſt all comprehenſion, is this extraordinary operation? The Holy Ghoſt did caſt a ſhadow over the Virgin, and withal a ſhadow over this Myſtery? Why ſhould we ſeek a clear light where God himſelf will have a ſhadow? I know the Word was made fleſh (ſaith Chryſoſtome) but how he was made I know not. Chryſoſt. 5.

Uſe 1. 1. In way of confutation, this word Conception is the bane of divers Hereſies. 1. That of the Manichee, who held he had no true body; If ſo, as one ſays well, that had been of virgo decipiet, not concipiet, rather a deceiving of us, than a conceiving of him. 2. That of the Valentinian, revived lately in the Anabaptiſts, who hold, that he had a true body, but made in Heaven, and ſent into the Virgin here on earth; and if ſo, that had been virgo recipiet, not concipiet, rather a receiving than conceiving; yet I cannot but wonder how confidently the Anabaptiſts tell us, that the Fleſh of Chriſt came down from Heaven, and paſſed through the Virgin Mary, as water through a Conduit pipe, without taking any ſubſtance from her: Their objections are raiſed out of theſe Texts:——.

John 3. 13. 1. No man aſcendeth into heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the ſon of man which is in heaven. I anſwer, firſt, this ſpeech muſt be underſtood, firſt in reſpect of the God-Head; which may be ſaid in ſome ſort to deſcend, in that it was made manifeſt in the Manhood here on Earth. 2. This ſpeech may be underſtood truly of the whole perſon of Chriſt, to whom the properties of each Nature (in reſpect of the communication of properties) may be fitly aſcribed: But this doth no way prove that this fleſh which he aſſumed on earth, deſcended from Heaven.

1 Cor. 15. 47, 48. 2. The firſt man is of the earth, earthly: The ſecond man is the Lord from heaven——heavenly. I anſwer, 1. This holds forth that Chriſt was heavenly-minded, as ſometimes he told the Jews, John 8. 23. John 15. 9. you are from below, I am from above: You are of the World, I am not of this World: Chriſt was not worldly-minded, or ſwayed with the luſts of the Fleſh, or any way earthly affected: As ſometimes he could tell his Apoſtles, ye are not of the world: So much more might he ſay of himſelf, that he was not of this World, but his Converſation was in heaven. Or, 2. This holds forth that Chriſt was heavenly or from heaven, in reſpect of the glorious qualities which he received after his Reſurrection: And not in reſpect of the Subſtance of his Body: Many glorious qualities was Chriſt endowed with after he was raiſed (I ſhall not now diſpute them) which he had not before: And in reſpect of theſe he might be called Heavenly, or from Heaven. 3. This holds forth that Chriſt alſo was in ſome ſort Heavenly, or from Heaven in his humane Nature, in that the humane Nature was united to the divine, and withal in that the humane Nature was formed by the Holy Ghoſt; ſo John's Baptiſm is ſaid to be from Heaven: Tho neither he, nor the water wherewith he baptized, deſcended from Heaven: But becauſe he received it from God who is in Heaven. Chriſt was conceived (as you heard) by the Holy Ghoſt, and in that regard his Generation was divine and heavenly, or from heaven.

Uſe 2. 2. In way of Comfort and Encouragement, Chriſt was thus conceived that he might ſanctifie our Conceptions; as the firſt Adam was the root of all Corruption; ſo is the ſecond Adam the root of all ſanctification: Chriſt went as far to cleanſe us, as ever Adam did to defile us; what? Were our very Conceptions defiled by Adam? In the firſt place Chriſt takes courſe for this; you ſee he is conceived by the Holy Ghoſt: And he was not idle whilſt he was in the Womb, for even then and there he eat out the Core of Corruption, that cleaved cloſe to our defiled Natures; ſo that now God will not account evil of that Nature, that is become the nature of his own dear Son. O the Condeſcentions of our Jeſus! O that ever he would be conceived in the Womb of a Virgin! O that he would run through the Contumelies of our ſordid Nature; that he would not refuſe that which we our ſelves in ſome ſort are aſhamed of! Some think it a reaſon why the Anabaptiſts and ſome others run into ſuch Fancies, and deny this Conception of Chriſt, only to decline thoſe foul indignities (as they take them) for the great God of Heaven to undergo: But certainly this was for us, and for our ſakes; and therefore far be it from us to honour him the leſs, becauſe he laid down his honour for our ſakes; no, no, let us honour him more, and love him more; the lower he came for us, the dearer and dearer let him be unto us: Conſider in all theſe Tranſactions Chriſt was carrying on the great work of our Salvation, otherwiſe he had never been conceived, never had aſſumed to his Perſon humane Nature, never had been Man.

THe Duplicity of Natures in Chriſt appears, in that he was truly God and truly Man. To us a Child is born, ſaith the Prophet; Iſa. 9. 6. there is a Nature humane; and he ſhall be called the Mighty God; there is a Nature divine; God ſent his Son, ſaith the Gal. 4. 4. Apoſtle, therefore truly God: And the Son made of a Woman, therefore truly Man: One would have thought this truth would never have come into 2 Tim. 3. 1. controverſie in our days; but theſe are the laſt days, and that may take off the wonder; In the laſt days ſhall come perillous times.——Men ſhall reſiſt the Truth, &c. In the laſt days I know there will be abundance of Truth revealed. The Knowledge of Zech. 12. 8. the Lord ſhall be as the waters that cover the Sea, and every Child ſhall be as David. And the Book that was Dan. 12. 4. ſealed, muſt be opened, and knowledge ſhall be increaſed; but Satan even then will be buſie to ſow his Tares, as God is ſowing of his Wheat; then is Satan active to communicate errors, when he ſees God begin to diſcover truths; he hopes in the heat of the Market to vent his own wares; and I believe this is one reaſon why now the Devil ſets on foot ſo many dangerous Errors, that ſo he may prejudice the hearts of God's People in the receiving and entertaining of many Glorious truths. But that we may not paſs over ſuch a Fundamental Error as this; ſome ſaying with Martian, that he is God, but not man; and others with Arrius, that he is man, but not God; I ſhall therefore confirm this truth of the two Natures of Chriſt againſt the Adverſaries of both ſides.

And, 1. That Chriſt is true God, both apparent ſcriptures, and unanſwerable Reaſons drawn from ſcriptures, do plainly evince.

1. The ſcriptures call him God. In the beginning Dan. 12. 4. John 1. 1. Heb. 1. 8. John 20. 28. Acts 20. 8. 1 John 3. 16. 1 John 5. 20. 1 Tim. 3. 16. was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God.——And unto the ſon he ſaith, Thy Throne, O God, is for ever. And Thomas anſwered and ſaid unto him, My Lord, and my God; and take heed to your ſelves, and to all the flock——To feed the Church of God which he hath purchaſed with his own Blood. And hereby perceive we the Love of God, becauſe he laid down his life for us. And we know that the Son of God is come. This is the true God, and eternal Life. And without Controverſie great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs, God was manifeſted in the Fleſh.

2. Unanſwerable Reaſons drawn from Scriptures, prove him God: Thus it appears.——

1. From thoſe incommunicable properties of the Deity which are properly aſcribed unto him: He is eternal as God, Rev. 1. 17. He is infinite as God. Mat. 28. 20. He is omniſcient as God, Mat. 9. 4. He is omnipotent as God, He that cometh from above is above all——He is able to ſubdue all things unto himſelf——He hath the Keys of hell and death. John 3. 41. Phil. 3. 21. Rev. 1. 18.

2. From theſe Relations he hath with God, as to be the only begotten Son of God, John 1. 18. The Image of the Father, 2 Cor. 44. Col. 1. 15.

3. From thoſe Acts aſcribed to him which are only agreeable to the divine Nature, as, to be the Author of our Election, John 13. 18. To know the Secrets of our Hearts, Mat. 9. 4. To hear the Prayers of his People, John 14. 14. To judge the quick and the dead, John 5. 22. And thus he creates as God, John 1. 4. He commands as God, Mat. 8. 26.

He forgives as God, Mat. 9. 6. He ſanctifies as God, John 1 12. He glorifies as God, John 10. 28.

4. From all thoſe acknowledgements given to him by the Saints, which are only proper unto God; and thus he is believed on as God, John 3. 18. He is loved as God, 1 Cor. 16. 22. He is obeyed as God, Mat. 17. 5. He is prayed to as God, Acts 7. 59. He is praiſed as God, Rev. 5. 13. He is adored as God, Heb. 1. 6. Phil. 2. 10. Surely all theſe are ſtrong demonſtrations, and prove clearly enough, that Chriſt Jeſus is God. But why was it requiſite that our Saviour ſhould be God? I anſwer,

1. Becauſe none can ſave Souls, nor ſatisfie for Pſal. 49. 7, 15. ſin, but God alone; There is none (ſaith the Pſalmiſt) that can by any means redeem his Brother, or give a ranſom for him.——But God will redeem my ſoul from the power of Hell. 2. Becauſe the ſatisfaction which is made for ſin, muſt be infinitely meritorious: An infinite wrath cannot be appeaſed, but by an infinite merit; and hence our Saviour muſt needs be God, to the end that his obedience and ſufferings might be of infinite price and worth——3. Becauſe the burden of God's wrath cannot be endured, and run through by a finite Creature: Chriſt therefore muſt be God, that he might abide the burden, and ſuſtain the Manhood by his divine Power. 4. Becauſe the Enemies of our Salvation were too ſtrong for us: How could any Creature overcome Satan, Death, Hell, Damnation? Ah! This required the Power of God, there's none but God that could deſtroy him that had the power of death, that is the Devil.

2. As Chriſt is God, ſo he is true man; he was born as Man, and bred as Man, and fed as Man, and ſlept as Man, and wept as Man, and ſorrowed as Man, and ſuffered as Man, and died as Man; and therefore he is man.——

But more particularly. 1. Chriſt had a humane Heb. 10. 5. body; Wherefore when he came into the world, he ſaid, Sacrifice an Offering thou wouldeſt not, but a body haſt thou prepared me. And when the Apoſtles thought they Luke 24. 39. had ſeen a Phantaſm, or a Spirit, he ſaid unto them, Handle me, and ſee, becauſe a Spirit hath no fleſh and bones, as you ſee me have. Here's a truth clear as the Sun; and yet, O wonder! Some in our times (as Cochlæus witneſſeth) do now avouch, that he had but an imaginary body, an aerial body, a phantaſm, only in ſhew, and no true body.

Mat. 26. 38. 2. Chriſt had an humane reaſonable Soul, My Soul is heavy unto Death, ſaith Chriſt; and again, Luke 23. 46. Father, into thy hands I commend my Spirit. Surely (ſaith Nazianzen) either he had a Soul, or he will not ſave a Soul. The Arrians oppoſed this ſaying, Chriſt had no humane Soul, but only a living fleſh; becauſe the John 1. 14. Evangeliſt ſaith that the Word was made fleſh; but this is a Synecdoche, very uſual in Scripture, to put the part for the whole; and ſignifieth as much as that he had ſaid, The Word was made man. I know ſome reaſons are rendred why the Evangeliſt ſaith, he was made fleſh, rather than he was made man; as, 1. To ſhew what part of Chriſt was made of his Mother, not his Deity, nor his Soul, but only his fleſh. 2. To expreſs the greatneſs of Iſa. 40. 6. God's Love, who for our ſakes would be contented to be made the vileſt thing, fleſh, which is compared to graſs, All fleſh is graſs. 3. To ſhew the greatneſs of Chriſt's Humility, in that he would be named by the meaneſt name, and baſeſt part of Man; the ſoul is excellent, but the fleſh is baſe. 4. To give us ſome Confidence of his Love and Favour towards us, becauſe our fleſh, which was the part moſt corrupted, is now united to the Son of God.

3. Chriſt had all the Properties that belong either to the Soul or Body of a Man: Nay more than ſo, Chriſt had all the infirmities of our Nature, Sin only excepted: I ſay the infirmities of our Nature, as cold, and heat, and hunger, and thirſt, and wearineſs, and weakneſs, and pain, and the like; but I cannot ſay that Chriſt took upon him all our Perſonal Infirmities; infirmities are either natural, common to all Men, or perſonal, and proper to ſome Men; as to be born lame, blind, diſeaſed; as to be effected with Melancholy, Infirmity, Deformity: How many deformed Creatures have we amongſt us; Chriſt was not thus; his Body was framed by the Holy Ghoſt of the pureſt Virgins Blood; and therefore I queſtion not, it was proportioned in a moſt equal Symetry, and Correſpondency of parts; He was fairer than the ſons of men; his Countenance carried in it an hidden veiled Star——like brightneſs (ſaith Jerome) which being but a little revealed, it ſo raviſhed his Diſciples hearts, that at the firſt ſight thereof they left all and followed him: And it ſo aſtoniſhed his Enemies, that they ſtumbled and fell to the ground. So then he had not our perſonal Infirmities, but only our natural; and good reaſon, for indeed he took not upon him an humane Perſon, but only an humane Nature united to the Perſon of his God-head.

But why was it requiſite that our Saviour ſhould be Man? I anſwer, 1. Becauſe our Saviour muſt ſuffer and die for our Sins, which the God-head could not do. 2. Becauſe our Saviour muſt perform Obedience to the Law, which was not agreeable to the Law-giver; the God-head certainly is free from all manner of Subjection. 3. Becauſe our Saviour muſt ſatisfie the Juſtice of God in the ſame Nature wherein it was offended; For ſince by man came 1 Cor. 5 21. death, by man came alſo the Reſurrection of the dead. 4. Becauſe by this means we might have free acceſs to the Throne of Grace, and might find help in our neceſſities, having ſuch an High-Prieſt as was in all things tempted like unto us, and was acquainted with our infirmities in his own perſon. Heb. 4. 15, 52.

Sect. 4. Of the Diſtinction of the two Natures of Chriſt.

1. A Real diſtinction of theſe two Natures is evident. 1. In regard of eſſence, the God-head cannot be Man-hood, nor can the Man-hood be the God-head. 2. In regard of proprieties, the God-head is moſt wiſe, juſt, omnipotent, yea Wiſdome, Juſtice, Omnipotency it ſelf, and ſo is not the Man-hood, neither can it be. 3. They have diſtinct wills; not my Will, but thy Will be done, O Luke 22. 42. Father! Plainly differencing the Will of a Creature, from the Will of a Creator. 4. The very actions in the work of Redemption are indeed inſeparable, and yet diſtinguiſhable; I lay down my life, and take John 10. 18. it up again: To lay it down was the action of Man, not of God; and to take it up, was the action of God, not of Man; in theſe reſpects we ſay each Nature remains in it ſelf entire, without any Converſion, Compoſition, Commixion, or Confuſion: There is no Converſion of one into the other, as when he changed water into wine; no Compoſition of both, no abolition of either, no confuſion at all. It is eaſie to obſerve this real diſtinction of his two Natures from firſt to laſt; as firſt, He was conceived as others, and ſo he was Man; but he was conceived by the Holy Ghoſt, as never man was; and ſo he is God.

2. He was born as others, and ſo he was man; but he was born of a Virgin, as never man was; and this ſpeaks him a God. 3. He was crucified, died, and was buried, and ſo he was man; but he roſe again from the dead, aſcended into Heaven, and from thence ſhall come at laſt to judge the quick and the dead, and ſo he is God.——Or if from the Apoſtles Symbol we go to the Goſpel, which ſpeaks both natures at large; we find there, 1. He was born of his Mother, and wrapped in Swaddling clouts, as being a Man; but the Star ſhines over him, and the wiſe Men adore him, as being a God. 2. He was baptiſed in Jordan, as being a Man; but the holy Ghoſt from Heaven deſcended upon him, as being a God. 3. He is tempted of Satan, as being a Man; but he overcame Satan, and diſpoſſeſſed Devils, as being a God. 4. He travelled, and was thirſty, and hungry, and weary, as being a Man; but he refreſhed the weary, and fed the hungry, and gave drink, even water of life to the thirſty, as being a God. 5. He ſlept in the Ship, and his diſciples awoke him, as being a Man; but he rebuked the winds, and ſtilled the raging of the tumultuous Seas, as being a God. 6. He was poor and needy, had not an houſe to put his head in, as being a man; but he was, and is rich and mighty, and cannot be contained in the Heaven of Heavens, as being a God. 7. He was ſorrowful and ſad, he wept and he prayed, as being a Man; but he comforts the ſorrowful, and heareth the prayers of all his Saints, as being a God. 8. He was whipped, and rent, and torn, and crucified, as being a man: But he rent the vail of the Temple, and cauſed the Sun to hide his face for ſhame, when he was crucified, as being a God. 9. He cried out on the Croſs, Eloi, Eloi, lamaſabacthani, as being a Man; but he could ſay to the Theif, To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe, as being a God. 10. He died and was buried, and lay in the grave, as being a man; but he overcame death, and deſtroyed the Devil, and raiſed up himſelf to life again, as being a God. 11. After his Reſurrection he appeared to his Diſciples, and eat with them, and talked with them, as being a man; but he provided meat, and vaniſhed out of their ſight, as being a God. 12. He aſcended into Heaven, and the Heavens now contain him, as he is Man; but he ſuſtains the Heavens and commands all therein, and rides on the ſame, as being a God. Thus we ſee all along two real diſtinct Natures ſtill continuing in Chriſt; God being become Man, the Deity being aboliſhed, but the humane Nature was adjoined; according to the old Diſtich; Sum quod eram, nec eram quod Sum, &c. I am that I was, but I was not that I am. You will ſay, How then is it ſaid, the word was made fleſh, or God became Man? I anſwer, one thing may become another either by way of change, as when the water was turned into wine; but thus was not Chriſt: The God-head was for a time concealed, but it was never cancelled: Or one thing may become another either by way of union, as when one Subſtance is adjoined unto another, and yet is not transferred or changed into the nature of the other; thus a Souldier putting on his Armour, is an armed man; or a Man wearing on his Garments, is no more a naked, but a cloathed man; and yet the Armour and the Souldier, the Man and his appearel are diſtinct things: And thus it was with Chriſt; the fleſh is ſaid to be deifyed, and the Deity is ſaid to be incarnate; not by the converſion of either into the nature of the other, but by aſſuming, and adjoining the humane Nature to the Divine; and yet ſtill the humane nature, and the divine are diſtinct things; both the Natures in Chriſt do remain entire, and inconfuſed; indeed the Humanity is much magnified by the Divinity; but the Divinity is nothing altered by the Humanity. Thus much for the diſtinction of his two Natures.

Sect. 5. of the union of the two Natures of Chriſt in one and the ſame Perſon.

5. THE Union of two Natures of Chriſt, in one and the ſelf-ſame perſon, is that great wonder which now we muſt ſpeak of as we are able; but alas! How ſhould we ſpeak this union, and not be confounded in our ſelves? It is a great myſtery, a Secret, a Wonder; many Wonders have been ſince the beginning of the World; but all the Wonders that ever were, muſt give place to this, and in reſpect thereof, ceaſe to be wonderful: Neither the Creation of all things out of nothing, nor the Reſtauration of all things into their perfect being; I mean neither the firſt work, nor the laſt work of God in this world (though moſt admirable pieces) may be compared with this. This Union of the two Natures of Chriſt into one Perſon, is the higheſt pitch (if any thing may be ſaid higheſt in that which is infinite) of God's Wiſdom, Goodneſs, Power, and Glory; well therefore, ſaid the Angel to Mary, The power of the higheſt ſhall overſhadow thee: And if God did overſhadow this Myſtery with his own veil, How ſhould we preſume with the Men of Bethſhemeſh, to look into it? Chriſtians! if you will needs put it to the queſtion, How that wonderful connection of two ſo infinitely differing natures, in the unity of one perſon ſhould be effected? I muſt anſwer you with the Apoſtle, Who is 1 Pet. 1. 12. ſufficient for theſe things; Certainly theſe are the things which the Angels deſire to ſtoop and look into: It is an Inquiſition fitter for an Angelical intelligence, than for our ſhallow capacity; and yet as Moſes could not chuſe but wonder, though he muſt not draw nigh to the Buſh burning with fire, and not conſumed: ſo though we dare not draw too nigh to ſee this great ſight, How poor duſt and aſhes ſhould be aſſumed into the unity of God's own perſon, and that in the midſt of thoſe everlaſting burnings Iſa. 33. 14 the Buſh ſhould remain unconſumed, and continue freſh and green for evermore; yet what doth hinder, but we may ſtand aloof off, and wonder at it? this is one peice of our duty, to recite all the long-forepaſſed acts, and benefits of God (as well as we may; Scripture ſtill going along) that thereby we may admire and adore, and expreſs our Love, and Thankfulneſs unto God.

For the untying of this Knot, I cannot but wonder, what a world of queſtions have been toſſed in Schools. As,

1. Whether the union of the Word incarnate was in the Nature?———2. Whether the union of the Word incarnate was in the Perſon?——3. Whether the humane Nature was united to the Word by way of accident?———4. Whether the union of the divine Nature be ſomething created?——5. Whether the union of the Word incarnate be the ſame with aſſumption?———6. Whether the union of the two Natures of Chriſt be the chief of of all unions?———7. Whether the union of the two Natures of Chriſt was made by Grace?——8. Whether it was convenient for the divine perſon to aſſume a created Nature?——9. Whether a divine Perſon could aſſume the Nature humane?——10. Whether more perſons divine could aſſume one Nature humane?—— 11. Whether it was more convenient that the perſon of the Son ſhould aſſume humane nature, than any other of the perſons in the God-head?———12. Whether the humane nature, was more aſſumptible by the Son of God than any other nature?——— 13. Whether the Son of God did not aſſume the perſon of man;———14. Whether the Son of God aſſumed the humane nature in all its individuals, or as abſtracted from all Individuals?——15. Whether the Son of God aſſumed a true Body, Soul and all its Intellects?———16. Whether the Son of God in reſpect of nature, though not of time, did firſt aſſume the Soul, and then the Body of man?———17. Whether the Son of God in humane nature aſſumed all the defects of the Body ?——18. Whether the Son of God aſſumed all the defects of the Soul of man?——19. Whether by Virtue of this union thoſe things which are agreeable to the Son of Man, may be predicated of the Son of God: and e converſo?——20. Whether Chriſt be one or two? and whether in Chriſt be one or two Wills? one or more Operations? Theſe and many other like Queſtions are raiſed, that in their diſcuſſions make up large Volumes; but I ſhall leave them all to the Schools.

In the explication of this union, that which I ſhall inſiſt on (as the moſt neceſſary for our underſtanding) is, 1. The Union it ſelf. 2. The Effects, or Benefits of it.

1. For the Union it ſelf we ſhall diſcuſs, 1. Of the ſorts of Union, and of what ſort this is. 2. Of the very thing it ſelf; wherein this union conſiſts. 3. Of the Scriptural Texts that confirm this union. 4. Of the ſimilitudes that hold forth this union. 5. Of the perſon aſſuming; and of the nature aſſumed: and of the reaſon of this way. And of theſe, as briefly as I may: I would rather ſay much in a little, than a little in much.

1. Union is of divers ſorts, as natural and myſtical, accidental and ſubſtantial, eſſential and integral. But I ſhall paſs theſe by; and ſpeak only of theſe ſorts. 1. When one of the things united is turned into the other, as when a drop of water is poured into a veſſel of Wine. 2. When both the things united are changed in nature and eſſence; as when the Elements are united, to make mixt or compounded bodies. 3. When there is no change of things united, but the conſtitution of a third nature out of them both, as is the union of the ſoul and body. 4. When there is neither a change of natures united, nor conſtitution of a third out of them both; but only the founding, ſetling, and ſtaying of the one of the things united in the other, and the drawing of it into the unity of the perſonal being, or ſubſtance of the other: ſo the Branch of a Tree being put upon the ſtock of another Tree, it is drawn into the unity of the ſubſiſtence of that Tree into which it is put: and whereas if it had been ſet in the Ground, it would have grown as a ſeparate Tree in it ſelf: now it groweth in the Tree into which it is grafted, and pertaineth to the unity of it: and this kind of union doth of all others, moſt perfectly reſemble the perſonal union of the two Natures of God, and man in Chriſt; wherein the nature of man that would have been a perſon in it ſelf, if it had been left to it ſelf is drawn into the unity of the divine perſon, and ſubſiſteth in it, being, prevented from ſubſiſting in it ſelf, by this perſonal union and aſſumption.

2. For the thing wherein this union of two natures conſiſts; we ſay that this union conſiſts in that dependence of the humane nature on the perſon of the Word, and in that communicating of the perſon or ſubſtance of the Word, with the humane nature that is aſſumed; ſo that it is an hypoſtatical or perſonal union; that is, ſuch an union as that both natures do make but one perſon of Chriſt: for the better underſtanding of this, we muſt conſider what the difference is betwixt Nature and Perſon, and what makes an individual Nature to be a Perſon; briefly thus; To be this or that, we ſay, is an individual nature; to be this or that, in or for it ſelf, is a perſon or ſubſiſtance; to be this or that, in or for another, is to pertain to the perſon or ſubſiſtence of another. Now amongſt thoſe created things which are naturally apt to make a perſonal being, or to ſubſiſt in and for themſelves, there is a very great difference: for,—— 1. Some things of this kind may become parts of another more entire thing of the ſame kind: As we ſee in all thoſe things wherein every part hath the ſame Nature that the whole hath; as every drop of water is water, and being left to it ſelf, it is a ſubſiſtence in it ſelf, and hath its Quality, Nature, and being in, and for it ſelf; but if it be joined to a greater quantity of water, it hath now no Being, Quantity, nor Operation, but in and for that greater quantity of water, into which it is poured.

2. Other things of this kind cannot naturally put themſelves into the unity of any other thing; and yet by the help of ſome foreign cauſe they may be united; as the branch of a Tree of one kind (which put into the ground, would be an intire, diſtinct Tree in it ſelf) may by the hand of a man be put into the unity of a Tree of another kind; and ſo grow, move, and bear fruit, not diſtinctly in and for it ſelf, but jointly in and for that Tree into which it is planted.

3. Other things of this kind cannot by force of natural Cauſes, nor by the help of any foreign thing, ever become parts of any other created thing, or pertain to the unity of the Subſiſtence of any ſuch thing; as the nature of Man, and the nature of all living things; and yet by divine and ſupernatural working, it may be drawn into the unity of the ſubſiſtence of any of the Perſons of the bleſſed Trinity, wherein the fulneſs of all Being, and the Perfection of all created things, is in a more eminent ſort than in themſelves; for though all created things have their own Being, yet ſeeing God is nearer to them than they are to themſelves, and they are in a better ſort in him than they are in themſelves, there is no queſtion but that they may be prevented and ſtaid from being in and for themſelves, and cauſed to be, in, and for one of the divine Perſons of the bleſſed Trinity.

So that as one drop of water, that formerly ſubſiſted in it ſelf, if it be poured into a Veſſel containing a greater quantity, it becomes one in ſubſiſtence with the greater quantity of water; and as a branch of a Tree, that being ſet in the ground, and left to it ſelf, would be an intire and independant Tree, becomes one in ſubſiſtence with that Tree into which it is grafted, ſo the individual Nature of Man aſſumed into the unity of one of the Perſons of the bleſſed Trinity, it loſeth that kind of being, that naturally left to it ſelf, it would have had, and it becomes one with the Perſon; for now it is not in, and for it ſelf, but hath got a new Relation of dependance and being in another.

But you will ſay, all the Creatures in the World have their being in God, and dependance on God; and therefore all Creatures, as well as Man, may pertain to the Perſon, or Subſiſtence of God.

I Anſwer, it is not a general being in, and dependance on God, but a ſtrict dependance on Man's part, and a communicating of the ſubſiſtence on God's part that makes up this union. Hence we ſay that there are four degrees of the preſence of God in his Creatures; the firſt is his general preſence, whereby he preſerves the ſubſtances of all Creatures, and gives unto them to live, and to move, and to have Acts 7. 28.
their being; and this extends it ſelf to all Creatures good and bad.

The Second Degree is the preſence of Grace, whereby he doth not only preſerve the Subſtance of his Creature, but alſo gives Grace unto it; and this agrees to the Saints and God's People on Earth. The third degree is the preſence of Glory peculiar to the Saints and Angels in Heaven, and hereby God doth not only preſerve their Subſtances, and give them plenty of his Grace, but he alſo admits them into his glorious preſence, ſo as they may behold him face to face. The fourth and laſt degree is that whereby the God-Head of the Son is preſent with, and dwells in, the Manhood, giving unto it in ſome part his own ſubſiſtence, whereby it comes to paſs that this Manhood aſſumed is proper to the Son, and cannot be the Manhood of the Father, or of the Holy Ghoſt, or of any Creature whatſoever. And this is a thing ſo admirable and unſpeakable, that though we may find ſome ſimilitudes, yet there cannot be found another Example thereof in all the World.

Hence it follows that in the Man-hood of Chriſt, conſiſting of Body and Soul, there is a nature only, and not a perſon; becauſe it doth not ſubſiſt alone as other men, Peter, Paul, and John do, but it wholy depends on the perſon of the Word into the unity whereof it is received; and this dependance of the humane Nature on the Perſon of the Word, and the communicating of the Perſon or Subſiſtence of the Word with the humane Nature, is the very thing it ſelf wherein this union conſiſts.

3. For the Scriptural Texts that confirm this Union, you ſee the Well is very deep; but where is the Bucket? What Texts of Scripture have we to confirm this wonderful Union of two Natures in one Perſon? Amongſt many I ſhall only cite theſe; ——

Mat. 16. 13, 16. When Chriſt asked his Apoſtles, Whom do men ſay that I the Son of man am? ——— Simon Peter anſwered, Thou art the Chriſt the Son of the living God: Now, if but one Chriſt, then ſurely but one Perſon: and it the Son of man be the Son of the Living God, then ſurely there are two Natures in that one Perſon; Obſerve how the Son of Man, and the Son of God, very man and very God, concenter in Chriſt: As the Soul and the Body make but one Man, ſo the Son of Man and the Son of God made Rom. 1. 3, 4. but one Chriſt: Thou art Chriſt, ſaith Peter, the Son of the living God.

So Paul ſpeaking of Jeſus the Son of God, he tells us, that he was made of the ſeed of David according to the Fleſh, and declared to be the Son of God, with power, according to the Spirit. 1. Made of the Seed of David; of the ſubſtance of the Virgin, who was David's Poſterity. 2. Declared to be the Son of God: Not made the Son of God, as he was made the Son of Man; but declared to be the Son of God: The word in the Original ſignifies a Declaration by Psal. 2. 7. a ſolemn ſentence or definitive Judgment. I will declare the Decree; The Lord hath ſaid unto me, Thou art my Son. That which I point at, he is the Son of David, κατὰ σάρκα, in reſpect of his Manhood; and he is the Son of God κατὰ πνεῦμα, in reſpect of his God-head; here be the two Natures; but in the words before, theſe two Natures make but one Son, Jeſus Chriſt our Lord: And in the very words themſelves he is declared to be the Son of God; he doth not ſay, Sons, as of two; but his Son Jeſus Chriſt, firſt before, and then after; to ſhew unto us, that as before his making, ſo after his making, he is ſtill but one Son, or of one Perſon of the two diſtinct Natures ſubſiſting.

To the ſame purpoſe is that ſame Text, In him Col. 2. 9. dwelleth all the fullneſs of the God-head bodily; by the union of the divine Nature with the humane in the unity of his Perſon, the God-head dwelleth in Chriſt as the Soul in the Body: It dwelleth in him bodily; not ſeemingly, but really, truly and indeed; not figuratively, and in a ſhadow, as he dwelleth in the Temple; not by power and efficacy, as he dwells in all the Creatures; not by Grace, as in his People; nor by glory, as in the Saints above; but eſſentially, ſubſtantially, perſonally, the humane Nature being aſſumed into Union with the Perſon of the Word. Obſerve the Paſſages; he in whom that fulneſs dwells, is the Perſon; that fulneſs, which doth ſo dwell in him, is the Nature; now there dwells in him not only the fulneſs of the God-head, but the fulneſs of the Manhood alſo; for we believe him to be both perfect God, begotten of the Subſtance of his Father before all Worlds, and perfect Man, made of the ſubſtance of his Mother in this World; only he in whom the fulneſs of the God-head dwelleth, is one; and he in whom the fulneſs of the Manhood dwelleth, is another; but he in whom the fulneſs of both theſe natures dwelleth, is one and the ſame Immanuel, and conſequently one and the ſame perſon; in him, (i. e.) in his perſon dwelleth all the fulneſs of the Godhead, and all the fulneſs of the Man hood: In him dwelleth all the fulneſs of the God-head bodily.

4. For the ſimilitudes that reſemble or ſet forth this miſtery, many are given: but for our better underſtanding, let us conſider theſe few.

The firſt is of the ſoul and body, that make but one man: as the ſoul and body are two diſtinct things, and of ſeveral natures: yet being united by the hand of God, they make one Perſon: ſo the God-head and Man-hood are two diſtinct things and of ſeveral Natures: yet being united by the hand of God, they make but one Perſon. Indeed herein is the ſimilitude defective: firſt in that the Soul and Body being imperfect natures, they concur to make one full and perfect nature of a man: Secondly, in that the one of them is not drawn into the unity of the ſubſtance of the other, but doth depend on a third ſubſtance, which is that of the whole.

The ſecond is Light and Sun: as after the Collection of, and Union of the Light with the Body of the Sun, no man can pluck them aſunder: nor doth any man call one part the Sun, and another part the light: but both of them jointly together, we call the Sun: even ſo after the Union of the fleſh with that true Light the Word, no man doth call the Word apart to be one Son of God, and the Son of Man another Son of God: but both of them jointly together, we call one and the ſelf-ſame Chriſt. I know in this ſimilitude are many defectives: yet if hereby we be not altogether able to attain the truth of this great Myſtery, certainly we have herein a moſt excellent ſimilitude, which will greatly help, and contentedly ſuffice the godly and Moderate ſearchers of this divine truth.

Juſtin Martyr de recta confeſ. de Coeſſent. Trinit.

The third is of a fiery and flaming Sword: as the ſubſiſtences of the Fire and Sword are ſo nearly conjoined, that the operations of them for the moſt part concur: for a fiery ſword in cutting, burneth, and in burning, cutteth: and we may ſay of the whole, that this fiery thing is a ſharp piercing Sword, and that this ſharp piercing Sword is a fiery thing: even ſo in the union of the two natures of Chriſt, there is a communication of properties from one of them to the other, as ſhall be declared, if the Lord permit; only this ſimilitude is defective in this, in that the nature of the Iron is not drawn into the unity of the ſubſiſtence of fire, nor is the nature of the fire drawn into the Unity of the ſubſiſtence of Iron: ſo that we cannot ſay, this fire is Iron, or this Iron is fire.

The fourth is of one man having two qualities, or accidental natures: as a man that is both a Phyſician and a Divine; he is but one perſon, and yet there are two natures concurring and meeting in that ſame one Perſon; ſo we may rightly ſay of ſuch a one, this Phyſician is a Divine, and this Divine is a Phyſician; this Phyſician is happy in ſaving ſouls, and this Divine is careful in curing bodies: even ſo is Chriſt both God and Man, and yet but one Chriſt; and in that one Chriſt, according to the ſeveral natures, are denominations of either part; as that this man is God, and this God is man; or that this man made the world: and this God died upon the Croſs: but in this ſimilitude is this defect, in that the different natures are accidental, and not eſſential or ſubſtantial.

The fifth and laſt, is of the Branch and Tree into which it is engraffed; as ſuppoſe a Vinebranch and an Olive-tree: now as this Olive-tree is but one, but hath different natures in it, and ſo it beareth two kinds of fruit: and yet between the Tree and the Branch there is a compoſition, not hujus ex his, but hujus ad hoc (i. e.) not of a third thing out of the two things united, but one of the two things united or adjoined to the other: even ſo Chriſt is one but he hath two different natures, and in them he performs the different actions pertaining to either of them: and yet between the different natures (the Divine and Humane nature) there is a compoſition, not hujus ex his, but hujus ad hoc, not of a third nature ariſing out of theſe, but of the humane nature added or united to the Divine, in unity of the ſame perſon: ſo that now we may ſay, as this line is an Olivetree, and this Olive-tree is a Vine: or as this Vine bears Olives, and this Olive-tree bears Grapes, ſo the Son of man is the Son of God, and the Son of God is the Son of Man: or this Son of Man laid the Foundation of the earth, and this Son of God was born of Mary, and crucified by the Jews. This ſimilitude (I take it) is the apteſt and fulleſt of all the other, though in ſome things alſo it doth fail; for the branch hath firſt a ſeperate ſubſiſtence in it ſelf, and loſing it after, then it is drawn into the unity of the ſubſiſtence of that Tree into which it is implanted; but it is otherwiſe with the humane nature of Chriſt; it never had any ſubſiſtence of its own, until it was united to the perſon or ſubſiſtence of the Son of God.

5. For the perſon aſſuming, and the nature aſſumed, and for the reaſon of this way; we ſay, 1. That the perſon aſſuming was a Divine perſon? it was not the Divine nature that aſſumed an humane perſon, but the Divine perſon that aſſumed an humane nature; and that of the three Divine perſons, it was neither firſt, nor the third; neither the Father nor the Holy Ghoſt that did aſſume this nature; but it was the Son, the middle perſon, who was to be the middle one, that thereby, 1. He might undertake the mediation between God and us. 2. He might better preſerve the integrity of the bleſſed Trinity in the God-head. 3. He might higher advance man-kind by means of that relation which the ſecond perſon, the Mediator did bear unto his Father: for this very end, ſaith the Apoſtle, Gal. 4. 4. 5. God ſent his own Son made of a woman, that we might receive the Adoption of Sons; wherefore thou art no more a ſervant but a Son; and if a Son, than an heir of God through Chriſt? intimating thereby, that what relation Chriſt hath unto God by Nature, we being found in him, have the very ſame by Grace, he Exod. 4. 22, 23. was God's Son by Nature, and we are his Sons by Grace; he was in a peculiar manner Rom. 8. 29 the firſt born among many Brethren; and in him, and for him the reſt of the Brethren by grace of Adoption are accounted Heb. 12. 3. as Firſt born, Heb. 12. 23.

2. The nature aſſumed was the ſeed of Abraham: For verily he took not on him the nature of Angels, but he took on him the ſeed of Abraham: Elſewhere the Apoſtle calls it the ſeed of David: He is made the ſeed of David Rom. 1. 3. according to the Fleſh: And, elſewhere he is called the ſeed of the Woman: Gen. 3. 15. I will put enmity between thee and the Woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed: Gal. 4. 4. And when the fulneſs of time was come, God ſent forth his ſon made of a woman: No queſtion ſhe was the paſſive and material Principle of which that precious fleſh was made, and the Holy Ghoſt the agent and efficient: That bleſſed Womb of her was the Bride-Chamber, wherein the Holy Ghoſt did knit that indiſſoluble knot betwixt our humane Nature and his Deity: The Son of God aſſuming into the unity of his Perſon, that which before he was not, even our humane Nature. O with what aſtoniſhment may we behold, our Duſt and Aſhes aſſumed into the unity of God's own Perſon!

3. For the reaſon of this way: Why did the Perſon aſſume a Nature? Or rather, Why did not the Perſon of the Son of God join it ſelf to a perfect Perſon of the Son of Man? I anſwer.

1. Becauſe then there could not have been a Perſonal union of both Natures, and ſo Chriſt had not been a perfect Mediator.

2. Becauſe then the work of each of the Natures of Chriſt could not have been counted the works of the whole perſon; whereas now by this union of both Natures in one perſon, the obedience of Chriſt performed in the Manhood, is become of infinite Merit, as being the Obedience of God; and thereupon God is ſaid to have purchaſed the Church with Acts 20. 28. his own Blood.

3. Becauſe if the Perſon of the Son of God had been joyned to the Perſon of Man, there ſhould have been four Perſons in the Trinity. It is very obſervable, how for the better preſervation of the Integrity of the Bleſſed Trinity in the God-head, the humane Nature was aſſumed into the unity of the ſecond Perſon; for if the fulneſs of the Godhead ſhould have dwelt in any humane Perſon; there ſhould then have been a fourth Perſon neceſſarily added unto the God head; and if any of the three Perſons beſides the ſecond, had been born of a Woman, there ſhould then have been two Sons in the Trinity; whereas now the Son of God, and the Son of Man, being but one Perſon, he is conſequently but one Son; and ſo no alteration at all made in the Relations of the Perſons of the Trinity, but they are ſtill one Father, one Son, and one Holy Ghoſt.

Theſe are the deep things of God, and indeed ſo exceedingly myſtical, that they can never be perfectly declared by any Man. Bernard compares this ineffable Myſtery of the union of two Natures, with that incomprehenſible Myſtery of the Trinity in unity. In the Trinity are three Perſons and one Nature; in Chriſt are two Natures and one Perſon; that of the Trinity is indeed the greateſt, and this of the Incarnation is like unto it; they both far exceed Man's capacity; for his way is in the Sea, and Pſal. 77. 19 his path in the great waters, and his footſteps are not known.

2. For the Effects and Benefits of this Hypoſtatical Union; they are either in reſpect of Chriſt, or in reſpect of Chriſtians.

1. Thoſe in reſpect of Chriſt, are, 1. An exemption of all Sin. 2. A Collation of all Graces. 3. A Communication of all the Properties.

1. We find that although Chriſt appeared as a Sinner, and that he was numbred among the Wicked or with the Tranſgreſſors. Iſa. 53. 12. Yet in very Iſa. 53. 12. deed and truth he did no ſin, neither was any guile found in his Mouth, 1 Pet. 2. 22. The Apoſtle tells 1 Pet. 2. 22 us, he was holy, harmleſs, undefiled, and ſeparate from Sin- Heb. 7. 36. ners: He aſſumed the Nature of Man, yet by reaſon of his pure Conception, and of this Hypoſtatical Union he was conceived, and born, and lived without Sin; he took upon him the ſeed of Man, but not the Sin of Man, ſave only by imputation: But on this point I ſhall not ſtay.

2. The Graces collated unto the Humanity of Chriſt by reaſon of his Union, are very many: I ſhall inſtance in ſome: As—— ſecond Perſon of the Trinity, whereof it ſelf (as of it ſelf) is deſtitute.

1. That the Manhood hath its ſubſiſtence in the

2. That the Manhood is a peculiar Temple for the Deity of Chriſt to dwell in: It is the place, wherein the Godhead ſhews it ſelf more manifeſtly and more glorioſly than in any other Creature whatſoever: It is true, that by his Providence he ſhews himſelf in all his Creatures, and by his Grace in his Saints: But he is only moſt glorioſly, eternally, according to the fulneſs of his Deity, and by an Hypoſtatical Union in the Humanity of Jeſus Col. 2. 9. Chriſt, in him dwelleth all the fulneſs of the God-head bodily: Some are of opinion that as now in this Life, No man cometh unto God but by Chriſt; ſo hereafter in the next life, no Man ſhall ſee God, but in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt.

3. That in the Manhood is a nearer familiarity with the God-head than any other Creature, whether Men or Angels: As ſometimes he ſaid, My Father and I are one (i. e.) one Eſſence; ſo he may as truly ſay, the Manhood and I are one (i. e.) one Perſon for ever.

4. That the Manhood of Chriſt, according to its meaſure, is a partner with the God-head in the work of Redemption and Mediation: As he is Immanuel in reſpect of his Perſon, ſo he is Immanuel in reſpect of his Office. He muſt needs be Man as well as God, that he might be able to ſend this comfortable Meſſage to the Sons of Men; Go to my Brethren, and ſay unto them, John 20. 17. I aſcend unto my Father and your Father, and to my God and your God. I, as Man, am in the work of Redemption, and in the work of mediation, as well as God: my fleſh is indeed the bread of Life.

3. That the Manhood of Chriſt, together with the Godhead, is adored and worſhipped with Divine honour: as in like caſe, the honour done to the King, redounds to the Crown upon his head; not that we worſhip the Manhood alone, as meerly a Creature; but that we adore the perſon of Chriſt which conſiſteth of the Manhood and of the God-head.

6. That the Manhood hath an extraordinary meaſure, without meaſure, of habitual Graces, poured into it; in this he excels the very Angels, for to them was given Grace only by meaſure; but to the humanity of Chriſt was given Grace without meaſure; even ſo much as a Creature is any ways capable of. I know it is ſaid that Jeſus in- Luke 2. 52. creaſed in Wiſdom, and Stature, and in favour with God and Man; but this increaſe or growth in Wiſdom, is not to be underſtood in reſpect of the eſſence or extention of the habit (for that he had from the beginning, even from the firſt moment of his incarnation; and he brought it with him out of the womb) but in reſpect of the act and uſe of it, or in reſpect of his experimental knowlege; ſo he increaſed, and not otherwiſe. Never was there any but Chriſt, whoſe Graces were no way ſtinted, and that was abſolutely full of Grace. Divines tell us of a double Grace in Chriſt; the one of union, and that is infinite; the other of unction (which is all one with Grace habitual) and that is in a ſort infinite; for howſoever it be but a finite and created thing, yet in the nature of Grace, it hath no limitation, no bounds, no ſtint, but includeth in it ſelf whatſoever any way pertains to Grace, or that cometh within the compaſs of it. The reaſon of this illimited donation of Grace beſtowed on the Nature of man in Chriſt, was, for that Grace was given to it as to the univerſal cauſe, whence it was to be derived unto all others; he is the Fountain John 1. 16. of Grace, and of his fulneſs we receive Grace for Grace.

3. For the Communication of the properties, It is a kind, or phraſe of ſpeech peculiar to the Scriptures, when the properties of either Nature of Chriſt conſidered ſingly and apart, are attributed to the perſon of Chriſt, from which ſoever of the natures they be denominated. For the underſtanding of this, obſerve, 1. That words are either abſtractive or concretive; the former ſpeaks the Nature of things, the latter ſpeaks the perſon that hath that nature; as the God-head and God; the Manhood and Man; Holineſs and Holy. 2. Obſerve that abſtractive Words noting preciſely the diſtinct Natures, cannot be affirmed one of the other; we cannot ſay, the God-head ſuffered, or the Manhood created; but we may truly ſay, that God ſuffered, and man created; becauſe the perſon which theſe concretive words imply, is one: and all actions, paſſions, and qualities agree really to the perſon, though in reſpect ſometimes of one nature, and ſometimes of another: thus God purchaſed the Act. 20. 28. Church with his own blood: not that the God-head ſhed blood, but the perſon which was God: and thus the John 3. 13. Son of man talking with Nicodemus, is ſaid to be in Heaven; not that the Manhood was in Heaven while he was on Earth, but the perſon of the Son ſo Man. Thus we may ſay that God was born of a Virgin, and that God ſuffered, and God was crucified; not ſimply in reſpect of his God-head, but in reſpect of his perſon, or in reſpect of the human nature which God united to himſelf: becauſe God here is a concrete word, and not an abſtract; and ſignifieth the perſon of Chriſt, and not the divine nature of Chriſt. And thus we may ſay, that the Man-Chriſt is Almighty, Omniſcient, Omnipreſent, yet not ſimply in reſpect of his Manhood, but in reſpect of the perſon which is the ſame God and Man: or in reſpect of the divine nature of the Man Chriſt Jeſus: for that here alſo Man is a concrete word, and not an abſtract; and ſignifieth the whole perſon of Chriſt, and not the humane nature: but on the contrary, we may not ſay, that the God-head of Chriſt was born of a Virgin, or ſuffered, or was crucified: nor may we ſay, that the Manhood of Chriſt is Almighty, Omniſcient, Omnipreſent; becauſe the God-head and Manhood are abſtract words (i. e) ſuch words as note to us the two natures of Chriſt, the one divine, the other humane, and not the perſon of Chriſt.

And this I think is the mind of Luther and his Followers, and yet (O wonder) what a deal of objections are made to the multiplying of needleſs and fruitleſs contentions? The Lutherans confeſs (however they hold the ubiquitary preſence of the humanity of Chriſt) that his Body is only in one place locally: If we ask them, (ſaith *Zanchius) whether Chriſts body be every where? They anſwer, that locally it is but in one place, but that perſonally it is every where: now if they mean (ſaith he) that in reſpect of Eſſence, his Body is finite, and confined to one certain place: but in reſpect of the being of ſubſiſtence, or of his perſon, it is infinite, and every where: they ſay the truth, and there is no difference amongſt us. Happy are the Reconcilers of diſſenting Brethren: Unto their Aſſembly mine honour be thou united.

* Zanchius in judicio de diſſidio cænæ Dominicæ.

2. The Effects or Benefits of this hypoſtatical union in reſpect of Chriſtians, are their ſpiritual union and communion with God and Chriſt.

1. There is a ſpiritual union of Chriſtians with God in Chriſt; O the wonder of theſe two bleſſed unions; firſt of the perſonal or hypoſtatical union; ſecondly of this ſpiritual or myſtical union; in the perſonal union, it pleaſed God to aſſume and unite our humane Nature to the Deity; in this ſpiritual union, it pleaſed God to unite the perſon of every believer to the perſon of the Son of God. This union is myſtical, and yet our very Perſons, natures, bodies, ſouls are in a ſpiritual way conjoined to the Body and Soul of Chriſt; ſo that we are members of the Body of Chriſt, and of the Fleſh of Chriſt, and of the Bones of Chriſt; Eph.5.30. 2 Pet.1.4. and as this conjunction is immediately made with his humane nature, ſo thereby we are alſo united to the divine nature; yea, the perſon of the Believer is indiſſolvably united to the Glorious perſon of the Son of God.

Now concerning this union, for our better underſtanding, obſerve theſe four things.

1. It is a moſt real union; it is not a meer notional and intellectual union, that conſiſts only in the underſtanding, and without the underſtanding is nothing; it is not an imaginary thing, that hath no other being but only in the Brain; no, no, it is a true, real, eſſential, ſubſtantial union; In natural unions, I confeſs, there may be more evidence, but there cannot be more truth; ſpiritual Agents neither have, nor put forth leſs virtue, becauſe ſenſe cannot diſcern their manner of Working, even the Load-ſtone, though an earthen ſubſtance, yet when it is out of ſight, whether under the table, or behind a ſolid partition, it ſtirreth the needle as effectually as if it were within view. Shall not he contradict his ſenſes, that will ſay, It cannot work, becauſe I ſee it not? O my Saviour! thou art more mine, than my Body is mine: my ſenſe feels that preſent, but ſo as that I muſt loſe it: but my faith ſo feels, and ſees thee preſent with me, as that I ſhall never be parted from thee.

2. It is a very near union: You will ſay, how near? If an Angel were to ſpeak to you, he cannot ſatisfie you in this: only as far as our underſtanding can reach it, and the Creatures can ſerve to illuſtrate theſe things: take it thus: Whatſoever by way of compariſon can be alledged concerning the combination of any one thing with another: that, and much more may be ſaid of our union with Jeſus Chriſt. To give inſtance out of the Scripture: ſee what one ſtick is to another being glewed together: 1 Cor. 6. 17. ſee what one friend is to another, as Jonathan and David, who were ſaid to be woven and knit each one to other: 1 Sam.18. 1. ſee how near the father and the child are: how near the husband and the wife are: Iſa. 62. 5. ſee what union is between the Branches and the Vine, the members and the head: John 15. 5. nay, one thing more: ſee what the ſoul is to the body: ſuch is Chriſt, and ſo near is Chriſt, and nearer to the perſon of every true believer: 1 Cor. 12. 12. I live, yet not I (ſaith Paul) but Chriſt liveth in me: q. d. Gal. 2.20. as the ſoul is to the body of a natural man, that acts and enlivens it naturally, ſo is Jeſus Chriſt to my ſoul and body. O there is a marvellous nearneſs in this myſtical union.

3. It is a total union; (i. e.) whole Chriſt is united to the whole believer, ſoul and body. If thou art united to Chriſt, thou haſt all Chriſt: thou art one with him in his nature, in his name: thou haſt the ſame Image, Grace, and Spirit in thee, as he hath; the ſame precious promiſes, the ſame acceſs to God by prayer as he; thou haſt the ſame love of the Father; all that he did or ſuffered, thou haſt a ſhare in it: thou haſt his life and death: all is thine: ſo on thy part, he hath thee wholly, thy nature, thy ſins, the puniſhment of thy ſins, thy wrath, thy curſe, thy ſhame: yea, thy wit, and wealth, and ſtrength, all that thou art, or haſt, or canſt do poſſibly for him. It is a total union: My beloved is mine, and I am his: whole Chriſt from top to toe is mine, and all that I am, have, or can do, for evermore is his.

4. It is an inſeparable union, it can never be broken. I will make (ſaith God) an everlaſting Covenant with them, and I will not turn away from them to do them good, I will put my fear in their hearts, that they Jer. 32. 40. ſhall not depart from me. This is a glorious promiſe; ſome poor ſouls may ſay. True Lord, thou wilt not turn away from me: I know thou wilt not: Oh, but I fear I ſhall turn away from thee: Oh alas, I turn every day towards Sin and Satan! Nay, ſaith God, I will put my fear in thy heart, that thou ſhalt not turn away from me, q. d. We ſhall be kept together for evermore, and never be ſeparated. Hence Paul triumphantly challenges all enemies on earth, (or rather in Hell) to do their worſt to break this knot: Who ſhall ſeparate us from the love of God in Chriſt? Shall Tribulation, Rom. 8.35. Diſtreſs, Famine, Nakedneſs, Peril or Sword? Come all that can come, and ſee if that bleſſed union betwixt me and Chriſt, ſhall ever be broken, by all that you can do. Thus for this union.

2. There is a ſpiritual communion with God in Chriſt. Both theſe are the effects of Chriſts perſonal or hypoſtatical union: firſt, union to his perſon, and then communion with his benefits: union in proper ſpeaking is not unto any of the benefits flowing to us from Chriſt: we are not united to forgiveneſs of Sin, Holineſs, Peace of Conſcience, but unto the Perſon of the Son of God himſelf: and then ſecondly, comes this communication of all the benefits ariſing immediately from this union to the Lord Jeſus: that as Chriſt was Prieſt, Prophet, and King; ſo we alſo by him, are after a ſort Prieſts, Prophets and Kings: for being made one with him, we are thereby poſſeſſed of all things that are his, as the Wife is of the wealth of her Husband; now all things are yours, (ſaith the Apoſtle) whether Paul, or Apollo, or Cephas, or the World, &c.——— 1 Cor. 3. 21, 23.

Hitherto have we took a view of Chriſt in his Mothers Womb; and O what marvels there! Did ever womb carry ſuch a fruit? Well might the Angel ſay, Bleſſed art thou amongſt Women! and well might Elizabeth ſay, Bleſſed is the Fruit of thy Womb! but the bleſſing is not only in conceiving, but in bearing; and therefore we proceed.

Sect. 6. Of the Birth of Chriſt.

6. THE birth of Chriſt now follows. Now was it that the Son of Righteouſneſs ſhould break forth from his bed, where nine months he had hid himſelf, as behind a fruitful cloud: this was the worlds wonder; a thing ſo wonderful, that it was given for a ſign unto believers ſeven hundred and forty years before it was accompliſhed: therefore Iſa. 7. 14 the Lord himſelf ſhall give you a ſign; behold a Virgin ſhall conceive and bear a Son. A wonder indeed! and great, beyond all compariſon: that the Son of God ſhould be born of a Woman: that he who is the true Melchizedech, without Father, and without Mother, muſt yet have a mother-Virgin: that he that is before Abraham was, ſhould yet be born after Abraham a matter of two thouſand years: that he who was David's Son, and therefore born in Bethlehem, ſhould yet be David's Lord, wonderful things are ſpoken of thee, Heb. 7. 3. O thou Son of God: before he was born, the Prophets ſing, the Sybils propheſie, the Patriarchs typifie, the Types foretel, God promiſeth, and the Son of God performeth; when he was born, Angels run errands, Gabriel brings tidings, the glory of Heaven ſhines, a Star diſplays, and wiſe men are the Heralds, that proclaim his Birth. But come yet a little nearer, Let us go to Bethlehem (as the Shepherds ſaid) and ſee this thing which is come to paſs! Luk.2.15. if we ſtep but one ſtep into his lodging, Heavens wonder is before our eyes; now Look upon Jeſus! look on him as in fulneſs of time he carried on the great work of our Salvation: here now you may read the meaning of Adam's Covenant, Abraham's promiſe, Moſe's revelation, David's ſucceſſion; theſe were but veils, but now ſhall we draw aſide the Curtains? Come, take a view of the truth it ſelf; O wonder of wonders! whom find we in this lodging? A Babe in a Cratch, a Mother-maid, a Father-virgin: is this the Babe whom we look unto as our Jeſus? Is this a Mother (as Auſtin) ſcarce fourteen years of Age? Mat. 1.25. Is this the Father that knew her not, until ſhe had brought forth her firſt born Son? What a ſtrange birth is this? Look on the Babe, there is no Cradle to rock him, no Nurſe to Lull him, no Linens to ſwaddle him, ſcarce a little food to nouriſh him; look on the Mother, there's no Mid-wives help, no downy pillows, no linen hangings, ſcarce a little ſtraw where ſhe is brought a-bed: look on Joſeph the reputed Father: he rather begs, than gives a bleſſing: poor Carpenter! that makes them a Chamber of an Ox-ſtall, and carves him a Cratch to be his Cradle: Mary that ſees with her eyes, and ponders all in her heart, how doth modeſt ſhamefac'dneſs change her colours ſo often as her imagination works? She muſt bear a Son: an Angel tells her, the Holy Ghoſt over ſhadows her, the days are accompliſhed, and ſhe is delivered; each Circumſtance is enough to abaſh a modeſt Virgin: But who will not wonder? A Maid believes, a Maid conceives, a Maid brings forth, and a Maid ſtill remains: How might we deſcant on this Subject? But I ſhall contract my ſelf, and reduce all wonders to this word, John 15. 5. I am the Vine.

It is a bleſſed Parable: in which, under the ſhadow of a Vine, Chriſt elegantly ſets forth himſelf. Chriſt in many reſemblances is a precious Vine; but why a Vine, rather than a Cedar, Oak, or ſome of the ſtrongeſt, talleſt trees? Many reaſons are given: as, 1. Becauſe of all Trees the Vine is the loweſt: it grovels, as it were, on the ground. 2. Becauſe of all Trees the Vine is weakeſt; hence they that have Vines, have alſo their Elms to ſupport them, and hold them up. 3. Becauſe of all Trees, the Vine hath the meaneſt Bark and outſide: it is of little worth or reputation. 4. Becauſe of all Trees, the Vine is fruitfulleſt: and therefore it is called the Pſal. 128. 3. Fruitful Vine. In every of theſe reſpects, Chriſt is called a Vine, who by his Incarnation took upon him the loweſt condition, and made himſelf, by emptying Phil. 2. 7. himſelf, of no Reputation: but he was the fruitfulleſt Vine that ever the earth bore: and in this reſpect no Vine, nor all the Vines on the Earth were worthy to be compared with him, or to be ſo much as reſemblances of him. I ſhall not proſecute the reſemblances throughout; for ſo might paſs from his Birth, to his Life: and from his Liſe to his Death; when the blood of the Grapes was preſſed out: only for the preſent we'll take a view of this Vine. 1. In its Plant. 2. In its Bud. 3. In its Bloſſom. 4. In its Fruit; and ſo an end.

1. For the Plant: the way of Vines is not to be ſowed, but planted; that thus tranſlated, they might better fructifie: ſo our Jeſus, firſt ſprung from his Father, is planted in a Virgins womb; God from God, coeternal with God; but by his Incarnation made that he was not, and yet remaining that he was; God of his Father, and Man of his Mother: before all time, yet ſince the beginning. Ber. de Paſſione Dom. Bernard tells us, that this Vine ſprung of the Vine, is God begotten of God, the Son of the Father, both coeternal and conſubſtantial with the Father; but that he might better fructifie, he was planted in the Earth; (i. e.) he was conceived in a Virgins Womb. There is indeed a reſemblance in this; in this reſemblance we muſt be careful to obſerve that communication of properties; of which I told you, we may truly ſay, that God was planted, or conceived, but not the God-head; God is a concrete word, and ſignifies the Perſon of Chriſt: and his Perſon was planted or conceived, not ſimply as God: but in reſpect of the Man-hood united to it: and thus he that is infinite, was conceived; and he that is eternal, even he was born: the very fulneſs of all perfection, and all the properties of the Divine Eſſence are by this communication given to the nature of man in the Perſon of the Son of God: no wonder therefore, that we ſay, that this Vine (the Son of God) is planted in Mary; I know ſome would have the Plant more early: and therefore they ſay, that Chriſt was a Vine planted in Adam, budded in David, and flouriſhed in Mary: but I take this but for a flouriſh: all before Mary were but Types, now was the Truth: now in Mary was Chriſt planted, and not before: as in the beginning, there was not a Man to Till the Ground——but out of the ground the Lord made to grow every Tree:—— and a River went out of Eden to water the Garden: ſo there was no Man that tilled this Ground: but out of this Ground (the Virgin) the Lord made to grow this Plant, watering it by his Spirit: The Holy Ghoſt ſhall come upon thee, and the Power of the Higheſt ſhall overſhadow thee: Of this conception, and of the Holy Luk. 1.35. Ghoſt's efficiency, I believe, ſpake the Prophet, when there was ſuch longing after Chriſt's coming in the fleſh: Drop down ye Heavens from above, and let the Sky pour down Righteouſneſs, let the Earth open, and bring Iſa. 45. 8. forth Salvation. But of this Conception before.

2. For the Bud: the nature of Vines is to Bud, before it Bloſſom or bring forth its fruit; ſo was it ſaid of Chriſt before he came, Truth ſhall Bud out of Pſ. 85. 11. the Earth; now what was this budding of Truth out of the Earth, but Chriſt born of a Woman? What was the Truth (ſaith Irenæus and Auguſtine) but Iræn. l. 3. c. 5. Chriſt? And what the Earth, but our fleſh? And what Truth budding, but Chriſt being born? Here let us ſtay a while: ſurely it is worth the while (as the Spouſe ſaid in another place) to get up early to the Vineyards, Cant. 7. 12. and to ſee how the Vine did flouriſh, and how the tender Grape did open.

In Chriſts carrying on the great Work of our Salvation before all Worlds, we told you of Gods Councils, as if he had been reduced to ſome ſtraits and difficulties by the croſs demands of his ſeveral Attributes; but Wiſdom found out a way, how to reconcile theſe differences by propounding a Jeſus, and in him Mercy and Truth Pſ. 85. 10. met together, Righteouſneſs and Peace kiſſed each other. That reconciliation was in the Council of God from all Eternity: but for the execution of this Counſel, it was now in the fulneſs of time, even at this time when Chriſt was born: Now indeed and in truth, in execution and performance, was the reconciliation of all differences: and of this time was the Pſalmiſts Pſal. 85. 10, 12. Prophecy more eſpecially meant: Mercy and Truth ſhall meet together, Righteouſneſs and Peace ſhall kiſs each other, and Truth ſhall bud out of the Earth, and Righteouſneſs ſhall look down from Heaven.

In theſe words we find, firſt a meeting of Gods bleſſed Attributes; and ſecondly, this meeting at a birth, the birth of Truth: at which meeting, thirdly was that glorious effect, that Righteouſneſs looked down, and indeed came down from Heaven; I deſire a little to invert the words, and ſhall firſt ſpeak to Chriſts Birth; ſecondly, to the effects of his Birth, of Righteouſneſs looking down from Heaven; thirdly, to the meeting and agreement of all Gods Attributes as the iſſue and effects of all, When Mercy and Truth met together, and Righteouſneſs and Peace kiſſed each other.

1. For his Birth; our Vine doth Bud Truth ſhall Bud out of the Earth, (i. e.) Chriſt ſhall be born upon the Earth, or Chriſt ſhall be born of a Woman; for Truth is Chriſt, Bud is born, and the Earth is a John 1. 4, 6.

Woman. 1. Truth] is Chriſt: I am the Way and Truth, ſaid Chriſt; he is the truth of all Types, and the truth of all Prophecies, and the truth of all promiſes; for in him are all the Promiſes, Yea, and Amen. 2. Bud] is born: the Vine budding is the firſt putting forth of the Grape; ſo Chriſt being born, was Truth budding out of the Earth he then firſt ſhewed himſelf to the World, and was firſt ſeen (like the Vine ſpringing forth) above ground. 3. The Earth] is the Woman; thus ſome render that Text, Iſa. 45. 8. Let the Earth bring forth a Saviour; look how the Field-flowers ſpring forth of themſelves without any Seed caſt in by the hand of Man; ſo the Virgin brings forth Chriſt. It is obſervable that in the Creation of Adam was laid the Prognoſticks of this future birth; begin with the firſt Man Adam, and you may ſee him parallell'd in this ſecond Adam, Chriſt. Adam was created of the Virgin-Earth, Chriſt was born of a Virgin-Mother; the Earth had no Husband-man, yet brought forth without Seed: Mary had no Husband, yet brought forth without Seed of Man: in Gen. 1. 26. the Creation God ſaid, Let us make Man; and now John 1. 14. ſaith the Holy Ghoſt, the Word is made fleſh, or the Word is Man indeed; thoſe were but Types, but Chriſt is the Truth: he is the Vine that Buds, the Meſſias born; the Angels own him, the Star deſigns him, the Prophets foreſhew him, the Devils confeſs him, his Miracles declear him, the Sages ſeek him, and Heaven and Earth rings with the News, that Truth is budded out of the Earth.

2. For the effect of this Birth, Righteouſneſs ſhall look down from Heaven. No ſooner Chriſt born, but Righteouſneſs looked down from Heaven; ſhe caſt her eye upon Earth, and ſeeing Truth freſhly ſprung there, ſhe looked and looked again; certainly it was a ſight to draw all the eyes of Heaven to it. It 1 Pet. 1. 12. is ſaid of the Angels that they deſired to look into theſe things: they looked wiſhly at them, as if they would look through them: no queſtion but Righteouſneſs looked as narrowly and piercingly as the Angels. Some obſerve that the Hebrew word, ſhe looked down, ſignifies that ſhe beat out a window; ſo deſirous was Righteouſneſs to behold the ſight of the Vine Budding, of Chriſt being born, that ſhe beats out a Window in Heaven: before this time, ſhe would not ſo much as look down towards the Earth: Righteouſneſs had no proſpect, no Window open this way: ſhe turned away her Eyes, and clapt to the Caſement, and would not abide ſo much as to look on ſuch ſinful wretches, forlorn ſinners as we are, her eye was purer than to behold Iniquity, ſhe abhorred it, and us for it: and therefore would not vouchſafe us once a caſt off her eye. O but now the caſe is altered: no ſooner doth our Vine Bud upon the Earth, but ſhe is willing to condeſcend, and ſo willing, that ſhe breaks a Window through the Walls of Heaven to look down upon this Bud: and no marvail: for, what could Righteouſneſs deſire to ſee, and ſatisfie her ſelf in, that was not to be ſeen in Jeſus Chriſt? He was all righteous, there was not the leaſt ſpot of ſin to be found in him: his Birth was clean, and his Life was holy, and his Death was innocent; both his Soul and Body were without all ſin; both his Spirit and his Mouth were without all guile; whatſoever ſatisfaction Righteouſneſs would have, ſhe might have it in him, lay Judgment to the Line, and Righteouſneſs to the Balance, and there is nothing in Jeſus but Streight for the Line, and full Weight for the Balance.

3. For the meeting and agreement of all Gods Attributes, as the iſſue and the leaſt effect of this budding Vine, the Verſe before tells us; that Mercy and Truth are met together, Righteouſneſs and Peace have kiſſed each other: This meeting preſuppoſeth a diſtance before they met: for they that meet come from divers coaſts. Here then are two things conſiderable; firſt the diſtance, and ſecondly, the meeting. But you will ſay, how came this diſtance? Are they not all the Attributes of Gods undivided eſſence? are they not all four in the boſom of God from all eternity; I anſwer, Yes, they are undivided in themſelves, but they were divided about us; it was Adam's ſin, and ours in him, that firſt divided Heaven, yea, the very Attributes of God, and in a ſort, God himſelf: I ſhall ſpeak to both theſe, that you may firſt ſee the Differences, and then the Agreement and bleſſed Harmony of theſe glorious Attributes.

1. The Difference; immediately after the Fall, the great queſtion (which before you heard of in the Decree and Councils of God) was Actually propounded; What ſhould be done with ſinful Man? In this caſe we muſt ſpeak of God after the manner of Men; and I hope you will give me the liberty that others (I ſuppoſe warrantably) take. Come, ſaith God, What ſhall be done with ſinful Man? He hath violated my Law, broken my Command, and as much as lies in him, unpinn'd the Fabrick of the World, ſpoiled my glorious Work of Heaven, and Earth, and Sea, and all therein: Undone himſelf for ever and ever, and ever. O what ſhall be done with this ſinful, rebellious forlorn, unhappy Creature, Man? Silence being a while in Heaven, and all ſtruck into amaze, to ſee the great God of Heaven ſtirred up in wrath, at laſt Mercy and Peace ſtand up, and they ſeek with ſweet, gentle Entreaties to pacifie God's Anger: But Righteouſneſs and Truth are on the contrary ſide: And they provoke God Almighty to go on, and to manifeſt himſelf (as he is indeed) a conſuming Fire, a Sin-revenging God. The Plea is drawn up, and reported at large by Bernard, Andrews, and others.

1. Mercy began; for out of her readineſs to do good, ſhe is ever foremoſt: Her Inclination is to pity, or rather ſhe her ſelf is an inclination to pity thoſe that are in miſery: And if ſhe can but relieve them, let them deſerve what they will, be ſure ſhe will relieve them: For ſhe looks not to the Party what he is, nor what he hath done, nor what he deſerved: but (which is the comfort of us miſerable Sinners) ſhe looks at what he ſuffers, and in how woful and wretched a caſe he is. Her Plea was thus; What Lord haſt thou made all Men in vain? Wilt thou now deſtroy him for whom thou madeſt the World? Shall the Houſholder be caſt out, and thrown into Priſon, and there remain till he hath paid the utmoſt Farthing? Shall all the Men and Women in the World, from firſt to laſt be damned for ever and ever? Alas! What profit is in their Blood? What will it avail to croud Men and Devils together in Hell flames? Will not thoſe Devils, the grand Enemies of God, rejoice at this? And what then will become of thy great Name on Earth? Is not this thy Name? The Lord, the Lord, Merciful, and Gracious, Long-ſuffering, and abundant in Goodneſs and Truth, keeping Mercy for Thouſands, forgiving Iniquity, Tranſgreſſions and Sins? What, will the Lord undo his Name? Will the Lord caſt off for ever? And will he be favourable no more? Is his Mercy clear gone for ever? Will he be no more entreated? Hath God forgotten to be gracious? Hath he in Anger ſhut up his tender Bowels? With theſe, and ſuch like holy whiſperings or mutterings did Mercy enter into God's bowels, and make them yern, and melt again into Compaſſions.

But 2. Truth muſt be heard as well as Mercy; and ſhe lays in matter of exception, and her Plea was thus; What is God but his Word? Now this was thy word to Adam in the day that thou eateſt thereof, thou Gen. 2. 17 ſhalt die the death; and this was thy word to all the Sons of Adam, the Soul that ſinneth, that Soul ſhall die. And Ezek. 18. 10. God may not falſifie his word: His word is truth; falſifie truth?

Ezra.9.15. truth? That may not be: All men are lyars: But God Pſal. 119. 13. is true, even truth it ſelf, —— This Plea of Truth is ſeconded by Righteouſneſs; and thus ſhe beſpeaks God; ſhall not the judge of all the world do right? Thou haſt declared thy ſelf over and over to be juſt and righteous; O Lord God of Iſrael, thou art righteous: —— Righteous art thou, O Lord, and upright are thy Judgments.—— Rev.16.5, 7. Thou art Righteous O Lord, which art, and waſt, and ſhall be: —— Even ſo, Lord God Almighty, true and Pſal. 145. 17. righteous are thy Judgments, —— Yea, the Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works: And wherein conſiſts this Righteouſneſs, but in rendring to every one according to his due? Rom.6.23 And what is the ſinners due, but death? the wages of ſin is Death: What ſhall not theſe ſinners die the Death? That were (as before) to make Truth Falſe, ſo here to do Right, Wrong.

Theſe were the Controverſies at that time: So that Peace could not tell how to ſpeak a prevailing word amongſt them: Nay the Controverſie grew ſo high, that they made it their own caſes? What ſhall become of me (ſaid Mercy) if God ſpare not ſinners? And what ſhall become of me (ſaid Juſtice) if God do ſpare Sinners? What ſhall become of me (ſaid Mercy if God will ſhew no Mercy? And what ſhall become of me (ſaid Juſtice) if God will do no Juſtice? Woe, alas periſh (ſaid Mercy) if thou wilt not pity: If Man die, I die alſo: And I periſh (ſaid Juſtice) if thou wilt have Mercy. Surely I die, if Man die not. To this it came, and in theſe terms brake up the Aſſembly, and away they went one from another. Truth went to Heaven, and was a Stranger upon Earth, Righteouſneſs went with her, and would not ſo much as look down from Heaven. Mercy, ſhe ſtaid below ſtill; for where ſhould Mercy be, if not with the miſerable? As for Peace, ſhe went between both, to ſee if ſhe could make them meet again in better terms: In the mean while our Salvation lies a bleeding; the Plea hangs, and we ſtand as Priſoners at the Bar, and know not what ſhall become of us; for though two be for us, yet two are againſt us, as ſtrong, and more ſtiff then they: So that much depends upon this meeting; Heb 10.5. for either they muſt be at Peace between themſelves, or they cannot be at Peace with us, nor can we be at Peace with God.

Many means were made before Chriſt's time for a bleſſed meeting, but it would not be: Sacrifice and Burnt-Offering thou wouldſt not have: Theſe means were not prevalent enough to cauſe a meeting. Where ſtuck it? You will ſay: Surely it was not long of Mercy, ſhe was eaſie to be intreated: She looked up to Heaven, but Righteouſneſs would not look down; and indeed here was the buſineſs: Righteouſneſs muſt and will have ſatisfaction, or elſe Righteouſneſs ſhould not be Righteous; either ſome ſatisfaction for ſin muſt be given to God, or ſhe will never meet more; better all Men in the World were damned, than that the Righteouſneſs of God ſhould be Unrighteous. And this now puts on the great Tranſaction of our Saviours Birth.

Well then, our Saviour is born; and this Birth occaſions a gracious meeting of the Attributes; Such an attractive is this Birth, this Bud of Chriſt, that all meet there; indeed they cannot otherwiſe but meet in him, in whom all bleſſed Attributes of God do meet. It is Chriſt is Mercy, and Chriſt is Truth, and Chriſt is Righteouſneſs, and Chriſt is Peace. Luke 1. 78. 1. Chriſt is Mercy, thus Zacharias propheſied, That through the tender Mercy of our God the day-ſpring 2 Cor.1.3. (or branch) from on high hath viſited us. And God John 14.6. the Father of Chriſt, is called the Father of Mercies; as if Mercy were his Son, who had no other Son but his dearly beloved Son in whom he is well pleaſed.—— 2. Chriſt is Truth; I am the way, and the Truth, and the Life. That truth in whom is accompliſhed whatſoever was prefigured of the Meſſiah. God ſhall Pſal. 57.3. ſend forth his Mercy and his Truth: And, O prepare Pſal. 64.7. Mercy and Truth. And this is his Name, The Lord, Exod. 34. 6. The Lord, —— abundant in Goodneſs and Truth. He is Deut. 32. 4. a God of Truth, ſaith Moſes; plenteous in Mercy and Pſa. 86. 15. Truth, ſaid David; full of Grace and Truth, ſaid John; John 1.14, 17. for the Law was given by Moſes, but Grace and Truth came by Jeſus Chriſt. He is Truth by Name, and Truth by Nature, and Truth by Office. —— 3. Chriſt is Righteouſneſs. Jer. 23.6. This is his Name whereby he ſhall be called the Lord our Righteouſneſs. Mal. 4. 2. And unto you that fear my Name, ſhall the Son of Righteouſneſs ariſe with healing under his Wings. 1 Cor. 1. 30. And, Chriſt of God is made unto us Wiſdom, Righteouſneſs, and Sanctification, and Redemption. Heb. 7. 2. And according to his Type Melchiſedech, this was his Style, King of Righteouſneſs. —— Iſa. 9. 6. 4. Chriſt is Peace. This is his Name wherewith he is called, wonderful Counſellor, the Mighty God, the everlaſting Father, the Prince of Peace. Eph. 2.14. And, Chriſt is our Peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle Wall of Partition between us. 2 Theſ. 3. 16. And therefore prays the Apoſtle, now the Lord of Peace himſelf (or, the Lord himſelf, who is Peace) give you peace always by all means. Heb. 7. 2. And according to his Type Melchiſedech, as he was King of Righteouſneſs, ſo alſo he was King of Salem, which is King of Peace. —— Thus Chriſt is Mercy, and Chriſt is Truth, and Chriſt is Righteouſneſs, and Chriſt is Peace: Now where ſhould all theſe meet but in him who is them all? Surely there they meet, and at the meeting, they all ran firſt, and kiſſed the Son? and that done, Truth ran to Mercy, and embraced her, and Righteouſneſs to Peace, and kiſſed her; they that ſo long had been parted, and ſtood out in difference, now they meet, and are made Friends again. O the bleſſed effects of this Birth of Chriſt! It is Chriſt that reconciled them, and that reconciled us and them; Col. 1. 20 He reconciled all things (ſaith the Apoſtle) whether they be things in Earth, or things in Heaven. Now is Heaven at peace with it ſelf, and Heaven and Earth at peace one with another; and that which glues all, and makes the Peace, is this Birth of Chriſt; the budding of this Vine. Truth ſhall Bud out of the Earth, and then Mercy and Truth ſhall meet together, &c. 3. For the Bloſſom. The Nature of Vines is, in its ſeaſon to bloſſom, or to bear ſweet flowers. Pharaoh's Butler, you know, dreamed of a Vine, that not only budded, but bloſſomed; Her Bloſſoms ſhot forth: And thus Chriſt our Gen. 40. 10. Vine, both budded and bloſſomed; he was full of the ſweeteſt Flowers; now what were theſe Flowers and Bloſſoms of Chriſt, but his Vertues and bleſſed Graces? In this only Chriſt differs from the Vine, in that in him was ſeen not only one ſort or kind of Flowers, but every kind. Bernard reckons up the Bern. de paſſione Dom. violet of Humility, the lilly of Chaſtity, the roſe of Patience the ſaffron of Abſtinence; I may not ſo far enlarge my ſelf; but in reference to his Birth, I cannot but admire at his Humility, Patience, and infinite Condeſcentions; that the Creator ſhould become a Creature, though an Angel, it were a great Gulf, which no created underſtanding could meaſure; but that he ſhould reject Angels, and take the Seed of Abraham: That he ſhould be made lower than the Angels, who is God over all; that he would be conceived, who is the uncreated Wiſdom: In the dark Priſon of the Womb, who is the Light of the World: And that of a Woman, the weaker, firſt ſinning ſex, who is the holy one and Power of God; that he would be born, who beareth all things: The Lord of all, of a lowly Hand-maid: In fulneſs of time, who is Eternity; In the Night-time, who is the Son of Righteouſneſs: In the Winter, who gives life and heat: In a time of publick taxation, who is Lord

Woman. 1. Truth] is Chriſt: I am the Way and Truth, ſaid Chriſt; he is the truth of all Types, and the truth of all Prophecies, and the truth of all promiſes; for in him are all the Promiſes, Yea, and Amen. 2. Bud] is born: the Vine budding is the firſt putting forth of the Grape; ſo Chriſt being born, was Truth budding out of the Earth he then firſt ſhewed himſelf to the World, and was firſt ſeen (like the Vine ſpringing forth) above ground. 3. The Earth] is the Woman; thus ſome render that Text, Iſa. 45. 8. Let the Earth bring forth a Saviour; look how the Field-flowers ſpring forth of themſelves without any Seed caſt in by the hand of Man; ſo the Virgin brings forth Chriſt. It is obſervable that in the Creation of Adam was laid the Prognoſticks of this future birth; begin with the firſt Man Adam, and you may ſee him parallell'd in this ſecond Adam, Chriſt. Adam was created of the Virgin-Earth, Chriſt was born of a Virgin-Mother; the Earth had no Husband-man, yet brought forth without Seed: Mary had no Husband, yet brought forth without Seed of Man: in Gen. 1. 26. the Creation God ſaid, Let us make Man; and now John 1. 14. ſaith the Holy Ghoſt, the Word is made fleſh, or the Word is Man indeed; thoſe were but Types, but Chriſt is the Truth: he is the Vine that Buds, the Meſſias born; the Angels own him, the Star deſigns him, the Prophets foreſhew him, the Devils confeſs him, his Miracles declear him, the Sages ſeek him, and Heaven and Earth rings with the News, that Truth is budded out of the Earth.

2. For the effect of this Birth, Righteouſneſs ſhall look down from Heaven. No ſooner Chriſt born, but Righteouſneſs looked down from Heaven; ſhe caſt her eye upon Earth, and ſeeing Truth freſhly ſprung there, ſhe looked and looked again; certainly it was a ſight to draw all the eyes of Heaven to it. It 1 Pet. 1. 12. is ſaid of the Angels that they deſired to look into theſe things: they looked wiſhly at them, as if they would look through them: no queſtion but Righteouſneſs looked as narrowly and piercingly as the Angels. Some obſerve that the Hebrew word, ſhe looked down, ſignifies that ſhe beat out a window; ſo deſirous was Righteouſneſs to behold the ſight of the Vine Budding, of Chriſt being born, that ſhe beats out a Window in Heaven: before this time, ſhe would not ſo much as look down towards the Earth: Righteouſneſs had no proſpect, no Window open this way: ſhe turned away her Eyes, and clapt to the Caſement, and would not abide ſo much as to look on ſuch ſinful wretches, forlorn ſinners as we are, her eye was purer than to behold Iniquity, ſhe abhorred it, and us for it: and therefore would not vouchſafe us once a caſt off her eye. O but now the caſe is altered: no ſooner doth our Vine Bud upon the Earth, but ſhe is willing to condeſcend, and ſo willing, that ſhe breaks a Window through the Walls of Heaven to look down upon this Bud: and no marvail: for, what could Righteouſneſs deſire to ſee, and ſatisfie her ſelf in, that was not to be ſeen in Jeſus Chriſt? He was all righteous, there was not the leaſt ſpot of ſin to be found in him: his Birth was clean, and his Life was holy, and his Death was innocent; both his Soul and Body were without all ſin; both his Spirit and his Mouth were without all guile; whatſoever ſatisfaction Righteouſneſs would have, ſhe might have it in him, lay Judgment to the Line, and Righteouſneſs to the Balance, and there is nothing in Jeſus but Streight for the Line, and full Weight for the Balance.

3. For the meeting and agreement of all Gods Attributes, as the iſſue and the leaſt effect of this budding Vine, the Verſe before tells us; that Mercy and Truth are met together, Righteouſneſs and Peace have kiſſed each other: This meeting preſuppoſeth a diſtance before they met: for they that meet come from divers coaſts. Here then are two things conſiderable; firſt the diſtance, and ſecondly, the meeting. But you will ſay, how came this diſtance? Are they not all the Attributes of Gods undivided eſſence? are they not all four in the boſom of God from all eternity; I anſwer, Yes, they are undivided in themſelves, but they were divided about us; it was Adam's ſin, and ours in him, that firſt divided Heaven, yea, the very Attributes of God, and in a ſort, God himſelf: I ſhall ſpeak to both theſe, that you may firſt ſee the Differences, and then the Agreement and bleſſed Harmony of theſe glorious Attributes.

1. The Difference; immediately after the Fall, the great queſtion (which before you heard of in the Decree and Councils of God) was Actually propounded; What ſhould be done with ſinful Man? In this caſe we muſt ſpeak of God after the manner of Men; and I hope you will give me the liberty that others (I ſuppoſe warrantably) take. Come, ſaith God, What ſhall be done with ſinful Man? He hath violated my Law, broken my Command, and as much as lies in him, unpinn'd the Fabrick of the World, ſpoiled my glorious Work of Heaven, and Earth, and Sea, and all therein: Undone himſelf for ever and ever, and ever. O what ſhall be done with this ſinful, rebellious forlorn, unhappy Creature, Man? Silence being a while in Heaven, and all ſtruck into amaze, to ſee the great God of Heaven ſtirred up in wrath, at laſt Mercy and Peace ſtand up, and they ſeek with ſweet, gentle Entreaties to pacifie God's Anger: But Righteouſneſs and Truth are on the contrary ſide; And they provoke God Almighty to go on, and to manifeſt himſelf (as he is indeed) a conſuming Fire, a Sin-revenging God. The Plea is drawn up, and reported at large by Bernard, Andrews, and others.

1. Mercy began; for out of her readineſs to do good, ſhe is ever foremoſt: Her Inclination is to pity, or rather ſhe her ſelf is an inclination to pity thoſe that are in miſery: And if ſhe can but relieve them, let them deſerve what they will, be ſure ſhe will relieve them: For ſhe looks not to the Party what he is, nor what he hath done, nor what he deſerved: but (which is the comfort of us miſerable Sinners) ſhe looks at what he ſuffers, and in how woful and wretched a caſe he is. Her Plea was thus; What Lord haſt thou made all Men in vain? Wilt thou now deſtroy him for whom thou madeſt the World? Shall the Houſholder be caſt out, and thrown into Priſon, and there remain till he hath paid the utmoſt Farthing? Shall all the Men and Women in the World, from firſt to laſt be damned for ever and ever? Alas! What profit is in their Blood? What will it avail to croud Men and Devils together in Hell flames? Will not thoſe Devils, the grand Enemies of God, rejoice at this? And what then will become of thy great Name on Earth? Is not this thy Name? The Lord, the Lord, Merciful, and Gracious, Long-ſuffering, and abundant in Goodneſs and Truth, keeping Mercy for Thouſands, forgiving Iniquity, Tranſgreſſions and Sins? What, will the Lord undo his Name? Will the Lord caſt off for ever? And will he be favourable no more? Is his Mercy clear gone for ever? Will he be no more entreated? Hath God forgotten to be gracious? Hath he in Anger ſhut up his tender Bowels? With theſe, and ſuch like holy whiſperings or mutterings did Mercy enter into God's bowels, and make them yern, and melt again into Compaſſions.

But 2. Truth muſt be heard as well as Mercy; and ſhe lays in matter of exception, and her Plea was thus; What is God but his Word? Now this was thy word to Adam in the day that thou eateſt thereof, thou Gen. 2. 17 ſhalt die the death; and this was thy word to all the Sons of Adam, the Soul that ſinneth, that Soul ſhall die. Ezek. 18. 10. And God may not falſifie his word: His word is truth; falſifie truth?

Theſe were the Controverſies at that time: So that Peace could not tell how to ſpeak a prevailing word amongſt them: Nay the Controverſie grew ſo high, that they made it their own caſes? What ſhall become of me (ſaid Mercy) if God ſpare not ſinners? And what ſhall become of me (ſaid Juſtice) if God *do ſpare Sinners? Vine, both budded and bloſſomed; he was full of the ſweeteſt Flowers; now what were theſe Flowers and Bloſſoms of Chriſt, but his Vertues and bleſſed Graces? In this only Chriſt differs from the Vine, in that in him was ſeen not only one ſort or kind of Flowers, but every kind. Bernard reckons up the Bern. de paſſione Dom. violet of Humility, the lilly of Chaſtity, the roſe of Patience the ſaffron of Abſtinence; I may not ſo far enlarge my ſelf; but in reference to his Birth, I cannot but admire at his Humility, Patience, and infinite Condeſcentions; that the Creator ſhould become a Creature, though an Angel, it were a great Gulf, which no created underſtanding could meaſure; but that he ſhould reject Angels, and take the Seed of Abraham: That he ſhould be made lower than the Angels, who is God over all; that he would be conceived, who is the uncreated Wiſdom: In the dark Priſon of the Womb, who is the Light of the World: And that of a Woman, the weaker, firſt ſinning ſex, who is the holy one and Power of God; that he would be born, who beareth all things: The Lord of all, of a lowly Hand-maid: In fulneſs of time, who is Eternity; In the Night-time, who is the Son of Righteouſneſs: In the Winter, who gives life and heat: In a time of publick taxation, who is Lord of Lords: And that not at Rome, the Lady of Nations; nor at Jeruſalem, the Glory of the Eaſt, but at Bethlehem the leaſt of the Thouſands of Judah; not in a Palace prepared, nor in his Mother's Houſe, but in an Inn; not in the beſt room, nor in any Room of the Houſe, but in a Stable of Beaſts; not attended there with a royal Guard, but with Joſeph and Mary; not adorned in Robes, but ſwadled in Clouts; not ſtately Enthronized but laid in a manger; nor laſtly, his Birth proclaimed by the Kings at Arms, but by poor ſhepherds.

That the Word ſhould be an infant not able to ſpeak a word; that life ſhould be mortal; that power ſhould be ſubject to a poor Carpenter; that the Lord of the Covenant ſhould be circumciſed; that the God of the Temple ſhould be preſented in the Temple; that Wiſdom ſhould be inſtructed; infiniteneſs ſhould grow in ſtature; that the feeder of all things ſhould be fed; that all theſe are preludes, and but beginnings of his Sufferings; O wonderful Condeſcention! O admirable Patience! O rare Humility! How ſtrange are the bloſſoming Bloſſoms of this Vine.

4. For the Fruit, the Nature of Vines is to caſt ſweet ſavours but to bear ſour Grapes: Chriſt that was blameleſs before God and Man, yet bore the heavy burden of our ſin. O the ſweetneſs of his Cant. 1.3. ſavours! Becauſe of the ſavour of thy good Ointments, thy Name is an Ointment poured fourth; whether by ſavours, we mean his Words, the very Officers of the John 7.45 Jews can ſay, Never Man ſpeak like this Man: O whether by ſavours, we mean his deeds, his very Matth.27. 19. Enemies confeſs him a juſt Man; ſo Pilat's Wife could ſend her Husband Word, Have thou nothing Mat.2.11. to do with that juſt Man: The wiſe Men that brought their Offerings gave him Gold, Frankincenſe, and Myrrh; Gold is given him as to a potent King, Frankincenſe as to a gracious God, and Myrrh as to an holy Prieſt: He is a King to rule, a God to ſave, and a Prieſt to mediate: Thus far he caſts ſweet ſavours, but digeſt them better, and they prove ſowre Grapes; a King he was, but mock'd with the Mat.27.29 Title, Hail King of the Jews: a God he was, but Phil 2. 7. he emptied himſelf; He made himſelf of no Reputation: an holy Prieſt he was, but ſuch a Prieſt as muſt offer up himſelf for a Sacrifice: The wiſe men that came from the Eaſt, they ſaw his Infirmity, and yet adore his power; they ſaw his Infancy, yet adore his wiſdom; they ſaw his poverty, yet adore the riches of his Mercy; they ſaw him whom they enquired Mat. 2. 2. after, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? The very Title caſt ſweet ſavours, but it bears ſowre Grapes; he is a King, that's a Title of Honour; but he is King of the Jews? that's a word of reproach.

All along his life you may ſee theſe two, ſweet ſavours, but ſowre Grapes: vidiſti vilia, audi mirifica, ſaith Ambroſe; the things you ſee are mean, but the things you ſee and hear are wonderful; mean it was to ſee a ſort of Shepherds, wonderful it is to ſee a Troop of Angels; mean it was to hear one ſay, laid in the cratch below; wonderful it is to hear many ſing Glory to God on high; mean it was to ſee him man; wonderful it is to know him God. Here's a little Child fainting and groaning, yet a powerful God ruling and commanding; hungry himſelf, to ſhew our Nature; yet feeding five thouſand, to ſhew his power: dying on the Croſs, as the Son of Adam; diſpoſing of Paradiſe, as the Son of God. As it was ſaid of Bethlehem, Minima & non Minima; the leaſt of the thouſands, Micah 5. 2. Not the leaſt of thouſands, Mat. 2. 6. So we ſay of this Bethlemite, Minimus & non Minimus' he ſhall ſit upon the Throne of David, Iſa. 9. 7. Yet he hath born our griefs, and carried our ſorrows, Iſa. 53. 4. His Kingdom is an everlaſting Kingdom, Dan. 7. 27. — Yet his end ſhall be, and he ſhall have nothing, Dan. 9. 26. Thus all along from his Cratch to his Croſs, ſweet ſavours, but ſowre Grapes; at laſt indeed the Grapes grew to a ripeneſs, and then he was preſſed, and his deareſt heart blood run out in abundant ſtreams; this was the ſweet juice of our Garden-Vine; God planted it, the Heavens water it, the Jews prune it; what remains now, but that we abide in it? but of that when we come to the directions how we are to look.

SOme Conſequents after the Birth of Chriſt may be touched, whilſt yet he was but a Child of twelve years old; as——

1. When he was but eight days old, he was Circumciſed, and named Jeſus. As there was ſhame in his Birth, ſo there was pain in his Circumciſion; a ſharp Razor paſſeth through his skin preſently after he is born; not that he needed this Ceremony, but that for us he was content to be legally impure. In this early humiliation he plainly diſcovers the Riches of his Grace; now he ſheds his Blood in drops, and thereby gives an earneſt of thoſe Rivers which he afterwards poured out for the cleanſing of our Nature, and extinguiſhing the wrath of God; and for a further diſcovery of his Grace, at this time his Name is given him, which was Jeſus. This is the name which we ſhould engrave in our hearts; reſt our Faith on, and place our help in, and love with the overflowings of Charity, and Joy, and Adoration; above all things we had need of a Jeſus, a Saviour for our Souls, and from our Sins, and from the everlaſting deſtruction which Sin will otherwiſe bring upon our Souls; hence this Name Jeſus and this Sign Circumciſion are joyned together; for by the effuſion of his blood he was to be our Jeſus, our Saviour: Without ſhedding of Blood is no remiſſion of Sins, no Salvation of Souls. Circumciſion Heb.9.22. was the Seal, and now was it that our Jeſus was un- Rom. 4. 11. der God's great Seal to take his Office: We have heard how he carried on the great Work of our Salvation from Eternity; this very Name and Office of Jeſus, a Saviour, was reſolved on in God's fore-council, and given forth from the beginning, and we have heard of late how it was promiſed and foretold by an Angel; but now it is Signed and Sealed with an abſolute Commiſſion and fulneſs of Power; Him hath God the Father Sealed, John 6. 27. It is his John 6.27 Office and his very Profeſſion to ſave, that all may repair unto him to that end: Come unto me all ye that Mat. 11. 28. are weary; and him that cometh unto me I will in no John.6.37 wiſe caſt out; in which reſpect he is called the Saviour of the World (i. e.) of Samaritans, Jews, Gen- John 4.42 tiles, Kings, Shepherds, and of all ſorts of Men.

2. When he was forty days old, he was brought Luk.2.22, 23. to Jeruſalem, and preſented to the Lord; as it is written in the Law of the Lord, every Male that openeth the Womb ſhall be called Holy to the Lord. O wonder! there was no impurity in the Son of God, and yet he is firſt circumciſed, and then he is brought and offered to the Lord; he that came to be ſin for us, would in our Perſons be legally unclean, that by ſatisfying the Law, he might take away our uncleanneſs; he that was above the Law, would come under the Law, that he might free us from the Law; we are all born ſinners, but O the unſpeakable Mercy of our Jeſus, that provides a remedy as early as our ſin: firſt, he is conceived, and then he is born, to ſanctifie our Conceptions and our Births; and after his Birth, he is firſt Circumciſed, and then he is preſented to the Lord; that by two holy acts, that which was naturally unholy might be hallowed unto God: Chriſt hath not left our very Infancy without redreſs, but by himſelf, thus offered, he cleanſeth us preſently from our filthineſs. ——— Now is Chriſt brought in his Mothers Arms, to his own Houſe, the Temple; and as Man, he is preſented to himſelf, as God. O how Glorious did that Temple ſeem, now the Owner was within the Walls of it! Now was the Hour, and Gueſt come, in regard whereof the ſecond Temple ſhould ſurpaſs the firſt; this was the Houſe built for him, and dedicated to him; there had he dwelt long in his Typical preſence, nothing was done there whereby he was not reſembled; and now the body of theſe ſhadows is come, and preſents himſelf, where he had ever been repreſented. You will ſay, what is this to me or to my Soul? O yes! Jeruſalem is now every where; there is no Church aſſembly, no Chriſtian heart which is not a Temple of the Living God; and there is no Temple of God wherein Chriſt is not preſented to his Father: Thus we have the benefit of Chriſt's fulfilling the Law of Righteouſ- Gal. 3.4,5 neſs; God ſent his Son, made of a Woman, made under the Law, that he might redeem them that were under the Law, that we might receive the adoption of Sons. It is, as if the Father ſhould have ſaid to Chriſt, Come, my dear Son, here are certain Malefactors under the Law, to ſuffer and to be executed; what ſay you to them? Why, I will become under the Law (ſaith Chriſt) I will take upon me their Execution, and ſuffer for them; and to this purpoſe he is firſt circumciſed; and then he is preſented to the Lord.

3. When he was yet under one year old, as ſome, or about two, as others, he fled into Egypt. As there was no room for him in Bethlehem, ſo now there is no room for him in all Judea; no ſooner he came to his own, but he muſt fly from them; what a wonder is this? Could not Chriſt have quit himſelf from Herod a thouſand ways! what could an Arm of fleſh have done againſt the God of Spirits; had Jeſus been of the ſpirit of ſome of his Diſciples, he might have commanded fire from Heaven on thoſe that ſhould have come to have apprehended him; but hereby he taught us to bear the yoke even in our youth; thus would he ſuffer, that he might ſanctifie to us our earthly afflictions he flies into Egypt, the ſlaughter-houſe of Gods People, the link of the World, the furnace of Iſrael's ancient afflictions. What a change is here? Iſrael, the firſt-born of God flies out of Egypt into Judea; and Chriſt the firſt-born of all Creatures flies out of Judea into Egypt, Euſeb. de. demonſt. l. 6. c. 26. Euſebius reports that the Child Jeſus arriving in Egypt, and being by deſign carried into a Temple, all the Statues of the Idol Gods fell down like Dagon at the preſence of the Ark; and to this purpoſe he cites Iſa. 19.1. Iſaiah's propheſie, Behold, the Lord ſhall come into Egypt, and the Idols of Egypt ſhall be moved at his preſence. Now is Egypt become the Sanctuary, and Judea the inquiſition-houſe of the Son of God; ſurely he that is every where the ſame, knows how to make all places alike to his; he knows how to preſerve Daniel in the Lions Den; the three Children in the fiery furnace; Jonah in a Whales belly, and Chriſt in the midſt of Egypt. 4. When he was now ſome five years old, ſay ſome, or but two years and a quarter old, ſay others; an Angel appears again in a Dream Mat. 2.19, 20. to Joſeph, ſaying, Ariſe and take the young Child and his Mother, and return again into the land of Iſrael, for they are dead which ſought the young Childs Life. Herod, that took away the lives of all the Infants in or about Bethlehem, is now himſelf dead, and gone to his own place, and by this means the Coaſt is clear for the return of that holy Family. O the wonderful diſpenſation of Chriſt in concealing of himſelf from men! all this while he carries himſelf as an Infant, and though he know all things, yet he neither takes nor gives any notice of his removal or diſpoſing, but appoints that to be done by his Angel, which the Angel could not have done but by him. As Chriſt was pleaſed to take upon him our Nature ſo in our Name he was peaſed to be a perfect Child; for that is the word; take the young Child and his Mother; he ſuppreſt the manifeſtation and exerciſe of that God-head, whereto the Infant-nature was conjoined; as the Birth of Chriſt, ſo the Infancy of Chriſt was exceeding humble: O how ſhould we magnifie him, or deject our ſelves for him, who himſelf became thus humble for our ſakes!

5. When he was twelve years old, he with his Luk. 2.42. Parents go up to Jeruſalem, after the cuſtom of the Feaſt. This pious act of his younger years intends to lead our firſt years into timely devotion; but I ſhall not inſiſt on that; I would rather obſerve him ſitting in the midſt of the Doctors, both hearing them and asking V. 46. them Queſtions; whileſt the Children of his age were a playing in the ſtreets, he is found of his Parents ſitting in the Temple; not to gaze on the outward glory of that houſe, of the golden Candleſticks, or Tables, or Cherubims, or the Pillars, or the Molten Sea, or the Altar of Gold, or the Veſſels of pure Gold, no, no, but to hear and oppoſe the Doctors. He, who as God, gave them all the Wiſdom they had, doth now, as the Son of man, hearken to the Wiſdom he had given them; and when he had heard, then he asks; and after that, no doubt he anſwers; his very queſtions were inſtructions; for I cannot think that he meant ſo much to learn, as to teach thoſe Doctors of Iſrael. Surely theſe Rabbins had never heard the voice of ſuch a Tutor; they could not but ſee the very Wiſdom of God in this Child; and therefore, ſaith the Text, they all wonder; or they were all aſtoniſhed Ver. 47. at his underſtanding and anſwers; their eyes ſaw nothing but a Child, but their Ears heard the wonderful things of Gods Law; betwixt what they ſaw, and what they heard, they could not but be diſtracted and amazed. But why did ye not (O ye Jewiſh teachers) remember now the Star and the Sages, and the Angels, and the Shepherds; why did ye not now bethink your ſelves of Herod, and of his enquiry, and of your anſwer, that in Bethlehem of Judea Chriſt ſhould be born? You cited the Prophets, and why did you not mind that Prophecy now, that unto us a Child is born, and unto us a Son is given, and his Name ſhall be called Wonderful, Councellor, the Iſa. 96. Mighty God, the everlaſting Father, the Prince of Peace? Fruitleſs is the wonder that endeth not in Faith; no Light is ſufficient, where the eyes were held through unbelief and prejudice.

6. After this, from twelve to the thirtieth year of his Age, we read nothing of the Acts of Chriſt, but that he went down with his Parents unto Nazareth, Luk. 2.51. and was ſubject to them; as he went up to Jeruſalem to Worſhip God, and in ſome ſort to ſhew himſelf God; ſo now he goes down to Nazareth to attend his particular Calling. This is the meaning of thoſe words, and he was ſubject to them: Chriſts ſubjection to his Parents extends to the profeſſion and exerciſe of his life; certainly Chriſt was not all that time from twelve to thirty years idle; as he was educated by his Parents, ſo of his reputed Father he learnt to be a Carpenter; this, I take it, is plain in theſe words, Is not this the Carpenter, the Son of Mary; Mark 6.3. It appears (ſay our Engliſh Annotations) that Chriſt exerciſed that Trade in his younger years. I know Matthew renders it thus, Is not this the Carpenters Son, is Mat. 13.55 not his Mother called Mary? But Mark thus, is not this the Carpenter? &c. Some comment thus, that while Joſeph was alive, Chriſt wrought with him in the Trade of a Carpenter, and when Joſeph died, which happened before the manifeſtation of Jeſus unto Iſrael, he wrought alone, and was no more called the Carpenters Son, but the Carpenter himſelf: here's comfort for men of the meaneſt Callings: as Husbandry was honoured in the Perſon and Condition of the firſt Adam before his Fall, ſo now the Handicraft. O the Poverty, Humility, Severity of Jeſus! it appears at this time eſpecially, in his Labouring, Working, Hewing of Wood, or the like; here's a ſharp reproof to all thoſe that ſpend their time in idleneſs, or without a particular Calling, that take no pains at all unleſs in purſuit after Vain, Fooliſh, Superfluous, Sinful things; what! are they wiſer than Chriſt? Our Jeſus would not by any means thus ſpend his time. Indeed for the while he did nothing famous, or of publick note; but neither was this without a Myſtery: In doing nothing Publick, ſaith one, He atchieved great, ſumptuous, and praiſe-worthy acts: There is a ſeaſon and time to every purpoſe under heaven: as there is a time of ſilence, and a time to ſpeak, ſo there is a time for publick, and a time for private Negotiations? as yet Chriſt conceals his virtues, and conforms himſelf to the converſation of men, that the Myſtery of his Incarnation might not be thought a Phantaſm; then he would have his Virtues and Graces to ſhine out, when men uſually come to their vigour and ſtrength both of body and mind. And beſides, as it was ſaid of a Divine, that he would never Preach a Sermon, but he would firſt endeavour to practiſe it himſelf; ſo I am ſure did Chriſt; he would not teach the World, ſaying, Learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart, but firſt he would practiſe; firſt do, then teach; as Luke tells Theophilus, he had writ all that Jeſus began both to do and teach.

Mat. 11. 29
Acts 1. 1.

But concerning this time of his youth, becauſe in Scripture there is ſo deep a ſilence, I ſhall therefore paſs it by.

Thus far have I propounded the Object we are to look unto; it is Jeſus in his firſt coming, or incarnation, whiles yet a Child of twelve years old: Our next Work is to direct you in the Art or Myſtery, how we are to look unto him in this reſpect.

CHAP. II.

Sect. 1. Of knowing Jeſus as carrying on the great VVork of our Salvation in his Birth.

WHat Looking] comprehends, you have heard before: And that we may have an inward experimental look on him whom our Souls pant after, let us practiſe all theſe Particulars: As ——

1. Let us know Jeſus, carrying on the great work of our Salvation in his Coming or Incarnation. Come let us learn what he did for us when he came amongſt us. There is not one Paſſage in his firſt appearing, but it is of mighty concernment unto us, Is it poſſible that the great God of Heaven and Earth ſhould ſo infinitely condeſcend (as we have heard) but on ſome great Deſign? and what Deſign could there be, but only his Glory, and the Creatures good; O my Soul! if thou haſt any intereſt in Chriſt; all this concerns thee, the Lord Jeſus in theſe very tranſactions had an Eye to thee; he was Incarnate for thee, he was conceived, and born for thee; look not on theſe things as Notionals, or Generals; look not on the bare Hiſtory of things; for that is but unprofitable; the main duty is in eying the end, the meaning, and intent of Chriſt; and eſpecially as it relates to thee, not to others, but to thy ſelf. Alas! what comfort were it to a poor priſoner, if he ſhould hear that the King or Prince of his meer Grace and Love, viſited all the Priſoners in this and that Dungeon, and that he made a Gaol delivery, and ſet all free, but he never came near the Place where he poor wretch lies bound in Fetters and cold Irons? Or ſuppoſe he gives a viſit to that very man, and offers him the tenders of Grace and Freedom, if he will but accept of it; and (becauſe of his waywardneſs) Perſwades, Intreats, Commands him to come out, and take his Liberty; and yet he will not regard, or apply it to himſelf, what comfort can he have? what fruit? what benefit ſhall he receive? Dear Soul, this is thy caſe, if thou art not in Chriſt, if thou hadſt not heard the Offer, and embraced and cloſed with it, then what is Chriſt's Incarnation, Conception, Nativity unto thee? Come! Learn! not meerly as a Scholar, to gain ſome notional knowledge; but as a Chriſtian, as one that feels virtue coming out of Chriſt in every of theſe reſpects: Study cloſe this great tranſaction in reference to thy ſelf. I know not how it happens, whether out of the generality of ſome Preachers handling this Subject, or whether out of the Superſtition of the time wherein it uſually hath been handled, it either ſavours not with ſome Chriſtians, or it is ſeldom thought of by the moſt; O God forbid we throw out of doors, ſuch a bleſſed neceſſary truth! If rightly applied, it is a Chriſtians joy; Behold I bring you glad tidings of great joy that ſhall be to all People; for unto you is born in the City of David, a Saviour, which is Chriſt the Lord. Sure the Birth of Chriſt is of mighty concernment unto thee; unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given; there is not any piece of this tranſaction, but it is of ſpecial uſe, and worth thy pains. How many break their Brains, and waſte their Spirits in ſtudying Arts and Sciences, things in compariſon of no value; whereas Paul otherwiſe determined not to know any thing among you but Jeſus Chriſt? To know Jeſus Chriſt in every piece and point, whether in Birth, or Life, or Death, it is ſaving knowledge. O ſtand not upon Coſt, whether Pains or Study, Tears or Prayers, Peace or Wealth, Goods or Name, Life or Liberty; ſell all for this Pearl. Chriſt is of that Worth and Uſe, that thou can'ſt never over-buy him, though thou gaveſt thy ſelf and all the World for him; the Study of Chriſt is the Study of Studies; the knowledge of Chriſt is the knowledge of every thing that is neceſſary, either for this World, or for the World to come. O ſtudy Chriſt in every of the foreſaid reſpects.

Sect. 2. Conſidering Jeſus in that reſpect.

2. LET us conſider Jeſus, carrying on this great work of our Salvation at his firſt coming or Incarnation. It is not enough to Study and know theſe great Myſteries; but according to the Meaſure of Knowledge we have, we muſt Muſe, Meditate, Ponder, and Conſider of them. Now this Conſideration brings Chriſt nearer and cloſer to the Soul. Conſideration gathers up all the long fore-paſſed Acts and Monuments of Chriſt, and finds a deal of Sweetneſs and Power to come flowing from them. Conſideration faſtens Chriſt more ſtrongly to the Soul, and, as it were, rivets the Soul to Jeſus Chriſt, and faſtens him in the Heart. A Soul that truely conſiders and meditates of Chriſt, thinks and talkes of nothing elſe but Chriſt; it takes hold, and will not let him go. I will keep to thee (ſaith the Soul in meditation) for thou art my life. Why thus, O my Soul, conſider thou of Chriſt, and of what he did for thee when he was Incarnate! and that thou may'ſt not confound thy ſelf in thy meditations, conſider a-part of theſe particulars.——As,——

1. Conſider Jeſus in his fore-runner, and the bleſſed tidings of his coming in the fleſh; now the long-looked for time drew near, a glorious Angel is ſent from Heaven, and he comes with an Olive-branch of peace; firſt he preſents hmſelf to Zachary, and then to Mary; to her he imparts the Meſſage on which God ſent him into this nether World; Luk. 1.31 Behold thou ſhalt conceive in thy Womb, and bring forth a Son, and ſhalt call his name Jeſus. Till now Human Nature was leſs than that of Angels; but by the Incarnation of the Word, it was to be exalted above the Cherubims. What ſweet News! What bleſſed Tidings was this Meſſage? The Decree of old muſt now be accompliſhed, and an Angel proclaims it upon Earth; hear O ye Sons of Adam, this concerns you as much as the Virgin: Were ye not all undone in the Loins of your firſt Father? Was not my Soul, and thy Soul in danger of Hell fire; was not this our caſe and condition, that after a little life upon Earth, we ſhould have been thrown into eternal torments, where had been nothing but Weeping, Wailing, and Gnaſhing of Teeth; And now that God and Chriſt ſhould bid an Angel tell the News, Ye ſhall not die; lo here a Virgin ſhall conceive and bear a Son, and he ſhall be your Jeſus: he ſhall ſave you from this Hell, and Death, and Sin: He ſhall deliver your Soul, he ſhall ſave you to the utmoſt; His Name is Jeſus, and he ſhall not bear his Name for nought; Believe in him, and ye ſhall live with him in Glory. O bleſſed News! Men may talk what they will of this and that News, every one gapes after it: but there is no News ſo welcome to one even now ready to periſh, as to hear of a Saviour; tell a Man in his ſickneſs of one that will make him well again: tell a Man in Captivity of one that will reſcue him, and ſet him free again; tell a Man in Priſon, condemned to die, of one with a Pardon that will ſave his life; and every one of theſe will ſay, this is the beſt News that ever was heard: O then, if it be good tidings to hear of a Saviour, where is only a matter of loſs of life, or of this Earth; how much more when it comes to the loſs of Heaven, to the danger of Hell, when our Souls are at ſtake, and likely to be damned for evermore; what glad tidings would that be, to hear of one that could ſave our Souls from that deſtroyer? Is not ſuch a Saviour worth the hearkning after? were not the Birth of ſuch a one good news? O my Soul, ponder on theſe words, as if an Angel, ſeeing thee ſtand on the Brim of Hell, ſhould ſpeak to thee, even to thy Soul.

2. Conſider Jeſus in his Conception; no ſooner the news heard, but Chriſt is conceived by the Holy Ghoſt in the Virgins Womb; this Conception is worthy our conſideration: What, that the great God of Heaven ſhould condeſcend ſo far as to take our nature upon him, and to take it in the ſame way, and after the ſame manner as we do? the Womb of the Virgin ſurely was no ſuch place, but he might well have abhorred it; true, but he meant by this to ſatisfie our very conceptions; and to that purpoſe, he is conceived in an holy manner, even by the Holy Ghoſt; we muſt not be too curious to enquire after the manner of the Holy Ghoſts operation, who therefore overſhadowed the Virgin; this is work for our Hearts, and not meerly for our Heads; humble Faith, and not curious inquiſition ſhall find the ſweetneſs of this Myſtery. It was David's Com- Pſal. 51.5. plaint, Behold I was ſhapen in Iniquity, and in ſin did my Mother conceive me. O my Soul, this was thy caſe in thy very firſt being or beginning, and hadſt thou died in that condition, the word is expreſs, that nothing defiled nor unclean ſhould enter into the City of Glory Pſal. 51.5.; but here's the remedy, thy ſinful Conception is ſanctified by Chriſts holy Conception: the holineſs of thy Jeſus ſerves as a Cover to hide thy Original pollutions from the Eyes of God. O conſider this! Jeſus Chriſt was not conceived in vain; he was not idle, doing nothing whiles he was in his Mothers Womb; he that from all eternity began, he was then carrying on the great work of our Salvation for us: O conſider this conception thus, till thou bringeſt it near and cloſe to thy Soul; till thou feeleſt ſome ſweetneſs and power coming, and flowing from Jeſus in the Womb.

3. Conſider the duplicity of Natures in Jeſus Chriſt: The Word was made Fleſh; no ſooner was he conceived, but he was God-Man, Man-God; he was perfectly framed, and inſtantly united to the eternal Word: God ſent his Son, there's the Nature John 1.14. Divine; made of a Woman, there's the Nature Human. Certainly great is this Myſtery, that the Word is made Fleſh; that the Son of God is made of a Woman; that a Star gives light to the Sun; that a Branch doth bear the Vine; that a Creature Gal. 4.4. gives being to the Creator; that a Mother was younger than what ſhe bare, and a great deal leſſer then what ſhe contained. Admire O my Soul at this! but withal conſider, that all this was for us and our Salvation; he was Man, that he might die for us: and he was God, that his Death might be ſufficient to ſave us: had he been Man alone, not God, he might have ſuffered, but he could never have ſatisfied for ſin; he could not have been Jeſus, a Saviour of Souls; had he been God alone, not Man, he had not been akin to our Nature offending; and ſo he could not have ſatisfied the Juſtice of God in the ſame Nature wherein it was offended; neither could he, as God alone, have died for Sin; and the Decree was out, that our Redeemer muſt die for Sin: for Heb. 9.22. without ſhedding of Blood there is no Remiſſion: and no ſhedding of Blood, no Paſſion could poſſibly befal the God-Head of Jeſus Chriſt. I ſhall not diſpute the power of God whether he was able to lay down another kind of way of Man's Redemption, than by the Incarnation of the Son of God: without controverſie this was the Will of God, and he appointed no other way, becauſe he would not. O my Soul, conſider of this in relation to thy ſelf, he is God-Man, that he might ſuffer and ſatisfie for thy ſins: he is God-Man, that he might be able and fit, moſt fully to finiſh the work of thy Salvation; as God he is able, and as Man he is fit to diſcharge the office of Mediator; as God, he is able to bear the puniſhment of ſin; and as Man, he is fit to ſuffer for ſin: O the wiſdom of God in this very way! Mans Nature can ſuffer Death, but not overcome it; the Divine Nature can overcome Death and all things; but he cannot ſuffer it: and hence there is a duplicity of Natures in Jeſus Chriſt: O muſe on this; it is a matter worthy of thy ſerious conſideration.

4. Conſider the real diſtinction of theſe two Natures in Chriſt. As the unapproachable Light of the God-head was put into the dim and dark Lanthorn of human Fleſh, ſo theſe two Natures remained entire, without any converſion, commixion, or confuſion; they were not as Wine and Water, that become one by mixing; there is no ſuch blending the Divine and Human Nature; they were not as Snow and Water, that become one by diſſolving of the Snow into the Water; there is no ſuch changing of the Human Nature into the Divine, or of the Divine Nature into the Human: Some ſay indeed, that the God-head was more plentifully communicated with the Manhood after his Reſurrection, than now at his Conception; but howſoever, it did not then ſwallow up the Truth of his Manhood, as a whole Sea would ſwallow up one drop of Oil; look as at firſt moment of his Conception, he was God and Man, ſo theſe two Natures continued ſtill, diſtinct in ſubſtance, properties, and actions. Why conſider this, O my ſoul, in reference to thy ſelf; O there's comfort in this! by this means thou haſt now free acceſs unto the Throne of Grace, that thou mayeſt find help in thy neceſſities; and as thou haſt free acceſs, ſo thou mayeſt boldly draw near? His Deity indeed confounds, but his Humanity comforts faint and feeble Souls; his Divine Nature amazeth, but his Humane Nature incourageth us to come unto him; even after his Reſurrection he was pleaſed to Joh. 20. 17. ſend his comfortable meſſage to the Sons of Men, Go to my Brethren, and ſay unto them, I aſcend to my Father and your Father, and to my God and your God; now as long as he is not aſhamed to call us Brethren, God Heb. 11. 16. is not aſhamed to be called our God. O the ſweet fruit, that we may gather of this Tree, the real diſtinction of two Natures in Chriſt. As long as Chriſt is Man as well as God, we have a motive ſtrong enough to appeaſe his Father, and to turn his favourable countenance towards us; here is our happineſs, that there is 1 Tim. 1. 5. one Mediator between God and Man, the Man Chriſt Jeſus.

5. Conſider the Union of the two natures of Chriſt in one and the ſame Perſon; as he was the branch of the Lord, and the fruit of the Earth, ſo theſe two natures were tied with ſuch a Gordian knot, as ſin, hell, and the grave were never able to untie; yea, though in the death of Chriſt there was a ſeparation of the ſoul from the body; yet in that ſeparation, the hypoſtatical Union remained firm, unſhaken and indiſſoluble: in this Meditation thou haſt great cauſe, O my Soul, to admire and adore; wonderful things are ſpoken of thee. O Chriſt! he is God in a Perſon of a God-head, ſo as neither the Father, nor the Holy Ghoſt were made fleſh; and he is man in the nature of man, not properly the Perſon, the humane nature of Chriſt never having any Perſonal ſubſiſtence out of the God-head; this is a myſtery, that no Angel, much leſs man is able to comprehend: we have not another example of ſuch an Union (as you have heard) only the neareſt ſimilitude, or reſemblance we can find, is that of the Branch and Tree into which it is ingraffed; we ſee one Tree may be ſet into another, and it groweth in the Stock thereof, and becometh one and the ſame Tree, though there be two natures or kinds of fruit ſtill remaining therein; ſo in the Son of God made man, though there be two natures, yet both being united into one Perſon, there is but one Son of God, and one Jeſus Chriſt. If thou wilt conſider this great myſtery of Godlineſs any further, review what hath been ſaid in the object propounded, where this union is ſet forth more largely and particularly; but eſpecially conſider the bleſſed effects of this union in reference to thy ſelf; as our nature in the perſon of Chriſt, is united to the God-head, ſo our perſons in and by this Union of Chriſt, are brought nigh to God. Hence it is that God doth ſet his Sanctuary and Tabernacle among us, and that he dwells with us; and which is more, that he makes us houſes and habitations, wherein he himſelf is pleaſed to dwell John 17. 20. by his holy Spirit. Ye are the Temple of the Living God, as God hath ſaid, I will dwell in them, and I will be their God, and they ſhall be my People, 2 Cor. 6. 16. Was not this Chriſts Prayer in our behalf? I 21, 22, 23. pray not for theſe alone, but for them alſo which ſhall believe on me through their word, that they all may be one, as thou Father art in me, and I in thee; that they alſo may be one in us, that the world may believe that thou haſt ſent me; I in them, and thou in me, that they may be perfect in one, and that the world may know that thou haſt ſent me, and haſt loved them as thou haſt loved me. Gal. 4. 6. By reaſon of this hypoſtatical union of Chriſt, the Spirit of Chriſt is given to us in the very moment of our regeneration. And becauſe ye are Sons, God hath ſent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba Father; and hereby we know that we dwell in him, and he in us, becauſe he hath given us of his Spirit. As the members of the Body, howſoever diſtinct amongſt themſelves, and all differing from the head, yet by reaſon of one ſoul informing both the head and members, they all make one compoſitum, or man; ſo all believers in Chriſt, howſoever diſtinct Perſons amongſt themſelves, and all diſtinct from the Perſon of Chriſt, and eſpecially from the God-head which is incommunicable, yet by one and the ſame ſpirit abiding in Chriſt, and all his Members, they become one, there is one body, and one ſpirit: he that is joyned to the Lord is one Spirit. Eph. 4. 4. 1 Cor. 6. 17. O my Soul, conſider of this; and in conſidering, believe thy part in this; and the rather, becauſe the means of this union on thy part is a true and lively faith; faith is the firſt effect and inſtrument of the Spirit of Chriſt, diſpoſing and enabling thy ſoul to cleave unto Chriſt, and for this Eph. 3. 14, 17. cauſe I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt —— that Chriſt may dwell in your hearts by Faith.

6. Conſider the Birth of Chriſt, this Man-God, God-Man, who in his divine generation was the Son of God in his humane generation was born in a ſtable, for the ſaving of the Children of men, who were as the ox and mule, having no underſtanding. It were a fruitful meditation to conſider over and over that ſweet reſemblance of Chriſt being a Vine, methinks I hear a Voice of my beloved, Riſe up my love Cant. 2. 10, 13. ——the fig-tree putteth forth her green figs, and the vine with the tender grapes gives a good ſmell; ariſe, my love, my fair one, and come away, if Chriſt knocks at the door, who will not awake, and riſe? If Chriſt comes in view, who will not look unto Jeſus? If Chriſt the Vine calls us to come ſee the vine, the tender grape, who will not taſte the goodneſs, ſmell the ſweetneſs? And after a little taſte of that goodneſs, and ſweetneſs that is in him, who would not long after more, till we come from the firſt fruits to the laſt fruits of the Spirit, even to thoſe viſions and fruitions of Chriſt in Glory? Conſider, O my ſoul, of this Vine, till thou haſt brought Chriſt near and cloſe unto thy ſelf. Suppoſe thy heart, the Garden wherein this Vine was planted, wherein it budded, bloſſomed, and bare fruit; ſuppoſe the Holy Ghoſt came upon thee, and to form and faſhion in thee Jeſus Chriſt; (thus Paul beſpeaks the Galathians, My little Children, of whom I travel in Birth again until Chriſt be formed in you) would not this affect? Would not the whole ſoul be taken with this? Come, receive Chriſt into thy ſoul: or if that work be done, if Chriſt be formed in thee, O cheriſh him! (I ſpeak of the Spiritual birth) O keep him in thy heart! let him there bud, and bloſſom, and bear fruit; let him fill thy ſoul, with his Divine Graces; O that thou couldſt ſay it Gal. 2. 20. feelingly, I live; yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me: O that this were the Iſſue of thy meditation on Chriſt's Birth! even whiles thou art going with the ſhepherds to Bethlehem, and there findeſt thy Saviour lying in a Cratch, that thou wouldſt bring him thence, and make thy heart to be his Cradle! I would not give a farthing for a meditation meerly on the Hiſtory of Chriſt's Birth; either draw virtue from him within, or thy meditation will be fruitleſs.——

7. Conſider thoſe few conſequents after Chriſts Birth; every action of Chriſt is our inſtruction; here are many particulars, but none in vain; Chriſt is conſidered under much variety of notion, but he is ſtill ſweet under all. Is it poſſible, O my ſoul, that thou ſhouldſt tire thy ſelf in the contemplation of Jeſus Chriſt? If one flower yield thee not pleaſure, or delight, go to a ſecond, a third: Obſerve how the Bees gather honey, after a while that they have ſucked one flower, they go to another; ſo for a while obſerve the circumciſion of Jeſus Chriſt, and ſuck there, and gather ſome honey out of that flower; Chriſt had never been circumciſed but that the ſame might be done to our ſouls, that was done to his Body: O that the ſame Chriſt would do that in us, that was done to him for us. Again, obſerve Chriſts preſentation in the Temple, this was the Law of thoſe that firſt opened the Womb; now Chriſt was the firſt-born of Mary, and indeed the firſt born of all Creatures; and he was conſecrated unto God, that by him we might be conſecrate, and made holy; and that by him we might be accepted, when we are offered unto the Lord. Again, obſerve Chriſts flight into Egypt; though the infancy is uſually moſt quiet, and devoyd of trouble, yet here life and toyl began together; and ſee how ſpeedily this comes after Chriſts dedication unto God: Alas! Alas! We are no ſooner born again, than we are perſecuted; if the Church travel, and bring forth a Male, ſhe is in danger of the Dragons ſtreams. Again obſerve Mat. 15. 25. Chriſt's return into Judea, he was not ſent, but to the loſt Sheep of the Houſe of Iſrael; with them alone he was perſonally to converſe in his Miniſtry, in which Rom. 15. 8. reſpect he was called a Miniſter of Circumciſion. And where ſhould he be trained, and ſhew himſelf, but amongſt them to whom God had ſent him? The Goſpel firſt began there, and as a preparation to it, Chriſt now in his Childhood returns thither. Again, obſerve Chriſt Diſputing with the Doctors in the Temple; in his very non-age Chriſt gives a taſte of his future proof: ſee how early his divine graces put forth themſelves, In him were hid (ſaith the Apoſtle) Col. 2. 3. all the Treaſures of Wiſdom and Knowledge; all the treaſures were hid in him, and yet ſome of thoſe treaſures appeared very early betimes: his wiſdom in his very infancy is admired at, nor is it without our pro-1 Cor. 1. 38. fit, for of God he is made wiſdom unto us. Again, obſerve how he ſpent the remainder of his Youth, in all his examples he meant our Inſtructions, He went down with his Parents, and was ſubject to them; he was not idly bred, but ſerves his Generation in the poor Lam. 3. 27. way of a Carpenter; It is every way good for a Man to bear God's Yoke even from his Infancy. Chriſt is enured betimes to the hardſhip of life, and the ſtrict obſervation of the Law, both of God and Nature.

See, O my Soul, what a World of matter is before thee to conſider of: here is Jeſus under many a Nation, here's the annunciation of Jeſus, the conception of Jeſus, the duplicity of natures in Jeſus, the real diſtinction, the wonderful union, the nativity of Jeſus, together with ſome conſequents after it. Go over theſe with often and frequent thoughts, give not over till thou feeleſt thy Heart begin to warm; true Meditation is as the Bellows of the Soul, that doth kindle and enflame holy affections, and by renewed, and more forceable thoughts, as by renewed, and ſtronger blaſts, it doth renew, and encreaſe the flame.

Sect. 3. Of deſiring after Jeſus in that reſpect.

3. LET us deſire after Jeſus, carrying on the great work of our Salvation at his firſt coming, or incarnation. It is not enough to know, and conſider, but we muſt deſire. Now, what is deſire, but a certain Motion of the Appetite, by which the Soul darts it ſelf towards the abſent good, purpoſely to draw near, and to unite it ſelf thereunto? The incarnation of Chriſt according to the Letter, was the deſire of Nations; ſo the Prophet, I will ſhake all Nations, Hag. 2. 7. and the Deſire of all Nations ſhall come. O how they that lived before Chriſt, Deſired after this coming of Chriſt! Abraham Deſired to ſee that day, Two Thouſand Years and more before it came: it was the expectation of all the Patriarchs. O when will that day come? And ſurely the incarnation of Chriſt in the fruit, or efficacy, or application is, or ſhould be, the Deſire of all Chriſtians. There is merit, and vertue in Jeſus Chriſt, in every paſſage of Chriſt, in his conception, incarnation; in his Birth, and in thoſe conſequents after his Birth; now to make theſe ours, that we may have our ſhare, and part, and intereſt in them, we muſt here begin; O my ſoul, do thou deſire, do thou ſeek to poſſeſs thy ſelf of Chriſt; ſet thy deſire (as the Needle-point) aright, and all the reſt will follow: never will union be with the abſent good, but the Soul by Deſire, muſt firſt dart it ſelf towards it. True it is, and pity it is, Millions of Souls ſtand at a diſtance from Jeſus Chriſt, and why? they have no deſire towards him: but, O that my Soul, and thy Soul (whoſoever thou art that readeſt) would Deſire! O that we could Deſire, and long after him until we languiſh, and be compelled to cry out with the Spouſe; Stay me with flaggons, and com- Cant. 2. 5. fort me with Apples, for I am ſick of Love.

Is there not good reaſon for it? What is there in Chriſt that is not Deſirable? View over all thoſe excellencies of his conception; of his two natures, really diſtinguiſhed, and yet wonderfully united; of his Birth; of thoſe few conſequents after his Birth: but above all, ſee the fruit of all; he was conceived that our conceptions might be ſanctified: he was the Son of Man, that he might ſuffer for us; and the Son of God, that he might ſatisfie divine juſtice: he was God and Man in one perſon, that we might be one with him, Members of his Body, and of his Fleſh, Eph. 5. 30. and of his Bones; he was born of the Virgin, that there might be a ſpiritual conception and birth of Chriſt in our Virgin hearts; or he was conceived and born, that we might conceive the grace of Chriſt in our hearts, and bring it forth in our lives; What? Are not theſe deſirable things? Never tell me of thy preſent enjoyments, for never was Chriſt ſo enjoyed in this life, but thou haſt cauſe to deſire yet more of Chriſt: It is worth thy obſervation, that Exod. 33. 18. Spiritual deſires after Chriſt, do neither load, nor cloy the heart, but rather open, and enlarge it for more and more; Who was better acquainted with God than Moſes? and yet, Who was more importunate to know him better? I beſeech thee ſhew me thy glory: And, Who Phil. 1. 23. was more acquainted with Chriſt than Paul? and yet who was more importunate to be with him nearer? I deſire to be diſſolved, and to be with Chriſt. Further and further union with Chriſt, and communion with Chriſt, are moſt deſirable things, and are not theſe the fruits of his incarnation? The effects of his hypoſtatical, perſonal union? More and more peace, and love, and reconciliation betwixt God and us are deſirable things; and are theſe the fruits of Chriſts birth, the effects of his budding out of the Earth? Was it not then, That Righteouſneſs looked down from Heaven? That Mercy and Truth met together, and Righteouſneſs and Peace kiſſed each other? An higher degree of holineſs, ſanctification, likeneſs to God and Chriſt are deſirable things; and are not theſe the fruits of circumciſion, and Preſentation to the Lord, the effects of all thoſe conſequents that follow after his Birth? Come, Soul, and ſtir up thy deſires; true deſires are not wavering and full, but reſolute and full of quickneſs; obſerve how the nature of true deſires in Scripture is ſet forth by the moſt pathetical and ſtrong ſimilitudes of Hunger and Thirſt, and thoſe not common neither, but by The panting of a tyred Hart after the Rivers of waters, and by the gaping of dry ground after ſome ſeaſonable ſhowers. O then! how is it that the paſſages of thy deſires are ſo narrow, and almoſt ſhut up? Nay, How is it that thy Veſſels are ſo full of contrary qualities, that there is ſcarce any room in thy Soul for Chriſt, and all his Train? Will not the deſires of the Patriarchs witneſs againſt thee? How cryed they after Chriſt's coming in the Fleſh? Pſal. 144. 5 Bow the Heavens, O Lord, and come down, Pſal. 144. 5. Oh that thou wouldeſt rent the Heavens, that thou wouldſt Iſa. 64. 1. come down, Iſa. 64. 1. Drop down ye Heavens from above, and let the Skies pour down Righteouſneſs, let the Iſa. 45. 8. Earth open, and bring forth Salvation, Iſa. 45. 8. Is it poſſible that their deſires ſhould be more vehement after Chriſt than ours? They lived on the dark-ſide of the Cloud, but we on the bright-ſide; the veil was upon their hearts, which veil is done away in Chriſt; they ſaw Chriſt afar off, and their ſight 2 Cor. 3. 18. was very dim, and dark; But we all with open face, as in a Glaſs, behold the glory of the Lord. One would think, the leſs any thing is known, the leſs it ſhould be deſired: O my Soul, either thou art more ignorant of Chriſt, than the Patriarchs of old, or thy heart is more out of frame than theirs; ſuſpect the latter, and blame thy heart, it may be thy turpid and ſluggiſh nature hath laid thy deſires aſleep, if an hungry man will ſleep, his hunger will ſleep with him: But, O ſtir up, and awake thy deſires! Preſent before them that glorious object, the incarnation of Jeſus Chriſt; it is an object which the very Angels deſire to look into, and Art not thou more concern'd in it than the Angels? is not the fruit of the incarnation thine, more eſpecially thine? Come then, ſtir up thoſe motions of thy appetite, by which the Soul darts it ſelf towards the abſent good; draw nearer and nearer till thou comeſt to union and enjoyment, cry after Chriſt, Why is his Chariot Judg. 5. 28 ſo long in coming? Why tarry the Wheels of his Chariots?

Sect. 4. Of hoping in Jeſus in that reſpect.

4. LET us Hope in Jeſus, carrying on the great work of our Salvation at his firſt coming, or incarnation. Only here remember, I ſpeak not of every hope, but only of ſuch an hope as is grounded on ſome certainty and knowledge. This is the main queſtion, whether Chriſt's incarnation belongs unto me? The Prophet tells us, that Iſa. 9. 6. Unto us a Child is born, and unto us a Son is given. But how may I hope that this Child is born to me? and that this Son is given to me? what ground for that? Out of theſe words of the Prophet, I ſhall draw a double Evidence, which may be inſtead of all: our firſt Evidence from the former words, Unto us a Child is born; our ſecond Evidence from the latter words, unto us a Son is given. 1. From the former words I lay down this poſition, unto us a Child is born, if we are new born; the ſureſt way to know our intereſt in the Birth of Chriſt, is to know Chriſt born in us, Gal. 4. 19. or formed in us, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks. The new Birth is the effect of Chriſts Birth, and a ſure ſign that Chriſt is born to us. Say then, O my Soul, Art thou born anew? is there in thee a new nature, a new Principle? Is the Image of God and of Chriſt in thy Soul? ſo the Apoſtle ſtiles it the bearing of 1 Cor. 15. 19. the Image of the heavenly; why then was Chriſt incarnate for thee; if thy new Birth be not clear enough, thou may'ſt try it further by theſe following rules.

1. Where this new Birth is, there are new deſires, new comforts, new contentments. Sometimes with the Prodigal thou waſt content with husks, but now nothing will ſatisfie thee, but thy Fathers manſion, and thy Fathers feaſts; ſometimes thou mindeſt only earthly things, but now the favour of God, the light of his countenance, ſociety with him, and enjoying of him, are thy chief deſires; this is a good ſign! David's heart and fleſh, and all breathed after God; My Soul longeth; ye even Pſal. 84. 2. fainteth for the Courts of the Lord, my heart and fleſh cryeth out for the living God. Men truly regenerate, do not judge it ſo happy to be wealthy, great, and honoured in the World, as to have the light of God's favour ſhine upon them; O my Soul, doſt thou ſee the glory of the World, and thou falleſt down to worſhip it? doſt thou ſay in the increaſe of worldly comfort, it is good to be here? Then fear thy ſelf; but if theſe things compared with Chriſt, are vain, and light, and of poor and mean eſteem, then hope well, and be aſſured that thou art born again, and that Chriſt is formed in thee.

2. Where this new birth is, there is new words, new works, new affections, a new converſation, Old 2 Cor. 5. 17. things are paſſed away, behold, all things are become new. Paul once a Perſecutor, but, Behold now he prayeth. Acts 9. 11. And ſuch were ſome of you, but now ye are waſhed, now 1 Cor. 6. 11. ye are ſanctified, now ye are juſtified in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, and by the Spirit of our God; As every man is, ſo is he affected, ſo he ſpeaks, and ſo he lives; if thy life be ſupernatural, ſo is thy affections, ſo is thy words, ſo is thy converſation; Paul lived a Life once of a bloody Perſecutor, he breathed out threatnings againſt all the Profeſſors of the Lord Jeſus, but now it is otherwiſe; The life which I Gal. 2. 20. now live in the fleſh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himſelf for me. O my Soul, haſt thou the old converſation, the old affections, the old diſcourſe, the old paſſions, thou uſedſt to have? What? Is thy heart a den of luſts, a cage of unclean imaginations? Then fear thy ſelf, there cannot from a ſweet Fountain come forth bitter ſtreams; there cannot from a refined Spirit, as refined, come forth corrupted actions, or imaginations; a Thorn cannot ſend forth Grapes, ſaith Chriſt; ſo neither can a Vine ſend forth Thorns, ſay we. I know there is the beſt, ſomething of fleſh, as well as of the Spirit; but if thou art new born, then thou canſt not but ſtrive againſt it, and wilt endeavour to conquer it.

3. Where this new birth is, there is a new nature, a new principle; Peter calls it the hidden man of the heart, 1 Pet. 3. 4. the divine nature. 2 Pet. 1. 4 Paul calls it the inward man; Rom. 7. 22. the new creature, 2 Cor. 5. 17. it is compared to a Root, to a Fountain, to a Foundation, and for want of this Foundation, we ſee now in theſe ſad times ſo much inconſtancy, and unſetledneſs in ſome profeſſors themſelves, many have gotten new and ſtrange notions, but they have not new natures, new Principles of grace; if grace were but rooted in their hearts, though the winds did blow, and ſtorms ariſe, they would continue firm and ſtable, as being founded upon a rock. Never tell me of profeſſion, ſhew outward action, outward converſation, outward duties of Religion; all this may be, and yet no new Creature; you have ſome brutes that can act many things like men, but becauſe they have not an humane nature, they are ſtill brutiſh; ſo many things may be done in a way of holineſs, which yet come not from this inward principle of renovation, and therefore it is but copper, and not gold; miſtake not O my Soul in this, which is thy beſt and ſureſt evidence: though I call the new Birth a new Creature, my meaning is not as if a new faculty were infuſed into him that is new born; a man when he is regenerate, hath no more faculties in his Soul than he had before his regeneration; only in the work of regeneration; thoſe abilities which the man had before, are now improved, and made ſpiritual; and ſo they work now ſpiritually, which before wrought naturally. As in the reſurrection from the dead, our bodies ſhall have no more, nor other parts and members then they had before, only thoſe parts and members which now are natural, ſhall then by the power of God be made ſpiritual. It is ſown a natural Body, 1 Cor. 15. 44. it is raiſed a ſpiritual Body; there is a natural Body, and there is a ſpiritual Body; ſo the ſame faculties, and the ſame abilities which before regeneration were but natural, are now ſpiritual, and work ſpiritually, they are all brought under the government of the Spirit of Chriſt; a lively reſemblance of this change in the faculties of the Soul, we may diſcern in thoſe natural and ſenſitive faculties, which we have common with beaſts; as to live, to move, to deſire, to feel, the beaſts having no higher principle then ſenſe, uſe them ſenſually; but a man enjoying the ſame faculties under the command of a reaſonable Soul, he uſeth them rationally: ſo is it in a regenerate man; his underſtanding, will, and affections, when they had no other command but reaſon, he only uſed them rationally, but now being under the guiding of the Spirit of Chriſt, they work ſpiritually, and he uſeth them ſpiritually; and hence it is that a regenerate Rom. 8.1. Gal. 5. 18, 26. man is every where in Scripture, ſaid to walk after the Spirit; to be led by the Spirit, to walk in the Spirit; the Spirit (by way of infuſing or ſhedding) gives power, an ability, a ſeed, a principle of ſpiritual life, which the Soul had not before; and from this principle of ſpiritual life planted in the Soul, flows or ſprings thoſe ſpiritual motions and operations (as the Spirit leads them out) according to the habit, or principle of the new Creature, the divine nature, the ſpiritual life infuſed. Come then, look to it O my Soul, What is thy principle within? Conſider not ſo much the outward actions, the outward duties of Religion, as that root from whence they grow, that Principle from whence they come: they are fixed ones, ſettled ones by way of life in thee? Clocks have their motions, but they are not motions of life, becauſe they have no principles of life within. Is there life within? then art thou born again, yea, even unto thee a Child is born. This is one evidence.

2. From the latter words, I lay down this poſition unto us a Son is given, if we are God's Sons. The beſt way to know our Intereſt in the Son of God, it is to know our ſelves to be God's Sons by grace, as Chriſt was God's Son by nature: Chriſtians to whom Chriſt is given, are co-heirs with Chriſt, only Chriſt is the firſt-born, and hath the preheminence in all things; our ſonſhip is an effect of Chriſts ſonſhip, and a ſure ſign that unto us a Son is given. Say then, O my Soul, Art thou a Son of God? Doſt thou reſemble God (according to thy capacity) being holy, even as he is holy? Why then? Chriſt was incarnate for thee, he was given to thee. If thy ſonſhip be not clear enough, thou by theſe following Rules may'ſt try it further.

Mal. 1. 6. 1. The Sons of God, Fear God, If I be a Father, Where is my honour? (ſaith God) If I be a Maſter, Where is my Fear? If I be a Son of God, there will be an holy Fear and Trembling upon me in all my approaches unto God. I know there is a ſervile mercenary Fear, and that is unworthy, and unbeſeeming the Son of God; but there is a filial Fear, and that is an excellent check, and bridle to all our wantonneſs: What Son will not fear the frowns and anger of his loving Father? I dare not do this (will 1 Pet. 1. 17 he ſay) my Father will be offended; and I, Whether ſhall I go? Agreeable to this is the Apoſtles advice. If ye call on the Father, paſs your ſojourning here with Fear.

2. The Sons of God Love God, and Obey God out of a principle of Love. Suppoſe there were no Heaven, or Glory to beſtow upon a regenerate perſon, yet would he Obey God out of a principle of Love? Heb. 11. 26. not that it is unlawful for the Child of God to have an Eye unto the recompence of reward; Moſes's reaſon of eſteeming the reproach of Chriſt greater riches than the treaſure of Egypt was, for that he had reſpect unto the recompence of reward: he had reſpect, in the original, he had a fixed intent Eye; there was in him a Love of the reward, and yet withal a Love of God, and therefore his Love of the reward was not mercenary: but this, I ſay, though there were no reward at all, a Child of God hath ſuch a principle of Love within him, that for Loves ſake he would Obey his God; he is led by the Spirit, and and therefore he Obeys; now the Spirit that leads him, is a Spirit of Love; and as many as are led by Rom. 8. 14 the Spirit of God, are the Sons of God.

3. The Sons of God imitate God in his Love and Goodneſs to all Men. Our Saviour amplifies this excellent property of God: He cauſeth his Sun to ſhine upon good and bad? and thence he concludeth, Mat. 5. 41. Be ye perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect. Goodneſs to bad men is the higeſt degree of Grace, and as it were the perfection of all: O my Soul, Can'ſt thou imitate God in this? Conſider how thy Father bears it; though the wicked provoke him day by day, yet for all that he doth not quickly revenge; vengeance indeed is only his, and he may in juſtice do what he will that way; and 'its the opinion of ſome, that if the moſt patient man in the World ſhould but ſit in God's Throne one day, and ſee, and obſerve the doings, and miſcarriages of the Sons of Men, he would quickly ſet all the World on Fire; yet God ſeeth all, and for all that He doth not make the Earth preſently to gape, and devour us; He puts not out the glorious Light of the Sun, He doth not diſſolve the Work of Creation, he doth not for Man's Sin preſently blaſt every thing into Duſt: What an excellent pattern is this for thee to Write after? Can'ſt thou but forgive thy Enemies? Do well to them that do evil to thee? O this is a ſure ſign of Grace and Sonſhip! It is ſtoried of ſome Heathens, who beating a Chriſtian almoſt to Death, asked him, Mat. 5. 44. What great matter did Chriſt ever do for him? Even this (ſaid the Chriſtian) That I can forgive you, though you uſe me thus cruelly; here was a Child of God indeed: It is a ſweet reſemblance of our Father, and of our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, to Love our Enemies, to Bleſs them that Curſe us, to do good unto them that hate us, to pray for them that deſpitefully uſe us, and Perſecute us. O my Soul look to this, conſult this ground of Hope; if this Law be written in thy Heart, write it down amongſt thy evidences, that thou art God's Son, yea, that even unto thee a Son is given.

To review the grounds: What? Is a Child born to me? and a Son given to me? What? Am I indeed new Born? Am I indeed God's Son, or Daughter? Do I upon the ſearch find in my Soul new deſires, new comforts, new contentments? What? are my words, my works, and affections, and converſation new? Is there in me a new nature, a new principle? Hath the Spirit by way of infuſing or ſhedding, given me a new Power, a new Ability, a Seed of Spiritual Life, which I had not before? Do I upon the ſearch find that I fear God, and love God, and imitate God in ſome good meaſure in his love and goodneſs towards all Men? Can I indeed, and really forgive an Enemy, and according to opportunity and my ability do good unto them that do evil unto me? Why ſhould I not then confidently and comfortably hope, that I have my ſhare and intereſt in the Birth of Chriſt, in the bleſſed Incarnation and Conception of Jeſus Chriſt? Away, away, all deſpair, and dejections, and diſpondencies of Spirit! If theſe be my grounds of Hope, it is time to hold up head, and heart, and hands, and all with cheerfulneſs and confidence, and to ſay with the Spouſe, I am my beloveds, and my beloved is mine.

Sect. 5. Of Believing in Jeſus in that reſpect.

5. LET us Believe on Jeſus, carrying on the great work of our Salvation at his firſt coming or Incarnation. I know many ſtaggerings are oft in Chriſtians, What, is it likely that Chriſt ſhould be Incarnate for me? That ſuch a God ſhould do ſuch a thing, for ſuch a ſinful, woful, abominable wretch as I am? Ah my Soul, put thy propriety in Chriſt's Incarnation out of diſpute, that thou may'ſt be able to ſay, As God was manifeſt in the Fleſh, and I may not doubt it; ſo God is manifeſt in me, and I dare not deny it.

But to help the Soul in this choice Duty, I ſhall firſt propoſe the hindrances of Faith. 2. The helps of Faith in this reſpect. 3. The manner how to act our Faith. 4. The encouragements to bring on the Soul to believe its part in this bleſſed Incarnation of Jeſus Chriſt.

For the firſt, there are but three things that can hinder Faith; As——

1. The exceeding unworthineſs of the Soul; and to this purpoſe are thoſe complaints, What? Chriſt Incarnate for me? for ſuch a dead Dog as I am? What King would dethrone himſelf, and become a Toad to ſave Toads? And am not I at a greater diſtance from God, than a Toad is from me? Hath not Sin made my Soul more ugly in God's Eye, than any loathſome Toad can be in my Eye? O I am leſs than the leaſt of all God's Mercies, I am fitter for Hell and Devils, than for Union and Communion with God and Chriſt; I dare not, I cannot Believe.

2. The infinite exactneſs of divine juſtice which muſt be ſatisfied; a Soul deeply and ſeriouſly conſidering of this, it ſtartles thereat, and cries, O what will become of my Soul? One of the leaſt Sins that I ſtand guilty of, deſerves Death, and eternal wrath, The wages of Sin is Death: and I cannot ſatisfie; though I have treſpaſſed to many millions of Talents, I have not one mite of mine own to pay; O then how ſhould I believe? What thoughts can I entertain of Gods Mercy and Love to me-ward? God's Law condemns me, my own Conſcience accuſeth me, and Juſtice will have its due.

3. The want of a Mediator, or ſome ſuitable Perſon, which may ſtand between the Sinner and God. If on my part there be unworthineſs, and on God's part exact and ſtrict, and ſevere Juſtice; and withal I ſee no Mediator, which I may go unto, and firſt cloſe withal, before I deal with the infinite glory of God himſelf, how ſhould I but deſpair, and cry out? O wretched man that I am! O that I had never been! or if I muſt needs have a being; Oh that I had been a Toad, or Serpent, or any venemous Creature rather than a Man; for when they die they periſh, and there's an end of them; but the end of a reprobate Sinner is torment without end: O wo and alas! I cannot believe there's no room for faith in this caſe! theſe are the hindrances.

2. The helps of Faith in this ſad condition, are theſe.

1. A conſideration that God is pleaſed to paſs by, and to overlook the unworthineſs of his poor Creatures; this we ſee plain in the very act of his Incarnation; himſelf diſdains not to be as his poor Creatures to wear their own Fleſh, to take upon him humane nature; and in all things to become like unto man, Sin only excepted.

2. A conſideration that God ſatisfies Juſtice, by ſetting up Chriſt, who is Juſtice it ſelf; now was it that Mercy and Truth met together, and Righteouſneſs and Peace kiſſed each other; now was it that free grace and merit, that fulneſs and nothingneſs were made one; now was it that all things became nothing, and nothing all things; our nature which lay in rags, was enriched with the unſearchable treaſures of glory; now was it that God was made fleſh; and ſo that fleſh which was ſo weak, as not able to ſave its own life, was now enabled to ſave millions of ſouls, and to bring forth the greateſt deſigns of God; now was it that truth ran to mercy, and embraced her, and righteouſneſs to peace, and kiſſed her, in Chriſt they meet, yea in him was the infinite exactneſs of God's Juſtice ſatisfied.

3. A conſideration that God hath ſet up Chriſt as a Mediator: that he was incarnate in order to reconciliation, and ſalvation of ſouls, but for the accompliſhment of this deſign Chriſt had never been incarnate; the very end of his uniting fleſh unto him, was in order to the reconciliation of us poor ſouls; alas we had ſinned, and by ſin deſerved everlaſting damnation, but to ſave us, and to ſatisfie himſelf, God takes our nature and joins it to his Son, and calls that Chriſt a Saviour: This is the Goſpel-notion of Chriſt, for what is Chriſt, but God himſelf in our nature, tranſacting our peace? In this Chriſt is that fulneſs, and righteouſneſs, and love, and bowels to receive the firſt acts of our faith; and to have immediate union and communion with us; indeed we pitch not our faith firſt or immediately on God himſelf; yet at laſt we come to him, and our faith lives in God (as one ſaith ſweetly) before it is aware, through the ſweet intervention of that perſon which is God himſelf, only called by another name, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; and theſe are the helps of faith in reference to our unworthineſs, Gods juſtice, and the want of a Mediator betwixt God and us.

3. The manner how to act our faith on Chriſt incarnate, is this——

1. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt: we find indeed in the Bible ſome particular promiſes of this and that grace: and in proper ſpeaking the way to live by faith, it is to live upon the promiſes in the want of the thing, or to apprehend the thing it ſelf contained in the promiſe: but the promiſes are not given to the elect immediately without Chriſt; no, no, firſt Chriſt, and then all other things, Encline your ears, and come unto me; 1. Come unto Chriſt, and then I will make an everlaſting Covenant, (which contains all the promiſes) even the ſure Mercies of Iſa. 55. 3.
David. As in marriage, the Woman firſt conſents to have the man, and then all the benefits that neceſſarily follow; ſo the ſoul by faith, firſt pitcheth upon Chriſt himſelf, and then on the privileges that flow from Chriſt. Say ſoul, doſt thou want any temporal Bleſſing; ſuppoſe it be the payment of Debts, thy dayly Bread, Health, &c. Why? look now through the Scripture for promiſes of theſe things, and let thy faith act thus, If God hath given me Chriſt, the Pſal. 23. 1.
greateſt bleſſing, then certainly he will give me all theſe things ſo far as they may be for my good: in the twenty third Pſalm, we find a bundle of promiſes, but he begins thus, The Lord is my Shepherd, ſaid David and what then? Therefore I ſhall not want; the believing Patriarchs through faith, ſubdued Kingdoms, Heb. 11.
wrought righteouſneſs, obtained promiſes, ſtopped the 33.
Mouths of Lions, did wonders in the world; but what did they chiefly look to in this their Faith; Surely to the promiſe to come, and to that better thing, v 39. 40.
Chriſt himſelf; and therefore the Apoſtle concludes, having ſuch a cloud of witneſſes, that thus lived and died by faith, let us look unto Jeſus, the Author and fini- Heb. 12. 2.
ſher of our Faith.

2. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt as God in our fleſh; ſome think it a carnal apprehenſion of Jeſus Chriſt, to know him as in fleſh; I confeſs to know him only ſo, and abſolutely ſo; to conſider Jeſus no other way but as having fleſh, and going up and down in weakneſs; it is no better than a carnal apprehenſion; but to conſider Chriſt as God in fleſh, and to conſider that fleſh as acted by God, and filled with God, it is not a carnal, but a true and ſpiritual apprehenſion of Jeſus Chriſt; and hither is faith to be directed immediately; and in the firſt place; ſuppoſe a caſe of danger by ſome enemies; and I find a promiſe of protection from my enemies, I look on that; but in the firſt place thus I argue, if the Lord hath given me Chriſt (God in the fleſh) to ſave me from Hell, then much more will he ſave me from theſe fleſhly enemies. Thus Judah had a promiſe, that Syria ſhould not prevail againſt Judah, they doubted of this, but how doth the Lord ſeek to
Iſa. 7. 14. aſſure them? why thus, a Virgin ſhall conceive and bear a Son, and his name ſhall be Immanuel: this ſeems a ſtrong reaſon to fleſh and blood; I knew one turn infidel, and to deny Jeſus Chriſt upon this very argument. Ah (thought he) what a grand impoſture is this, that Chriſt's conception, and Chriſt's birth many years after, ſhould be a preſent ſign of ruin of Razin King of Aram, and of the preſervation of Ahaz King of Judah? alas poor ſoul, he was not acquainted with this art of living by faith; he might have ſeen the very ſame
Iſa. 94. 6. reaſon elſewhere; the yoke of their burthen, and the ſtaff of their ſhoulder, and the rod of their oppreſſor ſhould be broken——for unto us a Child is born, and unto us a Son is given; if their faith had not firſt reſpected Chriſt incarnate, they could never have expected any temporal deliverance by that promiſe of deliverance, firſt laid down; But in this way they might, and ſo may we.——You will ſay what's this to us? they looked for Chriſt to come in the fleſh, but now he is come, and that time and deſign is gone and paſt many a year ſince; I anſwer no, the time is gone, but the deſign is not, Chriſt remains God in the fleſh to this very day; he came not as once to manifeſt himſelf in fleſh, to ſatisfie Gods juſtice in the fleſh for ſin, and ſo to lay it down again; that fleſh remains, and ſhall remain; nor is it without uſe, for all the ſpirit and life which the Saints now have, or which the Saints ſhall have unto the end of the World it is to be conveyed through that fleſh, yea the Spirit it ſelf dwells in it, & is conveyed through it, & therefore if they had ſo much Goſpel ſpirit in the time of the Old Teſtament (which indeed was rare) how much more ſhould we go to Chriſt as God in the fleſh, and look upon it as a ſtanding Ordinance, and believe perfectly on it;

3. Faith muſt go and lie at the feet of Chriſt; Faith muſt fix and faſten it ſelf on this God in our fleſh: ſome go to Chriſt, and look on Jeſus with looſe and tranſient glances, they bring in but flaſhy, ſecondary, ordinary actings of faith, they have but courſe and common apprehenſions of Jeſus Chriſt. Oh! But we ſhould come to Chriſt with ſoleman ſerious ſpirits; we ſhould look on Jeſus piercingly, till we ſee him as God is in him, and as ſuch a Perſon thus and thus qualified from Heaven; we ſhould labour to apprehend what is the riches of this glorious Myſtery of Chriſt's Incarnation; we ſhould dive into the depths of his glorious actings; we ſhould ſtudy this Myſtery above all other ſtudies; nothing is ſo pleaſant, and nothing is more deep; that one Perſon ſhould be God and Man, that God ſhould be Man in our Nature, and yet not aſſume the Perſon of a Man; that Bleſſedneſs ſhould be made a Curſe, that Heaven ſhould be let down into Hell, that the God of the World would ſhut himſelf up (as it were) in a body; that the inviſible God ſhould be made viſible to ſenſe; that all things ſhould become nothing, and make it ſelf of no Reputation; that God ſhould make our Nature, which had ſinned againſt him, to be the great Ordinance of reconciling us unto himſelf; that God ſhould take our fleſh, and dwell in it with all his fulneſs, and make that fleſh more Glorious than the Angels and advance that fleſh into oneneſs with himſelf, and through that fleſh open all his Councils and rich diſcoveries of love and free-grace unto the Sons of men; that this Man-God, God-Man ſhould be our Saviour, Redeemer, Reconciler, Father, Friend; Oh what myſteries are theſe! no wonder if when Chriſt was born, the Apoſtle cries, we ſaw his glory, John 1. 14.
as of the only begotten Son of God; noting out, that at firſt ſight of him, ſo much glory ſparkled from him as could appear from none, but a God walking up and down the World. O my ſoul, let not ſuch a Treaſury be unlookt into; ſet Faith on work with a redoubled ſtrength; ſurely we live not like men under this great deſign, if our eye of Faith be not firmly and ſtedfaſtly ſet on this. O that we were but inſighted into theſe glories! that we were but acquainted with theſe lively diſcoveries? how bleſſedly might we live by the Faith of the Son of God, who Gal. 2. 20.
loved us, and gave himſelf for us. 4. Faith muſt look principally to the end and meaning of Chriſt as God coming in the Fleſh. Now what was the deſign and meaning of Chriſt in this? The Apoſtle anſwers, Rom. 8. 3. God ſent his Son in the likeneſs Rom. 8. 3.
of ſinful Fleſh, to Condemn ſin in the fleſh, (i. e.) God the Father ſent into the World his eternal and only begotten Son, whom in his eternal counſel he had deſigned to the Office of a Mediator, to take away or aboliſh in the firſt place Original Sin. Mark theſe two words, he condemned Sin in the Fleſh; the firſt word condemned] is by a Metonymy put for that which follows Condemnation, namely for the aboliſhing of Sin; as condemned perſons uſed to be cut off, and to be taken out of the World, that they may be no more; ſo Chriſt hath condemned or aboliſhed this Sin. For the ſecond word, in the Fleſh] is meant that Human Nature which Chriſt aſſumed: he aboliſhed Sin altogether in his own nature; and that Fleſh of his being perfectly holy, and the holineſs of it being imputed unto us, it takes away our guilt in reſpect of the impureneſs of our Nature alſo. Some may object, if this were ſo, then were we without Original Sin; I anſwer, the Fleſh or the Nature which Chriſt took upon him, was altogether without ſin; and by imputation of it we are in proportion freed from ſin; Chriſt had not the leaſt ſpot of Original Sin; and if we are Chriſt's, then is this ſin in ſome meaſure aboliſhed and taken out of our Hearts. But howſoever the filth of this ſin may remain in part, yet the guilt is removed: in this reſpect the purity of Chriſt's Humane Nature is no leſs reckoned to us for the curing of our defiled Nature, than the ſufferings of Chriſt are reckoned to us, for the remiſſion of our actual Sins. O my ſoul, look to this end of Chriſt as God in the Fleſh; if thou conſider him as made Fleſh and Blood, and laid in a Manger, think withal, that his meaning was to condemn ſin in our Fleſh; there flows from the Holineſs of Chriſt's Nature ſuch a power, as countermands the power of our Original Sin, and acquits and diſcharges from the condemnation of the ſame ſin: not only the Death, and Life, but alſo the Conception and Birth of Chriſt hath its influence into our Juſtification. Oh the ſweet that a lively Faith may draw from this Head!

4. The Encouragements to bring on Souls to believe on Chriſt Incarnate, we may draw——

1. From the excellency of this Object. This very Incarnation of Chriſt is the Foundation of all other actings of God for us; it is the very Hinge or Pole on which all turn; it is the Cabinet wherein all the Deſigns of God do lie; Election, Redemption, Juſtification, Adoption, Glorification, are all wrapt up in it; it is the higheſt pitch of the Declaration of Gods Wiſdom, Goodneſs, Power and Glory; Oh what a ſweet Object of Faith is this! I know there are ſome other things in Chriſt which are moſt proper for ſome Acts of Faith; as Chriſt dying is moſt proper for the pardon of actual Sin; and Chriſt riſing from the Dead is moſt proper for the evidencing of our Juſtification; but the ſtrongeſt, pureſt Acts of Faith are thoſe which take in Chriſt as ſuch a perſon, laid out in all this Glory, Chriſt's Incarnation is more general than Chriſt's Paſſion, or Chriſt's Reſurrection, and (as ſome would have it) includes all Chriſt's Incarnation holds forth in ſome ſort Chriſt in his fulneſs, and ſo it is the full and compleat ſubject of our Faith; or if it be only more comprehenſive, Why, then it requires more comprehenſive Acts of Faith, and by conſequence we have more enjoyments of Chriſt this way, than any other way: Come poor Soul, I feel, I feel thy eyes are running to and fro the World, to find comforts and happineſs on Earth: O come, caſt thy eyes back, and ſee Heaven and Earth in one Object! look fixedly on Chriſt Incarnate! there is more in this, than in all the variety of this World, or of that World to come. Here is an Object of Faith, and Love, and Joy, and Delight; here is a Compendium of all Glories; here is one for a heart to be taken with to all Eternity. O lay thy mouth to this Iſa. 66.11. Fountain? ſuck and be ſatisfied with the Breaſts of his Conſolation; Milk out and be delighted with the brightneſs of his Glory.

2. From the ſuitableneſs of this Object. Chriſt Incarnate is moſt ſuitable for our Faith to act upon. We are indeed to believe on God; but God eſſentially is the utmoſt Object of Faith; we cannot come to God, but in and through Chriſt; alas, God is offended, and therefore we cannot find ground immediately to go to God; Hence you heard that Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt as God in our Fleſh. O the infinite condeſcentions of God in Chriſt! God takes up our Nature and joyns it to himſelf as one perſon, and lays out that before our Faith, ſo that here is God, and God ſuited to the particular ſtate and condition of the Sinner. Oh now with what boldneſs may our Souls draw nigh to God; Why art thou ſtrange poor Soul; Why ſtandeſt thou afar off, as if it were death to draw nigh? Of whom art thou afraid? Is God come down amongſt men, and can'ſt thou not ſee him, leſt thou die and periſh? Oh look once more, and be not diſcouraged! See, God is not come down in Fire, God is not deſcended in the Armour of Juſtice and everlaſting burnings; No, no, he is clothed with the Garments of Fleſh, he ſweetly deſires to converſe with thee after thy own form, he is come down to beſeech thee, to ſee with thine own eyes thy eternal happineſs. q. d. Come poor Soul, come, put in thy hands, and feel my heart how it beats in love towards thee. O the wonder of Heaven! it is the cry of ſome poor Souls, Oh that I might ſee God! lo here God is come down in the likeneſs of man, he walks in our own ſhape amongſt us; it is the cry of others, O that I might have my heart united to God why, he is come down on this very purpoſe, and hath united our Nature unto himſelf. Surely God hath left all the World without excuſe: Oh that ever there ſhould be an heart of unbelief, after theſe ſenſible demonſtrations of Divine Glory and Love? Why Soul, wilt thou now ſtand off? Tell me, what wouldſt thou have God do more? Can he manifeſt himſelf in a more taking, alluring, ſuitable way to thy condition? Is there any thing below fleſh wherein the great God can humble himſelf for thy good? Come, think of another and a better way, or elſe for ever believe. Methinks it is ſad to ſee believers ſhy in their approaches to God, or doubtful of their acceptance with God, when God himſelf ſtoops firſt, and is ſo in love with our acquaintance, that he will be of the ſame nature that we are. O let not ſuch a Rock of ſtrength be ſlighted, but every day entertain ſweet and precious thoughts of Chriſt being Incarnate; enure thy heart to a way of believing on this Jeſus, as he carries on the great work of thy Salvation at his firſt coming or Incarnation.

3. From the Goſpel-tenders and offers of this bleſſed Object to our Souls. As Chriſt is come in our nature to ſatisfie, ſo he comes in the Goſpel freely and fully to offer the terms of Love; therein are ſet out the moſt rich and alluring expreſſions that poſſibly can be; therein is ſet out that this Incarnation of Chriſt was Gods own acting, out of his own Love and Grace, and Glory; therein is ſet out the Birth, and Life, and Death of Chriſt; and this he could not do, but he muſt be Incarnate: God takes our Fleſh, and he uſeth that as an Organ, or Inſtrument whereby to act; he was Fleſh to ſuffer, as Mat. 11. 28. he was Spirit to ſatisfie for our Sins. Methinks I might challenge Unbelief, and bid it come forth; let it appear if it dare before this conſideration: What, is not God Incarnate enough to ſatisfie thy conſcience? Come nigh, poor Soul! hear the Voice of Chriſt inviting: Come unto me all ye that are weary, and heavy laden with Sin; and O let theſe rich and glorious openings of the heart of Chriſt overcome thy heart: Suppoſe the caſe thus; what if God ſhould have done no more than this? Had he only looked down from heaven, and hearing Sinners cry out, O woe, woe unto us for ever? we have broke God's Law, incurr'd the penalty, damned our own Souls; O who ſhould deliver us; Who will ſave us from the Wrath to Come; Who will keep us out of Hell, our deſerved Dungeon, where the fury of the great Judge burns in a fiery Brimſtone, and his revenge boils in a fiery Torrent limitleſs and unquenchable. In this caſe, if God hearing Sinners thus crying out; had he, I ſay, only looked down and told them in ſweet Language, Poor Souls, I will pardon your Sins by my own Prerogative, I made the Law, and I will diſpenſe with it; fear not, I have the Keys of Life and Death, and upon my word you ſhall not periſh; What Soul would not have been raiſed up even from the bottom of Hell at this very voice? I know a poor Soul would have ſcrupled at this, and have ſaid, What then ſhould become of infinite Juſtice? ſhall that be diſhonoured to ſave my ſoul? this would have been a ſcruple indeed, eſpecially conſidering that great controverſie (as we have heard) of Mercy and Truth, and Righteouſneſs and Peace: but to remove all controverſies, God hath not only ſpoken from Heaven by himſelf, but he himſelf is come down from Heaven to Earth to ſpeak unto us: O ſee this Miracle of Mercy! God is come down in Fleſh, he is come as a price; he himſelf will pay himſelf according to all the demands of his Juſtice and Righteouſneſs before our eyes; and all this done, now he offers and tenders himſelf unto thy Soul. Oh my Soul, why ſhouldeſt thou fear to caſt thy ſelf upon thy God? I know thy Objection of vileneſs; notwithſtanding all thy vileneſs, God himſelf offers himſelf to lead thee by the hand; and to remove all boubts, God himſelf hath put a price ſufficient in the hands of Juſtice to ſtop her Mouth:

or if yet thou feareſt to come to God, why come then to thy own Fleſh, go to Chriſt, as having thy own nature; it is he that calls thee: How; Go to Fleſh? Go to thy own Nature; What can be ſaid more to draw on thy trembling Heart? If God himſelf, and God ſo fitted and qualified (as I may ſay) will not allure, muſt not men die and periſh in unbelief? What, O my Soul! (give me leave to chide thee) Is God come down ſo low to thee? And doſt thou now ſtand queſtioning whether thou ſhouldſt go, or come to him? What is this but to ſay, all that God is, or does, or ſays, is too little to perſwade me into Faith? I cannot tell, but one would think that unbelief ſhould be ſtrangled, quite ſlain upon this conſideration; all this, O my Soul, thou heareſt in the Goſpel; there is Chriſt incarnate ſet forth to the life; there is Chriſt ſuing thy Loves, and offering himſelf as thy beloved in thy own nature; there it is written that God is come down in fleſh, with an Olive-branch of eternal peace in his hand, and bids you all be witneſs, he is not come to deſtroy; but to ſave. Oh that this encouragement might be of force to improve Chriſts glorious deſign to the ſupplying of all thy wants, and to the making up of all thy loſſes! believe, Oh believe thy part in Chriſt incarnate.

LET us love Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our Salvation at his firſt Coming or Incarnation. Now what is Love but an expanſion or egreſs of the heart and ſpirits to the Object loved; or to the Object whereby it is drawn or attracted? Mark O my Soul, whatſoever hath an attractive power, it is in that reſpect an Object, or general cauſe of Love; and can'ſt thou poſſibly light on any Object more attractive than the Incarnation of Jeſus Chriſt? If Love be the Load-ſtone of Love, what an attractive is this before thee? Methinks the very ſight of Chriſt incarnate is enough to raviſh thee with the apprehenſion of his infinite goodneſs: ſee how he calls out, or (as it were) draws out the Soul to Union, Viſion, and Participation of his Glory! O come, and yield up thy ſelf unto him; give him thy ſelf, and conform all thy Affections and Actions to his Will: O love him, not with a divided, but with all thy heart.

But to excite this Love, I ſhall only propound the Object, which will be Argument enough. Love cauſeth Love; now as Gods firſt Love to man was in making man like himſelf; ſo his ſecond great Love was in making himſelf like to man; ſtay then a while upon this Love; for (I take it) this is the greater Love of the two: Nay, if I muſt ſpeak freely, I believe this was the fulleſt viſible demonſtration of Gods Love that ever was: The Evangeliſt John 3. 16. expreſſeth it thus, God ſo loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son; he gave him to be incarnate, to be made fleſh, and to ſuffer Death; but the extention of his Love lies in that expreſſion, he ſo loved] So! how? Why ſo fully, ſo fatherly, ſo freely, as no Tongue can tell, no heart can think: In this Love God did not only let out a Mercy, give out a bare Grace in ſelf, but he took our nature upon him. It is uſually ſaid, that it is a greater love of God to ſave a Soul, than to make a World; and I think it was a greater Love of God to take our nature, than ſimply to ſave our Souls; for a King to diſpenſe with the Law, and by his own Prerogative to ſave a Murderer from the Gallows, is not ſuch an Act of Love and Mercy as to take the Murderers Cloths, and to wear them as their Richeſt Livery? Why, God in taking our nature hath done thus, and more than thus; he would not ſave us by his meer Prerogative; but he takes our Cloths, our Fleſh, and in that Fleſh he perſonates us, and in that Fleſh he will die for us, that we might not die, but live through him for evermore. Surely this was Love, that God will be no more God (as it were) ſimply, but he will take up another nature, rather than the brightneſs of his Glory ſhall undo our Souls.

It will not be amiſs (whil'ſt I am endeavouring to draw a Line of God's love in Chriſt, from firſt to laſt in ſaving Souls) that here we look back a little, and ſummarily contract the paſſages of Love from that eternity before all Worlds, unto this preſent.

1. God had an eternal deſign to diſcover his infinite love to ſome beſides himſelf; O the wonder of this! Deus unus licet ſolus non ſolitarius. was there any need or neceſſity of ſuch a diſcovery? Though God was one, and in that reſpect alone (as we may imagine) yet God was not ſolitary; in that eternity within his own proper eſſence or ſubſtance, there were three Divine Perſons, and betwixt them there was a bleſſed Communication of Love; Chriſt on Earth could ſay, I am not alone, becauſe the Father is with me: and then before the Earth was, might the Father ſay, I am not alone, for the Son is with me; and the Son might ſay, I am not alone, for the Father is with me; and the Holy Ghoſt might ſay, I am not alone, for both the Father and the Son are with me; tho Joh. 16. 32. in that eternity there was no Creature to whom theſe three Perſons ſhould communicate their Love; yet was there a glorious communication, and breaking out of Love from one to another; before there was a World, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt did infinitely glorifie themſelves, Joh. 17. 5. Joh. 17. 5. Surely they loved one another, and they rejoiced in the fruition of one another, Prov. 8. 30. What need then was Prov. 8. 30. there of the diſcovery of God's love to any one beſides himſelf? O my Soul, I know no neceſſity for it, only thus was the pleaſure of God; Even ſo Father, for ſo it ſeemed good in thy ſight: ſuch was the love of God, that it would not contain it ſelf within that infinite Ocean of himſelf, but it would needs have Rivers and Channels, into which it might run and overflow.

2. God in proſecution of his deſign, creates a World of Creatures; ſome rational, and only capable of love; others irrational, and ſerviceable to that one Creature, which he makes the top of the whole Creation; then it was that he ſet one man Adam, as a common perſon, to repreſent the reſt; to him he gives abundance of glorious qualifications, and him he ſets over all the work of his hands, as if he were the very Darling of Love; if we ſhould view the excellency of this Creature either in the outward, or the inner-man, who would not wonder? His body had its excellency, which made the Pſalmiſt ſay, I Pſal. 139. 14, 15. will praiſe thee, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made,——and curiouſly wrought in the loweſt parts of the Earth. It is a ſpeech borrowed from thoſe who work Arras-work; the body of man is a piece of curious Tapeſtry, or Arras-work, conſiſting of Skin, Bones, Muſcles, Sinews, and the like; what a goodly thing the Body of Man was before the Fall, may be gueſſed by the excellent gifts found in the bodies of ſome men ſince the Fall; as the Complexion of David, 1 Sam. 16. 12. the ſwiftneſs of Hazael, 2 Sam. 2. 18. the Beauty of Abſolom. 2 Sam. 14. 25. If all theſe were but joined in one, as certainly they were in Adam, what a rare Body would ſuch a one be? But what was this Body in compariſon of that ſoul? The ſoul was it, that was eſpecially made after the Image of God; the ſoul was it, that was tempered in the ſame Mortar with the Heavenly Spirits; the ſoul was Gods ſparkle, a beam of his divine Glory, a ray, or emanation of God himſelf; as man was the principal part of the Creation, ſo the ſoul was the principal part of Man: here was it that Gods Love and Glory were centred for the time; here was it that God's love ſet and fixt it ſelf in a ſpecial Man, whence flowed that Communion of God with Adam, and that familiarity of Adam with God.

3. Within a while, this Man, the object of God's love, fell away from God, and as he fell, ſo all that were in him; even the whole World fell together with him; and hereupon God's Face was hid; not a ſight of him but in flaming fire, ready to ſeize on the Sons of Men. And yet God's love would not thus leave the object; he had yet a further reach of love, and out of this dark Cloud he lets fall ſome glimpſes of another diſcovery: Theſe glimpſes were ſweet: but alas they were ſo dark that very few could ſpell them, or make any ſence, or comfortable application of them: but by degrees God hints it out more; he points it out with the Finger by Types and Shadows, he makes ſome Models of it in outward Ceremonies, and yet ſo hid and dark, that in four thouſand years Men, were but gueſſing, and hoping through promiſes, for a manifeſtation of God's love; this is the meaning of the Apoſtle, who tells us of the myſtery that was hid from Ages, and from Generations, but now is made manifeſt to his Saints: This love of God was hid in the breaſt of God from the Sons of Men for an Age, ſo that they knew not what to make of this great Deſign: I ſpeak of the generality of Men; for in reſpect of ſome Particulars, as to Adam, and Abraham, and Moſes, and David, and the Patriarchs, you have heard the Lord made his Loves clear to them in a Covenant-way; and ſtill the nearer to Chriſt, the clearer and clearer was the Covenant of Grace.

Col. 1. 25.

4. At laſt God fully opens himſelf, in the fulneſs of time, God takes the fleſh of thoſe poor ſinners which he had ſo loved, and joyns it to himſelf, and calls it Chriſt, a Saviour: O! now was it that God deſcended, and lay in the Womb of a Virgin; now was it that he is born as we are born; now was it that he joyned our Fleſh ſo nigh to himſelf, as that there is a Communication of properties betwixt them both, that being attributed to God which is proper to Fleſh, as to be born, to ſuffer; and that being attributed to Fleſh which is proper to God, as to create, to redeem: who can chuſe but wonder when he thinks of this Phraſe, that a piece of Fleſh ſhould be called God? And that God ſhould be made Fleſh and dwell amongſt us? That Fleſh ſhould infinitely provoke God, and yet God in the ſame Fleſh ſhould be infinitely pleaſed? That God ſhould veil himſelf and darken his Glory with our Fleſh, and yet unveil at the ſame time the deepeſt and darkeſt of his deſigns in a comfortable way to our Souls? O my Soul how ſhouldſt thou contain thy ſelf within thy ſelf? How ſhouldſt thou but leap out of thy ſelf (if I may ſo ſpeak) as one that is loſt in the admiration of this love? Surely God never manifeſted himſelf in ſuch a ſtrain of love as this before; herein was love manifeſted and commended indeed, that God would come down in our nature to us. One obſerves ſweetly, that God did ſo love the very Nature of his Elect, that though for the preſent he had them not all with him in Heaven, yet he muſt have their Picture in his Son to ſee them in, and love them in; in this reſpect I may call Chriſt Incarnate, a Statue and Monument of God's own infinite love unto his Elect for ever.

Well, hitherto we have followed the paſſages of his love; and now we ſee it in the Spring, or at full Sea; If any thing will beget our love to God, ſurely Chriſt Incarnate will do it: Come then, O my Soul, I cannot but call on thee to love thy Jeſus; and to provoke thy love, O fix thy Eye on this lovely object; Come, put thy Candle to this Flame; what? Doth not thy heart yet burn within thee? Doſt thou not at leaſt begin to warm? Why, draw yet a little nearer; conſider what an heart of love is in this Deſign: God is in thy own Nature, to take upon him all the miſeries of thy Nature; mark it well, this is none other then God's heart leaping out of it ſelf into our boſoms; q. d. Poor Souls, I cannot keep from you, I love your very Nature; I will be nothing, ſo you may be ſomething; my Glory ſhall not hinder me, but I will veil it rather than it ſhall hurt you; ſo I may but ſhew my ſelf kind and tender unto you, and ſo I may have but Communion with you, and you with me, I care not if I become one with you, and live with you in your very fleſh. Oh! my heart, art thou yet cold in thy Loves to Jeſus Chriſt? Canſt thou love him but a little, who hath loved thee ſo much? How ſhould I then but complain of thee to Chriſt? And for thy ſake beg hard of God, O thou ſweet Jeſus, that cloatheſt thy ſelf with the Clouds as with a garment, and as now thou cloatheſt thy ſelf with the Nature of a Man: O thou that wouldſt inflame my Spirit with a love of thee, that nothing but thy ſelf might be dear unto me, becauſe it ſo pleaſed thee to vilifie thy ſelf, thine own ſelf for my ſake.

Sect. 7. Of joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

7. LET us joy in Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our Salvation for us at his Coming or incarnation. If it be ſo that by our Deſire, and Hope, and Faith, and Love, we have in deed and truth reached the Object, which our ſouls pant after, how then ſhould we but joy and delight therein? The end of our motion is to attain quiet and reſt; now what is joy, but a ſweet and delightful Tranquility of mind, reſting in the fruition and poſſeſſion of ſome good? What! haſt thou in ſome meaſure attained the preſence and fruition of Chriſt (as God incarnate) in thy Soul? It is then time to joy in Jeſus; it is then time to keep a Sabbath of thy thoughts, and to be quiet and calm in thy Spirit: But you will ſay, how ſhould this be before we come to Heaven? I anſwer, there is not indeed any perfection of joy whil'ſt we are here, becauſe there is no perfection of Union on this ſide Heaven; but ſo far as Union is, our joy muſt be; examine the grounds of thy Hope, and the actings of thy Faith, and if thou art but ſatisfied in them, why then lead up thy joy, and bring it up to this Bleſſed Object, here is matter for it to work upon; if thou canſt poſſibly rejoice in any thing at all, O rejoice in the Lord, and again I ſay rejoice.

Is there not cauſe? Read and ſpell what's the meaning of the Goſpel of Chriſt? What is Goſpel, but Good ſpell, or good tidings? And wherein lies the good tidings according to its eminency? Is it not in the glorious incarnation of the Son of God? Behold I bring you a Goſpel, ſo it is in the Original, or, behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which ſhall be to all People; for unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour, which is Chriſt the Lord. The Birth of Chriſt to them that have but touched hearts, is the comfort of comforts, and the ſweeteſt balm and confection that ever was. Oh my Soul what ails thee? Why art thou caſt down and diſquieted within me? Is it becauſe thou art a ſinner? Why, unto thee is born a Saviour; his Name is Saviour, and therefore Saviour, becauſe he will ſave his People from their ſins. Come then, and bring out thy Sins, and weigh them to the utmoſt aggravation of them, and take in every Circumſtance both of Law and Goſpel, and ſet but this in the other Scale, that unto thee is born a Saviour, ſurely all thy iniquities will ſeem lighter than vanity, yea they will be as nothing in compariſon thereof; My Soul doth Magnifie the Lord (ſaid Mary) and my ſpirit rejoiceth in God my Saviour. Her ſoul and her ſpirit within her rejoiced at this Birth of Chriſt; there is cauſe that every Soul, and every Spirit ſhould rejoice, that hath any intereſt tereſt in this Birth of Chriſt: O my ſoul, how ſhouldeſt thou but rejoice if thou wilt conſider theſe particulars.

1. God himſelf is come down into the World; becauſe it was impoſſible for thee to come to him, he is come to thee; this conſideration made the Prophet cry out, Zech. 9.9. Rejoice greatly O thou Daughter of Zion, ſhout O Daughter of Jeruſalem, behold thy King cometh unto thee; he is called a King, and therefore he is able, and he is thy King, and therefore he is willing; but in that thy King cometh unto thee, here is the marvellous love and mercy of God in Chriſt; Kings do not uſually come to viſit and wait upon their Subjects; it is well if poor Subjects may come to them, and be admitted into their Preſence to wait on them: O but ſee the great King of Heaven and Earth, the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords ſtooping, and bowing the Heavens to come down to thee; ſurely this is good tidings of great joy, and therefore rejoice greatly O Daughter of Zion. A little joy is too ſcant and narrow for this news; hearts ſhould be enlarged, the doors and gates ſhould be ſet wide open for this King of Glory to come in: as Balaam ſaid of Num. 23. 21. Iſrael, God is with him and the ſhout of a King is amongſt them? So now may we ſay, God is with us, and the ſhout of a King is amongſt us; Rejoice Zion, ſhout O Daughter of Jeruſalem.

2. God is come down in fleſh; he hath laid aſide, as it were, his own Glory, whil'ſt he converſeth with thee; when God manifeſted himſelf, as on Mount Sinai, he came down in Thunder and Lightning: and if now he had appeared in Thunder and Lightning, if now he had been guarded with an innumerable Company of Angels, all having their Swords of vengeance and juſtice drawn, well might poor ſouls have trembled, and have run into corners; for who could ever be able to endure his coming in this way? But lo poor Soul, God is come down in fleſh, he hath made his appearance as a man, as one of us, and there is not in this regard the leaſt diſtance betwixt him and us. Surely this is fewel for joy to feed upon: O why ſhould God come down ſo ſuitably, ſo lowly, as in our nature, if he would have thy poor ſoul to be afraid of him? Doth not this very deſign intend conſolation to thy ſoul? O gather up thy Spirit, anoint thy heart with the Oil of gladneſs; ſee God himſelf is come down in fleſh to live amongſt us, he profeſſeth he will have no other life but amongſt the Sons of Men; ſee what a ſweet way of familiarity and entercourſe is made betwixt God and us, now he is come down in humane frailty.

3. God hath took on him our Nature as a vaſt pipe to his God-head, that it may flow out in all manner of ſweetneſs upon our hearts; if God had come down in fleſh, only to have been ſeen of us, it had been a wonderful condeſcention, and a great mercy: Exod. 33. 12. if I have found favour in thy eyes (ſaid Moſes) ſhew me thy way that I may know thee; but to come down in fleſh, and to come down in fleſh, not only to be ſeen, but to diſpatch the great buſineſs of our ſouls Salvation, here's comfort indeed: with what joy ſhould we draw water out of this well of ſalvation? Surely the great reaſon of the ſhallowneſs of our Comforts, ſhortneſs of our Hopes, the faintneſs of our ſpirits, the lowneſs of our Graces is from the not knowing, or the not heeding of this particular; Chriſt in fleſh ſtands not for a Cypher, but it is an Organ of life and grace unto us; it is a fountain of comfort that can never run dry. In this fleſh there is laid in on purpoſe ſuch a fulneſs of the God-head, that of his fulneſs we might receive in our meaſure grace for grace. O my ſoul, thou art daily buſy in eying this and that; but above all, know that all the fulneſs of God lies in Chriſt incarnate, to be emptied upon thee: this was the meaning of Chriſt taking on him fleſh, that through his fleſh he might convey to thee whatſoever is in himſelf as God. As for inſtance, God in himſelf is Good, and Gracious, and Powerful, and All-ſufficient, and Merciful, and what not? Now by his being in fleſh, he ſuits all this, and conveys all this to thee; obſerve this for thy eternal comfort, God in and through the fleſh makes all his Attributes and Glory ſerviceable to thy ſoul.

4. God in our Nature hath laid out the Model and Draught of what he will do unto all his Saints for ever; humane nature was never ſo advanced before; what? To be glorified above the Angels? To be united in a Perſonal union with the ſecond perſon of the God-head? Surely hence may be expected great matters; here's a fair ſtep for the bringing of our Perſons up to the enjoyment of God; if God be come down in the likeneſs of man, why, then he will bring us up into the likeneſs of God; look what was done to our nature in Chriſt, the very ſame (as far as we are capable) ſhall be done to our perſons in Heaven. Think of it, O my Soul, why hath God made fleſh ſo glorious, but to ſhew that he will by that make thee glorious alſo? Chriſt is the great Epitome of all the deſigns of God, ſo that in him thou mayeſt ſee what thou art deſigned unto, and how high and rich thou ſhalt be in the other World. Beloved, now are we the Sons of God, and it doth not yet 1 John 3. 2. appear what we ſhall be, but we know when he ſhall appear, we ſhall be like him; he is now like us, but then (ſaith the Apoſtle) we ſhall be like unto him; he will change our vile Body, that it may be faſhioned Phil 3.21. like unto his glorious Body. Oh conſider what a frame of eternal comfort may we raiſe up from this ground of Chriſt incarnate, God in the fleſh!

5. God in the fleſh is the firſt opening of his eternal plot to do us good; the Seed of the Woman was the firſt word of comfort that ever was heard in the World after man was fallen; the Plot was of old, but the execution was not till after the Creation, and then was a dim diſcovery of it, even in the beginning of time, tho no clear manifeſtation till the fulneſs of time. Well, take it as we pleaſe, whether in the beginning of time, or in the fulneſs of time; whether in the promiſe, or in performance, this diſcovering of Chriſt incarnate is the firſt opening of all God's heart and Glory unto the Sons of men; and from this we may raiſe a world of comfort; for if God in the execution of his Degrees, begins ſo gloriouſly, how will he end? If God be ſo full of love, as to come down in fleſh now in this World, Oh what matter of hope is laid up before us, of what God will be to us in that world to come? If the Glory of God be let out to our Souls ſo fully at firſt, what glorious openings of all the Glory of God will be let out to our Souls at laſt? Chriſtians! what do you think will God do with us, or bring us unto, when we ſhall be with him in Heaven? You ſee now he is manifeſted in fleſh, and he hath laid out a world of Glory in that: But the Apoſtle tells us of another manifeſtation, for we ſhall ſee him as he is; he ſhall at laſt be manifeſt in himſelf; now we ſee through a 1 John 3.2. Glaſs darkly, but then Face to Face; now we know in part, but then we ſhall know even as alſo we are known. To what an height of knowledge or manifeſtation this doth ariſe, I am now to ſeek, and ſo I muſt be whilſt I am on this ſide Heaven, but this I believe, the manifeſtation of God and Chriſt is more in Heaven, than is, or ever hath been, or ever ſhall be upon Earth; thine Eyes ſhall Iſa.33.17. ſee the King in his Beauty, or in his Glory, ſaith Eſay: there is a great deal of difference betwixt ſeeing the King in his ordinary apparel, and ſeeing him in his Robes, and upon his Throne, with his Crown on his Head, and his Scepter in his Hand, and his Nobles about him in all his Glory; the firſt openings of Chriſt are glorious; but Oh what will it be to ſee him in his greateſt Glory that ever he will manifeſt himſelf in! We uſually ſay that work-men do their meaneſt work at firſt, and if the Glorious incarnation of Chriſt be but the beginning of Gods works, in reference to our Souls Salvation, what are thoſe laſt works?

O my Soul, weigh all theſe paſſages, and make an application of them to thy ſelf; and then tell me if yet thou haſt not matter enough to raiſe up thy Heart, and to fill it with joy unſpeakable and full of Glory; when the wiſe men ſaw but the Star of Mat.2. 10. Chriſt, they rejoiced with an exceeding great joy; how John 8.56 much more when they ſaw Chriſt himſelf? Your Father Abraham (ſaid Chriſt to the Jews) rejoiced to ſee my day, and he ſaw it, and was glad; he ſaw it indeed, but afar off, with the eyes of Faith; they afore Chriſt, had the promiſe, but we ſee the performance; how then ſhould we rejoice? how glad ſhouldſt thou be, O my Soul, at the ſight and effect of Chriſts Incarnation? If John the Baptiſt could leap for joy, in his Mother's belly, when Chriſt was but yet in the Womb, how ſhould thy Heart Luk 2.28. leap for joy, who can'ſt ſay with the Prophet, unto me a Child is born, and unto me a Son is given? If Simeon waiting for the conſolation of Iſrael, took him up in his Arms for Joy, and bleſſed God; how ſhouldſt thou with joy embrace him with both arms who knoweſt his coming in the fleſh, and who haſt heard him come in the Goſpel, in the richeſt and moſt alluring expreſſions of his love? If the Angels of God, yea, if multitudes of Angels could ſing for joy at his Birth, Luk 2.14. Glory to God in the heigheſt, and on Earth peace, and good will towards men; how much more ſhouldſt thou, whom it concerns more than the Angels, join with them in conſort, and ſing for joy this joyful ſong of good will towards men? Awake, awake, O my ſoul, awake, awake, utter a Song! tell over theſe peſſages, that God is come down into the World, that God is come down in fleſh, that God is come down in fleſh in order to thy reconciliation; that God is come down in the likeneſs of man, that he may bring thee up into the likeneſs of God; and that all theſe are but the firſt openings of the Grace, and Goodneſs, and Glory of God in Chriſt unto thy Soul; And Oh what work will theſe make in thy Soul, if the Spirit come in, ho is the c omforter!

Sect. VIII. Of Calling on Jeſus in that reſpect.

8. LET us call on Jeſus, or on God the Father in and through Jeſus: Now this calling on Jeſus contains Prayer and Praiſe. 1. We muſt pray that all theſe Tranſactions of Jeſus at his firſt Coming or Incarnation may be ours; and is not here encouragement for our Prayers? If we obſerve it, this very point of Chriſt's Incarnation opens a Door of rich entrance into the preſence of God; we may call it a bleſſed Portal into Heaven, not of Iron, or Heb. 10. 20. Braſs, but of our own fleſh; this is that new and living way which he hath conſecrated for us, through the Veil, that is to ſay, his fleſh; with what boldneſs and freeneſs may we now enter into the Holieſt, and draw near unto the Throne of Grace? Why, Chriſt is incarnate, God is come down in the fleſh, though his Deity may confound us (if we ſhould immediately and ſolely apply our ſelves unto it) yet his humanity comforts our faint and feeble Souls, God in his humility animates our Souls to come untohim, a nd to ſeek of him whatſoever is needful for us. Go then to Chriſt; away, away O my Soul, to Jeſus, or to God the Father, in and through Jeſus; and O deſire that the effect, the fruit, the benefit of his Conception, Birth, and of the wonderful union of the two natures of Chriſt may be all thine. What? doſt thou hope in Jeſus, and believe thy part in this Incarnation of Chriſt? why then pray in hope, and pray in Faith; what is Prayer, but the ſtream and river of Faith, an iſſue of the deſire of that which I joyfully believe? Thou, O Lord God of Hoſts, God of Iſrael, haſt revealed to thy Servant, ſaying, I will build thee an houſe, therefore 2 Sam. 7. 27. hath thy ſervant found in his heart, to pray this prayer unto thee.

2. We muſt praiſe, This was the ſpecial duty practiſed by all Saints and Angels at Chriſt's Birth, My Soul doth magnifie the Lord (ſaith Mary) and my Luk 1.46. Spirit rejoiceth in God my Saviour. And bleſſed be the Luk.1.68. Lord God of Iſrael (ſaid Zachary) for he hath viſited and redeemed his People; and Glory to God in the heigheſt, ſaid the Heavenly Hoſt; only one Angel had before brought the News, unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour, which is Chriſt the Lord: Luk.2.11. but immediately after there were many to ſing praiſes; not only ſix Cherubims as Iſaiah ſaw; not only four and twenty Elders, as John ſaw; but a multitude of Heavenly Angels like Armies, that by their Heavenly Hallelujahs gave Glory to God. O my Soul, do thou endeavour to keep conſort with thoſe many Angels: O ſing Praiſes, ſing Praiſes unto God, ſing Praiſes. Never was like caſe ſince the firſt Creation: never was the wiſdom, truth, juſtice, mercy, and goodneſs of God ſo manifeſt before I ſhall never forget that laſt ſpeech of a dying Saint upon the ſtage, Bleſſed be God for Jeſus Chriſt. O my Soul, living and dying let this be thought on: What? Chriſt incarnate for me? Why, bleſs the Lord, O my Soul, and all that is within me bleſs his holy Name.

Sect. IX. Of conforming to Jeſus in that reſpect.

9. LET us conform to Jeſus in reference to this great tranſaction of his Incarnation. Looking to Jeſus contains this, and is the cauſe of this; the ſight of God will make us like to God? and the ſight of Chriſt will make us like to Chriſt; for as a Looking-Glaſs cannot be expoſed to the Sun, but it will ſhine like the ſame? ſo God receives none to contemplate his face, but he transforms them into his own likeneſs by the irradiation of his light; and Chriſt hath none that dive into theſe depths of his glorious and bleſſed incarnation, but they carry along with them ſweet impreſſions of an abiding and transforming nature. Come then, let us once more look on Jeſus in his Incarnation, that we may conform, and be like to Jeſus in that reſpect.

But wherein lies this conformity or likeneſs to Jeſus? I anſwer, in theſe and the like particulars.——

1. Chriſt was conceived in Mary by the Holy Ghoſt; ſo muſt Chriſt be conceived in us by the ſame Holy Ghoſt. To this purpoſe is the Seed of the Word caſt in, and principles of Grace are by the Holy Ghoſt infuſed; he hath begotten us by the Word, Jam.1.18. ſaith the Apoſtle, Jam. 1. 18. How Mean, Contemptible, or Impotent Men may eſteem it, yet God hath appointed no other means to convey ſupernatural life, but after this manner: Where no Viſion is, the People periſh: Where no preaching is, there is a worſe judgment than that of Egypt, when there was one dead in every Family. By the Word and Spirit the Seeds of all Grace are ſown in the heart at once, and the heart cloſing with it, immediately Chriſt is conceived in the Heart.

Concerning this ſpiritual Conception or Reception of Chriſt in us, there is a great queſtion, Whether it be poſſible for any man to diſcern how it is wrought? But for the Negative are theſe Texts, Our life is hid with Chriſt in God, Col. 3. 3. and the Wind bloweth where it liſteth, and thou heareſt the ſound thereof, but can'ſt not tell whence it cometh, or whither it goeth, John 3. 8. It is a wonderful, hidden and ſecret Conception. The Holy Ghoſt ſets out that ſtate of unregeneracy, in which Chriſt finds us, by the name of Death, Eph. 2. 1. So that it muſt needs be as impoſſible for us to diſcover how it is wrought, as it is impoſſible for one to know how he receives his own life. Some ſay, the firſt act of infuſing or receiving Chriſt or Grace (they are all one) is wrought in an inſtant, and not by degrees; and therefore it is impoſſible to diſcern the manner: And yet we grant that we may diſcern both the preparations to Grace, and the firſt operations of Grace. 1. The preparations to Grace are diſcernible; ſuch are thoſe Terrours and ſpiritual Agonies, which are often before the work of Regeneration; they may be reſembled to the heating of metals before they melt, and are caſt into the Mold to be faſhioned. Now by the help of Natural Reaſon one may diſcern theſe. 2. Much more may the firſt Motion and Operations of Grace be diſcerned by one truly regenerate; becauſe that in them his Spirit works together with the Spirit of Chriſt: Such are ſorrow for ſin, as ſin, and ſeeking rightly for comfort, an hungring deſire after Chriſt and his Merits: Neither do I think it impoſſible for a regenerate Man to feel the very firſt illapſe of the Spirit into the Soul; for it may bring that ſenſe with it ſelf, as to be eaſily diſcerned, although it doth not always ſee, nor perhaps uſually ſee. It is true that the giving of Spiritual Life, and the giving of the ſenſe of it, are two diſtinct acts of the Spirit; yet, who can deny but that both theſe acts may go together, though always they do not go together? Howſoever it is, yet even in ſuch Perſons, as in the inſtant of Regeneration may feel themſelves in a Regenerate eſtate, this Concluſion ſtands firm, viz. They may know what is wrought in them, but how it is wrought, they cannot know, nor underſtand. We feel the Wind, and perceive it in the motions, and operations thereof; but the Originals of it we are not able exactly to deſcribe. Some think the beginnings of Winds are from the flux of the Air, others from the exhalations of the Earth; but there is no certainty: So it is in the manner of this Conception, or paſſive Reception of Chriſt and Grace into our hearts; we know not how it is wrought, but it nearly concerns us to know that it is wrought. Look we to his conformity, that as Chriſt was conceived in Mary by the Holy Ghoſt; ſo that Chriſt be conceived in us, in a ſpiritual ſenſe, by the ſame Holy Ghoſt.

2. Chriſt was ſanctified in the Virgins Womb; ſo muſt we be ſanctified in our ſelves, following the Commandment of God; Be ye holy as I am holy. Souls Regenerate muſt be ſanctified; Every Man (ſaith the Apoſtle) that hath this hope in him, purifieth himſelf even as he is pure. 1 Joh. 3. 3. I know our Hearts are (as it were) Seas of corruptions, yet we muſt daily cleanſe our ſelves of them by little and little. Chriſt could not have been a fit Saviour for us, unleſs firſt he had been ſanctified; neither can we be fit Members unto him, unleſs we be in ſome meaſure purged from our Sins, and ſanctified by his Spirit. To this purpoſe is that of the Apoſtle; Rom. 12. 1. I beſeech you Brethren, by the Mercies of God, that ye preſent your Bodies a living Sacrifice, holy acceptable unto God. In the Old Teſtament they did after a corporal manner ſlay and kill Beaſts, preſenting them, and offering them unto the Lord; but now we are in a ſpiritual manner to crucifie and mortifie the Fleſh with the affections and luſts; all our inordinate paſſions; all our evil affections of anger, love, joy, hatred, are to be crucified; and all that is ours muſt be given up to God; there muſt be no love in us, but of God, and in reference to God; no Joy in us, but in God, and in reference to God; no fear in us, but of God, and in reference to God; and thus of all other the like paſſions. O that we would look to Jeſus, and be like unto Jeſus in this thing! if there be any Honour, any Happineſs, any Excellency, it is in this, even in this; we are not for any holy duty, or any religious approach unto God without ſanctification; this is the Will of God (ſaith the Apoſtle) even your Sanctification. 1 Theſ. 4. 5. All the commands of God tend to this; and for the comfort of us Chriſtians, we have under the Goſpel, promiſes of ſanctification to be in a larger meaſure made out unto us: In that day there ſhall be upon the Bells of the Horſes Holineſs unto the Lord; —— yea, every Pot in Jeruſalem and Judah ſhall be Holineſs unto the Lord. Zech. 14. 20, 21. Every Veſſel under Chriſt and the Goſpel, muſt have written upon it, Holineſs to the Lord; thus our ſpiritual ſervices, figured by the ancient Ceremonial ſervices, are ſet out by a larger meaſure of holineſs than was in old time. It is a ſweet reſemblance of Chriſt to be holy; for ſo he is ſtiled, the holy Child Jeſus. Acts 4. 27. He was ſanctified from the Womb, and ſanctified in the Womb for our imitation: For their ſakes I ſanctified my ſelf, (ſaith Chriſt) that they alſo might be ſanctified. Joh. 17. 19.

3. Chriſt the Son of Man, is by Nature the Son of God; ſo we, poor Sons of Men, muſt, by Grace, become the Sons of God, even of the ſame God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt: For this very end God ſent his own Son made of a Woman, that he might receive the Adoption of Sons —— Wherefore thou art no more a Servant, but a Son; and, if a Son, then an Heir of God through Chriſt. Gal. 4. 4, 5, 7. This intimates that what relation Chriſt hath unto the Father by Nature, we ſhould have the ſame by Grace; By nature he is the only begotton Son of the Father? and as many as received him (ſaith John) to them he gave power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name. John 1. 14. v. 12. It is true, Chriſt reſerves to himſelf the preheminence; he is in a peculiar manner the firſt-born among many brethren; Rom. 8. 29 yet in him, and for him all the reſt of the Brethren are accounted as firſt-born: So God bids Moſes ſay unto Pharaoh, Iſrael is my Son, even my firſt born: And I ſay unto thee, Let my Son go, behold I will ſlay thy Son, even thy firſt-born. Exod. 4. 22, 23. And the whole Church of God, conſiſting of Jew and Gentile, is in the ſame ſort deſcribed by the Apoſtle to be the General aſſembly and Church of the firſt-born enrolled in Heaven: Heb. 12. 23. By the ſame reaſon that we are Sons, we are firſt-borns: If we are Children, then are we Heirs, Heirs of God, and Joint-heirs with Chriſt. Rom. 8. 17. O who would not endeavour after this privilege! who would not conform to Chriſt in this reſpect!

4. Chriſt the Son of God, was yet the Son of Man: There was yet in him a duplicity of Natures really diſtinguiſhed: And in this reſpect the greateſt Majeſty, and the greateſt Humility that ever was, are found in Chriſt: So we, though Sons of God, muſt remember our ſelves to be but Sons of Men: Our Privileges are not ſo high, but our poor Conditions, Frailties, Infirmities, Sins, may make us low. Who was higher than the Son of God? and who was lower than the Son of Man? As he is God, he is in the boſom of his Father; as he is Man, he is in the Womb of his Mother; as he is God, his Throne is in Heaven; and he fills all things by his emenſity; as he is Man, he is circumſcribed in a Cradle, I mea na Manger, a moſt uneaſie Cradle ſure; as he is God, he is cloathed in a Robe of Glory; as he is Man, he is wrapped in a few coarſe Swadling-bands; as he is God, he is encircled with millions of bright Angels, as he is Man, he is in company of Joſeph and Mary, and the Beaſts; as he is God, he is the eternal Word of the Father, All ſufficient, and without need; as he is Man, he ſubmits himſelf to a Condition, imperfect, inglorious, indigent, and neceſſitous. Well, let this Phil. 2. 5, 6, 7, 8. mind be in you, which was alſo in Chriſt Jeſus; who being in the form of God, thought it no robbery to be equal with God; but he made himſelf of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a Servant, and was made in the likeneſs of Men; and being found in faſhion as a Man, he humbled himſelf: He that thought it no robbery to be equal with God, humbled himſelf to become Man; we ſhould have found it no robbery to be equal with Devils, and are we too proud to learn of God? What an intolerable diſproportion is this, to behold an humble God, and a proud Man! Who can endure to ſee a Prince on foot, and his Vaſſal mounted! Shall the Son of God be thus humbled for us, and ſhall not we be humbled for our ſelves? I ſay for our ſelves, that deſerve to be caſt down amongſt the loweſt Worms, the damneſt Creatures? What are we in our beſt condition here on Earth; Had we the beſt Natures, pureſt Converſations, happieſt Endowments that accompany the Saints, Pride overthrows all; it thruſts proud Nebuchadnezzar out of Babel, proud Haman out of the Court, proud Saul out of his Kingdom, proud Lucifer out of Heaven. Poor Man! how ill it becomes thee to be proud, when God himſelf is become thus humble! Mat. 11. 29. O learn of me (ſaith Chriſt) for I am meek and humble, and lowly in ſpirit, and you ſhall find reſt unto your Souls.

5. The two natures of Chriſt, though really diſtinguiſhed, yet were they inſeparably joined, and made not two, but one perſon; ſo muſt our natures and perſons, though at greateſt diſtance from God, be inſeparably joined and united to Chriſt, and thereby alſo to God. I pray (ſaith Chriſt) that they all John 17. 21. may be one, as thou Father art in me, and I in thee, they alſo may be one in us. That union of Chriſt's two natures, we call a perſonal hypoſtatical union; and this union of Chriſt with us, we call a myſtical and ſpiritual union; yet though it be myſtical and ſpiritual, this hinders not but that it is a true, real, eſſential, ſubſtantial union, whereby the perſon of the Believer is indiſſolubly united to the glorious perſon of the Son of God. For our better underſtanding, we may conſider (if you pleaſe) of a threefold unity, either of perſons of one nature, or of natures in one perſon, or of natures and perſons in one ſpirit: In the firſt is one God, in the ſecond is one Chriſt, in the third is one Church with Chriſt: Our union unto Chriſt is the laſt of theſe, whereby he and we are all ſpiritually united to the making up of one myſtical Body. O what a Privilege is this! a poor Believer, be he never ſo mean or miſerable in the eye of the World, yet he is one with Chriſt, as Chriſt is one with the Father: Our 1 John 1. 3. fellowſhip is with the Father and with his Son Jeſus Chriſt. Every Saint is Chriſt's fellow; there is a kind of analogical proportion between Chriſt and his Saints in every thing; if we take a view of all Chriſt, what he is in his Perſon, in his Glory, in his Spirit, in his Graces, in his Father's Love, and in the acceſs he hath to the Father, in all theſe we are in a ſort Fellows with Chriſt, only with this difference, That Chriſt hath the preheminence in all things; all comes from the Father firſt to Chriſt; and all we have is by Marriage with Jeſus Chriſt: Chriſt by his union hath all good things without meaſure, but we by our union have them only in meaſure, as it pleaſeth him to diſtribute. But herein if we reſemble Chriſt, whether in his union with the Father, or in his union of the two natures in one perſon of a Mediator: If by looking on Chriſt, we come to this likeneſs, to be one with Jeſus Chriſt, oh what a privilege is this! Had we not good warrant for ſo high a challenge, it could be no leſs than a blaſphemous arrogance to lay claim to the Royal Blood of Heaven; but the Lord is pleaſed to dignifie a poor Worm, that every Believer may truly ſay, I am one with Jeſus Chriſt, and Jeſus Chriſt is one with me.

To ſweeten this union to our thoughts, I ſhall acquaint you with the privilege flowing from it, and let the ſame ſtir you up to conform.

Hence it is that Chriſt lives in us, and that Chriſt both gives life, and is our life. When Chriſt which Col. 3. 4. is our Life ſhall appear, Chriſt is to me to live; and I Phil. 2. 21. live, yet not I but Chriſt liveth in me. Gal. 2. 20. There is a ſpiritual and natural life; for the natural life, what is it but a bubble, a vapour, a ſhadow, a dream, a nothing? But this ſpiritual life, is an excellent life, it is wrought in us by the Spirit of Chriſt: There is a world of difference betwixt the natural and the ſpiritual life, and that makes the difference betwixt what I do as a Man, and what I do as a Chriſtian; as a Man I have eyes, ears, motions, affections, underſtandings, naturally as my own; but as a Chriſtian I have all theſe from him with whom I am ſpiritually one, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt: As a Man I have bodily eyes, and I behold bodily and material things; but as a Chriſtian I have ſpiritual eyes, and I ſee inviſible and eternal things, as it is ſaid of Moſes Heb. 11. 27. that he endured, as ſeeing him who is inviſible: As a Man I have outward ears, and I hear outward ſounds of all ſorts, whether articulate, or inarticulate; but as a Chriſtian I have inward ears, and ſo I hear the voice of Chriſt, and of God's Spirit, ſpeaking to my Soul: As a Man I have bodily feet, and by them I move in my own ſecular ways; but as a Chriſtian I have ſpiritual feet, and on them I walk with God in all the ways of his Commandments: As a Man I have natural affections, and ſo I love beauty, and fear pain, and hate an enemy, and I rejoice in outward proſperity, or the like; but as a Chriſtian I have renewed affections, and ſo I love goodneſs, and hate nothing but ſin, and I fear above all the diſpleaſure of my God, and I rejoice in God's favour, which is better than life. Surely this is a bleſſed life; and as ſoon as ever I am united to Chriſt why then I live; yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me. Firſt, Chriſt is conceived, and then Chriſt is formed, and then Chriſt is born, and then grows in me to a bleſſed fulneſs: My little Children, of whom I travail Gal. 4. 19. in birth again until Chriſt be formed in you: Formation follows Conception, and Travails implies a Birth: Then after this, we are babes in Chriſt, or Chriſt is 1 Cor. 3. 1. as a babe in us; from thence we grow up to ſtrength 1 John 2. 14. of youth. I have written unto you, young men, becauſe ye are ſtrong. And at laſt we come to Goſpel-perfection, even towards the meaſure of the ſtature of the Eph. 4. 13. fulneſs of Chriſt. Is this all? nay, if my union be firm, and Chriſt live in me, why then I go on, and in this condition, I am dead with Chriſt, and I am Rom. 6. 8. buried with Chriſt, and I am alive again unto God Rom. 6. 4, 1. through Chriſt; and I am riſen with Chriſt, and am Col. 3. 1. glorified with Chriſt. Rom. 8. 17. Nay, yet more, my ſufferings are Chriſt's, Col. 1. 24. and Chriſt's ſufferings are mine, Rom. 8. 17. I am in Chriſt an Heir of Glory, Rom. 8. 17. and Chriſt is in me the Hope of Glory, Col. 12. 7. O my Chriſt, my Life, what am I, or what is my Father's Houſe, that thou ſhouldſt come down into me! that thou ſhouldſt be conceived in the Womb of my poor ſinful Heart. that thou ſhouldſt give my Soul a new and ſpritual life, a life begun in Grace, and ending in eternal Glory? I ſhall not reckon up any more privileges of this union, methinks I ſhould not need; if I tell you of Grace and Glory, what can I more? Glory is the higheſt pitch, and Chriſt tells you concerning it, John 17. 22. The Glory which thou gaveſt me, I have given them, that they may be one, even as we are one. Ah, my Brethren, to be ſo like Chriſt, as to be one with Chriſt, it is near indeed! O let us conform to Chriſt in this; he is one with our nature in an hypoſtatical, perſonal union; let us be one with him in a ſpiritual, holy, and a myſtical union. If God be not in our perſons as truly, though not as fully as in our nature, we have no particular comfort from this deſign of his perſonal, hypoſtatical, and wonderful union.

6. Chriſt was born, ſo muſt we be new-born; to this I have ſpoken when I laid it down as an evidence, that unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given; only one word more, we muſt be new-born; as once born by Nature, ſo new-born by Grace; there muſt be ſome reſemblances in us of Chriſt born amongſt us. As, 1. Chriſt born, had a Father in Heaven, and a Mother on Earth, ſo in our new-birth we muſt look on God as our Father in Heaven, and on the Church as our Mother on Earth: It was uſually ſaid, Out of the Church no Salvation; and to this the Apoſtle alludes, Gal. 4.26. Jeruſalem which is above, is free, which is the Mother of us all. Indeed out of the Church there is no means of Salvation, no Word to teach, no Sacraments to conform, nothing at all to hold forth Chriſt to a Soul, and without Chriſt, how ſhould there be the Salvation of Souls? So that we muſt look on the Church as our Mother, and on God as our Father; not that we deny ſome to be as ſpiritual Fathers unto others. Paul tells the Corinthians, that he was their Father: 1 Cor. 4. 15. Tho ye have ten thouſand inſtructers in Chriſt, yet have ye not many Fathers, for in Chriſt Jeſus I have begotten you through the Goſpel: But alas, ſuch Fathers are but miniſterial Fathers; and therefore Paul ſeems to 1 Cor. 3.7. correct himſelf, Who is Paul? And who is Apollo? But Miniſters by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every Man? It is God only is our Father principally, originally, ſupremely; God only puts Grace and Vertue into the Womb of the Soul; It is not poſſible that any Creature ſhould be a Creator of the new Creature. O then let us look up to heaven and ſay, O Lord, new make me, new create me, O be thou my Father.

2. When Chriſt was born, all Jeruſalem was troubled: ſo when this new birth is, we muſt look for it, that much commotion, and much diviſion of heart will be; the Devil could not be caſt out of the poſſeſſed Perſon, but he would exceedingly tear and torment, and vex the poſſeſſed Perſon: The truth is, we cannot expect that Chriſt ſhould expel Satan from thoſe holds and dominions he hath over us, but he will be ſure to put us to great fear and terrour in heart. Beſides, not only the evil Spirit, but God's Spirit is for a while a Spirit of Bondage, to make every thing as a mighty burden unto us; there are many pretenders to the Grace of God in Chriſt but they cannot abide to hear of any pains or pangs in this new Birth; O this is legal, but I pray thee tell me, doſt thou ever know any Woman bring forth in her ſleep, or in a Dream, without feeling any pain? And how then ſhould the heart of man be thus new changed and moulded without ſeveral pangs? Look as it is in the natural Birth, there are many pangs and troubles; in ſorrow ſhalt thou bring forth Children; ſo it is, and muſt be in our ſpiritual Birth; there is uſually (I will not ſay always, to ſuch or ſuch a degree) many pangs and troubles, there's many a Throb, and many a Heart-ach 'ere Chriſt can be formed in us.

3. When Chriſt was Born, there was a diſcovery of many of the glorious attributes of God; then Mercy and truth met together, and Righteouſneſs and Peace kiſſed each other; then eſpecially was a diſcovery of the Goodneſs, and Power, and Wiſdom, and Holineſs of God. So when this New Birth is, we muſt look upon it as a glorious diſcovery of thoſe lovely Attributes. As, 1. Of his Mercy, Goodneſs, Love; how often is this called his Grace, and the riches of his Grace; Chriſtians! you that know what the New-Birth means, do you not ſay, The Goodneſs of God appears in this; ſurely it was God's goodneſs to make a Word, but this is the riches of his goodneſs to create a New Heart in you; when Man by his Sin was fallen, he might have been thrown away as refuſe, fit Fuel only for everlaſting Flames, it might have been with Mankind as it was with Devils, in their Deluge God did not provide an Ark to ſave ſo many as eight perſons, not one Angel that fell was the Object of God's grace; And that God ſhould paſs by all thoſe Angels, and many thouſands of the Sons of Men, and yet that he ſhould look upon you in your Blood, and bid you Live: O the goodneſs of God!

2. As of the Goodneſs, ſo in this New-Birth there's a diſcovery of God's power: and hence it is called a New Creature. Gal. 6. 15. The very ſame Power that framed the World, is the Framer of this New Creature; the work of Converſion is ſet forth by the Work of Creation; God only creates Man, and God only converts Man; in the Creation God ſaid, Let there be Light, and there was Light; in our converſion God ſaith, Let there be Light: and preſently the ſame God ſhines in our hearts; Nay, this Power of converſion, in ſome ſence far paſſeth the Creation, To whom is the Arm of the Lord revealed; Iſa. 53. the Lord puts to his Arm, his Power, his Strength indeed in Converſion of Souls; when he made the World, he met with nothing to reſiſt him, he only ſpake the word, and it was done; but in the converſion of a Sinner, God meets with the whole frame of all Creatures oppoſing and reſiſting him; the Devil and the World without, and Sin and Corruption within; here then muſt needs be a Power againſt all Power.

3. As of the Goodneſs and Power of God, ſo in this New-Birth, there's a diſcovery of the Wiſdom of God. I might inſtance in many Particulars; As, 1. In that the regenerate are moſt-what of the meaneſt and contemptibleſt perſons; not many wiſe, 1 Cor. 1. 27. not many noble, &c. 2. In that many times God takes the worſt Weeds and makes them the ſweeteſt Flowers, thus Paul, Zacheus, the Publicans, and Harlots. 3. In that the regenerate are of the feweſt, and leaſt number; many are called, but few are choſen. 4. In that God chuſeth ſuch a time to be his time of love, wherein he uſually diſcovers many concurrences of ſtrange love meeting together; read Ezek. 16. 4, 5, 6, 8, 9. in all theſe particulars is his Wiſdom wonderful.

4. As of the Goodneſs, Power and Wiſdom of God, ſo in this new Birth there's a diſcovery of the holineſs of God. If a Clod of Earth, or a piece of Muck ſhould be made a glorious Star in heaven, it is not more wonderful, than for a Sinner to be made like an Angel, doing the will of God; it argues the Holineſs of God, and his love of Holineſs to make man holy; He tells us, that without Holineſs, none ſhall ſee God; and therefore firſt he will make us holy, and then he will bring us to himſelf; O here's bleſſed Conformity! as Chriſt was Born, let us be New-born.

7. Chriſt after his Birth did and ſuffered many things in his Childhood (I ſhould be too large to ſpeak to every particular) ſo ſhould we learn to bear

God's

Chriſt even betimes, Remenber now thy Greater in the days of thy Youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou ſhoult ſay I have no pleaſure in them, Do ye not ſee by experience what a bleſſed thing a gracious and an holy education is? Train up a Child in the way he ſhould

It is noted for a grievous ſin, and a chief part of the Corruption of our nature to be unprofitable to the Generation with whom we live;
They are altogether become unprofitable, there is none that Rom. 3. 12.
doth good; Religion and Grace wherever it prevaileth, makes Men profitable; and in this reſpect the pooreſt Servant and drudge may have more comfort in his eſtate, then the greateſt Gentleman that hath nothing to do but to Eat, and Drink, and Play.

Thus far we have looked on Jeſus as our Jeſus in his Incarnation, or his coming in the fleſh. Our next work is to look on Jeſus carrying on the great work of Man's Salvation during his life, from John's Baptiſm until his ſuffering and dying on the Croſs.

LOOKING UNTO JESUS,

In His Life.

CHAP. I.

1 John 1. 2.

For the Life was manifeſted, and we have ſeen it.

SECT. I.

Of the Beginning of the Goſpel.

IN this piece, as in the former, we muſt firſt lay down the Object, and then direct you how to look to it.

The Object is Jeſus carrying on the work of Man's Salvation during the time of his Life. Now in all the tranſactions of this time, we ſhall obſerve them as they were carried on ſucceſſively in thoſe three years and an half of his miniſterial Office, or if you will in thoſe four compleat Years before his Paſſion and Death.

For the firſt Year, and his actings therein, the Mark 1. 1. Evangeliſt Mark begins thus, The Beginning of the Goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt the Son of God; q. d. the beginning of that age of the Word, which the Prophets pointed out for the time of good things to come; or the beginning of the exhibition and completion of that Goſpel, which in reſpect of the promiſe, figures, and ſignification was from the beginning of the world.

This beginning of the Goſpel, the Prophets ſometime expreſſed by the term of the laſt days, and it Iſa. 2. 2. ſhall come to paſs in the laſt days; ſometimes by the term of the acceptable year of the Lord, The Spirit Mica. 4. 1. of the Lord is upon me, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord; ſometimes by the term of the Kingdom of Iſa. 61. 1, 2. God; And in the days of theſe Kings, ſhall the God of Dan. 2. 44. Heaven ſet up a Kingdom, which ſhall never be deſtroyed. Sometimes by the term of a New Heaven, and a Iſa. 65. 17. New Earth, behold I create New Heavens, and a New Earth, and the former ſhall not be remembred, nor come in mind. Howſoever it is called, this is concluded, that the beginning of the Goſpel is not to be reckoned from the Birth of Chriſt, but from the begining of the Miniſtry and Preaching of John the Mat. 11. 12, 15. Baptiſt; from the days of John the Baptiſt until now (ſaid Chriſt) the Kingdom of Heaven ſuffereth violence; for all the Prophets and the Law propheſied until John; and when the Apoſtles were ready in the Room of Judas to chuſe a new Apoſtle, it is ſaid, that of thoſe Act 11. 21, 22. men which companied with them all the time that the Lord Jeſus went in and out amongſt them, beginning from the baptiſm of John, unto the day that he was taken up, Act. 10. 37. muſt one be ordained to be a witneſs. And Peter Preaching to Cornelius and his Friends, he tells them that the word (or Goſpel) was publiſhed throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the Baptiſm which John Preached: and ſee but how immediately theſe words fol- Mar. 1. 1, 2. low, The beginning of the Goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt the Son of God: as it is written in the Prophets, behold I ſend my Meſſenger before thy face, which ſhall prepare the way before thee: I know that John's Miniſtry was ſix months before Chriſt's; and yet that now was the beginning of the Goſpel, it appears, 1. In that Baptiſm (which was only uſed amongſt the Jews for the admiſſion of Proſelites or Heathens to their Church) is now publiſhed and propoſed to the Jews themſelves; ſhewing, 1. That now they were to be entred and tranſplanted into a new Profeſſion; and, 2. That the Gentiles, and they were now to be knit into one Church and Body. And, 3. It appears in that the Doctrine and Preaching of John was of a different ſtrain, from the litteral Doctrine of the Law; as it is taken in the ſence of the Jews; for that called all for works, and for exact performance, do this and live; but John called for Repentance, and for renewing of the mind, and for belief in him that was coming after, diſclaiming all righteouſneſs by the works of the law; ſo that here were new heavens, and a new Earth began to be created, a new Commandment given, a new Church founded, Juſtification by works cried down, and the Doctrine of Faith and Repentance advanced and ſet up.

Hence one obſerves that the Evangeliſt Luke points out this year in a ſpecial manner; it was the fifteenth year of Tiberius Cæſar; at which time (ſaid he) Pilate was Governour of Judea, Herod was Tetrarch of Galilee, Philip was Tetrarch of Iturea, Lyſanias was Tetrarch of Abilene, and Annas and Caiphas were high Prieſts. Lightf. Harm. of the Four Evangeliſt. And then, even then, the Word of God came unto John the Son of Zacharias, in the Wilderneſs. See Luk. 3. 1, 2. how exact the Evangeliſt means, that ſo remarkable a year of the beginning of the Goſpel might be fixed and made known to all the World. In this reſpect, I ſhall begin the firſt year of Chriſt's Life with the beginning of John's Preaching, which was ſix months current before the Miniſtry of Chriſt; and in the compaſs of this firſt year, I ſhall handle theſe Particulars.

1. The Preaching of John Baptiſt. 2. The Baptiſm of Chriſt Jeſus. 3. The Faſting and Temptation of Chriſt in the Wilderneſs. 4. The firſt manifeſtation of Jeſus by his ſeveral witneſſes. 5. Chriſt whipping the buyers and ſellers out of the Temple. Obſerve that every of theſe four years, I ſhall end at one of the Paſſovers of which we read during Chriſt's Miniſtry; as of the firſt Paſſover in John 2. 13. of the ſecond Paſſover in John 5. 1. of the third Paſſover in John 6. 4. of the fourth Paſſover, John 13. 1. And firſt of the firſt year to end at the firſt Paſſover.

Sect. 2. Of the Preaching of John Baptiſt.

FOR the Preaching of John the Baptiſt; now was it that the Goſpel began to dawn and John like the Morning-Star, or the bluſhing day, ſpringing from the Windows of the Eaſt, foretels the approaching of the Sun of Righteouſneſs: now was it that he laid the firſt rough hard and unhewn Stone of the building in Mortification, ſelf-denial, and doing violence to our natural affections. I read not that ever John wrought a Miracle: but he was a man of an auſtere Life: and good Works convince more than Miracles themſelves. It is ſtoried of one Pachomius, a Souldier under Conſtantine the Emperour, that his Army being well-near ſtarved for want of neceſſary Proviſion, he came to a City of Chriſtians, and they of their own Charity relieved them ſpeedily and freely; he wondering at their ſo free and chearful diſpenſation, enquired what kind of people thoſe were whom he ſaw ſo bountiful? It was anſwered, they were Chriſtians, whoſe profeſſion is to hurt no man, and to do good to every man; hereupon the Souldier convinced of the excellency of this Religion, threw away his Arms, and became a Chriſtian and a Saint. To this purpoſe, I ſuppoſe, John the Baptiſt ſpent his time in Prayer, Meditation, Affections, and Colloquies with God, eating flies and wild honey in the wilderneſs, that he might be made a fit Inſtrument of preparation and diſſemination of the Goſpel of Chriſt.

In his Sermon he ſometimes gave particular Schedules of Duty to ſeveral ſtates of Perſons; he ſharply reproved the Phariſees for their Hypocriſie and Impiety; he gently guided others into the ways of righteouſneſs, calling them the ſtraight ways of the Lord; and by ſuch diſcourſes and a Baptiſm, he diſpoſed the Spirits of men for the entertaining of the Meſſias, and the Doctrine of the Goſpel. John's Sermons were to the Sermons of Jeſus as a Preface to a Diſcourſe.

But obſerve this, that his moſt uſual Note was Repentance, the Axe to the Root, the Fan to the Floor, the Chaff to the Fire. As his Rayment was rough, ſo was his Tongue, and thus muſt the way be made for Chriſt in ſtubborn, obſtinate Hearts: Plauſibility, or pleaſing of the Fleſh is no fit Preface to Regeneration: If the Heart of Man had continued upright, Chriſt might have been entertained without contradiction; but now violence muſt be offered to our Corruptions, ere we can have room for Grace. If the great way-maker do not caſt down Hills, and raiſe up Vallies in the Boſoms of Men, there is no paſſage for Chriſt; never will Chriſt come into that Soul, where the Herald of repentance, either in one motive or other hath not been before him:

Shall we hear that Sermon that John Preached in his own words? Matthew in brief gives it in thus:
Mat. 3. 2. Repent ye, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand. Theſe are the words when he firſt began to Preach the Goſpel of Chriſt; and indeed we find Chriſt himſelf
Mat. 4. 17. doth Preach the ſame Doctrine in the ſame words: Jeſus began to Preach, and to ſay, Repent; for the Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand. In this Sermon we muſt obſerve theſe two parts: Here's, 1. A Duty; and, 2. A Motive to this Duty. 1. The Duty is Repent.] It is not a Legal, but an Evangelical Repentance that is here meant; indeed the Law ſtrictly takes no notice of Repentance, but the Goſpel: true, and through, and conſummate Repentance is a Goſpel-grace. 2. The Motive is this; for the Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand. This Phraſe, The Kingdom of Heaven, hath ſeveral acceptations, and accordingly it hath occaſioned ſome differences. 1. Sometimes it is taken for that glorious condition of the other World; this may be implied; but this I ſuppoſe few underſtand to be the ſence of this place. 2. Sometimes it is taken for the Church of Chriſt, q. d. Repent, for now the Pedagogy of the Jews is expiring, or breathing its laſt; and the Church of Chriſt is at hand, a People that ſhall bear the very ſtile of Chriſtians; that ſhall profeſs Chriſt, and cloſe with Chriſt as their Saviour and Meſſiah; of which Church, that you may be a part, prepare for it: Repent. 3. Sometimes it is taken for the ſpiritual Kingdom of Chriſt, In oppoſition to thoſe earthly temporal Kingdoms which bare the Sway, and domineered over all the World with Cruelty and Tyranny before Chriſt's coming: Of this Daniel propheſied: And in the days of theſe Kings ſhall the God of Heaven ſet up a Kingdom which ſhall never be deſtroyed. Dan. 2. 44. Now what was this Kingdom, but the Kingdom of Grace? It is by an Hebraiſm called the Kingdom of Heaven, that is an Heavenly Kingdom: The Jews expected the Meſſiah, and dreamed of an outward, glorious and pompous Kingdom. Now, ſaith John, the Meſſiah is come, and his Kingdom is come; but 'tis not an earthly, but an Heavenly Kingdom; and therefore Repent. 4. Sometimes it is taken for the Preaching of the Goſpel, or for the Preaching of the Kingdom of Grace and Mercy of God in Chriſt unto men. q. d. O Sirs! look about you, there's now a diſcovery made of the Glory and Grace of God in another way, than ever formerly; and therefore prepare for it: Repent. 5. Sometimes it is taken for the Goſpel of Chriſt, as it is Publiſhed and Preached unto all Nations: Obſerve, I do not only ſay for the Goſpel as it is Preached; but as it is Preached to the Gentiles, or among all Nations, and this ſhews how proper and pregnant an argument this was to inforce the Doctrine and Practice of Repentance upon the Jews, becauſe the calling of the Gentiles was near at Hand, which would prove their rejection and caſting off, if they did not repent.

Oh how ſeaſonable is this Sermon to Chriſtians? Hath not the Kingdom of Heaven approached unto us? Take the Kingdom of Heaven for the Kingdom of Glory, are we not near to the door of Glory, to the Confines of Eternity? What is our Life but a Vapour that appeareth for a little time, and after it vaniſheth away? We know not but ere the Sun have run one Round, our Souls may be in that World of Souls, and ſo either in Heaven or Hell. Or take the Kingdom of Heaven for the Church of Chriſt, and what Expectations have we now of the flouriſhing State of Chriſt's Church here upon Earth? Then ſhall the Children of Iſrael and Judah be gathered together,——for great ſhall be the day of Jezreel, Hoſ. 1. 11. A time is at hand, that Iſrael and Judah ſhall be called together, that the fulneſs of the Gentiles ſhall come in: and what is this but the great day of Jezreel? Oh! Then what manner of Perſons ought we to be? How Spiritual? How Heavenly-minded? Ariſe, ariſe, ſhake of thy duſt, for thy Light is coming, and the Glory of the Lord is riſing upon thee. Or, take the Kingdom of Heaven for the Preaching of the Goſpel of Grace, Mercy and Goodneſs of God in Chriſt, what Preachings are now in compariſon of what have been formerly? How doth the Lord ſet forth his free Love, and free Grace in the Churches of Chriſt? No queſtion but many former Ages have enjoyed their diſcoveries in ſome ſweet meaſure, and yet After-ages wonder that they have known no more; and how much of the Kingdom of Heaven do Saints find in this Age, as if there were a new Manifeſtation of God unto the Word? And yet I muſt tell you, that the Ages to come ſhall know more of this Kingdom, there ſhall be further and further openings of this great Myſtery of Grace unto the Sons of Men. Mark the Apoſtle, That in the ages to come he might ſhew the exceeding riches of his Grace, in his kindneſs towards us through Jeſus Chriſt, Eph. 2. 7. Eph. 2. 7. how is this? Had not God revealed Grace enough in the former Ages? Or had not God revealed Grace enough in that preſent Age? Did he not then call in the Gentiles? Were not many thouſands converted at one only Sermon? What a deal of that Grace had Paul himſelf received? He tells us that the Tim. 11. 14. Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt was exceeding abundant to him-wards; and is there yet more Grace to be revealed? O yes! Herein lies the Myſtery of Grace, that he hath reſerved exceeding riches of Grace for the Ages to come; Grace that never ſaw Light before; and I believe there is yet a fuller Magazine of the Riches of his Grace for latter Ages, even for the Ages to come, to be diſcovered, than ever was yet. Oh! Then repent, repent; Why? For the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. The very openings of God's Love and Grace unto Souls, is a way and Motive to draw our Souls unto God. Or, take the Kingdom of Heaven for the Preaching of the Goſpel to all Nations, Jews and Gentiles, what Fears and Jealouſies may this breed in us as well as the Jews: O boaſt not againſt the Branches! It may be thou wilt ſay, The Branches were broken off, that I might be graffed in: Well; becauſe of Unbelief they were broken off, and thou ſtandeſt by Faith; be not high-minded, but fear: For if God ſpared not the natural Branches, take heed leſt he alſo ſpare not thee. Behold therefore the Goodneſs and Severity of God; on them which felt Severity: But towards thee, Goodneſs, if thou continue in his Goodneſs; otherwiſe thou ſhalt be cut off. But I will not dwell on this: My deſign is to conſider of Jeſus, and of the Tranſactions of Jeſus in reference to our ſouls health: Now John's Sermons were only a preparative to the Manifeſtation of Jeſus; he was only the Fore-runner of Chriſt, and not Chriſt himſelf, as himſelf witneſſeth.

Sect. 3. Of the Baptiſm of Jeſus.

2. FOR the Baptiſm of Chriſt. He that formerly was circumciſed, would now be baptized; he was circumciſed to ſanctifie his Church that was, and he was baptized to ſanctifie his Church that ſhould be; we find him in both Teſtaments opening a way into Heaven. This was the firſt appearing of Chriſt in reference to his Miniſterial Office; he that lay hid in the Counſel of God from all Eternity, and he that lay hid in the Womb of his Mother for the ſpace of forty weeks, and he that lay hid in Nazareth for the ſpace of thirty years; now at laſt he begins to ſhew himſelf to the World, and Mat.3.13. He comes from Galilee to Jordan, to John to be baptized of him. The day was but a little broke in John the Baptiſt, but Chriſt the Son of Righteouſneſs ſoon entred upon our Hemiſphere; indeed now was the full time come that Jeſus took his leave of his Mother, and his Trade, to begin his Father's work, in order to the Redemption of the World. For the clearer underſtanding of Chriſt's Baptiſm, we ſhall examine theſe Particulars.

1. What Reaſon had Chriſt to be baptized?
2. How was it that John knew him to be Chriſt?
3. Wherein was the Glory of Chriſt's Baptiſm?
4. What was the Prayer of Chriſt, at, or after his Baptiſm?
5. Why was it that the Holy Ghoſt deſcended on Jeſus?
6. Upon what account was it that the Holy Ghoſt ſhould reveal himſelf at this time? And why in the form of a Dove rather than ſome other form?

1. What reaſon had Chriſt to be baptized? We find John himſelf wondering at this; Mat.3.15. I have need to be baptized of thee, and comeſt thou to me? Many Reaſons are given for Chriſt's Baptiſm: As, 1. That by this ſymbol he might enter himſelf into the Society of Chriſtians; juſt like a King, to endear himſelf to any City of his Subjects, he condeſcends to be made a Free-man of that City. 2. That he might bear witneſs to the Preaching and Baptiſm of John, and might reciprocally receive a Teſtimony from John. 3. That by his own Baptiſm, he might ſanctifie the Water of Baptiſm to his own Church. 4. That he might give an Example himſelf of the Performance of that, which he enjoined others. 5. That he might receive Teſtimony from Heaven, that he was the Son of God. 6. That he might fulfil all Righteouſneſs: Not only the Moral, but the Figurative, Ceremonial and Typical: Some think, that the Ceremony, which our Saviour looked at in theſe words, was the waſhing of the Prieſts in Water, when they entred into their Function. And Aaron, and his Sons thou ſhalt bring to the door of the Exod. 29. 4. Tabernacle of the Congregation, and ſhalt waſh them with water. Lev. 8. 6. And ſurely this was the main reaſon of Chriſt's being baptized, that by this Baptiſm he might be inſtalled into his Miniſterial Office.

2. How did John know him to be Chriſt? It is very probable he had never ſeen his Face before; they had in their Infancy been driven to ſeveral Places, and they were deſigned to ſeveral Imployments, and never met (as we may well conceive) till now: Beſides, the Baptiſt ſpeaks expreſly, I knew him not, but he that ſent me to baptize with water, the ſame ſaid Joh. 1.33. unto me, on whomſoever thou ſhalt ſee the Spirit deſcending, and abiding on him, the ſame is he that baptizeth with the Holy Ghoſt. Now this deſcent of the Holy Ghoſt, was not till after Baptiſm; how then did he know him to be Chriſt?

The Anſwer is given by ſome thus; that John knew Chriſt in ſome meaſure before his Baptiſm; but he knew him not ſo fully as after, when the Holy Ghoſt had deſcended on him. Others thus; That John knew Chriſt before his Baptiſm, by a preſent Revelation, and after Baptiſm by a preſent ſign; it is not unlikely but John knew Chriſt at his firſt Arrival by Revelation; for if whiles he was in his Mother's Womb, he knew Chriſt being yet unborn, how much more might he know and acknowledge him now at his Baptiſm? Thus Samuel knew Saul; and thus John might know Chriſt. But for that Knowledge he had after Baptiſm, it was a further Confirmation of that ſame knowledge that he had before Baptiſm, and that not ſo much for his own ſake, as for the Peoples. I ſaw, and bare record that Joh. 1.34. this is the Son of God.

3. Wherein was the Glory or Excellency of Chriſt's Baptiſm? The Ancients give many Encomiums to it, and in ſome reſpects prefer it to the Birth of Chriſt; thus Auguſtine; Many great Miracles were at Chriſt's Birth, but they were far greater at Aug. Serm. 36. his Baptiſm; the Holy Ghoſt overſhadowed him in the Womb, but he brightly ſhone on him in the River; then was the Father ſilent, not a Word from him, but now a loud Voice is heard from Heaven, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed; then was the Mother under ſuſpition, becauſe ſhe was found with Child without a Father; but now is the Mother greatly honoured, in that the Holy Child is Fathered by God himſelf: Then was Chriſt hid to the World; and this made John the Baptiſt ſay, there ſtands one amongſt you whom ye know not: He was before his Baptiſm as the Sun in a Cloud, or a Pearl in a Shell, or a Gold-mine in a Field: But now he appears in Publick; and to manifeſt his Glory, the Heavens open, and from the Heavens the Holy Ghoſt deſcends, and alights upon his Sacred Head; and God the Father gives a Voice from Heaven, declaring his Divinity to the World. If the Jews require a ſign, here is not one, but many ſigns at once; which as Beams do diſcover a Sun, ſo they diſcover this Sun of Righteouſneſs to be riſen amongſt them; and herein was the Glory of Chriſt's Baptiſm.

4. What was the Prayer of Chriſt, at, or after his Baptiſm? The Evangeliſt Luke ſpeaks of his Luke 3. 21. Prayer, It came to paſs that Jeſus being Baptized, and Praying, the Heavens were opened. This was the manner of thoſe that were Baptized, aſſoon as they were baptized, to come out of the Water and pray; and ſome think that theſe Words, they were baptized of him in Jordan confeſſing their ſins, have reference Mat.3.36.

to this: If ſo, then Chriſt having no ſins to confeſs of his own, the tenour of his Prayer muſt needs be to ſome other purpoſe. But to what Purpoſe? Some ſay, to the ſame Purpoſe as his prayers were uſually; as in John 17. That his Father would preſerve his Church in Unity and Truth; and that he would glorifie his Church, that they alſo might be one, even as he and his Father are one; and eſpecially that many might be converted by his Miniſtry, which he was now beginning. Others think that this Prayer at this time, was for that which followed upon his very Prayer, (i. e.) that the Holy Ghoſt might deſcend, and that the Father would glorifie the Son by a Teſtimony from Heaven: Indeed, the Text hath laid his Prayer, and the opening of the Heavens ſo cloſe together, as that it ſeems to point out what was the tenour of his Prayer, by the conſequent of it. Before the Heaven was mured up, no Dove to be ſeen, no Voice to be heard, but ſtreight upon it (as if they had but waited the laſt word of his Prayer) all of them follow: And in another Place, we find the like return upon the like Prayer; John 12. 28. Father, glorifie thy Name: Then came there a Voice from Heaven, ſaying, I have both glorified it, and I will glorifie it again: One reaſon more, if we conſider that Chriſt was now to enter upon the great Work of our Redemption, and the preaching of the Goſpel, it will be no leſs ſtrange to conceive that he prayed for the viſible ſealing of him to that Work and Office, by the coming of the Holy Ghoſt. To this John 6.27. purpoſe is that of the Evangeliſt; for him hath God the Father ſealed: It is a Phraſe borrowed from them, who give their Commiſſions under hand and ſeal; and this is certain that upon his Prayer God ſent the Holy Spirit, who ſealed him, or allowed, and confirmed him to the Office of our Redemption; and therefore very probable it is, that his Prayer might tend to that purpoſe; but herein take heed of excluding what was mentioned in the former opinion; for my part, I ſuppoſe Chriſt's Prayer was both for himſelf, and all Believers; that the Holy Ghoſt might now be joined to the Water; and that all others as ſhould ever after believe in his Name (as afterwards he enlargeth his Prayer) might have the Holy Ghoſt deſcend upon them, John 17. 20.

5. Why was it that the Holy Ghoſt deſcended on Jeſus? I anſwer, for theſe Reaſons, 1. That John the Baptiſt might be ſatisfied; for this Token was given John, when he firſt began to preach, John 1.33. that upon whom he ſhould ſee the Spirit deſcending and remaining on him, the ſame is He which baptizeth with the Holy Ghoſt. It was a ſure ſign to the Baptiſt, whereby to know the Chriſt, whoſe Harbinger and Prodromus he was. 2. That Chriſt himſelf might be anointed or inſtalled to his Function. Iſa.61.1,2 The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, becauſe the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek, &c. As Aaron and his Sons were anointed with material Oil, when they entred into their Offices, ſo Chriſt was by the Spirit (as it were) anointed, that ſo he might receive this Conſecration and Inſtitution for the Office that he was to enter on, viz. the Preaching and Miniſtry of the Goſpel.

6. Upon what Account was it that the Holy Ghoſt ſhould reveal himſelf at this time? And why in form of a Dove, rather than ſome other Form;

To the firſt I anſwer, the Holy Ghoſt now revealed himſelf, becauſe the ſpiritual Kingdom and Scepter of Chriſt, in and by which he was to rule Dr Lightf. Harm of theEvang. all Nations for ever, was now at hand. It was agreeable (ſaith my Author) that the ſpiritualneſs of this Kingdom ſhould be ſealed and confirmed by the Holy Spirits ſhewing himſelf even in the begining of it. The carnal Rites of Moſes were now to vaniſh, and his corporal and ceremonial Obſervances were now to be changed into a ſpiritual Worſhip; and neither at Jeruſalem, or at Mount Gerzim, nor elſewhere, muſt there be any more Adoration with fleſhly and earthly Ceremonies; but he that will worſhip God, muſt worſhip him in Spirit and Truth; and John 4.21, 24. therefore it is no wonder, if now the Holy Ghoſt doth reveal himſelf; I ſay now, when his Spiritual Dominion by Sanctification is to begin. Secondly, Becauſe the Holy Ghoſt was now in eſpecial manner to be reſtored again. Some obſerve, that he was viſibly departed from Iſrael after the Death of the laſt Prophets; and therefore now at his reſtoring, he comes in a viſible and apparent form; and he lights on him, to whom it belongs to give the Spirit, and his gifts to whom he pleaſeth. As John had preached that Chriſt ſhould baptize with the Holy Ghoſt; ſo now the Holy Ghoſt comes and abides on Jeſus Chriſt, in the ſight of John; as if the Father ſhould have ſaid, Now I ſeal that Power and Privilege to Chriſt my Son, which John hath ſpoken: Now the Holy Ghoſt is upon himſelf, and hereafter he ſhall baptize others with the ſame Holy Ghoſt. Thirdly, becauſe at the beginning of the Goſpel it was moſt ſuitable, that a full, clear, and ſenſible demonſtration of the whole Trinity ſhould be made. The Learned obſerve, that the Holy Ghoſt in Scripture hath a ſpecial regard to expreſs this Myſtery of the Trinity upon ſingular Occaſions; ſo the very firſt thing that is taught in all the Bible, is this ſame Myſtery, In Gen.1.1,2, 3. the beginning God Created; there is the Father: And God ſaid there is the Word, or the Son; and the Spirit of God moved; there is the Holy Ghoſt. And the very firſt word of the Bible that ſpeaks of a Man, it holds out the Trinity as creating him: And God ſaid, Let us make Man in our own Gen.1.26. Image; he ſaith, let us] to ſhew the Trinity of Perſons; and he ſaith in our Image] not in our Images, to ſhew the Unity of Eſſence. And when Moſes begins to rehearſe the Law to Iſrael, the firſt thing he teacheth them, is the Trinity in Unity, and Unity in Trinity. Hear, O Iſrael, the Lord our God, the Lord Deut.6.4 is one. The laſt Word one denotes the Unity; the three Words, the Lord our God, anſwer the three Perſons; and the middle Word our God, decyphers fitly the ſecond Perſon, who aſſumed our Nature: How fit then was it, that at the beginning of the new World and the new Law, and the Baptiſm of Chriſt, the three Perſons ſhould be revealed; eſpecially ſince he ordained Baptiſm to be admitted in all their Names? Baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, Mat. 28. 19. and of the Holy Ghoſt: But where is it revealed? See Mat. 3. 16, 17. where the Father ſpeaks from Heaven, the Son comes out of the Water, and the holy Ghoſt appears in the likeneſs of a Dove. This was the greateſt meeting that ever was upon the Earth; every Perſon of the Trinity gives ſome ſenſible Evidence of his Preſence at it.

To the ſecond; why in the form of a Dove, rather than ſome other form, Many Reaſons are given, as,———

1. To ſhew Chriſt's Innocency, Purity, Simplicity, Charity, and Love.

2. To ſhew what Innocency and harmleſneſs ſhould be in thoſe that are baptized.

3. To anſwer the Figure in Noah's Flood; for as a Dove at that time brought tidings of the abatings of the waters, ſo now it brings tidings of the abating of God's Wrath upon the preaching of the Goſpel: The firſt Dove we find in the Bible, is Noah's Dove, with the Olive-branch in her Bill, proclaiming Peace; the next is David's Dove with Feathers ſilver-white, as noting ſincerity; then Eſay's Dove mourning with hervoice, as ſignifying Patience:

ence: and laſtly, Chriſt's Dove, innocent and harmleſs; now all theſe properties meet in this Dove, the Spirit of God. Much more might I add to theſe; but I deſire to haſten to ſome more edifying truths.

Uſe. From this Baptiſm of Chriſt, we may learn a practical neceſſary Truth; There is a generation that cries down Baptiſm of water, and upon this ſcore, becauſe they ſuppoſe it was proper to John to baptize only with water; and to Chriſt to baptize only with the Holy Ghoſt, and with fire. Indeed Chriſt in his own Perſon baptized none otherwiſe, but with the Holy Ghoſt. Immediately after his Aſcention, he to ſent his Spirit upon the Church, and baptized them with Fire, the Spirit appearing like a flame; and this day (though not viſibly) he baptizeth all his Saints, with the Holy Ghoſt, and with Fire: But for all this he appointed John, and not only John, but all his Apoſtles, and their Succeſſors for ever, to baptize with water; and they did ſo, and yet do ſo, obeying the preceptive words of Chriſt, which are almoſt the laſt words that he ſpake upon the Earth. And though Chriſt did not baptize with water, yet Chriſt himſelf (we ſee here) was baptized with water; he himſelf enters at that door, by which his Diſciples muſt for ever follow after him. And indeed therefore he went in at that door of Baptiſm, that he might hallow, or ſanctifie the entrance, which himſelf made to the Houſe, he was now a Building. And for the difference they make betwixt Chriſt's Baptiſm, and John's Baptiſm: What's this to the purpoſe? We all know that in Baptiſm are two parts; the outward part, and the inward part. You may call them (if you pleaſe) the outward Baptiſm, and the inward Baptiſm: The outward Baptiſm is of the Miniſter, but the inward Baptiſm is of Chriſt. But muſt we ſeparate theſe? Or rather join them (if theſe in ordinary muſt be joined) as we find them in Chriſt, and as we deſire they may be in us? I cannot ſee, but the Baptiſm we uſe, and the Baptiſm of John, are in Nature and Subſtance one, and the Mark 1.4. very ſame. 1. John preached the Baptiſm of Repentance for the remiſſion of Sins. They have therefore Mat.3.15. the ſame Doctrine; and the ſame Promiſe. 2. The Baptiſm miniſtred by John, pertained to the Luk.7. 29, 30. fulfilling of all Righteouſneſs. And Luke teſtifies, that the Publicans and People being baptized of John: They juſtified God. But the Phariſees deſpiſed the Counſel of God againſt themſelves, and were not baptized. Only herein lies the difference, that John baptized in Chriſt that ſhould die and riſe again: But we baptize into the Name of Chriſt that is dead, and riſen again. It is a difference, in reſpect of Circumſtance; but not of the Subſtance: Oh! Take heed of throwing away the Baptiſm of water, upon the pretence of Baptiſm, only with Fire! Chriſt (we ſee) hath joined them together, and let no Man ſeparate them aſunder: Chriſt himſelf was baptized with fire; and yet Chriſt himſelf was baptized with water.

Sect. IV. Of the Faſting and Temptation of Chriſt.

3. FOr the Faſting and Temptation of Chriſt in the Wilderneſs. No ſooner is Chriſt come out of the water of Baptiſm, but he preſently enters into the Fire of Temptation. No ſooner is the Holy Spirit deſcended upon his Head, but he is led by the ſame Holy Spirit to be tempted in the Wilderneſs. No ſooner doth God ſay, This my Son; but Satan puts it to the queſtion, if thou be the Son of God. All theſe are but Chriſt's Preparatives to his Prophetical Office. In the former Section, Chriſt was prepared by a ſolemn Conſecration; and now he is to be further prepared by Satan's Temptation. There is Mat.4.1, to 12. much in this particular: and therefore, in the ſame method as the Evangeliſt lays it down, Mat. 4. 1, 2, 3, to v. 12. I ſhall proceed. Then was Jeſus led up of the Spirit into the Wilderneſs to be tempted of the Devil, &c. In the whole, we may obſerve theſe ſeveral Branches; as, Firſt, the place where the Temptation was; To wit, the Wilderneſs. Secondly, the Cauſe of Chriſt's going into the Wilderneſs; the Spirit's leading. Thirdly, the end of the Spirit's leading Chriſt into the Wilderneſs; to be tempted of the Devil. Fourthly, the time and occaſion of the Devil's onſet; at the end of forty days faſt, and when he was an hungred. Fifthly, the Temptations themſelves, which are in number three; to which are added as many Victories, which Chriſt had over the Tempter; who therefore left him, and ſo the Angels came, and miniſtred unto him. I ſhall begin firſt with the place where the Temptation was; to wit, in the Wilderneſs.

This Wilderneſs was not that ſame Wilderneſs, or not that ſame place of the Wilderneſs, wherein John Baptiſt lived, Mat. 3. 1. For that wherein John Baptiſt lived, was a place inhabited. There was in that Place Cities and Towns, and a number of People, to whom John preached; but this Wilderneſs was devoid of Men, full of wild Beaſts. So ſaith Mark, he was tempted of Satan, and was with the wild Beaſts. Mark 1. 13. As Adam, in his Innocency lived with wild Beaſts, and they hurt him not: So Chriſt, the ſecond Adam lives here in a Wilderneſs with wild Beaſts, and he has no hurt at all. He is Adam-like in his ſafety and ſecurity; but above Adam in the reſiſting of Temptations. Some ſay that in this Wilderneſs, during his forty days abode, Chriſt was perpetually diſturbed and aſſaulted with evil Spirits. How ever the laſt brunt is only expreſſed, becauſe it was moſt violent. Now whether they appeared in any horrid and affrighting ſhapes, during that time, it is not certain; but 'tis moſt likely, that to a Perſon of ſo great Sanctity, and high deſignation as Jeſus was, they would appear more angelical and immaterial, and in repreſentments intellectual, becauſe Jeſus was not a Perſon of thoſe low weakneſſes, to be affrighted or troubled with any ugly Phantaſms. 'Tis not much material to enquire of this. But in the Wilderneſs (ſay they) Chriſt was perpetually tempted; and in this reſpect I know not but the Devil had more advantage, now he had Chriſt in a Wilderneſs. Solitarineſs is no ſmall help to the ſpeed of a Temptation; Woe to him that is alone, for if he fall, there is not a ſecond to take him up. Others ſay, that in this Wilderneſs, during his forty dayes abode, Chriſt was continually exerciſed in Prayer and Faſting; all that while, he had his immediate Addreſſes and Colloquies with God; he knew he had a great work of Redemption to promote; and therefore his Converſation for this interval muſt be preparatory to it; in this reſpect, I know not but the Wilderneſs might be an advantage to Chriſt's Deſign: In this ſolitary place, he could not but breath out more pure inſpiration. Heaven uſually is more open, and God uſually is more familiar and frequent in his viſits in ſuch places. I know not what other experiences may be; but if I have found any thing of God, or of his Grace, I may thank a Wood, a Wilderneſs, a Deſert, a ſolitary place, for its accommodation; and have I not a bleſſed Pattern here before me? It was Solitude and Retirement, in which Jeſus kept his Vigils; the deſert places heard him pray; in a privacy he was born, in the Wilderneſs he fed his thouſands, upon a Mountain apart he was transfigured, upon a Mountain de died, and from a Mountain he aſcended to his Father: I make no queſtion but in theſe Retirements his Devotion received the advantage of convenient Circumſtances, eſpecially of time and place. And yet I dare not deny the firſt opinion; for I ſuppoſe both Chriſt and the Devil, had their advantages of this Wilderneſs, the one is to pray, and the other to tempt.

2. The Cauſe of Chriſt's going into the Wilderneſs was the Spirits leading. Then was Jeſus led of the Spirit into the Wilderneſs; Chriſt was led by the good Spirit, to be tempted by the Evil Spirit: O wonder! that ſame Spirit which was one with the Father and the Son; that ſame Spirit whereby Chriſt was conceived, now drives him or leads him into the Wilderneſs to be tempted of the Devil: The manner of Chriſt's leading is a queſtion; ſome think he was led or catcht away from Jordan in ſome viſible rapture towards the Wilderneſs: But leave that, and to come to Truths more neceſſary; Chriſt taught us to pray unto his Father, Lead us not into Temptation; and yet he himſelf is now led into the ſame temptation, which we muſt pray againſt: ſurely this is for our inſtruction: we are not to truſt our ſelves upon Temptation; Chriſt himſelf would not go into the Combat uncalled, unwarranted, how then ſhould we poor weaklings preſume upon any abilities of our own? Who dares grapple with the Devil in his own ſtrength? O take heed! If we are to pray not to be led into Temptation, much more are we to pray not to run into Temptation before we are led; and yet for the comfort of God's People, if it be ſo that we are led; if by Divine Permiſſion, or by an inſpiration of the Holy Spirit, we are ingaged in an action, or in a courſe of Life that is full of Temptations, and empty of comforts, let us look upon it as an iſſue of Divine Providence in which we muſt Glorifie God; but no argument of diſfavour or diſlove of God: And why? becauſe Chriſt himſelf who could have driven the Devil away by the breath of his Mouth, yet was, by the Spirit of his Father, led to a Trial by the Spirits of Darkneſs. Jam. 1. 2. My Brethren, count it all joy (ſaith James) when ye enter into divers Temptations, knowing that the Trial of your Faith worketh Patience.

3. The end of the Spirits leading Chriſt into the Wilderneſs, it was either immediate, or remote. 1. For the immediate end; it was to be tempted of the Devil: to this purpoſe was Chriſt brought thither, that Satan might tempt him. One would think it a very ſtrange deſign that the Son of God ſhould be brought into a Wilderneſs to be ſet on by all the Devils in Hell; but in this alſo God had another remote end (i. e.) his own Glory and our good. 1. His own Glory appeared in this; had not Satan tempted Chriſt, how ſhould Chriſt have overcome Satan? The firſt Adam was tempted, and vanquiſhed; the ſecond Adam, to repay and repair that Foil, doth vanquiſh in being tempted; now herein was the Power of Chriſt exceedingly manifeſted; the Devil having the chain let looſe, he lets flie at Chriſt with all his might; and Chriſt, that without blows could not have got a Victory, by this furious aſſault of Satan, he both overcomes him, and triumphs over him. And herein were the Graces of Chriſt exceedingly manifeſted; how was the Faith, Patience, Humility, Zeal and Valour of Chriſt ſet forth, which they could not have been, if he had always lain quietly in Garriſon, and never had come into the Skirmiſh? Who could have felt the Odoriferous ſmells of thoſe Aramatical Spices, if they had not been punned and bruiſed in this Mortar of Temptation? It was by this means that the Graces of Chriſt clearly ſhined fourth to his Eternal Praiſe. 2. As it was for his Glory, ſo alſo for our Good. Now we ſee what manner of Adverſary we have, how he fights, and how he is reſiſted, and how overcome; now we ſee the dearer we are to God, the more obnoxious we are to a trial of Temptation; now we ſee that the beſt of Saints may be tempted or allured to the worſt of Evils: ſince Chriſt himſelf is ſollicited to Infidelity, Covetouſneſs and Idolatry: Now we ſee that we have not a Saviour and High Prieſt, that cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities, but ſuch a one as was in all things tempted in like ſort, yet without ſin; and therefore we may go boldly to the Throne of Grace, that we may receive Mercy, and find Grace of help in time of need. Heb. 4. 15, 16.

4. The time and occaſion of the Devils Onſet; it was at the end of forty days Faſt, and when he was an hungred. Some ſay (as you have heard) that all thoſe forty days, when Chriſt was in the Wilderneſs, he was tempted only inviſibly: for Satan during that time, aſſumed not any viſible or conſpicuous ſhape, which at the end of forty days, (ſay they) he did: my meaning is, not to controvert theſe points. Howſoever for his tempting, yet for his faſting forty days, and forty nights, there is no controverſie; and of that we had ſome Types before Chriſt came into the World; thus Moſes faſted forty days at the delivery of the Law; and Elias faſted forty days at the reſtitution of the Law; and to fulfil the time of both theſe Tipes, Chriſt thinks it fit to faſt forty days at the accompliſhment of the Law, and the promulgation of the Goſpel. In faſting ſo long, Chriſt manifeſts his Almighty Power; and in faſting no longer, Chriſt manifeſts the truth of his Manhood, and of his weakneſs; that he might approve that there was no difference betwixt him and us, but ſin, he both faſted, and was an hungred; we know well enough, that Chriſt could have lived without meat, and he could have faſted without hunger; it had been an eaſie matter for him to have ſupported his Body without any means of nouriſhment or Life; but to ſhew that he was man, as well as God, and ſo fit a Mediator betwixt God and Man, he would both feed and faſt; make uſe of the Creature, and withal ſuffer hunger. ——— And now our Saviour is an hungred. This gives occaſion to Satan to ſet upon him with his fierce and violent temptations. He knows well what baits to fiſh withal, and when, and how to lay them. He hath Temptations of all ſorts. He hath Apples to cozen Children, and Gold for Men. He hath the vanities of the World for the intemperate, and the Kingdoms of the World for the ambitious. He conſiders the temper and conſtitution of the Perſon he is to tempt. And he obſerves all our exterior Accidents, Occaſions, and Opportunities. But of this hereafter.

5. The Temptations themſelves are in number three. Whereof the firſt was this: If thou be the Son of God, command that theſe ſtones be made bread. What an horrible Entrance is this: If thou be the Son of God. No queſtion, Satan had heard the glad tidings of the Angel, he ſaw the ſtar, and the Journey, and the Offerings of the Sages, he could not but take notice of the gratulations of Zachary, Simeon, Anna. And of late, he ſaw the Heavens open, and he heard the Voice that came down from Heaven, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed: And yet, now that he ſaw Chriſt fainting with hunger, as not comprehending how Infirmities could conſiſt with a God-head, he puts it to the queſtion, if thou be the Son of God: Oh! Here's a point in which lies all our Happineſs! How miſerable were we, if Chriſt were not indeed and in truth the Son of God? Satan ſtrikes at the root in this ſuppoſition? If thou be the Son of God: Surely all the work of our Redemption, and all the work of our Salvation depends upon this one neceſſary Truth, that Jeſus Chriſt is the Son of God. If Chriſt had not been the Son of God, how ſhould he have ranſomed the World? How ſhould he have done, or how ſhould he have ſuffered that which was ſatisfactory to his Father's Wrath? How ſhould his Life or Death have been valuable to the ſins of all the World? If Chriſt be not the Son of God, we are all gone; we are loſt, we are undone, we are damned for ever: O alas! Farwel Glory, farewel Happineſs, farewel Heaven: If Chriſt be not the Son of God, we muſt never come there. Well Satan, thou beginneſt thy Aſſault like a Devil indeed. If thou be the Son of God; but what then? Command that theſe ſtones may be made Bread. He knew Jeſus was hungry; and therefore, he invites him to eat Bread only of his own providing, that ſo he might refreſh his Humanity, and prove his Divinity: Come, ſays he, break thy faſt upon the expence of a Miracle, turn theſe ſtones into Bread, and it will be ſome Argument thou art the Son of God. There is nothing more ordinary with our ſpiritual Enemy, than by occaſion of want, to move us to unwarrantable Courſes; If thou art poor, then ſteal: If thou can'ſt not riſe by honeſt means; then uſe indirect means. I know Chriſt might as lawfully have turned ſtones into Bread, as he turned water into wine: But to do this in a diſtruſt of his Father's Providence, to work a Miracle of Satan's choice, and at Satan's bidding it could not be agreeable with the Son of God: And hence Jeſus refuſeth to be relieved; he would rather deny to manifeſt the Divinity of his Perſon, than he would do any act which had in it the intimation of a different Spirit. O Chriſtians! It is a ſinful, impious, wicked care, to take evil courſes to provide for our neceſſities: Come, it may be thou haſt found a way to thrive, which thou couldſt not do before. O take heed; was it not of the Devil's prompting to change ſtones into Bread? Sadneſs into ſenſual Comforts? If ſo, then Satan hath prevailed: Alas, alas, he cannot endure thou ſhoulſt live a life of Auſterity, or ſelf-denial, or of mortification; if he can but get thee to ſatisfie thy ſenſes, and to pleaſe thy natural deſires, he then hath a fair field for the Battel. It were a thouſand times better for us to make ſtones our meat, and tears our drink, than to ſwim in our ill-gotten Goods, and in the fulneſs of Voluptuouſneſs.

But what was Chriſt's Anſwer? Why thus. It is written, Man ſhall not live by Bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the Mouth of God. 1. It is written] He eaſily could have confounded Satan by the Power of his God-head; but he rather chuſes to vanquiſh him by the Sword of the Spirit; ſurely this was for our Inſtruction: By this means, he teacheth us how to reſiſt, and to overcome. Nothing in Heaven or Earth can beat the Forces of Hell, if the Word of God cannot do it: O then, how ſhould we pray with David, Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy ſtatutes——and take not from me the words of truth, let them be my ſongs in the houſe of my pilgrimage,——ſo ſhall I make anſwer to my blaſphemers. 2. Man ſhall not live by bread, &c. Whiles we are in God's Work, God hath made a Promiſe of the ſupply of all proviſions neceſſary for us. Now this was the preſent caſe of Jeſus, he was now in his Father's Work, and promoting of our Intereſt; and therefore, he was ſure to be provided for according to God's Word. Chriſtians! Are we in God's Service? God will certainly give us Bread; and till he does, we can live by the breath of his Mouth, by the light of this Countenance, by the refreſhment of his Promiſes, by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Every Word of God's mouth can create a Grace; and every Grace, can ſupply two neceſſities, both of the Body, and of the Spirit: I remember one kept ſtraitly in Priſon, and ſorely threatned with Famine, he replied, That if he muſt have no Bread, God would ſo provide, that he ſhould have no ſtomach. If our ſtock be ſpent, God can leſſen our neceſſities: If a Tyrant will take away our Meat, God our Father knows how to alter our faint and feeble and hungry Appetites.

The ſecond Temptation is not ſo ſenſual; the Devil ſees that was too low for Chriſt; and therefore he comes again with a Temptation ſomething more Spiritual; He ſets him on a Pinacle of the Temple, Ver. 5, 6. and ſaith unto him, if thou be the Son of God, caſt thy ſelf down; for it is written, he ſhall give his Angels charge concerning thee, &c. He that was content to be led from Jordan into the Wilderneſs, for the advantage of the firſt Temptation, he yields to be led from the Wilderneſs to Jeruſalem, for advantage of the ſecond. The Wilderneſs was fit for a Temptation ariſing from want, and Jeruſalem is fit for a temptation ariſing from vain glory; Jeruſalem was the glory of the World, the Temple was the glory of Jeruſalem; the pinacle was the higheſt piece of the Temple, and there is Chriſt content to be ſet for the opportunity of temptation. O that Chriſt would ſuffer his pure and ſacred Body to be tranſported and hurried through the Air by the malicious hand of the old Tempter! But all this was for us; he cared not what the Devil did in this way with him, ſo that he might but free us from the Devil. Methinks it is a ſweet contemplation of an Holy Divine: He ſuppoſed as if he had ſeen Chriſt on the higheſt Battlements of the Temple, and Satan ſtanding by him, with this Speech in his Mouth: Well then, ſince in the matter of nouriſhment thou wilt need depend upon thy Fathers Providence; take now a further trial of that D. Hall providence, in thy miraculous preſervation: Caſt down thy ſelf from this height; behold, thou art here in Jeruſalem, the famous and Holy City of the World; here thou art on the top of the Pinacle of that Temple, which was dedicated to thy Father; and if thou beeſt God, why, now the Eyes of all men are fix'd upon thee, there cannot be deviſed a more ready way to ſpread thy Glory, and to proclaim thy Deity, than by caſting thy ſelf Head long to the Earth; all the World will ſay, there is more in thee, than a man; and for danger (if thou art the Son of God) there can be none: What can hurt him that is the Son of God; And wherefore ſerves that glorious Guard of Angels, which have by Divine Commiſſion taken upon them the Charge of thy Humanity? Come, caſt thy ſelf down; here lies the temptation, Come, caſt thy ſelf down (ſaith Satan) but why did not Satan caſt him down? He carried him up thither; and was it not more eaſie to throw him down thence? O no, the Devil may perſwade us to a fall, but he cannot precipitate us without our own Act; his malice is infinite, but his power is limited; he cannot do us any harm, but by perſwading us to do it our ſelves; and therefore ſaith he to Chriſt, caſt Ver. 7. thy ſelf down.

To this Chriſt anſwers, Thou ſhalt not tempt the Lord thy God. Though it is true, that God muſt be truſted in, yet he muſt not be tempted; if means be allowed, we muſt not throw them away upon a pretence of God's protection. We read of one Heron, an Inhabitant of the Deſert, that he ſuffered the ſame temptation, and was overcome by it; he would needs caſt himſelf down, preſuming on God's promiſe, and he ſinfully died with his fall. Chriſt knew well enough that there were ordinary deſcents by ſtairs from the top of the Temple, and therefore he would not ſo tempt God to throw himſelf head-long: What? To make trial of God's Power, and Juſtice, and Mercy, and ex-

traodinary preſervation, where there was no need: All the Devils in Hell could not tempt Chriſt, as to make him tempt his God

The third temptation is yet more horrid; the Temple was not high enough; ſo that now Satan takes him up to the top of an exceeding high Ver. 8, 9. mountain, and he ſhews him all the Kingdoms of the World, and the Glory of them, ſaying, All theſe will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worſhip me. Now to inſiſt on thoſe many Queries; how ſhould all the Kingdoms of the World be preſented to Chriſt's eye? Or if they were only preſented to his imagination, why could not the valley have ſerved the Devil's turn, as well as an Hill? Or whether was not Rome the Object that the Devil preſented? Becauſe at that time, Rome was the top of all the Kingdoms of the World, and the Glory of them? For my part, I think, in this Temptation, the Devil united all his Power of ſtratagems, and by an Angelical Power he drew into one Center, the ſeveral Species and Ideas, from all the Kingdoms and Glories of the World; and he made an admirable Map of Beauties? and repreſented them to the Eyes of Jeſus; he thought Ambition more likely to ruin him, becauſe he knew it wasthat which prevailed upon himſelf, and all thoſe fallen Stars, the Angels of darkneſs: and therefore, Come (ſaith Satan) all theſe will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worſhip me. How? God worſhip the Devil? was ever the like Blaſphemy ſince the firſt Creation? Indeed now we have many fearful, execrable, curſed Blaſphemies belched out, and Idolatry, I believe, is the ſpreading'ſt ſin in the World. But was ever the like Blaſphemy, or Idolatry to this, that not only a Creature, but the Creator himſelf muſt fall down before the Devil, and give worſhip unto him? The Lamb of God, that heard all the former Temptations with patience; he could by no means indure this; our own injuries are opportunities of patience; but when the Glory of God, and his immediate Honour is the queſtion, then our Zeal ſhould be all on a flame; now Chriſt bids him avoid; as ſoon as he obſerves his demands ſo impudent and Blaſphemous; he commands him away, and tells him, It is Ver. 10. written, thou ſhalt worſhip the Lord thy God, and him only ſhalt thou ſerve. Now was the Devil put to flight, and in his ſtead the Angels came and miniſtred unto Jeſus; (i. e.) after his Faſt, they miniſter ſuch things as his neceſſities required of them.

Uſe. O Chriſtians! what ſhall we ſay to this? If Chriſt was thus tempted by Satan, what may we look for. Sometimes it chears my Heart to think that Chriſt was tempted; becauſe thereby he knows how to ſuccour thoſe that are tempted; and ſometimes it affrights my Soul to think that Satan durſt be ſo bold with Jeſus Chriſt. Oh what may he do with me? how eaſily may he prevail againſt my Soul? when he came to tempt Chriſt, he found nothing in him to join with him in the Temptation, but in my Heart is a world of Corruptions; and unleſs the Lord prevent, I am quickly gone. I may not here fall on the Doctrine of Temptations; only a few words. 1. Of Satans Stratagems. 2. Of ſome general means to withſtand his Stratagems, and I have done.

1. His Stratagems are very many, and very dangerous? As————

1. He obſerves, and fits his Temptations to our diſpoſitions; for example, if he find a Man ambitiouſly affected, then he covers his Hook with the Bait of Honours? and thus he tempted Abimelech to murder his Brethren, that he might obtain the Soveraignty; or if he find a man Voluptuouſly given, then he tempts him with the Bait of Pleaſures and thus he allured Noah to Drunkenneſs; David to Adultery: Solomon to Idolatry: Or if he find a Man Covetouſly given, then he lets in the Golden hook: And thus he inticed Balaam, by offering him money to curſe the People, whom God had Bleſſed; and thus he allured Judas for thirty pieces of Silver to betray his Maſter; but what need we Inſtances, when we ſee this day ſo many thouſand intangled in this golden Net.

2. He obſerves, and fits his Temptations to our Complexions; and thus he tempts the Cholerick to quarrels and brawls; the flegmatick to idleneſs and ſloath; the Melancholy to malice and revenge; the Sanguine to pleaſure and fleſhly Luſts; and hence it is that the Apoſtle tells us, that whoſoever is tempted, Jam. 1. 14. he is drawn away by his own Concupiſcence. Satan never aſſaults us, but he is ſure there is ſomething within us that will further him in his Temptations.

3. He obſerves, and fits his Temptations to our outward condition; thus if we are in proſperity, then he tempts us to pride and forgetfulneſs of God, to contempt of our Brethren, to the love of the World, to coldneſs in Religion, carnal ſecurity, and the like: Or if we are in adverſity, then he tempts us to the uſe of unlawful means, to the diſtruſting of God's all-ruling Providence, and never deceiving-promiſes; or, it may be, to deſpair, murmur, and repining againſt God; by this Temptation he confidently preſumed to have moved Chriſt to diſtruſt God's providence, and to ſhift for himſelf, by turning Stones into Bread.

4. He obſerves and fits his Temptations to our ſpiritual eſtate; thus, if we are notoriouſly wicked, then he tempts us to Atheiſm, contempt of God's worſhip, Swearing, Blaſpheming, prophaning of the Lords days; to Diſobedience, Murders, Adulteries, Drunkenneſs, Theft, Covetouſneſs, and all deviliſh Practices; or if we are Civilized, and run not with others into ſuch an exceſs of Riot and Sin, why then he tempts us to a good opinion of ſuch a condition; I thank thee O Father, that I am not as other men, &c. I deal juſtly and uprightly with all my Neighbours; I have a good meaning towards God, though I am ignorant of Scripture, and of the Principles of Religion: Or if we are profeſſors of God's Truth, and can tip our Tongues with Glorious words of Religion, Holineſs, Chriſt, why, then he tempts us with reſting on this: What needs more? If I can but outwardly perform the Duties of Piety, as the hearing of God's word, receiving of the Sacraments publick and private calling on God; in this, I am a true Proteſtant, that Charity, Love, good works, and all the duties of the ſecond Table can never juſtifie me, or ſave me, but only Faith; I believe, and I make profeſſion of Religion, and I hope this will ſuffice: Or if we are ſincere profeſſors, and but weak in the Faith, why, then he tempts us with ſad thoughts of our ſins; he ſets before us their number, and nature, and odiouſneſs in every aggravation; and if therewith he cannot overwhelm us, he adds (it may be) unto them ſome of his own ſins; thus he caſteth into our minds many outragious Blaſphemies, ſuch Blaſphemies as he propounded to Chriſt, to worſhip him for our God, to deny Jeſus Chriſt as our God, our Lord, our Saviour, our Redeemer; to ſay in our Hearts there is no God, but Nature; no Scripture, no holy Ghoſt: many a precious Soul feels theſe injections of Satan; and I cannot wonder at it, when I ſee the Devil tempting Chriſt himſelf to diffidence, preſumption, vain Glory, yea, and to the worſhipping of the Devil himſelf: Or if we are ſtrong Chriſtians, grown men, and ſtill growing towards the fulneſs of Chriſt, why, then he tempts us to ſins of preſumption againſt knowledge, or if he cannot ſo prevail, he will Transform himſelf into an Angel of light, and 2 Cor. 11. 14.

tempt us to the doing a leſs good, that we may neglect a greater; or to the doing of a greater good, but very unſeaſonably. When as ſome other duties in reſpect of preſent occaſion are more neceſſary far; thus many times in the hearing of God's word, he will caſt into our minds meditations of this or that excellent ſubject, on purpoſe to diſtract our minds, and to make us here without profit; and in Prayer to God, he will bring into our memories this or that profitable inſtruction, which we have heard at ſuch, or ſuch a Sermon, on purpoſe to diſturb our Spirits in that holy exerciſe, and to keep us from lifting up our Hearts wholly and purely unto God: I might add a thouſand of theſe Stratagems of the Devil, and yet not perhaps tell one of a Thouſand: the Apoſtle could ſay indeed, that he was not 2 Cor. 2. 11. ignorant of his devices; and of ſome of his devices, you ſee, we are not ignorant; but alas! who can diſco- Eph.6. 11. ver all his Methods, Wiles, Depths, fiery Darts? For Rev. 2.24. my part I cannot do it, I am yet to learn. Eph.6. 16.

2. The general means to withſtand his Stratagems are ſuch as theſe.——

1. A continual reminding of Chriſt's Commands Eph 6. 10, 11. in this very thing; Be ſtrong in the Power of his might: put on the whole Armour of God, that ye may be able to 1 Pet.5.8. ſtand againſt the wiles of the Devil; him reſiſt in the Faith.

2. An avoiding of the firſt ſuggeſtions of Satan; if this gliding Serpent can but thruſt in his Head, he will eaſily make room for his body; and therefore Eph.4.27. we muſt nip, and bruiſe him in the Head; Give no place to the Devil.

3. An objecting of Chriſt againſt all his Temptations; for example, if Satan tell us that we are Mat.9.13. miſerable ſinners; we may anſwer, that Chriſt came Iſa. 53. 5. into the World to ſave Sinners; and that he was wounded for our Tranſgreſſions, and broken for our iniquities,——and with his ſtripes are we healed. If Satan tell us that we are ſubject to God's Wrath; we may anſwer, that Chriſt did bear his Fathers Wrath, that he might make our peace. If he tells us, that we are ſubject to the Curſe of the Law; we may anſwer, Gal.3. 13. that Chriſt hath redeemed us from the Curſe of the Law, when he was made a Curſe for us. If he tell us, that we are his bond-ſlaves, we may anſwer, that we were ſo indeed in times paſt; but Chriſt hath paid his Father the price of our Redemption, and hath ſet us free. If he tell us, that we are unjuſt, and therefore ſhall be condemned before God's judgment-ſeat; we may anſwer, that Chriſt, who was innocent, was therefore condemned, that we, who are guilty, might thereby be acquitted; and that he that came to ſave us, will himſelf judge us, and therefore we need not doubt of mercy, if we plead the merits of Chriſt: or if Satan will not be thus anſwerd by us; why then Chriſtians? there's no other way, but to ſend him to Chriſt. To this purpoſe, we may tell him that Chriſt is our Advocate; and if he will needs diſpute, let him go to Jeſus; he is both able to plead our cauſe, and to anſwer to all the Suits that are made againſt us.

4. I may add hearing, reading, meditating on God's Word, holy Conferences, buſie imployment in the works of our particular callings; living by Faith. I muſt not ſtay on all theſe means, only re- Mat. 26. 41. member amongſt the reſt, that one of Chriſt: Watch and Pray, that ye enter not into temptation. Praying againſt it, is a denying of it, and a great part of the Victory; for it is a diſclaiming the entertainment of it; it is a poſitive rejection of the crime; it is a calling in auxiliaries from above, to make the Victory more certain to us. Hence one ſweetly adviſeth, If Temptation ſets upon thee, do thou ſet upon God; for he is as ſoon overcome as thou art; as ſoon moved to good, as thou art to evil, he is as quickly invited to pity thee, as thou art to ask him; provided thou doſt not finally reſt in the Petition, but paſs into action, and endeavour by all means to quench the Flame newly kindled in thy Bowels, before it come to devour the Marrow that is in thy bones. Indeed a ſtrong Prayer, and a lazy, incurious, unobſervant walking are contradictions in Religion; and therefore Watch and Pray, and pray and watch.

Sect. 5. Of the firſt Manifeſtation of Chriſt.

4. FOR the firſt Manifeſtation of Jeſus by his ſeveral witneſſes; now it was time that the Sun of Righteouſneſs ſhould ariſe, and ſhine in the view of the World: and (becauſe of unbelief which had blinded the World) that ſome eſpecial witneſſes ſhould be choſen out, both to anoint our Eyes, and to point to the Light, ſaying, This is he of whom Moſes in the Law and the Prophets did write, Jeſus of Nazareth the Son of Joſeph. To this purpoſe we read John 1.45 much of the Manifeſtation of Jeſus; God was manifeſt 1 Tim. 3. 16. in the Fleſh. And Chriſt verily was fore-ordained be- 1 Pet.1.20 fore the Foundations of the World, but was manifeſted in theſe laſt times for you. In that firſt Miracle that ever he wrought, this is written upon it, he manifeſted forth his Glory. John 2.11 And John the Divine, in his ſetting out of Jeſus, he tells us, that the Life was manifeſted; 1 Joh.1.2. and we have ſeen it, and bear witneſs, and ſhew unto you that eternal Life which was with the Father, and was manifeſted unto us.

And there is reaſon for this manifeſtation. 1. Becauſe every manifeſtation was an approbation of his Miſſion and Divinity. 2. Becauſe in the manifeſtation of Chriſt, there was a manifeſtation of the Grace of God; and this was the Will of God, that he would not only act free Grace, but he would have it known, and publiſhed to all the World; this is the Glory of Grace, and ſets it out: And therefore, ſaith the Apoſtle, The Grace of God that bringeth Salvation, Tit. 2. 11. hath appeared to all men. At the opening and diſcovery of Jeſus Chriſt, the kindneſs, and pity, and love of Tit. 3. 4. God our Saviour towards man appeared. 3. Becauſe this manifeſtation hath ſomething in it of the removal of Sin; it is the Voice of Chriſt unto ſuch as are in ſin, Behold me; the firſt ſtep towards the remiſſion of Iſa. 65. 1. Sins, is the beholding of Chriſt; now we cannot behold him that will not come into view: And therefore ſaith the Apoſtle, Ye know that he was manifeſted to 1 Joh.3.8. take away our Sins. 4. Becauſe this manifeſtation hath ſomething in it to the overthrowing of Satan; for the while that Chriſt hid himſelf, Satan blinded the minds of men; but when once Chriſt the Image of God ſhone forth, then Satan, like Lightning fell down from Heaven; For this purpoſe the Son of God was manifeſted, that he might deſtroy the works of the Devil. 1. Joh.3.8. 5. Becauſe this manifeſtation tends to our believing in Chriſt, and by conſequence to our Salvation through Chriſt: Many ſigns Chriſt did in the preſence John. 20. 30, 31. of his Diſciples which are not written; but theſe are written (ſaith John) that ye might believe that Jeſus is Chriſt the Son of God; and that believing, ye might have Life through his Name.

Well, but wherein was this firſt manifeſtation of Jeſus? I anſwer, in thoſe ſeveral witneſſes that held him forth. It is written in the Law (ſaith Chriſt) that John 1.17 the Teſtimony of two men is true; but to manifeſt Chriſt, were many witneſſes. As, 1. From Heaven the Father is witneſs: For ſee, ſaith Chriſt, the Father that ſent me, beareth witneſs of me: And the Joh. 8.18. Son is witneſs; for ſo ſaith Chriſt: I am one that bear Joh.8. 14. witneſs of my ſelf; and though I bear record of my ſelf, yet my record is true; for I know whence I came, and whither I go: And the Holy Ghoſt is witneſs; ſo ſaith Paul: The Holy Ghoſt alſo is a witneſs to us: and to that Heb. 10. 19. purpoſe he deſcended like a Dove, and light upon him. 2. On Earth John the Baptiſt is witneſs: for ſo ſaith Chriſt; ye ſent unto John, and he bare witneſs unto the truth, Mat.3.16. Joh. 5.33. John 1. 7. he came for a witneſs, to bear witneſs of the Light, that all men through Chriſt might believe. No ſooner was John confirmed by a Sign from Heaven, that Jeſus was the Chriſt, but he immediately manifeſts it to the Jews; and firſt to the Prieſts and Levites ſent in legation from the Sanhedrim: he profeſſed indefinitely in anſwer to their queſtion, that himſelf was not the Chriſt, nor Elias, nor that Prophet, whom they by a ſpecial tradition expected to be revealed, though they knew not when; and ſecondly, to all the People he profeſſeth definitely, whereſoever he ſaw Jeſus Chriſt, this is he: Yea, he points him out with his finger, Behold the Lamb of God that takes away the Sins of the World. Joh. 1.29. Then he ſhews him to Andrew, Simon Peter's Brother, and then to another Diſciple with him, Joh. 1.39. who both followed Jeſus, and abode with him all night. Andrew brings his Brother Simon with him, and Chriſt changes his Name from Simon to Peter, or Ver.42. Cephas, which ſignifies a Stone. Then Jeſus himſelf Ver.43. finds out Philip of Bethſaida, and bade him follow him; Ver.44. and Philip finds out Nathanael, and bids him come and ſee, for the Meſſiah was found; when Nathanael came to Jeſus, Chriſt ſaw his Heart, and gave him a bleſſed Character; Behold an Iſraelite indeed, in whom there is no guile. Ver.47. Thus we ſee no leſs than five Diſciples found out at firſt, which muſt be as ſo many witneſſes of Jeſus Chriſt.

Joh. 10. 25. And yet we find more witneſſes; The works (ſaith Chriſt) that I do, in my Fathers Name, they bear witneſs of me. Theſe Works or Miracles of Chriſt were many; but becauſe we are ſpeaking of his firſt manifeſtation, I ſhall inſtance only in his firſt work, which was at a Marriage in Cana of Galilee. The power of Miracles had now ceaſed ſince their return out of Captivity; the laſt Miracle that was done by man till this very time, was Daniel's tying up the Mouth of the Lions; and now Chriſt begins. He that made the firſt Marriage in Paradiſe, beſtows his firſt Miracle upon a Marriage-Feaſt. O happy Feaſt, where Chriſt is a Gueſt! I believe this was no rich or ſumptuous Bridal; whoever found Chriſt at the Magnificent Feaſts, or Triumphs of the great? The State of a Servant (in which ſtate Chriſt was) doth not well agree with the proud Pomp of the World. This poor needy Bridegroom wants drink for his Gueſts; and as ſoon as the Holy Virgin hath notice of it, ſhe complains to her Son: Whether we want Bread, or Water, or Wine, Neceſſaries, or Comforts, whither ſhould we go but to Chriſt? The Lord is my Shepherd; and if that be ſo, it will ſurely follow, Pſal. 23.1. I ſhall not want: But Jeſus anſwered her, Woman, What John 2. 4. have I to do with thee? Mine Hour is not yet come. This ſhews, that the work he was to do, muſt not be done to ſatisfie her importunity, but to proſecute the great work of divine deſignation. In works ſpiritual and religious, all outward relation ceaſeth: Matters of Miracle concerned the God-head only; and in this caſe, O Woman, What have I to do with thee? We muſt not deny Love, and Duty to Relations; but in the things of God, natural endearments muſt paſs into ſpiritual; and like Stars, in the preſence of the Sun, muſt not appear. Paul could ſay, Henceforth know we no man after the fleſh; yea, though we have known Chriſt after the fleſh, yet now henceforth know we him no more. 2 Cor. 5. 16.

At the Command of Jeſus, the Water pots were filled with Water, and the Water by his Divine Power is turned into Wine; where the different diſpenſation of God and the World is highly obſervable: Every Man ſets forth good Wine at firſt, and then the worſe: But Chriſt not only turns Water into Wine, but into ſuch Wine that at the laſt Draught is moſt pleaſant. The World preſents us with fair hopes of Pleaſures, Honours, and Preferments, but there's bitterneſs in the end: every Sin ſmiles in the firſt addreſs; but when we have well drunk, then comes that which is worſe; only Chriſt turns our Water into Wine; if we fill our Water-pots with Water; if with David, we water our Couch with our Tears for Sin, Chriſt will come with the Wine of gladneſs ſooner or later, and he will give the beſt Wine at the laſt. O how delicate is that new Wine, which we ſhall one day drink with Chriſt in his Fathers Kingdom? Theſe were the firſt manifeſtations of Jeſus: You ſee he had ſeveral witneſſes to ſet him forth; ſome from Heaven, and ſome on Earth: The Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt witneſs from Heaven: The Baptiſt, Diſciples, and his Works witneſs on Earth; and there's no diſagreement in their witneſs, but all bring in this Teſtimony of Jeſus, that he is the Meſſiah; that is being interpreted, the Chriſt. Joh. 1.41.

Uſe. But what are thoſe manifeſtations to us? Or to that great deſign of Chriſt in carrying on our Souls Salvation? Much every way. For either muſt Chriſt be manifeſted to us even by theſe witneſſes, in the Preaching of the Goſpel, and manifeſted in us by that one witneſs, his holy Spirit, or we are undone for ever.

1. Chriſt muſt be manifeſted to us in the Preaching of the Goſpel. This mercy we have this day; nay, you ſee every Sabbath day all the witneſſes ſpeak in us. What do we, but in God's ſtead, in the Baptiſt's ſtead, in the Diſciples ſtead, manifeſt Chriſt to you in every Sermon? It is the Commiſſion which Chriſt hath given us of the Miniſtry, Go, Preach the Goſpel to every Creature. Mar. 16. 15. Obſerve but how open Chriſt's Heart is towards you; he cannot contain his Love and Grace within himſelf, he cannot keep his own Counſels, that are for the good of your Souls, but all muſt be manifeſt, and that in the openeſt way, by Preaching and Proclaiming them to the World: Chriſt muſt be laid out to open view: Chriſt will have nothing of his Love kept back; he wills and commands us of the Miniſtry, inſtead of all thoſe former witneſſes, to make all known what he is, and what he hath done and ſuffered for you. Oh Chriſtians! how cheap are the Myſteries of the Goſpel to you-ward? You may know them, if you will but lend an Ear, and liſten to them: The word is nigh you, even in your Mouths; Chriſt is proclaimed in your very Streets; you may have him if you will, without Money, or Money-worth. Come, buy Wine, and Milk without Money, and without Price. Iſa. 55.1. Do you not hear? Chriſt is laid open for every man's good and profit: Chriſt deals not under-hand with you; he muſt be manifeſted, that you may ſee what you buy: If I ſhould tell you the meaning of the Commiſſion which Chriſt hath put into our Hands, he bids me ſay thus to your Souls, Come poor Creatures, you that ſtand in need of Jeſus Chriſt, here is Chriſt for you; take him and do with him in an holy manner what you will, he is of infinite uſe for Wiſdom, Righteouſneſs, Sanctification, and Redemption. What is our Preaching, but a manifeſting of Chriſt in this manner? What is the ſum of all our Sermons, but a Diſcovery of this, that Life and Light is in Chriſt for you, that eternal Love waits and attends on you, that whatever may do you good, is provided and made ready for you? Oh will Souls now refuſe Chriſt, when thus and thus manifeſted? God forbid.

2. Chriſt muſt be manifeſted in us by his Holy Spirit. Chriſtians! look to your Hearts; what manifeſtations of Chriſt are there? When Paul ſpeaks of the Goſpel in general, he adds in particular, that it pleaſed God to reveal Chriſt in me. Gal.1.16. And when Peter ſpeaks of the Word of God, he adds that we take heed thereunto ——until the day dawn, and the day ſtar (that is, Chriſt, Rev. 22. 16.) ariſe in your Hearts; till then, though 2 Pet. 1. 10. Rev. 22. 16.

though we be circled with Goſpel diſcoveries, our Hearts will be full of darkneſs; but when Chriſt Mal. 4. 2. whom the Prophet calls the Son of Righteouſneſs, and Peter the day-ſtar ſhall ariſe within us, we ſhall be full of Light. Sometimes, I confeſs, I wonder that in theſe days there ſhould be ſuch glorious diſcoveries of the Beauties, and ſweetneſs, and excellencies of Jeſus Chriſt, and yet that mens Hearts are generally ſo full of darkneſs: But this takes off the wonder, John 1. 5. Hearts are carnal, Light ſhines in Darkneſs, but darkneſs comprehendeth it not. Lead a Blind Man through a glorious City, and though there be ſuch and ſuch things in it, yet he tells you, he cannot prize them; Rev. 21. 2. he ſees them not; though Jeruſalem ſhould come down from God out of Heaven (as John ſaw it in his Viſion) prepared as a Bride adorned for her Husband; yet the natural man ſees neither Walls, nor Gates, nor Streets: you may tell him, all is Gold, and Jaſper, and Precious Stones, but for all this, he cannot prize them; alas, he ſees them not: How many glorious Objects do the unregenerate ſlight? They ſee no Beauty in Jeſus Chriſt; they feel no ſweet in Ordinances, the Sabbath is a trouble, and no delight to them; and whence all this? It is becauſe there is no Light, no manifeſtation of Chriſt within them; the Spirit of Chriſt hath not witneſſed Chriſt, hath not manifeſted Chriſt within their Souls, and therefore they remain in darkneſs.

Sect. 6. Of Chriſt's Whipping the Buyers and Sellers out of the Temple.

5. CONcerning Chriſt's whipping the Buyers and Sellers out of the Temple: we read in the John 2. 13. Goſpel, That the Jews Paſſover being at hand, Jeſus went up to Jeruſalem: Thither, if we follow him, the firſt place that we find him in, is the Temple; where, by the occaſion of the National Aſſembly, was an opportune Scene for Chriſt's Tranſactions of his Fathers buſineſs. In that Temple Chriſt firſt eſpies a Mart; there were divers Merchants, and Exchangers of Money, that brought Beaſts thither to be ſold for Sacrifice againſt that great Solemnity; at the ſight of which, Jeſus being moved with Zeal and Indignation, he makes a Whip of Cords, and according to the Cuſtom of the Zealots of the Nation, he takes upon him the Office of a private inflicter of puniſhment, he drives them all out of the Temple, he overthrows the accounting Tables, and commands them that ſold the Doves, to take them from thence; and being required to give a ſign of this Fact; he only foretels the Reſurrection of his Body, after three days death, expreſſing it in the Metaphor of the Temple, which was never rightly underſtood till it was accompliſhed.

In this Heroical Act, we may ſee how Chriſt is carried on with a Zeal for God, inſomuch, that it Pſal. 69. 9. brings to mind that ſaying of the Pſalmiſt, The Zeal of thine Houſe hath eaten me up; a Metaphor taken from Men that receive nouriſhment, which after its ſeveral concoctions, is aſſimilated into the nature of them that receive it. Zeal doth totally ſurprize us in what concerns God, in our Zeal we do ſo mind the things of God, as if we minded nothing elſe. To what Dangers, Hazards, and Cenſures, did Chriſt here in the exerciſe of the Zeal expoſe himſelf? His eminent Zeal appears,——

1. In the weakneſs of his means, whereby he did both attempt, and effect the work: we find him not armed with any weapons, that might carry dread and terrour with them; at moſt but with a Whip made of a few ſmall Cords, which probably were ſcattered by the Drovers which came thither to ſell their Cattel.——2. In the Strength that the oppoſite power did hold out, which makes the encounter ſo much the more dangerous; As, 1. A Garriſon of Soldiers ready at hand, to appeaſe occaſional Tumults. 2. The temper of thoſe mens Spirits with Cham. in loc. whom the buſineſs was; they were men ſet upon gain, the World's God. 3. The great Confluence of the people, it being the moſt ſolemn Mart of the Paſſover. O what a Zeal was this! that neither the weakneſs of the means, on the one ſide, to effect it, nor the greatneſs of the power, on the other ſide, to hinder it, did at all diſmay him, or cauſe him to deſiſt; ſeem he never ſo weak, or be they never ſo ſtrong, he whips them out of the Temple, and bids them be gone.

This Action of Chriſt fulfils the Prophecy of Malachy, Mal. 3. 1, 2, 3. The Lord whom ye ſeek ſhall ſuddenly come to his Temple; but who may abide the day of his coming? And who ſhall ſtand when he appeareth? For he is like Refiners Fire, and like Fullers Soap; and he ſhall ſit as a Refiner and Purifier of Silver, and he ſhall purifie the Sons of Levi, and purge them as Gold and as Silver, that they may offer unto the Lord an Offering in Righteouſneſs.

From the main we may obſerve, that a perſwaſion of Chriſt's preſence in our Church Aſſemblies; is a ſpecial means or motive to bring all into order.

But what is this preſence of Chriſt in Church Aſſemblies? If by Chriſt's preſence, we mean his bodily preſence, it is true, that Chriſt in his Humanity, whipped the Buyers and Sellers out of the Temple of Jeruſalem; then in his Manhood he was upon Earth, and accordingly he vouchſafed his bodily preſence to their aſſemblies and publick places: But now his Manhood is in Heaven; and the Heavens muſt contain Acts 3. 21. him, till the times of reſtitution of all things. Now therefore we cannot expect his bodily preſence, unleſs we will maintain the Doctrine of Tranſubſtantiation or of Conſubſtantiation; which far be it from us.

2. If by Chriſt's preſence, we mean his ſpiritual preſence; then the queſtion is, What is this ſpiritual preſence of Chriſt? For if we ſay, it is his preſence as he is God, I ſhould then query how God is ſaid, to be preſent with men in one place more than another? God in his eſſence is fully every where, and incluſively no where: Heaven is his Throne, and Earth is his Foot-ſtool, and yet nor Earth, nor Heaven, nor the Heaven of Heavens is able to contain him: whiles we ſpeak ſpiritually of Chriſt's preſence in the aſſemblies of his People, we cannot mean his Univerſal preſence, but his ſpecial preſence; and therefore as yet I ſuppoſe we have not the meaning of it.

3. If by Chriſt's preſence we mean the preſence of his Spirit either in himſelf, or eſpecially in his workings, ſtirrings, actings and movings in our ſpirit, I ſhould then ſubſcribe; only I think this is not all that is included in his eſpecial preſence; true it is, that when Chriſt was upon Earth, he told his Diſciples that he muſt go away; for if he went not away, the Comforter would not come unto them; But if I depart Joh. 16. 7. (ſaith he) I will ſend him unto you; and accordingly, when that Church Aſſembly was convened at Pentecoſt, God ſent the Holy Ghoſt; much people being then gathered at Jeruſalem, that it might be divulged to all the World. To all the Aſſemblies of the Saints, Chriſt promiſed his Spirit, though not always in a viſible manner; Where two or three are gathered to- Mat. 8. 20. gether in my name (ſaith Chriſt) there I am in the midſt of them. Chriſt in his Spirit is in the midſt of us, ſtirring and moving in our Spirits: Or the Spirit of Unity is with united Spirits. O he is a ſweet Spirit, a Spirit of Love, and Concord, and Peace, and Glory; and therefore where ſhould he be but with thoſe that make Harmony upon Earth? He is with them, and amongſt them, and in them; Know ye not that ye are 1 Cor. 3. 16. the Temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you, and worketh in you?

4. If by Chriſt's preſence, we mean the preſence of his Angels, I ſhall then ſay we have ſaid enough; as a King is ſaid to be where his Court is, where his Train or Retinue are, ſo Chriſt the King of Kings is there eſpecially preſent, where the Heavenly Guard, the bleſſed Angels keep their ſacred Station and Roudezvouz, whereſoever it is. Now that this is Chriſt's ſpecial preſence, it will appear in ſundry Texts.

1. When Jacob ſaw that viſion in Bethel, of the Ladder reaching from Earth to Heaven, and of the Angels of God aſcending and deſcending upon it, Gen. 28. 16, 17. Surely (ſaith Jacob) the Lord is in this place, and I knew it not; and he was afraid, and ſaid, how dreadful is this place? this is none other but the Houſe of God, and this is the Gate of Heaven: He calls it God's Houſe, where God and his holy Angels, who are of his Houſhold are eſpecially preſent; and he calls it the Gate of Heaven, Heaven's Guild-Hall, Heaven's Court, namely, becauſe of the Angels; for the Gate, Guild-Hall, or Court was wont to be the Judgment-Hall, and the place where Kings and Senators uſed to ſit, attended by their Guard and Miniſters. The Chaldee addeth, This is no common or private place, but a place wherein God taketh pleaſure, and over againſt this place is the Gate of Heaven.

2. When the Lord deſcended upon Mount Sinai to give the Law, ſome place the ſpecification of God's preſence in the Angels, to which purpoſe are alledged theſe Texts; Acts 7. 53. Who have received the Law by the diſpoſition of Angels, and have not kept it: And again, Gal. 3. 19. The Law was ordained by Angels in the Hand of a Mediator. Heb. 2. 2. Again, the Apoſtle calls the Law the Word ſpoken by Angels. I have already delivered my thoughts concerning theſe Angels; but ſome (I ſay) conclude from hence, that the ſpecial preſence of the Divine Majeſty conſiſts in the encamping of his ſacred Retinue, the bleſſed Angels; for that the Lord of himſelf, who filleth Heaven and Earth, could not deſcend, or be in one place more than another. There's yet another Text very pertinent to this. Deut. 33. 2 And he ſaid, the Lord came from Sinai, and roſe up from Seir unto them, he ſhined forth from Mount Paran, and he came with Ten thouſands of his Saints, from his right Hand went a fiery Law for them. The words Tranſlated Ten thouſand of his Saints, are in the Original Ten thouſands of Sanctity, or holy Ten Thouſands, or holy Myriads; which in my apprehenſion, points to the Angels, rather than his Saints: And the Pſalmiſt Pſ. 68. 17. puts it out of queſtion: The Charriots of God are Twenty Thouſand, even Thouſands of Angels, the Lord is among them, as in Sinai, in the holy Place.

3. After the Law given, this preſence of God was fixed to the Temple; and what that was, Iſaiah Iſa. 6. 1, 2. deſcribes thus: I ſaw alſo the Lord ſitting upon a Throne, high, and lifted up, and his Train filled the Temple; about it ſtood the Ceraphims; They were God's Train, and they filled the Temple. And hence David's Addreſſes to God were ſaid to be in the preſence of Angels: Pſal. 128. 1, 2. Before the Gods will I ſing praiſes to thee, I will worſhip towards thy Holy Temple. The Septuagint Tranſlates it thus ἐναντίον ἀγγέλων, before the Angels. I know in the time of the Goſpel, we do not ſo fix God's preſence to our Temples, or places of publick aſſembling for the worſhip of his Name; but to our Church-aſſemblies in ſuch places, why may we not? Were the Rudiments of the Law worthy of an attendance of Angels, and are the Churches of the Goſpel deſtitute of ſo glorious a Retinue? Did the bleſſed Spirits wait upon the Types, and do they decline the Office at the Miniſtration of the ſubſtance? Is the Nature of Man made worſe, ſince the Incarnation of the Son of God? Or have the Angels purchaſed an exemption from their Miniſtry, ſince Chriſt became our Brother in the Fleſh? We have little reaſon to think ſo; the Apoſtle treating of a comely and decent demeanour to be obſerved in Church-Aſſemblies, and in particular, of Womens being covered or veiled there, he enforces it from this preſence of Angels. 1 Cor. 11. 10. For this cauſe ought the Woman to have a Covering on her Head, becauſe of the Angels; namely, which are there preſent. Upon this ground, Chryſoſtome reproves the irreverent behaviour of his Auditory; Chryſ. hom. 16. in 1 Cor. hom. 15. in Heb. The Church (ſaith he) is not a Shop of Manufactures or Merchandiſe, but the place of Angels, and of Archangels, the Court of God, and the Image and repreſentment of Heaven it ſelf —— I know thou ſeeſt them not; but hear, and know that Angels are every where, and eſpecially in the Houſe of God, where they attend upon their King, and where all is filled with incorporeal powers. By this time, I hope, we know what is the meaning of Chriſt's preſence in Church-aſſemblies; to wit, the preſence of his Spirit, and the preſence of his Angels.

Uſe. And if it be ſo, would not a perſwaſion of this preſence of Chriſt in our Church-aſſemblies, be a ſpecial means or motive to bring all into order? Sometimes I wonder at the irreverent carriage of ſome Hearers, Laughing, Talking, Prating, Sleeping, in our Congregations: What, is this a demeanour beſeeming the preſence of Angels and the Spirit of Chriſt? wouldſt thou carry thy ſelf thus in the preſence of a Prince, or of ſome earthly Majeſty? If thou goeſt but into a King's Palace (as Chryſoſtome ſpeaks) Chryſ. ibid. thou compoſeſt thy ſelf to a comlineſs in thy habit, look, gate, and all thy guiſe, and doſt thou laugh? I may add, doſt thou any way carry thy ſelf undecently in God's Preſence? Some there are, that in the very midſt of Ordinances the Devil uſually rocks them aſleep; but Oh! Doſt thou not fear that thy Damnation ſleeps not? how juſtly might Chriſt come againſt thee in his Wrath, and Whip thee out of the Temple into Hell? Surely we ſhould do well to behave our ſelves in ſuch a preſence with the thoughts and apprehenſions of Heaven about us; our buſineſs here is an errand of Religion, and God himſelf is the object of our worſhip: How then ſhould our actions bear at leaſt ſome few degrees of a proportionable addreſs to God, and Chriſt, and the Spirit of Chriſt? What? Is Chriſt's Preſence in his Spirit, and his Angels here? Oh let us walk with God as Enoch did, Gen. 5. 22. let us do all we do as in the Preſence of Chriſt, and his Holy Angels.

And now was the firſt Paſſeover after Chriſt's Baptiſm; as it is written, and the Jews Paſſeover was at hand, and Jeſus went up to Jeruſalem. John 2. 23

This was the firſt year of Chriſt's Miniſtry; whereof the one half was carried on by his Prodromus, or Fore-runner, John the Baptiſt: and the other half (betwixt his Baptiſm, and this firſt Paſſeover) was carried on by himſelf. And now hath Chriſt three years to his Death; according to the method propounded. I ſhall come on to the ſecond year, and to his actings therein in reference to our Souls Salvation.

CHAP. II. SECT. I.

Of the ſecond Year of Chriſt's Miniſtry, and of his Acts in general for that Year.

NOW was it that the Office of the Baptiſt was expired; and Chriſt beginning his Prophetical Office, he appears like the Sun, in ſucceſſion of the Morning-Star; he takes at John, and preacheth the Sum of the Goſpel, Faith and Repentance: Repent ye, and believe believe the Goſpel, Mark 1. 15. Now, what this Goſpel was, the ſum and ſeries of all his following Sermons expreſſed and declared: It is fully contained in the new Covenant, of which we have ſpoken; for what is the Goſpel but a Covenant of Grace, wherein all the imperfections of our works are made up by the Perfection and Grace of Jeſus Chriſt? The Goſpel is not a Covenant of Works (i. e.) it is not an agreement upon the ſtock of innocence, requiring ſtrict and exact obedience without any allowance of Repentance; No, no, be Holy, ſaith the Goſpel, and where that fails, Repent, and believe. By this time the work in his Hand was grown high and pregnant, and Jeſus ſaw it convenient to chuſe more Diſciples: with this Family he goes up and down the whole Galilee, Preaching the Goſpel of the Kingdom, healing all manner of Diſeaſes, curing Demoniacks, cleanſing Lepers, giving ſtrength to Paraliticks, and to lame People.

It is not my purpoſe to enlarge on all the Sermons, Miracles, Conferences or Colloquies of Chriſt with men; I am not for large Volumes; and I ſuppoſe with John, that if all the Acts of Chriſt ſhould be written with Commentaries on them, that even the John 2.25 World it ſelf could not contain the Books that ſhould be written.

In this year therefore I ſhall contract and limit my ſelf to the Conſideration of Chriſt in theſe two particulars. As firſt to his Preaching. 2. To his Miracles; both theſe relate to the uſe and excercise of his Prophetical Office.

Sect. 2. Of Chriſt's Sermons this Year.

1. HIS Preaching this year was frequent, and amongſt others his Sermons; now it was that he delivered the firſt Sermon, Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand.

2. Now was it that he delivered that ſpiritual and myſtical Sermon of Regeneration, at which Nicodemus wonders, how can a Man be Born when he is Old? Can he enter the ſecond time into his Mothers Womb and be born? But Jeſus takes off the wonder, in telling him, this was not a work of Fleſh and Blood; But of the Spirit of God, for the Spirit bloweth where it liſteth; and is as the Wind certain and notorious in the effects, but ſecret in the Principle, and manner of production. Then Chriſt proceeds in his Sermon, telling him yet of higher things, as of his deſcent from Heaven, of his Paſſion and Aſcenſion, and of the Mercy of Redemption, which he came to work and effect for all that believe; of the Love of the Father, the Miſſion of the Son, the Rewards of Faith, and Glories of Eternity: And this was the Sum of his Sermon to Nicodemus, which was the fulleſt of myſtery and ſpeculation that ever he made, except that which he made immediately before his death. John 3.4.

3. Now was it that the throng of Auditors forcing Chriſt to leave the ſhore, he makes Peter's ſhip his Pulpit; never were there ſuch Nets caſt out of that Fiſher boat before; whiles he was upon Land, he healed the Sick bodies by his touch; and now he was upon Sea, he cured the ſick Souls by his Doctrine; he that made both Sea and Land, cauſeth both to conſpire to the opportunities of doing good to the Souls and Bodies of men. Luk. 5. 1, 2, 3, 4.

4. Now it was that he Preached that bleſſed Sermon on that Text, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, becauſe he hath anointed me to Preach the Goſpel to the Poor: no queſtion but he Preached both to Poor and Rich, Chriſt Preached to all: but for the Power and Fruit of his Preaching, it was only received and entertained by the poor in Spirit. In the following particulars, his Office is ſet out ſtill in an higher tenour, To heal the broken hearted, to Preach deliverance to the Captives, and recovering of ſight to the Blind, or as it is in Iſa. 61. 1. The opening of the Priſon to them that are bound; a ſad thing to be in captivity, but ſadder to be bound in Chains, or lock'd up in a Priſon there; but 'tis moſt ſad of all to be impriſoned, having ones Eyes put out; as it was the caſe of Sampſon and Zedekiah. Now the Evangeliſt willing to render the Prophet to the higheſt comfortable ſence that might be, he uſeth an expreſſion that meets with the higheſt myſtery; that is, when a Man is not only ſhut up in a blinded Priſon, when he himſelf alſo hath his Eyes put out; and to ſuch Chriſt ſhould Preach. Preach what? Not only deliverance to the Captives, but alſo reſtoring of Light to Captive Priſoners: Nay, yet more, recovering of ſight to blinded Priſoners, as the Evangeliſt renders it. Luk. 4. 18. Luk.4.48.

5. Now it was that he delivered the admirable Sermon, called The Sermon upon the Mount. It is a Breviary of all thoſe Precepts which are truly called Chriſtian; it contains in it all the moral Precepts given by Moſes, and opens a ſtricter ſence, and more ſevere expoſition than the Scribes and Phariſees had given; it holds forth the Doctrines of meekneſs, poverty of Spirit, Chriſtian mourning, deſire of Holy things, mercy, and purity, peace and patience, and ſuffering of injuries; he teacheth us how to pray, how to faſt, how to give Alms, how to contemn the world, and how to ſeek the Kingdom of God and its appendant righteouſneſs.

And thus Chriſt being entred upon his Prophetical Office; in theſe and the reſt of his Sermons he gives a clear Teſtimony that he was not only an Interpreter of the Law, but a Lawgiver; and that this Law of Chriſt might retain ſome proportion at leaſt with the Law of Moſes, Chriſt in his laſt Sermon went up into a mountain, and from thence gave the Oracle. I cannot ſtand to paraphraſe on this, or any other of his Sermons, but ſeeing now we find Chriſt in the exerciſe of his Prophetical Office, let us obſerve firſt his Titles in this reſpect. 2. The reaſons of his being a Prophet. 3. The Excellency of Chriſt above all other Prophets, and then we have done.

Sect. 3. Of Chriſt's Prophetical Office.

1. THE Titles of Chriſt in reſpect of his Prophetical Office were theſe. 1. Sometimes he is called Doctor, or Maſter, Be ye not called Maſters, for one is your Maſter, even Chriſt, The Word is Καθηγητὴς, which ſignifies a Doctor, Moderator, teaching-Maſter, a guide of the way. 2. Sometimes he is called a Law-giver, There is one Law-giver, who is able to ſave and to deſtroy. The Apoſtle ſpeaks of the internal Government of the Conſcience, in which caſe the Lord is our Judge: The Lord is our Law-giver, the Lord is our King, he will ſave us. We muſt hear no voice in our Conſciences but Gods, no Doctrine in the Church but Chriſt's; no Offices, Inſtitutions, and Worſhip muſt be allowed, but ſuch as he hath appointed; and therefore when Men brought in Foreign Doctrines, it is ſaid, that they did not hold the head. 3. Sometimes he is called a Counſellor, and his name ſhall be called Wonderful, Counſellor; Counſel is mine and ſound Wiſdom, ſaith Chriſt, I am underſtanding, and I have ſtrength. Chriſt by his Office counſels Men how to fly ſin, and how to pleaſe God, and how to eſcape Hell, and how to be ſaved. 4. Sometimes he is called the Apoſtle of our Profeſſion, Wherefore, Holy Brethren, partakers of the Heavenly calling, conſider the Apoſtle, and High Prieſt of our Profeſſion, Chriſt Jeſus. God ſent him

Mat. 23. 10. Jam. 4. 12. Iſa. 33. 22. Col. 2. 19. Iſa. 9. 6. Prov. 8. 14. Heb. 3. 1.

as an Embaſſadour to make known his Will; he came not unſent, the very word imports a Miſſion, a ſending; How ſhall they preach except they be ſent? let all thoſe who run before they be ſent, take notice of this, for this would not Chriſt do; he was ſent, he was the Apoſtle of our Profeſſion. 5. Sometimes he is called the Angel of the Covenant, even the
Mal. 3. 1. Angel of the Covenant whom ye delight in. Chriſt was the publiſher of the Goſpel-Covenant, he declared the Gracious Purpoſe of God towards the Elect held forth in the Covenant; and in this reſpect he is called a Prophet, Acts 3. 22. And the Prophet,
Joh. 6.14. John 7. 40. And that Prophet, John 6. 14. This is of a Truth that Prophet that ſhould come into the World; whoſe Office it was to impart Gods Will unto the Sons of Men, according unto the Name, Angel. 6. Sometimes he is called the Mediator of the New Covenant, for this cauſe he is the Mediator of the New Heb.9.15. Teſtament, ſaith the Apoſtle; now a Mediator is ſuch a one as goes betwixt two parties at variance, imparting the Mind of the one to the other ſo as to breed a right underſtanding, and thereby to work a complyance betwixt both: and thus Chriſt is as Mediator betwixt God and us. By him it is that the Mind and Will of God is imparted to Man:
Joh. 1.18. No Man hath ſeen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the boſom of the Father, he hath declared him: and by him it is that we impart our Minds
Rev. 8. 4. unto God: The ſmoak of the incenſe which goes with the Prayers of the Saints, aſcends up before God out of the Deut. 5.5. Angels hand. This, was typified in Moſes: I ſtood between the Lord and you at that time, to ſhew you the Word of the Lord. The Vulgar renders it thus, Ego ſequeſter & medius, I was a Mediator, a Midler betwixt God and you: and ſo Chriſt Jeſus he is a Mediator, a Medler, an Interpreter, an Intermeſſenger betwixt God and his People.

2. The reaſons of Chriſt's being a Prophet, were theſe. 1. That he might reveal and deliver to his People the Will of his Father. 2. That he might open and expound the ſame being once delivered. 3. That he might make his Saints to underſtand, and to believe the ſame being once opened.

1. As a Prophet he delivers to the People his Fathers Will, both in his own Perſon, and by his Servants the Miniſters. In his own Perſon when he
Rom. 15. 8. was upon Earth as a Miniſter of the Circumciſion; and by his Servants the Miniſters from the beginning of their Miſſion till the end of the World; thus the Goſpel
Heb. 2. 3. is called, A great Salvation which at the firſt began to be ſpoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him. Chriſt in his own Perſonal Preaching is ſaid but to have begun to teach, Acts 1. 1. and the Conſummate Publication was the ſending of the Holy Ghoſt to theſe Select Veſſels, who were to carry abroad this Treaſure unto all the World; it was begun by the Lord, and it was confirmed by them that were the Diſciples of the Lord. In this reſpect we cannot look on the publiſhing of the Goſpel to the World, but as very Glorious; was there not a reſemblance of State and Glory in the Preaching of Chriſt? You have heard how a forerunner was ſent to prepare his way, as an Herald to proclaim his approach, and then was revealed the Glory of the Lord; but becauſe the Publication was not Conſummate till afterwards, Chriſt carries it on in greater ſtate afterwards than he did before; When he aſcended up on
Eph. 4. 8. high, he then led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men, as Princes in time of their ſolemn inauguration do ſome ſpecial Acts of Magnificence and Honour; they proclaim Pardons, open Priſons, Create Nobles, fill Conduits with Wine; ſo Chriſt to teſtifie the Glory of his Goſpel, at the day of his inſtalment, and ſolemn re-admiſſion into his Fathers Glory, he proclaims the Goſpel, gives gifts unto Men, for the perfecting of the Saints, for the work of the Miniſtry, Ver. 12.
for the edifying of the Body of Chriſt.

2. As a Prophet he opens and expounds the Goſpel. Thus being in the Synagogue on the Sabbath day, he opened the Book, and he found the place Luk 4. 17, where it was written, the Spirit of the Lord is upon me, 18, 21.
becauſe he hath anointed me to preach the Goſpel to the poor, &c. and then he cloſed the Book——and ſaid, this day is this Scripture fulfilled in your Ears. And thus joyning himſelf with two of his Diſciples, going towards Emmaus, he begun at Moſes, and all the Prophets, and he expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himſelf; the Propheſies of Chriſt were dark and hard to be underſtood, and therefore Chriſt came down from Heaven to diſcover ſuch Truths; No Man hath aſcended up to Heaven, (i. e.) to be acquainted with Gods ſecrets, but he that came down from Heaven; the gracious purpoſe of God towards loſt mankind, was a ſecret locked up in the Breaſt of the Father; and ſo it had been even to this Day, had not Chriſt who was in the Boſom of the Father, and one of his Privy Council, revealed it unto us: Hence Chriſt is called the Interpreter of God, no man knoweth the Father ſave the Mat. 11.
Son, and he to whomſoever the Son will reveal him, by 27.
his Interpretation.

3. As a Prophet he gives us to underſtand, and to believe the Goſpel. Then opened he their underſtand Luk. 24.
ing, that they might underſtand the Scriptures; and thus 45.
was the Caſe of Lydia, whoſe heart the Lord opened; he Acts 10. 14.

is that true Light which enlightneth every man that cometh into the World. He enlightens every Believer, not only with a common natural Light, but with a ſpecial ſupernatural Light, of ſaving, ſpiritual, and effectual knowledge; now there is no Prophet can do this ſave only Jeſus Chriſt, he only is able to cauſe our Hearts to believe, and to underſtand the matter which he doth teach and reveal; other Prophets may plant, and water, Paul may plant, and Apollo may water, but he, and only he can give the increaſe; other Prophets may Teach and Baptize, but unleſs Chriſt come in by the powerful preſence of his Spirit, they can never be able to ſave any one poor Soul. We Chriſt ſhall give thee light?

3. The Excellencies of Chriſt above all other Prophets are in theſe reſpects.——

1. Other Prophets were but Types and Shadows of this great Prophet; even Moſes himſelf was but a Figure of him; A Prophet ſhall the Lord God raiſe Act.7. 37.
up unto you of your Brethren like unto me, ſaith Moſes; theſe words, Like unto me] do plainly ſhew that Moſes was at the beſt but an Image and Shadow of Chriſt; now as ſubſtances do far excel ſhadows, ſo doth Chriſt far excel all the Prophets; they were but ſhadows and forerunners to him.

2. Other Prophets revealed but ſome part of Gods will, and only at ſometimes. God (ſaith the Apoſtle) at ſundry times, and in divers manners ſpake Heb. 1. 1.
in time-paſt unto the Fathers by the Prophets; (i. e.) he let out his light by little and little, till the Day-ſtar and Son of Righteouſneſs aroſe; but in theſe laſt days Ver. 2.
he hath ſpoken by his Son, (i. e.) he hath ſpoken more fully and plainly; in this reſpect, ſaith the Apoſtle, Gal. 4. 1, 2. the heirs of Life and Salvation were but Children before Chriſt's incarnation. As now we ſee but through a glaſs darkly, towards what we ſhall do in the Life to come; ſo did they of old in compariſon of us; their light in compariſon of ours; was but an obſcure and glimmering light; Chriſt's diſcovery of himſelf then was but a Standing behind the Cant. 2.9. Wall, a looking forth of the Window, a ſhewing of himſelf through the Lattice.

3. Other Prophets ſpeak only to the the Ears of men, but Chriſt ſpake, and ſtill ſpeaks to the Heart; He hath the Keys of David, that openeth, and Revel 3. 7 no man ſhutteth, that ſhutteth, and no man openeth; it is a Similitude taken from them that keep the Keys of a City, or Caſtle, without whom none can open or ſhut; no more can any man open the Heart or break in upon the Spirit, but Chriſt; he only is able to open the Eyes of the mind by the ſecret, kindly, and powerful working of his own Spirit.

4. Other Prophets preached Wiſdom unto men; but only Chriſt preacheth men wiſe; other Prophets warned men by telling them of their Sins, and denouncing the judgments of God, but Chriſt reclaimed them, and turned them from ſin; hence it is ſaid, that he taught as one having Authority, and not as the Scribes; it came daily and coldly from them, but it came from him as being full of conviction and reproof, John5.25. full of the evident demonſtration of the Spirit, and of Power.

5. Other Prophets might not Preach themſelves; the Apoſtle inveighs againſt ſelf-commanders, We 1 Cor.24. dare not (ſaith he) make our ſelves of the number, or compare our ſelves with ſome that commend themſelves. Yea, Chriſt himſelf relating to himſelf, as a meer 2 Cor.10. 12. man, ſaith, that, his witneſs is not true if he bear wit- John 5.31. neſs of himſelf. But in another place relating to John 8.14. himſelf as Mediator, he ſpeaks clean contrary, Though I do bear record of my ſelf, yet my record is true. Here then is a wide difference betwixt other Prophets in reſpect of their Office and Chriſt's; they might not preach themſelves, but he bears witneſs of himſelf, becauſe he hath not a greater in the point of our Juſtification, Sanctification, and Salvation, to bear witneſs of them himſelf. And hence are thoſe ſelf-predications of his which we find in Scriptures, Iſa. 45.22. as Look unto me, and be ye ſaved all the ends of the Mat.11.28 Earth. Come unto me all ye that labour, and are heavy laden. And conferring with the two Diſciples, Luke 24. 27. it is ſaid, that beginning at Moſes and all the Prophets, he expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himſelf. Surely it commends to us the Prophecy of Chriſt, that he might preach and commend himſelf without any blot of Arrogancy, or taking too much upon him.

6. Other Prophets had their Commiſſion and Authority from him, The words of the wiſe are as Eccl. 12. 11. goads and as nails faſtened by the Maſters of the Aſſemblies, which are given from one Shepherd, (i. e.) the words of the wiſe are divine and Heavenly inſtructions; the Maſters of Aſſemblies are Goſpel-Miniſters, and Chriſt is that one Shepherd, from whom theſe words are given, and from whom theſe Maſters have their Authority, are they not called 2 Cor. 5. 20. Embaſſadours for Chriſt? And doth not Ezekiel tell us, Ezek. 20. 46. that he muſt drop his words towards the South? Now what is the meaning of that dropping? It is a Phraſe borrowed from Rain; as the Clouds from whence the Rain deſcends, have not their water originally and natively in themſelves, but from the Sea; ſo have not the Prophets a Spirit of Prophecy of themſelves, but all is drawn up out of Chriſt, as out of a full Sea of all excellent Wiſdom and Knowledge. In him are all the Treaſures, a Sea, and Ocean of knowledge, and from him all the Prophets derived whatſoever they had.

Sect. 4. Of Chriſt's Miracles.

2. THE Miracles of Chriſt this year were many; now what were theſe Miracles, but a purſuance of the Doctrines delivered in Chriſt's Sermons? One calls them, A verification of Chriſt's Doctrin, a Signal of Chriſt's Sermons: If we obſerve, we ſhall find him to work moſt of his Miracles in actions of mercy; indeed once he turned Water into Wine, and ſometimes he walked upon the Waters, but all the reſt were actions of relief according to the deſign of God, who would have him manifeſt his Power, in ſhewing mercy and relief to men.

Amongſt all his Miracles done this year, now was it that at Cana, where he wrought the firſt Miracle, he does a ſecond; a certain Noble man, or Courtier, or little King (as ſome would have it) came to John 4. 47. Jeſus, and beſought him to come down to his Houſe, and to heal his Son, who was at the point of Death. We do not find Chriſt often attended with Nobility, but here he is; Not many wiſe men after the fleſh, not many 1 Cor. 1. 26. mighty, not many noble are called; yet God forbid but that ſome are, and may be; this noble Ruler liſtens after Chriſt in his neceſſity; happy was it for him that his Son was Sick, for elſe he had not been ſo well acquainted with his Saviour; O we are loath to come to Chriſt till we ſee a need, a neceſſity for it, and hence it is that Chriſt ſends weakneſs, ſickneſſes, infirmities, oppoſitions, and many afflictions that he may be ſought unto. Come then, are we afflicted? Whither ſhould we go but to Cana to ſeek Chriſt? Whither ſhould we go but to that Cana of Heaven, where our Water will be turned into Wine, where our Phyſician lives that knows how to cure Souls, and Bodies and all, that we may once ſay, It is good for me that I was afflicted. The firſt anſwer Chriſt gives this Noble man, is a word of reproof, Except ye ſee Signs and Wonders ye will not believe. John 4. 48. Incredulity was the common diſeaſe of the Jews, which no receipt could cure but wonders: A wicked and Adulterous generation ſeeks after Signs: The Doctrin of Chriſt, and all the Divine words that he ſpake, muſt be made up with Miracles or they will not believe; it was a foul fault, and a dangerous one, Ye will not believe. What is it that condemns the World but unbelief? Here's a Noble Capernaite that probably had heard many a Sermon of Jeſus Chriſt, and yet here is Taxed with unbelief; if ſuch as we that live under the clear Sun-ſhine of the Goſpel ſhall not believe; O what a Sin is this? Chriſt's next anſwer to this Noble-man, is a word of comfort: Go thy way, Ver 50. thy Son liveth: O the meekneſs and mercy of Jeſus Chriſt! when we would have looked that he ſhould have puniſhed this Suitor for not believing, he condeſcends to him that he may believe: As ſome tender Mothers that give the Breaſt to their unquiet Children inſtead of the Rod; ſo uſually deals Chriſt with our perverſneſs, Go thy way, thy Son liveth; with one word doth Chriſt heal two Patients, the Son and the Father; the Sons fever, and the Fathers unbelief; we cannot but obſerve here the Steps of Faith, he that believed ſomewhat ere he came, and more when he went, he grew to more and more Faith in the way, and when he came home he enlarged his Faith to all the Skirts of his Family. And the Ver. 51. man believed the word that Jeſus had ſpoken unto him, and he went his way; and in the way one meets him, and tells him, Thy Son liveth; which recovery he underſtands to be at the ſame time that Chriſt had ſpoken thoſe Salutary and healing words, and him- Ver. 53. ſelf believed and his whole Houſe.

as an Embaſſadour to make known his Will; he came not unſent, the very word imports a Miſſion, a ſending; How ſhall they preach except they be ſent? let all thoſe who run before they be ſent, take notice of this, for this would not Chriſt do; he was ſent, he was the Apoſtle of our Profeſſion. 5. Sometimes he is called the Angel of the Covenant, even the Mal. 3. 1. Angel of the Covenant whom ye delight in. Chriſt was the publiſher of the Goſpel-Covenant, he declared the Gracious Purpoſe of God towards the Elect held forth in the Covenant; and in this reſpect he is called a Prophet, Acts 3. 22. And the Prophet, Joh. 6. 14. John 7. 40. And that Prophet, John 6. 14. This is of a Truth that Prophet that ſhould come into the World; whoſe Office it was to impart Gods Will unto the Sons of Men, according unto the Name, Angel. 6. Sometimes he is called the Mediator of the New Covenant, for this cauſe he is the Mediator of the New Heb. 9. 15. Teſtament, ſaith the Apoſtle; now a Mediator is ſuch a one as goes betwixt two parties at variance, imparting the Mind of the one to the other ſo as to breed a right underſtanding, and thereby to work a complyance betwixt both: and thus Chriſt is as Mediator betwixt God and us. By him it is that the Mind and Will of God is imparted to Man: Joh. 1. 18. No Man hath ſeen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the boſom of the Father, he hath declared him: and by him it is that we impart our Minds Rev. 8. 4. unto God: The ſmoak of the incenſe which goes with the Prayers of the Saints, aſcends up before God out of the Deut. 5. 5. Angels hand. This, was typified in Moſes: I ſtood between the Lord and you at that time, to ſhew you the Word of the Lord. The Vulgar renders it thus, Ego ſequeſter & medius, I was a Mediator, a Midler betwixt God and you: and ſo Chriſt Jeſus he is a Mediator, a Medler, an Interpreter, an Intermeſſenger betwixt God and his People.

6. Other Prophets had their Commiſſion and Authority from him, The words of the wiſe are as Eccl. 12. 11. goads and as nails faſtened by the Maſters of the Aſſemblies, which are given from one Shepherd, (i. e.) the words of the wiſe are divine and Heavenly inſtructions; the Maſters of Aſſemblies are Goſpel-Miniſters, and Chriſt is that one Shepherd, from whom theſe words are given, and from whom theſe Maſters have their Authority, are they not called 2 Cor. 5. 20. Embaſſadours for Chriſt? And doth not Ezekiel tell us, Ezek. 20. 46. that he muſt drop his words towards the South? Now what is the meaning of that dropping? It is a Phraſe borrowed from Rain; as the Clouds from whence the Rain deſcends, have not their water originally and natively in themſelves, but from the Sea; ſo have not the Prophets a Spirit of Prophecy of themſelves, but all is drawn up out of Chriſt, as out of a full Sea of all excellent Wiſdom and Knowledge. In him are all the Treaſures, a Sea, and Ocean of knowledge, and from him all the Prophets derived whatſoever they had.

Sect. 4. Of Chriſt's Miracles.

2. THE Miracles of Chriſt this year were many; now what were theſe Miracles, but a purſuance of the Doctrines delivered in Chriſt's Sermons? One calls them, A verification of Chriſt's Doctrin, a Signal of Chriſt's Sermons: If we obſerve, we ſhall find him to work moſt of his Miracles in actions of mercy; indeed once he turned Water into Wine, and ſometimes he walked upon the Waters, but all the reſt were actions of relief according to the deſign of God, who would have him manifeſt his Power, in ſhewing mercy and relief to men.

Amongſt all his Miracles done this year, now was it that at Cana, where he wrought the firſt Miracle, he does a ſecond; a certain Noble man, or Courtier, or little King (as ſome would have it) came to John 4. 47. Jeſus, and beſought him to come down to his Houſe, and to heal his Son, who was at the point of Death. We do not find Chriſt often attended with Nobility, but here he is; Not many wiſe men after the fleſh, not many 1 Cor. 1. 26. mighty, not many noble are called; yet God forbid but that ſome are, and may be; this noble Ruler liſtens after Chriſt in his neceſſity; happy was it for him that his Son was Sick, for elſe he had not been ſo well acquainted with his Saviour; O we are loath to come to Chriſt till we ſee a need, a neceſſity for it, and hence it is that Chriſt ſends weakneſs, ſickneſſes, infirmities, oppoſitions, and many afflictions that he may be ſought unto. Come then, are we afflicted? Whither ſhould we go but to Cana to ſeek Chriſt? Whither ſhould we go but to that Cana of Heaven, where our Water will be turned into Wine, where our Phyſician lives that knows how to cure Souls, and Bodies and all, that we may once ſay, It is good for me that I was afflicted. The firſt anſwer Chriſt gives this Noble man, is a word of reproof, Except ye ſee Signs and Wonders ye will not believe. In- John 4. 48. credulity was the common diſeaſe of the Jews, which no receipt could cure but wonders: A wicked and Adulterous generation ſeeks after Signs: The Doctrin of Chriſt, and all the Divine words that he ſpake, muſt be made up with Miracles or they will not believe; it was a foul fault, and a dangerous one, Ye will not believe. What is it that condemns the World but unbelief? Here's a Noble Capernaite that probably had heard many a Sermon of Jeſus Chriſt, and yet here is Taxed with unbelief; if ſuch as we that live under the clear Sun-ſhine of the Goſpel ſhall not believe; O what a Sin is this? Chriſt's next anſwer to this Noble-man, is a word of comfort: Go thy way, Ver 50. thy Son liveth: O the meekneſs and mercy of Jeſus Chriſt! when we would have looked that he ſhould have puniſhed this Suitor for not believing, he condeſcends to him that he may believe: As ſome tender Mothers that give the Breaſt to their unquiet Children inſtead of the Rod; ſo uſually deals Chriſt with our perverſneſs, Go thy way, thy Son liveth; with one word doth Chriſt heal two Patients, the Son and the Father; the Sons fever, and the Fathers unbelief; we cannot but obſerve here the Steps of Faith, he that believed ſomewhat ere he came, and more when he went, he grew to more and more Faith in the way, and when he came home he enlarged his Faith to all the Skirts of his Family. And the Ver. 51. man believed the word that Jeſus had ſpoken unto him, and he went his way; and in the way one meets him, and tells him, Thy Son liveth; which recovery he underſtands to be at the ſame time that Chriſt had ſpoken thoſe Salutary and healing words, and him- Ver. 53. ſelf believed and his whole Houſe.

Mat.8.5,6. 2. * Now was it that a Centurion came unto Chriſt, beſeeching him, and ſaying, my ſervant lyeth at home ſick of the Palſie grievouſly Tormented. Many Suitors come to Chriſt, one for a Son, another for a Daughter, a Third for himſelf, but I ſee none come for his Servant but this one Centurion ; and if we obſerve Chriſt's anſwers to his Suit, we ſee how well pleaſed is Chriſt with his requeſt : And Jeſus ſaith unto him, I will come and heal him. When the Ruler entreated him for his Son, Come down 'ere he die, Chriſt ſtirr'd not a Foot, but now this Centurion complains only of his Servants ſickneſs, and Chriſt Ver. 7. offers himſelf, I will come and heal him ; he that came in the ſhape of a Servant, would rather go down to the ſick Servant, than to the Rulers Son : He is no reſpecter of Perſons, but he that feareth him and worketh Acts 10. 34, 35. Righteouſneſs, is accepted of him. It may be this poor ſick Servant had more grace, or very probable it is he had more need, and therefore Chriſt (to chuſe) will go down to viſit this poor ſick Servant. Nay, ſays the Centurion, I am not worthy Lord, that thou
Ver. 8. ſhouldſt come under my Roof, q. d. Alas, Lord, I am a Gentile, an Alien, a Man of Blood, but thou art Holy, thou art Omnipotent ; and therefore only ſay the word, and my Servant ſhall be whole : Mark this, O my Soul, it is but a word of Chriſt, and my ſins ſhall be remitted, my Soul healed, my Body raiſed, and Soul and Body glorified for ever. The Centurion knew this by the command he had over his own Servants, Ver. 9. I ſay to this Man go, and he goes ; and to another come and he comes ; and to a third do this, and he doth it. In way of Application ; Oh that I were ſuch a Servant to my Heavenly Maſter. Alas, every of his commands ſays, Do this, and I do it not ; every of his Inhibitions ſays, Do it not, and I do it : He ſays, Go from the World, and I run to it ; He ſays, Come to me, and I run from him. Wo is me, this is not Service, but Enmity ; Oh that I could come up to the Faith and Obedience of this Exemplar, that I could ſerve my Chriſt as theſe Soldiers did their Maſter!
Ver. 10. Jeſus marvels at the Centurions Faith ; we never find Chriſt wondering at Gold, or Silver, or coſtly and curious works of human Skill, yea, when the Diſciples wondered at the Magnificence of the Temple, he rebuked them rather, but when he ſees the Grace or Acts of Faith, he ſo approves of them, that he is raviſhed with Wonder ; he that rejoyced in the view of his Creation, rejoyceth no Cant. 4.7, 9. leſs in the reformation of his Creature, Behold thou art my fair Love, behold thou art fair, there is no ſpot in thee: My Siſter, my Spouſe, thou haſt wounded my Heart, thou haſt wounded my heart with one of thy Eyes, Cant. 4. 7, 9. To conclude, he that both wrought this Faith, and wondered at it, doth now reward it ; Go thy way, and as thou haſt believed, ſo be it unto thee, and his Servant was healed in the ſelf ſame Hour.

3. Now it was, even the day after, that Jeſus goes Luk.7. 11. into the City of Naim. The fruitful Clouds are not ordained to fall all in one Field, Naim muſt partake of the Bounty of Chriſt as well as Cana or Capernaum.
Thither come, he no ſooner enters in at the Gate of the City, but he meets a Funeral ; a poor Widow, with her weeping Friends, is following her only Son to the Grave ; Jeſus obſerving her ſad condition, he pities her, comforts her, and at laſt relieves her : Here was no Solicitor but his own Compaſſion
: in his former Miracles he was ſought and ſued to ; his Mother at the Marriage-feaſt begged a ſupply of Wine, the Ruler came to him for a Son, the Centurion came to him for a Servant, but now Chriſt offers a Cure, to give us a Leſſon, that whiles
we have to do with the Father of Mercies, our Miſeries and Afflictions are the moſt Powerful Suitors. Chriſt ſees and obſerves the Widow's ſadneſs, and preſently all parts of Chriſt conſpire her good, his Heart melts into Compaſſion of her, his Tongue ſpeaks chearfully and comfortably to her, Weep not ; his Feet carry him to the Bier, his Hand toucheth the Coffin, and he ſaid, young Man, I ſay unto thee, ariſe : Ver. 14.
See how the Lord of Life ſpeaks with Command ;
the ſame Voice ſpeaks to him, that ſhall one day ſpeak to us, and raiſe us out of the Duſt of the Earth, neither Sea, nor Death, nor Hell can detain their Dead, when he charges them to be delivered ; we ſee not Chriſt ſtretching himſelf on this dead Corpſe, as Elia and Eliſha upon the Sons of the Shunamite, and the Widow of Sarephta ; nor ſee we him kneeling down and praying, as Peter did for Dorcas ; but we hear him ſo ſpeaking to the Dead, as if the Dead were alive, and ſo ſpeaking to the Dead, that by the word he ſpeaks, he makes him alive: Young man, I ſay Ver. 15.
unto thee, ariſe, and he that was Dead ſat up, and began to ſpeak. So at the ſound of the laſt Trumpet, by the Power of the ſame Voice, we ſhall ariſe out of the Duſt, and ſtand up glorioſly, This mortal ſhall put on immortality, and this corruptible ſhall put on incorruption.
And leaſt our weak Faith ſhould ſtagger at the aſſent of ſo great a difficulty ; by this he hath done, Chriſt gives us taſtes of what he will do ; the ſame Power that can raiſe one Man, can raiſe a Thouſand, a Million, a World ; Chriſt here raiſed a Widows Son, and after Jairus's Daughter, and then Lazarus, and laſtly at his Reſurrection he raiſed a many at once ; he raiſed one from her Bed, another from his Bier, another from his Grave, and many at once from their Rottenneſs, that it might appear no degree of Death can hinder the Efficacy of his Almighty Power.

4. Now it was that in the Synagogue he finds a Man Luk.4. 33.
that had a Spirit of an unclean Devil. This, I take it, is the firſt Man that we read of as poſſeſſed with a Devil. And he cryed let us alone, what have we to do Ver. 34.
with thee? &c. In theſe words the Devil dictates, the Man ſpeaks; and whereas the words are plural, Let us alone, it is probable he ſpeaks of himſelf, and the reſt of the Men in the Synagogue with him.
So high and dreadful things are ſpoken concerning the coming of Chriſt, (Mal. 3. 2. Who may abide Mal. 3. 2. the Day of his coming? and who ſhall ſtand when he appeareth?) that the Devil by this takes opportunity to affright the Men of the Synagogue with the preſence of Chriſt ; he would diſſwade them from the receiving of Chriſt by the Terrors of Chriſt, as if Chriſt had come only to deſtroy them : Thou Ver. 34.
Jeſus of Nazareth, art thou come to deſtroy us? I know thee who thou art, the holy one of God.

And Jeſus rebuked him, ſaying, Hold thy Peace, and Ver. 35. come out of him. The word hold thy Peace, is in the original φιμώθητι, be muzzled; it was not a bare command of ſilence, but there was ſuch Power in it, that it caſt a Muzzle upon the mouth of Satan, that he could ſpeak no more ; and when the unclean Spirit Mar. 1. 26.
had torn him, not with any gaſhes in his Fleſh, or diſmembring of his Body, for he hurt him not, but with ſome Convulſion fits (as it is ſuppoſed) then he threw them in the midſt, and made an horrid cry, Ver. 35.
and ſo came out.

From this Miracle, they all take ſpecial notice of the Doctrine atteſted by ſo great a Miracle, What a Ver. 36.
word is this? or as the other Evangeliſt, What a thing Mar. 1. 27. is this? What new Doctrine is this? Surely this was the great deſign of all the Miracles of Chriſt, to prove his miſſion from God, to demonſtrate his Power unto men, to confirm his Goſpel, to endear his Precepts, to work in us Faith to help us Heaven-ward : Theſe Joh. 20.
ſigns are written that we might believe, ——— and 31.
that believing we might have Life through his Name.

I have given you ſeveral inſtances of the Miracles

* If I miſtake not in the year I ſhall not contend, becauſe in this year only I ſhall mention his miracles.

racles of Chriſt in this ſecond year of his Miniſtry; only a few words on this Doctrine of Miracles for our information, as

1. What they are?
2. Why they are?
3. Whether they are chained and continued in this great Tranſaction of our Souls Salvation? And I have done.

For the firſt, what they are? Miracles are unuſual events wrought above the courſe or poſſibility of Nature; ſuch were the Miracles of Chriſt, and ſuch were the Miracles of the Prophets, and of the Apoſtles of Chriſt; for what they did was above Nature; and all the difference betwixt their miracles and the miracles of Chriſt was only in this, viz. they wrought them not in their own Name and Power as Jeſus Chriſt did; Thus when Eliſha with twenty Loaves and ſome full Ears of Corn fed an hundred 2King. 14. 42, 43. men, Give unto the people (ſays he) that they may Eat; and his Servitor ſaid, what, ſhould I ſet this before an hundred men? He ſaid again, give the People that they may Eat, for thus ſaith the Lord, they ſhall Eat and ſhall leave thereof.

And when Peter cured Æneas, which had kept his Act. 9. 34. Bed Eight Years, and was ſick of a Palſie, Peter ſaid unto him, Æneas, Jeſus Chriſt maketh thee whole. And when he cured that man that was lame from his mothers Womb, whom they laid daily at the Gate of the Temple, Silver and Gold have I none, (ſaid Peter) Acts 3. 6. but ſuch as I have give I thee; in the Name of Jeſus Chriſt of Nazareth, riſe up, and walk. But our Saviour comes in an higher ſtrain to the dead Damoſel, I ſay Mar. 5. 41. unto thee, ariſe: And in an higher ſtrain to the ſtor- Mar. 4. 39. my Winds and Seas, Peace, and be ſtill: And in an higher ſtrain to the raging Devil in the poſſeſſed, Be Luk. 4. 35. muzzled, and come out of the man. Here's the difference betwixt the Lord and his Servants; but in this they agree, their miracles were not miranda, but miracula; not only wonders, but miracles indeed; they were unuſual Events wrought above nature, or the courſe of nature.

For the ſecond, why they are? many Reaſons are given, of which I hinted before, but in reference to Scriptures, (which is the great controverſie) this is the main and the only true Reaſon; Miracles are wrought for the grounding or confirming of ſome divine Truth or Doctrine at its firſt ſetling. To this purpoſe Miracles were as the Trumpets or Heralds, by which the Goſpel was firſt commended unto us; as the Law of Moſes was firſt authorized by manifold Miracles wrought in Sinai, and in the Deſert, which afterward ceaſed when they came to, and were ſetled in the promiſed Lands; ſo the Goſpel of Chriſt was firſt authorized by manifold Miracles, but the ſound thereof having now gone through all the World, theſe miracles ceaſe: if new additions of Miracles for the Confirmation of Scriptures ſhould be expected in every Age, the former miracles of Chriſt and his Apoſtles would be ſlighted of all; indeed, Chriſt tells us of great ſigns and wonders that ſhall be Mat. 24. 24. in the laſt days; he tells us of falſe Chriſts, and falſe Prophets, that muſt work them; it may be diſputed, whether thoſe are true miracles, or meer deceptions and magical pretences, but becauſe they are ſuch as the People cannot diſcern them from miracles really ſuch, therefore it is all one as to them; here then is Chriſt's V. 23, 25. Rule, Believe them not,——behold I have told you before: he that foretold us of the man, foretold us alſo of the impoſture, and commanded us not to truſt him; in this reſpect it had been more likely for Antichriſt to have prevailed upon Chriſtians by doing no miracles, than by doing any; for if he had done none, he might have eſcaped without diſcovery; but by doing miracles, or wonders, he both verified the Wiſdom and Preſence of Chriſt, and he declared to the Elect that he was the very Enemy of Chriſt. As all the Prophets that ſpeak of Chriſt, bade us believe him for his miracles; ſo all that foretold of Antichriſt, bade us disbelieve him for his Miracles; which occaſioned Auguſtine to ſay, Againſt ſuch Miracle mongers God hath Armed me to take heed, Go not forth unto ſuch, ſaith Chriſt, Mat. 24. 26. And therefore Brethren ſtand faſt, ſaith Paul, 2 Theſ. 2. 15. The great Beaſt deceived them that dwell on the Earth, by means of Miracles; theſe are, the words of John, Rev. 13. 14. but if any man have an Ear let him hear, (i. e.) let him beware, Rev. 13. 9. True miracles that proceed from God, are wrought for the grounding of Doctrine at the firſt ſetling; but being once grounded, and ſetled, and a Plat-form deſcribed for the right continuing of it, then we are left to the Scripture, and are not to expect any new miracles for the confirming of it.

Contra mirabularios iſtos cautum me fecit Deus meus, Aug. in Johan. tract. 3.

For the third, whether they are chained and continued in this great Tranſaction of our Souls Salvation? I anſwer, yea; in this reſpect miracles ceaſe not; it's without controverſie that Jeſus Chriſt in carrying on our Souls Salvation, is adding miracle to miracle; there is a Chain of miracles in the matter of our Salvation from firſt to laſt: As——

1. It was a Miracle that God in his Eternity, before we had a being, ſhould have once thought of us; eſpecially that the Bleſſed Trinity ſhould ſit in council, and contrive that moſt admirable and aſtoniſhing plot of the Salvation of our Souls: Oh what a Miracle was this!

2. It was a miracle that God for our ſakes ſhould create the World, and after our fall in Adam, that God ſhould preſerve the World, eſpecially conſidering that our Sin had unpinn'd the whole frame of the Creation; and that God even then ſitting on his Throne of Judgment, ready to paſs the Doom of Death for our firſt Tranſgreſſion, ſhould unexpectedly give a promiſe of a Saviour, when juſtly he might have given us to the Devil, and to Hell, according to his own Law, In the day that thou eateſt there Gen. 2. 17. of thou ſhalt die the Death.

3. It was a Miracle that God's Son ſhould take upon him our nature, and that in our nature he ſhould Tranſact our Peace; that he ſhould Preach Salvation to us all if we would believe; and to the end that we might believe, that he would work ſo many ſigns and miracles in the preſence of his Diſciples, and of a World of men: was not Chriſt's Birth a Miracle? And Chriſt's Life a Miracle? And Chriſt's Death a Miracle? And Chriſt's Reſurrection a Miracle? And Chriſt's Aſcenſion a Miracle? Was not Chriſt's Miniſtry a Miracle? And was it not a Miracle, that Chriſt's Word ſhould not be credited without a world of Miracles to back it, and confirm it to the Sons of men? Without controverſie great is the Miracle, 1 Tim. 3. 16. as well as Myſtery of Godlineſs, God manifeſt in the Fleſh, juſtified in the Spirit, ſeen of Angels, Preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the World, received up into Glory.

4. It was a Miracle that God ſhould look upon us in our Blood; what a ſight was it for God, when thy Ezek. 16. 4, 5, 6. Navel was not cut, when thou waſt not ſalted at all, nor ſwaddled at all, when thou waſt caſt out in the open Field to the loathing of thy perſon? Yet, that then, even then the Lord ſhould paſs by thee, and ſee thee polluted in thy own Blood, and ſhould ſay unto thee when thou waſt in thy Blood, live; yea, ſay unto thee when thou waſt in thy Blood, live. O miracle of mercies! If Creation cannot be without a Miracle, ſurely the new Creature is a Miracle indeed. So contrary are our perverſe natures to all poſſibilities of Salvation, that if Salvation had not marched to us all the way in a miracle, we ſhould have periſhed in the ruines of a ſad Eternity. Election is a miracle, and Creation is a miracle, and Redemption is a miracle, and Vocation is a miracle; and indeed every man living in the State of Grace, is a perpetual miracle; in ſuch a one his reaſon is turned into Faith, his Soul into Spirit, his Body into a Temple, his Earth into Heaven, his Water into Wine, his Averſations from Chriſt into intimate Union with Chriſt; and Adheſions to Chriſt. O what a chain of miracles is this? Why Lord, if thou wilt, thou canſt make me clean; ſay thus, you that are yet in your Blood, why Lord, if thou wilt thou canſt make me clean. O Lord I believe, help thou my unbelief.

Joh. 5.39. After this there was a Feaſt of the Jews, and Jeſus went up to Jeruſalem: Some would have this Feaſt to be Pentecoſt; and to ſpeak truly, the moſt of our Commentaries, run that way: Others take this for the Feaſt of the Paſſover, and the rather, becauſe the Evangeliſt John reckons the time of Chriſt's publick Miniſtry by the ſeveral Paſſovers; now if this Feaſt were not a Paſſover, we cannot find in the Goſpel ſo many Paſſovers as to make up Chriſt's Miniſtry three years and an half. On this ground I join with the latter Opinion; and ſo here I end the ſecond year of Chriſt's Miniſtry, and come to the third, and to his Actings therein in reference to our Souls Salvation.

CHAP. III. SECT. 1.

Of the third Year of Chriſt's Miniſtry, and generality of his Actings in that Year.

Hitherto all was quiet; neither the Jews nor the Samaritans, nor Galileans did as yet malign the Doctrin or Perſon of Jeſus Chriſt: but he preached with much peace on all hands till the beginning of this Year. I ſhall not yet ſpeak of his Sufferings; neither ſhall I ſpeak much of his Doings: Many things were done and ſpoken this Year, which I muſt paſs, leaſt I be too prolix; only ſuch things as refer more principally to the main buſineſs of our Souls Salvation, I ſhall touch in theſe particulars. As, 1. In the Ordination of the Apoſtles. 2. In his Reception of Sinners. 3. In the eaſineſs of his Yoke, and the lightneſs of his Burthen which he impoſeth on men.

Sect. 2. Of Chriſts Ordination of his Apoſtles.

1. IN the Ordination of his Apoſtles, are many conſiderable things. The Evangeliſt Luke lays it down thus. And it came to paſs in thoſe days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God. And when it was day he called unto him his Diſciples: and of them he choſe Twelve, whom alſo he named Apoſtles. Till now Chriſt taught alone; but becauſe after his Aſcenſion, he muſt needs have a Miniſtry till the end of the world, in the firſt place he chuſeth out ſome whom he would have on purpoſe to wait upon him all the time of his Miniſtry, till he was taken up into Heaven. In this Election, or Ordination, here is firſt the Perſon by whom they are choſen, Jeſus Chriſt. 2. The place where they are choſen, viz. in a Mountain. 3. The time when they were choſen, after his watching and praying all night, and when it was day. 4. The company out of whom they were choſen, they were his Diſciples, and out of them he makes this Election. 5. The number of them that were choſen, they were Twelve, nor more, nor leſs. 6. The end to which they were choſen, it was to an Apoſtleſhip, he choſe Twelve, whom he alſo named Apoſtles. Luke 6. 12, 13.

1. The Perſon by whom they are choſen is Jeſus Chriſt. They choſe not themſelves, but were choſen of Chriſt; this call was immediate, and therefore moſt excellent; but now we look not after ſuch calls, and therefore I ſhall not inſiſt on that. Only by the way, Miniſters of the Goſpel muſt be Miniſters of Chriſt, either immediately, or mediately called.

2. The place where they were choſen, it was on a Mountain. Mountainous places have their ſituation neareſt to Heaven; which ſhews that they were called to high and heavenly things: Mountains are open and in view, which ſhews their Miniſtry muſt be publick; they cannot lie hid in a Mountain, a City that is ſet upon an hill is expoſed to the view of all: Again, Mountains are ſubject to Winds and Tempeſts, which ſhews their Callings muſt meet with many oppoſitions. And this occaſioned Chriſt to hold up their hearts with Cordials, Bleſſed are ye when men ſhall revile you, and perſecute you, and ſay all manner of Evil againſt you falſly for my ſake——for ſo perſecuted they the Prophets which were before you. Mat. 5. 11, 12. The Miniſters of Chriſt are ſure of oppoſition, the Diſciple is not above his Maſter, nor the ſervant above his Lord; if they have called the Maſter of the houſe Beelzebub, how much more ſhall they call them of his houſhold?

3. The time when they were choſen, when it was, and after he had continued all night in Prayer to God; he goes not to Election, but firſt he watches, and prays all the night before. This ſhews the ſingular care that Chriſt had in this great Employment: What? To ſet men apart to witneſs his Name, and to publiſh to the World the Goſpel of Chriſt? This he would not do without much Prayer. Sometimes we find Chriſt praying alone, as elſewhere, He went up into a Mountain apart to pray; Mat. 14. 23. and here on this Mountain without any of his Diſciples, or Domeſticks about him, he prays alone. Thus, When thou prayeſt enter into thy cloſet (ſaith Chriſt) and when thou haſt ſhut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in ſecret, and thy Father which ſeeth in ſecret ſhall reward thee openly. Mat. 6. 6. Sometimes we find Chriſt praying at Night: In the day time he was teaching in the Temple, and at night he went out and abode in the Mount, that is called the Mount of Olives: Luke 21. 37. See Chriſt in the exerciſe of his double Office, he preacheth all day, and prays all night. This Text tells us, He continued all night in prayer. Night-Prayers have their ſpecial, ſpiritual advantages. 1. It is a time fitter for compunction, and heart-contrition, All the night make I my bed to ſwim, I water my Couch with my Tears. Pſal. 6. 6. As ſome things are by heat parched in the day, but cooled in the night; ſo many ſins contracted in the day, are ſeaſonably repented of at night. Night-tears are as ſweet dews that cool the heat and pride of our Spirits. 2. It is a time of ſilence and free from diſtraction. Then all Tumults ceaſe; and in the ſecret of our Souls, we may ſilently go and ſpeak with our Heavenly Father. In this reſpect, we have a bleſſed Example of Chriſt praying at night, and eſpecially now. O he was about the great work of ſending his Miniſters through all the World, and therefore now he ſpends all the night long in prayer to his Father; A great and extraordinary work is not to be ſet upon, without extraordinary prayer.

4. The Company out of whom they are choſen, He called unto him his Diſciples, and out of them he choſe twelve: A Diſciple of Chriſt is one thing, and an Apoſtle of Chriſt is another thing. Thoſe were Chriſt's Diſciples that embraced Chriſt's Doctrine of Faith and Repentance. It was not material to the conſtituting of a Diſciple of Chriſt, whether they followed Chriſt as many did, or they returned to their own homes, as ſome others did. The Man out of whom the Legions of Devils were caſt, beſought Chriſt that he might be with him, but Jeſus ſent him away, ſaying Return to thine own houſe, and ſhew how great things God hath done to thee, Luke 8. 38, 39. I make no queſtion but Chriſt at the Election of his Apoſtles had many Diſciples both waiting on him, and abſent from him; and out of them that waited on him, his Apoſtles were choſen: Chriſt's Miniſters ſhould be firſt Diſciples. O how unfit are any to take upon them the Miniſtry of Chriſt that were never yet the Diſciples of Chriſt? Firſt, the grace of God muſt be within us, and then muſt that grace of God be diſcovered by us.

5. The number of them that were choſen; they were Twelve: Very probable it is that there was ſome peculiar reaſon in this account, the number (ſay ſome) was figured out to us in many particulars, as in the Gen. 35. 22. Twelve Patriarchs, in the Twelve Wells of Elim, in the Twelve precious ſtones on the breaſt of the Exod. 15. 21. Prieſt, in the Twelve Tribes of Iſrael, in the Twelve hours of the day; Chriſt tells them of ſitting Mat. 19. 28. on Twelve Thrones, and judging the Twelve Tribes of Iſrael; but I delight not curiouſly to deſcant on theſe things. This I am ſure, that the doings of Chriſt were done in weight, meaſure, and number.

6. The end to which they were choſen, it was to an Apoſtleſhip, (i. e.) that they might be Chriſt's Legates to the Sons of Men, that they might be ſent up and down the World to perſwade Men to Salvation. The Diſpenſers of God's Word muſt look to their Miſſion, they muſt not intrude upon ſo ſacred a buſineſs before they are ſent. Now this Miſſion is either extraordinary by immediate Inſtinct, and Revelation from God, which is ever accompanied with immediate and infuſed gifts, and this was the caſe of the Apoſtles; or ordinary, by impoſition of hands and Eccleſiaſtical deſignation: And in this likewiſe is required fidelity, and ability. 1. Fidelity. It is required of Stewards, that a Man be found faithful, that he defraud not Chriſt of his Purchaſe, which is the Souls of Men; nor Men of their Price and Privilege, which is the Blood of Chriſt; that he watch as a Seer, that he ſpeak as an Oracle, that he feed as a Shepherd, that he labour as an Husbandman, that he be inſtant in ſeaſon and out of ſeaſon, to exhort, rebuke, inſtruct, to do the work of an Evangeliſt, to make full proof of his Miniſtry, becauſe he hath an account to make. 2. Ability both for right information of the Conſciences of Men, and for the ſeaſonable application of truth to particular Circumſtances, which is that 2 Cor. 2. 16. which makes a wiſe builder. Ah! Who is ſufficient for theſe things! How ſhould we but deteſt the preſumption of thoſe Men, who run before they be ſent, who leap from their manual Trades into this ſacred and dreadful Office, unto which heretofore the moſt learned and pious Men have trembled to approach?

Uſe. This may inform us of our duty: And this may inform you of your happineſs. 1. Here's our duty; I mean ours of the Miniſtry, Chriſt ordained his Apoſtles to preach the Goſpel; and Paul's motto 1 Cor. 9. 16. may be ours, Wo unto me, if I preach not the Goſpel: What though I preach the Goſpel, I have nothing to glory of, for a neceſſity is laid upon me. This day Chriſt ſent Mat. 10. 7. me on this Errand, Go preach, ſaying, Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. Surely the Lord hath put this Meſſage into my mouth, Repent Swearers, repent Drunkards, repent Sinners, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand; Goſpel-diſcoveries are made every day, Chriſt is ariſing and ſhining in our Horizon more and more clearly, that great deſign of God's love to our Souls is manifeſted in every Sermon, on every Sabbath: Is not this Goſpel preaching? What is the Goſpel, but the Treaſure of God's love in Chriſt opened to us? Oh! It is a pleaſant work in this reſpect to be a Miniſter of the Goſpel, to be always ſearching into the Treaſures of love, and to make them known to poor Souls for the gaining of them unto God. 2. Here is your Happineſs, Chriſt hath not erected any ſtanding Sanctuary, or City of refuge for Men to fly to for their Salvation; but he hath appointed Ambaſſadors to carry this Treaſure unto Men's Houſes, where he invites them, and entreats them, and requires them, and commands them, and compels them to come in. Oh! The unſearchable Riches of Chriſt! 1. In reſpect of the Meſſengers. 2. In reſpect of their Meſſage.

1. In reſpect of the Meſſengers; they were firſt Apoſtles; now Miniſters, poor Earthen Veſſels. Had Chriſt himſelf come in his glorified body, attended with his Angels, it might in ſome meaſure have repreſented his Majeſty: But alas! How would this have dazled your weakneſs? Or if Chriſt had made uſe of his Angels, as he did at his birth, to preach his Goſpel; had they continually come in ſtate and proclaimed Salvation to the Sons of Men, this would have ſhewed more Glory. But alas, how unſuitable had this been to your weak conditions? Here then is the riches of his Grace, that earthen Veſſels ſhould carry this Treaſure, that Salvation ſhould come out of the mouths of ſinful Creatures, that hearts ſhould be broken, Souls ſhould believe, life ſhould be infuſed by the miniſterial breath of a weak, worthleſs Man; We have this treaſure in earthen veſſels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us; 2 Cor. 4. 7. God's Power is more honoured this way, than if an Angel had come in Perſon; it may be in that caſe a Sinner's Converſion would have been attributed to the Power and Efficacy of the Angel; but to prevent this, and to preſerve the Glory of his Power and Grace, Chriſt takes the Treaſure, and he puts it into Earthen Veſſels. It is in the Original veſſels of ſhell, as precious Pearls are found in Shells, ſo the Pearl is the Goſpel, and the Shell or Mother of Pearl are the Apoſtles and Paſtors; it is true, they are Veſſels of ſmall price, and ſubject to many knocks and falls, yet in them is the moſt excellent Treaſures of the Wiſdom of God, and of the Goſpel of Chriſt. And it is in them on purpoſe, that the excellency may reflect on God, and not on them.

2. In reſpect of the Meſſage. O the unſearchable riches of Chriſt! What is the Meſſage of theſe Men? What is the Treaſure they bring, but the Blood of Chriſt, the Promiſes of the Goſpel, the Word of Grace? I might ſum up all in one word, They bring unto Men an Invitation from Heaven, to Heaven. Obſerve it Chriſtians; the Goſpel is a Meſſage, the Lord ſends his Son up and down, carries him from place to place; he is ſet forth before Men's eyes, he comes, and ſtands, and calls, and knocks at their doors, and beſeecheth them to be reconciled: O the free grace of God! O that mercy, pardon, preferment, eternal Life and Salvation ſhould go a begging, and ſuing for acceptance! O the love of ſin, and madneſs of folly in wicked Men, to trample on ſuch Pearls, and to neglect ſo great Salvation when it is tendered unto them! O what a heavy charge will it be for Men at the laſt day, to have the mercy of God, the humility of Chriſt, the entreaties of the Spirit, the Proclamations of Pardon, the approaches of Salvation, the days, the years, the ages of Peace, the Miniſtry of the Word, the Book of God, the great Myſtery of Godlineſs, to riſe up in Judgment, and to teſtifie againſt their Souls? O the Condeſcentions of Chriſt? Who are ye, that the Lord ſhould ſend after you? What need hath God of you? Suppoſe you ſhould go on in the ways of Death, and periſh everlaſtingly, What ſhall God loſe by it? Chriſt might ſay, If you will go on, go on and periſh; if you love ſin ſo well, take your pleaſure in it, and be damned evermore. Ah no, ſaith the mercy of God, and the mercy of Chriſt, before that be, Meſſage after Meſſage, Precept upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little. This was the deſign of Chriſt's chuſing his Apoſtles, Go ye into all the world, and preach the Goſpel unto every Creature, that poor Sinners may turn from ſin and be ſaved.

Sect. 3. Of Chriſt's Reception of Sinners.

2. FOR Chriſt's Reception of Sinners, I cannot limit this only to one year of Chriſt's Miniſtry, but I ſhall only mention it this year. Now this will appear, 1. In the Doctrine of Chriſt. 2. In the practice of Chriſt.

1. In his Doctrine, Chriſt lays it down expreſly. Mat. 11. 28. Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you reſt. It is no more but come, and welcome. The Goſpel ſhuts none out of Heaven, but thoſe that by unbelief lock the door againſt their John 6.37 own Souls. Again, All that the Father giveth me ſhall come unto me, and him that cometh unto me I will in no wiſe caſt out. Here is laid down the full intent and purpoſe of God and Chriſt to pardon and receive Sinners; the Father is willing, and the Son is willing. John. 6.39 1. The Father is willing, This is the Father's will which hath ſent me, that of all which he hath given me, I ſhould loſe none. The Father is engaged, in that firſt he ſent Chriſt on that errand, to receive Sinners. Secondly, in that he gave unto Chriſt all that he would have to be ſaved by Chriſt, with a charge to loſe none. Sinners were given to Chriſt by his Father as ſo many Jewels to look to, and to ſave. 2. The Son is willing, for he that cometh unto me (ſaith Chriſt) I will in no wiſe caſt out. Chriſt is ſo willing to receive Sinners, as that he ſets all his doors open, he keeps open houſe, and he caſts out none that will but come in. And why ſo? For I came down from Heaven not to do mine own will, but the will John 6.38 of him that ſent me. 1. I came down from Heaven. It was a great journey from Heaven to Earth, and this great journey I undertook for no other purpoſe but to ſave Sinners. Great Actions (as one ſays well) muſt needs have great ends. Now this was the greateſt thing that ever was done, that the Son of God ſhould come down from Heaven. And what was the end, but the Reception, and Salvation Luke 19. 10. of Sinners? For the Son of man is come to ſeek, and to ſave that which was loſt: Had not Chriſt come down, Sinners could not have gone up into Heaven, and therefore that they might aſcend, he deſcends. Heb. 31. 2. 2. I come down from Heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that ſent me; his Father had ſent him on purpoſe to receive, and to ſave Sinners; and to this purpoſe he is called the Apoſtle of our profeſſion, ——who was faithful to him that appointed him, as alſo Moſes was faithful in all his houſe. His Father could not ſend him on any errand, but he was ſure to do it. His Father's Miſſion was a ſtrong demonſtration, that Chriſt was willing to receive thoſe Sinners that would but come to him.

John 7.37 Again, Jeſus ſtood and cried, ſaying, If any man thirſt, let him come unto me, and drink: The very pith, heart, and marrow of the Goſpel is contained in theſe words: The occaſion of them was thus: On that laſt day of the Feaſt of Tabernacles, the Jews were wont with great Solemnity to draw water out of the fountain of Siloam, at the foot of Mount Sion, and to bring it to the Altar, ſinging out of Iſa. 12. 3. Iſaiah, With joy ſhall ye draw water out of the wells of Salvation. Now Chriſt takes them at this Cuſtom, and recalls them from earthly to heavenly waters, Iſa. 55. 1, 3. alluding to that of Iſaiah, Ho every one that thirſteth, come ye to the waters ——Incline your ears, and come unto me, and your ſouls ſhall live. The Father ſaith come, the Son ſaith come, the Spirit ſaith come, yea, the Spirit and the Bride ſay come, and let him that Rev. 22. 17. heareth ſay come, and let him that is a-thirſt come, and whoſoever will, let him drink of the water of life freely. All the time of Chriſt's Miniſtry, we ſee him tiring himſelf in going about from place to place, upon no other errand than this, to cry at the Markets, Ho every one that thirſteth, come ye to the waters! If any Sinners love life, if any will go to Heaven, let them come to me, and I will ſhew them the way to my Father's boſom and endear them to my Father's heart.

Again, hither tend all thoſe Arguments of God and Chriſt, to draw Souls to themſelves. Thus God draws, 1. From his equity, Hear now O houſe of Iſrael, is not my way equal? Or are not your ways un- Ezek. 18. 25. equal? q. d. I appeal to your very Conſciences, is this equal, that Sinners ſhould go on in ſin, and treſpaſs againſt him that is ſo willing to receive and ſave poor Sinners? 2. From our ruin, in caſe we Ezek. 18. 31. go on in ſin, Caſt away from you all your Tranſgreſſions, whereby ye have tranſgreſſed, and make you a new heart, and a new Spirit, for why will ye die, O houſe of Iſrael? 3. From his own diſlike and diſpleaſure at our ruin, I have no pleaſure in the death of him that dieth, ſaith the Lord God, wherefore turn your Souls, and live Ver. 32. ye. 4. From his mercy and readineſs, to pardon Sinners, Let the wicked forſake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Iſa. 55. 7. Lord, and he will have mercy upon him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. 5. From the freeneſs of his love, I will love them freely, and God ſo loved the world, ſo Hoſ. 14.4. fully, ſo fatherly, ſo freely, that he gave his only begotten Son, &c. and I will give unto him that is a thirſt of the John 3. 16 fountain of the water of life freely. 6. From the ſweetneſs Rev. 31.6 of his Name, The Lord, the Lord, merciful and Exod. 34. 6, 7. gracious, long-ſuffering and abundant in goodneſs and truth, keeping mercy for thouſands, forgiving iniquity, Tranſgreſſion and ſin. 7. From the benefits that would follow, O that thou hadſt hearkened to my commandments, then had thy peace been as a River, and thy righteouſneſs as the waves of the Sea. Thy ſeed alſo had been as the Iſa.48. 18, 19. Sand, and the off-ſpring of thy bowels like the gravel thereof. 8. From his Oath; As I live, ſaith the Lord, I deſire not the Death of a Sinner, but rather that he ſhould turn from his wickedneſs and live: O happy creatures (ſaith Tertullian) for whom God ſwears! O unbelieving wretches, if we will not truſt God ſwearing! 9. From his expoſtulations, Turn ye, turn ye from Ezek. 33. 61. your evil ways, for why will ye die, O houſe of Iſrael? O Ezek. 33. 11. my People, what have I done to thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? teſtifie againſt me, ——What Mich 6.3. could I have done more for my vineyard than I have done? Iſa. 5.4. wherefore, when I looked that it ſhould bring forth grapes, Iſa. 5. 3. brought it forth wild grapes? 10. From his Appeals, Mich.6. 2. Judge now, O ye inhabitants of Judah and Jeruſalem——and hear O ye Mountains the Lords controverſie: and ye ſtrong foundations of the earth, for the Lord hath a Deut. 5. 29. controverſie with his People, and he will plead with Iſrael. 11. From his groans, Oh that there were ſuch an heart in them that they would fear me, and keep Deut. 32. 29. my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and their Children for ever. And Oh that they were wiſe, that they underſtood this, that they would conſider their latter end. 12. From his loathneſs to give Men up, How ſhall I give thee up, Ephraim? how ſhall I deliver thee O Iſrael? how ſhall I make thee as Admah? how ſhall I ſet thee as Zeboim? my heart Hoſ. 11.8. is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together. O the goodneſs of God!

And as God the Father, ſo God the Son draws Arguments to win Souls to himſelf, 1. From his coming; it was the very purpoſe and deſign of his coming down from Heaven to receive Sinners, This is a Faithful ſaying (ſays Paul) and worthy of all Accep- 1 Tim. 1. 15. tation, that Chriſt Jeſus came into the World to ſave Sinners.

Sinners. 2. From his fair demeanour and behaviour towards ſinners; this was ſo open and notorious, that it was turned to his diſgrace and opprobry, Mat. 11. 19. Behold a friend of Publicans and Sinners? And the Scribes and Phariſees murmured at him, and Luke 5.30 his Diſciples ſaying, Why do ye eat and drink with Publicans and Sinners? 3. From his owning of Sinners, and anſwering for them in this reſpect, Luke 5.31, 32. And Jeſus anſwering ſaid unto them, They that are whole need not a Phyſician, but they that are ſick; I came not to call the righteous but Sinners to repentance. 4. From his rejoicing at Sinners Converſion: Indeed we never read of Chriſt's Laughter, and we ſeldom read of Chriſt's Joy; but when it is at any time recorded, it is at the Converſion of a poor Soul; he had little elſe to comfort himſelf in, being a Man of ſorrows: Luk. 19. 21. but in this he rejoiced exceedingly, In that hour Jeſus rejoiced in Spirit; it was in that hour when he ſaw an handſel of the fruit of his Diſciples Miniſtry, as an earneſt of the many thouſands that ſhould afterwards come in; Joh. 11. 15 And am I glad for your ſakes that I was not there (ſaid Chriſt when Lazarus was dead:) But why was he glad? It follows, to the intent ye might believe. He rejoiced if any of his, got Faith; a little more Faith, more and more Faith. 5. From grief in caſe of Sinners not repenting; witneſs his tears over Jeruſalem, and thoſe ſpeeches of his; Luke 19. 41, 42 And when he was come near, he beheld the City, and wept over it, ſaying, if thou hadſt known, even thou at leaſt in this thy day the things which belong unto thy peace; but now they are hid from thine eyes? Look as it is with a Man carrying to be buried, his Wife weeps, his Children weep, his Friends weep, ſo our Saviour follows Jeruſalem to the grave, and when he can do no more for it, he rings out this doleful paſſing-bell, Mat. 23. 27. O that thou hadſt known, &c. 6. From his wiſhes, Groanings; O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, thou that killeſt the Prophets, and ſtoneſt them which are ſent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy Children together, even as an Hen gathers her Chickens under her wings; and ye would not? In this Argument, before we paſs it, obſerve we the ſeveral paſſages; here's firſt, the Groan; Oh! this Aſpiration argues a compaſſionate pang of grief; it ran to the very heart of Chriſt, that Jeruſalem had neglected their Souls Salvation: Oh Jeruſalem! Secondly, here's an ingemination, or a double calling on Jeruſalem, Oh Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem! the Name doubled expreſſeth great affection in the ſpeaker, as when David doubled the name Abſolom, 2 Sam. 18. 33. it is ſaid, the King was much moved, and ſo he cryed, O my Son Abſolom, my Son, my Son Abſolom. Thirdly, here's the monſtrous Sin wherewith the Lord charges Jeruſalem. Thou that killeſt the Prophets, and ſtoneſt them which are ſent unto thee; Jeruſalem was the very ſlaughter-houſe of the Prophets, in ſo much that very few of the Prophets had been murthered elſewhere, and ſo comparatively Chriſt ſpeaks, Luk. 13. 33. it cannot be that a Prophet periſh out of Jeruſalem. Fourthly, here's Chriſt's willingneſs to ſave Jeruſalem, which he diſcovers. 1. In his frequent application to it. how often? q. d. not once, nor twice, nor thrice, but many and many a time have I come to Jeruſalem, and ſpoke to Jeruſalem, and wooed Jeruſalem, how often? 2. In the acting, exerciſing, and putting forth of his Will, how often would I have gathered thy Children together? The Will of Chriſt was ſerious, though not abſolute; I know his Divine Will abſolutely conſidered could not have been reſiſted; but this was * not his abſolute Will, but only a Will of Divine complacency; and ſo he would not have the death of any, but that all ſhould live; or he ſpeaks here of his Humane miniſterial Will (ſay ſome) and not of his Divine: many a Sermon had he preached, and many an Exhortation had he dropped, and every Sermon, every Exhortation proclaimed his willingneſs, I would, yea, that I would have gathered thy Children together. 3. In reſemblance of his willingneſs, Chriſt would have gathered Jeruſalem's Children as the Hen gathers her chickens under her wings; in the Metaphor Chriſt's care is admirably diſplayed. 1. As the Hen with her wings covers the unfeathered Chickens. 2. As the Hen provides for their Food, not eating herſelf till they are filled. 3. As the Hen defends her Chickens from the ravenous Birds, ſo that to Blood ſhe will fight in their defence; ſo hath Chriſt's care been for Jeruſalem. Auguſt. tract. 15. in Joan. No bird (ſaith Auſtin) expreſſeth ſuch tender love to her young ones as the Hen doth; No fowls ſo diſcover themſelves to be Mothers, as Hens do; other Birds we know to be Mothers, when we ſee them in their Neſt, but no other way; only the Hen diſcovers her ſelf to be a Mother, when her Chickens do not follow her; for then her Feathers ſtand up, her wings hang down, ſhe clocketh mournfully, and goeth feebly; now in reſpect of this ſingular love, Chriſt compares himſelf to an Hen; As an Hen gathers her Chickens, ſo would I have gathered Jeruſalem, 4. In that he adds ſo dolefully, but ye would not; I would but ye would not; q. d. in me no care ſo great as to ſave your Souls, in you no care ſo little as your Souls Salvation; I ſtrove towards you in acts of Love, and you ſtrove towards me in acts of ingratitude; I would have done you good, but you would not receive it, I would, yea how often would I but ye would not.

2. Chriſt's reception of Sinners appears yet more in his practice. How welcome were all ſorts of Sinners unto him? He caſts out none that acknowleged him for the Meſſiah, he turned none away that gave up their Souls to be ſaved by him in his own way This he manifeſts. 1. Parabolically. 2. Really.

1. Parabolically, eſpecially in thoſe three Parables, of the loſt Groat, and of the loſt Sheep, and of the loſt Son; I ſhall inſtance in this laſt, which may well ſerve for all the reſt.——When the Prodigal was yet afar off, his Father ſaw him, and had compaſſion on him, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him. Luke 15. 20. In theſe words obſerve, 1. His Father ſees him before he ſees his Father; no ſooner a Sinner thinks of Heaven, but the Lord ſpies him and takes notice of him. 2. The Lord ſees him whiles he was yet a great way off; he was but in the beginning of his way; his Father might have let him alone till he had come quite home to his Houſe, and it had been a ſingular Mercy to have bid him welcome then; but he takes notice of him yet a great way off: ſinners may be far off from God in their own apprehenſions, and yet the Lord even then draws near, whiles thus they apprehend. 3. His Father had pity or compaſſion on him; the Lords bowels even yearn, and work, and ſtir within him at the ſight of his returning Prodigals; when Ephraim had bemoaned himſelf, Thou haſt chaſtiſed me, and I was chaſtiſed, as a bullock unaccuſtomed to the yoke; Jer. 31. 18, 19. V. 20. why then crys God; Is Ephraim my dear ſon? is he a pleaſant Child? for ſince I ſpake againſt him, I do earneſtly remember him ſtill; therefore my Bowels are troubled for him, I will ſurely have mercy upon him ſaith the Lord—— 4. His Father run: there is much in this: As, 1. It had been mercy though his Father had ſtood ſtill, till his Son had come. 2. What a mercy is this, that his Father will go, and give his Son the meeting? 3. But above all, oh what abundant mercy call we this, that the Father will not go, but run? If he would needs meet his Son, might he not have walked towards him in a ſoft ſlow pace? O no, if a Sinner will but come, or creep towards Chriſt, mercy will not go a foot-pace, but run to meet him; bowels full of mercy out-pace bowels pinched with hunger ; God's mercy is over all his Works, and ſo it is over all our needs, and over all our Sins. 5. He ran, and fell on his Neck ; (i. e) he hugged and embraced him ; O wonder ! who would not have been loth to have touched him ? was he not in his loathſome ſtinking rags ? ſmelt he not of the Hogs and Swine he lately kept ? would not ſome dainty ſtomacks have been ready to have caſt all up upon ſuch embracements ? we ſee mercy is not nice, When Ezek.16.6 I paſſed by (ſaith God) I ſaw thee polluted in thy own blood, and I ſaid unto thee when thou waſt in thy blood, live ; yea, I ſaid unto thee when thou waſt in thy blood, live ; that very time of her blood, was the time of love ; then the Lord ſpread his Spirit over her, and Ver.6. covered her nakedneſs, and ſwore unto her, and entered into a Covenant with her, and ſhe became his. 6. He ran, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him ; who would have brooked a perſon in ſo filthy a pickle ? what ? kiſs thoſe lips that have been ſo lately lapping in the Hogs-trough ? thoſe lips that had ſo often kiſſed thoſe baſe, and beggarly, and abominable Harlots ? one would think he ſhould rather have kicked, than kiſſed him : there is a paſſage Gen.33.4. ſomewhat like this, and Eſau ran to meet Jacob, and he embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him ; before, he had thought to have killed him, but now he kiſſed him ; it's not to tell how dear the Father was to his Prodigal Son, when he ran, and fell on his neck, and embraced, and kiſſed him. The Scope of the Parable is this, that Chriſt is willing and glad to receive Ezek. 33. 11. Sinners : Turn ye, turn ye, from your evil ways ; for why will ye die O houſe of Iſrael ?

2. Chriſt manifeſts this willingneſs in his practice really ; amongſt many inſtances I ſhall inſiſt only on one, a notable inſtance of this year : One of the Phariſees named Simon invited Chriſt to eat with Luk. 36. 37. him : Into whoſe houſe when he had entred, a certain Woman that was a Sinner abiding there in the City, heard of it ; a Widow ſhe was, and prompted by her Wealth and Youth to an intemperate Life : She came to Jeſus in the Phariſees houſe, and no ſooner come, but ſhe lays her burthen at Jeſus's feet, and preſents him with a broken heart, and weeping eye, and an Alabaſter Box of Oint- Ver. 38. ment. She ſtood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to waſh his feet with her tears, and to wipe them with the heirs of her head ; and ſhe kiſſed his feet, and Anointed them with Ointment. 1. She ſtands at his feet, a ſign of her humility : O what a change ! She that was before Married to a Noble perſonage, a Native of the Town and Caſtle of Magdal, from whence ſhe had her name of Magdalen ; and ſhe that now was a Widow, and therefore took her liberty of Pride and Luſt, who ſo Proud and Vile as Mary Magdalen ? At this time ſhe comes in remorſe and regret for her Sins, and throwing away her former Pride, ſhe ſtoops, and waits, and humbly ſtands at Jeſus feet. 2. She ſtood at his feet behind him ; a bluſhing ſign of Faith ; it comprehends in it a Tacite confeſſion of her Sins, ſhe knew her ſelf unworthy of Chriſt's preſence ; ſhe durſt not look him in the Face, but believingly ſhe waits behind him : her ſhame ſpeaks her repentance ; and her waiting on him, and not flying from him, beſpeaks her Faith. 3. She ſtood at his feet behind him weeping, her grief burſt out in tears : ſhe heeds not the feaſt, or feaſter, though uſually they are accompanied with Joy, and Mirth, and Muſick ; and ſuch feaſts attended with ſuch vanities ſhe many a time had probably obſerved, yet now ſhe comes in, trembling to this feaſt, and falling down before Chriſt, ſhe weeps, and weeps bitterly for her Sins. 4. She began to waſh his feet with tears ; her tears were not feigned, but fruitful ; ſhe wept a ſhower of tears ; one conſidering her tears, cries it out, Terra rigat cœlum, the very Earth bedews Heaven ; her Eyes that before we are abuſed to luſt, are now Fountains of tears ; ſhe pours out a flood, great enough to waſh the Feet of her bleſſed Jeſus ; this was the manner of the Jews, to eat their meat lying down, and leaning on their Elbows ; or if many eat together, leaning in the boſoms of one another ; thus at the Paſſover it is ſaid, that there was leaning on Jeſus Boſom John 13. 23. one of his Diſciples whom Jeſus loved ; And in this poſture Jeſus ſitting or lying at meat, Mary had the convenience to weep on his feet, which he had caſt behind his fellow ; and O how ſhe weeps amain ! the Tears ſo tricle, that ſhe begins to waſh Chriſt's feet ; ſhe not only waters them, but waſhes them ; that which Jeremy wiſhed, O that my head were waters, and Jer.6.1. mine eyes a Fountain of Tears ! Mary fulfills ; for her head is waters, and her eyes are Fountains ; Rivers of Tears run down her eyes ; O ſhe had pierced Chriſt with her Sins, and now ſhe weeps over him whom ſhe had pierced ; crying out as we may imagine, O my Sins ! and O my Chriſt ! O foul Sins ! and O ſweet Jeſus ! 5. She wipes his feet with the Hairs of her Head ; her hair added to her beauty, ſometimes in curling rings, or in ſeemly ſheds. She made it a ſnare for Men ; but now ſhe conſecrates it to her Lord, and makes it a Towel to wipe Chriſt's feet withal : O here's a worthy fruit of ſerious repentance, the Apoſtle calls it an holy revenge. 6. She kiſſed his feet ; in token 2 Cor. 7. 11. of her new choice, and new love, and new affection ; her kiſſes had formerly been to wantons, but now ſhe beſtows them on the feet of Chriſt. 7. She anointed them with ointment ; which expreſſion was ſo great an ecſtaſie of love, and ſorrow, and adoration, that to anoint the feet of the greateſt Monarch was long unknown, and in all the pomps of Roman Prodigality, it was never uſed till Otho taught it Nero. When Simon obſerved this Sinner ſo buſie in the expreſſes of her Religion, he thought within himſelf that Chriſt was no Prophet, that he did not know her to be a Sinner ; for although the Jews Religion did permit Harlots to live, and to enjoy the privileges of the Nation, ſave that their Oblations were refuſed ; yet the Phariſees who pretended to a greater degree of ſanctity than others, would not admit them to civil uſages, or to the benefits of ordinary ſociety : and hence Simon made an objection within himſelf, which Jeſus knowing (for he underſtood his thoughts as well as words) firſt he makes her Apology, and then his own : the ſcope giving us to underſtand, that Chriſt was not of the ſame ſuperciliouſneſs with the Phariſees, but that repenting Sinners ſhould be welcome unto him ; and this welcome he publiſheth firſt to Simon, Her Sins which are many are Ver. 47. forgiven ; and then to the Woman, Thy Sins are for- Ver 48, given thee, thy Faith hath ſaved thee, go in Peace. Ver. 50.

Uſe. I have been long in the Proof : But a word of Uſe, and I have done. What ? is Chriſt moſt willing to receive Sinners ? O then be exhorted ! who would not come to Jeſus Chriſt ? methinks now all Sinners of all ſorts ſhould ſay, though I have been a drunkard, a ſwearer, an unclean Perſon, yet now I hear Chriſt is willing to receive Sinners, and therefore I will go to Jeſus Chriſt. This is my exhortation, O come unto Chriſt, come unto Chriſt ; behold here in the name of the Lord I ſtand, and make invitation to poor Sinners ; O will ye not come ? How will ye anſwer it at the great day, when it ſhall be ſaid, the Lord Jeſus made a tender and offer of Mercy to you, and you would not accept of it ? Oh come to Chriſt, and believe on Chriſt ; as Chriſt is willing to receive you, ſo be you willing to give up your Souls to him ; the motives to this I may lay down in theſe particulars. ———

1. The Doctrine of Chriſt, Come unto me,—and him that cometh unto me, I will in no wiſe caſt out. All the arguments of God and Chriſt, of which you have heard, the practice of Chriſt whiles he was upon Earth, and the heart of Chriſt now in Heaven. Lay theſe together, and apply them to your own Souls. O what work will they make!

2. The calls of God, and Chriſt; as they are frequent in Scriptures; conſider that Text, Ho, every one that Thirſts, come, ye to the waters! (Iſa. 55. 1. [Ho] he begins proclamation-wiſe; we uſually ſay, vocations, interjections ſpeak very affectionate motion towards the diſtreſſed; certainly Chriſt's love is a very affectionate love, he lays his mouth to the ears of thoſe that are ſpiritually deaf, and cries aloud, Ho [every one] Chriſt invites all: As many as ye ſhall find, bid them to the Marriage, Matth. 22. 9. As the Heavens are general in their influence, not one graſs on the ground but 'tis bedewed; ſo are Chriſt's invitations to his feaſt, not one man in the World but he is invited? [Ho, every one that thirſteth] ſo the Apoſtle, Let him that is athirſt come, and whoſoever will, let him take the water of Life freely, Revel. 22. 17. A thirſt and a Will is one and the ſame, it is your Will that makes up the Match; if you will but ſit down at God's Table, if you will but have the Honey-comb with the Honey, if you will but drink his Wine with his milk, if you will drink, yea drink abundantly of the flaggons of the new wine of his Kingdom; why then come, Come ye to the waters; come unto me and drink. Chriſt's arms are ſpread abroad to receive Sinners; he calls and knocks; and calls and waits; and calls and beſeeches; every Word here hath ſo much ſweetneſs and dearneſs in it, as it plainly ſpeaks him free and willing to receive you, if you will but come.

3. The wooings of Chriſt to gain your hearts; conſider him bowing the Heavens, and coming down, and laying aſide his Robes of Majeſty, and putting on your filthy garments; conſider him going about from place to place, on no other errand, but to gain your hearts, and win your Souls; and whoever ſpake ſuch effectual Words as Chriſt ſpake when he was upon the Earth? who ever gave ſuch precious jewels to a Bride, as Chriſt gave to his Spouſe; who ever put on ſuch apparel, as Chriſt when he wooed his Church? the Prophet wonders at Iſa.63.1,2 it; Who is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bozrah?——Wherefore art thou red in thine apparel, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the Wine Fat? Iſa. 63. 1, 2. Who ever gave ſuch a love token as Chriſt gave when he laid down his Life? Oh conſider him living, or dying, and ſay, Never like Love to this. Ah poor Sinners, ſee your Jeſus hanging on the Croſs, dropping out his laſt blood, breathing out his laſt breath, ſtretching out his dying arms to incircle Sinners; and come, Oh come and throw your ſelves into his bleeding Arms! Away with all prejudicate Opinions! Who ſhall ſay, Chriſt is not willing to ſave him, and not blaſpheme Eternal love? Speak truth; corrupt heart ſpeak truth; ſay not Chriſt is unwilling; but you are unwilling; I would, but ye would not.

4. The weepings of Chriſt if he cannot prevail. Thus we find him in the Goſpel expreſſing himſelf, not only in words, but in Tears. And when he was come near Jeruſalem, he beheld the city and wept
Luke 19. 41. over it, Luke 19. 41. Chriſt coming to the City and ſeeing it, and foreſeeing the deſoaltion that ſhould come upon it, his bowels yearned within him towards the People, and he mourned ſecretly within himſelf. q. d. O Jeruſalem, thou haſt had many Prieſts to adviſe thee, and many Prophets to inſtruct thee in the ways of Life, but now thoſe days are gone and paſt; nay, the great Prophet of the World is come to Woe thee, but yet thy heart is hardened, and thou wilt not receive the things belonging to thy Peace, and therefore I will turn my Preaching into Mourning and Sighing. O that thou hadſt known, even thou, at leaſt in this thy day, the things belonging to thy peace—and then his heart even breaks, and he weeps again, but now are they hid from thine eyes! Sinners ſuppoſe Chriſt ſhould come and weep over you, as he did over Jeruſalem, ſaying, O ye ſinful Souls, had but you known, even you in this your day, the things belonging to your Peace! And ſuppoſe that you ſhould ſee one tear trickling down after another; what? Chriſt to weep for you, over you? Methinks if you had hearts of ſtone, it ſhould melt your hearts; ſurely it is no light matter that makes Chriſt weep; Children weep often, but wiſe-men ſeldom, yet here the wiſeſt of Men weeps for them that would weep for themſelves; O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem.

Sect. 4. Of Chriſt's eaſy Yoke, and light Burthen.

3. FOR the eaſineſs of Chriſt's Yoke, and the lightneſs of Chriſt's Burthen, Chriſt delivers it in theſe words. Take my Yoke upon you and learn of Mat. 11.
me,——for my Yoke is eaſie, and my Burthen is light, 29, 30.
See the Actings of Chriſt this Year in reference to our ſouls health. 1. He commiſſionates his Apoſtles to call ſinners in. 2. He ſtands ready to receive them if they will but come in. 3. He ſweetens the way of Chriſtianity to them when they are come in. Many fears and jealouſies are in the hearts of Men, of the difficulty, auſterity, and ſeverity of Chriſt's inſtitutions; and therefore to remove that Objection, he tells them plainly, there is no ſuch thing, but rather clean contrary, For my Yoke is eaſie, and my Burthen is light.

My Yoke (i. e.) my Commandments, ſo the Apoſtle John gives the interpretation, His Commandments 1 John.7.
are not grievous. My Yoke is eaſie; (i. e.) my Commandments are without any inconvenience; the trouble of a Yoke is not the Weight, but the uneaſineſs of it, and Chriſt ſpeaks ſutably, My Yoke is eaſie, and my Burthen (i. e.) my Inſtitutions; the Word primarily ſignifies the fraight or balaſt of a Ship, which cuts through the Waves, as if it had no Burthen; and without which Burthen there were no ſafety in the Ship: φορτίον παρά το φέρεσθει, à ferendo, a Burthen which either is laid upon the ſhoulder, or rather which is put into a Ship, that it may go ſteddily and ſafely. My Burthen is light, the Yoke of the Law was hard, and the Burthen of the Phariſees was heavy, but Chriſt's Yoke is eaſie, and his Burthen is light, every way ſweet, and pleaſant.

Chriſtian Religion, and the Practice of it, are full of Sweetneſs, Eaſineſs, and Pleaſantneſs; My Yoke is eaſie, and my Burthen is light.

The Prophets propheſying of this, ſay thus; Every Valley ſhall be exalted, and every Mountain and Iſa. 40.4
Hill ſhall be laid low; the crooked ſhall be made ſtraight, and the rough places plain; the meaning is, that the ways of Chriſtianity ſhould be levelled and made even; and that all lets and impediments ſhould be removed out of the way; that ſo we might have a more eaſie and convenient paſſage unto Heaven; to the ſame purpoſe is that other Prophecy, And an high way (or cauſway) ſhall be there; and a way, a cauſway, and a way (that is, a way caſt up) Iſa. 62. Iſa. 62.10.
10. And it ſhall be called the way of Holineſs, (or a way for the Saints of God, and not for the Wicked,

The Apoſtles are yet more clear; For this is the Love of 1 Joh.5.3. God, that we keep his Commandments and his Commandments Rom. 8.2. are not grievous. And the Law of the Spirit of life in Chriſt Jeſus hath made me free from the Law of Sin and Death. And Rom. 7.6. now are we delivered from the Law, that being dead wherein we were held, that we ſhould ſerve in newneſs of Spirit, and not in the oldneſs of the letter. Chriſt Jeſus came to break off from our Necks thoſe two great Yokes, the one of Sin, by which we are kept in Fetters and Priſons; the other of Moſes's Law, by which we are kept in Pupillage and Minority; and now Chriſt having taken off theſe two, he hath put on a third; he quits us of our Burthen, but not of our Duty; he hath changed the Yoke of Sin, and the Yoke of the Law ſtrictly taken, into the ſweetneſs of his Fatherly Regiment, whoſe very Precepts carry part of their reward in hand, and aſſurance of Glory afterward.

The reaſons of the ſweetneſs, eaſineſs and pleaſantneſs of Chriſtian Religion, and the Practice of it, I ſhall reduce into theſe Heads.

1. Chriſtian Religion is moſt rational. If we ſhould look into the beſt Laws that the wiſeſt Men in the World ever agreed upon, we ſhall find that Chriſt adopted the Quinteſſence of them all into this one Law: The higheſt pitch of reaſon is but as a Spark, a Taper, a leſſer Light, which is involved and ſwallowed up in the Body of this great Light, that is made up by the Son of Righteouſneſs. Some obſerve that Chriſt's Diſcipline is the Breviary of all the Wiſdom of the Beſt men, and a fair Copy and Tranſcript of his Fathers wiſdom; there is nothing in the laws of Chriſtian Religion, but what is the perfective of our Spirits, rare expedient of obeying God, and of doing duty and benefit to all capacities and orders of men. Indeed the Greeks, whom the World admired for their human wiſdom, accounted the Preaching of the Goſpel fooliſhneſs, and thereupon God blaſted their wiſdom, as it is written, I will deſtroy the wiſdom of the wiſe, and will bring to 1 Cor. 1. 19. nothing the underſtanding of the Prudent, 1 Cor. 1. 19. the Goſpel may be as fooliſhneſs unto ſome, but unto 1 Cor. 1. 24. them which are called—— Chriſt the Power of God, and the wiſdom of God.

2. Chriſtian Religion hath leſs trouble and ſlavery in it than Sin, or any thing that is contrary to it; as for inſtance; he that propounds to himſelf to live a low, a pious, an humble and retired life, his main imployment is nothing but ſitting Religiouſly quiet, and undiſturbed with variety of impertinent affairs; but he that loves the World entertains a thouſand buſineſſes, and every buſineſs hath a World of employments. How eaſie a thing is it to reſtore a Pledge? But if a Man means to defeat, or to cozen him that truſts him, what a world of Arts muſt he uſe to make pretences? as firſt to delay, then to excuſe, then to object, then to intricate the buſineſs, then to quarrel; and all the way to palliate the Crime, and to repreſent himſelf an honeſt man: The ways of Sin are crooked, deſart, rocky, and uneven ways. The Apocryphal Book of Solomon brings in ſuch men, as if in Hell they were ſpeak-Wiſd. 5.7. ing this Language, We wearied our ſelves in the way of wickedneſs; yea, we have gone through deſarts, where there lay no way; but as for the way of the Lord we have not known it. Wicked men are in Thraldom, but 2 Cor. 3. 17. where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom. O the pains, troubles, expences that men are at to ſerve their Senſuality! ſee how the ambitious man riſeth early, and goes to Bed late; ſee how he flatters, diſſembles, ſolicites to obtain nothing but a little Wind, a Puff, a Breath of vain mens Mouths! See how the covetous man toils, as if he were tied in a Gally by the Leg with a Chain to ſerve by rowing for ever; ſo I have heard, that Turks uſe ſome Chriſtians; but this is a Thouſand times worſe Servitude, for ſuch a one is in ſervitude to a more baſe Creature than a Turk, and he lies bound not only by the Feet, but alſo by the Hands, Ears, Eyes, Heart and all; only the Chriſtian is at liberty; only Chriſtian Religion and the practice of it ſets men at liberty; If ye continue Joh.8. 31, 32. in my word, (ſaith Chriſt) then are ye my Diſciples indeed, and ye ſhall know the Truth, and the Truth ſhall make you free.

3. Chriſtian Religion is all compoſed of peace; her ways are the ways of pleaſantneſs, and all her paths are peace, Prov. 17. 3. Chriſt framed all his Laws in complyance of his deſign of Peace; peace within, and peace at home, and peace abroad: 1. It holds forth a certain Heavenly peace, and Tranquility within; Great peace have they which love thy Law, and nothing ſhall offend them. But on the con-Pſal. 119. 165. trary; The wicked are like the troubled Sea when it can- Iſa. 57. 20, 21. not reſt, whoſe Waters caſt up Mire and Dirt; there is no peace, ſaith my God to the wicked. Their paſſions Pſal. 55.9. were never yet mortified; and ſuch paſſions uſually range in wicked men as are moſt contrary, and demand contrary things; the deſire of Honour cries ſpend here, but the paſſion of avarice cries, hold thy Hands, Luſt cries, venture here; but Pride ſaith, no ſuch thing, it may turn to thy Diſhonour, Anger cries, revenge thy ſelf here, but Ambition ſays, it's better to diſſemble. And here is fulfilled that of the Pſalmiſt, I have ſeen Violence and Strife in the City. The Vulgar renders it, I have ſeen Iniquity and Contradiction in the ſelf ſame City: Firſt, Iniquity for all the demands of theſe paſſions are unjuſt; And, 2. Contradiction, for one paſſion cries out againſt another. But now great peace have they that love thy Law; for by the aid of Chriſt and his Grace, their paſſions are in ſome ſort ſubdued, and they paſs on their Life moſt ſweetly and calmly, without any perturbations much troubling their Spirits; they have that Peace which paſſeth all underſtanding, which the World can neither give nor Joh.14.27 taſte of, as Chriſt affirmeth.

2. It holds forth peace at home; the Laws of Jeſus teach us how to bear with the infirmities of our Relatives, and indeed, whoſoever obeys the Laws of Jeſus Chriſt, he ſeeks with ſweetneſs to remedy all differences, he throws Water upon a Spark, he lives ſweetly with his Wife, affectionately with his Children, diſcreetly with his Servants; and they all look upon him as their Guardian, Friend, and Patron; but look upon an angry man, not ſubject to theſe Chriſtian Laws, and when he enters upon his threſhold, it gives an alaram to his houſe, every little accident is the matter of a quarrel, and every quarrel diſcompoſes the peace of the Houſe, and ſets it on fire, and no Man can tell how far it may burn. O the ſweetneſs, eaſineſs, pleaſantneſs of Chriſtian Religion? Where that is embraced and followed, the Man is peaceable, and charitable, and juſt, and loving, and forbearing, and forgiving; and how ſhould there be but content in this bleſſed Family?

3. It holds out peace abroad, it commands all Offices of kindneſs, gentleneſs, love, meekneſs, humility, lowlineſs of mind towards others; and ſuch ſweet diſpoſitions are uſually received with fondneſs, and all the endearments of the Neighbourhood; it preſcribes an auſtere, and yet a ſweet deportment; it commands all thoſe labours of love, as to relieve the ſtranger, to viſit the ſick, to waſh the feet of the poor; it ſends us upon charitable Embaſſies, to unclean Priſons, naſty Dungeons, and in the Cauſe of Chriſt to lay down our lives one for another; it teacheth us how to return good for evil, kindneſs for injuries, a ſoft anſwer for the rough words of an Enemy; Oh! When I think of this, I cannot but think of him who ſaid, That either this was not the Chriſtian Religion, or we were not Chriſtians. For my part, I am eaſily perſwaded, that if we would but live according to the diſcipline of Chriſtian Religion, one of thoſe great Plagues that vexed the World (I mean the Plague of War) would be no more. Certainly, this was one of the deſigns of Chriſtianity, that there ſhould be no Wars, no Jars, no Diſcontents amongſt Men. And if all Men that are called Chriſtians, were indeed charitable, peaceable, juſt, loving, forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, what ſweeet Peace ſhould we have? How, would this World be an Image of Heaven, and of the ſociety of Saints and Angels above in Glory?

4. Chriſtian Religion affords to us all aſſiſtances both outward and inward. In ſome reſpects, I know the duties of Chriſtianity are hard and heavy; but whatſoever Chriſt hath impoſed as heavy and hard, he hath made it light in aids: I ſhall ſhew the helps in theſe particulars. As——

1. The Holy Scriptures be our helps. This was the very ſcope and aim for which the Sacred Volume was ſent from Heaven, viz. that we might decline from evil, and do good, that we might die to old Adam, and live to Chriſt; that we might crucifie ſin, and follow Virtue. What are the Scriptures but the Regiſters of God's Will, the Letters of God's Love to invite us to Grace, and to dehort us from Vice? O the perſwaſion, directions and commands of God, that we might become holy. And O the diſſwaſions, diverſions, threatnings, and terrifying of God that we might fly Prophaneneſs! 2. The Miniſters of Chriſt be our helps: Thou haſt the Scriptures, but it may be thou canſt not read, or thou canſt not underſtand the ſence and meaning thereof; Chriſt therefore for thy help hath ſet up a Miniſtry for the edifying of the Body of Chriſt. Eph. 4.12. Theſe are the Watchmen over the Houſe of Iſrael to cry like Trumpets, and to blazon the ſins of the Houſe of Iſrael. Theſe are the Suitors of God and Chriſt to ſpeak out his good will in thine ears; they call, they cry, they wait, they wooe, they Pray you in Chriſt's ſtead, that you will be reconciled unto God. 2 Cor. 5. 20.

3. The lives of Saints be our helps? we have not only Teachers in word, but the Saints in all Ages, as ſo many Stars, have given us light how to walk in the darkneſs of this life. The examples of the godly are very drawing, and much for our imitation; and therefore the Pſalmiſt bids us, Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace. Pſal. 37. 37. O it's a bleſſed help to a Chriſtian life to read over, much more to mark, and obſerve the holy and godly lives of the Saints of God; how doth their Zeal condemn our coldneſs, their diligence our negligence, their watching and prayer, our ſluggiſhneſs and indevotion; And how are they as ſpurs to quicken us forwards in our ſpiritual Voyage towards Heaven?

4. Chriſt's Ordinances be our helpers; as the Word, and Sacraments, and Prayer, and Meditation, and Conference, &c. What are they but Fountains of grace, conduits and conveyances of the blood of Chriſt? To what end were they inſtituted, but for the watering of our Souls to the increaſe of grace, and to the ſupplanting of ſin and vice, and all manner of evil?

5. The encouragements of reward be our helps. Now in the practice of Chriſtian Religion there is a double reward. 1. The reward of duty, In the keeping of thy Commandments there is great reward; Pſal. 19 11. he ſaith not, for keeping them, but in keeping them there is great reward, there is a grace, a beauty, an excellency in every gracious acting. 2. The reward according to the duty; to this exerciſe of Religion, Chriſt hath annexed many ſweet and gracious Promiſes, both for this life, and that to come. And theſe Promiſes may be uſed as helps; He had reſpect unto the recompence of Reward. Heb. 11. 26. To this purpoſe are the glorious things of Heaven ſet open before us, that we may have an eye to them, and be incouraged by them. So run that ye may obtain. 1 Cor. 9. 24.

6. The openings and diſcoveries of the pains of Hell are as helps to reſtrain us from ſin, and to keep us in the way to Chriſt. This, ſome call legal, but Chriſt in the Goſpel tells us of this. In the Goſpel we find a deſcription of Hell-pains, ſet out by weeping, and wailing and gnaſhing of teeth; Matth. 8. 12. by a worm never dying, and a fire never going out. Mark 9. 44. Oh! When I think of thoſe unquenchable flames, thoſe remedileſs Torments, without hope of recovery, remiſſion, or mitigation. When I think of that privation and loſs of the ſight of God's face, prepared only for thoſe that ſerve him in Holineſs, how ſhould I but look about me, and prepare for my reckoning? Nay, how eaſie ſhould I think any pains in compariſon? Some Perſons in affrightment have been ſeen to carry burthens, and to leap ditches, and climb walls, which their natural Power could never have done. And if we underſtood the ſadneſs of a curſed Eternity, from which we are commanded to fly, and yet know how near we are to it, and how likely to fall into it, if we continue in ſin, it would be able to create fears greater than a ſudden fire, or a mid-night alarm.

7. A principle of love (whereſoever it is planted) is our help; be the yoke never ſo uneaſie, yet love will make it light; Solomon compares the eſtate of the Church to a chariot, and it is deſcribed to have Pillars of Silver, and a bottom of Gold, and a Covering of Purple, the midſt thereof being paved with Love. Cant. 3.10 A ſtrange expreſſion, that the midſt of a Chariot ſhould be paved with Love. But 'tis plain, the Chariots wherein Chriſt carries his People up and down in the World, and brings them to himſelf, is ſuch a Chariot as the midſt thereof is paved with Love. In this caſe, if there were neither Heaven, nor Hell, yet a Soul would be in the duties of Chriſtianity. I remember how Ivo Biſhop of Chartres, meeting a grave Matron on the way with fire in one hand, and water in the other, he asked her what thoſe Symbols meant? And what ſhe meant to do with her Fire and Water? She anſwered, My purpoſe is with the fire to burn Paradiſe, and with the water to quench the flames of Hell, that Men may ſerve God (ſaid ſhe) without the incentives of hope and fear, and purely for the love of God, and Jeſus Chriſt. Surely, it was an high expreſſion; for my part, I dare not ſeparate thoſe things which God hath joined together. Only this I ſay, that where true Love is, there is an excellent help in our way Heavenwards.

8. The Angels be our helps; They are Miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to Miniſter for them who ſhall be Heirs of Salvation, Heb. 1. 14. Heb. 1.14. and the kind of their Miniſtration is excellently ſet forth by the Pſalmiſt, They ſhall keep thee in all thy ways, they ſhall bear thee up in their hands, leſt thou daſh thy foot againſt a ſtone, Pſal. 91. 11, 12. in this place the Angels are compared to Nurſes that have a charge over weak Children to keep them and guard them. So the Angels do all the Offices of a Nurſe, or Mother; they keep us, guard us, inſtruct us, admoniſh us, correct us, comfort us, preſerve us from evil, and provoke us to good.

9. The Motions, Inſpirations, bleſſed Influences of the Spirit of Chriſt be our helps. Many a time the Spirit cries, and calls on our hearts, ſaying, ſa.30.21. This is the way, walk therein: As the evil Spirit, or Devil in wicked Men is continually moving, and inclining them to all evil thoughts, affections, and deſires: So the good Spirit of God in good Men doth incline, and move them to good thoughts, good affections, Rom. 8. 14. good actions; and hence, they are ſaid to be led by the Spirit. There are indeed ſeveral acts of the Spirit; as ſometimes, there is a breathing or ſtirring; ſometimes a quickening, or enlivening; ſometimes a powerful effectual enclining, or bending of our hearts unto good things. Now in ſome of theſe works the Spirit is moſt-what, for in the Progreſs of Sanctification, we need a continual help, and influence from God's Holy Spirit. And when we obey theſe Con- Gal.5.24. ducts, we are ſaid to walk in the Spirit. And as all theſe are helps in the ways of Chriſtianity; ſo by theſe helps and aſſiſtances of Chriſt's Holy Spirit, Chriſtianity is made very eaſie unto us.

10. The Grace of God is our help. Many feeling the ſtrength of corruption cry out with Paul, Rom. 7. 24. O wretched man that I am, who ſhall deliver me from this body of death? O I find a law in my members warring Ver. 23. againſt the law of my mind; but they conſider not the 2 Cor. 12. 9. comfortable ſaying of Chriſt to Paul, My grace is ſufficient for thee; by the aſſiſtance of grace, Paul could Phil.4.13. do any thing. I can do all things through Chriſt that ſtrengtheneth me. Yea, Rom. 8. 37. In all theſe things, we are more than conquerors through him that loved us: The Pſalmiſt Pſal. 119. 32. hath a notable expreſſion, to this purpoſe, I will run the way of thy Commandments, when thou ſhalt enlarge my heart. This enlargement of heart was by the grace of God. Grace is compared to Oil: As a dry Purſe is ſoftned and enlarged by anointing it with Oil; ſo the heart drawn together by ſin, is opened and enlarged by the pouring of grace into it. And if grace be preſent, then ſaith David, I will run the way of thy Commandments; not walk, but run. It is an alluſion to a Cart-Wheel, which crieth and complaineth under a ſmall burthen being dry; but when a little Oil is put into it, it runs merrily, and without noiſe; and if David could ſay thus in his time, how much more ſhould we, that live in theſe Goſpel-times, when grace in greater meaſure is effuſed, and poured out? By the grace of Chriſt (ſhould we ſay) we will walk, and run, and fly in the way of his Commandments.

Uſe. Well, then, is Chriſtian Religion and the practice of it, full of ſweetneſs, eaſineſs, and pleaſantneſs? In the firſt place for conviction, this may take away the cavils of ſome Men. What is ſaid in way of objection, I ſhall reduce to theſe particulars.——

1. They object that Chriſt himſelf confeſſeth it to be a yoke, and a burthen; but not that we anſwer with Chriſt, his Yoke is eaſie, and his Burthen is light. Certainly there are burthens which grieve not the bearers at all, as the burthen of feathers upon a Bird's back; it is nothing grievous to her, but rather bears her up; and a burthen of Gold and Jewels upon a Man's back (ſuppoſing it the reward of his portage, and the hire of his labour) it is nothing grievous to him, but rather cheers him up. Men, Brethren, and Fathers, if we will but come and cloſe with Chriſt, the Spirit is given to enable us, and Heaven is promiſed to encourage us; the one gives Power, and the other ſtirs up our affections, and how then ſhould we complain of preſſure? O it is a ſweet burthen! ſweetned by his Grace, and ſweetned by his Spirit, and ſweetned by a principle of love, O how I Pſal. 119. 97, 174. love thy Law? And ſweetned by a Principle of delight, Pſal. 19. 11. Thy Law is my delight; and ſweetned with a promiſe of reward, In the keeping of thy Commandments there is great reward.

2. They object; we feel no ſuch thing. You tell us of ſweetneſs, eaſineſs, pleaſantneſs; but if we muſt ſpeak out our own experiences, O what a wearineſs is Mal.1.13. it?——When will the New moon be gone, that we may ſell Corn? And the Sabbath, that we may ſet forth wheat? Amos 8.5. We feel a ſweetneſs in theſe preſent enjoyments of the World, but as for Holineſs, Grace, Religion, the Diſcipline of Chriſt, we wonder where the ſweetneſs is, we can find no ſuch ſecret Golden Mines in theſe ſpiritual diggings.

I anſwer, 1. This indeed is the ſpeech of carnal and prophane Men, they feel no ſweetneſs, eaſineſs, pleaſantneſs in God's ways; The natural man receiveth 1 Cor. 2. 14, 15. not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are fooliſhneſs unto him, neither can he know them, becauſe they are ſpiritually diſcerned: But he that is ſpiritual judgeth or diſcerneth all things. Poor Souls! Till God ſpeak to your hearts, you cannot underſtand this hidden Manna. It is obſerved that God never ſent the pleaſant Manna unto Iſrael ſo long as their Flower and Bread of Egypt laſted. So never will you taſte how good the Lord is, ſo long as you doat on ſin and vanity.

Though you feel not theſe things for the preſent, yet in time you may do; yea, certainly if you belong to God, in time you will do; O but when? You will ſay when? I anſwer, the firſt taſte of this ſweetneſs is uſually at the firſt taking of Chriſt's yoke upon us; as Merchants deſirous to ſell their waters, are content in the firſt place to let you ſee, and handle, and taſte, thereby to induce you to buy: So Jeſus Chriſt willing (as it were) to part with Heaven, he is content in the the firſt place to impart a certain taſte before hand, and to ſweeten the ways of godlineſs unto us. Behold, I will allure her (ſaith God) Hoſ. 2.14. and bring her into the Wilderneſs, and ſpeak comfortably unto her. What is it that God means by alluring of his People? I anſwer, it contains theſe things. As,——

1. A diſcovery of the beauty of holineſs; when God firſt effectually calls the Soul home to himſelf, he ſets open the beauty of his ſervice; naturally the heart is poſſeſſed with much prejudice againſt the ways of Religion, Oh! what a ſtrict rule is this to carnal Men, to pull out their right eyes, to cut off their right hands, to hate Father, and Mother, and Wife, and Lands, and Life for the Name of Chriſt, to croſs their own deſires, to deny their own ſelves, to mortifie their earthly Members, to follow the Lamb through evil report and good report, through afflictions, and perſecutions, and manifold temptations whitherſoever he goeth, to war with principalities, and powers, and ſpiritual wickedneſſes in high places? And hence it is that the Lord is forc'd to ſet forth the ways of Chriſt as beautiful, even under croſſes and afflictions. Thus when the Watch-man ſmote the Church, and wounded her, and took away her veil, yet ſhe ſtill acknowledged Chriſt (for whoſe ſake ſhe ſuffered) to be white and ruddy, the faireſt of ten thouſands. Cant. 5.7, 10. Chriſt ſets forth himſelf and his ways in all the grace and goodneſs, and beauty, and ſweetneſs, and lovelineſs that poſſibly may be; q. d. by theſe I will allure them that belong unto me.

2. An out-bidding of all the temptations of other Lovers. Before Chriſt come, Souls go a whoring from Chriſt, their hearts are allured by other Lovers; the World, the Fleſh, and the Devil come in, and they proffer Souls ſuch and ſuch contentments.

But when Chriſt comes, he deals with Souls in a more powerful way, and he out-bids all their former Lovers, q. d. Did their Lovers proffer them comfort? I wil bid more comfort. Did their Lovers proffer gain? I will bid more gain. Did their Lovers proffer Honour and reſpect? I will out bid them in that alſo. And indeed, then hath the Goſpel a true, and full, and gracious work upon the heart, when it yields to the proffers of the Goſpel, as finding that all that the World can bid is now out-bidden. You know, when one comes to offer ſo much for a commodity, and another out-bids him, he carries it away. So when the World, and Luſt, and ſin proffer to the Soul ſuch and ſuch contents, then comes Chriſt and out-bids all, and ſo the bargain is made up, and Chriſt carries the heart away. Sinners, it may be as yet you feel none of theſe things, but in time you may do; and in the mean time, you ſee here is a word for it, Behold I will allure her, &c.

3. They object, the Saints themſelves feel no ſuch things, for ought appears to the World; whoſe ſpirits are more heavy and ſad? As it is ſaid of Chriſt himſelf, that he never laughed, and as David ſaid of himſelf, Why art thou caſt down, O my ſoul, and why art thou diſquieted within me? So it may be ſaid of ſome Chriſtians, if they are ſtrict, that they are ſeldom merry, or pleaſant.——— Pſal. 42. 5.

But I anſwer———1. Chriſtians that keep indeed cloſe to the rule, are for the moſt part ſerious, and the World may ſuppoſe them, as ſad.

2. It may be they are not in their Element, in the acts of Religion, and therefore they cannot expreſs their ſpiritual cheerfulneſs; a fiſh cannot delight it ſelf on the Earth, but when it is in the Water; a Bird doth not ſing on the ground, but when it is got up into the Air; God's People cannot rejoice in Sin, as drunkards and revellers do; but when their Hearts are in Religious exerciſes, and in Communion with God, they are merry and pleaſant.

3. It may be they are in ſuch company as may make them ſad: the Men of the World object againſt Saints, that they are heavy, and ſowre, and Melancholy Men, but in the mean time they conſider not that their ſwearing, revelling, and diſhonouring of God hath made them ſo penſive. Why Sinners! your carriage grieves the very Spirit of God, You grieve God at the Heart, as it is expreſſed, Gen. 6. 6. And therefore no wonder if the Godly cannot rejoice in your ſinful Society; you are the cauſe of their ſadneſs; but admit them once into the company and fellowſhip of the Saints, and they know how to be joyful. Gen. 6. 6.

4. If it be ſo, that uſually they are penſive and ſad, it is not becauſe of Religion, but becauſe they are not more Religious; becauſe they find ſo much want of godlineſs in their own Hearts; this was the cauſe of Paul's heavineſs, O wretched Man that I am, who ſhall deliver me from this body of Death? And yet know, that all theſe ſadneſſes are true preparatives to joy; and therefore in the very next Words, the Apoſtle breaks out into that ſweet Doxology, I thank God, through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. Never was true ſorrow for Sin, but it ended in Rejoicings, and Praiſes, and Thankſgiving to God. Rom. 7. 24.

Why then be convinced; Ah deceived Souls! Say not that God is an hard Maſter, reaping where he ſowed not, and gathering where he ſtrewed not; ſay not that his ways are tedious, and irkſome, and uncomfortable ways; but rather taſte, and ſee, and try how good the Lord is; experience the truth of theſe Words, My Yoke is eaſie, and my Burthen is light: What is Lighter than that Burthen, which inſtead of burthening, Cheers up the Party on which it's laid? Juſt like thoſe burthens of Cinnamon, that refreſh thoſe that carry them through the deep Sands of Arabia. An Holy Divine once endeavouring to convince Men of the ſweetneſs and pleaſantneſs of God's ways by his own experiences; I call Heaven and Earth to Record (ſaith he) that theſe things are Truths of God; they are not Notions, or Conceits, but certain Realities: Another flies ſomewhat higher; If Men would in earneſt (ſays he) abandon the Devil's ſervice, and give up their Names to Chriſt in Truth; and try, I dare aſſure them in the Word of Life and Truth, they would not exchange the ſaddeſt hour of all their Life afterward, with the prime and flower of all their former ſenſual Pleaſures, might they have ten thouſand Worlds to boot; her ways are ways of Pleaſure, ſaith Solomon. Prov. 3. 17.

Uſe 2.

2. You that are ſo convinced, I beſeech you carry on the work of God ſweetly, comfortably, and with delight: the Pſalmiſt ſays, Bleſſed is the Man that delights in the Law of the Lord. And Bleſſed are the undefiled in the way, who walk cheerfully in the Law of the Lord. And bleſſed is the Man that delighteth greatly in his Law. And it is written upon the heart of Chriſt, I delight to do thy will O my God, yea thy Law is within my heart; as God loves a cheerful giver, ſo a cheerful ſerver; Come take my Yoke upon you, ſaith Chriſt, for my Yoke is eaſie; it is not an Iron Yoke of Bondage, but a Chain of Heavenly Pearls to adorn your Souls. Pſal. 1. 1, 2. Pſal. 1. 19. 1. Pſal. 40. 8.

Oh, but how ſhould we carry on the Work, the Yoke, the Duty, the Practice of Piety, and of Religion pleaſantly? I anſwer, Queſt. 1.

1. Be ſure to keep the heart right and upright within; let all we do be in ſincerity, and let all we are in reſpect of the inner Man be at peace within; ſenſe and reaſon can tell us, that according to the temper within, ſo there is the reliſhing of things without; he that acts in ſincerity, and hath peace within, can eaſily go through the duties that are required without, with joy and comfort. Anſw.

2. Exerciſe Faith in the Work and Office of the Holy Ghoſt; I mean that Work and Office to which the Holy Ghoſt is deſigned, by the Father, and the Son, both to help his People, and to be the Comforter of his People. 1. The Holy Ghoſt is deſigned to help his People; Likewiſe the Spirit helpeth our infirmities; the Word in the Original † doth properly imply ſuch an help, as when another Man of ſtrength and ability ſteppeth in, to ſuſtain the burthen that lyeth upon weak ſhoulders; why, this makes Chriſt's Burthen light, we do not bear all the weight, for the Holy Ghoſt puts under his ſhoulder. 2. The Holy Ghoſt is deſigned to comfort his People. Chriſt calls him the Spirit, the Comforter; becauſe he brings in a kind of ſpiritual Joy, and Spiritual Comfort. Mark, it is not a Natural, but a Spiritual Joy; Oh what a vaſt difference is there betwixt the comforts of a carnal Heart, and the comforts of the Godly? The one comes from a little meat, or drink, or creature vanity; but the other comes from the exerciſe of Faith, about the Office of the Holy Ghoſt, who is deſigned to this Work? Surely here is the way to carry on duty ſweetly, and comfortably, and with delight (i. e.) to be in the exerciſe of Faith on the Work and Office of the Holy Ghoſt, as he is our Helper and Comforter, 1 Pet. 2. 9. Rom. 8. 26. †συναντιλαμβάνεται. John 14. 26. and 15. 26. 1 Pet. 2. 9.

3. Underſtand what is in Chriſtian Religion, and in the Practice of it to cauſe delight. As———

1. In every duty and gracious acting of it, there is more of the Glory of God, than in the whole frame of Heaven and Earth beſides; Herein is my Father glorified, that you bear much Fruit, John 15. 8. Oh, if we but thus looked at the Profeſſion and Practice of Chriſtian Religion, we could not but take pleaſure in it.

2. In every Duty and Gracious acting of it, there is the ſeed of Glory, and Eternal Life; ſometimes there breaks out in the very exerciſe of Duty a joy in the Holy Ghoſt, a foretaſt of Glory; but howſoever there is the Seed of Glory; and though the Seed of Glory be not ſeen, but lie as it were under ground dead, and unſeen, yet in time it will ſpring up unto Eternal Life: Why, thus look at the Practice of Religion, and it will be ſweeter to us than Honey and the Honey-Comb, it will be more precious than Gold, yea than much fine Gold.

Queſt. 2. But how ſhould we know the difference betwixt the natural pleaſantneſs, and this ſpiritual pleaſantneſs in Religion; I know Chriſtians may put a luſtre upon the ways of God by their Natural pleaſantneſs, and cheerfulneſs of Spirit; but becauſe we ſpeak of a Spiritual Joy, and Comfort, and not of a Natural, wherein lies the difference? I anſwer,——

Anſw. Eccl. 2. 2. 1. If it be a Spiritual pleaſantneſs, it will be ſerious; I have ſaid of Laughter it is mad, and of Mirth what doth it? There is much Lightneſs and Vanity in ſuch breakings out of Natural pleaſantneſs, but in Spiritual pleaſantneſs all is grave and ſober, and exceeding ſerious.

Pſal.2. 11. Pſal.112.1 2. If it be a Spiritual pleaſantneſs, it can ſtand with Repentance and Humiliation, and the fear of God, rejoyce with trembling, ſaith the Pſalmiſt; ſpiritual rejoycing may conſiſt with trembling: And bleſſed is the Man that feareth the Lord, that delighteth greatly in his Commandments; the fear of God may conſiſt with theſe Spiritual Delights in the Commandments of God.

Neh.8.10. 3. If it be Spiritual Pleaſantneſs, it is our ſtrength; The joy of the Lord is our ſtrength, ſaith Nehemiah; Nothing animates Souls more in duties than joy doth; it carries on the Soul more fully; it is as Oyl that cauſeth the wheels of Chriſtian practice to go on more freely: we may be naturally pleaſant, and then coming to Spiritual Duties our Hearts are dead; but if our pleaſantneſs be Spiritual, our Hearts will be ſtrengthned in the ways of God.

Heb. 3. 17,18. 4. If it be a Spiritual Pleaſantneſs, it will bear up the Heart in want of all outward Pleaſantneſs; Although the Fig-tree ſhall not Bloſſom, neither ſhall Fruit be in the Vines, the labour of the Olive ſhall fail, and the Fields ſhall yield no Meat, the Flock ſhall be cut off from the Fold, and there ſhall be no Herd in the Stalls, yet I will rejoyce in the Lord, I will joy in the God of my Salvation. When all is dark abroad in the World, the Soul in this frame will rejoyce in God alone. On the contrary, the Soul that hath only a Natural Pleaſantneſs of Spirit, when affliction comes, it is all amort, and down; I appeal to you that have the moſt delightful Spirits, when you have Friends and Means, and all you like, you are jocund and merry; but when affliction comes, how quickly are your Spirits down? Surely your Pleaſantneſs is not Spiritual, for if ſo, it would bear up your Hearts joyful in affliction.

John 6. 4. And now again the Paſſover, a Feaſt of the Jews was nigh: Our Engliſh Annotations on theſe Words can tell us, that this ſeems to be * the third Paſſover after Chriſts Baptiſm. And therefore here I conclude the third year of Chriſt's Miniſtry; there is but one year more before Chriſt's Death, to which now I come, and to ſome paſſages therein, moſt obſervable in reference to our Soul's Salvation.

* So Aretius, and others.

CHAP. IV. SECT. I.

Of the fourth Year of Chriſt's Miniſtry, and generally of his Actings in that Year.

THis was the laſt year of Chriſt's Miniſtry, in which were thouſands of Paſſages; The Evangeliſt John relates more of Chriſt this year than in all the former; and if I ſtudied not brevity, we might dwell more on his actings for us this year, than hitherto we have done from the beginning of his Miniſtry. Now it was that he was transfigured; now it was that he inſtituted that Sacrament called the Lords Supper; now it was that after Supper he he made his farewel Sermon, rarely mixt of Sadneſs and Joys, and ſtudied with myſteries as with Emeralds; now it was, that after Sermon he bleſſed his Diſciples, and prayed for them, and then having ſung an hymn, he went out into the Mount of Olives, where in a Garden he began his Sufferings. On theſe paſſages I had thought to have enlarged, but I ſee the Book ſwells under my hands; And now that I am drawing near Chriſt's Sufferings, I ſhall only touch one point, which hitherto I have pretermitted, and is the moſt comprehenſive of any Paſſage I can touch.

Many Queſtions are about the Holineſs, or Righteouſneſs, or Obedience of Chriſt. As whether it belongs to us, and whether it be the matter of our Juſtification? And whether Chriſt was bound to obſerve the Law of Works as a Mediator, or only as a meer Man? And whether we are not juſtified by the paſſive Righteouſneſs of Chriſt only? And ſeeing now we are diſcovering Chriſts Actings in reference to our Souls Salvation, we cannot paſs this main buſineſs, whereof much relates to Chriſt's Life, as well as to his Conception, or Birth, or Death, or Sufferings.

FOr the better underſtanding of Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, we uſually diſtinguiſh, that Chriſt's Righteouſneſs is either that Righteouſneſs inherent in him, or performed by him; the Righteouſneſs performed by him, is either his fulfilling the Commandments, or his ſatisfying the Curſe of the Law. The ſame diſtinction is given by others in theſe terms. Chriſt's Righteouſneſs is either his original Conformity, or his active and paſſive Obedience unto the Law; his original Conformity, is that gracious inherent Diſpoſition in Chriſt from the firſt inſtant of his Conception, whereby he was habitually conformable to the Law; and this original Righteouſneſs anſwered for our original Unrighteouſneſs; his active Obedience is his doing of legal Obedience unto the command, and his paſſive Obedience is his ſuffering of Puniſhment due unto us for our Sins.—— I ſhall yet a little further enlarge this diſtinction of the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, and give it in thus; viz. The Righteouſneſs of Chriſt is either negative (if I may ſo ſpeak) or poſitive; by the Negative, I underſtand the abſence of all Sins and Vices, forbidden in the Law; by the poſitive, I mean both a preſence of all Virtues, and Duties, required to the perfect fulfilling of the Law, as alſo a voluntary ſuffering of the Penalty, to ſatisfy the Commination and Curſe of the Law.

1. The negative Righteouſneſs is that which we call the Innocency of Chriſt; we read often in Scriptures that he was both blameleſs and ſpotleſs. 1. Blameleſs, free in himſelf from all Imputation of Sin; to this purpoſe Chriſt challenged the Jews:

Which

Joh.8. 46. Which of you convinceth me of ſin? In all his Life he was unblameable and unreproveable? and therefore now towards the end of his Life he asks the People 1 Pet.1.19 with whom he had converſed, Which of you convinceth Heb.7. 26. me of ſin? Spotleſs, free from all Infection of Sin; Peter calls him a Lamb without blemiſh, and without ſpot? and Paul, an high Prieſt, Holy, Harmleſs, and Undefiled; one who never did Evil, nor ſpake Evil; he did no ſin (ſaith the Apoſtle) neither was guile found 2 Pet.2.22 in his mouth? one who never offended ſo much as in thought, but was abſolutely and in all reſpects, Heb. 4.15. χωεὶς ἁμαρτίας, without all ſin.

2. The poſitive Righteouſneſs of Chriſt is twofold, his perfect fulfilling of all things commanded, and his perfect ſatisfying of the puniſhment threatned: The former is the Holineſs of Chriſt; this alſo is twofold, the Holineſs of his nature, and the Holineſs of his Life and Converſation; the former is that we call his habitual Righteouſneſs, the latter is that we call his actual Obedience. And thus much of the diſtinction of the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt.

Sect. 3. Of the Holineſs of Chriſt's Nature.

NOw in the firſt place, for the Holineſs of his Nature, the Pſalmiſt tells us. Thou art Pſal.45. 2. fairer than the Children of Men, and grace is poured into thy Lips. Which is all one with that Deſcription of Cant.5.10 Chriſt by the Spouſe, My beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefeſt of ten thouſands. As in the faireſt Beauty there is a mixture of theſe two Colours, White and Ruddy, ſo in Chriſt there is a gracious mixture, and compound of all the Graces of the Spirit; there is in him a ſweet temper of Gentleneſs, Purity, Righteouſneſs, Meekneſs, Humility; and what not? Col. 2. 3. In him are hid all the Treaſures of Wiſdom, and Knowledge; and I may add, of all other Gifts and Graces; not a Grace but it was in Chriſt, and that in an higher way than in any Saint in the World; and therefore he is called fairer than all the Children of Men. Obſerve, There was more habitual grace in Chriſt than ever was, or is, or ſhall be in all the Elect, whether Angels or Men. He received the Spirit out of meaſure; there was in him as much as poſſibly could be in a Creature, and more than in all other Creatures whatſoever. As the Sun is the Prince of Stars, as the Huſband is the Head of the Wife, as a Lyon is the King of the Beaſts, ſo is this Sun of Righteouſneſs, this Head of the Church, this Lyon of the Tribe of Judah, the chiefeſt of ten thouſands; if we look at any thing in Heaven or Earth, that we obſerve as eminently fair, by that is the Lord Jeſus in reſpect of his inward Beauty ſet forth in Scriptures, he is the Sun of Righteouſneſs, the bright Morning-ſtar, the Light of the World, the Tree of Life, the Lilly and the Roſe; fairer than all the Flowers of the Field, than all the precious Stones of the Earth, than all the Lights in the Firmament, than all the Saints and Angels in Heaven.

You will ſay, What's all this to us? Certainly much every way; the Apoſtle tells you, Rom. 8.2. That the Law of the Spirit of Life which is in Jeſus Chriſt, hath freed me from the Law of Sin and of Death; let us inquire into theſe words, the Law of the Spirit of Life; the Spirit of Life is here put for Life, as elſewhere, Rev. 11. 11. After three days and an half, the Spirit of Life coming from God ſhall enter into them. Now Life is that whereby a thing acteth and moveth it ſelf, and it is the cauſe and beginning of Action and Motion; and this Spirit of Life, or Life it ſelf being here applied to Chriſt, it is that in Chriſt which is the beginning and cauſe of all his holy Actions; and what was that but his original Holineſs, or the Holineſs of his humane Nature? But why is the Holineſs of Chriſt's Nature called the Spirit of Life? I anſwer, 1. Becauſe it was infuſed into his Manhood by the Spirit of God, The Holy Ghoſt ſhall come upon thee—— Luk. 1.35 therefore alſo that holy thing which ſhall be born of thee, ſhall be called the Son of God. 2. Becauſe it is a moſt exact, and abſolute, and perfect Holineſs; the Scripture-phraſe ſetting out things in perfection or fulneſs, uſually adds the word Spirit unto them; as the Spirit of Pride, the Spirit of Truth, and the Spirit of Error; ſo then the meaning of the Spirit of Life, is all one with the moſt abſolute and moſt perfect purity and holineſs of the Nature of Chriſt. It is briefly, as if the Apoſtle had ſaid, the Law of the Spirit of Life, or the power of the moſt abſolute and perfect Holineſs of the Nature of Chriſt, hath freed me from the Law of Sin and Death; hath acquitted me from the power of my ſinful Nature, and from the power of Death due to me in reſpect of my ſinful and corrupt Nature. We might draw from hence this concluſion, that——the benefit of Chriſts habitual Righteouſneſs infuſed at his firſt Conception, is imputed to Believers to their Juſtification. As the obedience of his Life, and the merit of his Death, ſo the Holineſs infuſed at his very conception, hath its influence into our Juſtification; it is by the obedience of his Life that we are accounted actually Holy, and by the purity of his conception (or habitual Grace) that we are accounted perſonally Holy. But I muſt not ſtay here; Thus much of the Holineſs of Chriſt's Nature.

Sect. 4. Of the Holineſs of Chriſt's Life.

2. FOR the Holineſs of Chriſt's Life, the Apoſtle tells us, that by the Obedience of one, many ſhall be Rom. 5.19 made Righteous; here's the Obedience of Chriſt, and its Influence on us. 1. The obedience of Chriſt, is that whereby he continued in all things written in the Book of the Law to do them: Obſerve, Chriſt's Matth. 5. 17. Life was a viſible commentary on God's Law. For proof, Think not that I am come to deſtroy the Law, or the Prophets John.8.29 (ſaith Chriſt) but to fulfil them. And, the Act.3. 14. Father hath not left me alone (ſaith Chriſt) for I do always thoſe things that pleaſe him. Hence Chriſt in Scripture is called Holy and Juſt, and the Holy One, Acts 2. 27. The moſt Holy, Dan. 9. 24. by his actual holineſs Chriſt fulfilled in act every Branch of the Law of God; he walked in all the Commandments of God; he performed perfectly both in Thought, Word and Deed, whatſoever the Law of the Lord required.——I do not, cannot, limit this obedience of Chriſt to this laſt year of his Miniſtry, for his whole Life was a perpetual courſe of obedience, he was obedient unto Death, ſaith the Apoſtle μέχοι θανάτȣ, even until his Death; and Phil. 2. 8. yet, becauſe we read moſt of his holy Actings this year, and that this was the year wherein both his active and paſſive obedience did moſt eminently ſhine, and break forth; the year wherein he drew up all the diſperſions of his Precepts, and caſt them into Actions, as into ſums total; therefore now I handle it, and I ſhall make it out by the paſſages following, only in this one year. As——

1. Now he diſcovered his Charity in feeding the Hungry, as at once five thouſand men with five Loaves and two Fiſhes, John 6. 9, 10, 11. and John 6. 9, 10, 11. at another time four thouſand men with ſeven Loaves Matth. 15 32. and a few ſmall Fiſhes, Matth. 15. 32.

2. Now he diſcovered his ſelf-denial, and contempt of the World, in flying the offers of a Kingdom; when the People were convinc'd that he was the Meſſiah from that Miracle of feeding five thouſand men with five Loaves, preſently they would needs make him a King; but he that left his Fathers Kingdom for us, he fled from the offers of a Crown and Kingdom from them, as from an Enemy. When Joh 6.17. Jeſus perceived that they would come and take him by force, to make him a King, he departed again into a Mountain himſelf alone.

Mar.7.26, 27. 3. Now he diſcovered his Mercy in healing the Womans Daughter that had an unclean Spirit; the Woman was a Greek, a Syrophnician by Nation; and in that reſpect Chriſt called her a Dog, and yet Chriſt gave her the deſire of her Soul: O the rich Mercy of Chriſt, that he would admit a Dog to his Kingdom! O Grace! O Mercy! that Chriſt ſhould black his fair hands in waſhing foul and defiled Dogs! what a motion of free Mercy was this, that Chriſt ſhould lay his fair, ſpotleſs, and chaſt Love, upon the black, defiled, and whoriſh Souls? O what a favour, that Chriſt maketh the Leopard and Ethiopian white for Heaven?

Matth.16. 19. 4. Now he diſcovered his bounty, in giving the Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven to his Apoſtles, and to their Succeſſors; this was a power which he had never communicated before; it was a gift greater than the great Charter of Nature, and the Donative of the whole Creation. Indeed, at firſt God gave unto Man a Dominion over the Fiſh of the Sea, and over Gen.1.26. the Fowls of the Air, and over the Cattle, and over the Earth; but till now Heaven it ſelf was never ſubordinate to human Miniſtration; herein was the acting of Chriſt's bounty, he gives unto his Miniſters the Keys of Heaven, that Whatſoever they ſhall bind on Earth, ſhall be bound in Heaven, and whatſoever they ſhall looſe on Earth, ſhall be looſed in Heaven.

5. Now he diſcovered his patience, in ſuffering all Injuries; from hence forward to the Death of Jeſus, we muſt reckon his days like the Vigils, or Eves of his Paſſion; for now he began, and often did ingeminate thoſe ſad Predictions of the Uſage he ſhould ſhortly find, that he ſhould be rejected of the Matth.16. 21. Elders, and chief Prieſts, and Scribes, and ſuffer many things at Jeruſalem, and be killed, and be raiſed up the third day, and in the mean time he ſuffers both in Word and Deed; they call him a Glutton, a Drunkard, a Deceiver, a Sinner, a Mad-man, a Samaritan, and one poſſeſſed with a Devil; ſometimes they take up Stones to Stone him, and ſometimes they lead him to an Hill, thinking to throw him down headlong; and all this he ſuffereth with Patience; yea, with much Patience he poſſeſſeth his Soul.

6. Now he diſcovered his Glory, in being transfigured on the Mount; however the Perſon of Chriſt was uſually depreſſed with Poverty, Diſgrace, Ignominy; ſo that neither Jews nor Gentiles, nor the Apoſtles themſelves could at firſt diſcern the brightneſs of his Divinity; yet now Chriſt gave an excellent Probation of that great Glory, which in Luke 9. 28,29,30, 31, due time muſt be revealed to all the Saints; For taking with him Peter, James and John, he went up to the Mountain to pray, and while he prayed, he was transfigured before them, and his Face did ſhine like the Sun, and his Garments were white and gliſtring, and there appeared talking with him Moſes and Elias, ſpeaking of the deceaſe which he ſhould accompliſh at Jeruſalem; the Embaſſy of Chriſts Death was delivered in forms of Glory, that ſo the excellency of the reward might be repreſented together with the ſharpneſs of his Sufferings. Now if ever, while he was upon Earth, was the beauty of Chriſt ſeen at height, Peter ſaw it; and was ſo raviſhed at the ſight, that he talked he knew not what. In reſpect of this glorious Beauty, his Face is ſaid to ſhine like the Sun. I cannot think, but his ſhine exceeded Sun, and Moon, and Stars; but the Sun is the brighteſt thing we know, and therefore it is ſpoken to our Capacity; Here's one ſtrain of Exaltation, tho moſtly all Chriſt's Life was a ſtate of Humiliation; it learns us to be content with, yea to expect moſt Humiliation, little Exaltation here; we may have a taſte, but no continued comforts till we come to Heaven.

7. Now he diſcovered his Meekneſs in riding upon an Aſs, and a colt the foal of an Aſs; which was according to the Propheſy, Behold thy King cometh unto thee Matth.21. 5. Meek; and eſpecially in rebuking the furious, intemperate Zeal of James and John, who would fain have called for Fire from Heaven to have conſumed the Inhabitants of a little Village, who refuſed to give Chriſt entertainment. Ah, ſaith Chriſt, Ye know Luk.9. 55. not what ſpirit ye are of; q. d. you muſt learn to diſtinguiſh the Spirit of Chriſtianity, from the Spirit of Elias; why, Chriſt came with a purpoſe to ſeek and to Ver.56. ſave mens lives, and not to deſtroy them: it were raſhneſs indeed to ſlay a man on ſome light diſpleaſure, whoſe Redemption coſt the Effuſion of the deareſt Heart-blood of the Son of God. See here the meekneſs of Chriſt, in Oppoſition to the Fury and Anger of his own Diſciples.

8. Now he diſcovered his Pity and Compaſſion, in weeping over Jeruſalem; And when he was come Luk. 19. 41, 42. near, he beheld the City, and wept over it, ſaying, If thou hadſt known, even thou, &c. We read of Joſeph, Gen. 43. 30. that there was in him ſuch a brotherly and natural Compaſſion, that his bowels yearned upon his Brethren, Gen. 45.1. and he could not refrain himſelf before all them that ſtood by him; his Love was like an hot Furnace: now Jeſus Chriſt hath the ſame Heart and Bowels of a Man; and I conceive as Chriſt was a Man void of Sin, ſo the acts of natural Virtues (as to pity the afflicted, to compaſſionate the diſtreſſed) were ſtronger in him than poſſibly they could be in any other man; ſin blunteth natural faculties; Eſpecially ſuch as incline to laudable and good Acts, as to love, and pity, and compaſſionate the miſerable; in this reſpect Joſeph was nothing to Chriſt; when Chriſt ſaw Jeruſalem, he wept, and wept; his Compaſſion ſtrangled, and encloſed within him, it muſt needs break out; it may be in ſome meaſure it eaſed Chriſt's mind, that his Bowels of Mercy found a vent; we read that pity kept within Gods Bowels pains his very Heart, ſo that it muſt needs come out, Mine heart is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together. Hoſ.11. 8.

9. Now he diſcovered his Humility, in waſhing his Diſciples feet; Supper being ended, he laid aſide John 13. 4, 5. his Garments, and took a Towel, and girded himſelf, and poured water into a Baſon, and began to waſh his Diſciples feet, and to wipe them with the Towel wherewith he was girded. In this Ceremony, and in the Diſcourſes following he inſtructs them in the Doctrine of Humility; yea, he imprints the Leſſon in laſting Characters, by making it ſymbolical. But why would he waſh their Feet, rather than their Hands, or Heads? I anſwer, it is probable on this account, that he might have the opportunity of a more humble poſture. See how he lays every thing aſide, that he might ſerve his Servants; Heaven ſtoops to Earth, one Abyſs calls on another; the Miſeries of Man which were next to infinite, are excelled by a Mercy equal to the immenſity of God. It is ſtoried of one Guericus, that upon the conſideration of this Humility of Chriſt in waſhing his Diſciples feet, he cried out, Thou haſt overcome me, O Lord, thou haſt overcome my pride; this example hath maſtered me.

10. Now he diſcovered his Obedience to his Father, in preaching the Goſpel up and down. He foreſaw that the Night drew on in which no man could work, and therefore now he haſtned to do his Fathers buſineſs; now he pours out whole Cataracts of holy Leſſons; and ſtill the People drew Water from this Fountain, which ſtreamed out in continual Emanations; he added Wave to Wave, and Line to Line, and Precept to Precept; and at laſt he gave them his farewel Sermon, which is the moſt ſpiritual and comfortable Piece that ever was uttered; it comprehends the Intentions of his departure to prepare places for his Saints in Heaven; and in the mean while he would ſend them the Holy Ghoſt, to ſupply his Room, to furniſh them with proportionable Comforts, to enable them with Gifts, to lead them into all Truth, and to abide with them for ever. In concluſion of all, he gave them his bleſſing, and prayed for them, and then having ſung an Hymn, he goes away and prepares for his Sufferings.

2. Hitherto of the Obedience of Chriſt; what Rom.5.19 was it but a viſible commentary of Gods Law? But now for its Influence on us; By the Obedience of one, many ſhall be made Righteous. Obſerve, The Righteouſneſs of the Law fulfilled, and fully accompliſhed in the Perſon Rom. 10.4 of Chriſt, is as truly ours, if we believe in Chriſt, as if it were in our ſelves, or as if the Law had been fullfilled in our own perſons. Thus Chriſt is the end of the Law (ſaith the Apoſtle) for Righteouſneſs to every one that believeth. Chriſt hath not only determined, and put an end to the ceremonial Law, but he is alſo the end of the moral Law, he hath perfectly in his own Perſon accompliſhed the Moral Law, and that not for himſelf, but for Righteouſneſs to every one that truly believes in him. And God ſent his Son——that the Righte- Rom. 8.4. ouſneſs of the Law might be fulfilled in us: Theſe words [in us] much trouble Interpreters; for though we believe, yet are we imperfectly Holy; how then ſhould the Law be fulfilled in us? But 'tis anſwered, that the Righteouſneſs of the Law is fulfilled in us, not by Inheſion, or Sanctification, but by Imputation, and Application; (i. e.) in our nature which Chriſt took upon him; it was in Chriſt, and is imputed unto us, and ſo the Righteouſneſs of the Law is fulfilled in us. It is well obſerved of Beza, that the Apoſtle ſaith not, That the Righteouſneſs of the Law might be fulfilled by us, or of us, or by any Righteouſneſs inherent in our own perſons, but in us, becauſe it is to be found in Chriſt, whoſe Members we are, who walk not after the Fleſh, but after the Spirit. The point is ſweet, but I cannot ſtay on it. In reference to what I have ſpoken of the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, habitual and actual, a great Controverſy is riſen in our days; of which in the next Section.

Sect. 5. Of the great Controverſy whether we are not juſtified by the paſſive Righteouſneſs of Chriſt only, without any conſideration had to the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt either inherent in him, or performed by him.

FOr my part I am for the Negative, upon theſe well known grounds.

Arg. 1. 1. By what alone the Law is not fully ſatisfied, by that alone we are not juſtified; but by the paſſive Obedience of Chriſt alone, the Law is not fully ſatisfied, therefore by his Paſſive Obedience only we are not juſtified. Thus far I grant that the Law is fully ſatisfied by his paſſive Obedience in reſpect of the Penalty therein threatned, but not in reſpect of the Commandment for the obtaining of the bleſſedneſs therein promiſed; and the Righteouſneſs of the Law Rom. 10. 5. is thus deſcribed, that the man which doth theſe things ſhall live by them.

Againſt this are divers Exceptions of the Adverſaries. As, 1. That the Law is ſatisfied either by doing that which is commanded, or by ſuffering the puniſhment which is threatned. Anſw. It is true in reſpect of the Penal Statutes of Men, but not in reſpect of the Commandments of God, in which there is not only a Penalty threatned, but a Bleſſedneſs promiſed; if man had continued in his Integrity, the Law might have been ſatisfied by Obedience only; but being fallen into a ſtate of Diſobedience, two things are neceſſarily required to the fulfilling of the Law, (i. e.) the bearing of the Penalty, and the performing of the Command; the one to eſcape Hell, and the other to obtain Heaven. 2. They except that whoſoever are freed from Hell, are alſo admitted to Heaven. Anſw. The reaſon thereof is, becauſe Chriſt, who did bear the Puniſhment to free us from Hell, did alſo fulfil the Commands to bring us to Heaven; but howſoever theſe two benefits of Chriſt do always concur in the party juſtified, as the cauſes thereof concurred in Chriſt, who not only did both Obey and Suffer, but in obeying ſuffered and in ſuffering obeyed; yet both the Cauſes between themſelves, and the Effects between themſelves, are carefully to be diſtinguiſhed; for as it is one thing to obey the Commandment, and another thing to ſuffer the Puniſhment; ſo it is one thing to be freed from Hell by Chriſt his ſuffering the Penalty, and another thing to be intituled to Heaven, by Chriſt his fulfilling the Commandments. 3. They except, that God is a moſt free Agent, and therefore he may if he will juſtifie Men by the paſſive Righteouſneſs of Chriſt only, without fulfilling of the Law. Anſw. What God may do, if he will, I will not diſpute; but ſure I am, that he juſtifieth Men according to his will revealed in his word; and there we find, that as we are juſtified from our ſins by the Blood of Chriſt, ſo alſo we are made juſt by the active (tho not only by the active) Obedience of Chriſt: For as by one mans diſobedience many are made Sinners, ſo by the obedience of Rom.5.19 one ſhall many be made Righteous. And if when we Rom.5.10 were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled we ſhall be ſaved by his life: by his life which he lived before his Death, and by his life which he lived, and doth live after his Death; by the Acts of his Life before his Death meritoriouſly, and by the Acts of his Life after his Death (as by his Reſurrection, Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Interceſſion) effectually. Chriſt is made 1 Cor. 1. 30. unto us of God (ſaith the Apoſtle) both Redemption and Righteouſneſs: Redemption to deliver us from Sin; and Righteouſneſs to bring in everlaſting Righte- Dan.9.24. ouſneſs. 4. They except, that if we are juſtified by Chriſt his fulfilling the Law, then we are juſtified by a legal Righteouſneſs, but we are not juſtified by a legal Righteouſneſs, but by ſuch a Righteouſneſs as without the Law is revealed in the Goſpel. Anſw. The ſame Righteouſneſs by which we are juſtified, is both Legal and Evangelical in divers reſpects; Legal in reſpect of Chriſt, who being made under the Law, that he might redeem us who were under the Law, perfectly fulfilled the Law for us; and Evangelical in reſpect of us unto whom his fulfilling of the Law is imputed. And herein ſtands both the Agreement and Difference betwixt the Law and the Goſpel; the Agreement, in that both require the perfect fulfilling of the Law unto Juſtification; the difference, in that the Law required perfect Obedience to be performed in our own Perſons; but the Goſpel accepts of perfect Obedience performed by Chriſt our ſurety, and imputed to us; and ſo it is all one as if it had been performed in our own Perſons.

2. If Chriſt by his conformity to the Law fulfilled the Law for us, then are we juſtified by his habitual and actual Righteouſneſs, and not meerly by his paſſive; but Chriſt by his conformity to the Law, fulfilled the Law for us; for ſo we read, He was born Luk.2.11. for us, Luke 2. 11. He was made ſubject to the Law Gal.4.4,5. for us, Gal. 4. 4, 5. and for our ſakes he ſanctified him- John 17. 19. ſelf, John 17. 19. and for our ſakes he did the will

Heb. 10.7, 10. of God. Then ſaid I, lo, I come to do thy will, O God; by the which will we are ſanctified, Heb. 107,10. Againſt this, are divers Exceptions: As, 1. That Chriſt obeyed the Law, or conformed to the Law (as need was) for himſelf, Chriſt (ſay they) as he was a man, was bound to obey the Law for himſelf. Anſw. This Aſſertion detracts from the Merit of his Obedience, and from the Dignity of his Perſon. 1. From his Merit, for if his Obedience were of Duty, then it were not * meritorious, Luke 17. 10. and if this be true, then have we no title to Heaven. 2. From the Dignity of his Perſon, as if he needed either to obey for himſelf or by his Obedience were any way bettered in himſelf. O that theſe men would remember that the Perſon who did obey the Law, was, and is, not only Man, but God alſo; Chriſt fulfilled the Law not only as Man, but as God-man, Mediator; and therefore as his Blood was Gods Blood, ſo his Obedience was the Obedience of God; Who being in the form of God, thought it no robbery to be equal with God. ——— And being found in faſhion as a man, he humbled himſelf, and became obedient unto death, or until death. Acts 20. 28. Phil. 2. 6, 8. We find him here God-man; and from hence we conclude, that all the legal Actions of Chriſt from his Incarnation to his Paſſion incluſively, were the Actions of Chriſt God-man, Mediator, and Surety for us in a way of Covenant; and conſequently they were not performed of duty, nor for himſelf. 2. They except, that if Chriſt obeyed the Law for us, that by his obedience we might be juſtified, then ſhall not we our ſelves need to obey the Law; but the conſequent is abſurd, therefore the Antecedent. Anſw. We need not to obey the Law to that end, that we may be juſtified thereby, for this is impoſſible to us by reaſon of the fleſh, and therefore our Saviour fulfilled it for us; and yet it follows not, but that we may endeavour to obey the Law for other ends, as to glorifie God, to obey his Will, to teſtifie our Thankfulneſs, to edify our Brethren, to aſſure our ſelves of our Juſtification, and ſo to make our Calling and Election ſure; in this Study and Practice of Piety conſiſteth our new obedience, which we muſt therefore be careful to perform, though Chriſt as to Juſtification hath performed it for us. 3. They except, that if Chriſt by his active obedience fulfilled the Law for us, and that ſo we are juſtified from all kind of Sin, both original and actual, then Chriſts Suffering was in vain. Anſ. Chriſt's active obedience is an eſſential part of our Juſtification but not all our Juſtification; the material cauſe of our Juſtification is the whole courſe of the active and paſſive obedience of Chriſt, together with his original Righteouſneſs, or habitual conformity unto the Law; I ſay, together with his original Righteouſneſs, becauſe many Authors expreſs no more, but only Chriſt's active and paſſive obedience; but they are to be underſtood, as aſſerting his original Righteouſneſs implicitely, the act preſuppoſing the habit. And here obſerve the difference betwixt the Law in caſe of Innocency, and the Law in caſe of Sin; the Law in caſe of Innocency required only doing, but the Law in caſe of Sin cannot be ſatisfied without doing and ſuffering, Gal. 3. 10. Gen. 2. 17. original Juſtice and active obedience was ſufficient to juſtifie Man in his Innocency, but not to juſtifie Man fallen; and therefore we do not ſeparate theſe, the original, the actual, and the paſſive Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, as to the matter of Juſtification, but we imply all.

* Debitum non eſt meritum.

Arg. 3. 3. We read in Scripture of two parts of Juſtification, viz. the abſolving of a believing Sinner from the guilt of Sin, and Death; and the accepting of a believing Sinner, as righteous unto Life. The former is wrought by the Sufferings of Chriſt imputed as a full ſatisfaction for Sin, the other by imputation of Chriſt's perfect obedience, as a ſufficient merit of Eternal Life; by the former we are freed from Hell, by the latter we are intitled to the Kingdom of Heaven; of them both the Apoſtle ſpeaks, We are juſtified by his Blood, Rom. 5. 9. and we are made Righteous by his obedience. Rom. 5. 19. Rom. 5. 9, 19. ——— Our Adverſaries deny theſe two parts of Juſtification, ſaying, that it conſiſts wholly in Remiſſion of Sin. But we reply in every Mutation, tho it be but a Relative, we muſt of neceſſity acknowledge two terms, teminum à quo, & terminum ad quem, the Denomination being commonly taken from the latter; as in Juſtification there is a Motion, or Mutation, from Sin to Juſtice (from which term Juſtification hath its name) from a ſtate of Death and Damnation, to a ſtate of Life and Salvation; but if Juſtification be nothing elſe but bare Remiſſion of Sins, then is there in it only a not imputing of Sin, but no acceptation as Righteous; a freedom from Hell, but no title to Heaven. ——— They ſay indeed, that to whom Sin is not imputed, to them Righteouſneſs is imputed; and we grant that theſe things do always concur; but yet they are not to be confounded, for they differ in themſelves, and in their Cauſes, and in their Effects. 1. In themſelves; for it is one thing to be acquitted from the guilt of Sin, and another thing to be made Righteous, as we ſee daily in the Pardon of Malefactors. 2. In their Cauſes, for the Remiſſion of Sin is to be attributed to Chriſt's ſatisfactory Sufferings, and acceptation as Righteous unto life to Chriſt's meritorious obedience. 3. In their Effects, for by Remiſſion of Sin we are freed from Hell, and by imputation of Chriſt's obedience we have right unto Heaven. I will not deny but that to Chriſt's habitual and actual Righteouſneſs is ſometimes attributed freedom from Sin and Hell, as in Rom. 8. 2. The Law of the Spirit of Life which is in Chriſt Jeſus, hath made me free from the Law of Sin and Death; Rom. 8. 2. and on the contrary ſide to Chriſt's paſſive obedience is ſometimes attributed a right unto Heaven, as in Heb. 9. 15. That by means of his Death, ——— they which are called, might receive the promiſe of eternal Inheritance; Heb. 9. 15. but ſuch places as theſe, are to be underſtood by a Synechdoche, which puts only one part of Chriſt's obedience for the whole obedience of Chriſt. But I muſt recal my ſelf, my deſign in this work was not for Controverſies; I leave that to others; See Downham, Burges, Norton, &c. for my part, I am ſure I have before me a more edifying Work, which is to take a view of this Jeſus, not only for Intellection, but for Devotion, and for the ſtirring up of our affections.

Thus far I have held forth Jeſus in his Life, or during the time of his Miniſtry, till the laſt Paſſover, and now was it that Jeſus knew his hour was come, and that he ſhould depart out of this World unto the Father; Joh. 13. 1. but of that hereafter; our next buſineſs is to direct you in the Art or Myſtery, how we are to look unto Jeſus in reſpect of his Life.

CHAP. V. SECT I.

Of knowing Jeſus, as carrying on the great Work of our Salvation in his Life.

FROM the object conſidered, that we may paſs to the Act. ———

1. Let us know Jeſus, carrying on the great Work of our Salvation during his Life. We have many Books of the Lives of Men, of the Lives of Heathens, thens, of the Lives of Chriſtians, and by this we come to know the Generations of old; Oh, but above all, read over the Life of Jeſus, for that is worth thy knowing. To this purpoſe we have four Evangeliſts, who in bleſſed Harmony ſet forth his Life; and to this purpoſe we have the Book of Mat. 1. 1. the Generation of Jeſus Chriſt. Now theſe ſhould be read over and over; Then ſhall we know (ſaith the Hoſ. 6. 3. Prophet) if we follow on to know the Lord. Ah my Soul! that which thou knoweſt of Chriſt already, it is but the leaſt part of what thou art ignorant of; We know 1 Cor. 13. 9. but in part, ſaith Paul of himſelf and others; the higheſt Knowledge, which the moſt illuminate Saints have of Jeſus Chriſt, is but defective and imperfect. Come then, and follow on to know the Lord: ſtill inquire after him; imitate the Angels, who ever de- 1 Pet. 1. 12. ſire to ſtoop down and to pry into the actings of Chriſt for us Men, and for our Salvation; it is their ſtudy; yea, it is their Delight and Recreation; Paul ſeemed 1 Cor. 2. 2. to imitate them, when he ſaid, I determine not to know any thing among you, but Jeſus Chriſt; if there be any thing in the World worth the knowing, that is it. And for thy better knowlege that it may not be confuſed, but diſtinct: 1. Study over thoſe paſſages in the firſt year of Chriſts Miniſtry; as the preaching of John, the Baptiſm of Chriſt, his Faſting and Temptation in the Wilderneſs, his firſt Manifeſtation by his ſeveral Witneſſes, his whipping of the Buyers and Sellers out of the Temple. 2. Study over thoſe Paſſages in the ſecond year of Chriſts Miniſtry; as thoſe ſeveral Sermons that he Preached; and becauſe his Miracles were as ſignals of his Sermons, ſtudy the ſeveral Miracles that he wrought; thou haſt but a few Inſtances in compariſon of all his Miracles, and yet how fruitful are they of ſpiritual Inſtructions? 3. Study over thoſe Paſſages in the third year of Chriſts Miniſtry; as his commiſſionating his Apoſtles to call Sinners in, his readineſs to receive them that would but come in; and his ſweetning the ways of Chriſtianity to them that are come in; For his yoak is eaſie and his Burthen is light. 4. Study over thoſe Paſſages in the laſt year of his Miniſtry; as the holineſs of his Nature, and the Holineſs of his Life, which appeared eſpecially in the Exerciſes of his Graces, of Charity, and Self-denial, and Mercy, and Bounty, and Meekneſs, and Pity, and Humility, and Obedience. O what rare matter is here for Chriſtian-ſtudy! Some have took ſuch pains in the ſtudy of theſe things, that they have writ large Volumes; men have been writing, and preaching a thouſand ſix hundred years of the Life of Chriſt, and they are writing, and preaching ſtill: O my Soul! if thou doſt not write, yet ſtudy what is written; come with fixed thoughts, and beat thy Brains on that bleſſed Subject, that will make thee wiſe unto Salvation; Paul accounted all things but Phil. 3. 8. Dung, or dogs Meat, for the excellency of the knowledg of Chriſt Jeſus our Lord; if thou didſt truly underſtand the Excellency of this Knowledg, thou couldſt not but account all things loſs in compariſon of this one neceſſary thing.

Sect. 2. Of Conſidering Jeſus in that Reſpect.

2. LET us conſider Jeſus carrying on the great Work of our Salvation during his Life. It is not enough to ſtudy and know, but we muſt muſe and meditate, and conſider of it, till we bring it to ſome profitable iſſue. By meditating on Chriſt, we may feel or find a kind of inſenſible Change, we know not how; as thoſe that ſtand in the Sun for other purpoſes, they find themſelves lightned and heated; ſo in holy Meditation our Souls may be altered and changed in a ſecret inſenſible way; there is a Virtue goes along with a ſerious Meditation; a changing, transforming Virtue; and therefore look further, O my Soul, have ſtrong Apprehenſions of all thoſe ſeveral Paſſages of the Life of Chriſt.

1. Conſider the Preaching of John Baptiſt; we talk of ſtrictneſs, but ſhew me among all the Miniſters or Saints of this Age, ſuch a pattern of ſanctity and ſingular Auſterity; the ſum of his Sermons was Repentance, and Dereliction of Sin, and bringing Acts 24. 25. forth Fruits worthy of amendment of Life. In the promoting of which Doctrine, he was a ſevere Reprehender of the Phariſees, and Sadducees, and Publicans, and Soldiers, and indeed of all Men, but eſpecially, of thoſe that remained in their Impenitency; for againſt them he denounced Judgment, and Fire unquenchable; Oh, he had an excellent Zeal, and a vehement Spirit in Preaching; and the Commentary upon all his Sermons was his own Life; he was cloathed in Camels hair, his meat was Locuſts and wild Honey; he contemned the World, reſiſted Temptations, deſpiſed to aſſume falſe Honours to himſelf, and in all Paſſages was a rare Example of Self-denial, and Mortification; and by this means he made an excellent, and apt Preparation for the Lord's coming. O my Soul, that thou wouldſt but ſit a while under this Preacher; or that thou wouldſt but ruminate, and chew the Cud; think over his Sermons of Repentance, and Righteouſneſs, and Temperance, and of the Judgment to come; and ſee what Influence they have; when Paul preached ſuch a Sermon to Felix, it is ſaid that he trembled; a Sermon of the Chaffs burning with unquenchable Fire, is enough to make thy heart tremble, if Powerfully delivered, and affectionately received; but ſee, what Effect doth it work on thy Heart and Life? Doſt thou feel in thee a Spirit of Mortification? Doſt thou with the Baptiſt die to the World? Doſt thou deny thy will of all its natural ſinful Deſires? Doſt thou abſtain from Pleaſures, and ſenſual Complacencies, that the Fleſh being ſubdued to the Spirit, both may joyn in the Service of God? Doſt thou kill the Luſts of the Fleſh, by taking away the fuel and incentives of Luſts? This is the work of Meditation; it firſt employs the Underſtanding in conſideration of Things, and then the will in the Reception of things; and both theſe in order to Grace and a pious Converſation: that Meditation which determines in notions, or ſpeculations of Knowledg, is like the Winter-ſun that ſhines, but warms not: O my Soul, conſider; and ſo long conſider on the Preaching of this Prodromus, or Forerunner of Chriſt, till thou feeleſt this Conſideration to have ſome warmth in thy Heart, and influence on thy Life in order to Holineſs, Self-denial, and Mortification.

2. Conſider of the Baptiſm of Chriſt; he that never ſinned, was made Sin for us, and ſo it was proper enough for Chriſt to take upon him the Sacrament of Sinners, or of Repentance for Sin; but eſpecially, he was baptiſed, that in the Symbol, he might purify our Nature, whoſe ſtains and guilt he had undertaken. Conſider of this, O my Soul, and bring it home to thy ſelf; ſurely every Soul that lives the Life of Grace, is born of Water, and the Spirit; and to this purpoſe Chriſt, who is our Life, went down into the Waters of Baptiſm, that we who deſcend after him might find the Effects of it; as Pardon of Sin; Adoption into the Covenant of Grace, and Holineſs of Life. Had not Chriſt been Baptiſed, what Virtue had there been in our Baptiſm? As it became him to fulfil all Righteouſneſs, and there- Matth. 3. 15. fore he muſt needs be Baptized; ſo he fulfilled it not for himſelf, but for us; Chriſt's Obedience in fulfilling the Law, is imputed to all that believe unto Righteouſneſs, as if themſelves had fulfilled; ſo that he was Baptized for us, and the Virtue of his Baptiſm is derived unto us; O the ſweet of this Meditation! Chriſt was Baptiz'd; and when Baptized, the Heavens were opened, and the Holy Ghoſt deſcended, and a Voice from Heaven proclaimed him to be the Son of God, and one in whom the Father was well pleaſed; and the ſame Ointment that was caſt upon the head of our High Prieſt, went unto his Beard, and thence fell to the Border of his Garment; for as Chriſt our Head felt thoſe effects in Manifeſtation; ſo through Chriſt do we believe the like effects in our very Baptiſm; the Heavens then (as it were) opened unto us, and the Holy Ghoſt then deſcended upon us, and then were we conſigned to the Inheritance of Sons, in whom the Father through his Son is alſo well pleaſed. O my Soul! what a Bleſſing is there in the Baptiſm of Chriſt? And how mayeſt thou ſuck and be ſatisfied, if thou wilt put thy Meditation to the right uſe? The Baptiſm of Chriſt is as a Field of Flowers, wherein is a World of Priviledges, as Juſtification, Adoption, Regeneration, Sanctification, Glorification; O, then fix thy Soul at leaſt on ſome of theſe Flowers, and leave them not without carrying ſome Honey away with thee; if thou art in Chriſt, thou art Baptized into his Death, and Baptized into his Baptiſm; thou partakeſt of the Fruit and Efficacy, both of his Death and Life, and Baptiſm, and all.

3. Conſider the Faſting and Temptation of Chriſt in the Wilderneſs. Now we ſee what manner of Adverſary we have, how he Fights, how he is Reſiſted, how Overcome; in one Aſſault Satan moves Chriſt to doubt of his Father's Providence; in another, to preſume on his Fathers Protection, and when neither Diffidence nor Preſumption can faſten upon Chriſt, he ſhall be tryed with Honour; and thus he deals with us; if he cannot drive us down to deſpair, he labours to lift us up to Preſumption, and if neither of theſe prevail, then he brings out Pleaſures, Profits, Honours, Temptations on the right hand, which are indeed moſt dangerous: O my Soul, whilſt thou art in this warfare, here's thy Condition; Temptations, like Waves, break one in the neck of another; if the Devil was ſo buſy with Chriſt, how ſhouldſt thou hope to be free? How mayeſt thou account, that the Repulſe of one Temptation will but invite to another? Well, but here's thy comfort, thou haſt ſuch a Saviour, as was Heb.4.15, 16. in all things tempted in like ſort, yet without ſin; how boldly therefore mayſt thou go to the Throne of Grace to receive mercy, and to find Grace to help in time of need? Chriſt was tempted, that he might ſuccour them that are tempted. Never art thou tempted, O my Soul, but Chriſt is with thee in the Temptation; he hath ſent his Spirit into thy Heart, to make Interceſſion for thee there, and he himſelf is in Heaven, making Interceſſion, and Praying for thee there; yea, his own Experience of Temptations hath ſo wrought it in his Heart, that his Love and Mercy is moſt of all at work, when thou art tempted moſt. As dear Parents are ever tender of their Children, but then, eſpecially when they are Sick, and Weak, and out of Frame; ſo tho Chriſt be always tender of his People, yet then eſpecially when their Souls are Sick, and under a Temptation: O then his Bowels yearn over them indeed.

4. Conſider Chriſt's firſt Manifeſtations by his ſeveral Witneſſes; we have heard of his Witneſſes from Heaven, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt; and of his Witneſſes on Earth, the Baptiſt, his Diſciples, and the Works that he did in his Fathers Name; and all theſe Witneſſes being lively held forth in the Preaching of the Goſpel, they are Witneſſes to us; even to this day is Chriſt manifeſted to us; yea, and if we are Chriſt's, even unto this day is Chriſt manifeſted within us. O my Soul, conſider this above all the reſt! O it is this Manifeſtation within, that concerns thee moſt, becauſe ye are Sons, God hath ſent forth the Spirit of Gal. 4. 6. his Son into your Hearts; if Chriſt be not manifeſted in thy Heart by his bleſſed Spirit, thou art no Son of God; and therefore the Apoſtle puts thee ſeriouſly on this tryal, Examine your ſelves, whether ye 2 Cor. 13. 5. be in the Faith, prove your ſelves, know ye not your own ſelves, how that Jeſus Chriſt is in you, except ye be reprobates? Is Chriſt manifeſted in thee? Surely this is more than Chriſt manifeſted to thee; the bare Hiſtory is the Manifeſtation of Chriſt unto thee, but there's a Myſtery in the inward Manifeſtation. The Apoſtle ſpeaking of the Saints, he adds, To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this myſtery among the Gentiles, which is, Chriſt in you the hope of Glory. O the Col. 1.27. Riches of the Glory of this Myſtery! conſider it, Oh my Soul; God might have ſhut thee up in Blindneſs with the World, or he might only have given thee Parts and Gifts; or at moſt he might have enlightened thy Reaſon, to have taken in the outward Notions of the Goſpel; but hath he revealed Chriſt in thee? Hath he let thee ſee into the Wonders of his Glory; hath he given thee the Light of his Glory within? Oh this argues the Witneſs of Chriſt's Spirit! this only the experimental Chriſtian feels: Chryſoſtom ſometimes ſpeaking of the more hidden, and choice Principles of Chriſtianity, he uſeth this Phraſe, Sciunt initiati quid dico, thoſe that are initiated or admitted into our Myſteries, know what I mean: ſo may the Miniſters of Chriſt, Preaching of theſe inward Manifeſtations, ſay, Sciunt initiati, &c. it is only the Spiritual man can know theſe things, for they are ſpiritually diſcerned. O my Soul, meditate on this until thou feeleſt God's Spirit working in thy Spirit, theſe inward, gracious, glorious Manifeſtations. It is Chriſt in thee is the hope of Glory.

5. Conſider Chriſt's whipping the Buyers and Sellers out of the Temple. Sometimes, O my Soul, thou art in ſecret; and ſometimes thou art in the Aſſemblies of God's People; and if thou art in Duty, whereſoever thou art, conſider the eſpecial Preſence of Chriſt; and what is that but the Preſence of his Spirit, and the Preſence of his Angels? 1. The Preſence of his Spirit; this we know by his working in us; certainly the Spirit doth not only hover over us, but worketh in us: How in us? I anſwer by his Quickning, Feeding, Cheriſhing, Healing, Mollifying, Melting, Comforting. In this manner he works in us, when we are in Ordinances. Why now is he (I hope) riding with triumph in the midſt of the Aſſembly, now is he in his Chariot, in his Throne, in the Hearts of his People, and therefore away, away with all Buyers and Sellers, out of that Temple of the Holy Ghoſt.——2. The Preſence of Chriſt, is the preſence of his Angels; as a King is where his Court is, ſo is Chriſt the King of Kings, eſpecially preſent, where his bleſſed Angels pitch their Tents. And the Preſence of Angels is worthy (O my Soul) of thy conſideration. Certainly they are miniſtring Spirits, that have a Work to do upon thy inward Man; I grant the Spirit of Chriſt can only enlighten the Underſtanding, and determine the Will effectually; it is he only can bend, and turn, and form the mind which way ſoever he pleaſeth; but the Angels can ſpeak alſo to thy ſpiritual Parts; and though the Spirit only determine, yet their ſpeaking carries a Power with it.

By way of Digreſſion, it is a fine skill to know how the Angels can ſpeak to us, and how we may know when they ſpeak; and how we may diſcern what is ſpoken by the immediate Inſpiration of the Spirit, and what by the Mediation of the Angels.

1. How do the Angels ſpeak to us? We muſt conceive, if we underſtand this, firſt, that the Images, or Phantaſms of things received by the outward Senſes, are kept, and preſerved by the inward Senſes, as the Species of Sounds, of Shapes, or whatſoever elſe. 2. That the Images or Phantaſms ſo kept, may be ſo moved by our Spirits, or Humours, or ſome extrinſecal things, as that they may move the Fancy, and provoke it to repreſent, and conceive ſuch things as neither appear, nor are at that time perceived by any outward Sence at all. This appears, 1. In our ordinary Courſe, as we can ſit in the dark, where we hear and ſee nothing, and yet there we can multiply a Fancy in Infinitum, by an act of our own Will. 2. This appears in our Dreams, when tho we hear or ſee nothing, yet the Humour can ſtir up the memory of things, and provoke our Fancies to the Apprehenſion of this or that. 3. This appears alſo in Sickneſs, which altering the Body, and the Humors, and ſo troubling the Fancy, it begets ſtrange Fancies, and makes dreadful and fearful Repreſentations unto us: now this we muſt know, that whatſoever an inferior Power can do, that a ſuperior Power can do much more; whatſoever an act of our own Will, or natural Dreams, or preternatural Sickneſs can do, that the Angels can do moſt orderly, and efficaciouſly; they know exactly how the Spirits and Humors muſt be moved, that the Images or Phantaſms may be applied to ſuch and ſuch Conceptions or Apprehenſions, moſt accommodate and fitted for the knowledg of what Truth they would ſuggeſt. So that to me, here is the difference between the Converſe of Men and Angels; Men can ſpeak to our underſtandings by the Mediation of our external Senſes, but Angels go a nearer way to work, and ſpeak to the internal firſt of all; they do no more but come into the memory (the Treaſurer of all our Phantaſms and Imaginations) and there make ſuch and ſuch Compoſitions even as they pleaſe, and then the Underſtanding takes them off, and reads what is written, without more ado.

2. How may we know when the Angels ſpeak to us? I confeſs it is an hard Queſtion, and eaſily it cannot be ſolved; only ſome Conjecture we may have; as in a caſe of Evil, thou art in a way of Sin, and near to fall into it, it may be on a ſudden thou heareſt within thee ſome contrary Whiſperings, which alſo are above the Whiſperings of a natural Conſcience, common to the wicked; or in caſe of good, it may be on a ſudden thou heareſt within thee ſome independent, ſupernatural Perſwaſions, and Reaſonings, to this or that Good, or to this or that Object, which may more eaſily lead thee to chuſe the Good; in theſe caſes thou mayeſt conjecturally think, that theſe Whiſperings or Motions are of the Angels of God. Bodin tells a Story of one, who deſired of God a guidance, and aſſiſtance of an Angel; and accordingly he had ſenſible Manifeſtations of a Spirit that aſſiſted him, and followed him till his Death; if in Company he ſpake any unwary Words, he was ſure to be advertiſed and reproved for it by a Dream in the Night; or if he read any Book that was not good, the Angel would ſtrike upon the Book, to cauſe him to leave it.

3. But how ſhould we diſcern what is ſpoken by the immediate Inſpiration of the Spirit, and what by the Mediation of the Angels? Here indeed we are at a ſtand; and therefore my beſt Reſolution is that of Calvin, That in ſuch Secrets we ſhould keep one Rule of Modeſty and Sobriety; and that we ſhould neither ſpeak, nor think, nor yet deſire to know any other thing than ſuch as hath been taught us by Gods Word. I know not any great uſe there may be of this Queſtion, and therefore I ſhall not amuſe my ſelf in giving any account of it; only theſe remain as ſure Truths. 1. That the things communicated to our inward Man, (I mean thoſe inward Motions and Suggeſtions to Holineſs and Obedience) are frequently and uſually by the Adminiſtration of Angels. 2. That the ſame things communicated to our inward Man, are ever originally and primarily from the Spirit of Chriſt; and hence it is that commonly we put them all on that ſcore, we give them all to Chriſt's Spirit. 3. That 'tis proper to the Spirit, to enlighten the Underſtanding, and to determine the Will effectually; the Angels are but Ciſterns, the Spirit is the Fountain; the Angels may ſpeak and move us to our Duties, but the Bleſſing, the Efficacy is of the Spirit; and in this reſpect we leave to Chriſt and his Spirit the all in all. Well then, O my Soul, conſider (eſpecially in Church Aſſemblies, and in the enjoyment of Ordinances) the eſpecial Preſence of Chriſt, in the preſence of his Spirit, and in the preſence of his Angels: What? Doſt thou feel any Stirrings, Actings, Movings in thy Spirit? Doſt thou feel any Quickening, Warming, Feeding, Cheriſhing, Healing, Mollifying, Melting, Comforting, Strengthening, in thy inward Parts? Say then, Surely the Lord is in this place,——this is none other but the Houſe Gen. 28. of God, this is the gate of Heaven. 16, 17. O here is the Spirit, and here are the Angels aſcending and deſcending; and therefore avoid Satan! avoid all prophane Thoughts, and Earthly-mindedneſs! avoid Dulneſs, Deadneſs, Drouſineſs! avoid Looſeneſs, Laſciviouſneſs, and all Irreverence, becauſe of the Angels; and 1 Cor. 11. becauſe of the Spirit; and becauſe of the eſpecial 10. Preſence of Chriſt which encauſes them both.

6. Conſider the Preaching of Chriſt. O the admirable Sermons of this great Prophet! the Spouſe tells us, His Lips like Lillies dropped ſweet ſwelling Cant. 5. 13. Myrrh, his Doctrine was ſweet as the Lillies, and ſound as the Myrrh: His Lips were like the Lillies, as certain odoriferous Lillies, that caſt forth a ſweet ſmelling ſavour; they were full of Heavenly Grace and Sweetneſs; Grace, ſaith the Pſalmiſt, was poured Pſal. 45. 2. into his Lips, and they dropped ſweet ſmelling Myrrh; the Nature of this Herb is to keep from Putrefaction; as it is ſound it ſelf, ſo it makes other things ſound. Error is of a putrifying Nature, corrupting, and defiling the Soul; but the Doctrine of Chriſt keeps the Soul ſound; it is the Souls preſervative, it keeps the Soul free from all Corruption and Defilement. See here the prophetical Office of Chriſt held forth in Similitudes, his Lips were ever dropping, diſtilling, publiſhing ſweet and ſound Truths. ——Read and peruſe thoſe Sermons he hath left on Record; yea, ruminate and meditate on them, in order to Piety and an holy Life: How ſweet was the firſt Sermon of Chriſt? Repent, for the Kingdom of Matth. 4. Heaven is at hand: And how Spiritual was that Ser- 17. mon of Chriſt? Except a man be born again, he can- Joh. 3. 3. not ſee the Kingdom of God: It may be thou art a Doctor, a Maſter of Iſrael, thou art a learned Scholar, thou art a Man of Parts and Abilities in other things; it may be thou haſt read ſo long in the Bible, thou haſt heard ſo many, and ſo many Sermons, &c. but ah! miſerable Soul, it may be all the Work is to do ſtill within; Come, ſay this Sermon of Chriſt to thine own Soul; Unleſs I be born again, I cannot enter into Heaven; born again? O Lord, what is that? Was ever ſuch a thing done upon me? Was ever I caſt into the Pangs of a new Birth? And continued I in thoſe Pangs until Chriſt Jeſus was formed in me? Are old things done away, and are all things now become new? Is the old Man, the old Luſts, the old Converſation quite abandoned and left? Are my Principles new? my Aims and Ends new? My Life and Converſation new; Thus might I Paraphraſe on all the Sermons; but I intend brevity; only conſider, O my Soul; as if this Sermon, and all the reſt had been preached to thee, Realize Chriſt ſtanding by thee, and opening his Mouth, and teaching thee, thus and thus; ſurely there is a ſpeaking of Chriſt from Heaven; See that Heb. 12. 25 ye refuſe not him (ſaith the Apoſtle) that ſpeaketh from Heaven. And beſides, he hath his Miniſters here on Earth, and they are daily Preaching over theſe Sermons of Chriſt, again, and again; they Preach Heb. 2. 3. ſuch things as were firſt ſpoken by the Lord himſelf; they 2 Cor. 5. 20. beſeech, and pray thee in Chriſt's ſtead. O then, meditate 1 Tim. 4. 15. on theſe things, and give thy ſelf wholly to them, that thy profiting may appear to all.

7. Conſider the Miracles of Chriſt in purſuance of the Doctrine delivered in his bleſſed Sermons. Here's a World of matter to run over; ſuch Miracles are done by Chriſt as never man did before. Moſes indeed ſmote the Rock, and the Waters guſhed out, but he could not turn Water into Wine; Eliſha raiſed a Child that was dead, to life; but Jeſus raiſed one who had been dead four days, yea, who was buried and corrupted; Elias and Samuel, and all the Prophets, and the ſucceſſion of the high Prieſts in both the Temples, put all together, never did ſo many, and ſo great Miracles as Jeſus did; he turned Water into Wine; he healed the Noble-mans Son even at the point of Death; he cured the Leprous by his touch; he made the Lame Man to walk; and the crooked Limbs to become ſtraight; he made habitual Diſeaſes, and inveterate, of eighteen years continuance (and once of thirty eight years) to diſappear at his ſpeaking even as darkneſs at the Joh. 9. 23. brightneſs of the Sun; he fed thouſands of People with two ſmall Fiſhes, and five Loaves; he caſt out Devils, and commanded them whitherſoever he pleaſed; he reſtored Sight to the Blind; in a word, he did ſuch Miracles as no Man elſe ever did; and the poor Blind Man proved it by inſtance of himſelf. It was never heard that any Man opened the Eyes of any one that was born Blind. O my Soul, conſider of theſe Miracles, and believe that Doctrine which was ratified with Arguments from above! How ſhouldſt thou but aſſent to all thoſe myſterious Truths which are ſo ſtrongly confirmed by an Almighty hand?——What? Doſt thou think a Meditation needleſs in this reſpect? Art thou fully ſatisfied of the Truth of Scriptures? It is well; I hope thou art; and yet who knows how ſoon thou may'ſt be put to it by an Enemy, or a ſtrong Temptation? One can tell us in Print, Some are now talking of a Toleration of all Religions; and ſome deſire that the Jews may have a free Commerce amongſt us; it is good therefore to be well armed at this point; and the beſt Argument to prove the verity of the Goſpel, next to the inward Teſtimony of the Spirit, is this Demonſtration, or common place of the Miracles of Chriſt.

8. Conſider Chriſt's Ordination of his Apoſtles. Luk. 6. 13. He choſe Twelve, whom he named Apoſtles; and what Matt. 28. 19. was the Office of theſe Apoſtles, but to Go and teach all Nations; The Goſpel was firſt Preached in Jewry, but afterwards the ſound of it came unto us. Out of Mich. 4. 2. Zion ſhall go forth the Law, and the Word of the Lord from Jeruſalem. Gildas affirms plainly, That Britain received the Goſpel in the time of Tiberius, under whom Chriſt ſuffered; and that Joſeph of Arimathea, after the Diſperſion of the Jews, was ſent of Philip the Apoſtle from France to Britain, and here remained in this Land all his time. Nicephoras adds, That Simon Zelotes did ſpread the Goſpel of Chriſt to the Weſt Niceph. l. 2. c. 40. Ocean, and brought the ſame into the Iſles of Britain. Howſoever it was brought hither, of this we are ſure, that Chriſt was firſt diſcovered to his Apoſtles, and from the Apoſtles, was diſcovered to our Forefathers, and from them unto us, and from us will be the diſcovery to others to the end of the World. O the goodneſs of God in Chriſt! What? That repentance and remiſſion of Sins, ſhould be preached in his Luke 24. 47. Name, beginning at Jeruſalem; and afterwards among all Nations! Of what near concernment, O my Soul, is this to thee? What art thou but a Sinner of the Gentiles? Underſtand that term! When the Apoſtles would expreſs the greateſt Sinners that the World had, he calls them Sinners of the Gentiles; Why? Gal. 2. 15. the Gentiles knew not God, the Gentiles were unacquainted with Chriſt, the Gentiles walked in nothing but Sin; O then, what a love is this, that God ſhould ever have thought of good will towards thee? Surely, this is one of the great Myſteries of Godlineſs, God manifeſted in the Fleſh, juſtified in the Spirit, ſeen of 1 Tim. 3. 16. Angels, preached unto the Gentiles: What? That Sinners, and the worſt of Sinners, ſhould be made the Subjects of the utmoſt diſcovery of Chriſt, and the Goſpel of Chriſt? This is a Myſtery indeed; had Chriſt ſent his Apoſtles to proclaim the Riches of his Grace to ſome Jews only, or to ſome unſpotted Souls among the Gentiles (if any ſuch were) whoſe hearts might preſently have fallen down before it, this had been ſomething ſuitable; but, that Sinners of the Gentiles, that Children of wrath ſhould be the Subject of this great deſign; O the Myſtery! q. d. Go my Apoſtles into all Nations of the World? and amongſt them all, go into Britain, into that Corner of the World, England and there open the Myſtery of Chriſt, there preach Life, and Reconciliation, and Redemption, and Glorification to thoſe poor Souls; lay you (or at leaſt ſome of you) the Foundation of the Chriſtian Faith, amongſt thoſe Heathens, theſe Sinners of the Gentiles; and after you, I will raiſe up ſome other Miniſters of the Goſpel to confirm the ſame. Yea, in the laſt times, I will raiſe up many Worthies, as Jewel, Uſher, Downham, Perkins, Hooker, Rogers, Shepheard, Bolton, Aſh, Wittaker, &c. who ſhall be as bright Stars in the Firmament of that Church; and after them I will raiſe up others to diſcover this great deſign to their Generations, amongſt whom ſhall live ſuch and ſuch Men, ſuch and ſuch Women (and herein, O my Soul, think of thy ſelf, and if thou wilt of thine own Family and Relations) for I owe a good will towards England; it ſhall be ſaid of England, as ſometimes of Zion, Out of England the perfection of Beauty, hath God ſhined. O my Soul! how ſhouldſt thou Pſal. 50. 2. be raviſhed in this one Meditation? What? That Chriſt ſhould cauſe the Sun of his Goſpel to come into this Zodiack, and that now in theſe latter times (when the Sun is ſet in Zion, where it firſt aroſe) it ſhould make a Noon with us, and ſhine more brightly here (for ought I know, or can yet learn) than in any other Nation, Country, Kingdom, throughout all the World? O the depth of the Riches, Rom. 11. 33. both of the wiſdom and counſel of God, how unſearchable are his Judgments, and his ways paſt finding out.

9. Conſider Chriſt's Reception of Sinners. He ſent forth his Apoſtles to call them in, and if they would but come, how ready was he to receive them; This was Chriſt's Errand from Heaven, this was the Work he came to do; I came down from Heaven, John 6. 38, 39. not to do mine own Will, but the will of him that ſent me; and this is the Fathers will which hath ſent me, that of all which he hath given me I ſhould loſe nothing. He muſt receive all his Father gives him, but he muſt loſe none; Chriſt muſt Give an account to God the Father, of all which he hath given him, and this John 17. 22. will be his account: thoſe that thou gaveſt me, I have kept, and none of them is loſt. Ah poor Soul! why ſhouldſt thou deſpair becauſe of Sin? Look on Chriſt as ſpreading out both his Arms to receive thee to him; look on the gracious Nature and Diſpoſition that is in Chriſt; look on the Office of Chriſt, it's an Office of ſaving, and ſhewing mercy, that Chriſt hath undertaken; it's an Office to receive Sinners; Luk. 19. 10. yea, to ſeek, and to ſave that which was loſt; to bring home ſtraying Souls to God; to be the great Peace-maker between God and Man; to reconcile God to Man; and Man to God, and ſo to be the Head, and Husband of his People. Certainly the Devil ſtrangly wrongeth many a poor troubled Soul, that he can bring them to have hard thoughts, and ſuſpicious thoughts of Jeſus Chriſt; how can they more contradict the Office of Chriſt; How can they more contradict the Goſpel-Deſcription of Chriſt, than to think him a deſtroyer of his Creatures, one that watcheth for their haltings, and one that hath more mind to hurt than help them? Away, away with all prejudicate Opinions! reſolve, O my Soul, to throw thy ſelf on him for Life and for Salvation; why, if thou wilt but come, he hath promiſed freely to make thee welcome; all the day long he ſtretcheth out his Arms, and would fain gather thee, and all others into his ſweet Embraces.

10. Conſider the eaſineſs of his Yoak, and the Pſal. 40. 8. lightneſs of his Burthen. Many a one is willing to 1 John 5. 3. take Jeſus as their Saviour, but they are unwilling to Pſal. 38. 8. take him on his own ſweet terms: O they imagine it an hard Task, and an heavy Burthen, Who may indure it? It was otherwiſe with Chriſt, I do delight to do thy will, O my God; and 'tis otherwiſe with Chriſtians, for his Commandments are not grievous, ſaith John; and therefore David calls on others to try Act. & Mon. fol. 1361. this truth, Oh taſte, and ſee how good the Lord is. It is ſaid of Maſter Sanders, that a little before his Death and Martyrdom he told his Wife, that he had no Riches to leave her, but that treaſure of taſting how ſweet Chriſt is to hungry Conſciences; And of that (ſaith he) as I feel ſome part, and I would feel more, ſo I bequeath it unto thee, and to the reſt of my beloved in Chriſt, Pſal. 119. 10, 13. O my Soul, if thou canſt but taſte, thou wilt find a world of ſweetneſs in Chriſt's ways, there is ſweetneſs in the Word, How ſweet are thy words to my taſte, yea, ſweeter than Honey to my mouth? There is ſweetneſs in Prayer; haſt thou not known the time Rom. 10. 12. that thou haſt touched the hem of Chriſt's Garment, and taſted of the Joys of Heaven in Prayer? Haſt thou not ſeen Heaven cleft, and Chriſt ſitting at Gods right Hand? Surely the Lord is Rich to all them that call upon him. There is ſweetneſs in Meditation, ſome call this very Duty, The Saints paſtime, which recreates and perfumes the tired Spirits: Now O my Pſal. 119. 99. Soul, thou art in the exerciſe of this Duty now thou art in the Meditation of the eaſineſs of Chriſt's Burthen, and of the ſweetneſs of his ways, tell me, is there nothing of Heaven in this Meditation? Is it ſweet; Or is it bitter to thy Soul? Thou mayeſt read in Scripture of many admirable effects of Meditation, as that it confirms our Knowledge: Pſal. 119. 99. I have more underſtanding than all my teachers, for thy Teſtimonies are my Meditations: Ver. 97. that it inflames our Love, Oh how love I thy Law? It is my Meditation all Ver. 15. the day; that it caſts a ſweet influence on our Lives, I will meditate, in thy precepts, and have reſpect unto thy ways; What? Is it thus with thee; Canſt thou ſay Pſal. 104. 34. with David, my Meditation of him ſhall be ſweet? And Pſal. 94. 19. in the multitude of my thoughts within me, thy Comforts exceedingly delight my Soul; Why, then thou haſt truly taſted of God's goodneſs, thou haſt actual Diſcoveries of the ſweetneſs of God's ways; thou haſt experienc'd this truth, that his Yoke is eaſy, and his Burden is light; that his ways are ways of pleaſantneſs, and all his paths are peace. Matth. 11. 3. Oh, if men did but Pſal. 119. 99. know what raviſhing ſweetneſs were in the ways of God, they could not but embrace them, and eſteem one days ſociety with Jeſus Chriſt (as Caracciolus did) better than all the Gold in the World.

11. Conſider the Holineſs of Chriſt's Nature, and the Holineſs of Chriſt's Life. 1. For the Holineſs of his Nature; if thou couldeſt but clearly ſee it, what work would it make in thy Breaſt? Chriſt's inward beauty would raviſh Love out of the Devils, if they had but Grace to ſee his Beauty; yea, he would lead captive all Hearts in Hell, if they had but Eyes to behold his Lovelineſs. O, what a Flower, what a Roſe of Love and Light is the Lord Jeſus Chriſt? My beloved is white and ruddy, Cant. 5. 10 ſaid the Spouſe, the chiefeſt of ten thouſands. Summon before Chriſt, fair Angels, glorified Spirits, the azure Heavens, the lightſome Stars, all the delicious Flowers, Gardens, Meadows, Foreſts, Seas, Mountains, Brids, Beaſts; yea, and all the Sons of Men, as they ſhould have been in the world of Innocency, and let them all ſtand in their higheſt excellency before Jeſus Chriſt, and what are they? The Saints in Glory, now ſee the face of Chriſt; (i. e.) they Rev. 22. 4. ſee all the Dignity, Beauty, that is in Chriſt; and they are ſo taken with his ſight, that they do nothing elſe but ſtare and gaze, and behold his Face for Ages, and yet they are never ſatisfied with beholding; ſuppoſe they could wear out their Eyes at the Eye-holes in beholding Chriſt, they ſhould ſtill deſire to ſee more. O! this Lovelineſs of Chriſt raviſhes the Souls of the glorified: how is it, O my Soul, that thou art not taken with this Meditation; But, 2. Go from the Holineſs of his Nature, to the Holineſs of his Life, it may be that will make deep Impreſſions on thy Spirit; conſider his Charity, his Self-denial, his Contempt of the World, his Mercy, his Bounty, his Meekneſs, his Pity, his Humility, his Obedience to his Father. A fruitful Meditation on theſe particulars, cannot but cauſe ſome reſemblance within, and make thee like Chriſt. O, the wonder that any ſhould diſclaim the active Obedience of Chriſt, as to his own Juſtification! Away, away with theſe Cavils, and conſider the Obedience of Chriſt in Relation to thy ſelf. God ſent forth his Son made of a Woman, made Gal. 4. 4. under the Law, to redeem them that were under the Law, that we might receive the Adoption of Sons. It is a ſweet note of Dr. Andrews, Chriſt made under the Law, (i. e.) under the whole Law; the one half of the Law (which is the directive part) he was made under that, and ſatisfied it by the Innocency of his Life, without breaking one jot or tittle of the Law, and ſo he anſwers that part, as it might be the principal; the other half of the Law (which is the penalty) he was under that alſo, and ſatisfied it by ſuffering a wrongful Death, no way deſerved or due by him, and ſo he anſwered that part as it might be the Forfeiture. But if we come now to aſk for whom is all this? It is only for us, that we might be redeemed and adopted; redeemed from all Evil, and adopted or intereſted into all Good. If this be ſo, O who would for a world of Gold loſe the influence and the benefit of Chriſt's active Obedience? Conſider of this, O my Soul! till thou feeleſt ſome Virtue to come out of Chriſt's life into thy ſelf.

Sect. 3. Of deſiring after Jeſus in that reſpect.

3. LET us deſire after Jeſus, carrying on the Work of Salvation in his Life: It is not enough to know and conſider, but we muſt deſire; our Meditation of Chriſt, ſhould draw forth our affections to Chriſt; and amongſt all Affections, I place this firſt of all, a deſire after Chriſt.

But what is it in Chriſt's Life that is ſo deſirable; I anſwer, every paſſage or particular named; yea, every thing of Chriſt is deſirable (named or unnamed) all that concerns Chriſt in any kind whatſoever (if to the former particulars, I ſhould add a thouſand and a thouſand more) it is very precious, and excellent, and neceſſary and profitable, and comfortable, and therefore deſirable; but to put them in order:

1. The meaneſt things of Chriſt are deſirable things; the very filings of Gold, the duſt or ſparkles of precious Stones are of real price and value, yea, of much worth; yea, the very Leaves of the Tree of Life are healing; the very Hem of Chriſt's Garment, but even touched, ſends forth its Virtue; the meaneſt and worſt things of Chriſt are incomparably to be deſired above all things; the duſt of Zion, the very ground that Chriſt's feet treadeth on, any thing that hath the pooreſt Relation to Jeſus Chriſt, it is deſirable for him. Hence we read that one poor Woman ſought no more of him, but for to waſh Chriſt's feet, and to kiſs them; another Woman breathes out theſe deſires after Chriſt, If I Matth. 9. 21. may but touch the hem of his garment, I ſhall be whole. Mary Magdalen ſought only to have her Arms filled with his dead Body: Joſeph of Arimathea was of the ſame mind: O the bloody Winding ſheet, together with the dead and torn Body of Chriſt in his Arms, are moſt precious and ſweet. Chriſt's Clay is Silver, and his Braſs Gold: John the Baptiſt thinks it an honour to Joh. 1. 27. unlooſe the Latchets of his Shooes: David, tho he was Pſal. 84. 10. a great Prophet, and appointed to be King over Iſrael, yet his Soul pants thus, O, that I might be ſo near the Lord, Ver. 3. as to be a door keeper in the houſe of my God. Yea, he puts an happineſs on the Sparrow and the Swallow, that may build their Neſts beſides he Lord's Altar.

2. The more conſiderable Actions of Chriſt are eſpecially deſirable. Oh my Soul, wouldſt thou but run through his Life, and conſider ſome of his more eminent Actions, in relation to his Friends, or in relation to his Enemies, what deſires would theſe kindle in thine heart after Chriſt? 1. To his Friends, he was ſweet and indulgent; where there was any beginnings of Grace, he did Matth. 12. 20. encourage it; ſo was the Propheſy, A bruiſed reed ſhall he not break, and ſmoaking flax ſhall he not quench: Nay, where was but a Repreſentation of Grace, he ſeemed to accept of it: Thus, when the young man Mark 10. 17, 21. came and ſaid, What good thing ſhall I do to inherit eternal Life; He embraced him, and made much Mark 12. 28, 34. of him; then Jeſus beholding him, he loved him: And ſo the Scribe which asked him, which is the firſt Matth. 9. 36. Commandment of all? In the Concluſion, Chriſt told him, Thou art not far from the Kingdom of God: He laboured to pull him further, in telling him he was not far from Heaven and Glory. And ſo the People that fainted for Bread of Life, that were ſcattered abroad as ſheep having no ſhepherd ——— he was moved with compaſſion on them, ἐσπλαγχνίσθη αὐτῶν; he was boweled in heart, his very bowels were moved within him. 2. To his Enemies he was kind and merciful; many a time he diſcovers himſelf moſt of all unto Sinners; he was never more familiar with any at firſt acquaintance, than with the Woman of Samaria, that was an Adultereſs; and Mary, that had been a Sinner, how ſweetly did he appear to her at the very firſt view? How ready was he to receive Sinners? How ready to pardon and forgive Sinners? How gracious to Sinners after the pardon and forgiveneſs of Sin? See it in Peter, he never caſt him in the teeth with his Apoſtacy, he never upbraided him with it, he never ſo much as tells him of it; only he looks upon him; and afterwards, Loveſt thou me? O Peter, loveſt thou me? Why Peter, loveſt thou me? Often he was wronged and injured by Men, but what then? Was he all on a heat? Did he call for Fire down from Heaven to deſtroy them? Indeed his Diſciples being more Fleſh than Spirit, would fain have had it ſo; but he ſweetly replies, O, you know not what Spirits you are of: the Son of Man is Luk. 9. 55, 56. not come to deſtroy Men's Lives, but to ſave them. Sometimes we find him ſhedding Tears for thoſe very Perſons that ſhed his precious Blood: Oh Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, &c. —— if thou hadſt known, even thou, at leaſt in this thy day, the things belonging to thy Peace, &c. why, O my Soul, if thou wouldſt but run through ſuch Paſſages as theſe, how deſirable are they? Well might they ſing in that day in the Land of Judah, —— In Iſa. 26. 1, 8. the way of thy judgments, O Lord, have we waited for thee, the deſire of our Soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee.

3. The ever Bleſſed and Holy Perſon of Chriſt is deſirable above all. My Beloved is white and ruddy, Cant. 5. 10, 16. the chiefeſt of ten thouſand; ——— yea, he is altogether lovely or deſirable; ſo Vatablus renders it, Chriſtus eſt totus deſideria, Chriſt is all deſires. If the Actions of Chriſt be deſirable, what muſt himſelf be? If the paring of his Bread be ſo ſweet, what muſt the great Loaf Chriſt himſelf be? Chriſt is admirable in Action and Perſon, but above all, his Perſon is moſt admirable; no Creature in the World yields the like Repreſentation of God, as the Perſon of Jeſus Chriſt; he is the expreſs Image of the Perſon of his Father; Heb. 1. 3. as the print of the Seal on the Wax is the expreſs image of the Seal it ſelf, ſo is Chriſt the higheſt Repreſentation of God; he makes Similitude to him, who otherwiſe is without all Similitude. And hence it is that Chriſt is called the Standard-bearer of ten thouſands: Cant. 5. 10. all Excellencies are gathered up in Chriſt, as Beams in the Sun. Come poor Soul! thy Eyes run to and fro in the World to find Comfort and Happineſs; thou deſireſt after worldly Honour, worldly Pleaſure, worldly Profits; caſt thy Eyes back and ſee Heaven and Earth in one; look if thou wilt at what thy vaſt thoughts can fancy, not only in this World, but in the World to come; or if thou canſt imagine more variety; ſee that, and infinitely more, ſhining forth from the Perſon of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; no wonder if the Saints adore him; no wonder if the Angels ſtand amazed at him; no wonder if all Creatures vail all their glory to him.

Oh, what are all things in the World to Jeſus Chriſt? Paul compares them together, τὰ πάντα, all things, with this one thing; And I account all things Phil 3. 8. but loſs, for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt. And I account all things] ſurely all things is the greateſt Account that can be caſt up; for it includeth all Prices, all Sums; it takes in Earth and Heaven, and all therein, that are but as created things; q. d. Nations, and all Nations; Gold and all Gold; Jewels and all Jewels; Angels and all Angels; all theſe, and every all beſides all theſe; what are they in compariſon of Chriſt, but as Feathers, Dung, Shadows, Nothing? If there be any thing worthy a Wiſh, it is eminently, tranſcendently, originally in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; there is no Honour, no Felicity like that which Chriſt hath; ſome are Sons, Chriſt is an only Son; ſome are Kings, but Chriſt is King of Kings; ſome are honourable, none above Angels, Chriſt is above Angels and Arch-angels: To which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, Thou art my Son this Day Heb. 1. 11. have I begotten thee? Some are wealthy, Chriſt hath all the Sheep on a thouſand Hills; the very utmoſt parts of the Earth are his; ſome are beautiful, Chriſt is the faireſt of all the Children of Men; he is ſpiritually fair, he is all glorious within; if the Beauty of the Angels (which I believe are the beautifulleſt Creatures the World has) ſhould be compared with the Beauty of Chriſt, which conſiſts in the perfection of the Divine Nature, and in the perfection of his Human Nature, and in the perfection of the Graces of his Spirit, they would be but as lumps of Darkneſs: The brighteſt Cherub is forc'd to ſkreen his Face from the dazling and ſhining brightneſs of the Glory of Chriſt. Alas! the Cherubims and Seraphims are but as Spangles and twinkling Stars in the Canopy of Heaven, but Chriſt is the Sun of Righteouſneſs, that at once illuminates and drowns them all.

Come then, caſt up thy deſires after Chriſt; breath, O my Soul, after the enjoyments of this Chriſt; fling up to Heaven ſome Divine Ejaculations, Oh that this Chriſt was mine! Oh that the Actions of Chriſt, and the Perſon of Chriſt were mine! O that all he ſaid, and all he did, and all he were from top to toe were mine! Oh that I had the ſilver Wings of a Dove, that in all my wants I might fly into the boſom of this Chriſt! Oh that I might be admitted to his Perſon? Or if that may not be, Oh that I may but touch the very hem of his Garment. If I muſt not ſit at Table, Oh that I might but gather up the Crumbs! Surely there's Bread enough in my Fathers Houſe; Chriſt is the Bread of Life; this one Loaf Chriſt is enough for all the Saints in Heaven and Earth to feed on; and what muſt I pine away, and periſh with Hunger? Oh that I might have one Crum of Chriſt! Thouſands of Inſtructi- Pſal. 119. 15. ons dropped from him while he was on Earth; Oh that ſome of that food might be my nouriſhment! Oh that my Joh. 7.37. ways were directed according to his Statutes! many a ſtream, and wave, and line, and precept flowed from this Fountain, Chriſt; Oh that I might drink freely of this Water of Life! He hath proclaimed it in my ears, If, any man thirſt, let him come unto me and drink; Oh that I might come and find welcome! why ſure I thirſt, I am extreamly athirſt, I feel in me ſuch a burning drought, that either I muſt drink or die; either the righteouſneſs of Chriſt, the holineſs of Chriſt, the holineſs of his Nature, and the holineſs of his Life muſt be imputed unto me, or farewel happineſs in another World; why come, come Lord Jeſus, come quickly; Oh I long to ſee the Beauty of thy Face! thy Glory is ſaid to be an enamouring Glory; ſuch is thy Beauty, that it ſteals away my Heart after thee, and cannot be ſatisfied till with Abſolon, I ſee the Kings face; come Chriſt! or if thou wilt not come, I charge you, O Daugh- Cnt. 5.8. ters of Jeruſalem, if ye find my beloved, that ye tell him I am ſick of Love.

Sect. 4. Of Hoping in Jeſus in that Reſpect.

4 LET us hope in Jeſus, carrying on the great Work of our Salvation in his Life. By this Hope, I mean not a fluctuating, wavering, doubtful Hope, but an aſſured Hope; an Hope well grounded. The main Soul-Queſtion is, Whether Chriſt's life be mine? Whether all thoſe paſſages of his Life laid open, belong unto me? Whether the habitual Righteouſneſs, and actual Holineſs of Chriſt be imputed to my Juſtification? And what are the Grounds and Foundations on which my Hope is built? The 2 Theſ. 2. 16. Apoſtle tells us, that God gives good hopes through Grace; if Hope be right and good, it will manifeſt it ſelf by Operation of ſaving Grace; O look into thy Soul! what gracious effects of the Life of Chriſt are there? Certainly his Life is not without ſome influence on our Spirits, if we be his Members, and he be our Head. The Head we ſay, communicates Life, and Senſe, and Motion to his Members; and ſo doth Chriſt communicate a ſpiritual Life, and Senſe, and Motion to his Members; O the glorious effects flowing out of Chriſt's life into a Believers ſoul! I ſhall lay down theſe. As,———

1. If Chriſt's Life be mine, then am I freed from the Law of Sin; This was the Apoſtles evidence: For the law of the Spirit of life in Chriſt Jeſus, hath made Rom. 8. 2. me free from the law of ſin and death. Chriſt's Life is called the Spirit of Life, becauſe of its perfection; and this Spirit of Life hath ſuch a power in it, here termed a Law, that it works out in Believers, a freedom from the Law or Power in Sin. I cannot think, notwithſtanding the influence of Chriſt's Life on me, but that Sin ſtill ſticketh in me; I am ſtill a Sinner in reſpect of the inherency of Sin, but I am freed from the power of Sin (i. e.) from the guilt of Sin, as to its condemning Power; and from the filth of Sin, as to its ruling, reigning Power: Let not ſin reign in your mortal Bodies, that ye ſhould obey it in the Rom. 6. 12 luſt thereof.———

I grant there is ſome difference among Divines in their Expreſſions, concerning the Sins of God's own People, tho they mean one and the ſelf-ſame thing. Some call them only Sins of infirmity; and others grant the name of reigning Sins; but with this limitation, that this is not a total reigning. Sin reigneth as a Tyrant over them, not as a King; at ſometimes (as in David's caſe) the will and conſent may run along with Sin, no actual reſiſtance may be made againſt Sin at all; and yet at the very ſame time the ſeed of 1 Joh. 3. 9. God remaineth in them; tho it ſeem dead; and in God's good time, that very ſeed will revive again, and throw out the Tyrant; there is not, cannot be, that antecedent and conſequent conſent to Sin in the godly, as in the wicked: O my ſoul, conſider this! if the virtue of Chriſt's Life come in, it will take down that ſoveraign high reign of Sin which the wicked ſuffer, and will not ſtrive againſt; the Fleſh indeed may ſometimes Luſt againſt the Spirit, but it ſhall not totally prevail or get the upper hand; Sin ſhall not have dominion over you. Rom. 6. 14 Sin may tyrannize in me for a time, but it ſhall not King it in me. Look to this! Doth the Power and Dominion of Chriſt's Life throw out of thy heart and life that Kingly power and dominion of my Sin? Here is one ground of Hope.

2. If Chriſt's Life be mine, then ſhall I walk even as he walked; ſuch is the Efficacy of Chriſt's Life, that it will work ſuitableneſs, and make our Life in ſome ſort like his Life, The Apoſtle obſerves that our Communion with Chriſt works on our very Converſations; he that abideth in him, walks even as he walked: and to this purpoſe are all thoſe holy Admonitions; walk in love, as Chriſt alſo loved us.— Joh. 2. 6. Eph. 5. 2. And, I have given you an example, that you ſhould do, John 13. 15. as I have done unto you.———And, as he which 1 Pet. 1. 15. hath called you is holy, ſo be ye holy, in all manner of converſation. Then is Chriſt's Life mine, when my Actions refer to him as my Copy, when I tranſcribe the Original of Chriſt's Life (as it were) to the Life. Alas, what am I better to obſerve in the Life of Chriſt, his Charity to his Enemies, his Reprehenſions of the Scribes and Phariſees, his Subordination to his heavenly Father, his Ingenuity towards all Men, his Effuſion of Love towards all the Saints, if there be no likeneſs of all this in my own Actions? The Life of Jeſus is not deſcribed to be like a Picture in a Chamber of Pleaſure, only for Beauty and entertainment of the Eye, but like the Egyptian Hieroglyphick, whoſe very Feature is a Precept, whoſe Images converſe with Men by Senſe, and Signification of excellent Diſcourſes; to this purpoſe, ſaith Paul, We all with open face, beholding as in a glaſs, the 2 Cor. 3. 18 glory of the Lord, are changed in the ſame image from Glory to Glory: Chriſt is the Image of his Father, and we are the Images of Chriſt; Chriſt is God's Maſterpiece, and the moſt excellent device, and work, and frame of Heaven that ever was, or ever ſhall be; now Chriſt being the top excellency of all, he is moſt fit to be the pattern of all Excellencies whatſoever; and therefore he is the Image, the Idea, the Patern, the Platform of all our Sanctification. Come then, O my Soul, look unto Jeſus, and look into thy ſelf; yea, and look, and look, till thou art more transformed into his likeneſs: Is it ſo that thou art changed into the ſame Image with Chriſt? Look into his Diſpoſition as it is ſet forth in the Goſpel? Look into his Carriage, look into his Converſation at home and abroad; and then reflecting on thy ſelf; look there, and tell me, canſt thou find in thy ſelf a Diſpoſition ſuitable to his Diſpoſition, a Carriage ſuitable to his Carriage, a Converſation ſuitable to his Converſation? Art thou every way like him in thy meaſure, in Goſpel-allowance, in ſome ſweet Reſemblance? Why then, here's another ground of Hope: O, rejoyce in it, and bleſs God for it.

3. If Chriſt's Life be mine, then ſhall I Admire, Adore, Believe, and Obey this Chriſt. All theſe were the effects of thoſe ſeveral paſſages in Chriſt's Life reſpectively. 1. They admire at his Doctrine
Luk. 4.22. Matth. 15. 31. and Miracles: For his Doctrine; all bear him witneſs, and wondered at thoſe gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth: and for his Miracles; they wondred, and they glorified the God, the God of Iſrael: yea, ſometimes their Admiration was ſo great, that they were ſore-amazed in themſelves beyond meaſure, and wondred.——
Mar. 6.51. Luk 9.43. They were amazed at the mighty Power of God, and they wondred every one at all things which Jeſus did. 2. And as they admired, ſo they adored, there came a Leper and Matth. 8.2 worſhipped him, ſaying, If thou wilt, thou canſt make me
Matth. 9. 18 clean: and there came a Ruler and worſhipped him; ſaying, My Daughter is even now dead, come lay thy hand
Matth. 14. 33. on her, and ſhe ſhall live; and they that were in the Ship came and worſhipped, ſaying, Of a truth, thou art the Son of God. The very worſhipping of Chriſt confeſſeth thus much, that he is the Son of God. 3. And Mark 9. 23, 24. as they adored, ſo they believed: If thou canſt believe (ſaid Chriſt to the Father of the poſſeſſed Child) all things are poſſible to him that believeth; and ſtraight way he cried out, and ſaid with tears, Lord, I believe, help thou my unbelief. And when many of his Diſciples fell away, then ſaid Jeſus to the twelve, Will ye alſo go away; Peter anſwers for the reſt, to whom
John 6.66, 69. ſhall we go?———Why Lord, we believe, and are ſure that thou art the Chriſt, the Son of the living God; not only worſhipping of Chriſt, but believing in Chriſt is a right acknowledgment that Chriſt is God. 4. And as they believed, ſo they obeyed:
Rom. 6.17. ye have obeyed from the heart (ſaid Paul to the Romans)
Matt. 4.19, 20, 22. that form of Doctrine which was delivered to you; no ſooner Peter and Andrew heard the Voice of Chriſt, follow me, but they left all and followed him; and no ſooner James and John heard the ſame Voice of Matt. 9.9. Chriſt, follow me, but they left all and followed him;
John 8.31. and no ſooner Matthew ſitting at the receipt of cuſtom, heard that voice of Chriſt, follow me, but he roſe and followed him. Why then are ye my Diſciples indeed (ſaid Chriſt to the believing Jews) if ye continue in my word. Come than, put thy ſelf, O my Soul, to the Teſt; thou haſt ſeen and heard the wonderful Paſſages of Chriſt's Life; the Baptiſm of Chriſt, the Faſting of Chriſt, the Temptations of Chriſt, the Manifeſtations of Chriſt, the Doctrine of Chriſt, the Miracles of Chriſt, the Holineſs of Chriſt; and is this the iſſue of all? Doſt thou now begin to admire, and adore, and believe, and to obey this Chriſt? Is thy heart warmed? Thy affections kindled? Forbs tells us, that the word of God hath three degrees of Operation in the hearts of his choſen, Firſt it falleth to mens ears as the ſound of many Waters, a mighty, great, and confuſed ſound, and which commonly brings neither Terror, nor Joy, but yet a wondring and acknowledgement of a ſtrange Force, and more than humane Power; this is that effect which many felt, hearing Chriſt, when they were aſtoniſhed at his Doctrine, as teaching with Authority; what manner of Doctrine is this? Never man ſpake
Mat. 1.22, 27. Luk. 4.32. John 7.46. like this man: the next effect is the voice of Thunder, which bringeth not only wonder, but fear alſo: not only filleth the ears with ſound, and the heart with aſtoniſhment, but moreover ſhaketh and terrifieth the Conſcience: the third effect is the ſound of harping, while the Word not only raviſheth with Admiration, and ſtriketh the Conſcience with Terror, but alſo, laſtly, filleth it with ſweet Peace and Joy. In the preſent caſe, give me leave to ask, O my Soul, art thou ſtruck into a maze at the mighty Miracles, and Divine Doctrine of Jeſus Chriſt; Doſt thou fall down and Worſhip him as the Lord, and thy God? Doſt thou believe in him, and rely on him for Life and Salvation? Doſt thou obey him, and follow the Lamb which way ſoever he goes? Doſt thou act from Principles of Grace in newneſs of Life, and holineſs of Converſation? Doſt thou walk anſwerably to the commands of Jeſus Chriſt; or at leaſt is there in thee an earneſt endeavour ſo to walk? and is it the Sorrow of thy Soul, when thou obſerveth thy failings? And doſt thou rejoice in Spirit, when thou art led by the Spirit? Why then, here's another ground of Hope, that Virtue is gone out of Chriſt's Life into thy Soul.

4. If Chriſt's Life be mine, then I live, yet not I, Gal. 2.20.
but Chriſt liveth in me. Paul ſpeaks out this evidence, I am crucified with Chriſt, nevertheleſs I live, &c. he conjoins the Death of Chriſt, and the Life of Chriſt in one and the ſame Soul; q. d. no man knows the benefit of Chriſt's Death, but he that feels the Virtue of Chriſt's Life; there's no aſſurance of Chriſt's dying for us, but as we feel Chriſt living in us; if the power of Chriſt's Death mortifie my Luſts, then the Virtue of Chriſt's Life will quicken my Soul; but what means he by this, I live, yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me? It ſeems ſome Paradox; I live, yet not I: but a right Interpretation reconciles all; as this, I live to God, and not unto my ſelf; I live to Chriſt, and not unto the World; I live according to the Will of God, and not after my own Luſt and Fancy; or (as ſome would have it) I live under Grace, and not under the Law. q. d. Sometimes I lived wholly under the Law, which made me a Perſecutor of the Church of God, which wrought in me all manner of Concupiſcence, and ſlew me; and then I found my ſelf to be dead in Sin; but now I have embraced Chriſt, and am no more the man I was; now I feel Chriſt quickning, ruling, guiding, and ſtrengthning me by his Spirit; now I live ſpiritually and holily, not of my ſelf, but from another: The very whole of Chriſtians is from Chriſt; Chriſt is both Fountain-filling, and Life-quickning; I live, yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me. Chriſt's Life hath an Influence, Infuſion, Tranſmiſſion into our ſelves in reference to ſpiritual Life: Look as the Heavens by an influence into the Earth, do quicken and enliven the Earth, and make all the Seeds and Roots hidden in the Earth, to revive and put forth themſelves; ſo there is an Influence that goes forth from the Sun of Righteouſneſs into the Souls of Men, reviving and quickning them, and making them of dead, to become living; and of barren, to become fruitful; To you ſhall the Sun of Righteouſneſs ariſe with Matt. 4.2.
healing in his wings, and ye ſhall go forth, and grow up as the Calves of the Stall. O my Soul! queſtion thy ſelf in theſe few particulars; Doſt thou live to God, and not to thy ſelf? Doſt thou live to Chriſt, and not to the World? Doſt thou drive thy life from Chriſt? And hath that life of Chriſt a ſpecial influence into thy Soul? Doſt thou feel Chriſt living in thy Underſtanding and Will, in thy Imagination and Affections, in thy Duties and Services? 1. In thy Underſtanding, Underſtanding, by prizing the Knowledg of Chriſt, by determining to know nothing in compariſon of Chriſt? 2. In thy Will, by making thy Will free to chuſe and embrace Chriſt; and by making his Will to rule in thy Will? 3. In thy Imagination, by thinking upon him with more frequency and delight; by having more high, and honourable, and ſweeter Apprehenſions of Chriſt than of all the Creatures? 4. In thy Affections, by fearing Chriſt above all earthly Powers, and by loving Chriſt above all earthly Perſons? 5. In thy Duty and Services, by doing all thou doſt in his Name, by his Aſſiſtance, and for his Glory? Why then, here's another ground of thy Hope, ſurely thou haſt thy part in Chriſt's Life.

Away, away with all dejected Doubts, and perplexing Fears! while Chriſt was in Auguſtin's eye, he ſaid, I dare not deſpond, I know who hath ſaid it, and I dare build upon it; this Anchor of hope thus caſt out, and faſtning upon Chriſt, it would be admirably uſeful when Billows of Temptation beat upon Souls; this Helmet of Hope thus uſed, would keep off many Blows, whereby the comforts of diſtruſtful Spirits are many times ſadly battered. O my Soul, look to the grounds of thy Hope! if thou findeſt the power of Sin dying in thee, if thou walkeſt as Chriſt walked, if thou admireſt, adoreſt, believeſt, and obeyeſt thy Chriſt; if thou liveſt, and liveſt not, but in deed, and in truth, it is Chriſt that lives in thee; why then thou maiſt comfortably hope and aſſure thy ſelf that Chriſt's habitual Righteouſneſs, and actual holineſs is imputed to thy Juſtification; thou maiſt confidently reſolve that every paſſage of Chriſt's Life (ſo far as Legal or Moral) belongs unto thee. What? Would ever Chriſt have come with his Power againſt the Power of Sin, if he had not meant to reſcue thee? Would Chriſt ever have ſet thee a Copy, and have held thy hand and thy heart, to have writ legibly after him, if he had not meant thee for a Scribe inſtructed unto the Kingdom of Heaven? Matth.13. 55. Would Chriſt in his ſeveral actings have ſet himſelf before thee as the Object of Admiration, Adoration, Belief and Obedience, if he had not meant to own thee, and to be owned by thee? Would Chriſt have ever come ſo near to thee, as to have lived in thee, to have been the Soul of thy Soul, and the Life of thy Life, the All of thy Underſtanding and Will, Imaginations and Affections, Duties and Services, if he had not purpoſed to have ſaved thee by his Life? Rom. 5. 10. Surely it is good that I both hope, and quietly wait for the Salvation of God. Lam.3.26. I cannot hope in vain if theſe be the grounds of my hope.

Sect. 5. Of Believing in Jeſus in that reſpect.

5. LET us believe in Jeſus carrying on the great work of our Salvation in his Life. Many Souls ſtand aloof, not daring to make a particular Application of Chriſt, and his Life to themſelves; but herein is the property of Faith, it brings all home, and makes uſe of whatſoever Chriſt is or does, for himſelf. To ponder Chriſt's Actions during his Life, and the influence of his Actions to all that are his, what is this to me, unleſs I believe my own part in all this? Oh I dare not believe (cries many a poor Soul) it is credible that Jeſus Chriſt the Son of God, the brightneſs of his Father's Glory, the expreſs Image of his Father's Perſon, ſhould be incarnate for me, and lead ſuch a Life upon Earth for my Soul? What! to be baptized, to be tempted, to manifeſt himſelf in his form of Man, to whip the buyers and Sellers out of the Temple, to Preach up and down the Goſpel of the Kingdom, to work Miracles among Men, to ſend abroad his Apoſtles with a Commiſſion to Preach, to invite Sinners to eaſe the burthen of Duties, and in a word, to publiſh the Righteouſneſs of his Nature and Life; and all this, and a thouſand times more than all this, for my Soul? O what am I, or what is my Father's Houſe? If God ſhould let me live one year in Heaven, it were infinite Mercy; but that the God of Heaven ſhould live ſo many years on Earth, and that all that while he ſhould empty himſelf, in Watching, Faſting, Praying, Preaching for my ſake; Oh the depth! Oh the depth! I cannot believe.

Sweet Soul, be not faithleſs, but believing; I know it is an hard and difficult thing; but to help on a trembling Soul, I ſhall firſt direct, and then encourage.

Firſt for Direction, let Souls be acquainted how to act their Faith on Chriſt in reſpect of his Life. The manner of its proceedings I ſuppoſe are thus: --

1. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt. Many poor Souls humbled for Sin, and taken off from their own bottom, they run immediately to the promiſe of Pardon, and cloſe with it, and reſt on it, not ſeeking for, or cloſing with Chriſt in the Promiſe; this is a common error among thouſands; but we ſhould obſerve, that the firſt Promiſe that was given, was not a bare word ſimply promiſing Pardon, Peace, or any other Benefit, which God beſtows; but it was a promiſe of Chriſt's Perſon, as overcoming Satan, and purchaſing thoſe benefits, The Seed of the Woman ſhall bruiſe the Serpents head. Gen.3.15. So when the Promiſe was renewed to Abraham, it was not a bare promiſe of bleſſedneſs and Forgiveneſs, but of that Seed, that is, Chriſt, Gal. 3. 6. in whom that bleſſedneſs was conveyed; In thee ſhall all the Nations of the Earth be bleſſed. Gen. 22. 18. So that Abraham's Faith firſt cloſed with Chriſt in the Promiſe, and therefore he is ſaid to ſee Chriſt's day and rejoyce in embracing him. Chriſt in the firſt place, and more immediately, is every where made the thing which Faith embraced to Salvation, and whom it looks unto and reſpects, as it makes us righteous in the ſight of God. God ſo loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whoſoever believeth in him, ſhould not periſh, but have everlaſting Life. Joh. 3.16. —— I am the reſurrection and the Life, he that believeth in me, tho he were dead, yet ſhall he live. John 11. 25. —— And by him all that believe are juſtified from all things, from which ye could not be juſtified by the Law of Moſes. Acts 13. 39. —— And, Believe on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and thou ſhalt be ſaved. Acts 16. 31. —— And, To him give all the Prophets witneſs, that through his name, whoſoever believeth in him, ſhall receive remiſſion of Sins. Acts 10. 43. And hence it is called the Faith of Chriſt, Gal. 2. 16. Phil. 3. 9. Becauſe Chriſt is it whom Faith apprehends immed[illegible] & as for the other Promiſes they depend all on [illegible] Whoſoever believeth on him ſhall receive remiſſion of Si[illegible]eveth on the Son of God ſhall have life everla[illegible]y, verily I ſay unto you, he that believeth on me hath everlaſting Life. Joh. 3.36. Joh. 6.47. O remember this in the firſt place Faith muſt go unto Chriſt; and yet I mean not to Chriſt, as abſtractly and nakedly conſidered; but to Chriſt as compaſs'd with all his Promiſes, Privileges, Benefits.

2. Faith muſt go to Chriſt, as God in the Fleſh. Some make this the difference of Faith's acting betwixt Believers of the New and Old Teſtament: Under the Old Teſtament, when Chriſt was but in the Promiſe, and not as then come in the Fleſh, their Faith had a more uſual recourſe unto God himſelf; as for Chriſt (God man Man-God) they had not ſo diſtinct, but only a confuſed knowledge of him; and therefore we read not ſo frequently and uſually of their recourſe unto him, but only unto God. O our God, wilt thou not judge them? We know not what to do but our eyes are upon thee. 2 Chron. 20. 12,20. ——And, Hear me, O Judah, and ye Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, believe in the Lord your God, ſo ſhall ye be eſtabliſhed. ——And, the Lord heard this, and was wrath——becauſe they believed not in God, and truſted not in his Salvation. Pſal. 78. 21, 22. But now under the new Teſtament, becauſe Chriſt as Mediator, who was promiſed, is come, our Faith more uſually and immediately addreſſeth it ſelf unto Chriſt, as God in the Fleſh, God dwelling in our Nature is made more familiar to our Faith, than the Perſon of the Father, who is meerly God: God in the Fleſh is more diſtinctly ſet forth in the New Teſtament, and ſo he is more diſtinctly to be apprehended by the Faith of all Believers: Ye believe in God, (ſays Chriſt to his Diſciples, whoſe Faith and Opinion of the Meſſiah was till Chriſt's Reſurrection of the ſame Elevation with that of the Old Teſta- Joh. 14.1. ment Believers) Ye believe in God; but he reſts not there, believe alſo in me, make me the Object of your Truſt and Salvation, as well as the Father; believe alſo in me, not only ſo, but believe in the firſt place on me. One ſweetly obſerves, that when Faith and Repentance came more narrowly to be diſtinguiſhed by their more immediate Objects, it is laid down Acts 20. 21. thus, Repentance towards God, and Faith towards our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; not but that God and Chriſt are Objects of both; but that Chriſt is more immediately the Object of Faith, and God is more immediately the Object of Repentance; ſo that we believe in God through believing in Chriſt firſt; and we turn to Chriſt by turning to God firſt. O remember this! Let our Faith in the more direct and immediate exerciſe of it be pitched upon Chriſt as God in the Fleſh.

3. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the Fleſh, made under the Law: and hence it is, that the Apo- Gal. 4. 4. ſtle joyns theſe together, God ſent his Son made of a Woman, made under the Law: If Chriſt had been out of the Compaſs of the Law, his being incarnate, and made of a Woman, had done us no good. Suppoſe one in debt, and danger of the Law, to have a Brother of the ſame Fleſh and Blood, of the ſame Father and Mother; what will this avail, if that ſame Brother will not come under the Law (i. e.) become his Surety, and undertake for him? It is our caſe; we are Debtors to God, and there is an hand- Col. 2. 14. writing againſt us, and contrary to us: Here is a Bond of the Law which we have forfeited; now what will Chriſt avail, if he had not come under the Law, if he had not been our Surety, and undertook for us? Our Faith therefore muſt go to Chriſt as made under the Law, not only taking our Nature upon him, but our Debt alſo; our Nature 2 Cor. 5. 21. as Men, and our Debt as ſinful Men: He hath made himſelf to become ſin for us, who knew no ſin, (i. e.) he made him to be handled as a Sinner for us under the Law, tho he knew no Sin on his part, but continued in all things written in the Book of the Law to do them. If Faith be inquiſitive, when was Chriſt made under the Law? I anſwer, even then when Gal. 5. 3. he was circumciſed: Thus Paul proteſts, I teſtifie to every man that he that is circumciſed, is a debtor to do the whole Law. Chriſt at his Circumciſion entred into Bond with us, and undertook for us; and therefore then, and not till then, he had his Name given him, Jeſus a Saviour: and from that time he was a Debtor Luk. 2.21. to do the whole Law. Not only to ſuffer, but alſo to do; for he both ſatisfied the Curſe, and fulfilled the Commandments. O remember this! as Chriſt, and as Chriſt in the Fleſh, ſo Chriſt in the Fleſh made under the Law, is principally to be in the Eye of our Faith. If we put all together, our firſt View of Faith is to look on Chriſt God in the Fleſh, made under the Law.

4. Faith going to Chriſt as God in the Fleſh, and as made under the Law, it is principally to look to the end and meaning of Chriſt, as being God in the Fleſh, and as fulfilling the Law.

Now if we would know the meaning of Chriſt in all this, the Apoſtle tells us of a remote, and of a more immediate end.

1. Of a remote end: God ſent forth his Son made of Gal. 4. 4, 5. a Woman, made under the Law, to redeem them that were under the Law, that we might receive the adoption of Sons. This was Chriſt's meaning, or the remote end of Chriſt. Alas! we were Strangers from the Adoption, and we lay under the Law as Men whom Sentence had paſſed on: Now from this latter we are redeemed; he was under the Law, that we might be redeemed from under the Law; nor is that all; but as we are redeemed, ſo are we adopted the Children of God: And this end I rather attribute to the Life of Chriſt, that we might receive the Adoption (i. e.) from the eſtate of Priſoners condemned, that we might be tranſlated into the eſtate of Children adopted. O the Mercy of God! who ever heard of a condemned Man to be afterwards adopted? Would not a condemned Priſoner think himſelf happy to eſcape with Life? But the zeal of the Lord of Hoſts hath performed this; we are in Chriſt both pardoned and adopted; and by this means the Joy and Glory of God's heavenly Inheritance is eſtated upon us: O let our Faith look mainly to this deſign and plot of Chriſt! he was made under the Law, yea, and under the directive part of the Law by his Life; he fulfilled every jot and tittle of the Law by his active obedience, that we might be entitled to Glory; that we might be adopted to the Inheritance of the Saints in Glory.

2. For the more immediate end of Chriſt: the Apoſtle tells us Chriſt was made under the Law, or fulfilled all Righteouſneſs, that the Law might be ful- Rom. 8.4. filled in us. In Chriſt's Life were we repreſented, and ſo this fulfilling of all Righteouſneſs is accounted ours; that the Law might be fulfilled in us. O my Soul, look to this! Herein lies the Pith and the Marrow of thy Juſtification: of thy ſelf thou canſt do nothing that good is; but Chriſt fulfilled the Law in thy ſtead; and if now thou wilt but act, and exerciſe thy Faith, thou mayſt thereby find and feel the Virtue and Efficacy of Chriſt's Righteouſneſs and actual Obedience, flowing into thy own Soul. But here is the queſtion, how ſhould I manage my Faith? Or how ſhould I act it to feel Chriſt's Righteouſneſs my Righteouſneſs? I anſwer, 1. Thy way is to diſcover and diſcern this Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, this holy and perfect Life of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt in the whole, and in all the parts of it, as it is laid down in the written Word: Much hath been ſaid of it in thoſe four years of Chriſt's Miniſtry, but eſpecially in the laſt year: I ſhall ſay more anon in our Conformity to Chriſt, whither alſo thou mayſt have recourſe. 2. Thy way is to believe and to receive this diſcovery as ſacred and unqueſtionable in reference to thy own Soul, as intended for thee, for thy uſe and benefit. 3. Thy way is to apprehend, apply, and to improve this diſcovery according to that Judgment and Propoſal, to thoſe uſes, ends and benefits, to which thou believeſt they were deſigned. Yea, but there lies the queſtion, how may that be done? I anſwer,——

1. Setting before thee that diſcovery (that perfect Life of Chriſt in the whole, and all the parts of it) thou muſt firſt endeavour to be deeply humbled for thy great Inconformity thereto in whole, and in part.

1. Still keeping thy Spirit intent on the Pattern, thou muſt quicken, provoke and encreaſe thy ſluggiſh and drowſy Soul with renewed, redoubled Vigilancy and Induſtry, to come up higher towards it, and (if it were poſſible) compleatly to it.

3. Yet having the ſame Diſcovery, Rule and Copy before thee, thou muſt exerciſe Faith thereupon, as that which was performed, and is accepted on thy behalf. And ſo go to God, and there repreſent, offer, and tender Chriſt's holy Life and active Obedience unto him. And that firſt to fill up the defects of thy utmoſt endeavour: Secondly, To put a Righteouſneſs, Price, Value and Worth, upon what thou doſt, and attaineſt to. Thirdly, To make Chriſt's Righteouſneſs thy own, that thou may'ſt ſay with the Pſalmiſt in way of Aſſurance, O God my Righteouſneſs. O my Soul, if thou would'ſt thus live by Faith, or thus act thy Faith on Chriſt's Life, Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, Chriſt's Active Obedience; what a bleſſed Life would'ſt thou live? Then mighteſt thou find and feel Chriſt's Righteouſneſs thy Righteouſneſs; I ſay thy Righteouſneſs in reſpect of its Efficacy, but not in reſpect of its Formality; for ſo Sinners would be their own Mediators. But of ſome of theſe Particulars I ſhall ſpeak more largely in our conformity to Chriſt's holy Life.

2. For encouragements to bring on Souls thus to believe on Chriſt, conſider,——

1. The fulneſs of this Object: Chriſt's Life is full, it is very comprehenſive, it contains Holineſs, and Happineſs, Sanctification, and Juſtification; if Chriſt's Garments were healing, how much more ſo main and eſſential a part of Chriſt, even the half of Chriſt as it were? For ſo is Chriſt's Life. It is vehemently to be ſuſpected, that the true reaſon why ſo much is ſaid of his Death, and ſo little in compariſon of his Life, it is either becauſe we underſtand not the fulneſs of his Life, or becauſe we are carnal and ſelfiſh, affecting freedom from Hell, more than holineſs on Earth; ſome benefit by Chriſt, more than conformity to Chriſt. O come! ſee the fulneſs of Chriſt's Life: in reference to our Sanctification, was it not an exact model of perfection? A moſt curious Exemplification of God's whole Word? An expreſs Idea, Image, Repreſentation of the whole Mind of God? A full preſident for all others to Walk by, to Work by, to Live by? And in reference to Juſtification, is not Chriſt's Life the object of Faith and Juſtifying? Nay, is not Chriſt's Life the object of juſtifying Faith, as well as Chriſt's Death, Reſurrection, Aſcenſion, Seſſion, Interceſſion? The Aſſertors of Chriſt's active and paſſive Obedience for us, can tell us of two things in the Law intended; one principal, viz. Obedience; and another ſecondary, viz. Malediction upon ſuppoſition of Diſobedience; ſo that Sin being once committed, there muſt be a double act to Juſtification, the ſuffering of the Curſe, and the fulfilling of Righteouſneſs anew; the one is Satisfaction for the Injury we have done unto God as our Judge; and the other is a performance of a Service which we owe unto God as our Maker. O then, how large, and full, and comprehenſive is this Life of Chriſt?

2. Conſider the Excellency, the Glory of this Object: Chriſt's Life is glorious, and hence it is that the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt is the moſt glorious Garment that ever the Saints of God did wear. It
Marlorat. is Marlorat's ſaying, That the Church which puts on Chriſt and his Righteouſneſs, is more illuſtrious than the Air is by the Sun. John thus ſets her out in his Viſi-
Rev.12.1. on; And there appeared a great wonder in heaven, a woman cloathed with the Sun, and the Moon under her feet. I take this to be a lofty Poetical Deſcription of Chriſt's imputed Righteouſneſs: imagine a Garment were cut out of the Sun, and put upon us, how glorious ſhould we be? O but the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt is much more glorious: No wonder if the Church cloathed with the Sun, tread the Moon under her feet, (i. e.) if She trample on all ſublunary things, which are uncertain and changeable as the Moon. I
Phil.3.8,9. count all things but dung (ſaith Paul) that I may win Chriſt, and be found in him, not having my own Righteouſneſs which is of the Law, but that which is through the Faith of Chriſt, the righteouſneſs which is of God by Faith. When Paul compares Chriſt's Righteouſneſs with the Glory of the World, then is the World but Dung. O the Glory, O the Excellency of the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt!

3. Conſider the ſuitableneſs of this Object; Chriſt's Life, and the Virtue of it, is moſt ſuitable to our Condition. Thus I might apply Chriſt to every Condition; if thou art Sick, he is a Phyſitian; if thou feareſt Death, he is the Way, the Truth, and the Life; if thou art Hungry, he is the Bread of Life; if thou art Thirſty, he is the Water of Life: But not to inſiſt on theſe Words. It is the daily complaint of the beſt of Saints, O my Sins! I had thought theſe Sins had been wholly ſubdued, but now I feel they return upon me again; now I feel the Springs in the Bottom fill up my Soul again; Oh I am weary of my ſelf, and weary of my Life, Oh, what will become of me? In this caſe now Chriſt's Life is moſt ſuitable, his Righteouſneſs is a continual Righteouſneſs; it is not a Ciſtern, but Fountain open for thee to waſh in; as Sin Zech. 13, 1. abounds, ſo Grace in this Gift of Righteouſneſs abounds much more. Chriſt's Life in this reſpect, is compared to changes of Garments: Thou crieſt, O what ſhall become of me? Oh I feel new Sins, and old Sins committed afreſh; why, but theſe changes of Garments Zech. 3.4. will hide all thy Sins; if thou art but cloathed with the Robes of Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, there ſhall never enter into the Lords heart one hard thought towards thee of caſting thee off, or taking of Revenge upon any new occaſion or fall into Sin. Why here is the bleſſedneſs of all thoſe that believe. Oh then believe! Say not, Would Chriſt be incarnate for me? Would he lead ſuch a Life on Earth for my Soul? Why yes, for thy Soul; never ſpeak of thy Sins, as if they ſhould be any hindrance of thy Faith. If the wicked that apply this Righteouſneſs preſumptuouſly can ſay, Let us Sin that Grace may abound, and ſo they make no other uſe of Grace, but to run in debt, and to Sin with a Licenſe; how much rather mayeſt thou ſay on good ground, Oh let me believe! Oh let me own my Portion in this Righteouſneſs of Chriſt! that as my Sins have abounded, ſo my Love may abound; that as my Sins have been exceeding great, ſo the Lord may be exceeding ſweet; that as my Sins continue and encreaſe, ſo my thankfulneſs to Chriſt, and Glory in God, and triumph over Sin, Death, and the Grave, may alſo encreaſe. Why thus be encouraged to believe thy part in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Sect. 6. Of Loving Jeſus in that Reſpect.

6. LET us love Jeſus, as carrying on the great Work of our Salvation for us during his Life. Now what is Love, but a Motion of the Appetite, by which the Soul unites it ſelf to what ſeems fair unto it? And if ſo, O what a lovely Object is the Life of Chriſt? Who can read over his Life, who can think over his Worthineſs, both in his Perſon, Relations, Actions, and ſeveral Adminiſtrations, and not love him with a ſingular Love? That which ſet the Daughters of Jeruſalem in a poſture of ſeeking after Chriſt, was that Deſcription of Chriſt, which the Spouſe made of him; My beloved is white and Cant.5.
ruddy, the chiefeſt of ten thouſands, his head is as the moſt 10,11,12 fine Gold, his Locks are buſhy, and black as a Raven; his 13,14,15 eyes are as the eyes of Doves, by the Rivers of water, waſhed with milk, and finely ſet; his cheeks are as a bed of ſpices and ſweet ſhowers; his lips like Lillies dropping ſweet ſmelling myrrh, &c. By theſe are intimated unto us the government of Chriſt, the unſearchable counſels of Chriſt, the pure Nature of Chriſt, without any impurity or uncleanneſs; the gracious Promiſes of Chriſt, the Soul-ſaving inſtructions of Chriſt, the holy Actions and juſt Adminiſtrations of Chriſt, the tender Affections, and amible Smilings of Chriſt, the gracious, inward and wonderful Workings of Chriſt; ſo that he is altogether lovely, or he is compoſed of Loves; from top to toe there is nothing in Chriſt, but it is moſt fair and beautiful, lovely and deſirable.——Now as this Deſcription enflamed the Daughters of Jeruſalem; ſo to act our Loves toward the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, take we a Copy of the Record of the Spirit in Scriptures: ſee what they ſay of Chriſt; this was his own advice, John 5.39. Search the Scriptures, for ——— they are they which teſtifie of me.

O my Soul, much hath been ſaid to perſwade thee to Faith; and if now thou believeſt thy part in thoſe ſeveral actings of Chriſt, why let thy Faith take thee by the hand, and lead thee from one Step to another; from his Baptiſm to his Temptations; from his Temptations to his Manifeſtations; and ſo on; Is not here fewel enough for Love to feed upon? Canſt thou read the Hiſtory of Love (for ſuch is the Hiſtory of Chriſt's Life) and not be all on a Flame? Come, read again! there is nothing in Chriſt but 'tis lovely, winning and drawing; as —

1. When he ſaw thee full of Filth, he goes down into the Waters of Baptiſm, that he might prepare a way for the cleanſing of thy defiled and polluted Soul.

2. When he ſaw the Devil ready to ſwallow thee up, or by his baits to draw and drag thy Soul down to Hell, he himſelf enters into the Liſt with the Devil, and he overcomes him, that thou mighteſt overcome, and triumph with Chriſt in his Glory.

3. When he ſaw thee in danger of Death through thy own unbelief, for (except thou ſaweſt in his hands the print of the Nails, and put thy Finger into the print of the Nails; except thou hadſt clear Manifeſtations of Chriſt even to thine own Senſe, thou wouldeſt not believe) he condeſcends ſo far to ſuccour thy weakneſs, as to manifeſt himſelf by ſeveral Witneſſes? three in Heaven, and three on Earth; yea, he multiplies his three on Earth to thouſands of thouſands; ſo many were the ſigns witneſſing Chriſt, that the Diſciple which teſtified of them, could ſay, John 21. 25. If they ſhould be written every one, the world could not contain the Books that ſhould be written.

4. When he ſaw the buying and ſelling in the Temple, yea, making Merchandize of the Temple it ſelf, I mean of thy Soul, which is the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt? he ſteps in to whip out thoſe Buyers and Sellers, thoſe Luſts and Corruptions: (O cries he) will you ſell away your Souls for Traſh? O what is a Man profited though he gain the whole World, and loſe his own Soul!

5. When he ſaw thee like the Horſe and Mule, Prov. 30. 2, 3. more brutiſh than any Man, not having the underſtanding of a Man; thou neither learnedſt wiſdom, nor hadſt the knowledge of the moſt holy; he came with his Inſtructions, adding Line unto Line, and Precept on Precept, teaching and preaching the Goſpel of the Kingdom; and ſealing his Truths with many Miracles, that thou may'ſt Mat.4.23. believe, and in believing thou mighteſt have Life through his Name: And oh! what is this, but to make thee wiſe unto Salvation?

6. When he ſaw thee a ſinner of the Gentiles, a ſtranger from the Common-wealth of Iſrael, and without God in the World, he ſent his Apoſtles and Meſſengers abroad, and bad them Preach the Goſpel to thee; q. d. Go to ſuch a one in the dark corner of the World, an Iſle at ſuch a diſtance from the Nation of the Jews, and ſet up my Throne amongſt that People, open the moſt precious Cabinet of my Love there; and amongſt that People, tell ſuch a Soul, that Jeſus Chriſt came into the World to ſave ſinners, of whom he is one. O Admirable Love!

7. When he ſaw thee caſt down in thy ſelf, and refuſing thy own Mercy, crying and ſaying, What! is it poſſible that Jeſus Chriſt ſhould ſend a Meſſage to Mat.10.5, 6. ſuch a dead Dog as I am? why the Apoſtles Commiſſion ſeems otherwiſe: Go not into the way of the Gentiles, or into any City of the Samaritans enter ye not; but go rather to the loſt ſheep, of the Houſe of Iſrael, O I am a loſt ſheep, but not being of the Houſe of Iſrael, what hope is there that ever I ſhould be found? He then appeared, and even then he ſpread his Arms wide to receive thy Soul; he ſatisfied thee then of another Commiſſion given to his Apoſtles; Go teach all Nations: And he Mat. 28. 19. cried even then, Come unto me, thou that art weary and heavy laden with Sin, and I will receive thee into my boſom, and give thee reſt there.

8. When he ſaw thee in ſuſpence, and heard thy complaint, But if I come, ſhall I find ſweet welcome? I have heard that his ways are narrow and ſtraight; Oh it is an hard paſſage, and an high aſcent up to Heaven! Many ſeek to enter in, but ſhall not be able: Oh! what Luk.13. 24. ſhall become of my poor Soul? Why then he told thee otherwiſe; that all his ways were ways of pleaſantneſs, Prov. 3.17 and all his paths peace; he would give thee his Spirit that ſhould bear the weight, and make all light; he would ſweeten the ways of Chriſtianity to thee, that thou ſhouldeſt find by experience, that his Yoke Mat. 11. 29. was eaſie, and his burden was light.

9. When he ſaw the wretchedneſs of thy Nature, and original pollution, he took upon him thy Nature, and by this means took away thy original ſin. O here is the lovely object! What is it but the abſolute holineſs and perfect purity of the Nature of Chriſt? This is the faireſt Beauty that ever eye beheld; this is that compendium of all Glories: now if Love be a motion and union of the Appetite to what is lovely, how ſhouldſt thou flame forth in loves upon the Lord Jeſus Chriſt? this is rendered as the reaſon of thoſe ſparklings, Thou art fairer then the Pſal. 45.2. Children of Men.

10. When he ſaw thee actually unclean, a tranſgreſſor of the Law in thought, word, and deed; then he ſaid, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God; and Heb.10.9. wherefore would he do God's Will, but meerly on thy behalf?

O my Soul, canſt thou read over all theſe paſſages of Love, and doſt thou not yet cry out, O ſtay me, comfort me; for I am ſick of Love? Can a man ſtand by an hot and fiery furnace, and never be warmed? Oh for an heart in ſome meaſure anſwerable to theſe Loves! Surely even good natures hate to be in debt for Love; and is there in thee (O my Soul) neither grace nor yet good nature? O, God forbid! awake! awake thy ardent love towards the Lord Jeſus Chriſt! why thou art rock, and not fleſh, if thou beeſt not wounded with theſe heavenly darts; Chriſt loves thee, is not that enough? fervent affection is apt to draw love, where is little or no beauty; and excellent beauty is apt to draw the heart where there is no anſwer of affection at all; but when theſe two meet together, what breaſt can hold againſt them? See, O my Soul, here is the ſum of all the particulars thou haſt heard, Chriſt loves thee, and Chriſt is lovely; his heart is ſet upon thee, who is a thouſand times fairer than all the Children of men; doth not this double conſideration, like a mighty loadſtone, ſnatch thy heart unto it, and almoſt draw it forth of thy very breaſt? O ſweet Saviour, thou couldſt ſay, even of thy poor Church (though labouring under many imperfections) Thou haſt ra- Cant. 4.9, 10. viſhed my Heart, my Siſter, my Spouſe, thou haſt raviſhed mine heart with one of thine eyes, with one chain of thy neck; how fair is thy love, my Siſter, my Spouſe? how much better is thy love than wine and the ſmell of thy oyntments than all Spices? Couldſt thou, O bleſſed Saviour, be ſo taken with the incurious and homely features of the Church, and ſhall not I much more be enamoured with thy abſolute and Divine Beauty? It pleaſed thee, my Lord, out of thy ſweet raviſhments of thy heavenly love, to ſay to thy poor Church, Turn away thine eyes from me, for they have overcome

Cant. 6.5. overcome me, but On let me ſay to thee, Turn thine eyes to me, that they may overcome me; my Lord, I would be thus raviſhed, I would be overcome; I would be thus out of my ſelf, that I might be all in thee.

Thus is the Language of true love to Chriſt; but alas, how dully and flatly do I ſpeak it; O my Soul, how art thou out of frame? in creature-communion I uſually feel the warm, and vigorous active, and very ſtrong; but now thy heart is inditing of a good matterr, thou art ſpeaking of the things which thou haſt made concerning the King, thy words do almoſt freeze between thy lips; How chill and cold art thou in thy converſes with Jeſus Chriſt? Oh this puts me in mind of my deſerts; ſurely had Chriſt's love been but like this faint and feeble love of mine, I had been a damned wretch without all hope: O Chriſt, I am aſhamed, that I love thee ſo little; I perceive thy loves are great by all thoſe actings in thy life; come blow upon my Garden, perſwade me by the Spirit that I may love thee much; many ſins are forgiven me, O that I may love thee much!

Sect 7. Of Joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

7. Let us Joy in Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our Salvation for us, during his Life. But what is there in Chriſt's life, or in all the Paſſages of his life, to ſtir up Joy? I anſwer, all his life, and all the paſſages of his life; if rightly appylied, are excellent matter for the ſtirring up of this Affection: indeed the main of the work is in the appllicetion of Chriſt's life; if ever we rejoice ſpiritual in Chriſt, we muſt bring together the object and the faculty: and this union of the object and the faculty is uſually wrought bycontemplation, or by confidence, or by fruition I? ſhall but a while inſiſt on theſe, that we may comeup at laſt to rejoice in Chriſt, yea, if it were poſſibleto rejoyce, and again rejoyce.

1. Let us contemplate on this life of Chriſt, let us think of it in our minds; there is a kind of delight in knowing ſome things ſpeculatively, which we would abhor to know experimentally; and therefore the Devil's firſt temptation was drawn from the knowledg of evil, as well as good; he knew that the mind of Man would receive content in the underſtanding of that, which in it's own nature had no perfection at all; now if there be a delight in the contemplation of evil how much more in the contemplation of that which is good? And is not the life of Chriſt, the Graces, the Virtues, the holy Actions, the dear Affections of Jeſus Chriſt to usward, good, and very good? Come then, ſtir up our memories, let us be ſetled men; let us ſpend our frequent thoughts upon this bleſſed Object; the reaſon we miſs of our joys, is, becauſe we are ſo little in contemplations of our Chriſt. It is ſaid that he pities us in our ſorrows; but he delights in us, when we delight in him. Certainly he would have us to delight in him, and to that purpoſe he way-lays our thoughts, that whereſoever we look, we ſhall ſtill, think on him: O my Soul, caſt thine eyes which way thou wilt, and thou ſhalt hardly look on any thing, but Chriſt Jeſus hath taken the name of that very thing upon himſelf. What, is it day? Mal. 4. 2. and doſt thou behold the Sun? He is called the Sun of righteouſneſs: Or, is it night? and doſt thou behold the Stars? He is called a Star: There ſhall come Num. 24. 17, 19. a Star out of Jacob——————out of Jacob ſhall he come that ſhall have dominion. Or, is it Morning? and and doſt thou behold the Morning-ſtar? He is called the bright morning-ſtar Rev. 22. 16. Or, is it Noon? and doſt thou behold clear light all the world over John 1.7, 8, 9. in thy Hemiſphere? He is called the light, and that light, that lighteth every man that cometh into the World. Or, to come a little nearer; if thou lookeſt on the earth, and takeſt a view of theCeartures about thee, ſeeſt thou the ſilly ſheep; He is called a ſheep as a ſheep before her ſhearer is dumb, ſo he openeth not his mouth; Iſa. 53. 7. Or ſeeſt thou a Lamb bleating after the harmleſs Sheep? He is called a Lamb; Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the ſins of the world: Joh 1. 29. Seeſt thou a Shepherd watching over his flock, by day or night? He is called a Shepherd; I am the good Shepherd, and know my ſheep, and am known of mine: Joh. 10. 14. Or ſeeſt thou a Fountain, Rivers, Waters? He is called a Fountain: In that day there ſhall be a Fountain opened to the Houſe of David, and to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, for ſin and for uncleanneſs: Zech. 13. 1. Or ſeeſt thou a Tree good for Food, or pleaſant to the eye? He is called the Tree of Life: Prov. 3. 18. and, as the Apple-tree among the Trees of the Wood, ſo is my Beloved among the Sons. Cant. 2. 3. Seeſt thou a Roſe, a Lilly, any fair Flower in a Garden? He is called a Roſe, a Lilly; I am the Roſe of Sharon, and the Lilly of the Valleys: Cant. 2. 1. Or to come a little nearer yet; Art thou within doors? I am the door, by me if any man enter in, he ſhall be ſaved, and ſhall go in and out, and ſhall find paſture. Joh. 10. 9. Art thou adorning thy ſelf, and takeſt a view of thy Garments; He is called a Garment: Put ye on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Rom 13. 14. Art thou eating meat, and takeſt a view of what is on thy Table; He is called Bread: The bread of God, true bread from Heaven, the bread of life, the living bread which came down from Heaven. John 6. 32, 35, 51. Why thus Chriſt way-lays our thoughts, that whereſoever we look, we ſhould ever think of Chriſt.—Now theſe thoughts or contemplations of Chriſt, are they that bring together the object and the faculty of joy: I cannot think of Chriſt, or the life of Chriſt, of Chriſt preaching, or of Chriſt preached, but I muſt rejoyce in Chriſt; as ſometimes the Apoſtle ſaid, Chriſt is preached, whether in pretence or truth, I matter not; but that he is preached, I therein do rejoyce, yea and will rejoyce. Phil. 1. 18.

2. Let us conſider in Chriſt, let us upon good grounds hope our ſhare and intereſt in the Life of Chriſt: O this would ſtrengthen our joy, yea fill us with joy unſpeakable and glorious; where true joy is, there is firſt a thinking of the good in our mind; and ſecondly, an expecting of it in our heart; hence it is, that whatſoever doth encourage our hope, the ſame doth enlarge our delight; the Apoſtle joyns both theſe together: Rejoyoe in hope: Rom. 12. 12. Hope and Joy go both together; if I have but aſſured hope that Chriſt's life is mine, I cannot but rejoyce therein: on the contrary, if my hope fluctuate, if I am but uncertain, if I look on the influence and benefits of Chriſt's life as only poſſibly mine, and no further; then is my comfort but unſtable and weak. Sometimes we find Chriſt compared to a rich Store-houſe: In him (ſaith the Apoſtle) are hid all the treaſures of wiſdom and knowledg; Col. 2. 3. But alas, what am I richer for all his treaſures, if I have no claim thereto, or intereſt therein? Or what can I joy in another's riches, when I my ſelf am wretched, and miſerable, and poor, and blind, and naked? Look to this, O my ſoul; peruſe again and again thy grounds of hope as afore laid down; do not ſlightly run them over; thou canſt not be too ſure of Chriſt: Thou readeſt in the Goſpel this and that paſſage of thy Jeſus, Canſt thou lay thine hand on every Line, and ſay this paſſage is mine? this Sermon was preached, and this miracle was wrought for me, that I might believe, and that in believing I might have life through his Name; O then how ſhouldſt thou but rejoyce? When Zacheus in the Sycamore Tree heard but Chriſt's voice, Zacheus make haſt and come down; for to day I Luke 19. 5, 6. muſt abide in thy houſe. O what haſt made Zacheus to receive Chriſt! he came down haſtily, and received him Joyfully. This offer of Chriſt to Zacheus is thine as well as his, if thy hope be right; Come down poor Soul (ſaith Chriſt) this day muſt I abide in thy houſe

O

O then what joy ſhould there be in thy heart when Chriſt comes in, or when thou feeleſt Chriſt come in! The friend of the Bridegroom rejoyceth greatly becauſe John 3.29 of the Bridegroom's voice? How much more may the Bride her ſelf rejoyce.

3. Let us come up to more, and more, and more fruition of Chriſt; all other things work our delight but as they look towards this; now in this fruition of Chriſt are contained theſe things: Firſt a propriety unto Chriſt; for as a ſick man doth not feel the joy of a ſound man's health, ſo neither doth a ſtranger to Chriſt feel the joy of a believer in Chriſt: How ſhould he joy in Chriſt that can make no claim to him in the leaſt degree? But to that we have ſpoken. Secondly, a poſſeſſion of Chriſt; this exceedingly enlargeth our joy. O how ſweet was Chriſt to the Spouſe, when ſhe could ſay, I am my Beloved's and my Beloved is mine; he feedeth among the Lillies, q. d. Cant. 6. 3. we have took poſſeſſion of each other; he is mine through faith, and I am his through love; we are both ſo knit by an inſeparable union, that nothing ſhall be able to ſeparate us two; he feedeth among the Lillies; he refreſheth himſelf and his Saints, by his union and communion with them; many are taken up with the joy and comfort of outward poſſeſſions, but Chriſt is better than all; in one Chriſt is comprized every ſcattered comfort here below: Chriſt mine (ſaith the ſoul) and all mine. 3. An accommodation of Chriſt to the ſoul; and this it is that compleats our joy: It is not bear poſſeſſion of Chriſt which bringeth real delight; but an applying of Chriſt unto that end and purpoſe for which he was appointed: It is not the having of Chriſt, but the uſing of Chriſt, which makes him beneficial. O the uſefulneſs of Chriſt to all believing Souls! The Scriptures are full of this; as appears by all his Titles in Scripture: He is our life, our light, our bread, our water, our milk, our wine; his fleſh is meat indeed, and his blood is drink indeed: he is our father, our brother, our friend, our husband, our King, our Prieſt, our Prophet: he is our juſtification, our ſanctification, our wiſdom our redemption: he is our peace, our mediation, our atonement, our reconciliation, our all in all. Alas! I look on my ſelf, and I ſee I am nothing, I have nothing without Jeſus Chriſt; here's a temptation, I cannot reſiſt it, here's a corruption, I cannot overcome; here's a perſecution, I cannot down with it: well, but Chriſt is mine, I have intereſt in Chriſt, and I have poſſeſſion of Chriſt, and I find enough in Chriſt to ſupply all my wants; he was ſet up on purpoſe to give me grace, and to renew my ſtrength, ſo that if I make my application to Chriſt, I can do all things, Phil. 4. 13. I can ſuffer the loſs of all things, Phil. 3. 8. I can conquer all things, Nay, in all things be more than a conquerour through him that loves me, Rom. 8. 37. Oh the joy now that this accommodation brings to my ſoul! I ſee it is nothing but Chriſt, and therefore I cannot but rejoyce in this Chriſt, or I muſt rejoyce in nothing at all: Surely we are the Phil. 3. 3. Circumciſion which rejoyce in Chriſt Jeſus, and have no confidence in the fleſh.

O my ſoul! where is thy faculty of joy? come bring it to this bleſſed Object, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt: If thou knoweſt not how, firſt contemplate on Chriſt; think on thoſe ſeveral paſſages in his life; thoſe that lived with him, and ſtood by to ſee them, it is ſaid Luke 13. 17. of them, that they all rejoyced for the glorious things that were done by him. Or if thy heart be ſo dull and heavy, that this will not raiſe it up, then look to thy grounds of hope and confidence in Chriſt: ſo long as thou doubteſt of him, or of thy intereſt in him, how ſhouldſt thou rejoyce or be cheerful in thy ſpirit? The poor man could not ſpeak it without tears, Lord, I Mar. 9. 24. believe, help thou my unbelief; a believing unbelief, a wavering, ſtaggering, trembling faith, cannot be without ſome wounds in ſpirit: O be confident, and this will make thee cheerful; or if yet thou feeleſt not this affection to ſtir, aſpire to fruition, yea to more and more fruition of Chriſt, and union with Chriſt; and to that purpoſe conſider thy propriety to Chriſt, thy poſſeſſion of Chriſt, and the accommodation or uſefulneſs of Chriſt to thy condition, whatſoever it is. What? will not theſe things move thy ſpiritual delight? Canſt thou not hear Chriſt ſay; All I am is thine, and all I have done is thine, for thy uſe, and for thy benefit. And doth not thy heart leap within thee at each word? O my Soul, I cannot but check thee for thy deadneſs: it is ſaid, that when Chriſt was at the deſcent of the Mount of Olives, Luke 19. 37. that the whole multitude of the Diſciples began to rejoyce, and praiſe God with a loud voice, for all the mighty works that they had ſeen. What? a multitude of Diſciples rejoycing in Chriſt's Acts? And art not thou one amongſt the Multitude? If thou art a Diſciple, rejoyce thou: ſurely it concerns thee as much as them; and therefore rejoyce, lift up thy voice in Harmony with the reſt, rejoyce, and again rejoyce.

Sect. 8. Of calling on Jeſus in that reſpect.

8. LET us call on Jeſus, or on God the Father in and through Jeſus. Thus we read, that looking up to Jeſus, or lifting up the eyes to Jeſus, goes alſo for Prayer in Gods Book: My prayer will I direct to thee (ſaith David) and will look up, and mine eyes fail with looking upwards. Pſal. 5. 3. Pſal. 69. 3. Faith in prayer will often come out at the eye in lieu of another door; our affections will often break out at the window, when the door is cloſed. Thus Stephen look'd up to Heaven; he ſent a Poſt, a greedy, pitiful and hungry look up to Jeſus Chriſt out at the window, at the neareſt paſſage, to tell him that a poor friend was coming to him: why thus let us look up to Jeſus by Acts 7. 55. calling on him: Now this calling on him contains Prayer and Praiſe.

1. We muſt pray that all theſe tranſactions of Jeſus during his Life, or during his Miniſtry upon earth, may be ours: we hope it is ſo, and we believe it to be ſo: but for all that, we muſt pray that it may be ſo. There is no contradiction betwixt Hope, and Faith, and Prayer, but rather a concatenation: Lord, I believe, yet help my unbelief; Mark. 9. 24. or, be it to me according to my Faith, how weak ſoever: it will bear that ſenſe.

2. We muſt praiſe God for all thoſe paſſages in Chriſt's life. Thus did the multitude; they praiſed God with a loud voice, for all the mighty works that they had ſeen; ſaying, bleſſed be the King that comes in the name of the Lord, peace in heaven, and glory in the higheſt! Luke 19. 37, 38. What (my Soul) hath Chriſt done all this for thee? was he made under the Law, to redeem thy ſoul, and adopt thee for his Son, to the inheritance of Heaven? Came he down from Heaven, and travelled he ſo many miles on earth to woo and win thy heart? Spent he ſo many Sermons, and ſo many Miracles to work thee into Faith? O how ſhouldſt thou bleſs, and prize, and magnifie his Name? how ſhouldſt thou break out into that bleſſed Hymn, To him that loved us, and hath made us Kings and Prieſts unto God, and his Father, to him be Rev. 1. 5, 6 Glory and Dominion for ever, and ever Amen.

Sect. 9. Of conforming to Jeſus in that reſpect.

9. LET us conform to Jeſus, as he acted for us in his Life. Looking to Jeſus intends this eſpecially: we muſt look as one looks to his pattern; as Mariners at Sea, that they may run a right courſe, keep an eye on that Ship that bears the Light: ſo in the Race that is ſet before us, we muſt have our eye on Jeſus, our bleſſed Pattern. This muſt be our conſtant Query, Is this the courſe that Jeſus ſteered? Or that I may enlarge,———

In this Particular I ſhall examine theſe three Queries: 1. Wherein we muſt conform? 2. Why we muſt conform? 3. How we muſt conform to this Life of Jeſus?

For the firſt, wherein we muſt conform? I anſwer;

1. Negatively: we muſt not, cannot conform to Chriſt in thoſe works proper to his God-head; as in working Miracles. I deny not but that the works of Miracles were by way of priviledge, and temporary diſpenſation granted to the Apoſtles, and ſome others; but this was but for Miniſtry and Service, not for their Sanctity or Salvation: nor muſt we conform to Chriſt in thoſe works of mediation, as in redeeming ſouls, in ſatisfying Divine Juſtice for our ſin: No man can redeem his Brother, Pſal. 49.7. nor give to God a ranſom for him. There is but one Mediator between God and man, the man Chriſt Jeſus: Nor muſt we conform to Chriſt in thoſe works of his Government, and influence into his Church; as in diſpenſing of his Spirit, in quickning of his Word, in ſubduing of his Enemies, in collecting of his Members; all theſe are perſonal Honours, which belong unto Chriſt, as he is Head of the Church; and to theſe works, if we ſhould endeavour to conform, we ſhould crack our Sinews, diſſolve our ſilver Cords, and never the nearer,——Nor need we to conform to Chriſt in ſome other Particulars? in his voluntary Poverty; he became poor for our ſakes, 2 Cor. 8. 9. In his Ceremonial performances, as in going up to Jeruſalem at the Feaſts; in his perpetual grave Deportment; we never read that Jeſus laughed; and but once or twice that he rejoyced in Spirit. Alas! the Declenſions of our Natures cannot come up to this Pattern; nor do I look at theſe paſſages as any acts of moral Obedience at all.

2. Affirmatively, or Poſitively; we muſt conform to Chriſt's Life.

1. In reſpect of his Judgment, Will, Affections, Compaſſions. Look we at his Spirit, obſerve what mind was in Jeſus Chriſt, and therein do we endeavour to conform: Let the ſame mind be in you (ſaith the Apoſtle) which was in Chriſt, Phil, 2. 5. And Phil. 2. 5. 1 Cor. 2. 16. we have the mind of Chriſt (ſaith the Apoſtle) 1. Cor. 2. 16,

2. In reſpect of his Virtues, Graces, habitual Matth. 11 29. Holineſs. Learn of me (ſaith Chriſt) for I am meek and lowly in heart: Chriſt was of a meek and gentle 2 Cor. 10. 2. Spirit, I beſeech you, by the meekneſs and gentleneſs of Chriſt, ſaith Paul. And Chriſt was of an humble Phil. 2. 6, 7 and lowly Spirit. Being in the form of God, he thought it no robbery to be equal with God; yet he made himſelf of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a Servant. I might inſtance in all other Graces; for he had them all in fulneſs: And of his fulneſs have all we received, Joh. 1. 16. Grace for Grace.

3. In reſpect of his Words, Talk, ſpiritual and heavenly Language. The very Officers of the Joh 7. 45. Prieſts could ſay of Chriſt, Never man ſpake like this man; and ſometimes they all wondered at the gracious Luk. 4. 22. words which proceeded out of his mouth: He never ſinned in Words; neither was guile found in his mouth; 1 Pet. 2. 22, 23. who, when he was reviled, reviled not again: The Apoſtle ſpeaking thus of Chriſt, he tells us, that Ver. 21. herein Chriſt left us an example, that we ſhould follow his ſteps.

4. In reſpect of his Carriage, Converſation, Cloſe-walking with God. The Apoſtle ſets forth Heb. 7. 26. Chriſt as an high Prieſt, who was holy, harmleſs, undefiled, and ſeparate from ſinners: and in like manner, ſaith Peter, Ye are a choſen generation, a royal Prieſt- 1 Pet. 2. 9 hood, an holy nation, a peculiar people, that ye ſhould ſhew forth the virtues of him, who hath called you out of darkneſs into his marvellous light: that he ſhould ſhew forth the Virtue [(i. e.) that in your Lives and Converſations you ſhould expreſs thoſe Graces and Virtues which were ſo eminent and exemplary in Jeſus Chriſt; that you ſhould not only have them, but that you ſhould hold them forth? ἐξαγγελων, the word ſignifies properly to Preach; ſo clearly ſhould we expreſs the Virtues of Chriſt, as if our lives were ſo many Sermons of the Life of Chriſt.

In reſpect of all his Acts, Practices, Duties of moral Obedience; we find in the Life of Chriſt many particular Carriages, and Acts of Obedience to his heavenly Father; whereof ſome were moral, and ſome ceremonial: now all theſe are not for our Imitation, but only ſuch moral Acts, as concerning which, we have both his Pattern and Precept. Come, let us mark this one Rule, and we need no more; Whatſoever he commanded, and whatſoever he did, of preciſe Morality, we are therein bound to follow his ſteps. I joyn together his Commands and Deeds, becauſe in thoſe things which he did, but commands not, we need not to conform; but in thoſe things which he both did and commanded, we are bound to follow him; in ſuch a caſe his Laws and Practice differ, but as a Map and Guide, a Law, a Judge, a Rule, and Precedent.

In reſpect of all theſe particulars, and eſpecially in reſpect of Chriſt's moral Obedience, the whole Life of Chriſt was a Diſcipline, a living, ſhining, and exemplary precept unto men; and hence it is that we find ſuch names given to him in Scripture, as ſignifies not only Preheminence, but exemplarineſs; thus he was called a Prince, Dan. 9. 25. a Leader, Iſa. 55. 4. a Governour, Matth. 2. 6. a Captain, 2. 10. a chief Shepherd, 1 Pet. 5. 4 a forerunner or conduct into Glory. Heb. 2. 20. a light to the Jews, Exod. 13. 21. a light to the Gentiles, Luke 2. 3. a light to every man that entreth into the World, Iohn 1. 9. All which Titles, as they declared his Dignity, ſo his Examplarineſs, that he was the Author and Pattern of Holineſs to his People. And as for all other Saints, tho they are imitable, yet with Limitation unto him, only ſo far as they expreſs his Life in their Converſation: Be ye followers 1 Cor. 11. 1. of me, even as I am of Chriſt.

For the ſecond; why we muſt conform? Upon what Motives? I anſwer, 1. Becauſe Chriſt hath done and and ſuffered very much to that end and purpoſe? Sometimes I have wondered why Chriſt would do ſo much, and ſuffer ſo much as the Evangeliſts in their Hiſtories relate. This I believe, that Jeſus was perfect God, and perfect Man; and that every Action of his Life, and but one hour of his Paſſion and Death, might have been ſatisfactory, and enough for the Expiation and Reconcilement of ten thouſand Worlds; but now I am anſwered, that all thoſe inſtances of Holineſs, and all thoſe kinds of Virtues, and all thoſe degrees of Paſſion, and all that effuſion of his Blood, was partly on this account, that he might become an example to us, that he might ſhine to all the Ages and Generations, of the World, and to be a Guiding Star, and a Pillar of Fire to them in their Journey towards Heaven: O my Soul, how doth this call on thee to conform to Chriſt? What? That a ſmaller expence ſhould be enough to thy Juſtification, and yet that the whole Magazine ſhould not procure thy Sanctification? That at the leſſer ſum of Obedience God might have pardoned thy Sin, and yet at a greater ſum thou wilt not ſo much as imitate his Holineſs? In a dark Night, if an Ignis Fatuus go before thee, thou are ſo amuzed with that little Flame, that thou art apt to follow it, and loſe thy ſelf; and wilt thou not follow the Glories of the Sun of Righteouſneſs, who by ſo many inſtances calls upon thee, and who will guide thee into ſafety, and ſecure thee againſt all imaginable dangers? God forbid! If it had not been for thy imitation, I cannot think that Chriſt would have lived on earth ſo many years, to have done ſo many gracious and meritorious works. O think of this!

2. Becauſe Chriſt is the beſt and higheſt Exemplar of holineſs that ever the world ever had: hence we muſt needs conſorm to Chriſt (as the Apoſtle Rom.8.29 argues) becauſe he is the firſt born among many Brethren; the firſt in every kind is propounded as a pattern to the reſt; now Chriſt is the firſt born. Chriſt is the head of all the predeſtinate, as the firſt-born was wont to be the head in all Families. The old ſaying is, Regis ad examplar, &c. A very deformity was ſometimes counted an honour, if it were in imitation of the Prince. It is ſtoried of Nero, that having a wry neck, there was ſuch an ambition in men to follow the Court, that it became the faſhion and gallantry of thoſe times, to hold their Necks awry; And ſhall not Chriſt, the King of Saints, be much more imitated by his Saints? Chriſt is the head of the Col. 1.18. body, the beginning, the firſt born from the dead. in all things he hath the preheminence; and the rule is general, that, that which is firſt and beſt in any kind, is the rule and meaſure of all the reſt. Why ſuch is Chriſt; O then let him be the guide of our life, and of our manners.

3. Becauſe Chriſt doth not only give us an example, but he doth cheriſh, ſuccour, and aſſiſt us by its eaſineſs, complacency and proportion to us. Some ſweetly obſerve, that Chriſt's piety (which we muſt imitate) was even, conſtant, unblameable, complying with civil ſociety, without any affrightment of precedent, or without any prodigious inſtances of actions, greater than the imitation of men. We are not commanded to imitate a life, whoſe ſtory tells us of extaſies in prayer, of abſtractions of ſenſes, of extraordinary faſtings to the weakning of our ſpirits; and diſabling of all animal operations; no, no; but a life of juſtice, and temperance, and charity, and Piety, and Juſtice, and devotion; ſuch a life as without which humane ſociety cannot be conſerved; -And it is very remarkable, that beſides the eaſineſs of this imitation, there is a virtue and efficacy in the life of Chriſt; a merit, and impetration in the ſeveral paſſages of Chriſt's life, to work out our imitation of him. In the Bohemian Hiſtory it is reported that Winceſlaus their King, one Winter's night going to his devotion in a remote Church, his ſervant Podavivus, who waited on his Maſter, and endeavoured to imitate his Maſter's piety, he began to faint through the violence of the ſnow and cold; at laſt the King commanded him, to follow him, and to ſet his feet into the ſame footſteps which his feet ſhould mark, and ſet down for him; the ſervant did ſo, and preſently he fancied a cure: Thus Chriſt deals with us; it may be we think our way to Heaven is troubleſome, obſcure, and full of objection; well, ſaith Chriſt, But mark my footſteps; come on, and tread where I have ſtood, and you ſhall find the virtue of my example will make all ſmooth and eaſie; you ſhall find the comforts of my company, you ſhall feel the virtue and influence of a perpetual guide.

4. Becauſe Chriſt in his word hath commanded Matt. 11. 19. us to follow his ſteps; Learn of me, for I am meek and and lowly in heart; and ye call me Maſter, and Lord, John 13. 13,14,15. and ye ſay well, for ſo I am; if I then your Lord and Maſter have waſhed your feet, ye alſo ought to waſh one another's feet, for I have given you an example, that ye Col.3. 12, 13. ſhould do as I have done to you. ——— Put on therefore bowels of mercies, kindneſs, humbleneſs of mind, meekneſs, long-ſuffering, forbearing one another, and forgiveing one another; if any man have a quarrel againſt any, even as Chriſt forgave you, ſo alſo do ye. ——— And 1 Pet. 15, 16, as he which hath called you is holy, ſo be ye holy in all manner of converſation; becauſe it is written, Be ye holy, for I am holy. ——— Againſt this ſome object, How can we be holy as Chriſt is holy? Firſt, the thing is impoſſible; and ſecondly, if we could, there would be no need of Chriſt. But I anſwer to the firſt; the thing if rightly underſtood, is not impoſſible; we are commanded to be holy as Chriſt is holy, not in reſpect of equality, as if our holineſs muſt be of the ſame compaſs with the holineſs of Chriſt; but in reſpect of quality, our holineſs muſt be of the ſame ſtamp, and truth, as the holineſs of Chriſt; as when the Apoſtle ſaith, That we muſt love our Neighbour as our Rom.13.9 ſelf; the meaning is, not that our love to our Neighbour ſhould be Mathematically equal to the love of our ſelf, for the Law doth allow of degrees in love, according to the degrees of relation in the thing beloved. Do good unto all Men, ſpecially to thoſe of Rom.12.9 the Houſhold of faith; Love to a friend may ſafely be greater than love to a ſtranger; or love to a Wife or Child, may ſafely be greater than to a Friend; yet in all our love to others, it muſt be of the ſelf-ſame nature, as true, as real, as cordial, as ſincere, as ſolid as that to our ſelves; We muſt love our neighour as our ſelves (i. e.) unfeignedly, and without diſſimulation. — Again, I anſwer to the ſecond, Chriſt is needful, notwithſtanding our utmoſt holineſs, in two reſpects. 1. Becauſe we cannot come to full and perfect holineſs, and ſo his grace is requiſite to pardon and cover our failings. 2. Becauſe that which we do attain unto, it is not of, or from our ſelves, and ſo his ſpirit is requiſite to ſtrengthen us unto his ſervice. We muſt be holy as Chriſt is holy, yet ſtill we muſt look at the holineſs of Chriſt, as the ſun, and root, and fountain; and that our holineſs is but as a beam of that ſun, but as a branch of that root, but as a ſtream of that fountain.

For the third, How we muſt conform to this life? I anſwer:

1. Let us frame to our ſelves ſome Idea of Chriſt, let us ſet before us the life of Chriſt in the whole, and all the parts of it, as we find it recorded in God's Book. It would be a large Picture if I ſhould draw it to the full; but for a taſte I ſhall give it in few lines. Now then ſetting aſide the conſideration of Chriſt as God, or as Mediator, or as Head of his Church.

1. I look at the mind of Chriſt, at his judgment, will, affections; ſuch as love, Joy, delight, and the reſt; and eſpecially at the compaſſions of Jeſus Chriſt. O the dear affections and compaſſions which Chriſt had towards the ſons of Men! this was his errand from Heaven, and while he was upon the earth he was ever acting it, I mean his pitifulneſs, I mean his affections, and compaſſion in healing broken hearts; Luke 4. 18. ſo the Pſalmiſt, He healeth the broken in heart, and Pſal. 147. 3. bindeth up their wounds; it is ſpoken after the manner of a Chirurgion, he had a tender heart towards all broken hearts; he endeavoured to put all broken bones into their native place again; nor ſpeak I thus only of him in reſpect of his Office; but as he was man, he had in him ſuch a mind, that he could not but compaſſionate all in miſery; O what bowels! what ſtirrings, and boylings, and wreſtlings of a pained heart, touched with ſorrow, was ever, upon occaſion, in Jeſus Chriſt? Peruſe theſe Texts; and Jeſus went forth, and ſaw a great multitude, and he was Matt.14.1 moved with compaſſion towards them, and he healed their Mar.6.34. ſick ——— Mar.1.40, 41. And Jeſus when he came out, ſaw much People, and was moved with compaſſion towards them, becauſe they were as ſheep not having a ſhepherd. ——— Matt. 15. 32.

And there came a leper to him, and kneeling down to him, and ſaying to him, If thou wilt, thou canſt make me clean; and Jeſus moved with compaſſion, put forth his hand, and Matt. 15. 32. touched him, ſaying, I will, be thou clean.——Then Jeſus called his diſciples unto him, and ſaid, I have compaſſion on the multitude. And for the two blind men that cried out, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou ſon of David, Matt. 20. 34. it is ſaid, that Jeſus ſtood ſtill,——and he had compaſſion on them, and touched their eyes. And the poor Pro- Luke 15. 20. digal returning, When he was yet a great way off, his Father ſaw him, and had compaſſion, and ran and fell on his neck and kiſſed him. How ſweet is this laſt Inſtance! that our ſenſe of ſinful weakneſs, ſhould be ſorrow and pain to the bowels and heart of Jeſus Chriſt! You that are Parents of young Children, let me put the caſe; if ſome of you ſtanding in the relation of a Father, ſhould ſee his Child ſweat, and wreſtle under an over-load, till his back were almoſt broken, and that you ſhould hear him cry, Oh I am gone, I faint, I ſink, I dye; would not your bowels be moved to pity? and would not your hands be ſtretched out to help? Or if ſome of you ſtanding in the relation of a Mother, ſhould ſee your ſucking Child fallen into a pit, and wreſtling with the water, and crying for help, would you not ſtir, nor be moved in heart, nor run to deliver the Child from being drowned? Surely you would, and yet all this pity and compaſſion of yours is but a ſhadow of the compaſſions and dear affections, that were, and that are in the heart of Jeſus Chriſt; O he had a mind devoid of ſin, and therefore it could not but be full of pity, mercy, and tender bowels of compaſſion.

2. I look at the grace in Chriſt; O he was full of grace, yea, full of all the graces of the Spirit; A Cant. 1. 13, 14. bundle of Myrrh, is my well-beloved to me:——My Beloved is unto me as a cluſter of camphire in the vineyards of Engedi: a bundle of Myrrh, and a cluſter of Camphire denote all the graces of the Spirit; as many flowers are bound together in a Noſegay, ſo the variety of the graces of the Spirit, concenter'd in the heart of Jeſus Chriſt, ex. gr.

Matt. 21. 5. 1. In him was meekneſs, He cometh unto the meek: He had a ſweet command and moderation of his anger; he was meek as Moſes, nay, tho' Moſes was very Num. 12. 3. meek, and very meek above all the men that were upon the face of the earth, yet Chriſt's meekneſs exceeded Moſes's, as the body doth exceed the ſhadow.

2. In him was humility, he ſaved not the world by his power, but by his humility; in his incarnation, Chriſt would be humble; and therefore he was born of a poor Virgin, in a common Inn; in his life, his way on earth was a continual lecture of humility; a little before his death he gave ſuch an example of hu- John 13. 5. mility as never was the like, He poured water into a baſon, and began to waſh the diſciples feet. O ye Apoſtles, why tremble ye not at the wonderful ſight of this ſo great humility? Peter, what doſt thou? wilt thou ever yield that this Lord of Majeſty ſhould waſh thy feet? Methinks I hear Peter, ſaying, What Lord, wilt thou waſh my feet? art not thou the Son of the living God? the Creator of the World, the Beauty of the Heavens, the Paradiſe of Angels, the Redeemer of Men, the Brightneſs of the Father's Glory? And I, what am I, but a worm, a clod of earth, a miſerable ſinner? And wilt thou notwithſtanding all this waſh my feet? Leave Lord, O leave this baſe office for thy ſervants; lay down thy Towel, and put on thy Apparel again; beware that the Heaven, or the Angels of Heaven be not aſhamed of it, when they ſhall ſee that by this ceremony thou ſet'ſt them beneath the earth? take heed leſt the daughter of King Saul diſpiſe thee, when ſhe ſhall ſee the girded about with this Towel, after the manner of a ſervant, and ſhall ſay, that ſhe will not take thee for her beloved, and much leſs for her God, whom ſhe ſeeth to attend upon ſo baſe an office. Thus may I imagine Peter to beſpeak his Maſter; but he little knew what Glory lay hid in this humility of Chriſt; it was for us and our example; an humble Chriſt, to make humble Chriſtians.

3. In him was patience; O when I think of Chriſt's labours in Preaching, wearineſs in Travelling, watchfulneſs in Praying, tears in Compaſſionating, and then I add to all theſe his ſubmiſſion of Spirit, notwithſtanding all the affronts, injuries, and exprobrations of men; how ſhould I but cry out, O the patience of Chriſt! the Apoſtle tells us that 1 Pet. 2. 23. when he was reviled, he reviled not again; when he ſuffered, he threatned not, but committed himſelf to him that judgeth righteouſly,——I have already given a touch of theſe graces in Chriſt, which now I may ſet before me——In him was wiſdom, and knowledg, and juſtice, and mercy, and temperance, and fortitude, and every virtue, or every grace that poſſibly I can think of, A bundle of Myrrh is my Beloved unto me, as a cluſter of Camphire in the vineyards of Engedi.

4. I look at the converſation of Chriſt in word and deed; for his words, they were gracious. Not an idle word ever came out of the lips of Chriſt; himſelf tells us that of every idle word we muſt give an Matt. 12. 36. account; O then how free was Chriſt of every idle word? He knew the times and ſeaſons when to ſpeak, and when to be ſilent; he weighed every word with every circumſtance, time, and place, and manner, and matter; There's a time to keep ſilence, and a time Eccleſ. 3. 7. to ſpeak, ſaid Solomon, when he returned again to his wiſdom; and hence we read that ſometimes Jeſus being accuſed, he held his peace † and when he Matt. 26. 63, 27. 12. was accuſed of the chief Prieſts and Elders, he anſwered nothing; but other whiles he pours out whole Cataracts of holy inſtructions; he takes occaſion of Vines, of Stones, of Water, and Sheep, to ſpeak a word in ſeaſon; he is ſtill diſcourſing of the matters of the Kingdom of Heaven; and he ſpeaks ſuch words as give grace unto all the hearers round about him; ſo for his deeds and actions they were full of grace and goodneſs; the Apoſtle Peter gives him this character (which I look upon as a little deſcription of Chriſt's life) who went about doing good; it was his Act. 10. 38. meat and drink to do all the good he could; it was as natural to him to do good, as it is for a fountain to ſtream out, he was holy and heavenly, unſpotted every way; O the ſweet converſation of Chriſt! how humbly carries he it amongſt men! how benignly towards his Diſciples! how pitiful was he towards the poor! to whom (as we read) he made himſelf moſt like, He became poor, that we might be made 2 Cor. 8. 9. rich; he deſpiſed, or abhorred none; no not the very Lepers, that were eſchewed of all; he flattered not the rich and honourable; he was moſt free from the cares of the world; his preſcriptions were, Care not for the things of the morrow; and in himſelf he was never anxious of bodily needs; above all, he was moſt ſolicitous of ſaving ſouls. Much more I might add, if I ſhould go over the particulars in the Goſpel; but by theſe few expreſſions of Jeſus Chriſt, we may conceive of all the reſt.

2. Let us be humbled for our great inconformity to this copy; what an excellent pattern is here before us? and how far, how infinitely do we come ſhort of this bleſſed pattern? O alas! if Chriſt will not own me, unleſs he ſee his Image written upon me, what will become of my poor ſoul? Why Chriſt was meek, and humble, and lowly in ſpirit; Chriſt was holy, and heavenly; Chriſt ever went about doing good; and now when I come to examine my own heart according to this original, I find naturally a meer antipathy, a contrariety, I am as oppoſite to Chriſt as Hell and Heaven. 1. For my thoughts, within I am full of pride and malice: I am full of the ſpirit of the World; What is there in my heart but a world of paſſions, rebellions, darkneſs, and deadneſs of ſpirit to good? And, 2. If the fountain be ſo muddy, can I expect clear ſtreams! What words are theſe that come many a time from me? Chriſt would not ſpeak an idle word, But how many idle, evil, ſinful words come daily flowing from my lips? Out of the abundance of the mouth the heart ſpeaketh; and if I may gueſs at my heart by my words, where was my heart this Sabbath, and the other Sabbath, when my diſcourſe was all on my Calling, or on the World, or it may be on my Luſts, or on my Dalilah's, on my right-hand-ſins, or on my right-eye-ſins? And, 3. What actions are theſe ſo frequently performed by me? If I muſt read my ſtate by my converſation, Whoſe Image and ſuperſcription is this? The laſt Oath I ſwore, the laſt Blaſphemy I belched out, the laſt act of Drunkenneſs, Idolatry, Adultery I committed, (or if theſe ſins are not fit to be named) the laſt piece of wrong I did my neighbour, the laſt prank of pride I played on this ſtage of the world, the laſt expence of time when I did no good in the world, neither to my ſelf nor others, the laſt omiſſion of good, as well as commiſſion of evil; O my ſoul, whoſe Image is this? Is it the Image of Chriſt, or of Satan? If the worſt Scholar in the School ſhould write thus untowardly after his Copy, would he not be aſhamed? If in my heart and life I obſerve ſo many blots and ſtains, ſo great inconformity and diſſimilitude to the life of Chriſt, how ſhould I but lie in the duſt? O wo is me! what a vaſt diſproportion is betwixt Chriſt's life and mine? Why thus, O my ſoul, ſhould'ſt thou humble thy ſelf; each morning, each prayer, each meditation, each ſelf-examination, ſhouldſt thou fetch new, freſh, clear, particular cauſes, occaſions, matters of humiliation: as thus; lo there the evenneſs, gravity, graciouſneſs, uniformity, holineſs, ſpiritualities, divineneſs, heavenlineſs of Jeſus Chriſt; lo there the fragrant zeal, dear love, tender pity, conſtant induſtry, unwearied pains, patience admirable, ſelf-denial, contempt of the world in Jeſus Chriſt; lo there thoſe many, yea continual devout, divine breathings of ſoul after God his Father's glory, after the ſpiritual and immortal good of the precious ſouls of his redeemed ones; Oh all the admirable meekneſs, mercifulneſs, clemency, charity, with all other excellent temperance, rare compoſure, wonderful order of his bleſſed Soul! O the ſweet expreſſions, gracious converſation! O the glorious ſhine, bleſſed luſtre of his divine ſoul! Oh the ſweet countenance, ſacred diſcourſe, raviſhing demeanour, winning deportment of Jeſus Chriſt! and now I reflect upon my ſelf, Oh alas! Oh the total, wide, vaſt, utter difference, diſtance, diſproportion of mine therefrom! I ſhould punctually anſwer, perfectly reſemble, accurately imitate, exactly conform to this life of Chriſt; but ah! my unevenneſs, lightneſs, vanity! Ah my rudeneſs, groſneſs, deformity, odiouſneſs, ſleightneſs, contemptibleneſs; execrableneſs! Ah my ſenſuality, brutiſhneſs, deviliſhneſs! How clearly are theſe, and all other my enormities diſcovered, diſcerned, made evident and plain by the bleſſed and holy life of Jeſus? So true is that rule, Contraria juxta ſe poſita magis eluceſcunt.

3. Let us quicken, provoke, and incenſe our ſluggiſh, drowſie ſouls to conform to Chriſt. If we will but ſtrictly obſerve our hearts, we ſhall find them very backward to this duty, and therefore let us call Pſal. 103. 1. upon our ſouls as David did, Bleſs the Lord, O my ſoul, and let all that is within me bleſs his holy Name; let us work upon our ſouls by reaſoning with our own hearts, as if we diſcourſed with them thus, O my heart, or O my ſoul, if in the deep counſels of eternity this was God's great deſign to make his Son like thee, that thou alſo mighteſt be like his Son, how then ſhouldeſt thou but endeavour to conform? And what
Rom. 8. 29. ſays the Apoſtle? For whom he did foreknow, he alſo did predeſtinate, to be conformed to the Image of his Son: This was one of his great purpoſes from eternity; this Law God ſet down, before he made the World, that I ſhould conform to his Son: And what, O my ſoul, would'ſt thou break the eternal bands of predeſtination? O, God forbid! Again, if this was one of the ends of Chriſt's coming, to deſtroy the works of the Devil, to deface all Satan's works, eſpecially his work in me, his Image in me, and to ſet his own ſtamp on my ſoul; How then ſhould I but endeavour to conform? I read but of two ends of Chriſt's coming into the World in relation to us, whereof the firſt was to redeem his people, and the other was to purifie his people; He gave himſelf for us, that he might Tit. 2. 14.
redeem us from all iniquity, and purifie unto himſelf, a peculiar people, zealous of good works: the one is the work of his merit, which goeth upward, to the ſatisfaction of his Father; the other is the work of his Spirit and Grace, which goeth downwards to the ſanctification of his Church; in the one he beſtoweth his righteouſneſs on us by imputation; in the other he faſhioneth his Image in us by renovation; and what, O my ſoul, would'ſt thou deſtroy the end of Chriſt's coming in the fleſh? or would'ſt thou miſs of that end for which Chriſt came in relation to thy good; O, God forbid! Again, conſider the example of the Saints before thee; if this was their holy ambition to be like their Jeſus, emulate them in this, for this is a bleſſed emulation; it is obſervable how the Heathens themſelves had learnt a rule very near to this; Seneca adviſed that Senec. Ep. 11.
every man ſhould propound to himſelf, the example of ſome wiſe, and vertuous perſonage, as Cato, or Socrates, or the like; and really to take his life as the direction of all their actions; but is not the life of Jeſus far more precious, and infinitely more worthy of imitation? We read in Hiſtory of one Cecilia a Virgin, who accuſtomed her ſelf to the beholding of Chriſt for imitation, and to that purpoſe ſhe ever carried in her breaſt ſome pieces of the Goſpel, which ſhe had gathered out of all the Evangeliſts, and thereon night and day ſhe was either reading, or meditating; this work ſhe carried on in ſuch a circulation, that at laſt ſhe grew perfect in it, and ſo enjoyed Chriſt and the Goſpel, not only in her breaſt, but alſo in the ſecrets of her heart; as appeared by her love of Chriſt, and confidence in Chriſt, and familiarity with Chriſt, as alſo by her contempt of the World, and all its glory, for Chriſt his ſake; There is ſome reſemblance of this in the Spouſe, when ſhe reſolved of Chriſt, He ſhall lye all night betwixt my breaſt; q. d. he ſhall be Cant. 1. 13.
as near me as near may be, my meditation of him (and by conſequence my imitation of him) ſhall be conſtant and continual; not only in the day, but He ſhall lye all night betwixt my breaſts. What, O my ſoul, was this the practice of the Saints? And wilt thou not be of that Communion? O God forbid! thus let us quicken and provoke our ſouls to this conformity; let us excite, rouze, incenſe, awake, and ſharpen up our wretched, ſluggiſh, drouzy, lazy, ſouls; our faint, feeble, flagging, faultering, drooping, languiſhing affections, deſires, endeavours! let us with enlarged induſtry engage, and encourage our backward and remiſs ſpirits to fall upon this duty of conformity, again and again; let us come up higher towards it, or if poſſibly we may, compleatly to it, that the ſame mind, and mouth, and life may be in us that was in Jeſus Chriſt, that we may be found to walk after Chriſt, that we may tread in the very prints of the feet of Chriſt, that we may climb up after him, into the ſame heavenly Kingdom, that we may aſpire continually towards him, and grow up to him, even to the meaſure of the ſtature of the fulneſs of Chriſt

4. Let us regulate our ſelves by the life of Chriſt; whatſoever action we go about, let us do it by this rule, what? Would Chriſt have done this? or at leaſt, Would Chriſt have allowed this? It is true, ſome things are expedient and lawful with us, which were not ſutable to the Perſon of Chriſt, Marriage is honourable with all men, and the bed undefiled; but it did not befit his Perſon, who came into the World only to ſpiritual purpoſes, to beget Sons and Daughters. Writing of Books is commendable with men, becauſe like Abel, being dead, they may ſtill ſpeak, and teach thoſe who never ſaw them; but it would have been derogatory to the Perſon and Office of Chriſt: for it is his Prerogative to be in the midſt of the ſeven golden Candleſticks, to be preſent to all his Members, to teach by Power, and not by Miniſtry; to write his Law in the hearts of his people, and to make them his Epiſtle. Contrition, Compunction, Mortification, Repentance for ſin, are acts and duties neceſſary to our ſtate and condition; for we are ſinners, and ſinners of the Gentiles, Acts 11. 18. To whom God alſo hath granted repentance unto life; but theſe were in no ſort agreeable to Chriſt, for, he was without ſin, and needed not repentance, nor any part of it. The ſeveral ſtates of men, as of Governors, Kings, Judges, Lawyers, Merchants, &c. are convenient for us, otherwiſe what ataxy and confuſion would there be in the World? And yet Jeſus never put himſelf into any of theſe ſtates; John 18. 36. My Kingdom (ſays he) is not of this world. Now as in theſe things we muſt only reſpect the Allowance of Chriſt, ſo in other things we muſt reflect upon the example of Chriſt; as, 1. In ſinful acts eſchewed by Chriſt. 2. In moral duties that were done by Chriſt.

1. In ſinful Acts eſchewed by Chriſt, as when I am tempted to Sin, then am I to reaſon thus with my ſelf, Would my bleſſed Saviour if he were upon Earth do thus and thus? When I am tempted to looſeneſs and immoderate living, then am I to ask Conſcience ſuch a queſtion as this, Would Chriſt have done thus? Would he have ſpent ſuch a Life upon Earth as I do? When I am moved by my own Corruption, or by Satan, to Drunkenneſs, Gluttony, ſinful and deſperate Society, to Swearing, Curſing, Revenge, or the like; then am I to ask, Is this the Life that Chriſt led? Or if he were to live again, would he live after this manner? When I fall into Paſſion, Peeviſhneſs, raſh Words, or if it be but idle words, then am I to conſider, O but would Chriſt ſpeak thus? Would this be his Language? Would ſuch rotten or unprofitable Speech as this, drop from his honey Lips?

2. In caſe of moral Obedience, concerning which we have both his Pattern and Precept. I look upon Chriſt as my Rule; and I queſtion thus, Did Chriſt frequently pray both with his Diſciples, and alone by himſelf? And ſhall I never in my Family, or in my Cloſet think upon God? Did Chriſt open his Wounds for me? And ſhall not I open my Mouth to him? Did Chriſt ſerve God without all ſelf-ends, meerly in Obedience, and to Glorify him? And ſhall I make God's Worſhip ſubordinate to my aims and turns? Did Chriſt ſhew Mercy to his very Enemies? And ſhall I be cruel to Chriſt's very Members? O my Soul, look in all thy Sins, and in all thy Duties to thy original, and meaſure them by the Holineſs of Chriſt; whether in avoiding Sin, or in doing Duty, think, What would my bleſſed Saviour do in this caſe? Or what did he in the like caſe, when he was upon earth? If we had theſe thoughts every day, if Chriſt were continually before our Eyes, if in all we do or ſpeak we ſhould ſtill muſe on this, What would Jeſus Chriſt ſay if he were here? I believe it would be a bleſſed means, of living in comfort, and ſpiritual conformity to the Commands of God, yea, of acting Chriſt's Life (as it were) to the Life.

5. Let us look fixedly on Jeſus Chriſt, let us keep our ſpiritual Eyes ſtill on the Pattern, until we feel our ſelves conforming to it; it is a true ſaying, that Objects and moving reaſons kept much upon the mind by ſerious thoughts, are the great Engine, both appointed by Nature and Grace, to turn about the Soul of Man. If I may deliver it in fewer terms, Objects conſidered much, or frequently, do turn the Soul into their own Nature. Such as the things are, we muſt think of, and conſider of, ſuch will be our ſelves; or if we be not ſo, it is not through any Imperfection in the Object (eſpecially in ſuch an Object as Jeſus Chriſt is) but becauſe it is not well applied, and by conſideration held upon the heart, till it may work there; indeed the manner of this working may be ſecret and inſenſible, yet if we follow on, we ſhall feel it in the iſſue; the beholding of Chriſt, is a powerful beholding; there is a changing, transforming Virtue goes out of Chriſt, by looking on Chriſt; Can we think of his Humility, and not be humble? Can we think of his meekneſs and gentleneſs of Spirit, and yet we continue in our fierceneſs, roughneſs, frowardneſs of Spirit? Can a proud fierce Heart apprehend a meek, and ſweet, and lowly Jeſus? No, no; the heart muſt be ſuitable to the thing apprehended, it is impoſſible otherwiſe; certainly if the look be right, there muſt be a ſuitableneſs betwixt the Heart and Chriſt. Sight works upon the Imagination in brute Creatures; as Laban's Sheep, when they ſaw the party-coloured Rods, they had Lambs ſuitable; now will ſight work upon Imagination, and Imagination work a real change in Nature? And is not the Eye of the Mind (eſpecially the Eye of Faith) more ſtrong and powerful? If I but write after a Copy, I ſhall in a while learn to write like it; if I ſeriouſly meditate on any excellent Subject, it will leave a print behind it on my Spirit; if I read but the Life and Death of ſome eminently gracious and holy Man, it molds, and faſhions, and transforms, and conforms my mind to his Similitude; even ſo, and much more, it is in this caſe; ſince the Eye of Faith works in the matter, which in it ſelf is operative and effectual, and therefore it cannot but work more, than where is only ſimple Imitation, or naked Meditation; O then, let us ſet the Copy of Chriſt's Life (as before deſcribed) in our view, and let us look upon it with both Eyes, with the Eye of Reaſon, and with the Eye of Faith.

But how ſhould we keep the Eye of our Faith on this bleſſed Object, until we feel this conformity in us? I anſwer——

1. Let us ſet apart ſome times on purpoſe to act our Faith in this reſpect; There is a time for all things under the Sun, ſaith Solomon. Eccleſ. 3. 1. It may be ſometimes we are in our civil Employments, but then is not the time; yet when they are done, and the day begins to cloſe, if together with our Cloſet-prayer we would fall on this duty of looking unto Jeſus by lively Faith, How bleſſed a Seaſon might this be? I know not but that ſome Chriſtians may do it occaſionally, but for any that ſets ſome time apart for it every day, and that in Conſcience, as we do for Prayer, Where is he to be found?

2. Let us remove hindrances; Satan labours to hinder the Soul from beholding Chriſt with the Duſt of the World, The God of this World blinds the Eyes of Men: O take heed of fixing our Eyes on this World's Vanity! our own Corruptions are alſo great hindrances to this view of Chriſt; away, away with all carnal Paſſions, baſe Humours, ſinful Deſires; unleſs the Soul be ſpiritual, it can never behold ſpiritual things.

3. Let us fix our Eyes only on this bleſſed Object; a moving, rolling Eye ſees nothing clearly; 1 Pet. 1. 12. When the Angels are ſaid to look into theſe things, the word ſignifies that they look into them narrowly, as they who bowing or ſtooping down to look into a thing; ſo ſhould we look narrowly into the Life of Chriſt; our Eye of Faith ſhould be ſet upon it in a ſteady manner, as if all the World could not move us, as if we forgot all the things behind, and had no other buſineſs in the World but this.

4. Let us look wiſhingly and cravingly; there is Affection, as well as Viſion in the Eye; as the lame Man that lay in Solomon's Porch looked wiſhly Acts 3. 5. on Peter and John, expecting to receive ſomething of them; ſo let us look on Chriſt with a craving Eye, with an humble Expectation to receive a ſupply of Grace from Chriſt, Why Lord thou art not only anointed with the oyl of gladneſs above thy fellows, but for thy fellows; I am earthly minded, but thou art heavenly; I am full of Luſts, but the Image of God is perfect in thee; thou art the Fountain of all Grace, an Head of Influence, as well as of Eminence; thou art not only above me, but thou haſt all Grace for me; and therefore, O give me ſome Portion of thy meekneſs, Lowlineſs, Heavenly-mindedneſs, and of all other the Graces of thy Spirit. Surely thou art an Heaven of Grace, full of bright ſhining Stars; Oh, that of that fulneſs thou wouldſt give me to receive even Grace for Grace; I pray Lord with an humble expectation of receiving from thee; Oh let me feel the dropping of the two Olive-trees into the golden Candleſticks, even into my Soul.

5. Be we aſſured that our Prayer (if it be in Faith) is even now heard; never any came to Chriſt with ſtrong Expectations to receive Grace, or any benefit prayed for, that was turned empty away; beſides Chriſt hath engaged himſelf by promiſe to write his Law in our hearts; to make us like himſelf; 1 Pet. 1. 15. As he which hath called us his holy, ſo ſhould (yea, and ſo ſhall) we be holy in all manner of Converſation. Oh, let us build on his gracious Promiſe; Heaven and Earth ſhall paſs away before one jot or tittle of his Word ſhall fail; only underſtand we his promiſe in this Senſe, that our conformity muſt be gradual, 2 Cor. 3. 18. not all at once, We all with open face, beholding, as in a glaſs, the glory of the Lord, are changed into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory, (i. e.) from Grace to Grace; or from Glory inchoate in obedience, to Glory conſummate, in our heavenly Inheritance.

6. If notwithſtanding all this, we feel not for the preſent this conformity in us, at leaſt in ſuch a degree; let us act over the ſame Particulars again and again; the gifts of Grace are therefore communicated by degrees, that we might be taken off from living upon a received ſtock of Grace; and that we might ſtill be running to the Spring, and drink in there; why alas, we have a continual need of Chriſt's letting out himſelf, and Grace into our Hearts, and therefore we muſt wait at the Well head, Chriſt; we muſt look on Chriſt as appointed on purpoſe by his Father to be the Beginner and Finiſher of our Holineſs; and we muſt believe that he will never leave that Work imperfect, whereunto he is ordained of the Father. We may be confident (ſaith the Apoſtle) of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in us, will perform it, or finiſh it, until the day of Jeſus Chriſt, Phil. 1. 6. Oh then be not weary of this Work, until he accompliſh the deſires of thy Soul.

I have now done with this Subject; only before I finiſh, one word more. Sometimes I have obſerved that many precious Souls, in their endeavours after Grace, Holineſs, Sanctification, have been frequent in the uſe of ſuch and ſuch Means, Duties, Ordinances; wherein I cannot ſay, but they have done well; and for their help I therefore compoſed that peice called Media; but of all the Ordinances of Chriſt, this Looking unto Jeſus, is made leaſt uſe of, tho it be cheif of all: It is Chriſt (when all is done) that is that great Ordinance appointed by God for Grace and Holineſs; and certainly thoſe Souls which trade immediately with Jeſus Chriſt, will gain more in a day, than others in a Month, in a Year. I deny not other helps, but amongſt them all, if I would make choice which to call upon, that I may become more and more Holy, I would ſet before me this Glaſs, (i. e) Chriſt's Holy Life, the great Exemplar of Holineſs; we were at firſt created after his Image in Holineſs, and this Image we loſt through our Sin, and to this Image we ſhould endeavour to be reſtored by Imitation: And how ſhould this be done, but by looking on Chriſt as our Pattern? By running through the ſeveral Ages of Chriſt, and by obſerving all his Graces, and gracious Actings? In this reſpect I charge thee, O my Soul (for to what purpoſe ſhould I charge others, if I begin not at home, and with thee?) That thou make Conſcience of this practical Evangelical Duty: O be much in the exerciſe of it! not only in the day intend Chriſt, but when Night comes, and thou lieſt down on thy Bed, let thy Pillow be as Chriſt's Boſom, in which John the beloved Diſciple was ſaid to lean; there lean thou with John; yea, lye thou between his Breaſts; Cant. 1. 13 and let them lye all night betwixt thy Breaſts; Pſal. 4. 8. thus mayeſt thou lye down in peace and ſleep, and the Lord only will make thee to dwell in ſafety; and when day returns again, have this in Mind, yea, in all thy Thoughts, Words, and Deeds, even look unto Jeſus as thy holy Exemplar: Say to thy ſelf, If Chriſt my Saviour were now upon Earth, would theſe be his Thoughts, Words, and Deeds? Would he be thus diſpoſed as I now feel my ſelf? Would he ſpeak theſe Words that I am now uttering? Would he do this that I am now putting my Hand unto? O let me not yeild my ſelf to any Thought, Word, or Action, which my dear Jeſus would be aſhamed to own! Yea (if it were poſſibe for thee to be ſo conſtant in this bleſſed Duty) going and ſtanding, ſitting and lying, eating and drinking, ſpeaking and holding thy Peace, by thy Self or in Company, caſt an Eye upon Jeſus; for by this means thou canſt not chuſe but love him more, and joy in him more, and truſt in him more, and be more and more familiar with him, and draw more and more Grace and Virtue, and Sweetneſs from him: O let this be thy Wiſdom, to think much of Chriſt; ſo as to provoke thee to the Imitation of Chriſt! then ſhalt thou learn to contemn the World, to do good to all, to injure no man, to ſuffer wrong patiently, yea, to pray for all thoſe that diſpitefully uſe thee, and perſecute thee; then ſhall thou learn to condeſcend to the weak, to condole Sinners caſes, to embrace the Penitent, to obey Superiors to Miniſter to all; then ſhalt thou learn to avoid all boaſting, bragging, ſcandal, immoderate Eating and Drinking; in a word, all Sin. Then ſhalt thou learn to bear about in thy Body the dying of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that the life of Jeſus may be made manifeſt in thy body: So the Apoſtle, For we which live are always delivered unto death for Jeſus ſake, that the life alſo of Jeſus might be made manifeſt in our mortal fleſh, 2. Cor. 4. 10, 11. Why this is to follow Chriſt's ſteps he deſcended from Heaven to Earth for thy ſake; do thou trample on earthly things, Seek after the Kingdom of God, and his Righteouſneſs, for thy own ſake; tho the World be ſweet, yet Chriſt is ſweeter; tho the World prove bitter, yet Chriſt ſuſtained the bitterneſs of it for thee: and now he ſpeaks to thee, as he did to Peter, Andrew, James, and John, Come follow me; O do not faint in the way, leſt thou loſe thy place in thy Country, that Kingdom of Glory.

Thus far we have looked on Jeſus as our Jeſus in his Life, during the whole time of his Miniſtry; our next work is to look on Jeſus, carrying on the great work of Man's Salvation, during the time of his ſuffering and dying on the Croſs, until his Reſurrection from the Dead

SECT. I.

Of the day of Chriſt's Sufferings, divided into Parts and Hours.

THE Son of Righteouſneſs, that aroſe with healing, we ſhall now ſee go down in a ruddy Cloud. And in this Piece, as in the former, we muſt firſt lay down the Object, and then direct you to look upon it.

The Object is Jeſus, carrying on the work of Man's Salvation during the time of his Sufferings; now in all the Tranſactions of this Life, we ſhall obſerve them, as they were carried on ſucceſſively in thoſe few hours of his Paſſion and Death.

As the work of Man's Salvation was great, ſo we cannot but obſerve how every piece of it was carried on in its due time, even from Eternity to Eternity. The very time of Chriſt's paſſage depended not on the Will of Man; for his Enemies ſought many times before to Slay him; as Herod in his Infancy, Matth. 2. 16. The Jews in his ripe Age, when ſometimes they took up Stones to ſtone him, John 8. 59. and ſometimes they would have broke his Neck from an Luke 4. 29. but his time was not then come. We Exod. 12. 2, 6. read of the Paſchal Lamb, that it was to be ſlain on the fourteenth day of the firſt Month called Abib, or Niſan; at the full of the Moon in the evening, or between the evenings; ſome think this Month anſwers to our March, others to our April; I ſhall not be too curious in the Inquiſition; for I think it not worth the while; only this, I cannot but obſerve, that the ſame day that the Lamb muſt be Slain, muſt our Paſchal Lamb begin his Sufferings; and as then it was full Moon, ſo it notes unto us the fulneſs of time which now was come; and as it was in ſuch a Month, as when Light prevails againſt Darkneſs, and every thing Revives and Springs; ſo Chriſt by his Sufferings was to chaſe away our Darkneſs and Death, and to bring in Light and Life, and a bleſſed ſpring of Grace and Glory; and as it was to be Slain in the evening, or between the evenings; ſo muſt Chriſt the true Paſchal Lamb be ſacrificed about the very ſame hour that the Myſtical Lamb was Slain; to underſtand which, we muſt know that the Jews diſtinguiſhed their Artificial day into four parts; from ſix to nine, from nine to twelve, from twelve to three, from three to eight; this laſt part was counted the Evening of the Day, and the next three hours the Evening of the Night; now in this laſt part of the Day uſed the Paſchal Lamb to be Slain; and after it was Slain, ſome time was taken up to dreſs it whole for Supper; ſo Chriſt at the fourth part of the day, at their ninth hour, that is, at our three of the Clock in the Afternoon, Mat. 27. 50. between the evenings, with a loud voice yielded up the Ghoſt.

For the whole time of theſe laſt and extreme Sufferings of Chriſt, I ſhall reduce them to ſomewhat leſs than one natural Day; or if we may take the whole Day before us, conſiſting of twenty four Hours, and begin with the Evening, according to the beginning of natural Days from the Creation (as it is ſaid, the evening and the morning made the firſt day.) Gen. 1. 5. In this Revolution of time, I ſhall obſerve theſe ſeveral paſſages.——As,

1. About ſix in the Evening Chriſt celebrated, and eat the Paſſover with his Diſciples, at which time he inſtituted the Sacrament of the Lords Supper, and this continued till the eighth hour.

2. About Eight in the Evening he waſhed his Diſciples Feet, and then leaning on the Table, he pointed out Judas that ſhould betray him; and this continued until the ninth hour.

3. About Nine in the Evening (the ſecond Watch in the Night) Judas that Traytor went from the Diſciples; and in the mean time Chriſt made that ſpiritual Sermon, and afterwards that ſpiritual Prayer recited only by John; John 14. 15, 16, 17. Chap. and this, (together with a Pſalm they ſung) continued at leaſt until the tenth hour. Thus far we proceeded before we had done with the Life of Chriſt. That which concerns his Paſſion, follows immediately upon this; and upon that only I ſhall take notice in my following Diſcourſe.

This Paſſion of Chriſt I ſhall divide between the Night and Day. 1. For the Night, and his Sufferings therein, we may obſerve theſe periods, or thereabouts. As——

1. From Ten to Twelve he goes over the Brook Cedron to the Garden of Gethſemani, where he prayed earneſtly, and ſweat Water and Blood.

2. From Twelve to Three he is betrayed, and by the Soldiers and other Officers, he is bound, and brought to Jeruſalem, and carried into the Houſe of Annas, who was one of the cheif Prieſts.

3. From three till Six they led him from Annas to Caiaphas, when he and all the Prieſts of Jeruſalem ſate upon Jeſus Chriſt; and there it was that Peter denied Chriſt, and at laſt the whole Sanhedrim of the Jews gave their conſent to Chriſt's Condemnation.

2. The Night thus diſpatcht, at Six in the Morning, about Sun-riſing, our Saviour was brought unto Pilate, and Judas Iſcariot hanged himſelf, becauſe he had betrayed innocent Blood. —— About Seven in the ſame Morning Chriſt is carried to Herod, that cruel Tyrant, who the year before had put John the Baptiſt to Death. —— At Eight of the ſame day our Saviour Chriſt is returned to Pilate, who propounded to the Jews, whether they would have Jeſus or Barabbas let looſe unto them. —— About the Ninth, (which the Jews call the third hour of the day) Chriſt was whipped, and crowned with Thorns. About Ten, Pontius Pilate brought forth Jeſus out of the Common-Hall, ſaying, Behold the Man; and then in the place called Gabbatha, he publickly condemned Chriſt to be Crucified. About Eleven our Saviour carried his Croſs, and was brought to the place called Golgotha, where he was faſtned on the Croſs, and lifted up, as Moſes lifted up the Serpent in the Wilderneſs. —— About Twelve (in that Meridian which the Jews call the ſixth hour) that ſupernatural Eclipſe of the Sun happened. —— And about Three in the afternoon (which the Jews call the Ninth hour) the Sun now begining to receive his Light, Chriſt cried, It is finiſhed; and commending his Spirit into his Father's hands he gave up the Ghoſt. —— I ſhall add to theſe; that about four in the Afteneon, our bleſſed Saviour was pierced with a Spear, and there iſſued out of his ſide both Blood and Water. —— And about five (which the Jews call the Eleventh, and the laſt hour of the day) he was buried by Joſeph of Arimathea and Nicodemus -- So that in this round of our natural Day, you ſee the wonderful Tranſaction of Chriſt's Sufferings. I ſhall take them in order, and begin with his Sufferings in that night before his crucifying. And Jeſus ſaid unto his Diſciples, All ye ſhall be offended becauſe of me this night: and he ſaid unto Peter, that this day, even in this night, before the Cock crow twice, thou ſhalt deny me thrice. Matt. 21. 31. Mark. 16. 30.

Sect. 2. Of the Brook over which Chriſt paſſed.

THe firſt Paſſage of that Night, was Chriſt's going over the Brook Cedron, to the Garden of Gethſemane. When Jeſus had ſpoken theſe words, he went forth with his Diſciples over the Brook Cedron, where was a Garden, into which he entred, and his Diſciples. Joh. 18.1.

In this Paſſage obſerve we theſe Particulars. 1. The River over which they paſſed. 2. The Garden into which they entred. 3. The Prayer he there made, and the Dolours and Agonies he there ſuffered.

1. He and his Diſciples went over the Brook Cedron. So it was called (ſay ſome) from the ſame Ceders that grew all along the Banks; or (ſay others) from the darkneſs of the Valley, ſo Kader ſignifies darkneſs; and this was done to fulfil a Prophecy: He ſhall drink of the Brook in the way. Pſal. 110. 7. By the Brook or Torrent, we may underſtand myſtically the Wrath of God, and Rage of Men, the very afflictions which befel Jeſus Chriſt; and by his drinking of the Brook, we may underſtand Chriſt's enduring afflictions, or (as others) his enduring many afflictions, and not a few. 1. That Afflictions are underſtood by Waters, we find it very frequently in Scriptures; The ſorrows of death compaſſed me, and the floods of Belial made me afraid. —— Deep calleth unto deep, at the noiſe of the water-ſpouts; all thy waves and thy billows are gone over me. —— And, Save me, O God, for the waters are come in unto my Soul; and, if it had not been the Lord, who was on our ſide, —— then the waters had overwhelmed us, the ſtream had gone over our Souls, then the proud waters had gone over our Souls. Pſal. 18. 4. Pſal. 42.7. Pſal. 69. 1. Pſal. 124. 1, 4, 5,

2. As Waters ſignify Afflictions; ſo Chriſt drinking of thoſe Waters, it ſignifyed Chriſt's ſuffering of Afflictions; or as others, it ſignifies Chriſt's ſuffering many Afflictions. Thus we find together two Words with Relation thereunto, are ye able to drink of the Cup (ſaith Chriſt) that I ſhall drink of, and to be baptized with the Baptiſm that I am baptized with; He that drinketh, hath the Water in him, and he that is baptized, dipped or plunged, hath the Water about him; ſo it notes the variety or univerſality of Afflictions which Chriſt ſuffered; it was within him, and it was about him, he was every way afflicted. Matt. 20. 22.

Not to ſpeak yet of thoſe Sufferings which yet we are not to come to ſpeak unto; we find here in the way, betwixt the City and the Garden, that Chriſt went over the Brook Cedron; in the Night, he wades through cold Waters on bare Feet; and as he wades through them, he drinks of them, he doth not ſip, but drink; he ſhall drink of the Brook in the way. I know ſome would not have this Prophecy accompliſhed till afore Chriſt's Apprehenſion, when it is ſaid that the rude Rout brought him again to Jeruſalem, over the Brook Cedron; and then he drunk of the Brook; but I find no mention of this Brook in Scripture at ſuch a time; only now in this way, I find theſe paſſages. 1. His Conference with his Diſciples as they go along. 2. The Diſciples reply upon his Conference. 3. His dolorous Paſſage over the Brook, betokening the very Wrath of God,

1. In the way * he hath a ſerious Conference with his Diſciples; ſo the Evangeliſt; and when they had ſung an Hymn, they went out towards the mount of Olives, and then ſaith Jeſus unto them, all ye ſhall be offended becauſe of me this Night; for it is written, I will ſmite the Shepherd, and the Sheep of the Flock ſhall be ſcattered abroad. Chriſt now begins the Story of his Paſſion; the Shepherd ſhall be ſmitten; and he proves it from God's Decree, and from the prophecy of the Prophet, Zech. 13,7. Awake, O Sword, againſt my Shepherd, and againſt the man that is my fellow. —— Smite the Shepherd, and the Sheep ſhall be ſcattered abroad. Zech. 13.7 God the Father is here brought in, as drawing and whetting his Sword, and calling upon it, to do Execution againſt Jeſus Chriſt: God the Father had an hand in the Sufferings: It pleaſed the Lord to bruiſe him, he hath put him to grief. Iſa. 53.10. —— I will ſmite the Shepherd, ſaith God: It was not a naked Permiſſion but a poſitive Decree, and actual Providence of God that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer; the Plot was long ſince drawn and lay hid in God's boſom, till he was pleaſed by the Actions of Men to Copy it out, and to give the World a Draught of it. This was not a thing of yeſterday; no, no: God ſent his eternal Thoughts about it; the Story was long ſince written in Zechary's Book, and in the Volume of God's Book: Pſal. 40 8. Chriſt was ordained to be a Lamb ſlain from the beginning of the World; him being delivered by the determinate Council and fore knowledge of God, ye have taken (ſaith Peter) and by wicked hands have crucified and ſlain: Acts 2.23 The Enemies of Chriſt, tho they broke Commands, yet they fulfilled Decrees. Againſt thy holy Child Jeſus whom thou haſt anointed, both Herod, and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and People of Iſrael, Acts 4.27, 28.

* Vid. Arot in locum. Matt. 25. 30. 35.

were gathered together, for to do whatſoever thy hand and thy Councel determined before to be done. The Story of Chriſt's Sufferings was long ſince taken up, and reſolved on in the Councels of Heaven; and now in the way, the only begotten Son which lay in the boſom of his Father, reveals this Story; he tells his Diſciples, It is written, it is written, I will ſmite the Shepherd, and the Sheep of the Flock ſhall be ſcattered.

2. The Diſciples hearing this diſcovery of the Shepherd being ſmitten, and the Sheep being ſcattered, they are amazed; What ſhall Chriſt dye? And ſhall we like Cowards run away, and leave him alone in the Combat? Peter who ſeems boldeſt, he ſpeaks firſt; Tho all men ſhould be offended becauſe of thee, yet will I never be offended. O raſh Preſumption! It appears in theſe particulars; —— 1. Peter prefers himſelf before the reſt, as if all the other Diſciples had been weak, and he only ſtrong; tho all ſhould be offended. yet will not I. 2. Peter contradicts Chriſt's great diſcovery of his Father's great deſign from all Eternity, with a few bragging words; q. d. what tho' Zechary hath ſaid it, and God hath decreed it, yet on my part, I will never do it; Tho' I ſhould dye with thee, I will not deny thee. 3. Peter in his boaſt never mentions God's help or God's aſſiſtance; whereas in relation to future Promiſes, and future Pur- Jam.4.15. poſes, the Apoſtle's Rule is; Ye ought to ſay, If the Lord will we ſhall live, and do this, and that: So Peter ſhould have ſaid, By God's aſſiſtance I will not be offended; by the Lord's help I will not deny thee; if the Lord will, I will do this and that; I will live with thee, and dye with thee, rather than I will deny thee; but we find no ſuch word in all the Story; and therefore Chriſt takes him off his Bottoms in the firſt place: Matth.26.35. Verily I ſay unto thee Peter, That this Night before the Cock crow twice, thou ſhalt deny me thrice: Oh no ſaith Peter? he will not go off his preſumptuous Confidence; tho I ſhould dye with thee, I will not deny thee; likewiſe alſo ſaid all his Diſciples. But I muſt not dwell on theſe paſſages.

3. His dolorous Paſſages over the Brook ſucceeds: He went forth with his Diſciples over the Brook Cedron: I never read of this Brook Cedron, but ſome way or other it points at the Sufferings of our Saviour; I ſhall inſtance in ſome places. 1. When David fled 2 Sam.15.23. from Abſolom out of Jeruſalem, it is ſaid that all the Country wept with a loud voice, and all the People paſſed over, the King alſo himſelf paſſed over the Brook Cedron ——— towards the way of the Wilderneſs. In this Story we find David paſſing over this Brook Cedron, with bare Head and bare Feet; and he and all his Men weeping as they went up by the Aſcent of Mount Olivet: I cannot think but in this, King David was a Type of King Jeſus: Chriſt, as another David, with his Soldiers or Diſciples, goes out of Jeruſalem bare Head and bare Foot, as this Type ſeems to ſpeak) what weeping was in the way, I cannot tell; but probably Sadneſs was in the hearts both of him and his Diſciples; whoſe Conference was of flying, ſuffering, dying the moſt grievous Death that ever was; all the difference that I find betwixt the Type and Antitype in this paſſage, is in that David fled from the face of Abſolom, but Chriſt goes out of Jeruſalem, not to fly from Judas, or the Jews, but rather to commit himſelf into their hands.

1 King 2.36, 37. 2. When Solomon confined Shimei to his Houſe in Jeruſalem, ſaying, Dwell there, and go not forth thence any whither; for it ſhall be, that on the day thou goeſt out, and paſſeſt over the Brook Cedron, thou ſhalt know for certain that thou ſhalt ſurely dye. Now two of the Servants of Shimei running away from him, he follows after them, and paſſing over the Brook Cedron, it became his Death; why, here was a type of Jeſus Chriſt: we were thoſe Fugitive Servants that run away from God; and to fetch us home, Jeſus goes over the brook Cedron; rather than he will loſe his Servants, he will loſe his Life. All the difference that I find betwixt Shimei and Chriſt in this, is, in that Shimei was but a wicked Man, and yet he died an honourable Death, not for his Servant's, but for his own Tranſgreſſion; but Chriſt, being a juſt Man (ſo Pilate's Wife ſent her Husband word, Have thou nothing to do with that juſt man) he died a moſt ignominious ſhameful Death, even the Death of the Croſs, and that not for himſelf, but for us; He was Iſa.53.5. wounded for our tranſgreſſions, he was bruiſed for our iniquities.

3. When the good Kings, Hezekiah, and Aſa, and Joſiah, purged the City and the Temple of Idolatry, they burnt the curſed things at the Brook 2 King.23.6. Kidron, and caſt them therein. And Aſa cut down 2 Chr.29.16. the Idol, and he brought out the Grove from the houſe of the Lord without Jeruſalem unto the Brook Kidron, and burnt it at the Brook Kidron; —— and the Prieſts went into the inner part of the Houſe of the Lord, to cleanſe it, and brought all the uncleanneſs that they found in the Temple of the Lord, into the Court of the Houſe of the Lord; and the Levites took it to carry it out abroad into the Brook Kidron. ——— And they aroſe and took away the Altars 2 Chr.20.14. that were in Jeruſalem, and all the Altars for Incenſe took they away, and caſt them into the Brook Kidron, or Cedron. All theſe note unto us, that the Brook was as it were the Sink of the Temple, into which all the Purgamenta, and Uncleanneſſes of God's Houſe, and all the accurſed things were to be caſt; and here again was a Type of Chriſt; upon him was caſt all the Filths of our Sins, that as a River or Fountain he might cleanſe us from them; in this reſpect he is ſaid to be made ſin for us, who know no 2 Cor.5.21. ſin, that we might be made the righteouſneſs of God in him; he was made Sin for us, and a Curſe for us, that ſo he might ſwallow up Sin and Death, and might be the Deſtruction of Hell, and all.

I cannot paſs over this Paſſage of the Brook without ſome Uſe or Application to our ſelves.

1. It informs. Methinks this Valley, and this Uſe. Brook of Cedron is a right Repreſentation of a Chriſtian's Life; Jeſus went forth with his Diſciples over the Brook Cedron: What is our Life if we are Chriſt's, but a paſſage through a Vale of Tears, and over a Brook of ſeveral Afflictions? Many are the troubles of the Righteous. The very word Pſal.34.19. Cedron, which ſignifies Darkneſs, denotes this State; an horror of great Darkneſs was ſaid to fall on Abraham, and then ſaid God, know of a ſurety that thy ſeed ſhall be Gen.15.12, 13. ſtrangers in a Land that is not theirs, and ſhall ſerve them, and they ſhall afflict them four hundred years. As God made the Evening and the Morning the firſt Day, and ſecond Day, and third Day, &c. So the Life of God's Saints, is as the evening of Troubles, and their happineſs hereafter is as the Morning of Glory; God's worſt is firſt, with thoſe that are his; the way to Canaan is through the Wilderneſs; the way to Sion is through the valley of Baca. Pſal. 84.6 Through much tribulation we muſt enter into the Kingdom of God. In Acts 14.22. the World ye ſhall have tribulation, ſaith Chriſt; yea, Joh.16.33. all that will live godly in Chriſt Jeſus muſt ſuffer Perſecution, 2 Tim.3.12. ſaith the Apoſtle; ——— Our reſt is not here in this World; What is this World, but an Ark of Travel, a School of Vanities, a Fear of Deceits, a Labyrinth of Error, a barren Wilderneſs, a ſtrong Field, a tempeſtuous Sea, a ſwelling Brook, a Vale of Tears, full of all Miſeries?

2. It reproves. It is the firſt paſſage of Chriſt when he begins his Sufferings, to go over the Brook Cedron, and it is the A, B, C of Chriſtanity (as Bradford ſaid) to learn the Leſſon of taking up the Croſs and following Chriſt. Surely this World is no place, and this Life it is no time for Pleaſure: God hath not caſt Man out of Paradice, that he ſhould find another Paradice on this ſide Heaven. Oh, why do we ſeek the living among the Dead? Why do we ſeek for living comforts, where we muſt expect to dye daily? It is only Heaven that is above all Winds, and Storms, and Tempeſts, and Seas, and Brooks, and Waves: Oh! why do we look for Joy in a Vale of Tears? It was an holy charge that the Apoſtle James laid upon ſome, that they lived in plea-

Ah fond Fools, of Adam's Seed, to loſe Heaven for a little earthly contentment! How ſhould this ſowr your carnal Joys, when you remember, all this is only upon Earth, it cannot be for ever? there muſt be a change of all theſe things; here you laugh, and hereafter you muſt howl: no ſooner Death comes, but then you'l cry, Farewel World; Oh into what a Gulf am I now falling!

3. It inſtructs. Ah my Brethren! let's remember, we are Pilgrims and Strangers upon Earth, and our way lies over the Brook and Valley of Cedron; we cannot expect to enter with Chriſt into Glory, but we muſt firſt drink of the Brook in the way; (i. e.) we muſt endure many Afflictions, variety of Afflictions.——— You will ſay, this is an hard ſaying, who can bear it? I remember when Jeſus told his Diſciples of his Sufferings to be accompliſhed at Jeruſalem,
Matt. 16. 22. Peter takes the boldneſs to dehort his Maſter, Be it far from thee, Lord, this ſhall not be unto thee: Jeſus thereupon calls him Satan, meaning that no greater Contradictions can be offered to the deſigns of God add Chriſt, than to diſſwade us from Sufferings. There's too much of Peter's humour abides amongſt us: Oh this Doctrine of Afflictions will not down with Libertines, Antinomians, and the like; and hence we believe we have our Congregations ſo thin in compariſon of ſome of theirs; they that can break off the Yoke, of Obedience, and unty the Bands of Diſcipline, and preach a cheap Religion, and preſent Heaven in the midſt of Flowers, and ſtrew Palms and Carpets in the way, and offer great liberty of living under Sin, and reconcile Eternity with the preſent Enjoyment, ſhall have their Schools filled with Diſciples; but they that preach the Croſs, and Sufferings, and Afflictions, and ſtrictneſs of an holy Life, they ſhall have the lot of their bleſſed Lord, (i. e.) they ſhall be ill thought of, and deſerted, and railed againſt. Well, but if this be the way that Chriſt hath led us, whileſt others abide at eaſe in Zion, let us follow him in the Valley, and over the Brook that is called Cedron.

Thus far have we obſerved Chriſt in the way together with his Paſſage over Cedron; we come now to the Garden, into which he entred, and his Diſciples.

Matt. 26. 36. Matthew relates it thus, Then cometh Jeſus with them unto a place called Gethſemane; εἰς χωρίον, it ſignifies in ſpecial, a Field, a Village; but more generally a Place, as we tranſlate it; and this place was called Gethſemane (i. e.) a Valley of Fatneſs: Certainly it was a moſt fruitful and pleaſant Place, ſeated at the foot of the mount of Olives; accordingly John relates it thus, Jeſus went forth with his Diſciples over the Joh. 18. 1.
Brook Cedron, where was a Garden; many Myſteries are included in this word; and I believe it is not without reaſon, that our Saviour goes into a Garden. As,——— 1. Becauſe Gardens are ſolitary Places, fit for Meditation and Prayer; to this end we find Chriſt ſometimes on a Mountain, and ſometimes in a Garden. 2. Becauſe Gardens are places fit for Repoſe and Reſt, when Chriſt was weary with Preaching, working of Miracles, and doing acts of Grace in Jeruſalem, then he retires into this Garden. 3. Becauſe a Garden was the place wherein we fell, and therefore Chriſt made choice of a Garden, to begin there the greateſt Work of our Redemption: In the firſt Garden was the beginning of all Evils, and in this Garden was the beginning of our Reſtitution from all Evils; in the firſt Garden, the firſt Adam was overthrown by Satan, and in this Garden the ſecond Adam overcame, and Satan himſelf was by him overcome; in the firſt Garden Sin was contracted, and we were indebted by our Sins to God; and in this Garden Sin was paid for, by that great and precious price of the Blood of God; in the firſt Garden Man ſurfeited by eating the forbidden Fruit; and in this Garden, Chriſt Sweat it out wonderfully, even by a bloody Sweat; in the firſt Garden, Death firſt made its entrance into the World; and in this Garden Life enters to reſtore us from Death to Life again; in the firſt Garden Adam's Liberty to Sin brought himſelf and all us into Bondage; and in this Garden, Chriſt being bound and fettered, we are thereby freed and reduced to Liberty. I might thus deſcant in reſpect of every Circumſtance; but this is the Sum; in a Garden firſt begun our Sin, and in this Garden firſt began the Paſſion, that great Work and Merit of our Redemption. 4. Chriſt goes eſpecially into this Garden, that his Enemies might the more eaſily find him out; the Evangeliſts tells us, that this Garden was a place often frequented by Jeſus Chriſt; ſo that Judas, which Joh. 18. 2.
betrayed him, knew the place, for Jeſus oftentimes reſorted thither with his Diſciples; ſure then he went not thither to hide himſelf; but rather to expoſe himſelf and like a noble Champion to appear firſt in the Field, and to expect his Enemies. Thus it appears to all the World, that Chriſt's Death was voluntary. He poured forth his Iſa. 53. 12.

our ſins (ſaith the Apoſtle); nay himſelf tells us, there- John 10.

man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my ſelf; I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it up again. But I will not ſtay you at the Door; let us follow Chriſt into the Garden, and obſerve his Prayer and his Sufferings there.

Sect. 4. Of the Prayer that Chriſt there made.

Jeſus entering the Garden, he left his Diſciples at the entrance of it, calling with him Peter, James and John; they only ſaw his Transfiguration, the earneſt of his future Glory, and therefore his Pleaſure was, that they only ſhould ſee of how great Glory he would diſrobe himſelf, even for our ſakes.— In the Garden we may obſerve, firſt his Prayer, and ſecondly his Paſſion.

1. He betakes himſelf to his great Antidote, which himſelf, the great Phyſitian of our Souls, preſcribed to all the World; he prays to his heavenly Father; he kneels down; and not only ſo, but falls flat upon the Ground; he prays with an Intention, great as his Sorrow, and yet with a Submiſſion ſo ready, as if the Cup had been the moſt indifferent thing in the World. The Form of his Prayer ran

thus

Mat. 26. 39. thus, O my Father, if it be poſſible, let this Cup paſs from me; nevertheleſs not as I will, but as thou wilt. In his Prayer obſerve we theſe Particulars: 1. The Perſon to whom he Prays, O my Father. 2. The matter for which he prays; Let this Cup paſs from me. 3. The Limitation of this Prayer; If it be poſſible, and if it be thy will.

1. For the Perſon to whom he prays; it is his Father: As Chriſt prayed not in his God-head but according to his Manhood; ſo neither prayed he to himſelf as God; but to the Father, the firſt Perſon of the God-head: Hence ſome obſerve, that as the Father ſometimes ſaying, This is my beloved Son, he ſpake not to himſelf, but to the Son; ſo the Son uſually ſaying, O my Father, he prays not to himſelf, but to the Father.

2. For the Matter of his Prayer: Let this Cup paſs from me: Some interpret thus; Let this Cup paſs by me, Oh that I might not taſte it! But others thus; Let this Cup paſs from me; tho I muſt taſte it, yet Oh that I may not be * too long, or tediouſly annoyed by it! That which leads unto this laſt Interpretation, is that of the Apoſtle, Chriſt in the days of his fleſh offered up Prayers and Supplications with ſtrong cries and tears unto him that was able to ſave him from Death, and he was heard in that which he feared, Heb. 5. 7. How was he heard? Not in the removal of the Cup; for he drank it up all; but in reſpect of the tedious annoyance or poyſoning of the Cup; for tho it made him ſweat drops of Blood, tho it grieved him, and pained him, and made him cry out, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? Tho it caſt him into a Sleep, and laid him Dead in his Grave, and there ſealed him for a time; yet preſently within the ſpace of forty hours, or thereabouts, he revived, and awakened as a Lyon out of Sleep, or as a Gyant refreſhed with Wine; and ſo it paſſed from him, as he prayed in a very ſhort time? and by that ſhort and momentary Death, he purchaſed to his People everlaſting Life.

* Quod dicit, transfer calicem iſtum a me, non hoc eſt, non adveniat mihi? niſi enim advenerit, transferri non poterit, ſed ſicut quod preterit, nec intactum eſt nec permanens; ſic Salvator leviter invadentem tentationem flagitat pelli. Sic Dioniſius Alexandrin.

3. For the Limitation of his Prayer: If it be poſſible, if it be thy will: He knows what is his Father's Will, and he Prays accordingly, and is willing to ſubmit unto it; Heb. 5. 7. if the paſſing of the Cup be according to the laſt Interpretation, we ſhall need none of theſe many Diſtinctions to reconcile the Will of God and Chriſt: If it be poſſible, ſignifies the earneſtneſs of the Prayer: And if it be thy will, the Submiſſion of Chriſt unto his Father; the Prayer is ſhort, but ſweet: How many things needful to a Prayer do we find concentred in this one inſtance? Here is Humility of Spirit, Lowlineſs of Deportment, Importunity of Deſire; a fervent Heart, a lawful Matter, and a Reſignation to the Will of God. Some think this the moſt fervent Prayer that ever Chriſt made on Earth: If it be poſſible; O! if it be poſſible, let this Cup paſs from me: And I think it was the greateſt Dereliction and Submiſſion to the Will of God, that ever was found upon the Earth; for whether the Cup might paſs or not paſs, he leaves it to his Father; nevertheleſs, not as I will, but as thou wilt, q. d. Tho in this Cup, are many Ingredients, it is full red, and hath in it many Dregs, and I know I muſt Drink, and Suck out the very utmoſt Dreg, yet whether it ſhall paſs from me in that ſhort time, or continue with me a long long time, I leave it to thy Will: I ſee in reſpect of my Humanity, there is in me Fleſh and Blood, O! I am frail and weak; I cannot but fear the Wrath of God, and therefore I pray thus earneſtly unto my God; O, my Father, if it be poſſible, let this Cup paſs from me: nevertheleſs, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

But what was there in the Cup, that made Chriſt pray thus earneſtly that it might paſs from him? I anſwer——

1. The great Pain that he muſt endure; the Buffettings, Whippings, Bleedings, Crucifyings; all the Torments from firſt to laſt throughout all his Body; why all theſe now came into his mind, and all theſe were put into the Cup of which he muſt drink.

2. The great ſhame that he muſt undergo, this was more than Pain; as a good Name is better than precious Oyntment, and loving Favour better than Silver and Gold; ſo is Shame a greater Puniſhment to the Mind, than any Torture can be to the Fleſh. Now came into his Thoughts, his Apprehending, Binding, Judging, Scorning, Reviling, Condemning; and, Oh, what a bloody Bluſh comes into the Face of Chriſt, whilſt in the Cup he ſees theſe Ingredients!

3. The neglect of Men, notwithſtanding both his pain and ſhame: I look upon this as a greater cut to the Heart of Chriſt than both the former; when he conſidered, that after all his Sufferings and Reproaches, few would regard. O this was a bitter Ingredient! naturally Men deſire, if they cannot be delivered, yet to be pitied; it is a kind of eaſe, even to find out ſome regard among the Sons of Men; it ſhews that they wiſh us well, and that they would give us eaſe if they could; but Oh, when it comes to this, that a poor Wretch is under many Sufferings, and great Shame, and that he finds none ſo much as to regard all this, now verily it is an heavy Caſe; and hence was Chriſt's Complaint: Have ye no regard, O all ye that paſs by the way? Conſider, and behold, if ever there were ſorrow like unto my ſorrow, which was done unto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the days of his fierce anger. Lam. 1. 12 Chriſt complains, not of the ſharp pains he endured, but he complains of this, Have ye no regard? He cries not out, Oh deliver me, and ſave me; but Oh conſider and regard me; q. d. All that I ſuffer, I am contented with, I regard it not; only this troubles me, that you will not regard; why, it is for you that I endure all this; and do you ſo look upon it, as if it nothing at all concerned you? Suppoſe a Prince ſhould pay ſome mighty price to redeem a Slave from Death, and the Slave ſhould grow ſo deſperate, as after the price paid, to throw himſelf upon his Death, yea, with all the ſtrength and might he hath, to offer a Death upon his very Redeemer; would not this trouble? Why, thus it was; Chriſt is willing to redeem us with his own precious Blood, but he ſaw many to paſs by without any regard, yea ready to trample his precious Blood under their Feet, and to account the Blood of the Covenant as an unholy thing: Oh Heb. 10. 29. this was another Spear in the heart of Chriſt, or a bitter Ingredient in this Cup.

4. The Guilt of Sin which he was now to undergo; upon him was laid the Iniquity of us all. Iſa. 53. 6. All the Sins of all Believers in the World, from the firſt Creation, to the laſt Judgment, were laid on him: Oh, what a Weight was this! Surely one Sin is like a Talent of Lead: Oh then, what were ſo many thouſands of millions? The very Earth it ſelf Groans under the Weight of Sin until this Day. David cried out, That his iniquities were a burden too heavy for him to bear: Pſal. 38. 4. Nay, God himſelf complains, Behold, I am preſſed under you as a Cart is preſſed that is full of Sheaves. Amos 2. 13. Now then no wonder if Chriſt bearing all the Sins of Jews and Gentiles, Bond and Free, cry out, My Soul is heavy; for Sin was heavy on his Soul.—In that I ſay, all the Sins of all Believers were laid on Chriſt, underſtand me ſoberly; my meaning is not that Believers ſins were ſo laid on Chriſt, as that they ceaſed to be Believers ſins according to their phyſical and real in-dwelling; but only that they were laid on Chriſt by Law-imputation, or by legal-obligation to ſatisfactory puniſhment. I make a difference betwixt ſin, and the guilt of ſin; for ſin it ſelf is macula, the blot, the defilement, and blackneſs of ſin, which I conceive, is nothing but the abſence and privation of that moral rectitude and righteouſneſs which the Law requireth; but the guilt of Sin is ſome-what iſſuing from this blot and blackneſs, according to which the Perſon is liable and obnoxious to eternal puniſhment. Some indeed give a diſtinction of the guilt of ſin; there is reatus culpæ, the guilt of ſin, as ſin, and this is all one with ſin, being the very eſſence, ſoul, and formal being of ſin; they call it a fundamental, or potential guilt: and there is reatus pœnæ, reatus perſonæ, reatus actualis, the guilt or obligation to puniſhment, the actual guilt or actual obligation of the perſon who hath thus ſinned, to puniſhment; and this guilt is a thing far different from ſin it ſelf, and is ſeparable from ſin: yea, and is removed from ſin in our juſtification. Now this was the ſin or guilt, which was laid on 1 Pet. 2. 24. Chriſt, in which ſenſe the Apoſtle ſpeaks who his own ſelf bare our ſins in his own body on the tree; How bare Iſa. 53. 6. our ſins on the Tree, but by his ſufferings? —— And 2 Cor. 5. 21. he hath laid on him the iniquity of us all? —— How laid on him, but by imputation? —— And he hath made him to be ſin for us, who knew no ſin: How made ſin for us? Surely there was in Chriſt no fundamental guilt; no, no, but he was made Sin by imputation and Law-account: he was our ſurety, and ſo our ſins were laid on him in order to puniſhment; as if now in the Garden, he had ſaid to his Father, Thou haſt given me a Body; as I have taken the debts and ſins of all believers in the world upon me, Come now, and arreſt me as the only Pay-maſter; lo here I am to do and ſuffer for their ſins, whatſoever thou pleaſeſt, Pſal. 40. 6, 7. 8. Heb. 10. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. Or, as it he had ſaid to his Father thus, I am the ſinner, O Father! I am the ſurety, all my friends wants, and all their debts let them be laid on me; my life for their life, my ſoul for their ſouls, my glory for their glory, my heaven for their heaven: Now this was no ſmall matter; little do we know or conſider, what is the weight and guilt of ſin. And this was another ingredient in Chriſt's Cup.

5. The Power and Malice of Satan; the Devil had a full leave and licenſe; not as it was with Job; Do what thou wilt, Satan, but ſave his life? no, no, he had a commiſſion without any ſuch reſtriction or limitation; the whole power of darkneſs was let looſe to uſe all his violence, and to afflict him as far as poſſibly he could; and this our Saviour intimates, John 14. 30. when he ſaith, that the Prince of this world cometh: Now was it that the Word muſt be accompliſhed, Gen. 3. 15. Thou ſhall bruiſe his heel; the Devil could go no higher then the heell of Chriſt; but whatever he could do, he was ſure to do; he had been nibling a great while at his heel: no ſooner he was born, but he would have killed him; and after he fell fiercely on him in the Wilderneſs; but now all the power and all the malice of Hell conjoyns. If we look on the Devil in reſpect of his evil nature, he is compared to a roaring Lion: not only is he a Lion, but a roaring Lion; his diſpoſition to do miſchief, is always wound up to the height: and if we look on the Devil in reſpect of his Power, there is no part of our ſouls or bodies that he cannot reach? the Apoſtle deſcribing his Power, he gives him names above the higheſt compariſons; as Principalities, Powers, Rulers Eph. 6. 12. of the darkneſs of this Word, Spiritual wickedneſs above: Devils are not only called Princes, but Principalities; not only mighty, but Powers; not only Rulers of a part, but of all the darkneſs of all this World; not only wicked Spirits, but ſpiritual wickedneſs; not only about us, but above us; they hang over our heads continually: You know what a diſadvantage it is to have your Enemy get the hill, the upper ground; and this they have naturally, and always. Oh then what a combate muſt this be, when all the Power, and all the malice of all the Devils in Hell, ſhould by the permiſſion of God, arm themſelves againſt the Son of God. Surely this was a bitter Ingredient in Chriſt's Cup.

6. The wrath of God himſelf; this, above all, was the moſt bitter Dreg; it lay in the bottom, and Chriſt muſt drink it alſo: Oh! the Lord hath afflicted Lam. 1. 12. me in the day of his fierce anger; God afflicts ſome in mercy, and ſome in anger; this was in his anger; and yet in his anger God is not like to all; ſome he afflicts in his more gentle and mild, others in his fierce anger; this was in the very fierceneſs of his Anger. It is agreed upon by all Divines, that now Chriſt ſaw himſelf bearing the ſins of all Believers, and ſtanding before the judgment-ſeat of God; to this end are thoſe words, Now is the judgment of this John 12. 31. World, and the Prince of this World ſhall be caſt out. Now is the judgment of this World, q. d. Now I ſee God ſitting in judgment upon the World; and as a right Repreſentative of all the World of Believers, here I ſtand before his Tribunal, ready to undergo all the puniſhments due to them for their ſins: why, there is no other way to ſave their ſouls, and to ſatisfie juſtice, but that the fire of thy indignation ſhould Nahum 1. 6. kindle againſt me; q. d. O! I know it is a fearſul thing to fall into the hands of the living God: Oh! I know God is a conſuming fire; who can ſtand before his indignation? and who can abide in the fierceneſs of his anger? his fury is poured out like fire, and the rocks are thrown down by him: But for this end came I into the World; O my Father, I will drink this Cup; lo here an open Breaſt; come, prepare the Armory of thy wrath and herein ſhoot all the Arrows of revenge —— And yet, O my Father, let me not be oppreſſed, ſubverted, or ſwallowed up by thy wrath; let not thy diſpleaſure continue longer than my patience or obedience can indure; there is in me fleſh and blood in reſpect of my humanity, and my fleſh trembleth for fear of thee; I am afraid of thy judgments: Oh! if it be poſſible, if it be poſſible, let this Cup paſs form me.

Sect. 5. Of the Dolours and Agonies that Chriſt there ſuffered.

2. Chriſt's Paſſion in the Garden was either before, or at his apprehenſion; his Paſſion before is declared, 1. By his ſorrow. 2. By his Sweat.

1. For his ſorrow; The Evangeliſts diverſly re- Mat. 26 37. late it; He began to be ſorrowful, and very heavy, ſaith Matthew: He began to be ſore amazed, and to be very heavy, Mar. 14. 33. ſaith Mark: And being in an Agony, he prayed more earneſtly, Luke 22. 44. ſaith Luke: Now is my Soul troubled, and what ſhall I ſay? Father, ſave me from this hour; but for John 12. 27. this Cauſe came I unto this hour ſaith John. All avow this ſorrow to be great, and ſo it is con- Matt. 26. 38. feſſed by Chriſt himſelf: Then ſaith he unto them, My ſoul is exceeding ſorrowful, even unto death. Ah Chriſti- Prov. 18. 14. ans! who can ſpeak out this ſorrow? The ſpirit of a man will ſuſtain his infirmity, but a wounded ſpirit who can bear? Chrſt's Soul is ſorrowful; or if that be too flat, his ſoul is ſorrowful, exceeding ſorrowful; or if that language be too low, his ſoul is exceeding ſorrowful, even unto death; not only extenſively, ſuch as muſt continue for the ſpace of ſeventeen or eighteen hours, even until death it ſelf ſhould finiſh it; but alſo intenſively, ſuch, and ſo great, as that which is uſed to be at the very point of death; and ſuch as were able to bring death it ſelf, had not Chriſt been reſerved to a greater and an heavier puniſhment. Of this ſorrow is that eſpecially ſpoken, Conſider, and behold, if ever there were ſorrow like unto my ſorrow: Many a ſad and ſorrowful ſoul hath, no queſtion, been in the World; but the like ſorrow to this, was never ſince the Creation: The very terms of the Evangeliſts ſpeak no leſs; he was ſorrowful and heavy, ſaith one; amazed and very heavy, ſaid another: in an Agony, ſaith a third: in a ſoul trouble, ſaith a fourth. Surely the bodily torments of the Croſs were inferior to this Agony of his Soul; the pain of the Body, is the body of pain: Oh but the very ſoul of Sorrow and pain, is the Soul's ſorrow, and the Soul's pain. It was a Sorrow unſpeakable, and therefore I muſt leave it, as not being able to utter it.

Luke 22. 44. 2. For his Sweat; Luke only relates it: And his ſweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground. In the words I obſerve a Clymax. 1. His ſweat was as it were blood. Ethymius, and Theophilact interpret thoſe words as only a ſimilitude, or figurative Hyperbole; an uſual kind of ſpeech to call a vehement Sweat, a bloody Sweat: as he that weeps bitterly, is ſaid to weep tears of blood. Auguſtine, Jerome, Epiphanius, Athanaſius, Irenæus, and others, from the beginning of the Church, underſtand it in a literal ſenſe, and believe it was truly, and properly a Bloody Sweat; nor is the Objection conſiderable, that it was ſicut guttæ ſanguinis, as it were drops of blood: for if the Holy Ghoſt had only intended that ſicut for a ſimilitude or Hyperbole, he would rather have expreſſed it, as it were drops of water, than as it were drops of blood. We all know that ſweat is more like to water than to blood: Beſides, a ſicut, in Scripture-phraſe, doth not always denote a ſimilitude, but ſometimes the very thing it ſelf, according to the verity of it: Thus John 1.14 we behold his glory, the glory, as it were, of the Luke 24. 11. only begotten Son of the Father. —— and their words ſeemed to them as it were idle tales, and they believed them not. The words in the Original, ὡς, ὡσεὶ, are the ſame; here is the firſt ſtep of this Clymax, his Sweat was a wonderful Sweat, not a Sweat of Water, but of red gore-blood.

2. Great drops of blood, θρόμβοι αἵματος. There is ſudor diophoreticus, a thin faint Sweat, and ſudor grumoſus, a thick, concrete, and clotted Sweat; in this bloody Sweat of Chriſt, it came not from him in ſmall dews, but in great drops; they were drops, and great drops of Blood, craſſie and thick drops; and hence it is concluded as preternatural; for tho much may be Ariſt l. 3. de hiſt. anim c. 29 ſaid for ſweating Blood in a courſe of nature, Ariſtotle affirms it, and Auguſtine grants that he knew a man that could ſweat blood even when he pleaſed; in faint bodies Aug. l 14. de Civ. Dei, c. 24. a ſubtile thin Blood, like Sweat, may paſs through the pores of the Skin; but that through the ſame pores, craſs, thick, and great drops of Blood ſhould iſſue out, it was not, it could not be without a Miracle: Some call them grumes, others globes of blood; certainly the drops are great, ſo great, as if they had ſtarted through his skin to outrun the ſtreams and rivers of his Croſs.

3. Here is yet another clymax, in that theſe great drops of Blood did only diſtillare, drop out; but decurrere, run a ſtream down ſo faſt, as if they had iſſued out of moſt deadly wounds; they were great drops of blood falling down to the ground; here's magnitude and multitude; great drops, and thoſe ſo many, ſo plenteous, as that they went through his apparel and all, ſtreaming down to the ground: Now was it that his Garments were died with Crimſon red: that of the Prophet, tho ſpoken in another ſenſe, yet in ſome reſpect may be applied to this: Wherefore art thou red in thine apparel? and thy garments like him that treadeth the Wine-fat? Oh what a ſight was here! His Head and Members are all on a bloody Swear, his Sweat trickles down, and bedecks his Garments, which ſtood like a new firmament ſtudded with ſtars, portending an approaching ſtorm: nor ſtays it there, but it falls down to the ground: Oh happy Garden watered with ſuch tears of blood! how much better are theſe rivers than Abana and Pharphar, rivers of Damaſcus; yea, than all the waters of Iſrael; yea, than all thoſe Rivers that water the Garden of Eden? ——

1. This may inform us of the weight and burden Uſe. of ſin, that thus preſſeth Chriſt under it till he ſweat and bleed: when the firſt Adam had committed the firſt ſin, this was the penalty, in the ſweat of thy face Gen. 3. 19. ſhall thou eat thy bread; but now the ſecond Adam takes upon him all the Sins of all Believers in the World; he ſweats not only in his face, but in all his Body. O then, how was that face disfigured, when it ſtood all on drops, and thoſe drops not of a watery Sweat, but of a gore Blood? We ſee in other men, that when they are diſquieted with fear or grief, the blood uſually runs to the heart; indeed that is the principal member, and therefore, leaving the other parts, it goes thither, as of choice, to comfort that; but our Sweet Saviour contrariwiſe (becauſe he would ſuffer without any manner of comfort) he denies to himſelf this common relief of nature; all the Powers of our Souls, and parts of our Bodies were ſtained with ſin, and therefore he ſweats Blood from every part; we ſin, and and our eyes will ſcarce drop a tear for ſin; but his eyes, and ears, and head, and hands, and feet, and heart, and all run rivers of tears of blood for us, even for our ſins. ——Let Jeſuits and Friers in meditating of Chriſt's ſufferings, cry out againſt the Jews; in this bloody ſweat of Chriſt I ſee another uſe; alas! here's no Jew, no Judas, no Herod, no Pilate, no Scribe, no Phariſees; here's no tormentors to whip him; no Soldiers to crown his head with Thorns, here's neither Nails, nor Spear to fetch his blood out of his Body; how comes it then to paſs? Is there any natural cauſe? ah, no: the night is cold, which naturally draws blood inwards; in the open air he lies grovelling on the ground, aud there he ſweats, and 2 Sam. 12. 5. bleeds. O my heart! who hath done this deed? As the Lord liveth, the man that hath done this thing, ſhall ſurely die. So ſaid David, when Nathan replyed upon him, thou art the Man. O my heart! my ſinful heart! V. 7. O my ſinful, deceitful, abominable heart! thou art the Murderer; thy ſins ſate upon the heart of Chriſt, as heavy as a mountain of Lead or Iron; when none was near, but a few dull, heavy, ſleepy Diſciples; then all the ſins of Believers (and amongſt them, thy ſins) fell upon the ſoul of Chriſt, as ſo many murtherers, and ſqueezed blood, and made him cry out, My ſoul is heavy, heavy unto death. Go thy ways now, and weep with Peter, and ſay with David, I have ſinned againſt V. 13. thee, Lord. O how ſhould theſe eyes of mine look upon Chriſt thus ſweating, bleeding, ſtreaming out blood, clods of blood, great drops of blood, from all the parts and members of his Body, but I muſt mourn Zech. 12. 10. over him, as one that mourneth for his only ſon; but I muſt be in bitterneſs, as one that is in bitterneſs for his firſt born.

2. This may inform us of the extraordinary love of Chriſt. It is ſaid of the Pelican that when her young ones are ſtruck with the tail of ſome poyſonous Serpent, ſhe preſently ſtrikes her breaſt with her Beak or Bill, and ſo lets out her own blood, as a Medicine for them that they may ſuck and live; even ſo Chrſt ſeeing us ſtruck with the poyſon of ſin, he is impatient of delay, he would not ſtay till the Jews let him blood with their Whips, and Thorns, and Nails; I have a Luke 12. 52. Baptiſm to be baptized with (ſaith Chriſt) and how am I ſtraightned till it be accompliſhed? He is big with love, and therefore he opens all his pores of his own accord, he lets blood guſh out from every part, and thereof he makes a precious Balſom to cure our wounds. O! the love of Chriſt! As Elihu could ſometimes ſay, Behold, my belly is as wine which hath no vent, it is ready to Job. 32. 19 burſt like new Bottles; ſo the heart of Chriſt was full, even full of love, ſo full that it could not hold, but it burſt out thro' every part and member of his body in a bloody ſweat. I will not ſay, but that every drop of Chriſt's Blood was very precious, and of ſufficient value to ſave a World; but certainly, that blood which was not forc'd by Whips, or Thorns, or Spear, is to be had in ſingular honour; as the Myrhre, that by inciſion of the Tree, flows out, is very precious; yet that which drops out of its own accord, is accounted as the firſt and choice; and as the Balſome, which way ſoever it comes, is ſweet; yet that which falls of its own accord is held the moſt pure and odoriferous: to this Eccluſ.24. 15. alludes that Apocryphal-ſaying in Eccleſiaſticus, I gave a ſweet ſmell like Cinamon, and I yeilded a pleaſant odour, like the beſt Myrrh: The vulgar tranſlates it thus Quaſi Libanus non inciſus vaporavi; as the Myrrh-tree that is not cut, I evaporated; as if Chriſt ſhould have ſaid, Without any lanching, cutting, pruning, out of meer love I poured out my blood upon the earth; this is certain, at this time, no manner of violence was offered him in body, no man touched him, or came near him: in a cold night (for they were fain to have a fire within doors) lying abroad in the air, and upon cold earth, he caſts himſelf into a Sweat of Blood: ſurely love is hot; he had a fire in his breaſt that melts him into this bloody ſweat; O wonderful Love!

3. This may inform us of the Deſign of Chriſt Bern. Serm in Dom.palm. in theſe very ſufferings: Chriſt weeps (ſaith Bernard) not only in his eyes, but in all his members, that with the tears of his body, he might waſh and purifie his body which is the Church: or Chriſt weeps blood, that he might give us a ſign of the enemies ruine. Sweat in ſickneſs, is as a Criſis, or promiſing ſign, that nature with all her force hath ſtrove againſt the peccant humour, and hath now overcome it; ſo this Bloody ſweat is a bleſſed Criſis, or argument of ſin decaying, and that the Lamb hath over thrown the Lion. As Joh.12.31 32. Chriſt ſometimes ſaid; Now is the Judgment of this World, now ſhall the Prince of this World be caſt out; and I, if I be lifted up from the Earth, ~~and~~ will draw all men unto me.

Thus far of Chriſt's Paſſion before his Apprehenſion. And now we may ſuppoſe it about midnight, the very time which Chriſt called the Luke 22. 52. hour, and power of darkneſs: what followed from twelve till three at night, we ſhall diſcover in the next Secttion Sect. 6. Of Judas's Treaſon, Chriſt's Apprehenſion, binding and leading unto Annas.

BY this time the Traitor Judas was arrived at Gethſemani, and being near the Garden door, Jeſus goes to his Diſciples, and calls them from their ſleep: by an Irony (as ſome think) he bids them ſleep on now, and take their reſt; meaning if they could, for danger, that now was near; but withal he adds, Matt.26. 45, 46. Behold the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of ſinners; riſe, let us be going, behold he is at hand that doth betray me. That it might appear he undertook his ſufferings with choice and free election, he not only refuſed to fly, but he calls his Apoſtles to riſe, that they might meet his Murderers. And now they come with Swords and Staves; or as Matt. 26. 47. John 18.3. John 18. 12, 13. John adds, with Lanthorns and Torches, and (Judas going before them, and drawing near unto Jeſus to kiſs him) they took him, and bound him, and led him away to Annas firſt.

In this Period I ſhall obſerve, 1, Judas's Treaſon. 2. Chriſt's Apprehenſion. 3. Chriſt's Binding. 4. Chriſt's Leading to Annas, one of the Cheif Prieſts, as to his ſtrſt Station.

1. Judas's Treaſon: Luke 22. 47. And while he yet ſpake, behold a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jeſus to kiſs him. This Traytor is not a Diſciple only, but an Apoſtle, not one of the Seventy, but one of the Twelve. Auguſtine ſpeaks of many Offices of Love that Chriſt had done to Judas in eſpecial manner; he had called him to be an Apoſtle, made him his Friend, his Familiar, cauſed him to eat of his Bread, ſit at his Table, and to dip his Hand in the Diſh with him; yea, if his Tradition be true, Jeſus had delivered Judas often Aug.Serm. 28. ad fratres. from Death, and for his ſake healed his Father of a Palſy, and cured his Mother of a Leproſy: and next to Peter, honoured him above all other his Apoſtles. Of this we are ſure, that he kiſſed him, and waſhed his Feet, and made him his Treaſurer, and his Almoner; and that now Judas ſhould betray Chriſt: O! how doth this add to the Sufferings of Chriſt, and to the Sin of Judas? Behold a multitude, and Judas in the front: He went before them, tam pedibus quam moribus? in his Preſence, and in his Malice. The Evangeliſt gives the reaſon of this, that he might have the better opportunity to Kiſs him, this was the ſign he gave the Rout; Whomſoever I ſhall Kiſs, that is he, lay hold on him; he begins War with a Kiſs, and breaks the peace of his Lord by a Symbol of Kindneſs: Jeſus takes this ill; What, Judas! betrayeſt thou the Son of Luke 22. 48. Man with a Kiſs? q.d. What, doſt thou make the Seal of Love, the Sign of Treachery; What! muſt a Kiſs of thy Mouth be the Key of Treaſon? O what a friendly reproot is here. By way of Uſe.

Uſe. Utinam Judas ſolus ſic peccaſſet. Chryſ. It were well for the World (ſaith Chryſoſtome) eſpecicially for the Children of God, that Judas were alone in this Tranſgreſſion, that there were no more perfidious, treacherous Perſons in it beſides himſelf. But Oh! how full is the World of ſuch Miſcreants? There was never yet an Abel, but he had a Cain to murther him; never yet a Moſes, but he had a Jannes and Jambres to reſiſt him; never yet a Joſeph, but he had unkind Brothers to envy him; never yet a Sampſon, but he had a Delilah to betray him; never yet a David, but he had an Abitophel to hurt him; never yet a Paul, but there was an Alexander to do him much Evil; Nay, it is well, if in every Aſſembly we meet not with Judas: In Civil Affairs, how many are thre that Live, and make Gain by Lying, Swearing, Cheating, Cozening, Selling away Chriſt and their own Souls, for a leſſer matter than thirty pieces of Silver? and in Religious Affairs, how many ſecure and drowſy Profeſſors have we amongſt us, that ſalute Chriſt both by hearing the Word, and receiving the Seals, and yet in their Lives and Converſations they deny Chriſt? They honour God with their lips, but their hearts are far away from him. Matth.26. 50.

2. For Chriſt's Apprehenſion; then came they, and laid hands on Jeſus, and took him. They apprehended him whom the World cannot comprehend; and yet before they took him, he himſelf begins the Inquiry, and leads them into their Errand; he tells them that he was Jeſus of Nazareth, whom they ſought: this was but a Breath, a meek and gentle word; yet had it greater ſtrength in it than the Eaſtern wind, or the Voice of Thunder: for God was in that ſtill Voice, and it ſtruck them down to the Ground. O the Power of Chriſt! they come to him with Clubs, and Staves, and Swords, and he goes no more, but lets a word fly out of his Mouth, and preſently they ſtagger, run backward, and fall to the Ground. Oh, Joh. 18.6. if we cannot bear a ſoft Anſwer of the Merciful God, how dare we ſo provoke, as we do, the Wrath of the Almighty Judge? And yet he ſuffers them to riſe again, and they ſtill perſiſt in their Inquiry after him; he tells them once more, I am he; he offers himſelf, he is ready, and deſirous to be Sacrificed; only he ſets them their Bounds, and therefore he ſecures this Apoſtles to be Witneſſes of his Sufferings: In his Work of Redemption, no man muſt have an active ſhare beſides himſelf; he alone was to tread the Wine-Preſs: If therefore ye ſeek me, (ſaith Chriſt) Joh. 18.8. let theſe go their way; thus he permits himſelf to be taken, but not his Diſciples.

And now they have his leave, Oh, with what fierce and cruel Countenances, with what menacing and threatning Looks, with what malicious and ſpightful Minds, do they invade and aſſault our Saviour? they encompaſs him round; then they lay their wicked and violent Hands upon him. In the Original, ἐπέβαλον ſignifies a violent taking. One ſpeaks the manner of his Apprehenſion in theſe words, * Some of them lay hold on his Garments, others on the Hair of his Head: ſome pluck him by the Beard, others ſtruck him with their impious Fiſts, and being enraged, that with a Word he had thrown them backwards on the Ground, they therefore throw him on his Back, and baſely tread him under their dirty Feet. Another Author gives it thus: † As a roaring, ramping Lyon draws along the Earth his Prey, and tears it, and pulls: ſo they haled Chriſt all along the Earth, ſpitting, buffetting, pulling him by the Hair. Another in like manner thus: ∴ They all ruſh violently upon him, they fling him to the Ground, they kick him, tear him, ſpurn him, pull of the Hair, both off his Head and Beard. Of every of theſe paſſages we find Scripture full: Many Bulls have compaſſed me, ſtrong Bulls of Baſhan have beſet me round, they gaped upon me with their mouths as a ravening and roaring Lyon.

* Quidam apprehendebant veſtes ejus alii mittebant manus in capillos capitis, &c. Homil. Joh. Carthag. Hiſpan.

Pſal. 22. 12, 13.

Uſe. We are apt to cry out on Judas and the Jews, and we think, Oh if we had been in their ſtead, we ſhould never have done thus: but lay aſide a while thoſe Inſtruments, and look we at the principal Cauſe: had we not an hand in all theſe Actings? Did not we conſpire his Death, and Apprehenſion in reference to it? Oh my Sins! my Sins! theſe were the Band, the Captain, and the Officers: theſe were the Multitude, a Multitude indeed, if I ſhould tell them, I might tell a thouſand, and yet not tell one of a thouſand; theſe were the Soldiers that beſet him round, the Bulls that compaſſed him about, the roaring Lyons that gaped upon him with their Mouths; O my heart, why ſhould thou riſe up againſt the Jews, when thou findeſt the Traytor, and the whole rout of Officers in thy ſelf? Oh that thou wouldeſt turn the Edg of thy Deteſtation into its right Stream and Channel! Oh that thou wouldſt remember thy own ways, and all thy doings wherein thou haſt been defiled; and that thou would remember thy ſelf in thy own ſight for all the evils that thou haſt committed! Ezek. 20. 43.

3. For Chriſt's binding, the Evangeliſt tells us, That the Band, and the Captain, and the Officers of the Jews took Jeſus, and bound him, ἔδησαν they bound his hands with Cords; a Type of this was Sampſon, whom Delilah bound with Ropes; ſo they bound him with Ropes or Cords, foreſhewing hereby that he muſt dye, they never uſing to bind any with Ropes or Cords, but thoſe whom undoubtedly they purpoſed to Crucify: Some add the Circumſtances of this Binding, that they bound him with three Cords, and that with ſuch violence that they cauſed Blood to ſtart out of his tender hands; certainly they wanted no Malice, and now they wanted no power, for the Lord had given himſelf into their Hands. Binding argues baſeneſs: It is ſtoried of Alexander, that when ſome Arrow that was ſhot into him, was to be drawn out, his Phyſitians adviſed to bind him; for that the leaſt motion (as they ſaid) would do him hurt; but he anſwered, * Kings were not fit to be bound, the power of a King was over free and ſafe: And David in his Lamentation over Abner, ſaid, Died Abner as a fool dieth? thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put in fetters, 2 Sam. 2. 33, 34. Fools and Slaves were accuſtomed to be bound, and ſo were Thieves; they that open their hands to receive others goods, it is fit their hands ſhould be bound, and tied up; but is our Saviour numbred amongſt any of theſe? O yes! In that ſame hour, ſaid Jeſus to the multitude, are ye come out as againſt a Thief, with Swords and Staves? he made himſelf of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a Servant: O wonderful Condeſcention of Chriſt! O admirable Exinanition! he that was eminently Juſt, is reputed a Thief; he that was equal with God, is become a Servant; he that was Stronger than Sampſon, and could have broken his Cords from off his Arms like a Thrid, he is bound with Cords, and as a poor Lamb, he continues bound for the Slaughter; and thus began our Liberty and Redemption, from Slavery, and Sin, and Death, and Curſing.

Matth. 26. 55. Phil. 2. 7.

But beſides theſe Cords, the word ἔδησαν, ſignifies a binding with Chains, Mark 5. 3, 4. And ſome are of opinnion, that they ſhackled both his hands and feet, pedicis & catenis vinctus, Mark 5. 4. And others ſay that they put about his Neck † a Chain of Iron; and it is not altogether improbable but they might be as cruel to the Maſter, as to his Servants: I cannot think they were ſo enraged againſt Peter, as they were againſt Chriſt; and yet they laid on him two Chains, Acts 12 6. Nor can I think they were ſo enraged againſt Paul, as they were againſt Jeſus; and yet the chief Captain took him, and commanded him to be bound with two Chains. And that this might be their dealing with Chriſt, Judas, by his Counſel ſeems to ſpeak; hold him faſt——take him and lead him away ſafely, q. d. make him ſure, that he eſcape not out of your hands; he hath deceived you often, and therefore Chain him with an Iron Chain, that will be ſure to hold. I cannot paſs this without ſome word to our ſelves.

Acts 21. 33. Matth. 26. 48. Mark 14. 44.

Uſe. Chriſt undergoes this reſtraint, that all ſorts of Perſecution might be ſanctified to us by his Suſception. Again, Chriſt was faſter bound with his Cords of Love, than with Iron-fettters; his Love was ſtrong as Death; it overcame him who is Invincible, and bound him who is Omnipotent; the Jews Cords where but the Symbols and Figures; but the dear Love, the tender Bowels of Jeſus Chriſt were the Morals, and things ſignified: Again, Chriſt was bound that we might be free; the Cords of Chriſt were ſo full of Virtue, that they looſed the Chains of our Sins, and tied the hands of Gods Juſtice, which were ſtretched out againſt us for our Sins. Again, he was bound for us, that ſo he might bind us to himſelf. I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of Love. Hoſ. 11. 4. A ſtrange thing it was, to ſee the King bound for the Thieves offence; but ſuch was Chriſt's Love, that he might draw ſinful mankind to the Love of him again. Laſtly, one good Leſſon we may learn from wicked Judas; take him and lead him away ſafely:——hold him faſt. Come Chriſtians! here's good Counſel from a Judas; like another Caiaphas; he Propheſies he knows not what; take him, and lead him away, and hold him faſt. It is of neceſſity that thoſe which ſpiritually ſeek after Chriſt, ſhould take him by Faith, and hold him faſt by Love: I will riſe now, (ſaith the Spouſe) I will ſeek him whom my ſoul loveth; and anon, I found him whom my ſoul loveth, I held him, and would not let him go, until I had brought him into my Mothers Houſe, into the Chamber of her that conceived me. Cant. 3. 2, 3. We muſt ariſe out of the Bed of Sin, we muſt ſeek Chriſt in the uſe of Ordinances, and here if we find him, we muſt take him, lay hold on him by the hands of Faith, and not let him go; but lead him ſafely until we have brought him into our Mothers Houſe, into the Aſſemblies of his People; or if you will, until we have brought him into our Souls, where he may Sup with us, and we with him.

4. For his leading to Annas, John records it that they led him to Annas firſt, for he was Father-in law to Caiaphas, Joh. 18. 13.

Caiaphas, who was the high Prieſt that ſame year. 1. They led him away; ἀπήγαγον. it refers to the place were they led him; the Garden was the terminus á quo; there they apprehended him, and thence they led him away; but the word Ἀπάγω is ſomething more than meerly abduco; ſometimes it ſignifies abigo, to drive away either away, whether by force or fraud; ſometimes rapio ad ſupplicium, ad judicandum; to ſnatch away either to Puniſhment, or to Judgment: It is ſaid, * They drew him away by the hairs of the head, and that they led him in uncouth ways, and through the Brook Cedron, in which the ruder Soldiers plunged him, and paſſed upon him all the Affronts and Rudeneſs which an inſolent and cruel Multitude could think of. So that now again was the fulfilling of the Propheſie, He ſhall drink of the Brook in the way. Pſal. 110. 7. I dare not deliver theſe things as certain truths; only this I affirm, that they led him, ſnatcht him, haled him from the Garden back again to Jeruſalem, over the Brook and Valley called Cedron.——2. They led him firſt to Annas; why thither, is a queſtion: the cognizance of the cauſe belonged not properly to Annas, but to Caiaphas; all that can be ſaid for Annas, is, that he was chief of the Sanhedrim, and Father-in-law to Caiapas, and to the High Prieſt the next year following.

* Ecce trahebatur paſſis Prionidia virgo crinibus. Virg. Æn. 1.

Uſe. Oh when I think of Jeſus thus led away to Annas firſt; when I think of him partly going, and partly haled forwards, and forced to haſten his Grave pace; when I think of him thrown into, or plunged in the Waters of the Brook, and ſo forced to drink of the Brook Cedron in the way: when I think of him preſented by a deal of Soldiers and rude Catch-poles, to this mercenary Annas; and withal, think that I had an hand as deep as any other in theſe acts; my heart muſt either break, or I muſt proclaim it an heart of flint, and not of fleſh. Come Chriſtians, let us lay our hands upon our hearts, and cry, Oh my Pride! and Oh my Covetouſneſs! and Oh my Malice and Revenge! Oh my Unbelief! and Oh my Unthankfulneſs! and Oh my Uncharitableneſs to the needy members of Chriſt Jeſus! why theſe were the rout, theſe were they that led, and dragg'd, and drew Jeſus (as it were) by the hair of his head; theſe were they that took hold of the chain, and pulled him forwards, and ſhewed him in triumph to this bloody Annas; nay, theſe were the Judas, Jews, Annas, and all: Oh that ever I ſhould lodge within me ſuch an heart, that ſhould lodge in it ſuch ſins, ſuch betrayers, ſuch murderers of Jeſus Chriſt!

But I muſt remember my ſelf; Watchman, what of the night? Watchman, what of the night? if ye will enquire, enquire, return, come. We may now ſuppoſe it about the third hour, or the laſt watch: in the Goſpel it is called the fourth watch of the night, elſe were it is called the morning watch, which continueth till the morning. And of the Acts done in this interval of time, we are next to treat.

NOW it was that they led him from Annas to Caiaphas: aud preſently a Council is called of the High Prieſts, Scribes, and Elders; theſe were the greateſt, graveſt, learned'ſt, wiſeſt men amongſt them, and they all conſpire to Judge him, who is the great Judg both of quick and dead.—— In their proceedings, we may obſerve, 1. The captious examination of the High Prieſt. 2. The ſacrilegious ſmiting of one of the Servants. 3. The impious accuſations of the Witneſſes. 4. The Sentence of the Judges. 5. The perfidious denial of perjured Peter. 6. The ſhameful deluſion and abuſes of the baſe attendants.

1. For the captious examination of the High Prieſt: The High Prieſt then asked Jeſus, of his Diſciples, and of his Doctrine. Joh. 18. 19. 1. Of his Diſciples: what the Queſtions were, it is not expreſſed, but probably they might be ſuch as theſe: 'How many 'Diſciples he had? and where they were? and what 'was become of them? why he ſhould take upon 'him to be better guarded than others of greater 'place and calling? whether it did not ſavour of 'ſedition and diſturbance of the State, to lead about 'ſuch a Crew of Diſciples and followers after him? 'and what was the reaſon of their flight? whether 'it were not a token of their guiltineſs of ſome diſ'order, or of riotous practices? It is not for me to ſpeak how many Queries the High Prieſt might make to tempt Jeſus: but certainly he was ſifted to the Bran, examined to the full of all ſuch circuſtances as either might trap Chriſt, or in the leaſt degree advance and help forward his Condemnation: to this queſtion concerning his Diſciples, our Saviour anſwered nothing; alas, he knew the frailty of his followers, he might have ſaid, 'For my Diſciples, 'you ſee one hath betrayed me, and another will 'anon forſwear me, he ſtays but for the crowing of 'the Cock, and then you ſhall hear him curſe and 'ſwear, that he never knew me: and for all the reſt, 'a pannick fear hath ſeized upon their hearts, and 'they are fled, and have left me alone to tread the Wine-preſs. Ah no, he will not ſpeak evil of the Teachers of his people; it was grief to him, and added to his ſufferings, that all had forſaken him; once before this, many of his Diſciples went back, and walked no more with him; which occaſioned Jeſus to ſay to the twelve, will ye alſo go? why no, ſaid Peter then, Lord whither ſhall we go? thou haſt the words of Eternal Life; and we believe, and are ſure, that thou art that Chriſt the Son of the Living God. Oh Peter, what a ſtrong Faith was that? We believe, and we are ſure; but how is it now that ye have no faith? or why are ye ſo fearful, O ye of little Faith? I believe this ſate upon the heart of Chriſt, and yet he would not accuſe them, who now ſtood in their places, and was accuſed for them, and for us all; and therefore to that queſtion of his Diſciples, he anſwered nothing. Joh. 6. 67, 68, 69.

2. He asked him of his Doctrine: what his queſtions were of that, are not ſet down neither, but probably they might be ſuch as theſe: 'Who was 'his Maſter, or inſtructer in that new Doctrine he 'had lately broached? why he did ſeek to innovate, 'and alter their long practiſed and accuſtomed Rites? 'and what ground had he to bring in his own de'vices in their ſteads? as Baptiſm for Circumciſion, 'the Lords Supper for the Paſſover, himſelf and his 'Apoſtles for the high Prieſts and Levites, when nei'ther he nor moſt of them were of that Tribe? 'why he was ſo bold and ſawcy (being but three 'and thirty years of age) to declaim ſo bitterly and 'ſatyrically againſt the Phariſees, and Sadduces, and 'Scribes, and Prieſts, and Elders of the People? Much of this ſtuff he might bring out in his Interrogatories, that ſo by his queſtioning him in many things, he might trap him in ſomething to his confuſion and deſtruction.——And to this queſtion our Saviour anſwers; but Oh how wiſely! I ſpake openly to the World (ſaith he) I ever taught in the Synagogue, and in the Temple, whither the Jews always reſorted; and in ſecret have I ſaid nothing; why askeſt thou me? ask them which heard me, what I ſaid unto them; behold they know what I ſaid: q. d. I appeal to the teſtimony of the very enemies themſelves; thou ſuſpecteſt me to be a ſeditious perſon, and one that plots miſchef againſt the State in ſecret; I tell the truth, I ſpake nothing in ſecret (i. e.) nothing in the leaſt manner tending to ſedition; my Doctrine I brought with me from the boſom of my Father, John. 18. 20, 21.

Father, it is the everlaſting Goſpel, and not of yeſterday; and it contains nothing in it of Sedition, Faction, Rebellion, Treaſon; ask theſe mine Enemies, theſe who have apprehended and bound and brought me hither; they know what I ſaid, let them ſpeak if they can, wherein I have tranſgreſſed the Law.

John 18. 22.
2. For the ſtroke given Chriſt by that baſe ſervant; of the Officers which ſtood by, ſtruck Jeſus with the palm of his hand, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou the High Prieſt ſo? That holy face which was deſigned to be the object of Heaven, in the beholding of which much of the celeſtial glory doth conſiſt; that face which the Angels ſtare upon with wonder, like Infants at a bright Sun-beam, was now ſmitten by a baſe varlet in the preſence of a Judge; and howſoever the Aſſembly was full, yet not one amongſt them all reproved the fact, or ſpake a word for Chriſt: nay, in this the injury was heightned, becauſe the blow was ſaid to be given by Malchus an Idumean Slave; it was he, whoſe ear was cut off by Peter, and cured by Chriſt, and thus he requites him for his Miracle.——Amongſt all the ſufferings of Chriſt, one would think this were but little; and yet when I look into Scriptures, I find it much: Thus Jeremy, He giveth his cheeks to him that ſmiteth him, he is filled full with reproach. Thus Micah ſpeaking of Chriſt, They ſhall ſmite the Judge of Iſrael with a Rod upon the Cheek: there was in it a world of ſhame; the Apoſtle lays it down as a ſign of ſuffering and reproach, if a man ſmite you on the face. Nothing more diſgraceful (ſaith Chryſoſtom) than to be ſmitten on the Cheek; the diverſe reading of the word ſpeaks it out further; he ſtruck him with a Rod, or he ſtruck him with the palm of his hand ἐδώκε ῥάπισμα, the word ῥάπισμα, ſay ſome, refers to his ſtriking with a rod, or club, or ſhooe, or pantoffle; or as others, it refers to his ſtriking with the palm of his hand; of the two, the palm of the hand is judged more diſgraceful, than either rod, or ſhooe; and therefore in the Text we tranſlate it, with the palm of the hand he ſtruck at Jeſus, (i. e.) with open hand, with his hand * ſtretched out.

O ye Angels, how were ye ſilent? how could you contain your hands, when you ſaw his hand ſtriking at God?*——If we conſider (ſaith another) who took the blow, was not he that ſtruck him, worthy to be conſumed of fire, or to be ſwallowed up of earth, or to be given up to Satan, and thrown down into Hell? If a Subject ſhould but lift up his hand againſt the Son of an earthly Soveraign, would he not be accounted worthy of puniſhment? how much more in this caſe, when the hand is lifted up againſt the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords? whom, not only men, but the Cherubims and Seraphims, and all the Celeſtial powers above, adore and worſhip? Bernard tells us, that his hand that ſtruck Chriſt, was armed with an Iron Glove: and Vincentius affirms, that by the Blow Chriſt was felled to the earth: and Ludovicus adds, that blood guſhed out of his mouth, and that the impreſſion of the Varlet's fingers remained on Chriſt's Cheek with a tumor and wan colour. I need ſay no more of this; only one word in reference to our ſelves.

Uſe.
Come, look upon this lively and lovely picture of patience; he was ſtruck on the face, but he was never moved in his heart; notwithſtanding the abuſe, he ſhewed all mildneſs and gentleneſs towards his enemies: O what art thou that canſt not brook a word, that canſt not bear a diſtaſtful ſpeech, that canſt not put up the leaſt and ſmalleſt offence, without thy wrath and fury? O proud man? O impudent wretch! how art thou ſo ſuddenly moved at the leaſt indignity, when thou ſeeſt thy Saviour quietly ſuffer great affronts? come learn of Chriſt? if ever we mean to have a ſhare and intereſt in his ſufferings, let us conform to him in meekneſs, and patience, in gentleneſs, and lowlineſs of mind, and ſo we ſhall find reſt unto our ſouls.

3. For the Accuſation of the Witneſſes; he is falſly accuſed and charged with the things that he never knew: In his Accuſation I obſerve theſe things. 1. That they ſought falſe witneſſes; for true witneſſes they could have none: Now the cheif Prieſts and Elders, and all the Council ſought falſe witneſſes againſt Jeſus to put him ito death. They were reſolved in a former Council that he ſhould not live, but die; and now palliating their deſign with a Scheme of a Tribunal, they ſeek out for witneſſes. O wonder! who ever heard that Judges went about to enquire for falſe witneſſes, and ſuborned them to come in againſt the Priſoner at the Bar? 2. Though many falſe witneſſes came in to teſtifie againſt him, yet they found none; becauſe their witneſs did not agree together. O the injuſtice of men in bringing about the Decrees of God! the Judges ſeek out for witneſſes, the witneſſes are to ſeek for proof, thoſe proofs were to ſeek for unity and conſent, and nothing was ready for their purpoſe. 3. At laſt; after many attempts came two falſe witneſſes and ſaid, This fellow ſaid, I am able to deſtroy the Temple of God, and to build it in three Days. They accuſe him for a figurative ſpeech, a trope which they could not underſtand; which if he had effected according to the Letter, it had been ſo far from a fault, that it would have been an Argument of his power but obſerve their falſe report of the words he had ſpoken; for he ſaid not, I am able to deſtroy this Temple of God, and to build it in three days; but, deſtroy ye this Temple, and in three days I will raiſe it up: the allegation differs from the truth in theſe particulars. 1. I am able to deſtroy, ſay they; ay, but deſtroy ye, ſaith Chriſt. 2. I am able to deſtroy this Temple of God, ſay they; ay, but deſtroy ye this Temple, ſaith Chriſt; ſimply this Temple, without addition. 3. I am able to deſtroy this Temple of God, and to build it in three days ſay they; ay but deſtroy ye this Temple, and in three days I will raiſe it up, ſaith Chriſt: he ſpoke not of building an external Temple, but of raiſing up his own body, which he knew they would deſtroy. Theſe were the accuſations of the falſe witneſſes, to all which Jeſus anſwered nothing; he deſpiſed their accuſations as not worthy an anſwer; and this vexed more.——But 4. Another accuſation is brought in; Caiaphas had a reſerve, which he knew ſhould do the buſineſs in that Aſſembly; he adjured him by God, to tell him if he were the Chriſt: I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Chriſt the Son of God: The holy Jeſus being adjur'd by ſo ſacred a Name, would not now refuſe an anſwer; but he confeſſed himſelf to be the Chriſt, the Son of the living God: and this the High Prieſt was pleaſed (as the deſign was laid) to call Blaſphemy; and in token thereof, he rends his cloaths, prophetically ſignifying, that the Prieſthood ſhould be rent from himſelf.

Job. 31. 35 36.
We are taught in all this quietly to ſuffer wrong; If my adverſary ſhould write a book againſt me, ſurely I would take it upon my ſhoulder (ſaith Job) and bind it as a Crown to me; it is impoſſible, if we are Chriſt's ſervants, to live in this world without falſe accuſations: come let us take heart, and in ſome caſes, ſay not a word; ſince he that was moſt innocent, was moſt ſilent, why ſhould we be too forward in our excuſes? I know there is a time to ſpeak, as a time for ſilence; if it may tend to God's Honour and to the ſpreading of God's truth, and that right circumſtances do concur, it is then time to open our mouths, though we let in death. So did our bleſſed Saviour: O let us learn of him, and follow his ſteps!

4 For the Doom or Sentence of theſe Judges; Caiaphas prejudging all the Sanhedrim, in declaring Jeſus to have ſpoken Blaſphemy, and the fact to be notorious, Mat. 26. 66. he then asked their Votes, What think ye? and they anſwered, and ſaid, he is guilty of Death. They durſt not deny what Caiaphas had ſaid; they knew his Faction was very potent, and his malice great, and his heart was ſet upon the buſineſs, and therefore they all conſpire, and ſay, as he would have them, He is guilty of Death, Oh here is Jeſus's ſentence, which ſhould have been mine, He is guilty of Death, But this Sentence was but like ſtrong Diſpoſitions to an enraged Fever; they had no power at that time to inflict death, or ſuch a death as that of the Croſs, they only declared him apt, and worthy, and guilty of Death.

Prov. 11. 14. In the multitude of Councellors there is ſafety, ſaith Solomon; but we muſt take this in; if it be of good men, and to good purpoſes: for otherwiſe, the Meetings, Aſſemblies, and Councils of the wicked are dangerous and deadly; Pſal. 2. 2. the Kings of the earth ſet themſelves, and the Rulers take counſel together againſt the Lord, and againſt his anointed. Such Councils we had many in our times. I know not whether we may call them Councils, or ſtruma tantum Civitatis, an ulcerous bunch, raiſed by the diſorder and diſtemper of the City.

5. For Peter's denial and abjuration; while theſe things were thus acting concerning Chriſt, a ſad accident happened to his Servant Peter; at firſt a Damoſel comes to him, Mat. 26. 29. and tells him, Thou waſt with Jeſus of Galilee; and then another Maid tells the by-ſtanders, Ver. 71. this fellow was alſo with Jeſus of Nazareth: and after a while, they that ſtood by, ſpake themſelves, Ver. 73. ſurely thou art one of them, for thy ſpeech betrayeth thee, q. d. thy very Idiom declares thee to be a Galilean; thou art as Chriſt is, of the ſame Country and Sect, and therefore thou art one of his Diſciples, Peter thus ſurprized, without any time to deliberate, he ſhamefully denies his Lord: and, 1. He doth it with a Ver. 70. kind of ſubterfuge, I know not what thou ſayeſt: he Ver. 72. ſeems to elude the Accuſation with this Evaſion, I know not thy meaning, I underſtand not thy words, I skill not what thou ſayeſt. 2. At the next turn, he goes on to a licentious boldneſs, denying Chriſt with an Oath, I know not the man: and laſtly, he aggravates his ſin ſo far, that he grows to impudence, and ſo denies his Lord with curſing and ſwearing, I know not the man; here's a Lie, an Oath and a Curſe: the ſin is begun at the voice of a Woman, a ſilly Damoſel; not any of the greateſt Ladies, ſhe was only a poor ſerving-maid that kept the doors; but it grew to ripeneſs, when the Men-Servants fell upon him; now he ſwears, and vows, and curſes himſelf if he knew the Ver. 74. man. O Peter, is the man ſo vile, that thou wilt not own him! Hadſt thou not before confeſt him to be the Chriſt, the Son of the living God? and doſt thou not know him to be Man, as well as God? ſay, is not this the Man-God, God-Man that called thee, and thy brother Andrew, at the ſea of Galilee, ſaying, follow me, and I will make you fiſhers of men? Is not this he whom thou ſaweſt on Mount Tabor, ſhining more glorioully than the Sun? Is not this he whom thou ſaweſt walking on the water, and to whom thou ſaid'ſt, Mat. 14. 28. Lord if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water? How is it then that thou ſaiſt, I know not the man? Surely here's a ſad example of humane infirmity; if Peter fell ſo foully, how much more may leſſer ſtars? and yet withal, here's a bleſſed example of ſerious, thorough repentance; no ſooner the Cock crew, and Ver. 75. Chriſt gave a look on Peter, but he goes out, and weeps bitterly. The Cock was the Peacher, and the look of Jeſus was the Grace that made the Sermon effectual: O the Mercy of Chriſt! he looked back on him that had forgot himſelf; he revives his ſervant's memory, to think on his Maſter's words; he ſends him out to weep bitterly, that ſo he might reſtore him mercifully to his favour again.

Let us learn hence, to think modeſtly and ſoberly of our ſelves: Vſe. yea, let him that thinketh he ſtandeth, take heed leſt he fall! 1 Cor. 10. 12. If Peter could firſt diſſemble, and then lie, and then forſwear, and then blaſpheme and curſe, O let us not be high-minded, but fear; Rom. 11. 20. —— And in caſe we fall indeed, as Peter did, yet let us not deſpair, as Judas did: but ſtill upon our repentance let us truſt in God. When Chriſt looked on Peter, he wept bitterly: notwithſtanding our ſins are great, yet one look of Chriſt is full of virtue, and enough to melt us into tears: O let us not ſink in deſpair, but look up to him, that he may look down on us. Pliny tells us of ſome Rocks in Plin. Hiſt. Phrygia, that when the Sun doth but Shine upon them, they ſend out Drops of Water, as if they wept Tears? Peter ſignifies a Rock, and whilſt Peter perſiſted in his Sin of denying Chriſt, his Heart was hard as the Rock; but when Chriſt the Sun of Righteouſneſs looked upon him, his Heart was ſoftned, and he dropped Tears continually. Such is the Virtue of Chriſt's look, it turns the Rock into a ſtanding Water, and the Flint into a Fountain of Waters. Pſal. 114. 8. ——Laſtly, let us not decry Repentance, but rather be in the Uſe and Practice, and Exerciſe of it: Is not here a Goſpel Precedent? * Clement an Ancient Writer, of whom Paul makes mention, Phil. 4. 3. expreſſeth Peter's Repentance to have been ſo great, that in his Cheeks he made (as it were) furrows, in which, as in certain Channels, his Tears run down; the Text tells us, he wept bitterly; and Clement adds, that while he lived, as often as he heard a Cock crow, he could not but weep, and bewail his denial. David is another like Example; All the Night, ſaid he, I make my Bed to ſwim, I water my couch with my tears, Pſal. 6. 6. David makes mention of his Bed and Couch, becauſe there moſt eſpecially he had offended God: It was on his Bed that he committed Adultery; and it was in his Couch, that he deſigned and ſubſcribed with his own Hand, that Uriah muſt dye; and hence is it that he waters his Bed and Couch with his Tears; the very ſight of his Bed and Couch brings his Sin into his remembrance; as the very hearing of the crowing of the Cock, ever after awakened Peter to his task of Tears; that Repentance is a Goſpel Duty, we have ſpoken elſewhere. O take heed of decrying it! as we are often ſinning, ſo let us often repent; it concerns us near to be frequent in this Duty of bewailing Sin, and turning to God.

6. For the Abuſes and Deluſions of the baſe Attendants offered to Chriſt; the Evangeliſt tells us, Then did they ſpit in his face, and buffetted him, and others ſmote him with the palms of their hands, ſaying, Propheſy unto us, thou Chriſt, who is he that ſmote thee? Mat. 26. 27, 68. Luke 22. 65. And as Luke adds, many other things blaſphemouſly ſpake they againſt him; what thoſe many other things were, it is not diſcovered; only ſome Ancient Writers ſay, Hier. ut citat. Guliel. ſtatione tertia Chriſti patientis. that Chriſt in that Night ſuffered ſo many, and ſuch hideous things, that the whole knowledg of them is reſerved only for the laſt day of Judgment. Mallonius writes thus, After Caiaphas and the Prieſts had ſentenced Chriſt worthy of Death, they committed him to their Miniſters, Mallon. de flagellatione Chriſti, c. 6. warily to be kept till day; and they immediately threw him into the Dungeon in Caiaphas's Houſe, there they bound him to a ſtony Pillar, with his Hands bound on his Back, and then they fell upon him with their Palms and Fiſts. Others add, That the Soldiers not yet content, they threw him into a filthy dirty Puddle, where he abode for the remainder of that Night; of which the Pſalmiſt, Thou haſt laid me in the loweſt pit in darkneſs, and in the deeps; Pſal. 86.6 Pſal. 69.2. Cant.3.7 Behold the Bed which is Solomon's, or rather, which is Chriſt's; for a greater than Solomon is here: Behold the flouriſhing Bed wherein the King of Saints doth lie; ſurely a place moſt Sordid, full of Stench; his other Senſes had their Pain, and his Smell felt a loathſome Savour, in this noiſome Puddle.

But we need not borrow light from Candles, or leſſer Stars; the Scripture it ſelf is plain: Obſerve we theſe Particulars.

1. They Spit in his Face; This was accounted among the Jews a matter of great Infamy and Reproach: Num.12.14. And the Lord ſaid to Moſes, if her Father had but ſpit in her face, ſhould ſhe not be aſhamed ſeven days? We our ſelves account this a great Affront, and ſo did Job; Job 30.9, 10. I am their ſong and their by-word; they abhor me, they fly far from me, and ſpare not to ſpit in my face. Oh that the ſweet Face of Chriſt, ſo much honoured and adored in Heaven, ſhould be defiled and deformed by their ſpitting! Oh that no place ſhould be thought fit for them to void their Excrements and Drivel in, as the bleſſed Face of Jeſus Chriſt! I hid not my face (ſaith Chriſt) Iſa.50.6. from ſhame and ſpitting: I uſed no Mask to keep me fair; tho' I was fairer than the Sons of Men, I preſerved not my Beauty from their naſty Flegm, but I opened my Face, and I ſet it as a Butt for them to dart their frothy Spittle at.

2. They Buffet him; We heard before that one of the Officers ſtruck Jeſus with the Palm of his Hand; but now they Buffet him: ſome obſerve this difference betwixt ῥάπισμα & κόλαφος; the one is given with the open Hand, but the other with the Fiſt ſhut up; and thus they uſed him at this time, they ſtruck him with their Fiſts, and ſo the ſtroke was greater and more offenſive: By this means they made his Face to Swell, and to become full of Bunches all over. One gives it in thus, By theſe Blows of their Fiſts, his whole Head was Swollen, his Face became Black and Blew, and his Teeth ready to fall out of his Jaws. Very probable it is, that with the Violence of their Strokes, they made him Reel and Stagger, they made his Mouth, and Noſe, and Face to Bleed, and his Eyes to Startle in his Head.

Colaphis illi tuber totum caput, facies livida forte & excuſſi dentes.

Mark 14.65. 3. They covered his Face, Mark 14. 65. Several Reaſons are rendred for it. As, 1. That they might ſmite him more boldly, and without Shame. 2. That they might not have that object of Pity in their view; it is ſuppoſed that the very ſight of his admirable Form, ſo lamentably abuſed, would have mollified the hardeſt Heart under Heaven, and therefore they veiled and hoodwink'd that alluring, drawing Countenance. 3. That they might not ſee their own filth in his Face, however his Beauty was winning, yet they had ſo bedawbed it with their beaſtly Spitting, that they began to loath to look upon him: It was a nauſeous ſight (ſaith one) and enough to make one Spew to look upon it. But whether his Splendor, or his horror occaſioned this Veil over his Face, this is moſt certain, that it veiled not their Cruelty, but rather revealed it, and made it manifeſt to all the World.

Nauſeam ipſis ſpectatoribus fœditas illa provocabat.

4. They ſmote him with the Palms of their Hands, ſaying, Propheſy unto us, thou Chriſt, who is he that ſmote thee? To paſs away that doleful, tedious Night, they interchangeably ſport at him; firſt one, and then another gives him a ſtroke (we uſually call it a Box on the Ear) and being hoodwink'd, they bid him a-read, who it is that ſmote him. Some reckon theſe Taunts amongſt the bittereſt paſſages of his Paſſion; nothing is more miſerable, even to the greateſt Miſery, than to ſee it ſelf ſcorned of Enemies. It was our Saviour's caſe; they uſed this deſpight for their deſport; with a wanton and merry Malice they aggravate their Injury with ſcorn; q. d. Come on, thou ſayeſt thou art Chriſt the Son of the Living God, and therefore it is likely thou art Omniſcient, thou knoweſt all things; tell now, who is it that ſtrikes thee? We have blind-folded thee that thou canſt not ſee us with thy bodily Eyes, let thy Divinity a read, gueſs, tell, propheſy, who is it now that ſmote thee laſt? Who gave thee that blow? O Impiety without Example! Surely if his Patience had been leſs than Infinite, theſe very Injuries would have been greater than his Patience. In way of Application.

Uſe. 1. Conſider Chriſtians, whether we had not a hand in theſe Abuſes; for, 1. They Spit in the Face of Chriſt, who defile his Image in their Souls, who reject his holy and heavenly motions in their Hearts. —— 2. They Buffet him with their Fiſts, who perſecute Chriſt in his Members, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? It is hard for thee to kick againſt the Pricks. Luke 10.16. 3. They cover his Face, that do not readily and willingly confeſs their Sins, that extenuate their Frailties and imperfections, with counterfeit Pretexts. — 4, They mock and Scoff at Chriſt, ſcorn and contemn his Meſſengers and Miniſters; He that deſpiſeth you, deſpiſeth me ſaith Chriſt. O that we would lay theſe things to our hearts, and ſee, and obſerve wherein we ſtand guilty of theſe Sins, that we may repent.

2. Conſider Chriſtians, and read Chriſt's Love in all theſe Sufferings; O unheard of Kindneſs, and truly paternal Bowels of Pity and Compaſſion! who ever heard before of any that would be content to be Spit upon, to wipe their Filths who ſpit upon him? That would be content to be beat and buffeted, to ſave them from buffets, who were the buffeters? That would be content to be Blindfolded, that he might neither take notice of, nor ſee the Offences of them that Blindfolded him? That would be content to be made a Scorn, to ſave them from Scorn, that ſhall Scorn him? Chriſtians! you that take your Name from Chriſt, how ſhould you admire at the infiniteneſs and immenſity of this Love of Chriſt? Was it a ſmall thing that the Wiſdom of God ſhould becom the Fooliſhneſs of Men, and Scorn of Men, and Ignominy of Men, and Contempt of the World for your Sins ſake: O think of this!

And now the diſmal Night is done; what remains, but that we follow Chriſt, and obſerve him in his Sufferings the next day! the Pſalmiſt Pſal 30. 5. tells us, Sorrow may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning; only Chriſt can find none of this Joy neither morning nor evening; for after a diſmal Night, he meets with as dark a Day; what the Paſſages of the Day were, we ſhall obſerve in their ſeveral Hours.

ABout ſix in the Morning Jeſus was brought unto Pilate's Houſe; then led they Jeſus from Caiaphas unto the Judgment-Hall, and it was early. —— Joh.18.28. When the morning was come, all the chief Prieſts and Elders Mat 27. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. of the People took counſel againſt Jeſus to put him to death; and when they had bound him, and led him away, and delivered him to Pontius Pilate the Governor; then Judas which had betrayed him, hanged himſelf. O the readineſs of our Nature to Evil! When the Iſraelites would ſacrifice to the Golden-Calf, they roſe up early in the Exod. 32. 6. Morning; if God leave us to our ſelves, we are as ready to practiſe Miſchief, as the Fire is to burn without delay. But on this Circumſtance I ſhall not long ſtay; the Tranſactions of this Hour I ſhall conſider in theſe two Paſſages, Chriſt's Indictment, and Judas's fearful end.

In Chriſt's Indictment we may obſerve, 1. His Accuſation. 2. His Examination.

In his Accuſation we may obſerve, 1. Who are his Accuſers. 2. Where he was accuſed. 3. What was the matter of which they do accuſe him.

Matt. 27. 12. 1. His accuſers were the chief Prieſts and Elders of the people; the very ſame that before had judged him guilty of Death, are now his Accuſers before the Temporal Judge; but why muſt our Saviour be twice Judged? Was not the Sanhedrim, or Eccleſiaſtical Court, ſufficient to Condemn him? I anſwer,——— He is twice Judged; 1. That his innocency might more appear; true Gold often tried in the Fire, is not conſumed, but rather perfected; ſo Chriſt's Integrity, tho examined again and again, by divers Judges wholly corrupt; yet thereby it was no hurt, but made rather more illuſtrious. 2. Becauſe his firſt Judgment was in the Night, and a Sentence pronounced then was not reputed valid; it is ſaid of Exod. 18. 13. Moſes, that he judged the People from the morning unto the evening; for until Night no Judgment was protracted. 3. Becauſe ſaid the Jews, it is not lawful Joh. 18.31 for us to put any man to death. Theſe words had need of Expoſition; we know Moſes's Law preſcribed Death to the Adulterers, Idolators, Blaſphemers, Manſlayers, Sabbath-breakers; but now the Romans (ſay ſome) had come and reſtrained the Jews from the Execution of their Laws; others are of another mind; and therefore the meaning of theſe words, It is not lawful for us to put any man to Death, may be underſtood (ſay they) in a double Senſe: 1. That it was not lawful for them to put any Man to ſuch a Death, as the Death of the Croſs: Moſes's Law was Ignorant of ſuch a Death; and the words following ſeem to favour this Interpretation, That the ſaying of Joh. 18.32 Jeſus might be fulfilled, which he ſpake, ſignifying what death he ſhould dye. We read only of four ſorts of Death that were uſed among the Jews, as Strangling, Stoning, Burning, and Killing with the Sword; Crucifying was the Invention of Romans, and not of Jews. ———2. That it was not lawful for them to put any Man to Death at ſuch a time: on this day was celebrated the Jews Paſſover, which was in memory of their Deliverance out of Egypt; ſo that now they had a cuſtom to deliver ſome from Death (the caſe of Barabbas) but they could not now condemn any one to Death; hence it was, that after Herod the Jew had killed James, he proceeded farther, to take Peter; alſo yet during the days of unleavened Bread he delivers him to be kept in Priſon, intending (ſaith the Acts. 12. 14. Text) after Eaſter to bring him forth to the People. Pilate, a Gentile, was not tied to theſe Laws, and therefore they led Jeſus from Caiaphas unto the Hall of Judgment, or unto Pilate's Houſe.

2. The place of the Accuſation was at the Door of Joh. 18. 28. the Houſe; they would not go into the Judgment-Hall leſt they ſhould be defiled, but that they might eat the paſſover. See what a piece of Superſtition and groſs Hypocriſie is here! they are curious of a Ceremony, but make no ſtrain to ſhed Innocent Blood; they are preciſe about ſuch matters of the Law, as Mercy, Judgment, Fidelity, and the Love of God, they let them paſs; they honour the figurative Paſſover, but the true Paſſover they Seize upon with bloody and ſacrilegious Hands.

3. The matter of which they accuſe him. 1. That he ſeduced the People. 2. That he forbad to pay Tribute to Cæſar. 3. That he ſaid he was a King. How great, but withal, how falſe were theſe their Accuſations? For the firſt, Chriſt was ſo far from ſtirring up Seditions, that he ſtrove and endeavoured Matth. 23. 37. to gather the People into one. O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, how often would I have gathered thy Children together, even as a Hen gathers her Chickens under her Wings, and ye would not? For the ſecond inſtead of denying to pay Tribute to Cæſar, he paid it in his own particu- Matt. 17. 27. lar; take twenty pence out of the fiſhes mouth (ſaith he to Peter) and give unto them for me and thee; and give Luke 20. 25. unto Cæſar the things that are Cæſar's (ſaid he to the People) and to God, the things that are God's. For the third; inſtead of makeing himſelf a King, he profeſſed that his Kingdom is not of this World, and when they would have made him a King, inſtead Joh. 18.36 of flattering them, he flieth from them, and that into the Wilderneſs, or into a mountain himſelf alone.—— Joh. 6. 15. Thus much of the Accuſation.

2. For his Examination, Pilate was nothing moved with any of the Accuſations, ſaving only the third; and therefore letting all the reſt paſs, he asked him only, Art thou the King of the Jews? To whom Jeſus anſwe- Joh. 18.33 36. red, My Kingdom is not of this World, &c. He ſaith not, my Kingdom is not in this World; but my Kingdom is not of this World; by which Pilate knew well that Chriſt was no enemy unto Cæſar: Chriſt's Kingdom is Spiritual, his Government is in the very Hearts and Conſciences of Men, and what is this to Cæſar?— Hence Pilate uſeth a Policy to ſave Jeſus Chriſt; they tell him Chriſt was of Galilee; and therefore he takes occaſion to ſend him to Herod who was Governor of Galilee, But of that anon. Uſe.

How many Leſſons may we learn from hence; 1. Chriſt was accuſed, who can be free; The chief Prieſts and Elders of the Jews accuſed Chriſt; no wonder if thoſe that are cheif and great among us, accuſe poor Chriſtians: O, there's a perpetual Enmity between the Seed of the Woman, and the Seed of the Serpent; there is an everlaſting, irreconcilable, implacable Enmity and Antipathy between Grace and Prophaneſs, Light and Darkneſs, Chriſt and Belial: as it is reported of Tigers, that they rage when they ſmell the fragrancy of Spices; ſo it is with the wicked, who rage at the Spiritual Graces of them that are ſincere for God.

2, Chriſt's Accuſers would not go into the Judgment-Hall, leſt they ſhould be defiled; the very prophane can learn to be Superſtitious in leſſer matters; how many amongſt us will make Conſcience of outward Ceremonies (as of eating Meats, obſerving Days) but as for the weightier matters of the Law, Judgment and Mercy, they leave them undone?

3. Chriſt is moſt falſly accuſed of Sedition, Seduction, and Uſurpation; it was indeed to be wiſhed, that they who take upon them the Name of Chriſtianity, were guilteſs of ſuch Crimes; but let them look to it, who are ſuch: This, I am ſure, was Chriſt's rule and Practice; Be ſubject to every conſtitu- 1 Pet. 2. 13. tion and Authority of man, for the Lord's ſake. If any dare to reſiſt the Power that is of God, they ſhall Rom. 13.2 receive to themſelves damnation. Nor can we excuſe our ſelves, becauſe our Governours are not Godly; for all the Governours to whom Chriſt and his Apoſtles ſubmitted themſelves, and to whom all thoſe ſtrict Precepts of Duty and Obedience related in the New Teſtament, were not better (for ought I know) than Tyrants, Perſecutors, Idolators, and Heathen-Princes.

4. Chriſt is examined only of his Uſurpation: Art thou the King of the Jews? The men of this World mind only worldly things: The Apoſtle ſo deſcribes them, who mind earthly things. Phil. 3.19. Pilate regards not Chriſt's Doctrine; but he is afraid leſt he ſhould aſpire the Kingdom; and concerning this, our Saviour puts him out of doubt; My Kingdom is not of this World. As Pilate and Chriſt, ſo Worldings and Chriſtians are of differing Principles, they mind earthly things; but our Converſation (ſaith the Apoſtle) Ver. 20. is in Heaven; our Converſation, (i.e.) the Aim and ſcope of our Hearts in every Action, is only for Heaven; whatſoever we do, it ſhould ſome way or other fit us for Heaven; we ſhould ſtill be laying it for Heaven againſt the time that we ſhall come and live there; we ſhould have our Thoughts and Hearts ſet upon Heaven: ſo it is ſaid of holy Mr. Ward, that being in the midſt of a Dinner very Contemplative, and the People wondering what he was muſing about; he preſently breaks out, for ever, for ever, for ever; and tho' they endeavoured to ſtill him, yet he ſtill cryed out, for ever, for ever, for ever. Oh Eternity! to be for ever in Heaven with God and Chriſt, how ſhall this ſwallow up all other Thoughts and Aims? and eſpecially all worldly, careful, ſinful Thoughts, Aims, or Ends?

2. Pilate having diſmiſſed Jeſus, this hour is concluded with a ſad Diſaſter of wicked Judas; then Mat.27.3. Judas which betrayed him, when he ſaw that he was condemned, repented himſelf, &c. Now his Conſcience thaws, and grows ſomewhat tender; but it is like the tenderneſs of a Boyl, which is nothing elſe but a new Diſeaſe; there is a Repentance that comes too late; Eſau wept bitterly, and repented him, when the Bleſſing was gone; the five fooliſh Virgins lift up their Voices aloud, when the Gates were ſhut; and in Hell men ſhall repent to all Eternity, and ſuch a Repentance was this of Judas; about Midnight he had received his Money in the Houſe of Annas, and now betimes in the Morning he Repents his Bargain, and throws his Money back again; the end of this Tragedy was, that Judas died a miſerable Death; he periſhed by the moſt infamous Hands in the World (i. e) by his own Hands; he went and Mat.27.5. hanged himſelf. And as Luke, he fell headlong, and burſt aſunder in the midſt, and all his Bowels guſhed out. In every paſſage of his Death, we may take notice of God's Juſtice, and be afraid of Sin; it was juſt that he ſhould hang in the Air, who, for his Sin was hated both of Heaven and Earth; and that he ſhould fall down headlong, who was fallen from ſuch an height of Honour, and that the Halter ſhould ſtrangle that Throat, through which the Voice of Treaſon had ſounded; and that his Bowels ſhould be loſt, who had loſt the Bowels of all Pity, Piety, and Compaſſion; and that his Ghoſt ſhould have its paſſage out of his midſt (he burſt aſunder in the midſt) and not out of his Lips, becauſe with a kiſs of his Lips he had betrayed his Lord, our Bleſſed Jeſus.

Uſe. Here's a warning-piece to all the World; who would dye ſuch a Death for the pleaſure of a little Sin? Or who would now ſuffer for Millions of Gold, that which Judas ſuffered, and yet ſuffers in Hell, for thirty pieces of Silver? Now the Lord keep our Souls from betraying Chriſt, and from deſpairing in God's Mercy through Chriſt. Amen, Amen, I ſee one Sand is run, I muſt turn the Glaſs; now was the ſeventh Hour, and what were the paſſages of that Hour, I ſhall next relate.

Sect. 2. Of Chriſt's Miſſion to Herod, and the Tranſactions there.

Luk.23.3. ABout ſeven in the Morning, Jeſus was ſent to Herod, who himſelf alſo was at Jeruſalem at that time. The reaſon of this was, becauſe Pilate had Ver. 8. heard that Chriſt was a Galilean; and Herod being Tetrarch of Galilee, he concludes that Chriſt muſt be under his Juriſdiction: Herod was glad of the Honour done to him; for he was deſirous to ſee Chriſt of a long ſeaſon, becauſe he had heard many things of him, and he Ver. 9. hoped to have ſeen ſome Miracle done by him. That which I ſhall obſerve in this Paſſage, is,

1. Herod's queſtioning of Jeſus Chriſt. 2. Chriſt's Silence to all his Queſtions. 3. Herod's Deriſion; and Chriſt's Diſmiſſion back again to Pilate.

Luk,23.8. 1. Herod queſtioned with him in many words; what thoſe words were, are not expreſſed; only we have ſome Conjectures from Luke 23. 8. q. d. What! art thou he concerning whom my Father was ſo mocked of the Wiſe Men? And for whoſe ſake my Father ſlew all the Children that were in Bethlehem? I have heard thou haſt changed Water into Wine, and haſt multiplied Loaves, whereon ſo many thouſands fed; come, do ſomething at my requeſt, which elſewhere thou haſt done without requeſt of any; come, ſatisfie my deſire, work now but one Miracle before me, that I may be convinc'd of thy Divinity. I dare not deliver theſe words as certain Truths, becauſe of that Silence that is in Scripture; only we read that he hoped to have ſeen ſome Miracle done by him. Herod could not abide to hear his Word, and to bear his Yoke; but he was well content to ſee the Works and Miracles of Jeſus Chriſt.

2. Whatever his Queſtions were, he anſwered him Ver. 9 nothing; many reaſons are given in for this; as, 1. Becauſe he enquired only in curioſity, and with no true intent or end; concerning which, ſaith the wiſe Man, Anſwer not a fool according to his folly: And, Prov.26.4 ye ask and receive not (ſaith James) becauſe ye ask amiſs. Jam. 4.3. 2. Becauſe Chriſt had no need of Defence at all; let them go about to Apologize, that are afraid, or guilty of Death; as for Chriſt, he deſpiſeth their Accuſations by his very Silence. 3. Becauſe Herod had the year before put John the Baptiſt to Death, who was that Voice crying in the Wilderneſs; now that Voice being gone, Chriſt, the Word, will be ſilent; he will not give a Word. 4. Becauſe Herod had been ſottiſhly careleſs of Jeſus Chriſt; he lived in the place where Jeſus more eſpecially had converſed, yet never had ſeen his Perſon, or heard his Sermons. It gives us to learn thus much; that if we neglect the opportunities of Grace, and refuſe to hear the Voice of Chriſt in the time of Mercy, Chriſt may refuſe to ſpeak one word of Comfort to us in our time of need; if we, during our time ſtop our Ears, God will in his time ſtop his Mouth, and ſhut up the Springs of Grace, that we ſhall receive no Refreſhment, no Inſtruction, no Pardon, no Salvation. 5. Becauſe Chriſt was reſolved to be Obedient to his Father's Ordinance, he was reſolved to ſubmit to the Doom of Death with Patience and Silence; for this purpoſe he came into the World, that he might ſuffer in our ſtead, and for our Sins; and therefore he would not plead his own Cauſe, nor defend his own Innocency in any kind; he knew that we were guilty, tho himſelf was not.

3. This Silence they interpret for Simplicity; and ſo, 1. They deſpiſe him. And, 2. They diſmiſt him: And Herod with his Men of War ſet him at Luke 23. 11. naught, and mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and ſent him again to Pilate. They arrayed him with a white, glittering, gorgeous Rayment; the word λάμπρος, ſignifies gorgeous, bright, reſplendent, ſuch as Nobles and Kings uſed to wear: The Latins ſometimes render it, ſplendidam veſtem, and ſometimes candidam, or albam veſtem, we tranſlate it a gorgeous robe; and the Ancients call it a white robe; in imitation whereof the Baptized were wont to put on a white rayment, which they called λαμπροφρίαν; but whether it were white or no, I ſhall not controvert: The Original yeilds thus far, that it was a bright and reſplendent garment, ſuch as came newly from the fulling: Many myſteries (if it be white) are found out here; ſome ſay, this held forth the excellency or dignity of Chriſt: White colour is moſt agreeable to the higheſt God; he many times appeared in white, but never in any other colour; and the Saints in Heaven are ſaid to be cloathed in long white Robes: and Rev. 4. 4. Peers, Kings and Cæſars were uſually cloathed in White, ſaith Janſenius: Others ſay, this held forth the innocency of Chriſt, and that they were directed herein by Divine Providence, declaring plainly againſt themſelves, that Chriſt ſhould rather have been abſolved as an Innocent, than condemned as a Malefactor. But to leave theſe miſteries, the meaning of Herod was not ſo much to declare his excellency, or innocency, as his folly, or ſimplicity; certainly he accounted him for no other than a very Fool, and Ideot, a paſſing ſimple man. The Philoſophers (ſays Tertullian) drew him in their Pictures, attired by Herod, like a Fool, with long Aſſes ears, his nails plucked off, and a book in his hand, &c O marvellous madneſs! Oh the ſtrange miſtakes of men! in his life-time they

Joh. 8. 48. towards his death he is bound as a Theif, he is ſtruck in the Houſe of Caiaphas as an arrogant and ſaucy Fellow; he is accuſed before the Sanhedrim of Blaſphemy; he is brought before Pilate as a malefactor, a mover of Sedition, a Seducer, a Rebel, and as one that aſpired to the Kingdom; he is tranſmitted unto Herod as a Jugler to ſhew tricks; and now in the cloſe of all, he is accounted of Herod and his men of War, as a Fool, an Idiot, a Brute, not having the underſtanding of a man. But ſoft Herod; is Chriſt therefore a Fool, becauſe he is ſilent? and art thou wiſe, becauſe of thy many words, and many queſtions? Solomon, a wiſer man than Herod, is of another mind:
Prov. 10. In the multitude of words there wanteth not ſin; but he that
19. refraineth his lips, is wiſe. Again, He that hath know-

27, 28. a cool Spirit; even a fool, when he holdeth his peace, is accounted wiſe: and he that ſhutteth his lips is eſteemed a man of underſtanding. Ah poor Herod, conſult theſe Texts, and then tell me who is the Fool; what? thou that ſpeakeſt many words, and queſtioneſt about many things which in time will turn to thy greater condemnation, or Chriſt Jeſus that was deeply ſilent to the Worlds eternal Salvation; Paul was of another Spirit, and of another Judgment concerning Chriſt, in him was knowledge; nor is that all, in whom was wiſdom and knowledge; nor is that all, in whom were treaſures, and all treaſures of wiſdom and knowledg:
Col. 2. 3. In him are hid all the treaſures of wiſdom and knowledg; and yet that is not all neither, not only is wiſdom in him, but he is wiſdom it ſelf (for that is his name and title in the Book of Proverbs) and yet by Herod and his Courtiers he is reckoned, arrayed, and derided as a meer ſimple man.

2. They diſmiſt him; in this poſture they ſent him away again to Pilate, to all their former deriſions they added this, that now he was expoſed in ſcorn to the Boys of the Streets. Herod would not be content that he and his men of War only ſhould ſet him at naught, but he ſends him away through the more publick and eminent Streets of Jeruſalem, in his white Garment, to be ſcorned by the People; to be hooted at by idle Perſons; And now was fulfilled the Propheſie of
Lam. 3. Chriſt, I was a deriſion to all my people, and their Song
14. all the day.

Uſe. Of this let us make ſome uſe. Was the eternal Word of God, and the uncreated wiſdom of the Father reputed a fool? no wonder if we ſuffer thouſands
1 Cor. 4. of reproaches; We are made a ſpectacle unto the World,
9, 10, 13. and to angels, and to men; we are fools for Chriſt's ſake, ſaith the Apoſtle. —— We are made as the filth of the world, and are the off-ſcouring of all things unto this day. Chriſtians muſt wear the badg and livery of Jeſus Chriſt; we cannot expect to fare better than our Maſter, why then ſhould we deſpond; I never knew Chriſtians in better temper, than when they were ſtyled by the Name of Puritans, Preciſians, Hypocrites, Formaliſts, or the like.

2. Let us not judg of men and their worth by their out-ſide Garments; wiſdom may be, and often is clad in the Coat of a Fool. As beggarly Bottles oft-times hold rich Wines; ſo poor Robes contain ſometimes many precious Souls; in right judgement we ſhould look only to the mind, and ſoul, and inſide of a man, yea, to the hidden man of the heart: and for our ſelves, we ſhould look to the inward, and not to the outward adorning: men, and women eſpecially, have rules for this, Your adorning let it not be that outward adorning, of platting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel, but let it be in the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible. Oh what is it for a man to be cloathed in Gold,
blind, and naked? 3, 4.

3. Let us admire at the condeſcenſion of Chriſt, who for our ſakes came down from Heaven to teach us wiſdom; and for us, who were fools indeed, was content to be counted a fool himſelf; yea, and if need had been, would have been ready to have ſaid with David, I will yet be more vile than thus, and will be baſe 1 Sam. 6.

block, and unto the Greeks fooliſhneſs. 23.
To tell natural men (ſuch as Herod, and his men of war) that this ſame Jeſus whom they mock, and ſet at naught, is the Son of God, and Saviour of the World, they cannot believe; it is plainly evident, that not many 1 Cor. 1.

world to confound the wiſe; why this is the fruit of Chriſt's condeſcenſion, called the fooliſhneſs of God; Wiſdom it ſelf was content to be counted a fool, that thoſe who are accounted the fooliſh things of the World, might be wiſe to Salvation.

4. Let us ſearch whether Herod and his men do not keep a rendezvouz in our hearts; do not we ſet Chriſt at naught? do not we mock him, and array him in a gorgeous robe? whatſoever we do to one of the leaſt of his Saints, he tells us that we do it to himſelf, Matt. 25. 40, 45. and have we not dealt thus with his Saints? Have we not dealt thus with his Miniſters? when Eliſha was going up to Bethel, there 2 Kings 2.
came little Children out of the City, and mocked him, and 23.
ſaid unto him, go up thou bald head, go up thou bald head. A reproach of bald head, round head, given to a faithful Eliſha, or a miniſter of Chriſt, proclaims you as bad as thoſe little Children, yea, as bad as Herod, and his men of war; ſuch Herod's were a little before the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, ſome there

Lord aroſe againſt his people, till there was no remedy. O take heed of this ſin, baniſh Herod out of your hearts, or Chriſt will never lodge there; ruine without remedy will ſeize on thoſe ſouls, that Herod like, mock the Meſſengers of God; what is it but to mock the Meſſenger, the Angel of the Covenant, even Chriſt himſelf? As Herod ſent Jeſus away, and gave him a diſmiſſion out of our doors.

The hour ſtrikes again, and ſummons Chriſt and us to another ſtation: let us follow him ſtill, as Peter did when he went into the high Prieſt's Pallace, and ſate with the Servants to ſee the end. Mat. 26. 58.

Sect. 3. Of Chriſt and Barabbas compared; and of the Queſtion debated betwixt Pilate and the Jews.

ABout eight in the morning our Saviour Chriſt is returned to Pilate; who propounded to the Jews, whether they would have Jeſus or Barabbas let looſe unto them. Ye have a cuſtome (ſaith he) that John 18.
I ſhould releaſe unto you one at the Paſſover, will ye there- 39, 40.
fore that I releaſe unto you the King of the Jews? Then cryed they all again, ſaying, Not this man, but Barabbas; now Barrabbas was a Robber. It is ſuppoſed that in this paſſage Pilate endeavoured Chriſt's liberty, He knew that for envy they had delivered him, and he ſaw Mat. 27.
that Herod had ſent him back again uncondemned, 18.
and therefore now he propounds this medium to reſcue him from their malice; Whom will ye that I releaſe unto Mat. 27.
you, 17.

you, Barabbas or Jeſus, which is called Chriſt? In the proſecution of this paſſage, I ſhall obſerve, 1. Who this Barabbas was. 2. What is the difference betwixt him and Chriſt. 3. How they vote. 4. Pilate's Quære upon the vote. 5. Their anſwer to his Quære. 6. His reply unto their anſwer. 7. Their reduplication upon his reply.

For the firſt, what was this Barabbas, but a notable Priſoner? Matth. 27. 16. One that had made inſurrection, and who had committed murther in the inſurrection? Mark 15. 7. One that for a certain ſedition made in the City, and for murther was caſt into Priſon? Luke 23. 19. one that was a robber or an high-way thief? John 18 40. one that was the greateſt malefactor of his time? and muſt he be taken, and Jeſus caſt? muſt he be ſaved, and Chriſt condemned?

For the ſecond, what the difference is betwixt him and Chriſt, let us weigh them in the balance, and we may find; 1. Barabbas was a thief, and by violence took away the bread of the needy, but Chriſt was a feeder and ſupplier of their needs. 2. Barabbas was an high-way thief, wounding them that travelled by the way; but Chriſt was the good Samaritan that healed ſuch, binding up their wounds, and pouring into them Wine and Oyl. 3. Barabbas was a murtherer, and had ſlain the living; but Chriſt was the Saviour, reſtoring life unto the dead. 4. Barabbas was a ſeditious tumult-raiſer, he made a certain ſedition in Jeruſalem; but Chriſt was a loyal Tribute-payer, and his commands were, Give unto Ceſar the things that are Ceſar's. 5. Barabbas was a bloody revenger, a man of blood, that hunted after blood; but Chriſt was a meek and quiet ſpirit, and what with ſweating, binding, buffeting, bleeding, was now become almoſt a bloodleſs Redeemer: light and darkneſs have no leſs fellowſhip, Chriſt and Belial no leſs diſcord; here's a competition indeed, the author of ſedition with the Prince of peace; a murtherous mutinier, with a merciful mediator; a ſon of Belial with the Son of God. ———

For 3. their votes, they give them in thus; Not this man, but Barabbas, q. d. let us have him crucified who raiſed the dead, and him releaſed who deſtroyed the living: Joh. 18. 40 let the Saviour of the world be condemned to death, and Aug. trac. 15. in Johan. Leo. Serm. de paſſ. the ſlayer of men be releaſed from Priſon, and have is pardon. A ſtrange vote, to deſire the Wolf before the Lamb, the noxious and violent before the righteous and innocent: here was the Prophetick parable of Jotham fulfilled, The trees of the foreſt have choſen the Jud. 9. 14. bramble, and refuſed the Vine;

But there is ſomething more obſervable in this vote: the Jews had a cuſtom not to name what they held accurſed; I will not make mention of their names Pſal. 16. 5. within my lips; and ſurely this ſpeaks their ſpight, that they will not vouchſafe to ſpeak the Name of Jeſus; the cry is not thus, Not Jeſus but Barabbas; but thus, Not this man, not this fellow, but Barabbas: as if they meant firſt to murther his Name, and then his Perſon.

4. For Pilate's quære upon the vote, What ſhall I do then with Jeſus, which is called Chriſt? Pilate gives Mat. 27. 22. him his name to the full, Jeſus who is called Chriſt; his name is Jeſus Chriſt. There is more pity in a gentile Pilate, than in all the Jews; in ſome things Pilate did Juſtly, and very well; as firſt he would not condemn him before his accuſations were brought in; nor then neither before he was convicted of ſome capital crime; and becauſe he perceives that it was envy all along that drove on their deſign, he endeavours to ſave his life by balancing him with Barabbas; and now he ſees that they prefer Barabbas before Jeſus, he puts forth the queſtion, What ſhall I do then with Jeſus which is called Chriſt? q. d. I know not what to do with him, it is againſt my light to condemn him to death, who is of innocent life: I could tell what to do with Barabbas, for he is a Thief, a Mutinier, a Murtherer, a notable Malefactor; but there is no ſuch thing proved againſt Jeſus, who is called Chriſt, What then ſhall I do with him?

5. For their anſwer to this quære, And they all Matt. 27. 22. ſaid unto him, Let him be crucified. This was the firſt time that they ſpeak openly their deſign; it had long lurk'd within them that he muſt die a curſed death, and now their envy burſts, and breaks out with unanimous conſent, and cry, Let him be crucified. O wonder! muſt no other death ſtint their malice but the Croſs? Other deaths they had in practice, as the Towel, Stoning and Beheading; more favourable, and ſuitable to their Nation; and will they now pollute a Jew with a Roman death? Magna crudelitas, &c. a great cruelty; they ſought not only to Beda. kill him, but to crucifie him, that ſo he might dye a lingering death. The Croſs was a gradual and ſlow death, it ſpun out pain into a long thred, and therefore they make choice of it, as they made choice of Jeſus; let him dye, rather than Barabbas, and let him dye the death of the Croſs, rather than any other ſpeedy, quick, diſpatching death.

6. For Pilate's reply unto this anſwer, Why? Matt. 27. 23. what evil hath he done? He was loath to ſatiſie their demands, and therefore he queſtions again, What muſt he dye for? Was it meet that he ſhould condemn one to death, and eſpecially to ſuch a death, and no crime committed? Come on (ſaith Pilate) what evil hath he done? Aug. tract. 15. ſuper Job. Auguſtine upon theſe words. Ask (ſaith he) "and let them anſwer with whom he "converſed moſt, let the poſſeſſed who were freed, "the ſick and languiſhing who were healed; the "leprous that were cleanſed, the deaf that hear; the "dumb that ſpeak, the dead that were raiſed, let "them anſwer the queſtion, what evil hath he done? Sometimes the Jews themſelves could ſay, Mark. 7. 37. He hath done all things well, he maketh both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to ſpeak. Surely he hath done all things well; he ſtilled the winds, and calmed the ſeas; with the ſpittle of his mouth he cured the blind; he raiſed the dead, he prayed all night; he gave grace, and he forgave ſins; and by his death he merited for his Saints everlaſting life: Why then ſhould he dye, that hath done all things well? No wonder if Pilate object againſt theſe malicious ones, What evil hath he done?

7. For their reduplication on his reply, they cri- Ibid. ed out the more, ſaying, Let him be crucified. Inſtead of proving ſome evil agaiſt him they cried out Luke 23. 23. the more; as Luke, They were inſtant with loud voices; they made ſuch a clamour, that the earth rang with it, the cry was doubled, and redoubled, Crucifie him, Crucifie him; twice Crucifie him, as if they thought one Croſs too little for him. O inconſtant favour of men! their Anthems of Hoſanna, and Bemdictus, not long ſince joyfully ſpoken, are now turned into jarring hideous notes, Let him be crucified. And now is Pilate threatned into another opinion, Ver. 23. they require his Judgment; and the voices of them, Matt. 27. 11. and of the Chief Prieſt prevailed; ſo it follows, and when he ſaw he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, why then Barabbas is releaſed unto them, and Jeſus is delivered to be ſcourged.

Uſe.

I would not dwell too long on Pilate, the high Prieſts, and Jews, the application is the life of all.— Now then ————

1. Give me leave to look amongſt our ſelves, is there not ſome or other amongſt us that prefer Barabbas before Jeſus? O yes! thoſe that liſten to that old mutinous Murtherer in his ſeditious temptations; thoſe that reject the bleſſed motions of Gods own Spirit, in his tenders and offers of Grace; thoſe that embrace the world with its pleaſures and profits, fits, and make them their portion; all theſe chuſe Barabbas, and reject Jeſus Chriſt; little do we think that every wilful act of ſin, is a ſedition, a mutiny againſt our Souls, another Judas Galileus that ſtirs up all the paſſions of our mind againſt our Jeſus. I cannot but think what drawing, and ſoliciting of our Souls is made by virtue and vice in our paſſage towards the other world: on the one hand ſtands vice with all her falſe deceits, and flat- Wiſd. 2.6, 7. 8, 9. teries, her temptations are ſtrong, Come let us enjoy the good things that are preſent, and let us ſpeedily uſe the creatures as in youth, let us fill our ſelves with coſtly Wine and Ointments, and let no flower of the ſpring, paſs by us, let us crown our ſelves with roſe buds before they be withered, let none of us go without his part of jollity let us leave tokens of our joyfulneſs in every place, for this is our portion, and our lot is this. On the other hand ſtands Virtue, or Grace, with all the promiſes of future happineſs, ſhe points at Jeſus, and cries, Prov. 8. 11, 18, 19. O come unto Chriſt and live; Wiſdom is better than rubies, her fruit is better than Gold, yea, than fine Gold, and her revenue than choice Silver; they that love Chriſt ſhall inherit ſubſtance, and he will fill them with treaſures, even with durable riches, But Oh! how many thouſand, and ten thouſands that neglect this cry, and follow vice? What millions of men are there in the world that prefer Barabbas before Jeſus! If we proclaim it in our Pulpits that Chriſt is the Chiefeſt of ten thouſands, that he is fairer than all the Children of men, that he is the Standard-bearer, and there is none, like to him: That if you will have but Jeſus Chriſt you need no more; yet do not many of you ſay in your hearts, as Pilate here, What ſhall I do with Jeſus that is called Chriſt? or as the devils ſaid elſewhere, What have we to do with thee Jeſus thou Son of God? Nay, hath not many times the ſecret grudgings of your reluctant ſouls accounted the gracious offers of ſpeedy repentance to be but as a coming of Chriſt to torment you before your time? Why alas, what is this now but to prefer Barabbas before Jeſus? You that ſwear as the Devil bids, and as Chriſt forbids, you that prophane Sabbaths, that revel, drink to exceſs, or it may be to drunkenneſs, ſurely your vote goes along with the Jews, Not this Man but Barabbas.

2. Give me leave to look on the love and mercy of God in Chriſt; our Jeſus was not only content to take our nature upon him, but to be compared with the greateſt malefactor of thoſe times; and by publick ſentence, yea votes and voices of the People, to be pronounced a greater delinquent, and much more worthy of death than wicked B*arabbas*. O the love Levit. 14. 4, 5. 6, 7. of Chriſt! we read in Leviticus, that in the days of the cleanſing of the Leper, the Prieſt was to take two Birds (or two Sparrows) alive, and the one of them muſt be killed, and the other being kept alive, muſt only be dipt in the blood of the Bird that was ſlain, and ſo it muſt be let looſe into the open field. Barabbas, ſay ſome; but all Believers, ſay we, are that live Sparrow; and Jeſus Chriſt is the Sparrow that was ſlain; the lot fell upon him to dye for us; all our ſins were laid upon his ſoul: So that in this ſenſe Jeſus Chriſt was the greateſt ſinner in the World, yea, a greater ſinner than Barabbas himſelf, and therefore he muſt dye, and we being dipt in the Blood of Chriſt, muſt be let looſe, and ſet at liberty! Was not this love? He died that we might live; it was the voice of God as well as men, Releaſe Barabbas, every believing Barabbas, and cucifie Jeſus.

Another hour is gone, let us make ſtand for a while; and the next time we meet, we ſhall ſee farther ſufferings.

ABout nine (which the Jews call the third hour of the day) was Chriſt ſtripped, whipped, cloathed with Purple, and crowned with Thorns; in this hour his ſufferings came thick. I muſt divide them into parts, and ſpeak of them ſeverally by themſelves.

1. When Pilate ſaw how the Jews were ſet upon his death, he conſented, and delivered him firſt to be ſtripped, Then the Soldiers of the Governor took Mat. 27. 27. Jeſus into the common Hall, and gathered unto him the whole band of Soldiers, and they ſtripped him. They pulled off his Cloaths, and made him ſtand naked before them all; He that adorns the Heaven with Stars, and the Earth with Flowers, and made Coats of skins Gen 3.21. to cloath our firſt Parents in, is now himſelf ſtripped ſtark naked; I cannot but look on this as a great ſhame; it appears ſo by our firſt Parents Adam and Eve, who no ſooner had ſinned, and knew themſelves naked, but they ſowed fig leaves together, and made Gen.3.7. themſelves Aprons. If Adam was aſhamed of his nakedneſs before his own Wife (who was naked too, as well as he) what a ſhame, and bluſh was it in the face of Chriſt, when in the common Hall, in view of the whole band, or company of Soldiers, he ſtands all naked? My confuſion is continually before me, and Pſal. 44. 15. the ſhame of my face hath covered me, ſaith David in the Perſon of Chriſt. It is reported, in the Eccleſiaſtical ſtory, that when two Martyrs, aud holy Virgins (they call them Agnes and Barbara) were ſtripped ſtark naked for their execution, God pitying their great ſhame and trouble, to have their nakedneſs diſcovered, made for them a veil of light, and ſo he ſent them to a modeſt, and deſired death; but our Saviour Chriſt, who choſe all ſorts of ſhame and confuſion, that by a fulneſs of ſuffering he might expiate his Father's wrath, and conſecrate to us all kinds of ſufferings and affronts, he endured the ſhame of nakedneſs at the time of his ſcourging; ſee here a naked Chriſt, and therein ſee the mercy of Chriſt to us; he found us like the good Samaritan, when we were ſtripped, and wounded, and left half dead, and that we might be covered, he quietly ſuffered himſelf to be diveſted of his own robes; he took on him the ſtate of ſinning Adam, and became naked, that we might firſt be cloathed with Righteouſneſs, and then with Immortality; Oh! what a bleſſed uſe may we make of the very nakedneſs of Chriſt?

2. Pilate gave him to be ſcourged; this ſome think he did upon on other account, but that the Jews being ſatiated and glutted with theſe tortures, they might reſt ſatisfied, and think themſelves ſufficiently avenged, and ſo deſiſt from taking away his life. That he was ſcourged, is without controverſie, for ſo the Evangeliſt relates, Then Pilate Joh. 19.1. took Jeſus and ſcourged him: and that Pilate might give him to be ſcourged on that account, is very probable, becauſe that after the ſcourging, he brings him out to the Jews, proclaiming, I find no fault in him; and be- Ver. 6. fore his ſcourging, he ſpeaks it more expreſly, He hath done nothing worthy of death, I will therefore chaſtiſe him, Luke 23. 15, 16. and releaſe him. And it adds to this, that howſoever the cuſtome was, that thoſe that were to be crucified muſt firſt be whipped, yet if they were adjudged to dye, Hier. in Matthe-um Tom. 9. their ſtripes muſt be leſs; and if they were to be ſet at liberty, be beaten with more ſtripes; And Pilate endeavouring to preſerve his life, they ſcourged him above meaſure, even almoſt to death.

In this ſcourging of Chriſt I ſhall inſiſt on theſe two things; 1. The ſhame. 2. The pain.

1. For the ſhame, it was of ſuch infamy, that the Romans Exempted all their Citizens from it. Is it lawful

Act. 22. 25, 26. lawful for you (ſaid Paul) to ſcourge a man that is a Roman?——And when the Centurion heard that, he went, and told the chief Captain, ſaying, Take heed what thou diſt, for this man is a Roman? the Romans looked upon it as a moſt infamous puniſhment, fit only for Thieves and ſlaves, and not free-born or priviledged Romans; and the Jews themſelves would not ſuffer it above ſo many ſtripes, leſt a brother Deut. 25. 2, 3. ſhould ſeem vile unto them; If a wicked man be worthy to be beaten, that the Judge ſhall cauſe him to lye down,-- forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed, leſt if he ſhould exceed, and beat him above theſe with many ſtripes, then thy brother ſhoul ſeem vile unto thee. Whipping is ſo unworthy a puniſhment, that only Children, Bond-ſlaves, and Rogues were uſed to be corrected therewith, eſpecially if they exceeded the number of forty ſtripes; when Paul was thus uſed, he tells us, 2 Cor. 11. 24. Of the Jews five times received I forty ſtripes ſave one. Theophilact ſays they would not exceed that number, leſt Paul ſhould have become infamous, and ever after incapable of publick office, and hoping they might have regained him, they would not brand him with that note of infamy. O then it one ſtripe above forty was ſo infamous amongſt the Jews, what ſhame, what infamy was this, when ſo many ſcores, hundreds, and thouſands of ſtripes (as ſome reckon them) were laid on Jeſus Chriſt? And yet our Lord doth not diſdain to undergo them for our ſakes, he bears in his body thoſe wounds and ſtripes that we had deſerved by our ſins,

2. For the pain; this kind of puniſhment was not only infamous, but terrible; no ſooner the Soldiers had their commiſſion, but they charged and diſcharged upon him ſuch bloody blows, as if he had been the greateſt offender, and baſeſt ſlave in all the Nicep*l*. 1. c. 3. World. Nicephorus calls theſe whippers bloody Hang-men, by the fierceneſs of whoſe whipping many had dyed under their hands. 'The manner 'of their whipping is deſcribed thus; After they 'had ſtripped him, they bound him to a pillar, whi-'ther came ſix young and ſtrong Executioners, Boſq. de paſſ. Domini. pag. 840. 'Scourgers, Varlets, Hang-men (ſaith Jerome) to 'ſcourge him, and whip him while they could; 'whereof two whipped him with rods of thorns; 'and when they had wearied themſelves, other two 'whipped him whith ropes or whip-cords, tyed and 'knotted like a carters whip; and when they were 'tyred, the other two ſcourged off his very Skin 'with wires, or little chains of Iron, and thus they 'continued, till by alternate and ſucceſſive turns they 'had added ſtripe upon ſtripe, and wound upon 'wound, latter upon former, and new upon old, 'that he was all over in a gore blood. The Iſa. 53. 5 Scripture tells us, that He was wounded for our tranſgreſſions, and bruiſed for our iniquities; the chaſtiſement of our peace was laid upon him, and with his ſtripes we are healed; he was wounded, bruiſed, chaſtiſed, whipped with ſtripes; if you would know with how many ſtripes; ſome reckon them to the number of the Soldiers, Six hundred and ſixty, or a thouſand ſtripes; other reckon them according to the number of the bones, compacted in mans body, which ſay Anatomiſts are two hundred and ſixty, and Chriſt having received for every bone three ſtripes according to the triple manner of his whipping, they amounted in all to ſeven hundred and eighty ſtripes; others reckon them to five thouſand, above the forty which the Jews were commanded not to exceed in.-- And the truth is, if the whole band of Soldiers were the whippers of Chriſt (as ſome would have it) I cannot ſee but his ſtripes might be more than ſo; when the Son of an Iſraelitiſh woman blaſphemed God, the Lord ſaid to Moſes, Bring forth him that hath Lev.24.14 curſed without the camp, and let all that heard him lay their hands upon his head, and let all the congregation ſtone him; now Chriſt had ſaid before all the band, that he was the Son of God, which they called Blaſphemy; and therefore why might they not all (according to this Law) lay their hands upon him, and fall upon him, if not with ſtones (which now was turned into whipping) yet with rods, whip-cords, and little chains?

I ſhall not contend about the number of his ſtripes, but this is certain, that the ſoldiers, with violent and unrelenting hands, executed their commiſſion: they tore his tender fleſh, till the pillar and pavement were purpled with a ſhower of blood: and if we may believe Bernard, 'They plowed with their whips upon 'his back, and made long furrows, and after that 'they turned his back upon the pillar, and whipt 'his belly and his breaſt, till there was no part free from his face unto his foot. A ſcourging able to kill any man, and would have killed him, but that he was preſerved by the God-head to endure, and to ſuffer a more ſhameful death.

We may read here a Lecture of the immenſe love Uſe. of God in Chriſt to us poor Gentiles; he is therefore whipped that he might marry us to himſelf, and never reject us, or caſt us off: we read of a Law in Moſes, that if a man took a wife, and hated her, and gave occaſions of ſpeech againſt her, and brought an evil name upon her undeſervedly; that then the Elders of the City ſhould take that man and chaſtiſe him, Deut. 22. 18, 19. —— and ſhe ſhould be his wife, he might not put her away all his days. There is a great myſtery in this ceremony, for that man (ſay ſome) was Chriſt, who by his incarnation betrothed unto himſelf the Gentile Church; but he ſeems to hate her, and to give an occaſion of a ſpeech againſt her, and to bring an evil report upon her, as Into the way of the Gentiles ye Mat. 10.5. ſhall not go, and in the City of the Samaritans ye ſhall not Mat. 15. 26. enter? and it is not meet to take the Childrens bread and to caſt it unto dogs. And now he is accuſed before the Elders, now he is whipt and chaſtiſed, and commanded by his Father to take her to his wife, and not to put her away all his days. I know there is much unlikeneſs in this myſtery, for Chriſt was not whipt for calling the Church adulterous, that indeed was chaſt; but he was whipt to preſent the Church as a chaſt Virgin to his Father, that indeed was adulterous. Oh he loved the Church, and gave himſelf for Eph. 5. 25. 27. it;——that he might preſent it to himſelf a glorious Church, not having ſpot or wrinckle, or any ſuch thing, but that it ſhould be holy and without blemiſh; this was Iſa. 53. 5. the meaning of Chriſt's whipping, The chaſtiſement of our peace was upon him, and with his ſtripes are we healed. Come then, let us learn to read this love-letter ſent from Heaven in bloody characters; Chriſt is ſtripped who cloathed the Lillies of the Field; Chriſt is bound hand and foot, his hands that multiplied the Loaves; and his feet that were weary in ſeeking Iſa. 1. 6. the ſtragling ſheep: Chriſt is ſcourged all over, becauſe all over we were full of wounds, and bruiſes, and putrifying ſores, and there was no way to cure our wounds, but by his wounds; our bruiſes, but by his bruiſes; our ſores, but by his ſores; O read, and read again, Chriſt is whipped, belly, back, ſide, from his ſhoulders to the ſoles of his feet, the laſhes eating into his fleſh, and cutting his very veins, ſo that (as ſome ſay with much confidence, though I know not with what truth) the gaſhes were ſo wide that you might have ſeen his ribs, and bones, and very inwards; what, was there ever love like unto this love? had he not been God as well as man, he could never have had in his heart ſuch a love as this? O it was a divine love, it was the love of a Jeſus, a love far ſurpaſſing either the love of men, or women, or of Angels.

3. They put upon him a Purple Robe, or a Scarlet Robe. Joh. 19. 2. Mat. 27. 28 John calls it Purple, and Matthew Scarlet; howſoever ſoever ſome difference may be, yet becauſe of their likeneſs, they are put ſometimes one for another, They put upon him a Scarlet robe, it is in the Original Κλαμύδα κοκινὴν. a Scarlet Cloak, it was a looſe ſhort garment, at firſt uſed only by Kings or Emperors, and the colour of it was ſuitable to Chriſt's condition, for he was now purple all over, as well within it, as without it: his body and his garment were both of a deep dyed ſanguine Zech. 3.3. colour. Some out of Zechary, where it is ſaid that Joſhua was cloathed with filthy garments, conclude the old, ragged, thred-bare filthineſs of his robe: ſo that every thing ſhall have its office, and ſeverally ſhare in his abuſe: the colour and the manner of the garment flouts his Kingdom: the bareneſs, his outward eſtimation with the people: the raggedneſs, his late ſcattered retinue: the ſulliedneſs, his ſtained, ſpotted life, as they pretended, ſaying, He was a Friend of Publicans and Sinners—— but out of this darkneſs the Lord can bring light; he hath his myſteries wrapt up in the malice of his enemies; for both on his garment, Rev. 19. 16. and on his thigh was written a myſtery; and in this ſenſe, what other is his garment but the embleme of his humanity? and what is his ſcarlet garment, but the emblem of his wounded body? that as he Joh. 12.7. ſpake of the woman, She anointed him aforehand unto his burial: ſo Pilate in the myſtery cloaths him aforehand unto his bloody death.

Mat. 27. 29. 4. They platted a Crown of Thorns, and put it upon his head: a goodly Crown for the King of Kings, we read of many ſorts of Crowns, as of the Triumphal, Laurel, Naval, Mural, &c. but never till this did we read of a Crown of Thorns: a Crown it was to delude him, and a Crown of Thorns to torment him: in this we may read both his pain and ſhame: 1. For his pain, it boared his head, ſaith Oſorius, with Ber. Serm. de Paſſ. Dom. ſeventy and two wounds: Bernard ſpeaks of many more, mille puncturis, &c I know not what ground they have to number them: but certainly many wounds they made, and the rather may we ſay ſo, becauſe that after they had put it upon his head, Mat. 27. 30. they took a Reed and ſmote him on the head: (i. e.) they ſmote him on the head to faſten the Crown of Thorns upon him ſurer, and to imprint it deeper, till as ſome think it pierced his very Skull. 2. Nor was it only Jodg. 9.8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13.14. 15. pain, but ſhame: when Jotham put out his Parable to the men of Sechem: The Trees (ſaid he) went out on a time to anoint a King over them, and they ſaid unto the Olive-Tree, Reign thou over us; but the Olive-Tree ſaid unto them, ſhould I leave my fatneſs, wherewith by me they honoured God and Man, and to be promoted over the Trees; And the Trees ſaid unto the Fig-Tree, come thou and reign over us, but the Fig-Tree ſaid unto them, ſhould I forſake my ſweetneſs, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the Trees? Then ſaid the Trees unto the Vine, Come thou and reign over us, and the Vine ſaid unto them, ſhould I leave my Wine, which cheareth God and Man, and go to be promoted over the Trees? Then ſaid all the Trees unto the Bramble, come thou and reign over us: and the Bramble ſaid unto the Trees, If in truth ye anoint me King over you, then come and put your truſt in my ſhadow; and if not, let fire come out of the Bramble, and devour the Cedars of Lebanon. As Jotham put out this Parable in ſcorn of Abimilech, ſo the Soldiers in ſcorn put on Chriſt's head this Bramble Crown: q. d. Come, thou ſayeſt, thou art King of the Jews, and therefore we will make thee a crown of Bramble, King of Trees: by which means they proteſt againſt Chriſt as a feigned fabulous King, as if he were no fitter to be King of Jews, than the Bramble was to be King of all the Trees in the Foreſt.

Uſe. How many leſſons might we draw from hence? they put upon his head a Crown of Shame, of Death, of Torture; who came to give us a Crown of Victory, of Life, of Glory. 2. Our ſins cauſed the Earth to bring forth Thorns, and Briers, and our Saviour muſt wear them, both to take away our ſins, and in the iſſue to take away ſins curſe, Thorns, or Bryers, or whatſoever. 3. From the crown of the head to the ſole of the foot, we were full of ſin, and Chriſt accordingly muſt ſhed his Blood from head to foot: their Whips did not reach his head, their nails could not pierce it without an end of torture: but now they draw blood from it, with Thorns: the whole head is ſick, ſaith the Prophet of us: and the Iſa. 1. 5. whole head of Chriſt is bruiſed with Thorns to cure our ſickneſs. 4. Chriſt is not crowned with Thorns without a Propheſie, or a Type: here is a true Lilly among Thorns: Cant. 2.2. here he is as Iſaac's Ram tyed faſt by the head in Thorns: Gen. 33. 31. he was ever intended to be a ſacrifice, and a ranſome for our ſins, and to that purpoſe he was caught in a Thicket, he was crowned with Thorns. 5. O what a ſhame is it for any of us to crown our heads with Roſe-buds, (as the wanton worldlings could ſay) afore they were withered, to ſpend our time in Vanity, Folly, Sin, when Chriſt our Lord had ſuch a Grove of Thorns growing on his Sacred head? The Diſciple is not above his Maſter, nor the Servant above his Lord: It is enough for the diſciple that he be as his Maſter, and the Servant as his Lord: Mat. 10. 24, 25. if our Lord and Maſter was crowned with Thorns, ſurely the Members of Baruc.6.7. Chriſt ſhould not be ſoft, delicate, effeminate, wholly ſenſual, or given up to pleaſures. 6. As every bird ſitteth upon the Thorns in the Orchard, ſo let us draw near, and make our neſts in theſe bleſſed Buſhes: let us abandon all the colours of our Captains, as the World, Fleſh, and Devil: and let us keep cloſe to the Royal Standard of our King: under theſe Thorns we may find ſhelter againſt all our enemies: from theſe Thorns we may undoubtedly gather Grapes, even a vintage of ſpiritual joy and gladneſs.

Now the hour ſounds again, and calls us to go forth, and to behold King Jeſus with the Crown wherewith he was Crowned in the Day of his Eſpouſals. And this we ſhall do the next hour, Sect. 5. Of Chriſt brought forth, and ſentenced.

ABout Ten Chriſt was brought forth and ſentenced. 1. For his bringing forth, I ſhall therein obſerve theſe Particulars. As —— 1. We find Pilate bringing forth Jeſus out of the Common Hall, and ſhewing this ſad ſpectacle to all the People: Then came Jeſus forth, wearing the Crown of Thorns, and the purple robe, and Pilate ſaith unto them, Behold the Man: Joh. 19.5. he thought the very ſight of Chriſt would have moved them with compaſſion: they had laſh'd him almoſt unto death, they had moſt cruelly divided thoſe azure chanells of his guiltleſs Blood, they had cloathed him with Purple, crowned him with Thorns; and now they bring him out by the hair of the head (ſay ſome) and expoſe him to the Publick view of the ſcornful company, Pilate crying unto them, Behold the man, q. d. Behold a poor, ſilly, miſerable, diſtreſſed man: behold, I ſay, not your King, to provoke you againſt him, nor yet the Son of God, which you ſay he makes himſelf to be: but behold the man, a mean man, a worm, and no man: behold how he ſtands diſfigured with wounds, behold him weltring and panting, in a crimſon river of his own gore blood: and let this ſufficient, yea, more then ſufficient puniſhment ſuffice to ſatisfie your rage; what would you have more? if it be for malice that you are ſo violent againſt him, behold how miſerable he is: if for fear, behold how contemptible he is: As for any fault whereby he ſhould deſerve his death, I find no fault in him: he is a Lamb without ſpot, a Dove without gall: O come and behold this man, I can find no fault in him. Some Doctors affirm that while Pilate cried out behold the man, his ſervants lifted up the purple robe, that ſo all might ſee him torn, and bloody, and macerated body: he ſuppoſed his words could not ſo move their hearts, as Chriſt's wounds, and therefore ſaid he, Behold the man : as if he had ſaid again, Look on him and view him well, is he not well paid for calling himſelf King of the Jews; now ſee him ſtript, and whipt, and crowned with thorns, and ſcepter'd with a reed, anointed with ſpittle, and cloathed with purple: what would you more ?

Joh. 19. 6. 2. We find the Jews more enraged againſt Jeſus, When the cheif Prieſts and Officers ſaw him, they cried out ſaying, Crucifie him, crucifie him. The more Pilate endeavours to appeaſe them, the more were the people enraged againſt him: and therefore they cry, Ver. 15. Away with him, away with him: crucifie him, crucifie Jer. 12. 8. him. Now was fulfilled that Propheſie of Jeremy, My heritage is unto me as a Lion in the foreſt, it crieth out againſt me. The Naturaliſts report of the Lion, that when he is near to his prey, he gives out a mighty roar, whereby the poor hunted beaſt is ſo amazed and terrified, that almoſt dead with fear he falls flat on the ground, and ſo becomes the Lions prey indeed: And thus the Jews (who were the heritage of the Lord) were unto Chriſt as a Lion in the foreſt, they hunted and purſued him to his death, and being near it, they give out a mighty ſhout, that the earth rung again, Away with him, away with him, crucifie him O ye Jews, children of Iſrael, ſeed of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, is not this he concerning whom your Fa- Iſa. 64. 1. thers cried, O that thou wouldſt rend the heavens, that thou wouldſt come down, that the mountains might flow down at thy preſence ? How is it that you ſhould deſpiſe him preſent, whom they deſired abſent ? How is it that your cry and theirs ſhould be ſo contrary ? The Panther (ſay they) is of ſo ſweet a ſavour, that if he be but within the compaſs of ſcent, all the beaſts of the field run towards him, but when they ſee his ugly viſage they fly from him, and run away; ſo the Jews afar off feeling the ſweet ſavours of Chriſt's Oynt- Cant 1. 2. ments, they cried, Draw me, we will run after thee; come Lord Jeſus, come quickly; but now in his Paſſion, looking on his form, they change their note, He hath Iſa. 53. 2 no form or comelyneſs, there is no beauty that we ſhould deſire him, Away with him, away with him.

3. We find Pilate and the Jews yet debating the buſineſs; Pilate is loth to pronounce the ſentence, and the cheifeſt of the Jews provoke him to it with a threefold argument. As——

Joh. 19. 7. Ejus abſolvere. cujus eſt condere Legem 1. They had a law, and by their Law he ought to die, becauſe he made himſelf the Son of God; thus Doctors of the Law do accuſe the Author and Publiſher of the Law; but they conſider not the rule concerning Laws, He may lawfully aboliſh, who hath power to eſtabliſh; nor did they conſider that this Law concerned not himſelf, who is indeed and in truth the Son of God: the Text tells us, that Pilate hearing this argument, was the more afraid. Pilate (ſaith Cyril) was an Heathen Idolater, and ſo worſhipping many gods, he could not tell but that Chriſt might be one of them, and therefore in condemning Chriſt, he might juſtly provoke all the gods to be revenged of him. This was the meaning of Pilate's queſtion, Whence art thou ? what is thy Off-ſpring? of what Progenitors art thou ſprung ? And from thenceforth Pilate ſought to releaſe him.

2. The Jews come with another Argument, they Joh. 19 12. threaten Pilate, If thou let this man go, thou art not Cæſar's friend; a forcible reaſon, as the caſe then ſtood; it was no ſmall matter to be accuſed by ſo many audacious impudent men of high treaſon againſt Cæſar, and therefore under this obligation Pilate ſeems to bend and bow; whom the fear of Chriſt's Divinity had reſtrained, him the fear of Cæſar's frown provoked to go on to ſentence and condemnation. Oh he was more afraid of man, whoſe breath is in his noſtrils, than of God himſelf, who made the heavens, and framed Mat. 27. 24. the World. And yet before he gives ſentence, he takes water, and waſheth his hands before the multitude, ſaying, I am innocent of the blood of this juſt perſon, ſee ye to it.

3. In reference to this they engaged themſelves for him, which was their laſt argument, His blood be upon us and our children. Mat. 27. 25. q. d. act thou as Judg, let him be condemned to die, and if thou feareſt any thing, we will undergo for thee, let the vengeance of his blood be on us, and on our children for ever. Thus far of the firſt General.

2. For the ſentence it ſelf, When Pilate heard that, Joh. 19. 13. he ſate down in the judgment-ſeat, in a place that is called the Pavement, becauſe erected of ſtones; but in the Hebrew Gabbatha. —— This word ſignifies an high place, and raiſed above; it was ſo on purpoſe, that the Judges might be ſeen of men when they pronounced ſentence. And here Pilate ſitting down, he gave the doom. What was the form or manner of the ſentence, is a great queſtion amongſt Divines. Chryſoſtom is of mind, Chryſoſt. 1 Cor. Ser. ult. de Eleemoſ. that he pronounced no form at all, but only delivered Jeſus unto them to be crucified, Mark 15. 15. Joh. 19. 16. Others cannot yeild to this, for to what end (ſay they) ſhould he then ſit down upon the Judgment-ſeat ? and yet amongſt themſelves they cannot agree on a form. Anſelm gives it thus, Anſel. de Paſſ. I adjudg Jeſus of Nazareth to that ignominious and ſhameful Death of the Croſs. Vincentius thus, Vinc. de Paſſ I condemn Jeſus, ſeducing the people, blaſpheming God, and ſaying that he was Chriſt the King of the Jews, to be faſtened to the Croſs, and there to hang till he die. Many other forms are brought in by others, but that of Luke is I am ſure moſt authentick: And Pilate gave ſentence, that it ſhould be as they required: Luke 23. 24. 25. and then he delivered Jeſus to their will. Here's a ſentence indeed, a delivery of Jeſus not to his own, but to his enemies liberty; to the boundleſs bonds, and all the poſſible Tortures of their own wills and wiſhes. O unjuſt Sentence! Pſal. 27. 12. Give me not over to the will of my adverſaries, crys David; the will of malice is an endleſs wheel, it cares not how long it ſpins out pain, and therefore they cried, Crucifie him, Crucifie him, let him be crucified. Amen, (ſays Pilate) do what you pleaſe, Crucifie him, and Crucifie him as often as you will, it ſhall be as you require, Lo now I deliver him to your own will.

We cannot ſhake this tree without ſome Fruit; from this Sight of Chriſt, and Sentence of Pilate, we may learn ſome good.——

Uſe. 1. From this Sight of Chriſt, as he was preſented by Pilate to the People, we may learn Remorſe; not any of us who have crucified Chriſt by our Sins, but we are called on at this time, to behold the Man; ſuppoſe we ſaw him with our bodily Eyes; ſuppoſe we had the ſame view of Chriſt as the Jews had, where he was thus preſented; ſuppoſe we ſaw him in the very midſt of us, wearing the Crown of Thorns, and the Purple Robe, and the Cane or Reed held in his right Hand; ſuppoſe we heard the Voice of Pilate ſpeaking to us, as he did to the Jews, Behold the Man; ſuppoſe we ſaw the Purple Robe lifted up, that we might ſee all under, how his Body was torn; and that ſame Voice from Heaven ſhould come to us, ſaying, This ſame is he whom ye have buffetted, ſcourged, crowned, Acts 2. 37 crucified with your Sins: Were not this enough to prick us in our Hearts, and to make us Cry, Men and Brethren, what ſhall we do ? Oh, we look on the Inſtruments, and we cry, Fie on Pilate, fie on the Soldiers, fie on the Jews; but we look not on our Sins, ſaying, Fie on them. Could we but reallize our Sins as the principal of theſe Sufferings of Chriſt, methinks our Hearts ſhould break in very pieces: Conſider, Yeſterday in the midſt of our Markets ſo many lies were told, and ſo many Oaths were ſworn; and this day ſo ſoon as Day-light ſprang, ſo many Acts of prophaning the Lords day were committed by us; little did we think that all this while we had been ſtripping Chriſt naked, whipping Chriſt with Rods, or little Chains, cloathing Chriſt with a Purple-Scarlet Robe, platting a Crown of Thorns, and putting it on his head, ſceptring him with a Read, and ſaluting him with Scorn, Hail

Kings of the Jews. Men, Brethren, and Fathers, be not deceived, Chriſt is mocked, ſcorned, and thus abuſed by you when you Sin; your Sins thus dealt with Chriſt, and in God's Acceptation your Sins thus deal with Chriſt even unto this very Day. Never ſay, it was long ſince Chriſt was crucified, and he is now in Heaven, for by your Sins you crucifie again the Lord of Glory, you put him again to open Shame; you Strip him, and Whip him, and Torment him afreſh. Oh look on him whom you have pierced! Pilate thought that if the Jews would but ſeen the Man, Behold the Man, their Hearts would have mollified; and ſhall not I think as well of you? It is a bleſſed means to make Sin bitter, and to breed in our Hearts remorſe for Sin, if we will but hearken to this Voice of Pilate, Behold the Man.

2. From the Sentence of Pilate, that Chriſt ſhould be Crucified, as the Jews required, we may learn the deceitfulneſs of our hearts, in making ſelf the end, and aim of our particular Callings. Pilate as Judge ſhould have glorified God in doing Juſtice; but when he hears the Jews cry, If thou let him go, thou art not Cæſar's Friend, he then looks to himſelf, and his own Intereſts. Judges can have their ends in the very place of Judicature: Nay, is not this the very common Sin in Magiſtrates, Miniſters, Tradeſmen, of all ſorts of Callings; come, what is it you aim at in your ſeveral Places? Is it not to be Great, and Rich, and High, and Honourable? Say truly, is it in your Hearts to ſay, That by this Calling my chief aim is to glorifie God, and to ſerve my Generation with all Faithfulneſs; and theſe two ends I prefer before all worldly advantages whatſoever? O then, what a bleſſed Reformation would be amongſt us? If it be not thus, what are you but as ſo many Pilates, that if you were but threatned into a Sentence, you would rather Condemn Chriſt than you ſelves of Enmity againſt Cæſar; ſuch would be the cry, Let Chriſt be crucified, and ſelf advanced.

Much more might be ſaid, but the hour ſtrikes again; Pilate is now riſen, the Court diſſolved, and Jeſus is delivered into the Hands of the Jews for Execution. How that went on, the next hour will ſpeak; only God prepare your hearts to hear devoutly, and to conſider ſeriouſly, what Jeſus the great Saviour of the World hath ſuffered for you.

ABout Eleven, they prepare with all ſpeed for the Execution: In the Revolution of this hour we may obſerve theſe ſeveral Paſſages. As, 1. Their taking off the Robe, and cloathing him again with his own Raiment. 2. Their leading him away from Gabbatha to Golgotha. 3. His bearing the Croſs, with Simon's help to bear it after him. 4. His comforting the Women who followed weeping after him as he went. 5. Their giving him Vinegar to drink mingled with Gall. 6. Their crucifying, or faſtening him on the Croſs, whereon he dyed.

1. The Evangeliſt tells us, They took the Robe off from Mat.27.31 him, and they put his own Raiment on him: Origen Obſerves, They took off his Robes, but they took not off his Crown of Thorns; what ſerved their Intereſt they purſued ſtill, but nothing of Mitigation of Mercy to the afflicted Son of Man. It is ſuppoſed this ſmall buſineſs could not be done without great Pain; after his ſore Whipping his Blood congealed, and by that means ſtuck to his Scarlet-Mantle; ſo that in pulling off the Robe, and putting on his own Rayment, there could not but be a renewing of his Wounds.

2. They led him away. Some ſay they caſt a Rope Mat.27.31 or Chain about his Neck, by which they led him out of the City to Mount Calvary, and that all along the way, Multitudes attended him, and a Cryer went before him, proclaiming to all Hearers the cauſe of his Death; namely, that Jeſus Chriſt was a Seducer, Blaſphemer, Negromancer, a Teacher of falſe Doctrines, ſaying of himſelf that he was the Meſſias, King of Iſrael, and the Son of God.

3. He bore his Croſs. So John relates; before it Joh.19.17 bears him, he muſt bear it; and thus they make good their double cry, Crucifie him, Crucifie him; firſt crucifie him with it as a Burthen, and then Crucifie him with it as a Croſs; thoſe Shoulders which had been unmercifully battered with Whips before, are now tormented with the weight of his Croſs. As a true Iſaac bears the Wood for the Sacrifice of himſelf; or Uriah-like, he carries with him the very Inſtrument of his own ſad Death. O the Cruelty of this paſſage! they had ſcarce left him ſo much Blood or Strength, as to carry himſelf, and muſt he now bear his heavy Croſs? Yes, 'till he Faint and Sink, ſo long he muſt bear it, and longer too, did they not fear that he ſhould die with leſs Shame and Smart than they intended him; which to prevent, Mat.27.32 they conſtrained one Simon a Cyranean to bear his Mark 15. 21. Croſs after him. How truly do they here again ſwallow the Camel and ſtrain at a Gnat? The Croſs was a Roman Death, and ſo one of their Abominations; hence they themſelves would not touch the Tree of Infamy, leſt they would have been defiled; but to touch the Lord's anointed, to Crucifie the Lord of Glory, they make no ſcruple at all; but why muſt another bear the Croſs, but to conſign this Duty unto Man, that we muſt enter into a fellowſhip of Chriſt's Sufferings; If any man will come Matth. 16 after me, let him deny himſelf, and take up his Croſs, and 24. follow me.——— And therefore Chriſt hath ſuffered for 1 Pet. 2. us, leaving us an example that we ſhould follow his ſteps. 21.

4. He comforted the Women, who followed weeping after him as he went along. And there fol- Luke 23. lowed him a great Company of People, and of Women 27, 28. wich alſo bewailed and lamented him; but Jeſus turning to them, ſaid, Daughters of Jeruſalem weep not for me but weep for your ſelves, and for your Children. In the midſt of his Miſery he forgets not Mercy; in the midſt of all their Tortures and loudeſt out-cries of Contumely, of Blaſphemy, of Scorn, he can hear his following Friends weeping behind him, and neglect all his own Sufferings to comfort them, Weep not for me. He hath more Compaſſion on the Women that follow him weeping, than of his own mangled ſelf that reels along, fainting and Bleeding unto Death: He feels more the Tears that drop from their Eyes than all the Blood that flows from his own Veins: We heard before that ſometimes he would not vouchſafe a word to Pilate that threatned him, nor to Herod that entreated him; and yet unaskt, how graciouſly doth he turn about his bleſſed bleeding Face to theſe weeping Women, affording them Looks and Words too, both of Compaſſion and of Conſolation, Daughters of Jeruſalem weep not for me, but for your ſelves.——— And yet obſerve, he did not turn his Face to them until he heard them Weep; nor may we not think to ſee his Face in Glory, unleſs we firſt bathe our Eyes in Sorrow. It is a wonder to me tht any in our Age ſhoud ever decry Tears, Remorſe, Contrition, Compunction: How many Saints do we find both in the Old and New Teſtament, confuting by their Practices theſe groſs Opinions? The Promiſe tells us, that They that ſow in tears ſhall reap in joy; he that follows Chriſt, or goeth forth weeping, bearing precious ſeed, Pſal. 126. ſhall doubtleſs come again with rejoycing, bringing his 5, 6. ſheaves with him

But what's the meaning of this, Weep not for me? May we not weep for the Death of Chriſt? Do we not find in Scripture that all the People wept at the Death of Moſes? That all the Church wept at the Death of Stephen? That the Women lamented Deut.24.8 the Acts 8.2.

the Death of Dorcas? And if all Chriſt's Actions be our Inſtructions (I mean not his Miraculous, or Meritorious, but his Moral ones) did not Chriſt himſelf weep for Lazarus, and for Jeruſalem? Nay, is he not here weeping Showers of Blood all along the way? And may not we drop a Tear for all thoſe purple Streams of his? O, what's the meaning of this, Weep not for me, but weep for your ſelves?

I anſwer; the words are not abſolute, but Comparative. Chriſt doth not ſimply forbid us to weep for our Friends, but rather to turn our worldly Grief into godly Sorrow for Sin as Sin. Chriſt herein pointed the Women to the true Cauſe and Subject of all their Sorrow, which was their Sins; and thus we have cauſe to weep indeed. Oh! our Sins were the cauſe of the Sufferings of Chriſt; and in that reſpect, Oh that our Heads were Fountains, and our Eyes Rivers of Tears! Oh that our Tears were as our Meat and Drink! Oh that we could feed, with David, on the Bread of Tears, and that the Lord would give us plenteouſneſs of Tears to drink! Oh that the Lord would ſtrike (as he did at Rephidim) theſe rocky Hearts of ours, with the Rod of true Remorſe, that Water might guſh out! Oh that we could thus mourn over Jeſus whom we have pierced, and be Zech. 12. 10. in bitterneſs for him, as one that is in bitterneſs for his firſt born!

5. No ſooner was he come to the place of Execution, Matt. 27. 34. but they gave him Vinegar to drink mingled with Gall: In that they gave him drink, it was an Argument of their Humanity; this was a Cuſtom amongſt Jews and Romans, that to the condemned they ever gave Wine to drink: Give ſtrong Wine unto him that is ready to periſh, and Wine unto thoſe that be of heavy heart. Prov. 31. 6 But in that they gave him Vinegar mingled with Gall, it was an Argument of their Cruelty and Envy. Theophil. in Mar. Theophylact ſpeaks plainly, that the Vinegar mingled with Gall was poyſonous and deadly, and therefore when Chriſt had taſted it, he would not drink, Chuſing rather the Death of the Croſs, to which he was deſtinated by his Father, than any poyſonous Death.

Uſe. Ah Brethren, are not we apt to think hardly of the Jews for giving Chriſt ſo bitter a potion at his time of death? and yet little do we think that when we ſin, we do as much. See but how God himſelf Deut. 32. 32. 33. compares the ſins of the wicked Jews to very poyſon; For their wine is of the wine of Sodom, and of the fields of Gomorrah; their Grapes are Grapes of Gall, their cluſters are bitter, their wine is the poyſon of Dragons, and the cruel venome of Aſps. In this reſpect we may think as hardly of our ſelves as of the Jews, becauſe ſo oft as we ſin againſt God, we do as much as mingle rank poyſon, and bring it to Jeſus Chriſt to drink.

Matth. 27. 35. 6. They crucified him, (i. e.) they faſtened him on the Croſs; and then lift him up. A great queſtion there is amongſt the Learned, whether Chriſt was faſtened on the Croſs after it was erected, or whiles it was lying on the ground; I would not take too much into theſe niceties, only more propable it is that he was faſtened to it whiles it lay flat on the Joh. 3. 14. ground, and then as Moſes lifted up the Serpent in the wilderneſs, ſo was the Son of man lifted up. We may expreſs the manner of their acting, and his ſufferings now, as a Learned Brother hath done before us; Herle contemplat. on Chriſt's paſſ. Now come the Barbarous inhumane Hangmen, and begin to unlooſe his hands; but how? alas 'tis not to any liberty, but to worſe bonds of nails: then ſtript they off his gore-glewed Cloaths, and with them queſtionleſs not a little of his mangled skin and fleſh, as if it were not enough to crucifie him as a Thief, unleſs they fley him too as a Beaſt; then ſtretch they him out as another Iſaac on his own Burthen, the Croſs; that ſo they might take meaſure of the holes; and though the print of his Blood on it gave them his true length, yet how ſtrictly do they take it longer than the truth? Thereby at once both to Crucifie and Rack him? That he was thus ſtretcht and wracked upon his Croſs, David gives more than probable Intimation: Pſal 22. 17 I may tell all my Bones; and again all my Bones Ver. 14. are out of Joynt; which otherwiſe, how could it ſo well be as by ſuch a violent Stretching and Diſtortion? Whereby it ſeems they had made him a living Anatomy; nor was it in the leſs ſenſible, fleſhy parts of his Body, that they drive theſe their larger Tenters, whereon his whole Weight muſt hang; but in the Hands and Feet, the moſt Sinewy, and conſequently the moſt ſenſible fleſhy parts of all other; wherein how rudely and painfully they handle him, appears too by that of David, they digged my Hands and my Feet; they made wide holes like that of a Spade, as if they had been digging in ſome Ditch: the boyſterous and unuſual Greatneſs of thoſe Nails, we have from venerable Antiquity: Conſtantine the Great, is ſaid to have made of them both an Helmet and a Bridle.—— How ſhould I write on, but that my Tears ſhould blot out what I write, when it is no other than he that is thus uſed who hath blotted out that Hand-writing of Ordinances that was againſt me? Coloſ. 2. 14.

But the hour goes on, and this is the great Buſineſs of the Worlds Redemption, of which I would ſpeak a little more; by this time we may imagine Chriſt nailed to the Croſs, and his Croſs fixed in the ground, which with its fall into the place of its Station, gave infinite Torture by ſo violent a Concuſſion of the Body of our Lord. That I mean to obſerve of this crucifying of Chriſt, I ſhall reduce to theſe two Heads, viz. the Shame and Pain.

1. For the Shame, it was a curſed Death, Curſed is every one that hangeth on a tree. Gal. 3. 13. When it was in uſe, it was chiefly inflicted upon Slaves that either falſly accuſed, or treacherouſly conſpired their Maſters Death; but on whomſoever it was inflicted, this Death in all Ages among the Jews, hath been branded with a ſpecial kind of Ignominy; and ſo the Apoſtle ſignifies when he ſaith, He abaſed himſelf to the death, even to the death of the Croſs. Phil. 2. 8. It was a mighty ſhame that Saul's Sons were hanged on a Tree; 2 Sam 21. 6. and the reaſon was more ſpecially from the Law of God; Deut. 21. 23. For he that is hanged, is accurſed of God: I know Moſes's Law ſpeaks nothing in particular of crucifying; yet he doth include the ſame under the general of hanging on a Tree; and ſome conceive that Moſes in ſpeaking that Curſe, foreſaw what manner of Death the Redeemer ſhould die.

2. For the Pain, it was a painful Death; that appears ſeveral ways: As—— 1. His Legs and Hands were violently racked, and pulled out to the places fitted for his faſtening, and then pierced through with Nails. 2. By this means he wanted the uſe both of his Hands and Feet, and ſo he was forced to hang immovable upon the Croſs, as being unable to turn any way for his eaſe. 3. The longer he lived, the more he endured, for by the weight of his Body, his Wounds were opened and enlarged, his Nerves and Veins were rent and torn aſunder, and his Blood guſhed out more and more abundantly ſtill. 4. He died by inch meal, (as I may ſay) and not at once, the Croſs was a Death long in dying, it kept him a great while upon the Rack, it was full three hours betwixt Chriſt's Affixion and Expiration; and it would have been longer if he had not freely and willingly given up the Ghoſt; it is reported that Andrew the Apoſtle was two whole days on the croſs before he died, and ſo long might Chriſt have been, if God had not heightned it to greater degrees of Torment ſupernaturaly.

I may add to this, as above all this, the Pains of his Soul while he hanged on the Croſs, for there alſo Chriſt had his Agonies and Soul Conflicts, theſe Acts 2.24. were thoſe ὠδῖνες θανάτου, thoſe Pains, or Pangs of Death, from which Peter tells us Chriſt was looſed. The word ὠδῖνες, properly ſignifies the Pains of a Woman in Travel; ſuch were the Pains of Jeſus Chriſt in Iſa. 53. 11. Death: the Prophet calls it, The travel of his Soul: Pſal. 116. 3. and the Pſalmiſt calls it the Pains of Hell, The Sorrows of death compaſſed me, and the Pains of Hell gat hold upon me. The Sorrows, or Cords of Death compaſſed his Body, and the Pains of Hell gat hold upon his Soul: And theſe were they that extorted from him that paſſionate Expoſtulation, My God, My God, why Matt. 27. 46. haſt thou forſaken me? He complains of that which was more grevious to him, than ten thouſand Deaths, My God, My God, why haſt thou withdrawn thy wonted preſence, and left my ſoul (as it were) in pains of Hell!

Uſe. And now reflect we on the Shame and Pain! O the curſe and bitterneſs that our Sins have brought on Jeſus Chriſt! When I but think on theſe bleeding Veins, bruiſed Shoulders, ſcourged Sides, furrowed Back, harrowed Temples, digged Hands and Feet, and then conſider that my Sins were the Cauſe of all; methinks I ſhould need no more Arguments for Self-abhorring! Chriſtians! would not your hearts riſe againſt him, that ſhould kill your Father, Mother, Brother, Wife, Husband, deareſt Relations in all the World? O then, how ſhould your Hearts and Souls riſe againſt Sin; Surely your Sin it was that murthered Chriſt, that killed him who is inſtead of all Relations, who is a thouſand thouſand times dearer to you than Father, Mother, Husband, Child, or whomſoever; one thought of this ſhould methinks Jcb 42. 6. be enough to make you ſay as Job did, I abhor my ſelf, and repent in duſt and aſhes: Oh, what's that Croſs on the back of Chriſt? My Sins: Oh, what's that Crown on the head of Chriſt? My Sins: Oh what's that Nail in the right hand, and that other in the left hand of Chriſt? My Sins: Oh, what's that Spear in the ſide of Chriſt? My Sins: Oh, what are thoſe Nails and Wounds in the feet of Chriſt? My Sins. With a ſpiritual Eye I ſee no other Engine tormenting Chriſt; no other Pilate, Herod, Annas, Caiaphas condemning Chriſt; no other Soldiers, Officers, Jews or Gentiles doing Execution on Chriſt, but only Sin, Oh my Sins, my Sins, my Sins!

2. Comfort we our ſelves in the end and aim of John 3. 14, 15. this Death of Chriſt, As Moſes lifted up the Serpent in the Wilderneſs, ſo muſt the Son of Man be lifted up; that whoſoever believeth in him ſhould not periſh, but have eternal Life. The end of Chriſt's crucifying is the material buſineſs; and therefore let the end be obſerved as well as the meritorious Cauſe; without this conſideration the Contemplation of Chriſt's Death, or the Meditation of the Story of Chriſt's Sufferings would be altogether unprofitable; now what was the end? Joh. 12. 32. 1 Pet. 2. 24. Surely this, Chriſt lifted up, that he might draw all men unto him; Chriſt hanged on a Tree, that he might bear our Sins on the Tree; this was the Plot, which God by ancient deſign had aimed at in the crucifying of Chriſt; and thus our Faith muſt take it up; indeed our Comfort hangs on this; the intent, aim, and deſign of Chriſt in his Sufferings is that welcome News, and the very Spirit of the Goſpel: O remember this? Chriſt is crucifyed, and why ſo; That whoſoever believeth in him ſhould not periſh, but have life everlaſting.

We are now at the height of Chriſt's Sufferings, and the Son is now in his Meridian, or height of Aſcent, I ſhall no more count hour by hour; Matth. 27. 45. for from the ſixth hour till the ninth hour, (that is, from twelve till three in the Afternoon) there was darkneſs over all the Land. But of that, and of the Conſequents after it, in the next Section.

THe Particulars following, I ſhall quickly diſpatch. As thus.——

1. About twelve when the Sun is uſually brighteſt; it begat now to darken. This darkneſs was ſo great, that it ſpread over all the Land of Jewry; ſome think, over all the World, ſo we tranſlate it in Luke, And there was darkneſs over all the Earth; and many Luke 23. 44. Gentiles beſides Jews, obſerved the ſame as a great Miracle. Dioniſius the Areopagite, (as Suidas relates) Suid. in vita. S. Dion. could ſay at the firſt ſight of it, Either the World is ending, or the God of nature is ſuffering. This very Darkneſs was the occaſion of that Altar erected in Athens, dedicated unto the unknown God. Of this prophesied Amos, And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, Act. 17. 23. Amos 8. 9. that I will cauſe the Sun to go down at noon, and I will darken the Earth in a clear day.

The cauſe of this darkneſs is diverſly rendered by ſeveral Authors; ſome think that the Sun by Divine Hier. in Mat. 17. Power withdrew, and held back its beams. Others ſay, Orig. tract 35. in Matth. That the obſcurity was cauſed by ſome thiek Clouds which were miraculouſly produced in the Air, and ſpread themſelves over all the Earth. Others ſay, Dioniſ. Epiſt. 7. ad Policarpum. That this darkneſs was by a wonderful Interpoſition of the Moon, which at that time was at full, but by a Miracle interpoſed it ſelf betwixt the Earth and Sun. Whatſoever was the cauſe, it continued for the ſpace of three hours as Dark as the darkeſt Winters night.

2. About three (which the Jews call the ninth hour) the Sun now beginning to receive his Light, Jeſus cryed with a loud voice, Eli, Eli, Lamaſabachthani, My God, My God, why haſt thou forſaken me? —— And then; that the Scripture might be fulfilled, he ſaid, I thirſt. ——— And when he had received the vinegar, he ſaid it is Matth. 27. 46. finiſhed.—— And at laſt crying with a loud voice, he ſaid, John 19. 28. 30. Father into thy hands I commend my Spirit; and having ſaid thus, he gave up the Ghoſt. I cannot ſtay on theſe ſeven Luke 23. 46. Words of Chriſt, which he uttered on the Croſs; his words were ever grcious, but never more gracious than at this time; we cannnot find in all the Books and Writings of Men, in all the Annals and Records of time, either ſuch Sufferings, or ſuch ſayings, as were theſe laſt Words and Wounds, Sayings and Sufferings of Jeſus Chriſt.——— And having ſaid thus, he gave up the Ghoſt. Or as John relates it, He bowed Joh. 19. 30. his head, and gave up the Ghoſt: He bowed, not becauſe he was dead; but firſt he bowed, and then died; the meaning is, he died willingly without conſtraint, cheerfully without murmur; what a wonder is this? Life it ſelf gives up his Life, and Death it ſelf dyes by his Death; Jeſus Chriſt who is the Author of Life, the God of Life, lays down his Life for us; and Death it ſelf lyes for ever nailed to that bloody Croſs in the ſtead of Jeſus Chriſt. And now we may ſuppoſe him at the Gates of Paradiſe, calling with his laſt words to have them opened, that the King of Glory might come in.

3. About four in the Afternoon he was pierced with a Spear, and there iſſued out of his Side both Blood and Water. And one of the Soldiers with a Spear pierced his Side, and forthwith came thereout Blood and Water. How truely may we ſay of the Soldiers, Joh. 19. 34. that after all his Sufferings they have added Wounds? They find him dead, and yet they will ſcarce believe it, until with a Spear they have ſearch'd for Life at the Well-head it ſelf, even at the Heart of Chriſt: And forthwith there came out Blood and Water; this was a Fountain of both Sacraments, the Fountain of all our Happineſs, The Fountain opened to the Houſe of Zech. 13. 1. David, and to the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem for Sin and for uncleaneſs. There are three that bear Witneſs on Earth, (ſaith John) the Spirit, and the Water, and the 1 John 5. 8. Blood. Out of the Side of Chriſt, being now dead, there iſſues Water and Blood; ſignifying that he is both our Juſtification and Sanctification. Phyſicians tell us, that above the Heart there is a Film or Skin like unto a Purſe, wherein is contained clear Water to cool the heat of the Heart; and therefore very probable it is that, that very Skin (or Pericardium) was pierced through with the Heart, and thence came out thoſe Streams of Blood and Water. ——— O Gates of Heaven! O Windows of Paradiſe! O Palace of Refuge! O Tower of Strength! O Sanctuary of the Juſt! O flouriſhing Bed of the Spouſe of Solomon! Methinks I ſee Water and Blood running out of his ſide more freſhly, than thoſe Golden Streams, which ran out of the Garden of Eden, and watered the whole World. Here if I could ſtay, I might lengthen my Doctrine during my Life: Oh, it were good to be here; it were a large Field, and a bleſſed Subject.

4. About five (which the Jews call the Eleventh, and the laſt hour of the Day) Chriſt was taken down, and buried by Joſeph and Nicodemus. But enough, I muſt not wear out your Patience altogether.

Thus far we have propounded the bleſſed Object of Chriſt's ſuffering and dying for us; our next Work is to direct you (as formerly) in the Art or Myſtery, how you are to look unto him in this Reſpect.

Chap. 3. Sect. 1. Of knowing Jeſus as carrying on the great Work of our Salvation in his Derth.

1. LEt us know Jeſus carrying on the great Work of our Salvation, during his Sufferings and Death. This is the high Point which Paul was ever ſtudying on, and Preaching on, and pondering on: 1 Cor. 2. 2. For I determined not to know any thing among you, ſave Jeſus Chriſt, and him crucified. Chriſt crucified, is the rareſt piece of Knowledg in the World; the Perſon of Chriſt is a matter of high Speculation, but Chriſt farther conſidered, as cloathed with his Garments of Blood, is that Knowledg which eſpecially Paul purſues; he Eſteems not, Reckons not, Determines not to make any Profeſſion of any other Science or Doctrine than the moſt neceſſary, and only ſaving knowledg of Chriſt crucified. O my Soul, how many Days, and Months, and Years, haſt thou ſpent to attain ſome little meaſure of Knowledg in the Arts, and Tongues, and Sciences? And yet what a poor Skill haſt thou attained in reſpect of the many thouſands of them that knew nothing at all of Jeſus Chriſt? And what if thou hadſt reached out a greater Proficiency? Couldſt thou have dived into the Secrets of Nature, couldſt thou have excelled the Wiſdom of all 1 Kings 4. 33. the Children of the Eaſt Country, and all the wiſdom of Egypt, and the Wiſdom of Solomon, who ſpake of Beaſts, of Fowls, of Fiſhes, of all Trees from the Cedar tree that is in Lebanon, even to the Hyſſop that ſpringeth out of the Wall, yet without the ſaving Knowledg of Chriſt crucified (Chriſt Suffering, Bleeding, and Dying) all this had been nothing, ſee Eccleſ. 1. 18. only that knowledge is worth the having which refers to Chriſt; and above all, that is the rareſt piece of Chriſt's Humiliation, which holds him forth Suffering for us, and ſo freeing us from Hell ſufferings. Come then, and ſpend thy time for the future more fruitfully in reading, learning, knowing, this one neceſſary thing. Study Chriſt crucifyed in every Piece and Part, O the precious Truths, and precious Diſcoveries that a ſtudying Head and Heart would hammer out here! Much hath been ſaid, but a thouſand thouſand times more might yet be ſaid; we have given but a little ſcantling of that which Chriſt endured: Volumes might be written till they were piled as high as Heaven; and yet all would not ſerve to make out the full diſcoveries of Jeſus's Sufferings Study therefore, and ſtudy more, but be ſure thy Study, and thy Knowledg be rather Practical than Speculative; do not meerly beat thy Brains to learn the Hiſtory of Chriſt's Death, but the Efficacy, Virtue, and Merit of it; know what thou knoweſt in reference to thy ſelf, as if Jeſus had been all the while carrying on the Buſineſs of thy Souls Salvation; as if thou hadſt ſtood by, and Chriſt had ſpoke to thee, as ſometimes to the Woman, Weep not for me, but for thy ſelf; thy Sins cauſed my ſufferings, and my Sufferings were for the Abolition of thy Sins.

Sect. 2. Of conſidering Jeſus in that Reſpect.

2. LEt us conſider Jeſus, carrying on this great Work of our Salvation during his Sufferings and Death. They ſhall look upon me whom they have pierced, ſaith the Prophet; (i. e.) they ſhall conſider me: Zech. 12. 10. And accordingly is the Apoſtle, looking unto Jeſus, or Heb. 12. 2. conſidering of Jeſus the Author and Finiſher of our Faith, who for the joy of our Salvation ſet before him, endured the Croſs, and deſpiſed the Shame. Then indeed, and in that Act is the Duty brought in, it is good in all reſpects, and under all Conſiderations to look unto Jeſus from firſt to laſt; but above all, this Text relates firſtly to the time of his Sufferings; and hence it is that Luke calls Chriſt's Paſſion θεωρίαν, a Theory or Sight; And all the people that came together to that ſight, ——— ſmote their Luke 23. 48. breaſts and returned. Not but that every Paſſage of Chriſt is a Theory or Sight, worthy our looking on, or conſidering of; Chriſt in his Fathers's Purpoſe, and Chriſt in the Promiſe, and Chriſt in Performance; Chriſt in his Birth, and Chriſt in his Life, O how ſweet? What bleſſed Objects are theſe to look upon? But above all, conſider him (ſaith the Apoſtle) that en- Heb. 12. 3. dured ſuch contradiction of Sinners againſt himſelf. ——— Conſider him who for the joy that was ſet before him, en- Ver. 2. dured the croſs and deſpiſed the ſhame; of all other Parts Acts or Paſſages of Chriſt, the Holy Ghoſt hath only honoured Chriſt's Paſſion (his Sufferings and his Death) with this name Theory, and Sight. Why ſurely this is the Theory ever moſt commended to our View and Conſideration: O then let us look on this, conſider on this. As in this manner. ———

1. Conſider him paſſing over the Brook Cedron; it ſignifies the Wrath of God, and Rage of Men; the firſt ſtep of his Paſſion is ſharp and ſore; he cannot enter the Door, but firſt he muſt wade through cold Waters on bare Feet; nor muſt he only wade through them, but drink of them; through many Tribulations muſt he go that will purchaſe Souls; and through many Tribulations muſt they go that will follow after him to the Kingdom of Glory. — Conſider him entring into the Garden of Gethſemane; in a Garden Adam ſinned, and in this Garden Chriſt muſt ſuffer, that the ſame place which was the Neſt where Sin was hatched, might now be the Childbed of Grace and Mercy; into this Garden no ſooner was he entred, but he began to be agonized; all his Powers and Paſſions within him were in Conflict. Conſider, O my Soul, how ſuddenly he is ſtruck into a ſtrange Fear; never was man ſo afraid of the Torments of Hell, as Chriſt (ſtanding in our room) is of his Fathers Wrath; fear is ſtill ſuitable to Apprehenſion, and never Man could ſo perfectly apprehend the cauſe of fear as Jeſus Chriſt; nor was he only afraid, but very heavy; My ſoul is exceeding ſorrowful, even unto death. His Sorrow was lethal and deadly, it melted his Soul gradually as Wax is melted with heat; it continued with him till his laſt Gaſp, his Heart was like Wax burning all the time of his Paſſion; and at laſt, it melted in the midſt of his Pſal. 22. 19. Bowels. Nor was he only afraid and heavy, but he began to be ſore amazed; this ſignifies an univerſal Mark 14. 33.

Ceſſation of all the Faculties of the Soul from their ſeveral Functions; we uſually call it a Conſternation, it is like a Clock ſtopped for the while from going, by ſome hand or other laid upon it; or if it was not wholly a Ceſſation, yet was it at leaſt an Expavefaction, ſuch a motion of the mind as whereby for the preſent he was diſenabled to mind any thing elſe, but the dreadful ſenſe of the Wrath of God. O what an Agony was this? O what a ſtrugling Paſſion of mixed Grief was this? What afflicting and conflicting Affections under the ſight and ſenſe of eminent Peril was in this Agony? Luke 22. 44. And being in an Agony he prayed more earneſtly; thrice had he prayed, but now in his Agony he prayed more earneſtly; O my Father, if it be poſſible, let this Cup paſs from me; nevertheleſs, not as I will, but as thou wilt. Tho I feel the Soul of Pain, in the Pain of my Soul, yet there is Divinity in me, which tells me there is a wage for Sin, and I will pay it all? O my Father, ſith thou haſt bent thy bow, lo here an open Breaſt, fix herein all thy Shafts of Fury; better I ſuffer for a while than that all believers ſhould be damned for ever; thy Will is mine, lo I will bear the burthen of Sin, come and ſhoot here thy Arrows of Revenge. And Luke 22. 44. thus as he prayed he ſweat, And his ſweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground. Oh, what Man or Angel can conceive the Agony, the Fear, the Sorrow, the Amazement of that Heart, that without all outward Violence, meerly out of the extremity of his own Paſſion, bled through the Fleſh and Skin, not ſome faint Dew, but ſolid drops of Blood? Now is he crucified without a Croſs, Fear and Sorrow are the Nails, our Sins the Thorns, his Fathers Wrath the Spear, and all theſe together cauſe a bleeding ſhower to Rain throughout all his Pores: O my Soul, conſider of this, and if thou wilt bring this Conſideration home, ſay, thy Sins were the cauſe of this bloody Sweat; Jeſus Chriſt is that true Adam that is come out of Paradiſe for thy Sins, and thus laboured on Earth with his bloody Sweat to get the Bread that thou muſt feed on.

2. Conſider his Apprehenſion; Judas is now at hand, with a Troop following him to apprehend his Maſter; ſee how without all Shame he ſet himſelf in the Van, and coming to his Lord and Maſter, gives him a moſt traiterous and deceitful Kiſs, What Judas betrayeſt thou the ſon of man with a kiſs? Haſt thou ſold the Lord of Life to ſuch cruel Merchants, as covet greedily his Blood and Life? O alas! at what price haſt thou ſet the Lord of all the Creatures? At thirty Pence? What a vile and ſlender price is this for a Lord of ſuch Glory and Majeſty? God was ſold for thirty Pieces of Silver, but Man could not be bought without the deareſt heart-blood of the Son of God. At that time ſaid Luke 22. 53. Chriſt, Ye be come as it were againſt a thief with ſwords and ſtaves, I ſat daily among you teaching in the Temple, and ye never laid hands on me; but this is your hour, and the power of darkneſs. Now the Prince of Darkneſs exerciſed his Power; now the helliſh Rout, and malicious Rabble of ravenous Wolves, aſſaulted the moſt Innocent Lamb in the World; now they moſt furiouſly haled him this way and that way: O how ungently did they handle him? How uncourteouſly ſpake they unto him? How many Blows and Buffets did they give him? What Cries, and Shouts, and Clamours made they over him: Now they lay hold on his holy Hands, and bind them hard with rough and knotty Cords, ſo that they gall the Skin of his Arms, and make the very Blood ſpring out; now they bring him back again over Cedron, and they make him once again to drink of the brook in the way; now they led him openly through the high Streets of Jeruſalem, and carry him to the Houſe of Annas in great Triumph. O, my Soul, conſider theſe ſeveral Paſſages, conſider them leiſurely, and with good attention, conſider them till thou feeleſt ſome Motions or Alterations in thy Affection; is not this he that is the infinite Virtue, the pattern of Innocency, the everlaſting Wiſdom; the Honour of Earth, the Glory of Heaven, the very Fountain of all Beauty, whether of Men or Angels? How is it then that this Virtue or Power is tyed with Bands, that Innocency is apprehended, that Wiſdom is flouted and laughed to ſcorn, that Honour is contemned, that Glory is tormented, that he that is fairer than all the Children of Men, is beſmeared with Weeping, and troubled with Sorrow of heart? ſurely there is ſome thing, O my ſoul, in thee, that cauſed all this: hadſt not thou ſinned, the Sun of Righteouſneſs had never been eclipſed.

3. Conſider the hurryings of Jeſus from Annas to Caiaphas; there a Council is called, and Caiaphas the high Prieſt adjures our Lord to tell him if he was Chriſt the Son of God: Mat 26. 63. no ſooner he affirms it, but he is doomed guilty of blaſphemy, and ſo guilty of death. Ver 66. Now again they aſſault him like mad Dogs, and diſgorge upon him all their malice, fury, and revenge; each one to the utmoſt of his power gives him buffets, and ſtrokes; there they ſpit upon that Divine face with their deviliſh mouths, there they hood-wink his eyes, and ſtrike him on the cheek, ſcoffing, and jeſting, and ſaying, Read, who is it that ſmote thee? O beauty of Angels! was that a face to be ſpet upon? men uſually when they are provoked to ſpit, turn away their faces towards the fouleſt corner of the houſe, And is there not in all that Palace a fouler place to ſpit in, than the face of Jeſus? O my ſoul, why doſt thou not humble thy ſelf, at this ſo wonderful example? How is it that there ſhould remain in the World any token of Pride after this ſo great and marvellous an example of humility? Surely I am at my wits end, and very much aſtoniſhed to conſider, how this ſo great patience overcomes not my anger; how this ſo great abaſing aſſwageth not my pride, how theſe ſo violent buffets beat not down my preſumption: Is it not marvellous that Jeſus Chriſt by theſe means ſhould overthrow the Kingdom of Pride, and yet that there ſhould remain in me the relicks of Pride? Conſider all thoſe night-ſufferings of Chriſt; O cruel night! O unquiet night! now was the ſeaſon that all creatures ſhould take their reſt, that the ſenſes, and members wearied with toils and labours, ſhould be refreſhed; but on the contray Chriſt's members and ſenſes were then tormented, they ſtruck his body, they afflicted his ſoul, they bound his hands, they buffetted his cheeks, they ſpit in his face; O my ſoul, thou ſinneſt in the dark, in covert, in ſecret, when no eye is upon thee, when the Sun, that eye of the world is ſet, or hid; and therefore all the night long is Chriſt thus tormented by thy ſins; not one jot of reſt hath Chriſt, not a wink of ſleep muſt ſeize on him, whom thou by the alarm of thy ſins diſquieted, both at evening, at midnight, and at the Cock Crow, and at the dawning.

4. Conſider the hurryings of Jeſus from Caiaphas to Pilate; now he ſtands before Pilate, where he was accuſed of ſedition, ſeduction, and uſurpation. Not only Jews, but Gentiles have their hands imbrewed in the blood of Chriſt; Pilate was delegated from Ceſar, Luke 18. 31. both of them Gentiles, yet not without a Propheſie, Behold we go up to Jeruſalem, and all things that are written by the Prophets concerning the Son of man ſhall be accompliſhed; for he ſhall be delivered unto the Gentiles: At the Gentile-tribunal being queſtioned of his Kingdom, and he anſwers both the Jews and Gentiles Jo. 18.26. that they need not fear his uſurpation, My Kingdom is not

John 18. 36. not of this world. He gives Kingdoms that are eternal, but he will take away none that are temporal; Chriſt came not into the World to be Ceſar's, or Pilate's or Herod's ſucceſſor; but if they had believed, to have been their Saviour. Look through the Chronicles of his life, and we find him ſo far from a King, that he was the meaneſt ſervant of all men; where was he born but at Bethlehem a little City? where did the Shepherds find him, but in a poor cottage? who were his Diſciples but a deal of Fiſhermen? who his Companions but Publicans and Sinners? is he hungry? where ſtands his Table but on plain ground? what are his dainties but Bread and a few Fiſhes? where is his lodging but at the ſtern of a Ship? Here's a King without either Preſence-chamber, or Bed-chamber. The Foxes have holes, and the Birds of the air have neſts, but the Son of man hath not whereon to lay his head. Come, fear not Pilate the loſs of thy Diadem; it may be the people would ſometimes have made him a King, but ſee how he flies from it, My Kingdom is not of this World ſaith Jeſus. Oh that I could but contemn the World as Chriſt did! O that firſt and above all I could ſeek the Kingdom of God and his righteouſneſs! Oh my ſoul, I feel it, I feel it, unleſs I can be free from the affection of all creatures, I cannot with freedom of mind aſpire unto divine things; unleſs I be willing with Chriſt to tread on Crowns and Scepters, to be diſpiſed and forſaken of all, and to be eſteemed nothing at all, I can have no inward peace, nor be ſpiritually enlightned, nor be wholly united to the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

5. Conſider the hurryings of Jeſus from Pilate to Herod; there is he queſtioned of many things, but juſtly is the Lamb of God dumb, and opened not his mouth to him that not long before had taken away his voice; upon this he is mocked, and arrayed in a gorgeous robe: Luke 23. 11. Wiſdom is taken for Folly, Virtue for Voice, Truth for Blaſphemy, Temperance for Gluttony, the Peace-maker of all the World for a ſeditious diſturber of the World; the reformer of the Law for a breaker of the Law, and the juſtifier of ſinners for a ſinner, and the follower of ſinners. See how he emptied himſelf, and made himſelf of no reputation that he might fill thee with goodneſs, and make thee ſpiritually wiſe unto ſalvation.

6. Conſider the hurryings of Jeſus from Herod back again to Pilate; O my Saviour, how art thou now abuſed! new accuſations are forged; and when Pilate ſees that nothing will do, but Chriſt muſt dye, he delivers him to be ſtripped, whipped, cloathed in Purple, crowned with Thorns, and Sceptred with a Reed. He that with ſpittle cured the eyes of the blind, is now blinded with their ſpittle; who can number thoſe ſtripes wherewith they flea and tear his body, one wound eating into another, that there is no health in his bones by reaſon of my ſins? O Jeſus! was that frothy ſpittle the Ointment, thoſe Thorns thy Crown, that Reed thy Scepter, that Purple-dyed and imbroidered with blood, thy Royal Robes? or becauſe Adam's ſin brought forth Thorns, muſt it therefore be thy penance to wear them? unthankful people thus watered with his blood, that brings forth nothing but Thorns to crown him. But Oh that the Lord of Heaven, the Creator of the World, the Glory of the Angels, the Wiſdom of God, ſhould, for my ſake, be puniſhed with whips and ſcourges? O my heart! how can I think on this without tears of blood? O joy of the Angels, and glory of Saints, who hath thus diſfigured thee? who hath thus defiled thee with ſo many bloody blows? certainly they were not thy ſins, but mine, it was love and mercy that compaſt the about, and cauſed thee to take upon thee this ſo heavy a burthen; love was the cauſe why thou didſt beſtow upon me all thy benefits, and mercy mov'd thee to take upon thee all my miſeries.

7. Conſider that ſad ſpectacle of Jeſus when he came forth wearing the Crown of Thorns, and the Purple Robe, and Pilate ſaying unto them, Behold the Man. John 19.5 O my ſoul, fix thy eyes on the ſad object! ſuppoſe thy ſelf in the caſe of Jeſus; what if in ſo ſenſible and tender a part as thy head is, men ſhould faſten a number of Thorns, yea, and thoſe ſo ſharp that they ſhould pierce into thy ſcull? why alas, thou canſt hardly abide the prick of a Pin, much leſs the piercing in of ſo many Thorns; O but thy Jeſus was Crowned with Thorns, and Sceptred with a Reed, and that Reed was taken out of his hands, to beat the Crown of Thorns into his head; and beſides, thy Jeſus was whipped with cords, and rods, and little chains of iron, that from his ſhoulders to the ſoles of his feet there was no part free; and being now in this plight, thou art called on to behold the Man: Doſt thou ſee him? Is thy imagination ſtrong? Canſt thou conſider him at preſent, as if thou hadſt a view of this very man? Methinks it ſhould make thee break out, and ſay, O brightneſs of thy Father's glory, who hath thus cruelly dealt with thee? O unſpotted glaſs of the Majeſty of God who hath thus wholly diſfigured thee? O river that flows out of the paradiſe of delights, who hath thus troubled thee? It is my ſins, O Lord, that have ſo troubled thee; my ſins were the Thorns that pricked thee, the laſhes that whipped thee, the purple that cloathed thee; it is I, Lord, that am thy tormentor, and the very cauſe of theſe thy pains.

8. Conſider Pilate's ſentence, that Jeſus ſhould be crucified as the Jews required. Now they had him in their will, and they did to him what ſeemed them good. Follow him from Gabbatha to Golgotha, ſee how they lay the heavy Croſs upon his tender ſhoulders, that were ſo pitifully rent and torn with whips; accompany him all the way to the Execution, and help to carry his Croſs to Mount Calvary; And there, as if thou hadſt been frozen hitherto, thaw into tears; ſee him lifted up on that engine of torture, the bloody Croſs; he hangs on Nails, and as he hangs, his own weight becomes his own affliction; O ſee how his arms and legs were wracked with violent pulls, his hands and feet boared with nails, his whole body torn with ſtripes, and gored with blood; and now, O my ſoul, run with all thy might into his arms held out at their full length to receive thee? Oh weigh the matter! becauſe ſin entred by the ſenſes, therefore the head, in which the ſenſes flouriſh, is crowned with ſearching Thorns; becauſe the hands and feet are more eſpecially the inſtruments of ſin, therefore his hands and feet are nailed to the Croſs for ſatisfaction. O marvellous! what King is he, or of what Countrey, that wears a Crown of Thorns? what man is he, or where lives he, whoſe hands and feet are not only bored, but digged into, as if they had been digging with Spades in a ditch? ſurely here's matter for a ſerious meditation; be enlarged O my thoughts, and dwell upon it! conſider it, and conſider it again!

9. Conſider the darkneſs that ſpread over all the Earth; now was the Sun aſhamed to ſhew his brightneſs; conſidering that the Father of lights was darkened with ſuch diſgrace; the Heavens diſcoloured their beauty, and are in mourning robes; the Lamp of Heaven is immantled with a miraculous Eclipſe; the Sun in the firmament will ſympathize with the Sun of Righteouſneſs; it will not appear in glory, tho it be mid-day, becauſe the Lord of Glory is thus diſgraced. And now hear the voice that comes from the Son of God, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? Chriſt in the Garden taſted the bitter cup of God's fierce wrath, but now he drunk the dregs of it; he then ſipped off the top, but now he drunk all off, top, and bottom and all. O but what's the meaning of this; My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? Surely, 1. This was not a total, but a partial dereliction; this was not a perpetual, but a temporary forſaking of him; the Godhead was not took away from the manhood, but the union remained ſtill, even now when the Manhood was forſaken. 2. This was not a forſaking on Chriſt's part, but only on the Father's part; the Father forſook Chriſt, but Chriſt went after him; God took away the ſenſe of his love, but the Son of God laid hold upon him, crying and ſaying, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? 3. This forſaking was not in reſpect of his being, but in reſpect of the feeling of God's favour, love, and mercy; certainly God loved him ſtill; Oh but his ſenſe of comfort was now quite gone, ſo as it never was before; In his agony there was ſome inklings of God's mercy, now and then at laſt there was ſome ſtar-light, ſome little flaſh of lightning to cheer him up; but now all the ſenſe and feeling of God's love was gone, and not ſo much as any little ſtar-light of the ſame appeared. Chriſt now took the place of ſinners, and God the Father ſhut him out (as it were) amongſt the ſinners; he drew his mercy out of ſight, and out of hearing, and therefore he cried out in a kind of a wonderment, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? After this he ſpeaks but a few words more, and he gives up the Ghoſt. He dyes that we might live; he is diſſolved in himſelf, that we might be united to his Father; O my ſoul, ſee him now if thou canſt for weeping, his eyes are dim, his cheeks are wan, his face is pale, his head is bowing, his heart is panting, himſelf is dying; come, come, and dye with him by a moſt exact mortification; look pale like him with grief, and ſorrow, and trouble for thy ſins.

10. Conſider the piercing of his ſide with a Spear, whence came out a ſtream of blood and water; O Fountain of everlaſting waters; methinks I ſee the blood running out of his ſide more freſhly than thoſe golden ſtreams which ran out of the Garden of Eden, and watered the whole World. Conſider the taking of his body down by Joſeph; the burying of it by Joſeph and Nicodemus; O here's excellent matter for our meditation! O my ſpirit, go with me a little! Chriſt being dead, it is pity but he ſhould have a funeral; according to the letter, let Joſeph and Nicodemus bear his Corps; let the bleſſed Virgin go after it ſighing and weeping, and at every other place looking up to Heaven; let Mary Magdalen follow after with a box of precious Ointment in her hand, and with her hair hanging, ready (if need were) to wipe his feet again; or that in this meditation I may be more ſpiritual, let the Uſurer come firſt with Judas's bag, and diſtribute to the poor as he goes along; let the Drunkard follow after with the ſpunge that was filled with gall and vinegar, and check his wanton thirſt; let the young Gallant or voluptuous man come like his Maſter with bare foot, and with the Crown of Thorns ſet alſo upon his head; let the wanton perſon bear the rods, and whips, and wiers wherewith Chriſt was ſcourged, and fright his own fleſh; let the ambitious man be clad in the purple robe, lte the angry perſon in the ſeamleſs coat; my meaning is, let every ſinner according to the nature of his ſin, draw ſomething or other from the Paſſion of Chriſt to the mortifying of his ſin, yea let all turn mourners, let all bow their heads, and be ready to give up the Ghoſt for the Name of Chriſt, and let not Chriſt be John 10. 11. buried without a Sermon neither, and let the Text be this, The good ſhepherd giveth his life for the ſheep; and in the end of the Sermon (whether it be in uſe or no) let the Preacher take occaſion to ſpeak a word or two in the Praiſe of Chriſt; let him ſay with the Spouſe, that he was the chiefeſt amongſt ten thouſands, Cant. 5. 10 that he was altogether lovely; 16. that being God above all Gods he became man beneath all men; that when he ſpake, he began ordinarily with verily, verily I ſay unto you: that he was an holy man, that he never ſinned in all his life neither in thought, word, or deed; that being endowed with the Power of Miracles, he lovingly employed it in curing the lame, and blind, and deaf, and dumb, in caſting out Devils, in healing the ſick, in reſtoring the dead to life; that as he lived, ſo he died; for being unjuſtly condemned, mocked, ſtripped, whipped, crucified, he took all patiently, praying for his perſecutors, and leaving to them, when he had no temporal thing to give them, a legacy of love, of life, of mercy, of pardon, of Salvation: When the Sermon is done, and the Burial is finiſhed, let every Mourner go home, and begin a new life in imitation of Jeſus Chriſt. O my ſoul, that thou wouldſt thus meditate, and thus imitate, that ſo thy meditation might be fruitful, and thy imitation real; I mean that thy life and death might be conformable to the life and death of Jeſus Chriſt. But of that hereafter.

3. LEt us deſire after Jeſus, carrying on the work of our ſalvation in his death; Jeſus Chriſt to a fallen ſinner is the chief object of deſire; but Jeſus Chriſt as crucified, is the chief piece of that object. Humbled ſouls look after the remedy, and they find it chiefly in Chriſt crucified; and hence are ſo many cries after bathings in Chriſt's blood, and hiding in Chriſt's righteouſneſs, active, and paſſive. Indeed nothing doth ſo cool and refreſh a parched, dry, and thirſty ſoul, as the blood of Jeſus; which made the poor woman cry out ſo earneſtly, I have an Husband, and Children, and many other comforts, but I would give them all, and all the good that ever I ſhall ſee in this world, or in the world to come, to have my poor thirſty ſoul refreſhed with that precious blood of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

But what is there in Chriſt's blood or death that is ſo deſirable? I anſwer, ——

1. There is in it the perſon of Chriſt, he that is Man-God, God-Man, The brightneſs of his father's Heb. 1. 3. Glory, and the expreſs Image of his Perſon; it is he that dyed; every drop of his blood was not only the blood of an innocent man, but of one that was God as well as man, God with his own blood purchaſed the Church; Acts 20. 28. now ſurely every thing of God is moſt deſirable.

2. There is in it a worth, or price; Chriſt conſidered under the notion of a ſacrifice, is of infinite Heb. 9. 28. worth; now this ſacrifice (ſaith the Apoſtle) he offered up, Heb. 9. 28. He offered up, not in Heaven, as the Socinians would have it, in preſenting himſelf before God his Father; but upon earth, viz. in his Paſſion upon the Croſs. No wealth in Heaven or Earth beſides this, could redeem one ſoul; and therefore the Apoſtle ſets this againſt all corruptible things, as ſilver and gold, the things ſo much ſet by amongſt the men of this world; Ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as ſilver, and gold,—— but with 1 Pet. 1. 18. the precious blood of Chriſt, as of a Lamb without blemiſh, and without ſpot.

3. There is in it a merit and ſatisfaction; the Scripture indeed doth not expreſly uſe theſe words, but it hath the ſenſe and meaning of them; As in that Text, He hath made us accepted in the beloved; to Epheſ. 6. 7. whom we have redemption through his blood. I know there is a different notion in theſe words; for Merit doth properly reſpect the good that is to be procured;

ed ; but Satisfaction, the evil that is repelled; but in Chriſt we ſtand not on theſe diſtinctions, becauſe in his merit was ſatisfaction, and in his ſatisfaction was merit. A great controverſie is of late riſen up, Whether Chriſt's death be a ſatisfaction to divine juſtice ? But the very words redeeming and buying, do plainly demonſtrate, that a ſatisfaction Tit.2. 12. was given to God by the death of Jeſus; He gave 1 Cor. 6. 20. himſelf for us, that he might, redeem us. Ye are bought with a price ; and what price was that ? why his own blood. Thou waſt ſlain, and haſt redeemed us to Mat. 20. 28. God by thy blood : (i. e.) by thy Death and Paſſion. 1 Tit. 2.6. This was the λύτρον, that ranſome which Chriſt gave for his Elect; The Son of man came to give his life a ranſome for many, or as the Apoſtle, He gave himſelf a ranſome for all ; the word is here ἀντίλυτρον, which ſignifies an adequate price, or a counter-price ; as when one doth, or undergoeth ſomething in the room of another ; as when one yields himſelf a Captive for the redeeming of another out of Captivity, or gives up his own life for the ſaving of another man's life; ſo Chriſt gave himſelf ἀντίλυτρον, a ranſome, or counterprice, ſubmitting himſelf to the like puniſhment that his redeemed ones ſhould have undergone.

The Socinians tell us, that Chriſt's ſufferings and death were not for ſatisfaction to God, but in reference to us, that we might believe the truth of his Doctrine confirmed and ſealed (as they ſay) by his death, and that we might yield obedience to God according to the pattern that he hath ſet before us, and that ſo believing and obeying, we might obtain the remiſſion of Sins and Eternal Life.

But the Scripture goes higher ; in that mutual compact and agreement betwixt God and Chriſt, we find God the Father impoſing, and Chriſt ſubmitting to this ſatisfaction. 1. The Father impoſeth it by charging the ſins of his Elect upon Iſa. 53. 6. Jeſus Chriſt. The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all ; not the ſins themſelves, not the evil in them, or fault of them, but the guilt and penalty belonging to them ; this God laid upon his Son, and charged it upon him; he charged it as a Creditor chargeth the Debt upon the Surety, requiring Ver. 7. ſatisfaction. 2. Chriſt undertook it. He was oppreſſed, and he was afflicted, or as ſome tranſlate, It was exacted, and he anſwered; (i. e.) God the Father required ſatisfaction for ſin, and Jeſus Chriſt was our Surety, anſwered in our behalf; He Ver. 12. bear the ſins of many, he bear them as a Porter that bears the burthen for another which himſelf is not able to ſtand under; he bear them by undergoing the puniſhment which was due for them, he bear them as our Surety, ſubmitting himſelf unto the penalty which he had deſerved; and by that means he made ſatisfaction to the Juſtice of God. Surely Chriſt's Death was not only for confirmation of his Doctrine, but for ſatisfaction to God.

4. There is in it not only a true, but a copious, and full ſatisfaction ; Chriſt's Death and Blood is ſuperabundant to our ſins ; The grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant, 1 Tim. 1. 14. ὑπερεπλεόνασε it was over-full, redundant, more than enough. Many an humble ſoul is apt enough to complain, Oh if I had not been ſo great a ſinner, If I had not committed ſuch and ſuch tranſgreſſions, there might have been hope ; This to undervalue Chriſt's Redemption, this is to think there is more in ſin to damn, than in Chriſt's Sufferings to ſave ; whereas all thy Sins to Chriſt are but as a little cloud to the glorious Sun ; yea, all the ſins of all the men in the world, are but to Chriſts merits as a drop to the Ocean. I ſpeak not this to encourage the preſumptuous ſinner ; for alas, he hath no part in this ſatisfaction ; but to comfort the humble ſinner, who is loaden with the ſenſe of his ſins: what though they were a burthen greater that he can bear yet they are not a burthen greater than Chriſt can bear ? there is in Chriſt's Blood an infinite Treaſure, able to ſanctifie thee and all the World ; there is in Chriſt's Death a Ranſome, a counterpriſe ſufficient to redeem all the ſinners that ever were, or ever ſhall be ; the price is of that nature, that it is not diminiſhed, though it be extended to never ſo many as the Sun hath fulneſs of light to enlighten all the World ; and if the blind do not ſee by it, it is not any ſcarcity of light in the Sun, but by reaſon of his own indiſpoſition, ſo if all men are not acquitted by Chriſt's Death, it's not becauſe that was inſufficient, as if it had not vertue enough to reach them as well as others, but becauſe they by their unbelief do reject this Remedy, Oh what large room hath Faith to expatiate in ! ſit down, and dive, and dive, yet thou canſt not come to the bottom of Chriſt's blood; but as the Prophet Ezekiel ſaw ſtill more and greater abominations, ſo mayſt thou in the Sufferings of Chriſt obſerve more and more fulneſs, See what a notable oppoſition the Apoſtle makes, Rom. 5. 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21. between the firſt and ſecond Adam ; proving at large that Chriſt doth ſuper-abound in the fruits of his grace, above the firſt Adam in the fruits of his ſin ; he calls it grace, and the abundance of grace, and this abundance of grace reigneth to Ver. 17. life ; ſo that theſe Texs ſhould be like ſo much oyl poured into the wounds of every broken hearted ſinner. Oh is there any thing that can be deſired more than this ?

5. There is in it remiſſion of ſins: ſo ſaith Chriſt, This is my blood of the New Teſtament, which is ſhed for Mat. 26. 28. many for the remiſſion of ſins. Remiſſion of ſins is attributed to Chriſt's death as a cauſe ; it is not thy Tears or Prayers, or rending of heart that could pay the leaſt farthing, Without ſhedding of blood (ſaith the Apoſtle) there is no remiſſion, Heb.9.22. God will have tears and blood alſo, though not for the ſame purpoſe; for all thy tears thou muſt fly to Chriſt only as the cauſe ; it is true thou muſt mourn, and pray, and humble thy ſelf, but it's Chriſt's Blood only that can waſh us clean : Oh remember this ! God will not pardon without ſatisfaction by the blood of Chriſt. And ſurely this makes Chriſts Death ſo deſirable : Oh my ſins afflict me, (cries many a one) Oh I am loathſome in mine own Eyes , much more in God's ; ſurely God is offended with my dulneſs, ſlothfulneſs, and my thouſand imperfections ; I am all the day long entangled with this ſin, and that ſin, and the other ſin : but let this contrite ſpirit look on Chriſt's Death, and therein he may find all ſin is pardoned : See here what an Argument is put into thy mouth from theſe ſufferings of Chriſt, well mayeſt thou ſay, O Lord, I am unworthy, but it is juſt and right that Chriſt obtain what he died for ; O Eph.2.13, 14. pardon my ſins for his death's ſake, and for his precious blood ſake.

6, There is in it reconciliation and peace with God, In Chriſt Jeſus ye who ſometimes were afar off, are made nigh by the blood of Chriſt, for he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the mid- Rom. 5. 10. dle wall of partitions between us. ——— When we Eph.2.16 were Enemies, we were reconciled unto God by the Col 1. 20. death of his Son ——— that he might reconcile both (viz Jews and Gentiles) unto God in one body by the Croſs. ——— And having made peace through the blood of his Croſs, by him to reconcile all things to him- ſelf. This certainly ſhould admirably ſupport the drooping ſoul; it may be thou crieſt, My ſins have made a breach betwixt God and my ſoul; I have warred againſt heaven, and now God wars againſt me; and oh what odds? if the Lord be angry, yea, but a little, what will become of my poor ſoul? is a ſtubble able to contend with the conſuming fire? how then ſhall I contend with God? But come now, and look on Chriſt's Death as the means and meritorious cauſe of Reconciliation, and thou canſt not but ſay, O this death is deſirable! When God the Father looks at a ſinner in the bloody glaſs of Chriſt, then ſaith God, Oh now fury and wrath is not in me, I have no more quarrel or controverſie with this ſoul: ſeeing Chriſt hath ſuffered, it is enough, I have as much as my juſtice can demand, my frowns are now turned into ſmiles, and my rod of iron into a Scepter of grace, Why this is it that makes Chriſt's Death and Blood ſo deſirable to the ſoul; what ſhall Jacob ſo rejoyce in ſeeing Eſau's face altered to him? ſhall he ſay to Eſau, I have ſeen thy face, as the face of God? how much rather may the humble and believing ſinner be filled with gladneſs, when through Chriſt's blood ſhall be thus appeaſed and reconciled with him?

7. There is in it immunity and ſafety from all the Judgments and dangers threatned againſt our ſins. Surely if there were ſuch force in the Blood of the type, that by the effuſion of it the Iſraelites lay ſafe, and untouched of the revenging Angel; how much more in the blood of Chriſt? Satan himſelf is ſaid to be overcome by the blood of the Lamb; and God's revenge due to our ſins, is ſaid to be removed by the blood of Jeſus, therefore it is called, The blood of ſprinkling, that ſpeaks better things than the blood of Abel: Rev. 12. 11. Heb. 12. 24. The blood of ſprinkling was for ſafety, and Chriſt's blood is for ſafety; it cries not for Revenge, as Abel's blood cried, but for mercy and for deliverance from all miſery.

8. There is in it a bleſſed vertue to open Heaven, and to make Paſſage thither for our ſouls, Having boldneſs or liberty to enter into the holieſt by the blood of Jeſus: Heb. 10. 19. it is the blood of Chriſt that rends the Vail, and makes a way into the Holy of Holies, that is, into the Kingdom of Heaven: without this blood there is no acceſs to God; it is only by the blood of Chriſt that Heaven is open to our prayers, and that Heaven is open to our perſons; this blood is that Key that unlocks Heaven, and lets in the ſouls of his Redeemed ones: And I looked (ſaith John) and behold a door was Rev. 4. 1. open in Heaven, and the firſt voice I heard, was as it were of a trumpet talking with me, which ſaid, come up hither; and no ſooner was he in the Spirit, and entred in, but he heard the new ſong of the four beaſts, and four and twenty Elders, ſaying to Chriſt, Thou Rev. 5. 9 art worthy to take the book, and to open the ſeals thereof, for thou waſt ſlain, and haſt redeemed us to God by thy blood.

Come now, and gather in all theſe ſeveral particulars; there is in Chriſt's blood incluſively the perſon of Chriſt, the price of ſouls, a merit and ſatisfaction, a copious and full ſatisfaction, remiſſion of ſins, reconciliation with God, immunity from dangers, a paſſage into glory; I might add all other Priviledges, Benefits, Dignities of the Soul, for they all flow from the blood of Jeſus, and they are all contained either expreſly, or virtually in the blood of Jeſus; and is not all this worth the looking after? O my ſoul, where is thy languor, and fainting towards this bleſſed object? Shall Ahab eagerly deſire after Naboth's Vineyard, yea, ſo eagerly deſire it, that his deſire ſhall caſt him upon his bed? and is not Chriſt's Blood better than Naboth's Vineyard? how is it, O my ſoul, that thou art not ſick on thy bed in thy deſires after Jeſus? When David deſired ſtrongly after God's Law, he expreſſed his longings by the breaking and fainting of his ſoul, My ſoul breaketh for the longing that it hath to thy judgment at all times; ——— and my ſoul fainteth for thy Salvation: Pſal. 119. 20, 81. 2 Cor. 5. 2. Oh where be theſe breakings and faintings? ſtrength of deſire is expreſſed by the Apoſtle by groaning, which is the language of ſickneſs: Oh where be theſe groanings after Chriſt's Death? When I call to mind that Chriſt's Death is my Ranſome, that Chriſt's Wounds are my Salves, that Chriſt's ſtripes are my cures, that Chriſt's blood is my fountain to waſh in, and to be clean; how ſhould I but pray in this ſence, His blood be upon us, and on our children? Oh I am undone except I have a ſhare in this blood! why is it only this blood that can heal my ſoul, it is only this Fountain opened to the houſe of David, and to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, that can quench my thirſt; and now I have ſeen the Fountain opened, how ſhould I but thirſt, and cry out with the woman of Samaria, O give me this water that I thirſt no more? John 4. 15. But alas, I ſay it, I only ſay it. Oh that I could feel it! Oh my Jeſus, that thou would'ſt breed in me ardent deſires, vehement longings, unutterable groans, mighty gaſpings: Oh that I were like the dry and thirſty ground, that gapes, and cleaves, and opens for drops of Rain! when my ſpirit is in right frame, I feel ſome deſires after Chriſt's blood; but how ſhort are theſe deſires, how unworthy of the things deſired? Come Lord, kindle in me hot burning deſires, and then give me the deſirable Object.

Sect. 4. Of hoping in Jeſus in that reſpect.

4. LET us hope in Jeſus, carrying on the great work of our Salvation in his ſufferings and death. By this hope I intend only that which the Apoſtle calls full aſſurance of hope. Heb. 6. 11. The main queſtion is, Whether I have any part in Chriſt's ſufferings? They are of excellent uſe, and of great value to believers, but what am I the better for them if I have no part in them? or if I ſay, I hope well, Oh but what grounds of that hope? It is not every hope that is a well grounded hope; full aſſurance of hope, is an high pitch of hope, and every Chriſtian ſhould ſtrive and endeavour after it: now that we may do it, and that we may diſcern it, that our hope is not baſe, but right born, that the grounds of our hope in Chriſt's death are not falſe, but of the right ſtamp, I ſhall lay down theſe ſigns———

1. If Chriſt's death be mine, then is Chriſt's life mine; é converſo, if Chriſt's life be mine, then is Chriſt's death mine. Chriſt's active and paſſive obedience cannot be ſevered; Chriſt is not divided: we muſt not ſeek one part of our righteouſneſs in his birth, another in his habitual holineſs, another in the integrity of his life, another in his obedience of death; They that endeavour to ſeperate Chriſt's active and paſſive obedience, they do exceedingly derogate from Chriſt, and make him but half a Saviour; was not Chriſt our Surety? Heb. 7. 22. Heb. 7, 22. and thereupon was he not bound to fulfil all righteouſneſs for us? (i. e.) as to ſuffer in our ſtead, ſo to obey in our ſtead? Oh take heed of oppoſing or ſeparating Chriſt's death, and Chriſt's life, either we have all Chriſt, or we have no part in Chriſt: now if theſe two be concomitants, well may the one be as the ſign of the other; ſearch then, and try, O my ſoul, haſt thou any ſhare in Chriſt's life? canſt thou make out Chriſt's active obedience unto thy own ſoul? if herein thou art at a ſtand, peruſe thoſe Characters laid down in the life of Chriſt; the many glorious effects flowing out of Chriſt's life into a Believers ſoul we have diſcovered before.

2. If Chriſt's death be mine, then is that great end of his death accompliſhed in me; viz. By the ſacrifice of himſelf he hath put away ſin, even Heb.9.26. Eph. 1.7. Dan. 9.24. my ſin—— and, in him I have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveneſs of ſins. As on this account he ſuffered, to finiſh the tranſgreſſion, to make an end of ſins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity; ſo if his death be mine, I may aſſuredly ſay, my ſins are pardoned, and mine iniquities are done away. Come then, and try by this ſign, canſt thou aſſure thy ſelf that thy ſins are forgiven thee? haſt thou heard the whiſperers of God's Spirit, Son, or Daughter, be of good comfort, thy ſins are remitted? there is no queſtion then, but thou art redeemed by his blood, thou haſt part in his ſufferings. Indeed this very Character may ſeem obſcure, aſſurance of pardon is the hidden Manna, the white ſtone which no man knoweth, ſaving he which receives it and feels it; and yet if thou diligently obſerveſt the Spirit's actings, even this may be known; remiſſion of ſin, and repentance for ſin, are Twins of a birth; thoſe two, God in Scripture 1 John 1.9. Acts 8.22. Acts 5.31. Luk. 24. 46, 47. hath joyned together: If we confeſs our ſins, he is faithful and juſt to forgive our ſins.——And, repent and pray, if the thought of thy heart may be forgiven thee.——And, Chriſt is a prince and a Saviour to give repentance to Iſrael, and forgiveneſs of ſins.—— And, thus it is written, and thus it behoved Chriſt to ſuffer——That repentance and remiſſion of ſins ſhould be preached in his Name. In this way David aſſured himſelf; Pſal. 32.5. I ſaid, I will confeſs my Tranſgreſſions unto the Lord, and thou forgaveſt the iniquity of my ſin, Selah. It is no more, than to aſk thy Soul, what, are thy repentings kindled together? Haſt thou ſeriouſly and ſincerely repented thee of ſin as ſin? Haſt thou turned from all ſin unto God with conſtancy and delight? Surely this is peculiar and proper to the Child of God by Vertue of Chriſt's Death.

3. If Chriſt's death be mine, then am I engraffed into the likeneſs of Chriſt's death; then am I made conformable to Chriſt in his death, that I may know him and the fellowſhip of his ſufferings being made conformable unto his death. The ſame Phil. 3.10. that was done to Chriſt in a natural way, is done and performed in the Believer in a ſpiritual way; (i e.) as Chriſt died, ſo the Believer dies; as Chriſt died for ſin, ſo the Believer dies to ſin; In that he died, he died unto ſin,—— likewiſe reckon ye alſo Rom. 6. 10, 11. your ſelves to be dead indeed unto ſin. Obſerve here the Analogy, and proportion, and reſemblance betwixt Chriſt and us, both die unto ſin, Chriſt by way of expiation, ſuffering, and ſatisfying for the ſins of others; we by way of mortification, killing, and ſlaying, and crucifying our own ſins. I look upon this ſign as the very Touchſtone of a Chriſtian, and therefore I ſhall inſiſt upon it.

Two queſtions I ſuppoſe needful, to reſolve the grounds of our Hope concerning our intereſt in the death of Chriſt.

1. Whether indeed and in truth our ſins are mortified;
2. Whether we increaſe or grow in our mortification?

For the firſt; whether indeed and in truth our ſins are mortified; It is a skill worth our learning, becauſe of the many deceits that are within us; ſin may ſeem to be mortified when the occaſion is removed; or ſin may ſeem to be mortified, when it is not violent, but quiet; or ſin may ſeem to be mortified, when it is but removed from one ſin unto another; or ſin may ſeem to be mortified when the ſap and ſtrength of ſin is dead; as the Lamp goes out, when either the Oil is not ſupplied or taken away. Now that in this Scrutiny we may ſearch to the bottom, and know the truth and certainty of our mortification, it will appear by theſe Rules.

1. True mortification ſprings from a Root of Faith. Every thing in the world proceeds from ſome cauſe or other; and if the cauſe be good, the effect muſt needs be good; but if the cauſe be evil, the effect muſt needs be evil: A good Tree cannot bring Mat. 7.18. forth evil Fruit, and an evil Tree cannot bring forth good Fruit. In this caſe therefore let us examine the cauſe; if we can make out this Truth, that we believe in Chriſt, that we roll our ſelves on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt for life and for ſalvation, and that now we begin to feel in us the decay of ſin, we may conclude from the cauſe or riſe, that this decay of ſin is true mortification; ſurely it hath received the deadly wound: it is a bleſſed effect ariſing from a good, and right, and genuine cauſe.

2. True mortification is general; not only one ſin, but all ſins are mortified in a true Believer. As death is unto the Members of the body, ſo is mortification unto the Members of ſin; now death ſeizeth upon every member, it leaves not life in any one member of the body; ſo neither doth mortification leave life in any one member of ſin; my meaning is, it takes away the commanding power of ſin in every member: Mortifie Col. 3. 5. your members which are upon the earth (ſaith the Apoſtle) your members, not one member; and then he inſtanceth, Fornication, Uncleanneſs, Inordinate Affections, Evil Concupiſcence, and Covetouſneſs, which is Idolatry. Chriſtians that have their intereſt in Chriſt's death, muſt not only leave Pride but Luſt; not only Uncleanneſs, but Covetouſneſs; Sin muſt not only be ſlain in the underſtanding, but in the will and affections: mortification is general.

You will ſay this is an hard ſaying; doth any man, any Believer, leave all ſin? yes, in reſpect of ruling power he leaves all ſin; all groſs ſins, and all other ſins; only with this differenee, all groſs ſins in practice and actions, and all frailties and infirmities in allowance and affection. It is good to obſerve the degrees of mortification: the firſt is, to forbear the practice of groſs and ſcandalous ſins in word and deed: If any man offend Jam. 3.3. not in word, the ſame is a perfect man; and this perfection, by the help of Grace a godly man may reach to in this life. The ſecond is to deny conſent and will to all frailties and infirmities: The evil which I would not, that do I, Rom. 7. 19. Rom. 7.10 I may do evil, and yet I would not do evil; there is a denial of it in the will. The third is to be free from any ſetled liking of any evil motion: not only to deny conſent and will, but alſo to deny the very thought or imagination ſetledly and diliberately to delight in ſin. I know, to be void of all evil motions ariſing from the fleſh, or of all ſudden paſſions within, or of all ſudden delights in ſin, or of all deadneſs or backwardneſs to good things by reaſon of ſin, it is an higher pitch than any man can touch in this preſent world: for whilſt we live, the Law of the Members will be working, and we ſhall find cauſe enough to complain of a body of death; only, if when theſe motions firſt ariſe, we preſently endeavour to quench them, to reject them, to deteſt them, and to caſt them away from us, therein is true mortification: and thus far we muſt look to it, to leave all ſin.

3. True mortification is not without its preſent Combats, though at laſt it conquer; many a time corruption may break out, and luſt may be ſtrong and violent; but this violent luſt is only for the preſent, whereas a luſt unmortified ever reigneth. It is with ſin in a Believer, as it is with a man that hath received his deadly wound from his Enemy, he will not preſently fly away, but rather he will run more violently upon him that hath wounded him; yet, be he never ſo violent, in the middle of his Action he ſinks down, becauſe he hath received his deadly wound; ſo it is with a Believer's ſin, and with a mortified luſt, it may rage in the heart, and ſeem to bear ſway for a time; but the power and ſtrength of ſin is mortified, it ſinks down, and wants ability to prevail; by this ſign may we know whether the corruptions and ſtirrings of our hearts proceed from a mortified, or from an unmortified Luſt; a Luſt, though mortified may rage for a time but it cannot rule; it may ſtrive, but it cannot totally prevail; it may be in the heart, as a Thief in the houſe, not to reſide or dwell, but to lodge for a night, and be gone: And (that which is ever to be obſerved) after its ſwinge and breaking out, the heart that lodgeth it, abhors its ſelf in duſt and aſhes, cries mightily unto God for mercy and pardon, repairs the breach with ſtronger reſolution, and more invincible watchfulneſs againſt future aſſaults; but a Luſt unmortified poſſeſſeth it ſelf, and rules and reigns in the heart and ſoul; it abides there, and will not away. I ſhall not deny but there may be a ceſſation of its actings for a time; but that is not any want of good will, as they ſay, but only of matter, means, opportunity, enticement, company, provocation, or the like; and after ſuch ceſſation or forbearance, the heart uſually entertains it again with more greedineſs; it lies and delights in it as much as ever; it hardens it ſelf moſt obſtinately in it, as if it were impoſſible to leave it, or live without it with any kind of comfort.

4. True mortification is a painful work. The very word imports no leſs; to kill a man, or to mortifie a member, will not be without pain; hence it is called a crucifying of the fleſh, and a cutting off the Right Hand, a plucking out the Right Eye: they that are Gal. 5.24. Mat. 5.29, 30. Chriſt's have crucified the fleſh; if thy hand offend thee, cut it off; and if thy eye offend thee, pluck it out, In this reſpect this death unto ſin carries with it a likeneſs to the death of Chriſt; it is attended with Agonies, and Soul-conflicts, both before, and after our converſion.

1. Before converſion, before the firſt wound be given it, why then ordinarily there is ſome compunction of Spirit, ſome pricking of heart; what a caſe do we find the Jews in, when after Peter's Sermon, they were pricked at their hearts? And what an Agony do we find the Jailor in, when he came trembling in, and falling down at the Apoſtles feet, and Acts 2.7. Act. 16. 30. crying out Sirs, What ſhall I do to be ſaved? With ſuch Agonies as theſe, is the beginning of mortification uſually attended; I do not ſay that they are alike in all, whether for degree or continuance; but in ordinary, true and ſound converſion is not without ſome of theſe Soul-conflicts.

2. After Converſion, after the firſt round, there are ſome Agonies ſtill; for though a Believer be delivered of ſin in reſpect of the guilt, and reigning power; yet he hath ſtill ſome remainders of ſinful Corruption left within him, which draw many a groan, and many a ſigh from his trembling heart; Rom. 8. 23. we alſo have the firſt-fruits of the Spirit, even we our ſelves groan within our ſelves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the Redemption of our bodies: Such are the Groans of mortifying Saints, Saints dying unto ſin, like the Groans of dying men, whoſe Souls being weary of their Bodies, do earneſtly deſire a Diſſolution: And thus Paul groaned, when he ſaid, O wretched man that I am who ſhall deliver me from the body of this death. Rom. 7. 24.

Oh what a Touchſtone is this? How will this diſcover true mortification from that which was counterfeit? Some may think they are dead unto ſin, when indeed and in truth they are not dead, but aſleep unto ſin; and it appears by this, becauſe there were no pangs in their death; you know this is a difference betwixt death and ſleep; there are pangs in the one, but not in the other: O my Soul, examin, What pangs were there in thy death unto ſin? What Agonies what Soul-conflicts haſt thou felt? What compunction of heart, what affliction of Spirit haſt thou endured for ſin? What trouble haſt thou had to find ſuch a Law in thy members rebel- Rom. 7. 23. ling againſt the Law in thy mind, and bringing thee into captivity to the Law of Sin? Why Surely thou art not ſo mortified, as to be freed wholly from the power of ſin; It may be, it doth not rule in thee as a Prince, yet certainly it tyrannizeth over thee, it oft-times carries thee contrary to the bent of thy regenerate mind, to the omitting of what thou would'ſt do, and to the committing of what thou would'ſt not do: And is not this an affliction of Spirit? Doth not this cauſe frequent Conflicts in thy Spirit? If not, thou mayeſt well ſuſpect that ſin is not dead, but aſleep; or if it be dead to thee, yet thou art not dead to it. I confeſs, death-pangs are not all alike in all; ſome have a more gentle, and others a more painful death; ſo it is in this Spititual death unto ſin: And that herein there may be no miſtake, I ſhall propound this Queſtion: What is the leaſt meaſure of theſe pangs, theſe Soul-Agonies and Conflicts, that are neceſſarily required to true mortification? I anſwer——

1. There muſt be a ſenſe of ſin, and of God's Wrath due unto ſin; ſuch a ſenſe we find in Jeſus Chriſt; he was very ſenſible of the weight and burden of thoſe ſins, and of the Wrath of God that lay upon him; which made him cry out, My God, My God, why haſt thou forſaken me? Thus Souls in the Act of Mortification, ſometimes cry out, Oh my ſins! and Oh God's wrath!

2. There muſt be ſorrow for Sin, Such an Affection we find alſo in Jeſus Chriſt: My ſoul is exceeding ſorrowful, even unto death; περίλυπος, he was beſet and ſorrounded with ſorrows; ſo every mortified ſinner, at one time or other, he feels an inward ſorrow and grief; even that Godly ſorrow which the 2 Cor 7. 10. Apoſtle ſpeaks of, a ſorrow according to God; (i. e.) coming from God, well-pleaſing to God, and bringing to God back again.

3. There muſt be a deſire of being freed and delivered from ſin; Such a deſire we find alſo in Jeſus Chriſt; I have a Baptiſm to be baptiſed with, and how Luk. 12. 50. am I ſtraitned until it be accompliſhed? A regenerate ſoul earneſtly deſires to be freed, not only from the guilt, but alſo from the power of ſin, O wretched man that I am! who ſhall deliver me? &c.

4. There muſt be anſwerable endeavours in effectual ſtrivings againſt ſin; Ye have not reſiſted unto Heb. 12.4. blood, ſtriving againſt ſin. How did our Saviour wreſtle in the Garden, offering up prayers and ſupplica- Heb. 5.7. cations, with ſtrong crying and tears? ſo will a regenerate Soul wreſtle with God about the death of ſin, praying, watching, going out in the ſtrength of God, and engaging in a continual War, a deadly feud againſt it, and theſe are the leaſt of thoſe Soul-conflicts, wherewith this mortification, or death unto ſin is attended.

Now try we the Truth of our Mortification by theſe ſigns: Doth it ſpring from a right Root of Faith? Is it general and univerſal in reſpect of all ſins? Is it accompanied with Combats? Doth the Fleſh luſt againſt the Spirit, and the Spirit againſt the Fleſh? And in this combat, doth the Spirit at laſt prevail and triumph over the Fleſh, Do we find it a painful work both before and after Converſion? Why, then may I ſay with the Apoſtle, Now I know Chriſt, and the Fellowſhip of his Sufferings; Now by the Grace of Chriſt I am made conformable to his Death. As he died for Sin, ſo I die to Sin; And here is the Ground of my Hope, that Chriſt's Death is mine.

For the Second, whether we encreaſe and grow in our Mortification! This Queſtion is needful as the former, to ſatisfie our Soul's Intereſt in the Death of Chriſt. As True Grace, is Growing Grace, ſo True Mortification is that which grows. Now that we may be reſolved in this Point alſo, the Growth of our Mortification will appear by theſe following ſigns ———

1, Growing Mortification hath its cheifeſt Conflicts in Spiritual Luſts. At firſt we mortifie groſſer Evils, ſuch as Oaths, Drunkenneſs, Uncleanneſs, Worldly-mindedneſs, or the like; but when we grow in this Bleſſed Duty, we then ſet our ſelves againſt ſpiritual wickedneſs; as Pride, Preſumption, Self-carnal confidence in a man's own Graces, or the like. This Method the Apoſtle ſets down; let us clean our ſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit: firſt from all filthineſs of the fleſh or body, and then from all filthineſs of the ſpirit or ſoul; as the children of Iſrael in their entrance into the land of Promiſe, firſt they ſat npon the Frontiers and Skirts of the Land, and they fought it out, and prevailed in the heart of the Countrey; ſo Chriſtians in their mortification, they firſt ſet upon Worldly luſts, grown evils, outward ſins; add when they have encountred them at the Frontiers, they then conflict with ſuch corruptions as lie more inwardly in the very heart, ſpiritual wickedneſſes that are within. Now if this be our caſe, here is one ſign of our growth.

2 Cor. 7. 1.

2. Growing Mortification is more even, conſtant, laſting, durable, when there is in the heart a ſudden flowing and re-flowing; it comes from thoſe vaſt Seas of Corruption that are within us; many Souls have their Ague-fits, ſometimes hot, and ſometimes cold it may be, now they are in a very good frame and within an hour or two, a mighty Tide comes in, and they are born down by Sin and Corruption; in this caſe Mortification is very weak: But on the contrary, if we find our ſtanding more firm and ſure, if for the main we walk evenly, and keep cloſely to the Lord; it carries with it an evidence that our Mortification grows.

3. Growing Mortification feels Luſt more weak, and the Spirit more ſtrong in its ordinary actings. If we would know the truth or growth, let us look to our fits of ſinning, for then a man's ſtrength or weakneſs is diſcerned moſt: as a man's weakneſs to good is deſcerned when he comes to act it; to will a preſent with me, but how to perform that which is good, I find not: ſo a man's weakneſs to ſin is beſt diſcerned, when he comes to act it. Mark then the ordinary Fits (as we call them) of ſinning; ſometimes God is pleaſed to appoint ſome more frequent aſſaults, as if he would on purpoſe ſuffer the law of the members to war, and to muſter up all their Forces, that ſo we might the rather know what is in our hearts; at ſuch a time, if we find that reſiſtance againſt ſin grows ſtronger, that ſin cannot advance and carry on his Armmy ſo as formerly, that ſin is encountred at firſt, or met withal at the Frontiers, and there overthrown, this is a good ſign that now our Mortification grows; as, ſuppoſe it be a Luſt or Fancy, it cannot boyl up to groſs fancies as it was wont; or ſuppoſe it be a Luſt of Pride, it boyls not up to ſuch a Spirit of Pride as formerly; inſtead of bringing forth fruit, it now brings forth bloſſoms: or inſtead of bringing forth bloſſoms, it now brings forth nothing but Leaves; why, this is a ſure ſign that this Luſt is withering more and more; when the inordinate Thirſt is not ſo great in the time of the Fit, when the inward Luſts pitch upon lower Acts than they had wont, when the Waters abate, and fall ſhort, and leſſen, and overflow leſs ground, we may conclude certainly that Mortification grows.

Rom. 7. 18.

4. Growing Mortification hath more ability to abſtain from the very occaſions and beginnings of luſt. Thus Job (whom we look on as a man much mortified) made a Covenant with his Eyes, that he would not think upon a Maid; and no queſtion, as he made a Covenant, ſo he kept his Covenant. Oh! when a man cannot endure to come where ſuch a one is that he loves not, when he cannot endure the ſight of him, or any thing that puts him in mind of him, not ſo much as to parly, or ſpeak with him; this is a ſign of ſtrong hatred; and ſo when a man hates the very Garment ſpotted with the fleſh, here's a good ſign: I know this height is not eaſie to attain to, and therefore ſome in imitation of Job and David, have bound themſelves with Vows and Promiſes, as much as might be, to abſtain from the appearance of evil, to cruſh the Cockatrice Egg before the Serpent could creep out of it, to avoid ſin in its firſt riſe: but alas, how have they broken their Vows from time to time? For all this, I dare not ſpeak againſt Vows, provided, that, 1. They be of things lawful. 2. That we eſteem them not as Duties of abſolute neceſſity. And 3. That we bind not our ſelves perpetually, leſt our Vows ſhould become burthens unto us; but only for ſome ſhort time, and ſo renew them as occaſion requires: in this way our Vows might much help us in our Mortification: And if once, through the help of Vows or Prayer, or looking unto Jeſus, or going to the Croſs of Jeſus Chriſt, or by any other means we feel our ſelves more able to reſiſt ſin, to hate ſin in its firſt riſe, firſt motions, firſt on-ſet, we may aſſuredly hope that now our Mortification grows.

Job. 31.

O my Soul, try now the growth of thy Mortification by theſe ſigns; haſt thou overcome groſſer ſins, and is now thy cheifeſt Conflict with ſpiritual wickedneſſes? Is thy ſtanding and walking with God more cloſe, and even, and conſtant than ſometimes it hath been? is thy Luſts more weak, and thy Grace more ſtrong in ordinary actings? I ſay, in ordinary actings; for the eſtimate of thy growth muſt not be taken for a turn or two, but by a conſtant courſe: haſt thou now more ability to quench the flame of ſin in the very ſpark, to daſh Babylon's Brats againſt the ſtones, even whilſt they are little, to abſtain from ſin in its firſt motion or beginning? Why, then is the promiſe accompliſhed, he will ſubdue our iniquities: Surely thou art a growing Chriſtian; thou haſt fellowſhip with Chriſt in his ſufferings; thy ground is ſolid, firm, and ſtable; thy hope hath a Rock-foundation, and thou maiſt build upon it, that Chriſt's Death, and Blood, and Sufferings are thine even thine; he loved thee, and gave himſelf for thee.

Mica 7. 19.

Sect. 5. Of Believing in Jeſus in that Reſpect.

1. LEt us believe in Jeſus, carrying on the great work of our Salvation for us during his Sufferings and Death. Every one looks upon this as an eaſie Duty; only the humble Soul, the ſcrupulous Conſcience cries out, What! Is it poſſible that Chriſt ſhould die, ſuffer, ſhed his Blood for me? His Incarnation was wonderful, his Life on Earth was to aſtoniſhment? but that the Son of God ſhould become Man, live amongſt Men, and die ſuch a Death, even the Death of theCroſs, for ſuch an one as I am, I cannot believe it; it is an abyſs paſt fadoming: the more I conſider it, the more I am amazed at it. Suppoſe I had an enemy in my power, Man or Devil, one that provokes me every day, one that hunts my Soul to take it away; ſhould I not ſay with 1 Sam. 24. 19. Saul, If a man find his Enemy, will he let him go well away? It may be an ingenious Spirit (ſuch as David) would do thus much; but would David, or any breathing Soul, not only ſpare his Enemy, but ſpill himſelf to ſave his Enemy? Would a Man become a Devil, to ſave Devils? Would a Man endure Hell Pains to free all the Devils in Hell from their Eternal Pains? And yet what were this in compariſon of what Chriſt hath done or ſuffered for us? It is not ſo much for us to ſuffer for Devils (for we are Fellow-Creatures) as it is for Chriſt, God man, Man-God, to ſuffer for us. Oh what an hard thing is it, conſidering my Enmity againſt Chriſt, to believe that Chriſt died for me, that he gave himſelf to the Death, even to the Death of the Croſs for my Soul?

Trembling Soul! throw not away thy ſelf in a way of Unblief. It may be thou would'ſt not die for an Enemy, an irreconcilable Fnemy; but are not the mercies of God above all the mercies of men? O believe! And that I may perſuade effectually, I ſhall lay down firſt ſome Directions; and ſecondly, ſome incouragements of Faith,

1. For the Directicns of Faith; in reference to Chriſt's Death, obſerve theſe Particulars:

1. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt; not firſt to the Promiſe, and then to Chriſt; but firſt to Chriſt, and then to the Promiſe; the Perſon ever goes before the Prerogative.

2 Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the fleſh: This was the difference betwixt the New-Teſtament, and Old-Teſtament-Believers; their Faith directs only to God, but our Faith looks more immediately to Jeſus Chriſt; Believe in the Lord Jeſus, and thou ſhalt be ſaved.

3. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt, as God in the Feſh, made under the law. He continued in all things written in the Book of the Law to do them; and ſo our Faith muſt look upon him. But of theſe before: I ſhall ſay nothing more to theſe Particulars.

4. Faith muſt go to Chriſt, not only as made under the directive part of the Law by his life, but under the penal part of the Law by his Death; in both theſe reſpects Chriſt was made under the Law. The one half of the Law he ſatisfied by the holineſs of his life; he fulfilled the Law in every jot, and every tittle; the other half of the Law he ſatisfied by his enduring the Death, even the Death of the Croſs; he paid both the Principal and the Forfeiture; and though men do not ſo, yet Chriſt did ſo, that the whole Law might be ſatisfied fully, by his being under both theſe parts of the Law, Pay and Penalty: Come then, and look upon Chriſt as dying; it was the Serpent, as lifted up, and ſo looked at, that healed the Iſraelites of their fiery ſtings. Alas! we are diſeaſed, in a ſpiritual ſenſe, as they were, and Chriſt Jeſus was lifted up as a Remedy to us, as the Serpent was unto them; it remains therefore, that as they looked up to the Brazen Serpent, ſo we look up to Jeſus, believe in Jeſus, as lifted up for Life and Joh. 14. 15. for Salvation: As Moſes lifted up the Serpent in the Wilderneſs, ſo muſt the Son of man be lifted up, that whoſoever believeth in him, ſhould not periſh, but have eternal life, Indeed ſome difference there is betwixt the Serpent and Chriſt———

As, 1. The Brazen Serpent had no power in it ſelf to cure, as Chriſt hath. 2 The Serpent cured the Iſraelites but for a time, to die again; but whomſoever Jeſus cures in a Spiritual Senſe, he cures for Joh. 11. 26. ever; they ſhall never die. 3. The Serpent alſo had its time of curing; it did not always retain its Vertue, but during the time they were in the Wilderneſs; only Jeſus Chriſt, our Brazen Serpent, doth ever retain his power and vertue to the end of the World; and hence it is, that in the Minſtry, Chriſt is ſtill held forth as lifted up, that all that will but look on him by Faith, may live. 4. The Serpent, ſometimes a Remedy againſt Poyſon, was after turned even to poyſon the Iſraelites, which made Hezekiah to cruſh it, and break it, and ſtamp it to powder; but Jeſus Chriſt ever remains the ſovereign and healing God; he is the ſame yeſterday, to day, and for ever. He is unchangeable in his goodneſs, as he is in his holy and divine Nature; he can never be defaced, nor deſtroyed, but he abideth the Saviour of ſinners to all Eternity: why then let us rather look upon Chriſt, and believe in Chriſt as lifted up, (i. e.) as he was crucified and died on the Croſs. In this reſpect he is made a fit Object for a ſinner's faith to truſt upon, and reſt upon; Chriſt as crucified, as made ſin, and a curſe for us, is the object of our pardon. O this is it that makes Chriſt's death ſo deſirable; why therein is virtually and meritoriouſly pardon of Sin, Juſtification, Redemption, Reconciliation, and what not? Oh! cries a ſinner, where may I ſet my foot? How ſhould I regain my God? My ſin hath undone me, which way ſhould I caſt for pardon? Why now remember that in ſeeking pardon, Chriſt was crucified: Chriſt as dying, is principally to be eyed and looked at: Who is he that condemneth, it is Chriſt that died, Rom. 8. 34. No Queſtion Chriſt's Rom. 8. 34. Active Obedience, during his Life, was moſt exact, and perfect, and meritorious; yet that was not the expiation of ſin: only his Paſſive Obedience (Chriſt only in his Sufferings) took away ſin, the guilt of ſin, and puniſhment for ſin: We have Redemption Eph 1. 7. through the blood of Chriſt, even the forgiveneſs of ſins. If any humble Soul would have recourſe to that Chriſt, who is now in Heaven, let him firſt in the Actings of his Faith, conſider him as crucified, as lifted up, as made ſin for us, as through whom (under that conſideration) he is to receive pardon of ſin, Juſtification, Redemption, Reconciliation, Sanctification, Salvation.

5. Faith in going to Chriſt, as lifted up, it is principally and mainly to look unto the end, meaning, intent, and deſign of Chriſt in his Sufferings, as he was lifted up. We are not barely to conſider the Hiſtory of Chriſt's Death, but the aim of Chriſt in his Death. Many read the Hiſtory, and they are affected with it; There is a Principle of Humanity in Men, which will ſtir up Compaſſion, and Love, and Pity towards all in Miſery: Whilſt Chriſt was ſuffering, the Women ſollowed after him weeping; but this weeping, not being Spiritual, or rais'd enough, he ſaid to them, Daughters of Jeruſalem weep not for me, but for your ſelves. The way of Faith drawing Vertue out of Chriſt's Death, it is eſpecially to look to the ſcope and drift of Chriſt in his Sufferings. As God looks principally to the meaning of the Spirit, by Prayer, ſo doth Faith look principally to the meaning of Chriſt in his Sufferings: Miſtake not, my meaning is not, that we ſhould be ignorant of the Hiſtory of Chriſt's Death, or of the manner of Chriſt's Sufferings; you ſee we have opened it largely, and followed it cloſe from firſt to laſt; but we muſt not ſtick there; we ſhould above all, look to the mind and heart of Chriſt in all this: Some obſerve, that both in the Old and New Teſtament we find this Method; firſt, the Hiſtory, and then the Myſtery; firſt, the Manner, and then the Meaning of Chriſt's Sufferings; as in the Old Teſtament, We have firſt the Hiſtory, in Pſal. 22. written by David; and then the Myſtery, in Iſa. 52. written by Iſaiah. And in the New Teſtament we have firſt the manner of his Sufferings written at large by all the Evangeliſts; and then the meaning, written by the Apoſtles in all their Epiſtles. Now accordingly are the Acts of Faith, we muſt firſt look on Jeſus as lifted up, and then look at the end and meaning; why was this Jeſus thus lifted up? Well, but you may demand, what was the End, the Plot, the great Deſign of Chriſt in this reſpect?

I anſwer, Some Ends were remote, and others were more immediate? but omitting all thoſe Ends that are remote, his Glory, our Salvation, &c. I ſhall only anſwer in theſe Particulars.

1. One Deſign of Chriſt's Death was to redeem us from the ſlavery of Death and Hell. He hath redeemed us from the Curſe of the Law, being made a Curſe Gal.3. 13. for us; as it is written, Curſed is every one that hangeth on a Tree: Hence it is, that we ſay, that by his Sufferings Chriſt hath redeemed us from Hell, and by his doings Chriſt hath given us a right to Heaven; he was made under the Law, that he might redeem them that Gal.3.4.5. were under the Law. Alas! we were carnal, ſold under ſin; whereupon the Law ſeized on us, lock'd us up, as it were, in a Dungeon; yea, the ſentence paſſed, and we but waited for Execution: Now to get us rid from this diſmal, damnable Eſtate, Chriſt himſelf is made under the Law, that he might redeem us. Redeem us! How? Not by way of Intreaty, to ſtep in, and beg our Pardon; that would not ſerve the turn: Sold we were, and bought we muſt be; a Price muſt be laid down for us, it was a matter of Redemption; But with what muſt we be redeemed? Surely with no eaſie Price; ah no, it coſt him dear, and very dear: 1 Pet. 1. 18. Ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as Silver and Gold, but with the precious blood of Chriſt: His precious Blood was the Price we ſtood him in; which he paid when he gave his Life a Ranſome Mat. 20. 22. for many. The Caſe ſtood thus betwixt Chriſt and us in this Point of Redemption; we all like a Crew or Company of Malefactors, were ready to ſuffer, and to be executed: Now, what ſaid Chriſt to this? Why, I will come under the Law, ſaid Chriſt, I will ſuffer that which they ſhould ſuffer; I will take upon me their Execution, upon Conditions I may redeem them. Now this he did at his death, and this was the end why he died, that by his death we might be redeemed from the ſlavery of Death and Hell.

2. Another deſign of Chriſt's death, was to free us from ſin. Not only would he remove the effect, Rom. 3. 25. but he would take away the cauſe alſo; Whom God hath ſet forth to be a Propitiation -- for the remiſſion of ſin - Joh.1. 29. Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the ſins of the 2 Cor. 5. 21. World -- He hath made him to be Sin for us, who knew no Heb.9.26. ſin, that we might be made the Righteouſneſs of God in him. -- 1 Joh. 1, 7. Once hath he appeared to put away ſin by the ſacrifice of himſelf — And the Blood of Jeſus Chriſt his Son cleanſeth us from all ſin. This was the Plot, which God by an ancient deſign aimed at in the ſuffering of Jeſus Chriſt, that he would take away Sin: And thus Faith muſt take it up, and look upon it. When Peter had ſet forth the heinouſneſs of the Jews ſin, in killing Chriſt, he tells them at laſt of that deſign of old; All this was done, ſaid he, by the determinate Counſel of God. His meaning was firſt to humble them, and then to raiſe them up; q. d. It was not ſo much they that wrought his death, as the Decree of God, and the Agreement of God and Chriſt: There was an ancient contrivement, that Jeſus Chriſt ſhould die for ſin, and that all our ſins ſhould be laid on the back of Jeſus Chriſt; and therefore he ſeems to ſpeak comfort to them in this; that howſoever they deſigned it, yet God and Chriſt deſigned a farther end in it than they imagin'd, Rom. 4. 25. even to the Remiſſion of Sins, Who was delivered to death for our ſins, and roſe again for our Juſtification. The Death of Chriſt (as one obſerves) was the greateſt and ſtrongeſt deſign that ever God undertock, and therefore ſure he had an end proportionable to it; God that willeth not the Death of a Sinner, would not for any inferior end, will the Death of his Son, whom he loved more than all the World beſides; it muſt needs be ſome great matter for which God ſhould contrive the Death of his Son; and indeed it could be no leſs than to remove that which he moſt hated, and that was Sin. Here then is another end of Chriſt's Death, it was for the Remiſſion of Sin, one main part of our Juſtification.

3. Another deſign of Chriſt's Death was to mortify our Members which are upon the Earth. Not only would he remit Sin, but he would deſtroy it, kill it, crucify it; he would not have it Reign in our Rom. 6. mortal bodies, that we ſhould obey it in the luſts thereof. 11 This deſign the Apoſtle ſets out in theſe words, he bare our ſins in his own body upon the Tree, that we being 1 Pet. 2. dead unto ſin, ſhould live unto Righteouſneſs: Chriſt by 24. his Death had not only a deſign to deliver us from the guilt of Sin, but alſo from the power of Sin: God forbid that I ſhould glory, ſave in the Croſs of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom the World is crucified unto me, and I Gal. 6.14. unto the World: Paul was a mortified Man, dead to the World, and dead to Sin? but how came he ſo to be? Why this he attributes to the Croſs of Chriſt, to the Death of Chriſt; the Death of Jeſus was the cauſe of this Death in Paul: How much more ſhall Heb.9.14. the blood of Chriſt —— purge our conſciences from dead works to ſerve the Living God? There is in the Death of Chriſt, firſt a Value, and ſecondly, a Virtue; the former is available to our Juſtification, the latter to our Sanctification; now Sanctification hath two Parts, Mortification and Vivification: Chriſt's Death, or paſſive Obedience, is more properly conducible to the one; his Life, or active Obedience to the other. Hence Believers are ſaid to be engraffed with Chriſt in the likeneſs of dis death; there is a Rom. 6.4. kind of likeneſs betwixt Chriſt and Chriſtians: Chriſt died, and the Chriſtian dies; Chriſt died a natural Death, and a Chriſtian dies a ſpiritual Death; Chriſt died for Sin, and the Chriſtian dies for Sin; this was another end of the Death of Chriſt; there iſſues from his Death a mortifying Virtue, cauſing the death of Sin in a Believer's Soul, one main part of our Sanctification.

O my Soul, look to this; herein lies the Pith and Marrow of the Death of Chriſt; and if now thou wilt but act and exerciſe thy Faith in this reſpect, how mighteſt thou draw the Virtue and Efficacy of his Death into thy Soul? But here is the Queſtion, how ſhould I manage my Fath? Or, how ſhould I act my Faith, to draw down the Virtue of Chriſt's death, and ſo to feel the Virtue of Chriſt's death in my Soul, mortifying, crucifying, and killing Sin?

I anſwer, 1. In Prayer, Meditation, Self-examination, receiving of the Lord's Supper, &c. I muſt propound to my Self and Soul the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, as having undertaken and performed that bitter and painful Work of ſuffering even unto Death; yea, that of the Croſs, as it is held out in the Hiſtory and Narrrative of the Goſpel. 2. I muſt really and ſtedfaſtly believe, and firmly aſſent that thoſe Sufferings of Chriſt ſo revealed and diſcovered, were real and true, undoubted and every way unqueſtionable as in themſelves. 3. I muſt look upon thoſe grievous, bitter, cruel, painful, and with all opprobrious, execrable, ſhameful Sufferings of Chriſt, as very ſtrange and wonderful; but eſpecially conſidering the ſpiritual part of his Sufferings, viz. the ſenſe and apprehenſion of God's forſaking and afflicting him in the day of his fierce Anger, I ſhould even be aſtoniſhed and amazed thereat: What! that the Son of God ſhould lay his Head on the Block, under the Blow of Divine Juſtice; that he ſhould put himſelf under the Wrath of his Heavenly Father; that he ſhould enter into the Combat of Gods heavy Diſpleaſure, and be deprived of the ſenſe and feeling of his Love, and Mercy, and wonted Comfort! How ſhould I but ſtand agaſt at theſe ſo wonderful Sufferings of Jeſus Chriſt! 4. I muſt weigh and conſider what it was that occaſioned and cauſed all this viz. Sin, yea, my Sin, yea, this and that Sin particularly. This comes nearer home, and from this I muſt now gather in theſe ſeveral Concluſions: As,--

1. It was the deſign of Chriſt by his Sufferings to give Satisfaction to the Infinite Juſtice of God for Sin. 2. It was intended and meant (at leaſt in a ſecond place) to give out to the World a moſt notable and eminent Inſtance and Demonſtration of the horridneſs, odiouſneſs, and execrableneſs of Sin; ſith no leſs than all this, yea, nothing elſe but this would ſerve the turn to expiate it, and atone for it. 3. It holds forth again, as Sin is horrid in its ſelf ſo it cannot but be exceeding grievous and offenſive to Chriſt: Oh, it coſt him dear, it put him to all this Pain and Torture; it made him cry out, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? How then ſhould it but offend him above all, above any thing in the World? 4. If therefore there be in me any ſpark of Love towards Chriſt, or any likeneſs to Chriſt; or if I would have Chriſt to bear any Affection, Love, Regard, or Reſpect unto me, it will abſolutely behove me by all means to loath Sin, and caſt it away from me; to root it up, to quit my hands, and to rid my heart of it. The truth is, I cannot poſſibly give forth a more pregnant Proof of my ſincere Love, entire Affection, Reſpect, Conformity, Reſemblance, Sympathy to, and with Chriſt, than by offering all Violence, uſually all holy ſeverity againſt Sin for his very ſake.

Now when the heart is thus exerciſed, God by his Spirit will not fail to meet us; our deſire and endeavour of our Soul to weaken and kill Sin in the Soul, is not without its reward; but eſpecially when Sin hath in this way, and by this means, loſt the Affection of the Soul, and is brought in hatred, and diſeſteem, it decays, and dyes of it ſelf; for it only liveth and flouriſheth by the warm affections, good thoughts, and opinion that the Soul hath of it. So that matters going thus in the heart, the influence that ſhould nouriſh and maintain Sin, is cut off, and it withers by degrees till it be finally, and fully deſtroyed.

This for Direction; now for the Encouragements of our Faith to believe in Chriſt's Death, conſider,——

1. The fulneſs of this Object, Chriſt crucified; there is a tranſcendent All-ſufficiency in the Death of Chriſt; in a ſafe Senſe it contains in it in univerſal Redemption; it is ſufficient for the Redemption of every Man in the World, yea, and effectual for all that have been, are, or ſhall be called into the State of Grace, whether Jews or Gentiles, bound or free. I know ſome hold that Chriſt died for all, and every Man, with a purpoſe to ſave; only thus they explicate. 1. That Chriſt died for all Men conſidered in the common Lapſe or Fall, but not as Obſtinate, Impenitent, or Unbelievers; he died not for ſuch, as ſuch. 2. That Chriſt died for all Men in reſpect of the requeſt or impetration of Salvation, but the Application thereof is proper to Believers. 3. That Chriſt died not to bring all or any man actually to Salvation, but to purchaſe Salvability, and Reconciliation ſo far, as that God might and would (Salva Juſtitia) deal with them on terms of a better Covenant. 4. That Chriſt hath purchaſed Salvability for all Men, but Faith and Regeneration he hath merited for none; becauſe God is bound to give that which Chriſt hath merited of him, altho it be not deſired, or craved. I cannot aſſent to theſe poſitions; but thus far I grant, that Chriſt's Death in it ſelf is a ſufficient Price and Satisfaction to God for all the World; and that alſo it is effectual in many particulars to all men reſpectively in all the World; every man in one way or other hath the Fruit of Chriſt's Death conferred upon him; but this fruit is of one kind; for, 1. Some Fruit is common to every Man, as the earthly Bleſſings which Infidels enjoy, may be termed the Fruits of Chriſt's Death. 2. Other Fruit is common to all the Members of the viſible Church, as to be called by the Word to enjoy the Ordinances, or live under the Covenant, to pertake of ſome Graces that come from Chriſt. 3. Other Fruit indeed is peculiar to the Saints of God, as Faith unfeined, Regeneration, pardon of Sin, Adoption, &c. And yet this Fruit is univerſal to all the Saints, whether Jews or Gentiles;

of Chriſt's Death!—— many are apt to complain, hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall

of partition between us; that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the croſs. Oh what Encouragement is this for thee to believe thy part in the Death of Chriſt?

2. Conſider the worth, the excellency of this glorious Object, Chriſt crucified. There is an infinite of worth in the Death of Chriſt; and this riſeth, firſt from the Dignity of his Perſon, he was God-man; the Death of Angels and Men if put together, could not have amounted to the excellency of Chriſt's Death; ſtand amazed at thy happineſs, O Believer, thou haſt gained by thy loſs, thou haſt loſt the Righteouſneſs of a Creature, but the Righteouſneſs of an infinite Perſon is now made thine; hence it is many times called the Righteouſneſs of God: both becauſe Rom. 10.
Chriſt is God; and becauſe it is ſuch a Righteouſneſs 3.
as God is ſatisfied with; he looks for no better, yea, 2 Cor. 5.
there can be no better. 2. This worth is not only 21.
in reſpect of the Dignity of the Perſon, but alſo in reſpect of the Price offered: O, it was the blood of Chriſt, one drop whereof is of more worth than thouſands of Gold and Silver. It was this Blood that purchaſed the whole Church of God, which a thouſand Acts 20.
Worlds of Wealth could never have done. 3. This 28.
worth is not only in reſpect of the Perſon and Price neither, but alſo in reſpect of the manner of the Oblation; termined; the price in it ſelf, is not enough, unleſs 18.

it be ordered and proportioned according to the will of him, who is to be ſatisfied; if a man ſhould give for a captive Priſoner an infinite Sum of Money, ſufficient in it ſelf to redeem a thouſand, yet if not accoding to ſuch a way as the Conqueror preſcribeth, if not according to the condition it could not be called a Satisfaction; now this was the condition that Chriſt muſt die, and die that Death of the Croſs, and accordingly he undertook, and performed, which ſet a Luſtre, and Glory, and Excellency, and worth upon his Death. O the worth, O the Excellency of this Death of Chriſt!——many are apt to complain, O the filth of my Sins! Oh the injuries and unkindneſs that have been in mine iniquities! it is not my miſery, my deſtruction that ſo much troubles me, as that God is ſo much diſpleaſed. Sweet Soul! turn thine Eyes hither; ſurely this Death of Chriſt is more ſatisfactory to God, than all thy Sins poſſibly can be diſpleaſing to God, there was more ſweet ſavour in Chriſt's Sacrifice, than there could be offence in all thy Sins; the Excellency of Chriſt's Death in making righteous, doth ſuperabound the filthineſs of Sin in making a Sinner. Come on then, and cloſe with Chriſt upon this Encouragement; there is a Dignity, an excellency, in this object of faith, Chriſt crucified.

3. Conſider the ſuitableneſs of this bleſſed object, The death of Chriſt. There is in it a ſuitableneſs to our ſinful condition, whatſoever the ſin is; it is the cry of ſome, They dare not believe, they dare not touch Chriſt cruſified, they dare not approach to that precious blood, becauſe of this ſin, and that ſin, and the other ſin. Whereas in the death and blood of Chriſt (if they could but take a full view of it) they might find ſomething ſuitable to their eſtate: As for inſtance, ſuppoſe thy ſin the greateſt ſin imaginable, except that againſt the Holy Ghoſt; Art thou a Murtherer? haſt thou had thy hands imbrued in the blood of Saints? Why ſee now how Chriſt for thy ſake was eſteemed of the Jews, a murtherer, and worſe than a murtherer; Barabbas is preferred before Jeſus; Barabbas is releaſed, and Jeſus is murthered; yea, his blood is ſhed, to waſh away thy blood ſhed; Art thou a Sorcerer, a Negromancer? Is thy ſin the 2 Chron. 33. 6. ſin of Manaſſeh, of whom it is ſaid, that he uſed inchantments, and witchcraft; and dealt with a familiar ſpirit, and with wizards; why, ſee now how Jeſus Chriſt for thy ſake was eſteemed of the Jews as an impoſtor, an inchanter; for ſo ſome ſay, that he got the Name of God, and ſowed it in his Thigh, and by vertue thereof he wrought all his Miracles; and they commonly reported of him that he had a Devil, and that he caſt out devils through Belzebub Prince of devils. Art thou a blaſphemer? haſt thou joyned with thoſe in theſe ſad times, who have opened their mouths againſt the God of Heaven, enough to make a Chriſtian rend his heart, and weep in blood? Why ſee now how Jeſus for thy ſake was judged of Caiaphas, and all the Sanhedrim for a blaſphemer of God, and that in the higheſt kind of blaſ- Matt. 26 65. phemy, as making himſelf equal with God; yea, ſee how the high Prieſt rends his cloathes, ſaying, he hath ſpoken blaſphemy; Surely all this he endured, that very blaſphemers may find mercy, if they will but come in, and believe in Jeſus. I might inſtance in other ſins; Art thou a Traytor, a Glutton, a Drunkard, a Wine-bibber, a Thief, a Seducer, a Companion of ſinners? Why, ſee now how Jeſus Chriſt was for thy ſake, thus called, reputed accounted; whatever the ſin is, there's ſome-thing in Chriſt that anſwers that very ſinfulneſs; thou art a ſinner, and he is made a ſin, to ſatisfie the wrath of God even for thy ſin; thou art ſuch, and ſuch a ſinner, and he is accounted ſuch and ſuch a ſinner for thy ſake, that thou mighteſt find in him ſomething ſuitable to thy condition, and ſo the rather be encouraged to believe, that in him, and through him all thy ſins ſhall be done away. Away, away unbelief, diſtruſt, deſpair! you ſee now the brazen ſerpent lifted up, you ſee what a bleſſed object is before you; O believe! O look up unto Jeſus! O believe in him thus carrying on the work of thy Salvation in his death.

Sect. 6. Of Loving Jeſus in that reſpect

6. LEt us love Jeſus as carrying on the great work of our Salvation for us during his ſufferings and death. What! Did he ſuffer and dye? Greater love than this hath no man, that a man ſhould give his life for his friends.——but God commendeth his love towards us, Rom. 5.8. in that while we were yet ſinners, Chriſt dyed for us. Why, here's an argument of love indeed, how ſhould we but love him who hath thus loved us? In proſecution of this, I have no more to do, but firſt to ſhew Chriſt's love to us, and to exerciſe our love to him again.

1. For his Love to us; Had not God ſaid it, and the Scriptures recorded it, who would have believed our reports? Yet Chriſt hath done it, and it is worth our while to weigh it, and conſider it in an holy meditation.——Indeed with what leſs than raviſhment of Spirit can I behold the Lord Jeſus, who from everlaſting was cloathed with Glory and Majeſty, now wrapped in Rags, cradled in a Manger, expoſed to Hunger, Thirſt, Wearineſs, Danger, Contempt, Poverty, Revilings, Scourgings, Perſecution? But let them paſs: Into what extaſies may I be caſt to ſee the Judg of all the World accuſed, judged, condemned? to ſee the Lord of life dying upon the tree of ſhame and curſe? to ſee the eternal Son of God ſtrugling with his Father's wrath? to ſee him who had ſaid, I and my Father are one, ſweating drops of blood in his agony, and crying out on his croſs, my God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? Oh whither hath his love to mankind carried him? Had he only ſent his creatures to ſerve us, had he only ſent his Prophets to adviſe us in the way to Heaven; had he only ſent his Angels from his chamber of preſence to attend upon us, and to miniſter to us, it had been a great deal of mercy; or if it muſt be ſo, had Chriſt come down from Heaven himſelf, but only to viſit us, or had he come only and wept over us ſaying, Oh that you had known, even you in this your day, the things belonging to your peace! Oh that you had more conſidered of my goodneſs! Oh that you had never ſinned! this would have been ſuch a mercy as that all the World would have wondered at it: But that Chriſt himſelf ſhould come, and lay down his blood and life, and all for his people; and yet I am not at the loweſt, that he ſhould not only part with life, but part with the ſenſe and ſweetneſs of God's love, which is a thouſand times better than Pſal. 63.3. life, Thy loving-kindneſs is better than life; that he ſhould be content to be accurſed, that we might be bleſſed; that he ſhould be content to be forſaken, that we might not be forſaken; that he ſhould be content to be condemned, that we might be acquitted; Oh what raptures of Spirit can be ſufficient for the admiration of this ſo infinite mercy? Be thou ſwallowed up, O my ſoul, in this depth of Divine love; and hate to ſpend thy thoughts any more upon the baſe objects of this wretched world, when thou haſt ſuch a Saviour to take them up.——Come, look on thy Jeſus, who dyed temporally, that thou mighteſt live eternally: who out of his ſingular tenderneſs would not ſuffer thee to burn in Hell for ten, twenty, thirty, forty, an hundred years, and then recover thee, by which, notwithſtanding he might better and deeper have imprinted in thee the bleſſed memory of a dear Redeemer; no, no, this was the Article betwixt him and his Father, That thou ſhouldſt never come there; ſee but, obſerve but Chriſt's love in that mutual agreement betwixt God and Chriſt, Oh I am preſſed (ſaith God) with the ſins of the world, as a Cart is preſſed that is full of ſheaves; come my Son, either thou muſt ſuffer, or muſt damn the world: Accordingly I may imagine the Attributes of God to ſpeak to God, Mercy cries, I am abuſed, and Patience cries, I am deſpiſed; and Goodneſs cries, I am wronged, and Holineſs cries, I am contradicted; and all theſe come to the Father for Juſtice, crying to him, That all the world were oppoſers of his Grace and Spirit; and if any be ſaved, Chriſt muſt be puniſhed. In this caſe we muſt imagine Chriſt ſtepped in, nay rather than ſo (ſaith Chriſt) I will bear all, and undertake the ſatisfying of all. And now look upon him! he hangs on the Croſs all naked, all torn, all bloody; betwixt Heaven and Earth, as if he were caſt out of Heaven, and alſo rejected by Earth; he hath a Crown indeed, but ſuch a one as few men will touch, none will take from him; and if any raſh man will have it, he muſt tear hair, skin, and all, or it will not come; his hair is all clodded with blood, his face all clouded with black and blew, he is all over ſo pitifully rent, outwards, inwards, body and ſoul.—— I will think the reſt; alas, when I have ſpoken all I can, I ſhall ſpeak under it; had I the tongues of men and Angels, I could not expreſs it; Oh love more deep than Hell! Oh love more high than Heaven! the brighteſt Seraphims that burn in love, are but as ſparkles to that mighty flame of love in the heart of Jeſus.

2. If this be Chriſt's love to us, what is that love we owe to Chriſt? Oh now for an heart that might be ſome ways anſwerable to theſe mercies! Oh for a ſoul ſick of love, yea ſick unto death! how ſhould I be otherwiſe, or any leſs effected, this only ſickneſs is our health, this death our life, and not to be thus ſick is to be dead in ſins and trepaſſes; why, ſurely I have heard enough, for which to love Chriſt for ever. The depths of Gods grace are bottomleſs, they paſs our underſtanding, yet they recreate our hearts; they give matter of admiration, yet they are not devoid of conſolation: O God raiſe up our ſouls to thee, and if our Spirits be too weak to know thee, make our affections ardent and ſincere to love thee.

Surely the death of Chriſt requires this, and calls for this: many other motives we may draw from Chriſt, and many other motives are laid down in the Goſpel, and indeed the whole Goſpel is no other thing than a motive to draw man to God by the force of God's love to man; in this ſence the holy Scriptures may be called the book of true love, ſeeing therein God both unfolds his love to us, and alſo binds our love to him; but of all the motives we may draw from Chriſt, and of all the arguments we may find in the Goſpel of Chriſt, there is none to this, the death of Chriſt, the blood of Jeſus: Is not this ſuch a love-letter, as never, never was the like? Read the words, For his great love wherewith he loved us, Epheſ. 2. 4. or if you cannot read, obſerve the Hieroglyphicks, every ſtripe is a letter, every nail is a capital letter, every bruiſe is a black letter, his bleeding wounds are as ſo many rubricks to ſhew upon record: Oh conſider it, is not this a great love? Are not all mercies wrapt up in the blood of Chriſt? It may be thou haſt riches, honours, friends, means, Oh but thank the blood of Chriſt for all thou haſt; it may be thou haſt Grace, and that is better than Corn, or Wine, or Oil? Oh but for this thank the Blood of Jeſus, ſurely it was the Blood of Chriſt that did this for thee; thou waſt a rebellious ſoul, thou haſt an hard and filthy heart, but Chriſt's blood was the fountain opened, and it took away all ſin and all uncleanneſs; Chriſt in all, and Chriſt above all, and wilt thou not love him? O that all our words were words of love; and all our labour, labour of love; and all our thoughts, thoughts of love; that we might ſpeak of love, and muſe of love and love this Chriſt, who hath firſt loved us, with all our heart, and ſoul, and might! What? wilt thou not love Jeſus Chriſt? Let me ask thee then, whom wilt thou love? or rather whom canſt thou love, if thou loveſt not him? If thou ſayeſt, I love my Friends, Parents, Wife, Children; Oh but love Chriſt more than theſe; a friend would be an enemy, but that the blood of Chriſt doth frame his heart, a Wife would be a trouble, but that the blood of Chriſt doth frame her heart; all mercies are conveyed to us through this channel; Oh who would not love the Fountain?——conſider of it again and again, our Jeſus thought nothing too good for us, he parts with his life and blood, he parts with the ſenſe and feeling of the love of God, and all this for us, and for our ſakes; Ah my ſoul, how ſhouldſt thou but love him in all things, and by all means?

It is reported of Ignatius, that he ſo continually meditated on the great things Chriſt ſuffered for him, that he was brought entirely to love him: and when he was demanded, why he would not forſake Chriſt, rather than ſuffer himſelf to be torn and devoured of wild beaſts; He anſwered, that he could not forget becauſe of his ſufferings; Oh his ſufferings (ſaid he) are not tranſcient words, or removable objects, but they are indelible characters, ſo engraven in my heart, that all the torments of earth can never raze them out. And being commanded by that bloody Tyrant Trajan to be ript and unboweled, they found Jeſus Chriſt written upon his heart in Characters of Gold. Here was an heart worth Gold; Oh that it might be thus with us! If my hands were all of love, that I could work nothing but love; if my eyes were all of love, that I could ſee nothing but love; if my mind was all of love, that I could think of nothing but love; all were too little to love that Chriſt, who hath thus immeaſurably loved me; if I had a thouſand hearts to beſtow on Chriſt, and they moſt enlarged and ſcrued up to the higheſt pitch of affection, all theſe were infinitely ſhort of what I owe to my dread Lord, and deareſt Saviour. Come let's joyn hands, He loved us, and therefore let us love him: Joh. 11. 36. if we diſpute the former, I argue from the Jews, when he ſhed but a few tears out of his eyes at Lazarus's Grave, then ſaid the Jews, behold how he loved him, John 11. 36. how much more truly may it be ſaid of us for whom he ſhed both water and blood, and that from his heart, Behold how he loved us; why then, if our hearts be not Iron, yea if they be Iron, how ſhould they but feel the magnetical force of this Loadſtone of love? for to a Loadſtone doth Chriſt reſemble himſelf, when he ſaith of himſelf; Joh. 12. 32. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.

Sect. 7. Of joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

7. LEt us joy in Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of Salvation, in his ſufferings and death: What! hath Chriſt ſuffered for us? hath he drunk off all the cup of God's wrath, and left none Rom. 8. 1. for us? how ſhould we be but cheered? Precious ſouls! why are you afraid; there is no death, no hell, no condemnation to them that are in Chriſt Jeſus. There is no Divine juſtice for them to undergo, that have their ſhare in this death of Chriſt; Oh the Grace and Mercy that is purchaſed by this means of Chriſt! Oh the waters of comfort that flow from the ſufferings and obedience of Chriſt! Chriſt was amazed, that we might be cheered; Chriſt was impriſoned, that we might be delivered; Chriſt was accuſed, that we might be acquitted; Chriſt was condemned, that we might be redeemed: Chriſt ſuffered his Fathers wrath, and came under it, that the victory might be ours, and that in the end we might ſee him face to face in glory. Is not here matter of Joy; It may be the Law, and Sin, and Juſtice, and Conſcience. and Death, and Hell, may appear as enemies, and diſturb thy comforts; but is there not a enough in the blood of Chriſt to chaſe them away? Give me leave but to frame the objections of ſome doubting ſouls: and ſee whether Chriſt's death will not ſufficiently anſwer, and ſolve them all.

1. One cries thus, Oh I know not what will become of me, my ſins are ever before me; againſt thee, thee only have I ſinned, and done this evil in thy ſight. I have Pſal. 61.3, 4. ſinned againſt a moſt dear, and gracious, and merciful God and Father in our Lord Jeſus; O the aggravations of my ſins! are they not ſins above meaſure ſinful.

It may be ſo, but the Blood of Chriſt is a fountain opened for ſins and for uncleanneſs; in him we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveneſs of ſins.— He by himſelf purged our ſins.— And now once in the end of the Zech. 13. 1. world hath he appeared, put away ſin by the ſacrifice of himſelf.——— And Chriſt was once offered Eph. 1. 7. to bear the ſins of many. Ἀνενέγχειν, to bear away the Heb. 1. 3. ſins of many. As the Scape-goat under the Law had Heb. 9.26. Ver. 28. upon his head all the iniquities of the Children of Iſrael, Levit. 16. 21, 22. and ſo was ſent away by the hand of a fit man into the wilderneſs; ſo the Lord Jeſus (of whom that Goat was a type) had all the iniquities of his Elect laid upon him by God his Father, and bearing them, he took them away, Behold the Lamb of God, who John 1.29. taketh away the ſins of the world; he bore them, and bore them away; he went away with them into the wilderneſs, or into the land of forgetfulneſs. See what comfort is here.

2. Another cries thus, Oh I know not what will become of me, the Law is mine enemy, I have tranſgreſſed Gal. 3.10. the Law, and it ſpeaks terribly, Curſed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the Law to do them: Oh I have offended the Law, and I am under the curſe.

Say not ſo, for by the death of Chriſt, tho the Law be broken, yet the curſe is removed; the A- Gal. 3 13. poſtle is clear, Chriſt hath redeemed us from the curſe of the Law, being made a curſe for us; he was made a curſe for us, (i. e.) the fruits and effects of God's curſe, the puniſhment due to ſinners, the penal curſe which Juſtice required, was laid upon Chriſt, and by this means we are freed from the curſe of the Law. It is true, that without Chriſt thou art under this Law, Do, or Die; and if thou offendeſt in the leaſt kind, thou ſhalt periſh for ever, the curſe of the Law is upon thee to the uttermoſt; but on the other ſide, if thy claim be right to the blood of Chriſt, thou art freed from penalty; not but that we may be corrected and chaſtiſed, but what is that to the eternal curſe which the Law pronounceth againſt every ſin? We are freed from the curſe, or damna- Rom. 8. 1. tory ſentence of the Law, There is no condemnation to them that are in Chriſt Jeſus; the Law is ſatisfied, and the Bond is cancelled by our Surety Chriſt. O what comfort is this?

3. Another cries thus, Oh I know not what will become of me, I have offended juſtice; and what ſhall I appeal from the ſeat of juſtice, to the throne of grace? my ſins are gone before, and they are knocking at Heaven gates. and crying, juſtice Lord on this ſinner; I know not what will be the iſſue, but either free Grace muſt ſave me, or I am gone.

Say not ſo, for by this death of Chriſt, free Grace and Juſtice are both thy friends. How e're ſome do, yet certainly thou needs not to appeal from the Court of Juſtice to the Mercyſeat; in this myſtery of Godlineſs there may be as much comfort in ſtanding before the Bar of Juſtice, as at the Mercy-ſeat, (i. e) by ſtanding therein, and through the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; yea, this is the Goſpel way, to go to God the Father, and to render up to him the active and paſſive righteouſneſs of Chriſt his Son for an atonement and ſatisfaction for our ſins; in this way is the comfort of Juſtification brought; if we go to God in any other way than this, it is but in a natural way, and not in a true Evangelical way. A man by nature may know thus much, that when he hath ſinned, he muſt ſeek unto God for mercy; but to ſeek unto God for pardon with a price in our hands, to render up the merits of Jeſus Chriſt for a ſatisfaction to Divine Juſtice, here is the miſtery of Faith; and yet I ſpeak not againſt relying on God's mercy for pardon? But what need we to appeal from juſtice to mercy, when by faith we may tender the death of Chriſt, and ſo find acceptance with the Juſtice of God it ſelf? Come Soul, and let me tell thee for thy comfort, if thou haſt any ſhare in the death of Chriſt, thou haſt two tenures to hold thy pardon and ſalvation by, Mercy and Juſtice? free grace, and righteoſneſs; mercy in reſpect of thee, and Juſtice in reſpect of Chriſt; not only is free-grace ready to acquit thee, but a full price is laid down to diſcharge thee of all thy ſins: So that now when the Prince of this world comes againſt thee, thou mayeſt ſay in ſome ſenſe as Chriſt did, He can find nothing in me; for how can he accuſe me, ſeeing Chriſt is my Surety? ſeeing the bond hath been ſued, and Chriſt Jeſus would not leave one farthing unpaid? as Paul ſaid to Philemon concerning Oneſimus, If he have wronged thee, or owe thee any thing, put it on my account; ſo doth Chriſt ſay to God If theſe have wronged thy Majeſty, or owe thee any thing, put it on me. Paul indeed added, I Paul have written is with mine own hand; but Chriſt ſpeaks thus, I Jeſus have ratified and confirmed it with my own blood.

4. Another cries thus, Oh I know not what will become of me; the firſt threat that ever was (In the day that thou eateſt thereof thou ſhalt ſurely die) now ſits on Gen. 2.17. my ſpirit; methinks I ſee the grizly form of death ſtanding before me; Oh this is he that is the King of fears, the chief of terrors, the inlet to all thoſe Plagues in another world; and die I muſt, there is no remedy; Oh I ſtartle, Rom. 8. 34. and am afraid of it.

And why ſo? It is Chriſt that died, and by his death he hath took away the ſting of death, that now the Drone may hiſs, but cannot hurt: Come, meditate much upon the death of Chriſt, and thou ſhalt find matter enough in his death, for the ſubduing of thy ſlaviſh fears of death, both in the merit of it, in the effect of it, and in the end of it. 1. In the merit of it; Chriſt's death is meritorious, and in that reſpect the writ of mortality is but to the Saints a writ of eaſe, a paſſage into Glory. 2. In the effect of it, Chriſt's death is the conqueſt of death; Chriſt went down into the Grave to make a back-door, that the Grave, which was before a Priſon, might now be a thorow-fare ſo that all his Saints may with eaſe paſs through, and ſing, O death where is thy Heb. 2.14, 15. ſting? Oh hell where is thy victory? 3. In the end of it, Chriſt death amongſt other ends aims at the ruine of him that had the Power of death; that is, the Devil; and to deliver them who through fear of death were all their life time in bondage. Chriſt purſued this end in dying, to deliver thee from the fear of death; and if now thou feareſt, thy fearing is a kind of making Chriſt's death be of none effect. O Come, and Iſa. 12. 3. with joy draw water out of this well of Salvation!

5. Another cries thus, Oh I know not what will become of me; the very thoughts of hell ſeem to aſtoniſh my heart; methinks I ſee a little peep-hole down into Hell, and the Devil roaring there, being reſerved in chains under darkneſs, until the judgment of the great day; and methinks I ſee the damned flaming, and Judas, and all the wicked in the world, and they of Sodom and Gomorrah there lying, and roaring, and gnaſhing their teeth: Now, I have ſinned, and why ſhould not I be damned? Oh why ſhould not the wrath of God be executed on me, yea even upon me?

I anſwer, the death of Chriſt acquits thee of all. Bleſſed is he that hath a part in the firſt reſurrection, on Rom. 20. 6. ſuch the ſecond death hath no power. Chriſt's death hath took away the pains of the ſecond death, yea, pains and power too, for it ſhall never oppreſs ſuch as belong to Chriſt. If Hell and Devils could ſpeak a word of truth, they would ſay, Comfort your ſelves ye believing ſouls, we have no power over you, for the Lord Jeſus hath conquered us, and we have quite loſt the cauſe. Paul was very confident of this, and therefore he throws down the Gauntlet, and challengeth a diſpute with all comers, Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge Rom. 8. 33, 34. of God's Elect? It is God that juſtifieth; who is he that condemneth? It is Chriſt that died: Let Sin, and the Law, and Juſtice, and Death, and Hell, and all the Devils in Hell unite their forces, this one Argument of Chriſt's death (it is Chriſt that died) will be enough to confute and confound them all.

Come then, and comfort your ſelves all believers, in this death of Chriſt; What? Do you believe? and are you confident that you do believe? Why then do you ſit drooping? What manner of communications Luke 24. 17. are theſe that you have, as ye walk, and are ſad? Away, away dumpiſhneſs, deſpair, diſquietneſs of ſpirit; Chriſt is dead, that you might live, and be bleſſed; in this reſpect every thing ſpeaks comfort, if you could but ſee it; God and Men, Heaven and Earth, Angels and Devils; the very Juſtice of God it ſelf, is now your friend, and bids you go away comforted, for it is ſatisfied to the full; Heaven it ſelf waits on you, and keeps the doors open that your ſouls may enter; We have boldneſs (ſaith the Apoſtle) to enter into the Heb. 10. 20. holieſt by the blood of Jeſus, by a new and living way, which he hath conſecrated for us through the veil, that is to ſay, his fleſh. Chriſt's death hath ſet open all the golden gates and doors of Glory; and therefore go away chearily, and get you to Heaven, and when you come there, be diſcouraged, or diſcomforted if you can. O my ſoul, I ſee thou art pouring on ſin, on thy crimſon ſins, and ſcarlet ſins, but I would have thee dwell on that crimſon ſcarlet blood of Chriſt; Oh it is the blood of ſprinkling, it ſpeaks better things than the blood of Abel; it cries for mercy, and pardon, and refreſhing, and ſalvation; thy ſins cry, Lord do me juſtice againſt ſuch a ſoul; but the Blood of Chriſt hath another cry, I am abaſed, and humbled, and I have anſwered all. Methinks this ſhould make thy heart leap for joy; Oh the honey, the ſweet that we may ſuck out of this blood of Chriſt! come lay to thy mouth, and drink an hearty draught, it is the ſpiritual wine that makes merry the heart of man; and it is the voice of Chriſt to all his gueſts, Eat, O Cant. 5. 1. friends; drink, yea drink abundantly, O beloved.

Sect. 8. Of Calling on Jeſus in that reſpect.

8. LEt us call on Jeſus, or on God the Father in and through Jeſus.

1. We muſt pray that all theſe Tranſactions of Chriſt in his ſufferings and death may be ours; if we direct our Prayers immediately to Jeſus Chriſt, let us tell him what anguiſh and pains he hath ſuffered for our ſakes; and let us complain againſt our ſelves, Oh what ſhall we do, who by our ſins have ſo tormented our deareſt Lord? what contrition can be great enough, what tears ſufficiently expreſſive, what hatred and deteſtation equal and commenſurate to thoſe ſad and heavy ſufferings of our Jeſus? And then let us pray, that he would pity us, and forgive us thoſe ſins wherewith we crucified him; that he would beſtow on us the virtue of his ſufferings and death, that his wounds might heal us, his death might quicken us, and his blood might cleanſe us from all our ſpiritual filth of ſin; and laſtly, that he would aſſure us that his death is ours; that he would perſwade us, That Rom. 8. 38, 39. neither death, nor life, nor Angels, nor principalities nor powers, nor things preſent, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature ſhould be able to ſeparate us from the love of God, which is in Chriſt Jeſus our Lord.

2. We muſt praiſe the Lord for all theſe ſufferings of Chriſt. Hath he indeed ſuffered all theſe puniſhments for us? Oh then what ſhall we render unto the Lord for all his benefits upon us? what ſhall we do for him, who hath done and ſuffered all theſe things? but eſpecially, if we believe our part in the death of Chriſt; in all the virtues, benefits, victories, purchaſes, and priviledges of his precious death, oh then what manifold cauſe of thankfulneſs and praiſe is here? be enlarged, O my ſoul, ſound forth the praiſes of thy Chriſt, tell all the world of that warmeſt love of Chriſt, which flowed with his blood out of all his wounds into thy ſpirit; tune thy heart-ſtrings aright, and keep conſort with all the Angels of Heaven, and all his Saints on Earth; ſing that Pſalm of John the Divine, Unto him that loved us, and Rev. 1. 5, 6. waſhed us from our ſins in his own blood, and hath made us Kings and Prieſts unto God, and his Father, to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

Sect. 9. Of Conforming to Jeſus in that reſpect.

9. LEt us conform to Jeſus in reſpect of his ſufferings and death, Looking unto Jeſus is effective of this; objects have an attractive power, that do aſſimulate, or make like unto them; I have read of a woman, that by fixing the ſtrength of her imagination upon a Blackamore on the wall, ſhe brought forth a black and ſwarthy child. And no queſtion but there is a kind of ſpiritual-imaginative of power in faith to be like to Chriſt by looking on Chriſt; come then, and let us look on Chriſt, and conform to Chriſt in this reſpect.

In this particular I ſhall examine theſe Queries: 1. Wherein we muſt conform? 2. What is the cauſe of this conformity? 3. What are the means of this conformity as on our parts?

For the firſt, Wherein we muſt conform? I anſwer, we muſt conform to Chriſt in his graces, ſufferings, death.

1. In the Graces that moſt eminently ſhined in his bitter paſſion; his life indeed was a gracious life, he was full of grace, And of his fullneſs have all we received, and grace for grace, but his graces ſhined Joh. 1. 16. moſt clearly and brightly at his death; as a Lilly amongſt the Thorns ſeems moſt beautiful, ſo his graces in his ſufferings ſhew moſt excellent; I ſhall inſtance in ſome of them: As———

1. His Humility was profound; What? that the moſt high God, that the only begotten, and eternal Son of God, ſhould vouchſafe ſo far as to be contemned, and leſs eſteemed than Barabbas a murtherer? That Chriſt ſhould be crucified upon a Croſs betwixt two Thieves, as if he had been the ring-leader of all malefactors? O what humility was this?

2. His patience was wonderful; in reſpect of this, the Apoſtle Peter ſets Chriſt as a bleſſed example before our eyes; If when ye do well, and ſuffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is acceptable with God, for even hereunto were ye called, because Chriſt alſo ſuffered for us, leaving us an example that ye ſhould follow his ſteps.——— Who when he was reviled, he reviled not again; when 1 Pet. 2. 20, 21, 23

he ſuffered he threatned not, but committed himſelf to him that judgeth righteouſly. O the patience of Chriſt!

3. His love was fervent; Herein is love, not that 1 John 4. 10. we loved God, but that he loved us, and ſent his Son to be the propitiation for our ſins. This love is an exemplar of all love, it is the fire that ſhould kindle all our ſparks; Be ye followers of God (ſaith the Apoſtle) Eph. 5.1, 2. as dear children: and walk in love, as Chriſt alſo hath loved us, and hath given himſelf for us an offering and ſacrifice to God for a ſweet ſmelling ſavour. Some obſerve, that in the Temple there were two Altars, the Brazen, and the Golden; the Brazen Altar was for bloody Sacrifices, the Golden Altar was for the offering of Incenſe; now the former was a type of Chriſt's bloody offering upon the Croſs, the latter of Chriſt's ſweet interceſſion for us in his glory; in regard of both, the Apoſtle tells that Chriſt gave himſelf both for an offering and ſacrifice of a ſweet ſmelling ſavour unto God. O what love was this!

4. His mercy was abundant; he took upon him all the miſeries and debts of the world, and he made ſatisfaction for them all; he acted our redemption immediately in his own perſon, he would not intruſt it to Angels, but he would come himſelf and ſuffer; nor would he give a low and baſe price for our ſouls, he ſaw the miſery was great, and his mercy ſhould be more great; he would buy us with ſo great a ranſom, as that he might over-buy us, and none might out-bid him in the market of our ſonls; O we under-bid, and under-value the mercy of God, who over valued us; we will not ſell all to buy him, but he ſold all he had, and himſelf too to buy us; indeed if he had not done it, we had been damned; and to ſave our ſouls, he cared not what hed id or ſuffered. O the mercy of Chriſt!

5. His meekneſs was paſſing great; in all the proceſs of his paſſion, he ſhewed not the leaſt paſſion of wrath or anger; he ſuffered himſelf gently and Joh.1.25. quietly to be carried like a ſheep to the Butchery, and as a Lamb before the ſhearer is dumb, ſo opened he not his mouth: A Lamb is a moſt meek and innocent creature, and therefore is Chriſt called the Lamb of God, which taketh away the ſins of the world. —— Iſa. 53. 7. And, he was brought as a Lamb to the ſlaughter; why, a Lamb goes as quietly to the ſhambles, as if it were going to the fold, or to the paſture-field where its Dam feedeth; and ſo went Chriſt to his Croſs. O the meekneſs of Chriſt!

John 18. 36. 6. His contempt of the world was to admiration; Joh.6.15. he tells them, his Kingdom was not of this world. When a Crown was offered him, and forced upon him, he refuſed it; but above all, behold the Bed where the Bridegroom lieth and ſleepeth at noon-day; here's but an hard flock, and narrow room; O bleſſed head of a dear Redeemer! how is it that thou haſt not a Pillow where to reſt thy ſelf? He hangs on the Croſs all naked; few Kings do ſo: He hath no Crown for his head, but one of Thorns; he hath no delicates, but Gall and Vinegar; he is leaving the World, and he hath no other Legacies to give his Jo.14.27 friends, but ſpiritual things; Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you, not as the world giveth, give I unto you. He had ſo contemned the World, that he had not a Legacy in all the world to give: Not as the world giveth, give I unto you.

Phil 2.8. Joh.5.30. 7. His obedience was conſtant, He became obedient unto death, even the death of the Croſs —— He ſought not his own will, but the will of him that ſent him. There was a command that the Father laid on Chriſt from all Eternity: O my Son, my only begotten Son, thou muſt go down, and leave Heaven, and empty thy ſelf, and die the death, even the death of the Croſs, and go and bring up he fallen ſons of Adam out of Hell. Mankind, like a precious Ring of Glory, fell off the Finger of Almighty God, and was broken all in pieces; and thereupon was the command of God that his Son muſt ſtoop down, tho it pain his back; he muſt lift up again the broken Jewel, he muſt reſtore it, and mend it, and ſet it as a Seal on the heart of God; all which the Lord Jeſus did in time; he was obedient till death, and obedient to death, even to the death of the Croſs. Son, thou muſt die, ſaid God: why Father, I will do it, ſaid Chriſt: And accordingly he freely made his Soul an offering for ſin.

Now in all theſe Graces we muſt conform to Chriſt. Learn of me, for I am meek and lowly. —— Matt. 11. 29. And, walk in love, as Chriſt alſo hath loved us: It is Eph. 5.2. as if Chriſt had ſaid, Mark the ſteps where I have trode, and follow me in humility, in patience, in love, in mercy, in meekneſs, in contempt of the world, in obedience unto death; in theſe, and the like Graces you muſt conform unto Chriſt.

2. We muſt conform to Chriſt in his Sufferings, if he calls us to them; this was the Apoſtle's Prayer, that I may know him, and the power of his Reſurrection, Phil.3.10. and the fellowſhip of his ſufferings; it was his deſire, that he might experimentally know what exceeding joy and comfort it was to ſuffer for Chriſt, and with Chriſt. Concerning this, the other Apoſtle ſpeaks alſo, Chriſt ſuffered for us, leaving us an example that 1 Pet.2. 21. we ſhould follow his ſteps. But the Text that ſeems ſo pertinent, and yet ſo difficult, is that of Paul, I now Col.1.24. rejoyce in my ſufferings for you, and fill up that which is behind of the afflictions of Chriſt in my fleſh, for his bodie's ſake, which is the Church: One would wonder how Paul ſhould fill up that which is behind of the ſufferings of Chriſt; Were Chriſt's ſufferings imperfect? and muſt Paul add to them? no ſurely; for by one of- Heb.10. 14. fering Chriſt hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified. I ſhall not inſiſt on many Commentaries; I ſuppoſe this is the genuine ſenſe and meaning of the Spirit. Now rejoyce I in my ſufferings for you, whereby I fulfill the meaſure of thoſe tribulations which remain yet to be endured of Chriſt in his myſtical body, which I do for the bodies ſake, not to ſatisfie for it, but to confirm it, or ſtrengthen it by my example in the Goſpel of Chriſt. The ſufferings of Chriſt are either perſonal or general; his perſonal ſufferings were thoſe he endured in his own body, as Mediator; which once for ever he finiſhed: his general ſufferings are thoſe which he endures in his myſtical body, which is, the Church; as he is a Member with the reſt; and theſe are the ſufferings Paul ſpeaks of, and which Paul fills up.

But wherein is the conformity betwixt our ſufferings, and the ſufferings of Chriſt? I anſwer, 1. Negatively, 2. Poſitively.

1. Negatively, Our ſufferings have no conformity with Chriſt in theſe two things: 1. Not in the Office of Chriſt's ſufferings; for his were meritorious and ſatisfactory, ours only miniſterial, and for edification. 2. Not in the weight and meaſure of Chriſt's ſufferings; for his were bitter, heavy, and woful, ſuch as would have preſſed any other Creature as low as Hell, and have ſwallowed him up for ever; but ours are but in compariſon light and tollerable; There hath no temptation taken you but ſuch as 1 Cor.10. 13. is common to man; for God is faithful, who will not ſuffer you to be tempted above that you are able.

2. Poſitively, Our ſufferings muſt have conformity with Chriſt. 1. In the cauſe of them; Chriſt's ſufferings were inſtrumentally from Satan and wicked men; we muſt look to ſuffer by the enemies of Chriſt, if we have any ſhare in Chriſt; the enmity continues ſtill; I will put enmity between thee and the Gen.3.15. woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed. This was primarily meant betwixt the Devil and Chriſt; but if we conform to Chriſt, we muſt expect the very ſame conditions. 2. In the manner of undergoing them; we muſt ſuffer with a proportion of that humility, and patience, and love, and meekneſs and obedience which Chriſt ſhewed in his very ſufferings.

3. In reſpect of the iſſue of them; we muſt look upon Chriſt's iſſue, and expect it to be ours: Luke 24. 26. Ought not Chriſt to have ſuffered theſe things, and ſo enter into Glory?——And, Rom 8. 17 if ſo be that we ſuffer with Chriſt, we ſhall be glorified together with Chriſt.——2 Tit. 2. 12. If we ſuffer with him, we ſhall alſo reign with him.

By reaſon of this Conformity, we have that Communion and Aſſociation with Chriſt in all theſe Particulars; as, 1. We have Chriſt's Strength to bear Sufferings. 2. His Victories to overcome Sufferings. 3. His Interceſſion to preſerve us from falling away in Sufferings. 4. His Compaſſion to moderate and proportion our Sufferings to the meaſure of Strength which he hath given us. 5. His Spirit to draw into the ſame Yoke with us, and to hold us under all ſufferings, that we ſink not. 6. His Graces to be more glorious by our Sufferings, as a Torch, when it is ſhaken, Shines the brighter. 7. His Crown to reward our Sufferings when we ſhall have taſted our meaſure of them. For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of Glory.

O my Soul! ſtudy this Conformity, and be content with thy Portion; yea, comfort thy ſelf in this Condition of Sufferings: muſt we not drink of our Saviour's Cup? What, not of our Maſter's own Cup? We read of Godfrey of Bullen, that he would not be crowned in Jeruſalem with a Crown of Gold, where Chriſt was crowned with a Crown of Thorns, becauſe he would not have ſuch a great Diſproportion betwixt him and Chriſt. And we read of Origen, that when Alexander Severus the Emperor ſent for him to Rome, and that he might take his choice, whether he would ride thither on a Mule, or in a Chariot, that he refuſed them both, ſaying, He was leſs than his Maſter Chriſt, of whom he never read that he rode but once. O the Sufferings of Chriſt endured! he was called a Wine-bibber, a Samaritan, a Devil: he was Purſued, Entrapped, Snared, Slain: And ſurely 2 Tim. 3. 17. they that will live godly in Chriſt Jeſus, muſt ſuffer perſecution. Never wonder that thou are hated of Men, or perſecuted of Men: why, I tell thee, if Chriſt himſelf were now amongſt us in the form and faſhion of a Servant, in that very Condition that ſometimes he was, and ſhould convince Men of their Wickedneſs as ſearchingly as ſometimes he did, I verily think he would be the moſt hated Man in all the World. It's plain enough what carnal Men would do, by theſe very doings of the carnal Jews.

3. We muſt conform to Chriſt in his Death, carrying in us a Reſemblance and Repreſentation of his Death. But what Death is this? I anſwer in a word, a death unto ſin: ſo the Apoſtle; Rom. 6. 10, 11. in that he died, he died unto ſin;——likewiſe reckon ye your ſelves to be dead indeed unto ſin. There is a likeneſs betwixt Chriſt's Death, and our Death, in this reſpect, Rom. 6. 5. we are planted together in the likeneſs of his death. True Mortification carries a Similitude, a Likeneſs, a Reſemblance of the Death of Chriſt. As for inſtance.

See Mr. Brinſly at large, myſtical implantation.

1. Chriſt's Death was a voluntary Death. John 10. 17, 18. I lay down my life that I may take it again; no man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my ſelf; I have power to lay it down and I have power to take it again: Not all Men on Earth, nor all Devils in Hell could have enforced Chriſt's Death, if he had not pleaſed; his Death was a voluntary Death, a ſpontaneous Act; ſo is our Mortification: Pſal. 100. 3. Thy people ſhall be willing in the day of thy power; many may leave their Sins againſt their Wills; but this is not true Mortification; it bears not in it the likeneſs of Chriſt's Death, for he died willingly: It may be thou haſt a clamorous Conſcience, which continually dogs thee, therefore thou leaveſt thy Sin; thus Judas came in with his thirty Pieces of Silver, and caſt them down in the Temple at the High Prieſts feet, Mat. 27. 5 but no thanks to Judas, for they were too hot for him to hold; or it may be there is ſome Penalty of the Law, of or ſome temporal Judgment that hangs over thy head, like Damocles's Sword, and therefore thou leaveſt thy Sin; thus Ahab for a time acts the part of a Penitent, but no thanks to Ahab; for the Prophet had rung him ſuch a Peal for his Sin, as made both his Ears tingle: In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth, ſhall dogs lick thy blood, even thine: 1 Kin. 21. 19. Or it may be there is in thee a fear of Hell, in thy apprehenſion Death is come, and is ready to carry thee before the dreadful Tribunal of a terrible God, and therefore thou leaveſt thy Sin; thus Sea-men in a ſtreſs part with their Goods, not becauſe they are out of love with them, but becauſe they love their lives better; they ſee plainly that either they muſt part with them, or periſh with them. Now in theſe caſes, they leaving off Sin, bears no Similitude with the Death of Chriſt; for his Death was voluntary, and true Mortification is a voluntary Action.

Queſt. But may there not be ſome reluctancy in this work betwixt the Fleſh and the Spirit? And if ſo, is it then voluntary? I anſwer——

Anſw. Yes, ſuch a reluctancy we find in the Humane Nature of Chriſt concerning the Cup, that it might Mat. 26 39. paſs from him, and yet his Death was a voluntary Death. An Action is ſaid to be voluntary or involuntary, according to the ſuperior Faculties of the Soul, and not according to the inferior; if the reaſonable part be conſenting, the action may be called voluntary, tho there be ſome reluctancy in the ſenſitive Appetite. Thus in the Chriſtian, in whom there is Nature and Grace, Fleſh and Spirit, an unregenerate and a regenerate part, if the ſuperior and better part be willing, (I mean adviſedly and deliberately willing, with full conſent of the inward Man) tho perhaps there may be ſome reluctancy in the Fleſh, in the unregenerate Part, yet this is ſaid to be a true voluntary Act. Ro. 7. 25. So then with the mind, I my ſelf ſerve the Law of God, but with my fleſh the Law of Sin.——22, 23. I delight in the Law of God after the inward man; but I ſee another Law in my Members, warring againſt the Law of my Mind. Paul was dead to Sin according to the inward man, the regenerate Part, tho he found a reluctancy in his outward members; and therefore his Death to Sin carried with it the reſemblance of the Death of Chriſt, it was a voluntary Death.

2. Chriſt's Death was a violent Death; he died not naturally, but violently; 1 Pet. 3. 18. he was put to death in the fleſh, Iſa. 53. 7. he was brought as a Lamb to the ſlaughter. So is our Mortification, it is voluntary in reſpect of us, but violent in reſpect of Sin; and herein is the life (as I may ſay) of his Death: Oh when a man lays violent hands on his Sins; when he cuts them off, being yet in their Flower, and ſtrength, and Power, and Vigor; when he pulls up thoſe Weeds before they wither in themſelves, this is true Mortification: many have left their Sins, who never mortified them; ſo the aged Adulterer hath left his Luſt, becauſe his Body is dead, and hence it is that late repentance in an aged Sinner is ſeldom found true: Alas, he dies not to Sin, but his Sin dies to him: I will not ſay, but God may call at the eleventh hour, tho it be very ſeldom; but in that caſe you had need to be Jealous over your ſelves with a godly Jealouſy: What, do you find ſome Sins within you to be dead, that were ſometimes alive? O be inquiſitive, impannel a Jury, call a Coroner's Inqueſt upon your own Souls, enquire how they came by their Deaths; whether they died a violent or natural Death? Search what Wounds they have received, add whether they were deadly Wounds, yea, or no? Enquire what Weapon it was that ſlew them, whether the Sword of the Spirit, that two-edged Sword, the word of God? What purpoſes, what Reſolutions have been taken up, and levelled againſt them? What Prayers and Tears have been ſpent upon them? If you find not theſe Signs, you may give in your Verdict, that they died not a violent, but a natural Death. And here's Eccl. 12. 1. a good Caveat for others: Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy Youth, while the evil Days come not, nor the Years draw nigh, when thou ſhalt ſay, I have no pleaſure in them. Oh take heed of reprieve your Luſts! let them not live till to morrow; now bring them forth in the ſight and preſence of God; Arraign, Condemn, Crucify, Mortify them while they might yet live. Surely this is true Mortification, when the Body of Sin dieth, as Chriſt died, a violent Death.

3. Chriſt's Death was a lingring Death; he hung divers hours upon the Croſs, From the firſt hour to the ninth hour, ſaith Matthew; (i. e.) from our Twelve to Three, before he gave up the Ghoſt. So is our Mortification a lingring Death; Sin is not put to Death all at once, but languiſheth by little and little; this is looked upon as one main difference betwixt Juſtification and Sanctification; the former is a perfect Work, admitting of no degrees, but ſo is not the latter; tho a Believer is freed perfectly from the guilt of ſin, yet not ſo from the power of it; ſin dwelleth in us, tho it hath not altogether a dominion over us: Rom. 7. 17. It it no more I that do it, but Sin that dwelleth in me; like a rebellious Tenant, it keeps Poſſeſſion in deſpight of the Owner, till the Houſe be pulled down over his Head. True indeed, the body of ſin in a regenerate Soul hath received its death Wound, and in that reſpect it may be ſaid to be dead, but it is not quite dead; ſtill it ſtirreth and moveth, dying but by degrees: What the Apoſtle ſaith of the renewing of the new Man, we may ſay of the deſtroying of the old Man, 2 Cor. 4. 16. the inward man is renewed day by day, and the old Man is deſtroyed day by day, or as Paul ſaid of himſelf, in reſpect of his 1 Cor. 15. 31. Afflictions, we may ſay of a Chriſtian in reſpect of his Sins, I dye daily; there is not the moſt ſanctified Soul upon Earth, but has ſome remainders of Corruption left in it, which God in his wiſe Providence permits for the trying, exerciſing, and humbling of our Souls, and for making his own Graces, in renewing and multiplying Pardons, ſo much the more glorious.

And here is a ground of Conſolation to a drooping and dejected Soul; ſuch an one cries out, Alas, I feel the ſtirring and vigorous actings of Sin, and I am afraid my Sin is not mortified; Gen. 25. 22. as Rebeccah ſaid, when ſhe felt the Children ſtrugling within her; if it be ſo, why, am I thus? So, if Sin be mortified, ſaith the Soul, why am I thus?—— Trembling Soul, let not this diſcourage: Jeſus Chriſt was not dead ſo ſoon as he was faſtned to the Croſs: But haſt thou taken the ſame courſe with the body of ſin, that the Jews did with the body of Chriſt? Haſt thou arraigned it, accuſed it, condemned it, and faſtned it to the Croſs? Haſt thou arraigned it at the Bar of God's Judgment, accuſed it by way of humble and hearty Confeſſion, condemned it in paſſing the Sentence of Eternal Condemnation upon thy ſelf for it, and faſtned it to the Croſs, in beginning the Execution of it, in ſetting upon the Mortification of it with a ſerious and unfeigned Reſolution to uſe all means for its mortifying and killing? why then be not diſheartned; it may be thou feeleſt it ſtirring, and ſtrugling within thee, and ſo will a crucified man do, and yet in the Eye of the Law, and the account of all men that ſee him, he is a dead man; ſurely ſo is the body of ſin, when it is thus crucified; tho it ſtill move and ſtir, yet upon a Goſpel-account, and in God's Eſtimation, it is no better than dead, and it ſhall certainly dye, it ſhall decay, and languiſh, and dye more and more; is not the Promiſe expreſs; He that hath begun the Phil. 1. 6. good work, will perfect it to the day of Jeſus Chriſt? Of this Paul was confident in behalf of his Phillippians; and of this let all true Believers reſt confident in reſpect of themſelves. Thus far we ſee wherein we muſt conform to Chriſt, viz. in his Graces, in his Sufferings, and in his Death.

For a Query, what is the cauſe of this Conformity? I anſwer, The Death of Chriſt is the cauſe of his Conformity: and that a fourfold cauſe.——

1. It is a meritorious cauſe; Chriſt's Death was of ſo great a Price, that it deſerved at God's hands our Conformity to Chriſt, Chriſt loved the Church, Eph. 7. 25, 26, 27. and gave himſelf for it, that by his Death he might ſanctifie it, and cleanſe it:——and preſent it to himſelf a glorious Church, not having ſpot or wrinkle, or any ſuch thing; but that it ſhould be holy and without blemiſh.

2. It is an examplary Cauſe: He ſuffered for us, leaving us an example that we ſhould follow his ſteps: 1 Pet. 2. 21. He died for us, leaving us an Example that we ſhould dye to Sin, as he died for Sin; we may obſerve in many particulars (beſides thoſe I have named) a Proportion, Analogy, and Likeneſs betwixt Chriſt's Death and ours; Chriſt died as a Servant, to note that Sin ſhould not rule, or reign over us; Chriſt died as a Curſe, to note that we ſhould look upon Sin as a curſed thing; Chriſt was faſt nailed on the Croſs, to note that we ſhould put Sin out of eaſe, yea, crucify the whole Body of Sin: Chriſt died not preſently, yet there he hung till he died, to note that we ſhould never give over ſubduing Sin, while it hath any Life or working in us.

3. It is an efficient Cauſe, it works this Conformity by a ſecret Virtue iſſuing from it. Thus Chriſtians are ſaid to be engraffed with Chriſt in the Rom. 6. 5. likeneſs of his Death. The word ὁμοιώματι, is of a paſſive Signification, importing not only a being like, but a being made like, and that by a Power and Virtue out of our ſelves; ſo the Apoſtle elſewhere interprets, That I may know him,——and Phil. 3. 10. the fellowſhip of his Sufferings, being made conformable unto his Death. Not conforming my ſelf, but being made conformable, by a Power out of my ſelf, Queſt. But how then is the Power of Mortification attributed to Men? As, Mortifie ye your members which Col. 3. 5. are upon the Earth—— And, They which are Chriſt's Gal. 5. 24 have crucified the fleſh.

Anſw. I anſwer, there is a twofold Mortification, the one habitual, the other practical; the former conſiſts in a change of the Heart, turning the Bent and Inclination of the Heart, from all manner of Sin; now this is the only and immediate Work of the Spirit of Grace, breathing and working where it will; the latter conſiſts in the exerciſe of putting forth of that inward Grace, in the acting of that Principle, in reſiſting Temptations, in ſuppreſſing inordinate Luſts, in watching againſt ſinful and inordinate acts; now, what this is the Work of a regenerate Perſon, himſelf co-operating with the Spirit of God, as a rational inſtrument with the principal Agent, and therefore the Apoſtle joyns both together: If ye through Rom. 8. 13. the Spirit do mortifie the Deeds of the Body, ye ſhall live.

4. It is an impelling, or a moving Cauſe, as all Objects are; for Objects have an attractive Power. Achan ſaw the wedg of Gold and then coveted it: David ſaw Bathſheba, and then deſired her. As the Brazen Serpent did heal thoſe who were bitten by the fiery Serpent, tanquam objectum fidei, meerly by being looked upon; ſo Chriſt crucified doth heal Sin, beget Grace, encourage to Sufferings by being looked upon with the Eyes of Faith, Wherefore ſeeing we are compaſſed about with ſo great a croud of Witneſſes, let us lay aſide every weight, and the ſin which doth ſo eaſily beſet us, and let us run with patience the race that is ſet before us; looking unto Jeſus the Author and Finiſher of our Faith. The Apoſtle was to encourage the Hebrews to hold on the well-begun Profeſſion of Faith in Chriſt; and to that purpoſe he ſets before them two Sights to keep them from fainting. 1. A Cloud of Witneſſes, the Saints in Heaven; on which Cloud when he had ſtaid their Eyes a while, and made them fit for a clearer Object, he ſcatters the Clouds; and preſents the Son of Righteouſneſs, Chriſt himſelf, and he wills them ἀφορᾷν, to turn their Eyes from it to him, looking unto Jeſus, q. d. this Sight is enough to make you run the Race, and not to faint; why, Jeſus is gone before you, and will you not follow him; O look unto Jeſus, and the very Sight of him will draw you after him: Chriſt crucified hath an attractive Power: Joh. 12. 32. And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men to me. ——Thus of the Cauſes of our Conformity; we ſee how it is wrought.

3. For the laſt Query: what are the means of this Conformity as on our part? I anſwer.

1. Go to the Croſs of Jeſus Chriſt. It is not all our Purpoſes, Reſolutions, Promiſes, Vows, Covenants, Endeavours without this, that will effect our Conformity to Chriſt in his Sufferings and Death; no, no, this Conformity is a fruit and effect of the Death of Chriſt, and therefore whoſoever would have this work wrought in him, let him firſt have recourſe to Chriſt's Croſs: O go we more immediately to the Croſs of Jeſus.

2. Look up to him that hangs upon it, contemplate the Death of Jeſus Chriſt; conſider ſeriouſly and ſadly his bitter, ſhameful, painful Sufferings: Much hath been ſaid, only here draw it into ſome Epitome: As, 1. Conſider who he was. 2, What he ſuffered. 3, Why he ſuffered, 4. For whom he ſuffered. 5. For what end he ſuffered. 6. With what mind he ſuffered: Every one of theſe will make ſome diſcoveries either of his Graces, or of his gracious actings in our behalf; and who can tell how far this very Look may work on us to change us, and transform us into the very Image of Jeſus Chriſt?

3. Let us humbly bewail our Defect, Exorbitancy, Irregularity and Inconformity, either to the Graces, Sufferings, or Death of Chriſt. As thus; Lo here the profound Humility, wonderful Patience, fervent Love, abundant Mercy, admirable Meekneſs, conſtant Obedience of Jeſus Chriſt! Lo here the Tortures, Torments, Agonies, Conflicts, extreme Sufferings of Chriſt for the ſpiritual, immortal good of the precious Souls of his redeemed ones: Lo here the Death of Chriſt, ſee how he bowed the Head, and gave up the Ghoſt! Why theſe are the Particulars to which I ſhould conform: But Oh alas! what a wide, vaſt, utter Diſtance, Diſproportion is there betwixt me and them? Chriſt in his ſufferings ſhined with Graces, his Graces appeared in his Sufferings, like ſo many Stars in a bright Winter's Night; but how dim are the faint, weak Graces in my Soul? Chriſt in his Sufferings endured much for me, I know not how much; by thine unknown Sorrows and Sufferings felt by thee, but not diſtinctly known to us (ſaid the Ancient Fathers of the Greek Church, in their Liturgy) have mercy upon us, and ſave us; his Sorrows and Sufferings were ſo great, that ſome think it dangerous to define them; but how poor, how little are my Sufferings for Jeſus Chriſt? I have not yet reſiſted unto Blood, and if I had, what were this in compariſon of his extreme Sufferings? Chriſt in his Sufferings died; his paſſive Obedience was unto Death, even to the Death of the Croſs: he hung on the Croſs till he bowed his Head, and gave up the Ghoſt; he died unto Sin once, Rom 6. 10. But alas! how do I live in that for which he died? To this day my Sin hath not given up the Ghoſt; to this day the Death of Chriſt is not the Death of my Sin: O my Sin is not yet crucified; the Heart-blood of my Sin is not yet let out: Oh! wo is me how unanſwerable am I to Chriſt in all theſe reſpects?

4. Let us quicken, provoke, and rouze up our Souls to this Conformity; let us ſet before them exciting Arguments, ex. gr. The greateſt Glory that a Chriſtian can attain to in this World, is to have a Reſemblance and likeneſs to Jeſus Chriſt. Again, the more like we are to Chriſt, the more we are in the love of God, and the better he is pleaſed with us: It was his Voice concerning his Son, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed; and for his ſake, if we are but like him, he is alſo well pleaſed with us. Again, a Likeneſs or Reſemblance of Chriſt is that which keeps Chriſt alive in the World: As we ſay of a Child that is like his Father, This Man cannot dye ſo long as his Son is alive: So we may ſay of Chriſtians who reſemble Chriſt, that ſo long as they are in the World, Chriſt cannot dye; he lives in them, and he is no otherwiſe alive in this nether World, than in the hearts of gracious Chriſtians, that carry the Picture and Reſemblance of him. Again, a likeneſs to Chriſt in his Death, will cauſe a likeneſs to Chriſt in his Glory, If we have been planted together in the likeneſs of his Death, we ſhall be alſo in the likeneſs of his Reſurrection: Rom.6. 5. As it is betwixt the Graft and the Stock, the Graft ſeeming dead with the Stock in the Winter, it revives with it in the Spring; after the Winter's Death, it partakes of the Spring's Reſurrection; ſo it is betwixt Chriſt and us, if with Chriſt we dye to Sin, we ſhall with Chriſt be raiſed to Glory; being conformed to him in his Death, we ſhall be alſo in his Reſurrection. Thus let us quicken and provoke our Souls to this conforminy.

5. Let us pray to God that he will make us conformable to Jeſus Chriſt. It is Grace we want? Let us beg of him that of that fulneſs that is in Chriſt, we may in our meaſure receive Grace for Grace. It is Patience, or Joy in Sufferings that we want? Let us beg of him that as he had promiſed, he will ſend us the Comforter, that we may follow Chriſt chearfully from his Croſs to his Crown, from Earth to Heaven. Is it Mortification our Souls pant after? This indeed makes us moſt like to Chriſt in his Sufferings and Death; why then pray we for this Mortification.

But, how ſhould we pray? I anſwer, 1. Let us plainly acknowledg, and heartily bemoan our ſelves in God's Boſom for our Sins, our abominable Sins. 2 Chr.20. 12. 2. Let us confeſs our weakneſs, feebleneſs, and inability in our ſelves to ſubdue our Sins: We have no might (may we ſay) againſt this great company that come againſt us, neither know what to do, but our eyes are upon thee. 3. Let us put up our Requeſt, begging help from Heaven, let us cry to God that Virtue may come out of Chriſt's Death to mortify our Luſts, heal our Natures, to ſtanch our bloody iſſues; and Rom.8. 13. that the Spirit may come in to help us in theſe works: For by the Spirit do we mortifie the deeds of the Body. 4. Let us preſs God with the Merits of Chriſt, and Rom.6. 14. with his Promiſes through Chriſt; for he hath ſaid, Sin Rom. 8.2 ſhall not have dominion over us; for we are not under the Law, but under Grace: and Paul experienced it, The Law of the Spirit of Life in Chriſt hath freed me from the Law of Sin and Death. 5. Let us praiſe God and thank God for the help already received, if we find that we have gotten ſome Power againſt Sin, that we have gotten more Ability to oppoſe the Luſts of the Fleſh that we are ſeldom overtaken with any breathing forth of it, that we have been able to withſtand notable Temptations to it, that the force of it in us is in any meaſure abated, that indeed and in truth Virtue is gone out of the Death of Chriſt

Oh then return we Praiſes to God, let us triumph in God, let us lead our captivity captive, and ſing new Songs of Praiſes unto God, and even ride in triumph over our Corruptions, boaſting our ſelves in God, and ſetting up our Banners in the Name of the moſt High, and offering up humble and hearty thanks to our Father for the Death of Chriſt, and for the Merit, Virtue, and Efficacy of it derived unto us, and beſtowed npon us,

6. Let us frequently return to our looking upon unto Jeſus Chriſt, to our believing in Chriſt as he was liftedup. How we are to manage our Faith, to draw down the Virtue of Chriſt's Death into our Souls, I have diſcovered before; and let us now be in Practice of thoſe Rules; certainly there is a conveyance of an healing, ſtrengthning, quickning Virtue flowing into the Soul in the time of its viewing, eying, contemplating, reflecting upon Chriſt crucified, Chriſt lifted up; and this comes from the ſecret Preſence of God, bleſſing this our looking upon Chriſt, as the Ordinance by which he hath appointed to make an effectual Impreſſion upon the heart. It is not for us curiouſly to enquire, how this ſhould be: Principles (we ſay) are not to be proved; ſave only God hath ſaid it, and Experience hath found it out, that when Faith is occaſioned to act on any ſuitable ſacred Object, God by his Spirit doth not fail to anſwer; in ſuch a caſe he fills the Soul with comfort, Bleſſing, Virtue; he returns upon the Soul (by, from, and through the actings of Faith) whatſoever by it is looked for. Indeed none knoweth this, but he that feels it; and none feels this that knoweth how to expreſs it; as there is ſomewhat in Fire) Heat, Warmth and Light) which no Painter can expreſs; and as there is ſomewhat in the Face) Heat, Warmth and Life) which no Limner can ſet forth; ſo there is ſomewhat flowing into the Soul, while it is acting Faith on the Death of Chriſt, which, for the riſe, or way, or manner of its working, is beyond what Tongue can ſpeak, or Pen can write, or Pencil can delineate. Come then, if we would have Grace, endure Afflictions, dye to Sin, grow in our Mortification: Let us again and again return to our Duty of looking unto Jeſus, or believing in Jeſus, as he was lifted up.

And yet when all is done, let us not think that Sin will dye or ceaſe in us altogether; for that is an higher Perfection than this Life will bear; only in the uſe of the means, and through God's bleſſing, we may expect thus far, that Sin ſhall not reign, it ſhall not wear a Crown, it ſhall not ſit in the Throne, it ſhall hold no Parliaments, it ſhall give no Laws within us; we ſhall not ſerve it, but we ſhall die to the Dominion of it, by Virtue of this Death of Jeſus Chriſt. And this, grant He who died for us; Amen, Amen.

Thus far we have looked on Jeſus, as our Jeſus; in his Sufferings and Death. Our next Work is to look on Jeſus carrying on the great Work of our Salvation during the time of his Reſurrection, and abode upon Earth, until his Aſcenſion, or taking up to Heaven.

LOOKING UNTO JESUS, IN HIS RESURRECTION.

Matth. 28. 6. He is riſen.--Come ſee the place where the Lord lay.
2 Tim. 28. Remember that Jeſus Chriſt of the ſeed of David, was raiſed from the dead.

SECT. I.

Of the Time of Chriſt's Reſurrection.

THE Sun that went down in a ruddy Cloud, is riſen again with glorious Beams of Light. In this piece, as in the former, we ſhall firſt lay down the Object, and then give Directions how to look upon it.

The Object is Jeſus, carrying on the great Work of Man's Salvation in his Reſurrection, and during the time of his abode on Earth after his Reſurrection. Now in all the Tranſactions of this time, I ſhall only take notice of theſe two things. 1. Of his Reſurrection. 2. Of his Apparitions; for firſt, he aroſe; and ſecondly, he ſhews himſelf that he was riſen: in the firſt is the Poſition, in the ſecond is the Proof.

1. For the Poſition; the Scripture tells us that he roſe again the third day. In this point I ſhall obſerve theſe particulars. 1. When he aroſe. 2. Why he aroſe. 3. How he aroſe

1. When he aroſe; it was the third day after his Crucifying. Matth. 12. 40. As Jonas was three days and three nights in the Whales belly, ſo ſhall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. This was the time he had appointed; and this was the time appropriated to Chriſt, and marked out for him in the Calendar of the Prophets; of all thoſe whom God raiſed from Death to Life, there is not one that was raiſed on the third day, but Jeſus Chriſt; ſome roſe afore, and ſome roſe after; the Son of the Shunamite, the Son of the Widow of Sarephtah, the Daughter of Jairus, he of Naim, and ſome others roſe afore; Lazarus, and the Saints that roſe again from the Duſt when Chriſt roſe, ſtaid longer in the Grave, but Chriſt takes the day, which diſcovers him to be the Meſſiah: Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Chriſt to ſuffer, and to riſe from the dead the third day. Luke 24. 46. Had he roſe ſooner, a doubt might have been of his dying; and had he lain longer, a doubt might have been of his riſing; he would riſe no ſooner, becauſe in ſome Diſeaſes, as in the Apoplexy, or ſuch like, examples are given of ſuch, as ſeeming to be dead, have indeed revived; and he would lye no longer in his Grave, becauſe in all dead Carcaſſes (and eſpecially in a wounded Body) Putreaction and Corruption begins the third day; this may be gathered by the Story of Lazarus in the Goſpel, where Jeſus commanding the Stone to be rolled from his Grave, Martha his Siſter anſwered, Lord, by this time he ſtinketh, for he hath been dead four days. Joh. 11. 39. Now the Body of Chriſt (as it was propheſied) muſt not corrupt; for thou wilt not leave my ſoul in hell, neither wilt thou ſuffer thy holy one to ſee corruption. Pſal. 16. 10. Mark this Text: All Men ſhall riſe again, but their Bodies muſt firſt ſee Corruption; only the Meſſiah was to riſe again before he ſaw Corruption; and therefore he would not delay his Reſurrection after the third day. Some think this, and that of Hoſea, after two days he will revive us, and in the third day he will raiſe us up, Hoſ. 6. 2. to be the main Texts to which Chriſt refers, when he ſaid, Thus it is written. Luke 24. 46. And to which the Apoſtle refers, when he ſaid, that Chriſt roſe again the third day according to the Scriptures. 1 Cor. 15. 4.

I dare not be too Curious, in giving reaſons for this ſet time; and the rather, becauſe Chriſt is a free worker of his own Affairs; he doth what he pleaſeth, and when he pleaſeth; Times and Actions are in his own Power, and he needs not to give us any account of them; and yet ſo far as Scripture diſcovers, we may go along, and amongſt many others, I ſhall lay down theſe following Reaſons.

1. Becauſe the Types had ſo preſigured; we ſee it in Iſaac, Jonah and Hezekiah, a Patriarch, a Prophet, and a King. 1. For Iſaac; from the time that God commanded Iſaac to be offered for a burnt-offering Iſaac was a dead man; but the third day he was releaſed from Death; this the Text tells us expreſly, that it was the third day when Abraham came to Mount Moriah, and had his Son, as it were, reſtored to him again, Gen. 22. 4. Gen. 22. 4. And Paul diſcovers that this was in a figure, Heb. 11. 19. Heb. 11. 19. 2. For Jonah; from the time that Jonah was caſt into the Sea, and ſwallowed up of the Fiſh, Jonah was, in account, as a dead man; but the third day the Lord ſpake unto the Fiſh, and it vomited up Jonah upon the dry land, Jonah 2. 10. Jonah 2. 10. And that this was a Figure of Chriſt, Chriſt himſelf diſcovers; diſcovers; for as Jonah was three days and three nights in Mat.12. the Whalesbelly, ſo ſhall the Son of man be three days and 2 King. 20.1. three nightsin the heart of the earth. For Hezekiah; from the time that Iſaiah ſaid unto him, ſet thine houſe in order, for thou ſhalt die, and not live: Hezekiah was in account, as a dead Man; his Bed was to him as a Grave; but on the third day he was miraculouſly raiſed up again; and as the Prophet ſaid, on the Ver.5. third day thou ſhalt go up to the houſe of the Lord. Surely this was a Figure of Chriſt: And theſe Types prefiguring Chriſt, are as one Reaſon.

2. Becauſe the Prophets and himſelf had ſo foretold: for the Prophets we have cited, Pſal. 16. 10. Matth.16. 21. Hoſ. 6. 2. And for himſelf, he told them very expreſly, that he muſt ſuffer many things of the Elders, Matth.17. 22,23. and chief Prieſts, and Scribes, and be raiſed again the Matth.20. 18,19. third day; yea, ſaid he, the ſon of man ſhall be betrayed into the hands of men, and they ſhall kill him, and the third day he ſhall be raiſed again; and after this, he tells them again, that the ſon of man ſhould be betrayed, ———— and crucified, and the third day he ſhould riſe again: ſo often had he propheſied thus, that the chief Prieſts and Phariſes came to Pilate after his Matth.27. 62,63,64. Death, ſaying Sir, we remember that this deceiver ſaid, while he was yet alive, after three days I will riſe again; command therefore that the Sepulchre be made ſure until the third day. And no queſtion his Diſciples remembred the ſayings; for ſo the two Diſciples travelling towards Emmaus, after they had ſaid many things concerning him, and that they truſted it had been he, which ſhould have redeemed Iſrael, they added this as a moſt ſpecial Obſervation above all the Luke 24. 21. reſt, that to day is the third day ſince theſe things were done. Why, all theſe ſignifie that his riſing on the third day was the accompliſhment of Propheſies, and a certain evidence that he was the Meſſiah indeed.

3. Becauſe that time was moſt ſuitable for comforting his Friends, for confounding his Enemies, for clearing the truth both of his Humanity and Divinity; he would ſtay no longer, leſt his Diſciples might have been ſwallowed up with Grief; and he would come no ſooner, leſt his Enemies ſhould have urged that he had not died; the Watchmen kept the Sepulchre till this very time; but then the Angels appearing, and the Earth trembling, they became as dead Men; and aſſoon as they could, they run away, and with their tidings confounded all Chriſt's Enemies. And withal, as Chriſt conſiſted both of a Divine and Humanet Nature, ſo in reſpect of his Humanity, he muſt dye; and to ſhew his Death, it was requiſite that he ſhould riſe no ſooner than the third day; and in reſpect of his Divinity, it was impoſſible that he ſhould be held of Death any longer than three days; for as he muſt not ſee Acts 2.24. Corruption, ſo God raiſed him up, having looſed the pains of death, becauſe it was not poſſible that he ſhould be holden of it.

Sect. 2, Of the Reaſons of Chriſt's Reſurrection.

2. WHy he roſe: we have theſe Reaſons.——

1. That he might powerfully convince, or confound his Adverſaries; they that crucified him were mightily afraid of his Reſurrection; they could tell Pilate, Sir we remember this deceiver ſaid while he Matth.27. 63,64. was yet alive, after three days I will riſe again: and therefore they deſire him of all Loves to command the Sepulcher to be made ſure until the third day; if ever he riſe again whom they have killed, then they were all aſhamed; then the laſt error (as they ſaid) would be worſe than the firſt; All the World would look on them as a curſed Generation, to kill the Meſſiah, to crucify ſuch a one as after his Death and Burial ſhould riſe again; now then, that he might either convince them, or confound them, notwithſtanding their Care, their Watch, their Seal, their making all ſure as poſſibly they could; at the very ſame time he told them before, he broke open the Gates of Death, and made the Gates of Braſs to fly aſunder.

2. That he might confirm the Faith of all his Followers. If Chriſt be not riſen, your Faith is vain, 1 Cor.15 14. ſaith the Apoſtle. Chriſt's Reſurrection both confirms our Faith, as to his Perſon, and to his Office: Rom.2.4. for his Perſon; this ſpeaks him to be the Eternal Son of God, by the Reſurrection from the Dead: and for his Office; this ſpeaks him to be the promiſed Meſſiah, the great Prophet, the chief high Prieſt, the King and Saviour of his Church. When the Jews ſaw Chriſt purging the Temple, and Meſſiah like reforming what he ſaw amiſs in the Houſe of God, Joh.2.18, 19,22. What ſign (ſay they) ſheweſt thou unto us, ſeeing thou doſt theſe things? And he ſaid unto them, Deſtroy this Temple and in three days I will raiſe it up.——When therefore he was riſen from the dead, his Diſciples remembred that he had ſaid this unto them, and they believed the Scripture, and the Word which Jeſus had ſaid: As the reſurrection of Chriſt argues his Mediatorſhip, ſo it confirms their faith; as it ſaid, They believed the Scriptures, and they believed Jeſus Chriſt. And thus John writing of his reſurrection, tells us, Theſe things John 20. 31. are written that ye might believe, and that believing, &c.

3. That it might clearly appear, that he had fully ſatisfied the juſtice of God for ſin: ſo it was, that God laid the forfeiture of the bond on Chriſt; he arreſted him, brought him to the Goal, the Grave, and there he was till the Debt was paid to the uttermoſt farthing; and then, that it might clearly appear that the bond was cancelled, the Priſoner diſcharged, God's juſtice ſatisfied, he aroſe again from the dead, Some make a queſtion when his Bond was cancelled? and they ſay, as the debt was paid, ſo the Bond was cancelled ere he ſtirred off the Croſs, (only by the Croſs I ſuppoſe they mean the utmoſt degree of Chriſt's humiliation, viz. his being held in captivity and bondage under death) and ſo the handwriting of the Law that was againſt us, was there delivered him; and there he blotted it out, cancelled it, Col.1.14. took it out of the way, nailing it to his Croſs. Others think, that as to the full diſcharge of a debt, and freeing the debtor, two things are requiſite; firſt, the payment of the Debt: ſecondly, the tearing or cancelling of the Bond; ſo the payment was wrought by Chriſt's death, and the cancelling of the Bond was at his reſurrection; I ſhall not diſprove either of theſe: I am ſure, this is without all controverſie, that Chriſt roſe, that it might fully appear that now the Bond was cancelled, and Gods Juſtice ſatisfied.

4. That he might overcome and conquer ſin, death, and devil; and hence the Apoſtle cryes victo- 1 Cor.15. 55. ry upon the occaſion of Chriſt's reſurrection, O death where is thy ſting? O grave where is thy victory? now was the day that he broke the priſon, and carryed the keys of death and hell at his own girdle; now was the day that he ſpoiled Principalities, and Powers, that he trode on the Serpents head, and all-to-bruiſed it, that he came upon him, took from him his armour wherein he truſted, and divided his ſpoils; now was the day that the Jew loſt his rage, and death his ſting, and the grave his corruption, and Hell is purchaſe; now was the day of his victory over all his enemies; now was the day that the Phœnix ſprung up out of its own aſhes, that Jonas came ſafe out of the belly of the whale, that the Tabernacle of David that was fallen, was raiſed again, that the Son of righteouſneſs covered with a cloud, appeared, and ſhone with greater luſtre than before; that Sampſen took the gates of the City, and carryed them away;—He aroſe 1 Cor.15, 20. even upon that account.

5. That he might become the firſt fruits of them that ſlept. Chriſt is called the firſt-fruits in a double reſpect, 1. In reſpect of the day whereon he roſe; Paul was an excellent critick, the very feaſt carryed him to the word; as the day of his Paſſion was the day of the paſſover, and the Apoſtle thence could
1 Cor 15. 7. ſay, Chriſt is our paſſover; 1 Cor. 15. 7. So the day of Chriſt's riſing was the day of the firſt-fruits, 1 Cor. 15.20. and the Apoſtle thence could ſay, Chriſt is our firſt-fruits.
Lev. 22. 10, 11. Concerning this feaſt of the firſt fruits we read Lev 22. 10, 11. It was their firſt Harveſt of their baſeſt grain, Barley, but the full harveſt of their beſt grain of Wheat, was not till Pentecoſt. Now upon this day, the morrow after the Sabbath, the beginning of their firſt harveſt, when the ſheaf of their firſt fruits was brought unto the Prieſt, and waved before the Lord, Chriſt aroſe from the dead, and in this reſpect Paul calls him the firſt fruits of them that ſleep, of all the Saints. He aroſe firſt as on this day, for the full
1 Cor. 15.20. Harveſt is not till dooms-day, the general Reſurrection day. 2. He is called the firſt-fruit in reſpect of them whom he thereby ſanctified: for as an handful of the firſt-fruits ſanctified the whole Field of corn that was growing: ſo Jeſus Chriſt the firſt fruits of the dead, ſanctifies all thoſe who are lying in the grave to riſe again by his Power, even when they are in the 1 Cor. 15.17, 28. duſt of death. If Chriſt be not riſen, (ſaith the Apoſtle) ye are yet in your ſins——But now is Chriſt riſen from the dead, and become the firſt fruits of them that ſleep.

6. That being formerly abaſed as a ſervant, and crucified as a ſinner, he might thus be declared to be the Son of God, and exalted to be a Prince and Saviour of men; and ſo his name might be glorified of
Rom. 1. 3.4. all the World. He was made of the Seed of David according to the fleſh, end declared to be the Son of God with power according to the Spirit of Holineſs by the reſurrection from the dead. It was of neceſſary conſequence, that he that was ſo humbled, muſt be thus exalted; therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he
Iſa. 53. 12. ſhall divide the ſpoil with the ſtrong, becauſe he hath poured out his ſoul unto death; agreeable to which is that of Chriſt, Thus it is written, and thus it behooved Chriſt
Luke. 24. 46. to ſuffer, and to riſe from the dead the third day. When Peter was Preaching Chriſt to the high Prieſt and Council that condemned him to death, he told them
Act. 5. 30. 31. that the God of our Fathers hath raiſed up Jeſus, whom ye ſlew and hanged on a tree, him hath God exalted with his
Phil. 2. 1. 9. right hand to be a Prince and a Saviour; and ſuitable to this is that of Paul, he humbled himſelf, and became obedient to the death, even to the death of the Croſs; wherefore God alſo hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name. It was for his own glory, and his Fathers glory that he ſhould riſe
1 Pet. 1. 12. again from the dead, God raiſed him up from the dead
Phil. 2. 11. and gave him glory; and he was therefore exalted, that every tongue ſhould confeſs that Jeſus Chriſt is Lord, to the glory of God the Father. Of all the reaſons of Chriſt's reſurrection, we muſt look upon this as the main; for as he hath made all things for his own glory; Chriſt was raiſed up from the dead, (ſaith the Apoſtle)
Rom. 6. 4. by the Glory of the Father; By the glory, or to the glory, or for the glory of himſelf, and of his Father:

Sect. 3. Of the manner of Chriſt's Reſurrection.

3. HOw he roſe; for the manner of his reſurrection we may conſider in it theſe particulars.——

1. That Chriſt roſe again as a common Perſon, he ſtood in our ſtead, and therefore when he roſe from death, we and all the Church of Chriſt roſe together with him, and in him. We have formerly obſerved that Chriſt took upon him the Perſon of no man, he took only the nature of man into the union of the ſecond Perſon, that ſo he might dye and riſe again, not as a Particular, but a common Perſon; that he might be as a repreſentative in our room and ſtead; that he might be as a Spiritual head, and as the ſecond Adam, who could infuſe life into all his members. In this reſpect the Apoſtle makes compariſon betwixt Adam, and Chriſt; now Adam, we know, was reckoned before his fall as a common Publick Perſon, not ſtanding ſingly or alone for himſelf, but as repreſenting all mankind to come of him; ſo Jeſus Chriſt is reckoned to us, both before his death, and in his death, and after his death, as a common publick Perſon; not living, dying, or riſing again, ſingly, or alone for himſelf, but as repreſenting all the believers in the world; and hence it is that Adam is called the firſt man, and Jeſus Chriſt is called the ſecond man; as if there never had been, nor 1 Cor. 15. 47.
never ſhould be any more men in the world, ſave only theſe two; and why? But becauſe theſe between them had all the reſt of the Sons of men hanging at their girdles: Adam had all the Sons of men born into this world called earthly men, included in him; and Chriſt had all his elect, whoſe names are written in heaven, and therefore called Heavenly men, included in him; ſo that now whatſoever Chriſt did, it is reckoned by God as if done by us and for us. When Chriſt aroſe, he aroſe as our head, and as a common Perſon, and in God's account we aroſe with him, and in him. As among all the ſheaves in the Field, there was ſome one ſheaf, that in the name and room of all the reſt was lift up, and waved before the Lord, ſo when all were dead, Chriſt as the firſt-fruits roſe again from the dead, and by this act of his reſurrection all the Elect from the beginning of the World to the end, are riſen with him and in him. He is the firſt fruits of them that ſleep; though the Saints are aſleep, yet are they virtually riſen already 1 Cor. 15. 20.
with Chriſt, becauſe he is their firſt-fruits. Let this ever be remembred, that Chriſt roſe again as the firſt-fruits, as the ſecond man, as an head, as a common Perſon.

2. That Chriſt roſe again by his own Power; this John 2. 19.
he meant when he ſaid, deſtroy this Temple, and in three days I will raiſe it up. He ſaith not, deſtroy you, and ſome other ſhall raiſe it up; no, no; but I, even I my ſelf will do it; yea; and I will do it by my own Power and vertue; here is a plain argument of the Divine nature of Chriſt; for none ever did, ever could do that but God himſelf; ſome were raiſed before Chriſt was incarnate, but not any by himſelf, or by his own proper power; only a Power was imparted to ſome Prophet by God for that time and turn, ſo they were raiſed: but Chriſt roſe again not by a Power imparted to ſome, but by his own Power. The Widows ſon of Sareptah was raiſed by Elias; and the Shunamites ſon was raiſed by Eliſha; both theſe were raiſed by others, and thoſe others that raiſed them, did it not by their own power, but by a power given them from above; and therefore though in their life-time they raiſed others, yet being dead they could not raiſe themſelves: but Jeſus Chriſt did not only in his life-time raiſe others, but alſo being dead, and laid in his grave, and preſſed with ſtones, and watched by Soldiers, and ſought to be detained by all the power of darkneſs, yet he as a conqueror, by his own Power raiſed himſelf; he cauſed all things by the ſtrength of his own arm to give way unto himſelf, I have Power to lay down my life, and I have Power to take it up again; an equal Power to take it up, as to lay it down. John. 10. 18.

But againſt this it may be objected, The God of our Fathers raiſed up Jeſus,—whom God hath raiſed up; having Acts. 5. 30,
ſaid to raiſe up himſelf by his own Power?

I anſwer, it is true, that the Father raiſed him, and yet this contradicts not but that he raiſed up himſelf: Whatſoever the Father doth, I do, ſaith Chriſt. Chriſt's reſurrection is the indiviſible work of the bleſſed Trinity; it is a work common to all the three perſons; there is but one power of the Father, and of the Son; ſo that of both it is truely verified, the Father raiſed him, and the Son raiſed himſelf.

3. That Chriſt roſe again with an earthquake; Mat. 28. 2. and behold there was a great earthquake, for the Angel of the Lord deſcended from heaven. The earth ſhook at his death, and now it trembles at his Reſurrection; plainly ſpeaking that it could neither endure his ſuffering, nor hinder his riſing. As a Lion with a Roar is ſaid to make the Bed wherein he lies to tremble; ſo this Lion of the tribe of Judah was able with his voice, or ſight, to make his Bed (the earth, wherein he lay) to tremble: no ſooner he ſhakes himſelf, but he ſhakes the earth; at his firſt motion the earth moves; and now was fulfilled that propheſie, Tremble Pſal 114. 7. thou earth at the preſence of the Lord, at the preſence of the God of Jacob. It is not for us, curiouſly to enquire into the cauſe of this earthquake; certainly the cauſe was above Natures reach; it was not any hollow wind got into the bowels of the earth; but either it was Chriſt's riſing, or the Angels deſcending; the earth either danced for joy that Chriſt was riſen, or it trembled for fear that men would not believe his reſurrection. The Evangeliſt ſeems to lay it on the Angel; for the Angel of the Lord deſcended from heaven: ſure the power of Angels is very great, they can move all corporeal things almoſt in an inſtant, they can ſtir up tempeſts, they can ſhake the earth, move the waters, only all their power is ſubjected to Pſal. 103. 20. God's will. Bleſs the Lord all ye Angels that excel in ſtrength, that do his Will: it was the Will of God that now an Angel ſhould take hold on the pillars of the earth, Mat. 28. 4. and make it ſhake; no wonder if for fear of him the keepers ſhake, and become as dead men; and if one Angel be able to ſhake the earth, and to ſhake the Keepers, thoſe armed Soldiers that were ſet to watch the Tomb; what then will Chriſt himſelf do, when he ſhall come to Judgment the ſecond time, with many thouſand thouſands of Angels? Oh how terrible and fearful will his coming be? Mat. 24 7. As at Chriſt's Reſurrection, ſo at the laſt Reſurrection, there will be earthquakes in divers places: Chriſt hath ſhewed, and he will ſhew himſelf to be the abſolute Lord of heaven and earth; ſee how the earth, trembling under his feet, doth (at it were) pay him homage; and behold there was a great Earthquake.

4. That Chriſt roſe again, Angels miniſtring to Mat. 28. 2. him. An Angel came and rolled back the ſtone from the door, and ſate upon it. Chriſt's Power was not included in the grave, or on the earth, but extended to Heaven, and to the Hoſts therein; however the cheif Prieſts and Phariſees conſpired together to cloſe him in the earth; they ſealed the ſtone, and ſet a watch, they made all as ſure as poſſibly they could; yet, the Angels of heaven are ready to wait on him as their Soveraign Lord. An Angel deſcending to roll away the Stone; not that Chriſt was unable to do it himſelf; he ſhook the Earth, and could he not lift a ſtone? O yes! but thus he would manifeſt his Power, by declaring his Power over the mighty Angels; he need but to ſay unto his Angel, do this, and he doth it. I find ſome difference amongſt Authors, why an Angel ſhould roll away the Stone, ſome think it was only for the Womens ſake, that they might go into the Sepulchre, and take a view of the empty Tomb, and ſo to be ſatisfied that Chriſt was not there, but riſen; as they ſaid, Come, Mat 8. 6 ſee the place where the Lord lay: Others think it was to do their office and ſervice to Chriſt Jeſus, to make way for his body to paſs out of the grave without any penetration of other Bodies: for my part, I adhere to theſe; though we need not to exclude the former; for the ſtone might be removed, both that Chriſt might come forth, and that the women might be convinc'd that he was riſen again. But as for the opinion of them, who think the ſtone was not removed till after the Reſurrection; and that the body of Chriſt went through the grave-ſtone when he roſe again, it is without all warrant; the very order of nature will not permit that one body ſhould paſs through another, without corruption or alteration of either: We ſay, two bodies cannot be together, and at once, in one proper place; no more than one body can be together, and at once, in an hundred, or a thouſand places; now that Angelical argument is full for this; he is not here, for he is riſen: Mat. 28. 6. he is not in the grave, for he is riſen out of the grave; he could not be in the grave, and out of the grave at one and the ſame time. But I mean not to dwell on controverſial Points.

5. That Chriſt roſe again accompanied with others; and the graves were opened, and many bodies of Mat. 27. 52. 53. Saints which ſlept, aroſe, and came out of the graves after his reſurrection, and went into the holy City; and appeared unto many. It may be the graves were opened when Chriſt was laid down in his grave; yet the ſpirts came not into the dead bodies till Chriſt's Reſurrection; the Text is plain, that they came not out of their graves till Chriſt was raiſed? Chriſt is Col. 1. 18 the begining (ſaith the Apoſtle) the firſt-born from the dead: how the firſt-born? I anſwer, both in time and efficacy. 1. In time, he roſe to eternal life the firſt of all men. This was the ſum of Paul's preaching, that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer, and that he Acts. 26. 2, 5. ſhould be the firſt that ſhould riſe from the dead. It is true indeed, that Lazarus and ſundry others roſe before Chriſt, but they roſe to live a mortal life, and to die again. Chriſt was the firſt of all that roſe to eternal life; never any in the world roſe, before Chriſt, in this manner. 2. In reſpect of efficacy, Chriſt roſe firſt, that by his power all the reſt might riſe; there is in Chriſt's reſurrection a reviving and a quickning vertue; and herein is a main difference betwixt the Reſurrection of Chriſt, and the Reſurrection of any other man; the Reſurrection of Abraham avails nothing to the reſurrection of Iſaac, or of Jacob; but the reſurrection of Chriſt avails to the reſurrection of all that have believed, or that ſhall believe in him: is not Chriſt called a quickning Spirit? 1 Cor. 15. 45. how then ſhould he but quicken all his members? when a man is caſt into the Sea, and all his body is under water, there is nothing to be looked for but preſent death; but if he carry his head above water, here is good hope then of a recovery; now Chriſt is the head unto his Church, and therefore he being raiſed, all his members muſt follow in their time; no ſooner did Chriſt ariſe, but many of the bodies of the Saints aroſe; not all that were dead, but only ſome; to ſhew the reſurrection of all to come, the time for the whole Churches riſing being not yet, till the great reſurrection day. It is a queſtion what became of thoſe bodies which now aroſe; Some think they died again; but it is more probable, that ſeeing they roſe to manifeſt the quickning vertue of Chriſt's reſurrection, that they were alſo glorified with Chriſt; and as they roſe with Chrſt ariſing, ſo they aſcended up into heaven with Chriſt aſcending.

6. That Chriſt roſe again with a true, perfect, incorruptible, powerful, ſpiritual, agil, and glorious body.

1. He had a true body, conſiſting of fleſh, and blood and bone; ſo he told his Diſciples, when they ſuppoſe him a Spirit; Handle me, and ſee (ſaid he)

for

Luke 24. 39. for a Spirit hath not fleſh and bones, as ye ſee me have. I know, this body, after his reſurrection, was comparatively a ſpiritual body; yet for all that, he never laid aſidethe eſſential properties of a true body, at length, an dbreadth, and viſibility, locality, and the like; he ſtill keepeth theſe, becauſe they ſerve to the being of a true body.

2. He had a perfect body; however he was cut, and bored, and mangled before his death, yet after his reſurrection, all was perfect. Euſebius tells of one of the Children of the Macchabees, that were put to death for the profeſſion of the Truth; and when they cut of his members, ſaies he, I have received theſe from heaven, and now I do give them unto the God of heaven, and I hope I ſhall have them again. Not a member of Chriſt was wanting, not a bone out of joint, but all was perfect.

3. He had an incorruptible, immortal body. To this end (ſaith the Apoſtle) Chriſt both died, and roſe and revived; and why revived? but to ſhew that he roſe never to die again. The Apoſtle is yet more expreſs; Chriſt being raiſed from the dead, died no more; death hath no more dominion over him. Conſonant hereunto is that of Chriſt, I am he that liveth, and was dead, and behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen. And herein the body of Lazarus and the reſt, whom Chriſt raiſed, differed from his; for after they were raiſed, they died again; but Chriſt died no more,

Rom. 14. 9.
Rom. 6.9.
Rev. 1. 18.

4. He had a powerful body. Luther could ſay of the glorified Saints, that they had a power ſo great as to toſs the greateſt mountains in the world like a Ball: And Anſelm hath an expreſſion, not much unlike that, they have ſuch a power, as they are able to ſhake the whole earth at their pleaſure. How much more could Chriſt cauſe that great Earthquake at the riſing of his Body? O it was powerful!

Anſelm lib de ſimil. cap. 52.

5. He had a ſpiritual body; it needed not meat, drink or refreſhings, as it did before; it is true, that the diſciples gave him a piece of a broiled fiſh, and of an honeycomb, and he took it, and did eat befor e them; but this he did only to confirm their faith, that he appeared ſolidly, and not imaginary; he Eat out of power, and not out of neceſſity, even as the Sun ſucks up the water out of power, but the earth out of want: he Eat not, as ſtanding in need of food, but to ſhew the truth of his being riſen again; as the Saints in heaven neither eat, nor drink, nor ſleep, nor have Magiſtrates, nor Miniſters, but the Spirit of God is all in all to them; ſo it was with Chriſt after his Reſurrection: he was full of the Spirit; he was enlivened immediately by the Spirit of God; which flowed into him, and that ſupplied the abſence of all other things.

Luke 24. 42, 43.

6. He had an agil body; it was in his pleaſure to move as well upwards as downwards, as it may appear by the aſcenſion of his Body into heaven; which was not cauſed by conſtraint, or by any violent motion, but a property agreeing to all bodies glorified. Auguſtine hath an expreſſion concerning the glorified Saints, that they ſhall move to any place they will, and as ſoon as they will; they ſhall move up and down like a thought, how much more may it be ſaid of the Body of Chriſt?

Aug. lib. 22. de Civ. Dei. cap. ult.

7. He had a glorious body; this appeared in his Transfiguration, when his face did ſhine as the Sun, and his raiment was white as light; but eſpecially after his Reſurrection and Aſcenſion, when his head and his hair were white like wool, as white as ſnow, and his eyes were as a flame of fire, and his feet like unto fine braſs, as if they burned in a furnace; the glorified bodies of Saints which are faſhioned like unto his glorious body, are ſaid to ſhine like ſtars, Dan. 12. 3. or like the Sun it ſelf, Matth. 13. 43. O then how glorious is the Sun of Righteouſneſs, from whence all thoſe Suns and Stars do borrow their Light? It is true, that from his Reſurrection, until his Aſcenſion, his body appeared not thus glorious unto them that ſaw it: But whether his Glory was delaied, and he was not poſſeſſed of it during his forty daies abode upon the earth; or whether he ſo far condeſcended for his Diſciples ſake, as to keep in his Glory, that it might not dazle them, and therefore appeared ſometimes in the form of a Gardener, John 20. 15. and ſometimes in the form of a ſtranger, Luke 24. 18. and ſometimes in another form, Mark. 17. 12. and ſometimes in his own form, in the ſame form wherein he lived before he was crucified, John 20. 20, 27. is hard to determine. I am apt to think; that in ſome ſort he might draw in the beams of his Glory, and yet that he was not entered into that fulneſs of glory, as after his Aſcenſion; and ſo ſome expound thoſe words of Chriſt to Mary, Touch me not, for I am not yet aſcended to my Father; q. d. fix not thy thoughts ſo much upon my preſent condition, for I am not yet attained to the higheſt pitch of my exaltation, nor ſhall I until I aſcend unto my Father,

From this Reſurrection of Chriſt, how are we informed, that Chriſt is the Son of God? Thus Paul ſpeaks, he was declared to be the Son of God with power, according to the Spirit of holineſs by the reſurrection from the dead. And how are we informed, that Chriſt is Lord over all things that are, For to this end Chriſt both died, and roſe, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living. And how are we informed, that Chriſt roſe again for us, as one that ſtood inſtead and room of all the Elect? but now is Chriſt riſen from the dead, and become the firſt-fruits of them that ſleep. And how are we informed that by his reſurrection we are juſtified? who was delivered for our offences, and was raiſed again for our juſtification: and that by his reſurrection we are regenerate; for he hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt from the dead. And that by his reſurrection we are ſanctified; for as he was raiſed up from the dead by the glory of his Father, even ſo we alſo ſhould walk in Newneſs of life; and that by his reſurrection at the laſt day we ſhall be raiſed; for if the Spirit of him that raiſed up Jeſus from the dead ſhall alſo quicken our mortal bodies; and that by his reſurrection finally we ſhall be ſaved; for after we are raiſed, we ſhall never die any more, but be equal unto the Angels, and be the children of God, as being the children of the reſurrection of Chriſt.

Thus far the poſition, Chriſt roſe again the third day. Now for the proof.

Of the Arguments of Chriſt's Reſurrection.

Acts 1. 13. Chriſt after his paſſion ſhewed himſelf alive by many infallible proofs. And ſo he had need to perſwade men into the faith of ſo ſtrange a truth; if we conſult with iniquity, or novelty, with primitive times, or latter times, never was matter carried on with more ſcruple, and ſlowneſs of belief, with more doubts and difficulties than was this truth of Chriſt's Reſurrection. Mary Magdalen ſaw it firſt, and reported it; But they believed her not, Mark. 16. 10. The two Diſciples that went to Emmaus, they ſaw it alſo, and reported it, but they believed them not Luke 23. 37. Divers women together ſaw him, and came and told the Diſciples, but their words ſeemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not, Luke 24. 11. They all ſaw him, and even ſeeing him, Yet they believed not for joy, but wondred, Luke 24. 41. When the wonder was over, and the reſt told it but to one that happened to be abſent, you know how peremptory he was, Not he, except he ſaw in his hands the print of his nails, and put his fingers into the print of the nails, and thruſt his hands into his ſide, he would not believe, John 20. 25.—— In after-times the whole world ſtopt their ears at this report of the reſurrection of Chriſt, it was with the Grecians at Athens a very Scorn; When they heard of the Reſurrection of the dead, ſome mocked, Acts 17. 32. It was with Feſtus, the great Roman, μανία, a ſickneſs of the brain, a plain phrenzy; Feſtus ſaid with a loud voice, Paul, thou art beſides thy ſelf, much learning doth make thee mad, Acts 28. 24.—— But come we to our own times, the reſurrection of Chriſt is to this day as much oppoſed by Jews and Atheiſts, as any one Article of our Creed. And ſurely we had need to look to it; for if Chriſt be not riſen, (as the Apoſtle argues) then is our preaching vain, and our faith is alſo vain, 1 Cor. 15. 14. If Chriſt be not riſen, ye are yet in your ſins; and they which are fallen aſleep in Chriſt, are periſhed, 1 Cor. 15. 17. 18. Of all the precious truths in the Book of God, we had need to preſerve this truth, and to be well skilled in the defending of this truth of the reſurrection of Chriſt. Some talk of a toleration of all Religions, and ſome deſire that the Jews may have free commerce amongſt us; it will then be time, as I think, to be well armed at this point. Let the ordinary Profeſſors of our times, who are of weak Judgments, and fiery Spirits, look to this point, leſt as now, when they cannot anſwer a Separatiſt, they turn Separatiſts; and when they cannot anſwer an Antinomian, they turn Antinomians, and when they cannot anſwer a Seeker, Quaker, Blaſphemer, they turn to them; ſo when they cannot anſwer the ſubtle Arguments of a Jew, they ſhould as eaſily turn Jews, and deny Chriſt, and the Reſurrection of Chriſt.

I mean not to enter into Controverſies; only I ſhall declare from what heads, Arguments of this nature may be drawn. As——

1. More generally from Gentiles Grants, Jews Confeſſions, Typical Inſtructions, Prophetical Predictions.

2. More ſpecially from theſe clear demonſtrations, that circumſtantially and ſubſtantially do prove this Chriſt to have riſen again.

1. The Arguments in general are——

1. From Gentiles grants: Pilate that condemned Chriſt, teſtified in a letter to Tiberius Cæſar that Chriſt was riſen again, and therefore Tiberius deſired the Senate to admit Chriſt into the number of their gods, which when they refuſed, Tiberius was incenſed, and gave free leave to all Chriſtans to profeſs Chriſtianity. And to the Gentiles Sybylla left written theſe very words, He ſhall end the neceſſity of death by three days ſleep, and then returning from death to life again, he ſhall be the firſt that ſhall ſhew the beginning of reſurection to his choſen, for that by conquering death, he ſhall bring us life.

2. For the Jews confeſſions; Joſephus, the moſt learned amongſt the latter Jews acknowledgeth, that after Pilate had crucified him, he appeared unto his follwers the third day, acordingly as the Prophets had foretold. The Scribes and Phariſees being aſtoniſhed with the ſudden news of his riſing again, confirmed by the Soldiers whom they ſet to watch, found no other way to reſiſt the ſame, but only by ſaying (as all the Jews do unto this day) that his Diſciples came by night, and ſtole his body, whiles the Soldiers ſlept: O ſtrange! if they were aſleep, how know they that his Diſciples ſtole away his body? and if they were not aſleep, how could a few weak fiſhers take away his body from a band of armed Souldiers?

Joſeph. Antiq. lib. 8. c. 9.

3. From typical inſtructions; ſuch was Adam's ſleep, Iſaac's lying upon the Altar, Joſeph's impriſonment, Sampſon's breaking of the gates of Gaza, David's eſcaping out of Saul's hands, Jeremy's delivearnce out of the pit, raiſing of the Shunamites child, of the widow of Sarephtahs ſon, of the Temple of Solomon, of Jonah from the deep; a thouſand of theſe types might be produced, which relate to this antitype, Chriſt's reſurrection.

4. From Prophetical predictions, Thou wilt not leave my ſoul in hell, neither wilt thou ſuffer thine holy one to ſee corruption, Pſal. 16. 10. After two days he will revive us, in the third day he will raiſe us up, Hoſ. 2.6. he will raiſe us up (i. e.) his Son united to us, or our fleſh aſſumed by his Son, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee, Pſal. 2. 7. Acts 13. 33. I laid me down and ſlept, I waked, for the Lord ſuſtained me, Pſal. 3. 5. Above all, how plain was the propheſie of Chriſt himſelf, that he muſt go to Jeruſalem, and ſuffer many things of the Elders, and the cheif Prieſts, and Scribes, and be killed, and be raiſed again the third day Matth. 16. 21?

Pſal. 16. 10.
Hoſ. 6. 2.
Pſal. 1. 7.
Pſal. 3. 5.

2. The ſpecial Arguments are exceeding many, as, 1. The Angels Aſſertion, He is not here, for he is riſen as he ſaid, come ſee the place where the Lord lay, Matth. 28. 6. 2. The great Earthquake, And behold there was a great earthquake, for the Angel of the Lord deſcended from heaven, and came and rolled back the ſtone from the door, Matth. 28. 2.

Mat. 16. 21.
Mat. 28. 6.
Mat. 28. 2.

3. The Apparitions of raiſed bodies; and the graves were opened, and many bodies of Saints which ſlept, aroſe, and came out of the graves after his reſurrection, and went into the holy City, and appeared unto many, Matth. 27. 52, 53.

Mat. 27. 52, 53.

4. The ſudden courage of the Apoſtles; whereas a little before they durſt not peep out of doors, they preſently after, compaſſed the whole world, and confidently taught, that there was no other name given under heaven, whereby men may be ſaved, but the name of Jeſus, Acts 4. 12. 5. The Martyrs ſuffering even for this truth. 6. The Adverſaries confeſſions even to this truth. 7. The Jews puniſhments even to this day, for not believing this ſaving truth. There is one Rabbi Samuel, who ſix hundred years ſince writ a Tract in form of an Epiſtle, to Rabbi Iſaac, Maſter of the Synogogue of the Jews; wherein he doth excellently diſcuſs the cauſe of their long captivity, and extreme miſery: And after that he had proved it was inflicted for ſome grevious ſin; he ſheweth that ſin to be the ſame which Amos ſpeaks of For three tranſgreſſions of Iſrael, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof, becauſe they ſold the righteous for ſilver, Amos 2, 6. the ſelling of Joſeph he makes the firſt ſin; the worſhipping of the Calf in Horeb the ſecond ſin; the abuſing and killing of God's Prophets the third ſin; and the ſelling of Jeſus Chriſt the fourth ſin. For the firſt, They ſerved four hundred years in Egypt; for the ſecond, They wandred forty years in the wilderneſs; for the third, They were Captives ſeventy years in Babylon; and for the fourth, They are held in pitiful captivity even till this day. 8. The laſt Argument on which only I ſhall inſiſt, it is the ſeveral Apparitions that Chriſt made to others after his Reſurrection, ſome reckon them ten times, others eleven times, and others twelve times, according to the number of his twelve Appoſtles

Acts 4. 12.
Amos 2. 6.

1. He appeared unto Mary Magdalen apart. As a woman was the firſt inſtrument of death, ſo was a woman the firſt Meſſenger of Life; ſhe brought the firſt tidings of the Reſurrection of Chriſt, which is ſureſt Argument of man's Salvation.

Luk. 24. 34

2. He appeared to all the Maries together, as they returned homewards from the Sepulchre; never any truly ſought for Chriſt, but with theſe women they were ſure to find Chriſt.

3. He appeared to Simon Peter alone; was the firſt among men to whom he appeared, he firſt went into the Sepulchre, and he firſt ſaw him that was raiſed thence: he was called firſt, and he confeſſed Chriſt to be the Son of God, and therefore Chriſt

Mar.16.7. appears firſt to him; the Angel bade the women to tell his Diſciples and Peter (that is to ſay, and Peter eſpecially) that he was riſen, and gone before them into 1 Cor.15. 5. Galilee. Of this ſpeaks Paul, He was firſt ſeen of Caiphas and then of the Twelve.

4. He appeared to the two Diſciples journeying towards Emmaus; the name of the one was Cleophas; Theoph. Super Luk. and probable it is, the other was Luke, who out of his modeſty concealed his own name, ſaith Theophilact.

5. He appeared unto the ten Apoſtles, when the Luk.24. 33.v.36. Jo.20.24. doors were ſhut. Some controverſie there is in this, becauſe the Evangeliſt ſaith expreſly, that the eleven Diſciples were gathered together, ——— and as they ſpake, Jeſus himſelf ſtood in the midſt of them. Now Judas was hanged, and Matthias was not elected, and Thomas Didimus was not with them when Jeſus came: how then could he appear to eleven Apoſtles, conſidering at this time there were but eleven in all? —— Some ſay it is a certain number put for an uncertain: Others ſay, that the eleven might be together when the two Diſciples came, and when Jeſus came, Thomas might be abſent, and gone from amongſt them. And if the Text be viewed well, there is no contradiction in this ſaying. But I muſt not dwell on controverſial points.

Jo.20.26. 6. He appeared to all the Diſciples, and Thomas was with them; and then he ſhewed them his wounds, to ſtrengthen the weak faith of his wavering ſervants. Thomas would not have believed unleſs he had ſeen, and therefore Chriſt ſhews him the wounds of his body, that he might cure the wonnds of Thomas's unbelieving ſoul.

7. He appeared to Peter, and John, and James, and Joh.21.2. Nathanael, and Didimus, and two other Diſciples, when they were a fiſhing at the Sea of Tiberias; there he proved the verity of his Deity by that miracle of the Ver.14. fiſhes; and the verity of his humanity by eating meat with them. And this was the third time that he ſhewed himſelf publickly and ſolemnly unto all, or to the moſt part of his Diſciples.

8. He appeared unto more than five hundred brethren at once; of this we read not in the Evangeliſts, 1 Cor.15. 6. but the Apoſtle Paul records it, after that, he was ſeen of above five hundred brethren at once, of whom the greater part remain unto this preſent, but ſome are fallen aſleep.

9. He appeared unto James the Brother of the Lord: (i. e.) the Couſin-german of Chriſt according to the Fleſh; he was called James the Juſt, in regard of his upright and innocent life. Jerome in his Book De viris illuſtribus tells us, that afore Chriſt's death this James made a Vow, that he would eat no bread till Chriſt was riſen again from the dead; and now Chriſt appearing to him, he commanded Bread and Meat to be ſet on the table; ſaying to 1 Cor.15. 7. James, O my Brother, now riſe and eat for now I am riſen again from the dead. Of this Apparition Paul makes mention: After that he was ſeen of James.

10. He appeared to the Eleven Diſciples, on Mount Tabor in Galilee And this Matthew intimates, when Jeſus Mat.28. 10,16,17. bade the woman tell his Brethren that he was riſen, and that they ſhould go into Galilee, and there they ſhould ſee him; and accordingly in that Mountain where Jeſus had appointed them, they ſaw him, and worſhipped him.

11. He appeared to all his Apoſtles and Diſciples upon Mount Olivet by Jeruſalem, when in the preſence of them all he aſcended up into Heaven. This mountain is expreſſed by Luke when after Chriſt's Aſcenſion it is ſaid, that the Diſciples returned back to Act.1.12. Jeruſalem from the Mount called Olivet.

12. He appeared unto Paul travelling unto Damaſcus. This indeed was after his forty days abode upon the earth. And yet this Paul mentions amongſt the 1 Cor.15. 8. reſt of his Apparitions, and laſt of all he was ſeen of me alſo, as of one born out of due time.

My meaning is not to ſpeak of all theſe Apparitions in order; for of ſome of them we are neither aſſured of the order, not of the time. But of the moſt conſiderable, and moſt edifying we ſhall treat.

Sect. 5. Of Chriſt's Apparition to Mary Magdalen.

ON the firſt day were many Apparitions: But I ſhall ſpeak only to one, or two, as related by the Evangeliſt John. Joh.20.1.

1. Chriſt appeared unto Mary Magdalen apart; The firſt day of the week cometh Mary Magdalen, early, when it was yet dark, unto the Sepulchre, and ſeeth the ſtone taken away from the Sepulchre; ſhe came whiles it was yet dark; ſhe departed from home before day, and by that time ſhe came to the Sepulchre, the Sun was about to riſe; thither come, ſhe finds the ſtone rolled away, and the body of Jeſus gone; upon this ſhe runs to Peter and John and tells them, they have taken away the Lord out of the Sepulchre and we know not where they have laid him. Then Peter and John, ran as faſt as they could to ſee, they looked into the Sepulchre, and not finding the body there, they preſently returned. By this time Mary Magdalen was come back, and howſoever the Diſciples would not ſtay yet ſhe was reſolved to abide by it, and to ſee the iſſue.

We find this apparition for our farther aſſurance, compaſſed, and ſet about with each needful circumſtance; here's the time when, the place where, the perſons to whom, the manner how he appeared, together with the conſequents after his apparition,

1. For the time when he appeared; Now upon the Joh.20.1. firſt day of the week, very early in the Morning. It was the firſt day of the week, the next day to their Sabbath; I ſhall ſpeak more particularly to this in the next apparition and it was very early in the Morning; the apparition was early, but Mary's ſeeking Chriſt was ſo early, that it was yet dark; ſhe's going to the grave, when by courſe of nature ſhe ſhould have been in her bed: ſhe ſought him early whom ſhe loved intirely; giving us to learn that we ſhould ſeek Chriſt betimes, even in the days of our youth, that in Ecel 12.1. theſe firſt days of the week, we ſhould riſe up early to enquire after Chriſt; they that will not ſeek Chriſt until they have given over ſeeking other things, may Juſtly fear to miſs Chriſt. Firſt ſeek the kingdom of Mat.6,33. God, and his righteouſneſs, and then (ſaith Chriſt) all other things ſhall be added unto you.

2. For the place where he appeared, it was in the garden, where Chriſt was buried; in a garden Adam firſt ſinned, in a garden Chriſt firſt appeared; in a garden death firſt was threatned and deſerved, and in a garden life is reſtored, and conferred upon us; Chriſt makes choice of a garden both for his Grave and Reſurrection, and firſt Apparition, to tell us where we might ſeek him, if we have loſt him, My beloved is gone down into his garden, to the beds of ſpices, Cant.6.2. to feed in the gardens, and to gather lillies; that is Jeſus Chriſt is to be ſought and found in the particular aſſemblies of his people; they are the garden of his pleaſure, wherein are varieties of all the beds of renewed ſouls, there he walks, and there he feeds, and there he ſolaceth himſelf with thoſe fruits of Righteouſneſs, and new obedience, which they are able to bring forth to him. O there let us ſeek him, and we ſhall find him.

3. For the Perſon to whom he appeared; it was Mary Magdalen; ſhe that ſometimes lived a ſinful life, that was no better than a common Curtezan, now is firſt up to ſeek her Saviour. Let never any deſpair of mercy, that but hears of the converſion of Mary Magdalen. Dionyſius tells us, that ſhe that was looſe and diſſolute in her youth, betook her ſelf in old age to a moſt ſolitary life; that ſhe ſequeſtred her ſelf from all worldly pleaſures in the mountains of Balma full thirty years; in all which time ſhe gave her ſelf to meditation, faſting and praying. The Luk,7 .47. Text tells us, that much was forgiven her, and ſhe loved much. Her love to Chriſt appears at this time, Joh.20. 11. But Mary ſtood without at the Sepulchre weeping, and as ſhe wept, ſhe ſtooped down, and looked into the Sepulchre: this Scripture we may call a ſong of loves, or if you will, a ſong of degrees; every word is ſtep, or degree of love more than other, As———

1. Mary ſtood at the Sepluchre; ſhe ſtood by the grave of Chriſt; it ſignifies her great love to Jeſus Chriſt, many would ſtand by him while he was alive, but to ſtand by him dead none would do it; thoſe we love moſt, we will wait on them living; or if they dye, we will bring them to the grave, and lay them in the grave, but there we leave them: —— only Mary chuſeth Chriſt's Tomb for her beſt home, and his dead corps for her chief comfort; ſhe praiſeth the dead more than the living, amd having loſt that light of the Sun of righteouſneſs, ſhe deſired to dwell in darkneſs, in the ſhadow of death.

2. But] Mary ſtood, q. d. others did not, but ſhe did: Peter and John were there even now, and when they could not find Jeſus, away they went, but Mary went not, ſhe ſtood ſtill; their going away commends her ſtaying behind; how many circumſtances may we obſerve in Mary ſetting out her love to Chriſt above them all? To the grave ſhe came before them; from the grave ſhe went to tell them; to the grave ſhe returns with them; and at the grave ſhe ſtays behind them. Certainly there was in Mary a ſtronger affection than either in Peter, or John; and this affection fixed her there, that ſhe could not ſtir; go who would, ſhe would not go, but ſtay ſtill. But Mary ſtood without.

3. But Mary ſtood at the Sepulchre weeping: This was love indeed, ſee how every word is a degree of love. But Mary ſtood there weeping; when Chriſt ſtood at Lazarus's grave ſide weeping, the Jews ſaid then, Behold how he loved him; and may not we ſay the very ſame of Mary, behold how ſhe loved him, her very love runs down her cheeks, ſhe cannot think of Jeſus as loſt, but ſhe weeps; ſhe weeps for having loſt him whom ſhe loved; at firſt ſhe mourned for the departing of his ſoul out of his body, and now ſhe laments the taking his body out of the grave; at firſt ſhe mourned becauſe ſhe could not keep him alive, yet that ſorrow had ſome ſolace, in that ſhe hoped to have enjoyed him dead; but when ſhe conſiders that his life was loſt, and not ſo much as his body could be found, Oh ſhe weeps, and weeps The laſt office ſhe could do, was to anoint his body, and to bewail his death; and to that purpoſe ſhe comes now unto his grave; as ſometimes ſhe had waſhed his feet with her tears, now ſhe would ſhed them afreſh upon his feet, and head, and hands, and heart, and all; but when ſhe ſaw the grave open, and the body gone, and nothing of Chriſt now left her to morn over, ſhe weeps the more, ſhe weeps moſt bitterly; But Mary ſtood there weeping. 4. And as ſhe wept, ſhe ſtooped down, and looked into the Sepulchre, She did ſo weep as ſhe did ſeek withal; her weeping hindred not her ſeeking, ſhe ſought and ſought; to what purpoſe? that Chriſt is not in the tomb her own eyes have ſeen; the Diſciples hands have felt, the empty winding ſheet doth plainly avouch; John 20. 6,7. Peter and John had looked in before, nay, They went into the Sepulchre, and ſaw the linnen cloaths lying, and the napkin that was about his head wrapt by it ſelf; and yet for all this ſhe will be ſtooping down, and looking in; ſhe would rather condemn her own eyes of error, and both their eyes and hands of deceit; ſhe would rather ſuſpect all teſtimonies for untrue, than not to look after him whom ſhe had loſt, even there where by no diligence he could be found. It is not enough for love to look in once. You know this is the manner of our ſeeking, when we ſeek ſomething ſeriouſly; where we have ſought already, there we will ſeek again? we are apt to think we ſought not well, but if we ſeek again we might find it where we ſought; And thus Mary ſought, and when ſhe could think of no other place ſo likely to find Chriſt in as this, ſhe ſought again in this, ſhe will not believe her own ſenſes, ſhe would rather think that ſhe looked not well before, than ſhe will leave off looking. When things that are dearly effected, are gone and loſt, loves nature is never to be weary of ſearching, even the ofteneſt ſearched corners; there muſt ſtill be an haunt for hope. O love thinks it hath never looked enough! in the firſt verſe ſhe looked, And ſaw the ſtone taken away from the Sepulchre; and now again ſhe ſtooped down, and looked into the Sepulchre.

4. For the manner how he appeared; it was firſt by his Angels, and ſecondly by himſelf.

1. There was an apparition of Angels, ſhe ſeeth two Angels in white, ſitting the one at the head, and the other at the feet where the body of Jeſus had layen. I will John-20. 12, 13. not ſtay here, only for the opening of the words I ſhall anſwer theſe queſtions; As 1. What means the apparition of Angels; I anſwer, it is not only a preparation to Chriſt's apparition. Maries loſs muſt be reſtored by degrees; though ſhe ſaw not Chriſt at firſt; yet ſhe ſaw his Angels; it often pleaſeth Chriſt in the deſertions of his people, to come to them by degrees, and not at once, he comes firſt by his Angels; ſo it was at his birth, and ſo it is at his reſurrection. ———— But, 2. What do Angels in a Sepulchre? it is a place fitter for worms than Angels: we never read of Angels being in a grave before this time; they are bleſſed creatures, and is the grave a fit place for them? O yea! ſince Chriſt lay in the grave, that very place is a bleſſed place; Rev.14. 13. Bleſſed are the dead, which dye in the Lord from henceforth. Precious in the ſight of the Lord is the death of his Saints. Pſal 116. 15. But, 3. Who are the Angels in white. Solomon anſwers, that white is the colour of joy Let thy garments be always white, and let thy head lack not ointment. Eccleſ.9. 8. When Chriſt was transfigured his Rayment was all white, no fuller in the earth could come near it; Mark 9.3. and the Saints in Heaven are ſaid to walk in white robes. Pev.7.9. And here the Angels are in white, to ſignifie the joy had in Chriſt's reſurrection from the dead. ——— But, 4. Why are they one at the head and the other at the feet where the body of Jeſus had layen? Some anſwer, that as Mary Magdalen had anointed his head and feet, ſo at thoſe two places the two Angels ſit; as it were to acknowledg ſo much for her ſake. Others think it ſpeaks comfort to every one of us; if we are but in Chriſt, we ſhall go to our graves in white, and lye between two Angels, who are ſaid to guard our Bodies even dead, and to preſent them alive again at the day of the reſurrection.

But in this apparition we ſee further, a queſtion, and anſwer; 1. The Angels queſtion Mary, Woman, why weepeſt thou? May I, paraphraſe upon theſe words; it is as if they had ſaid, O, Mary! what cauſe is there for theſe tears? Where Angels rejoyce, it agrees not that a woman ſhould weep, thou couldſt before with a manly courage arm thy feet to run among ſwords when thou cameſt to the grave, and art thou now ſo much a woman that thou canſt not command thine eyes to forbear tears? O woman, why weepeſt thou? If thy Chriſt were here in his grave, under this Tomb-ſtone, we might think thy ſorrow for the dead enforced thy tears; but now that thou findeſt it a place of the living, why doſt thou ſtand here weeping for the dead? for if thy tears be tears of love, as thy love is acknowledged, ſo let theſe tears be ſuppreſſed; if thy tears be tears of anger, they ſhould not here have been ſhed, where all anger was buried; if thy tears be tears of ſorrow and duties to the dead, they are beſtowed in vain where the dead is now revived; and therefore, O woman, why weepeſt thou? would our eyes be dry, if ſuch eye ſtreams were behoveful for us? did not Angels alwayes in their viſible reſemblances repreſent their Lord's inviſible pleaſure; ſhadowing their ſhapes in the drifts of his intentions; as for inſtance, when God was incenſed they brandiſhed ſwords; when he was appeaſed, they ſheathed them in ſcabbards; when he would defend, they reſembled Soldiers; when he would terrifie, they took terrible forms; and when he would comfort, they carried mirth in their eyes, ſweetneſs in their countenance, mildneſs in their words, favour, and grace, and comelineſs in their preſence; why then doſt thou weep ſeeing us rejoyce? doſt thou imagine us to determine from our nature, or to forget any duty, whoſe ſtate is neither ſubject to change, nor capable of the leaſt offence? art thou more fervent in thy love, or more privy to the counſel of our eternal God, than we that are daily attendants at his Throne of glory? O woman, why weepeſt thou? Thus for Paraphraſe.

John 20, 13. 2. For her anſwer; She ſaith unto them, Becauſe they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him: Here was the cauſe of Mary's tears; 1. They have taken away my Lord. 2. I know not where they have laid him, q. d, He is gone without all hope of recovery: for they, but I know not who, have taken him away, but I know not whither; and they have laid him, but I know not where; there to do him, but I know not what. O what a lamentable caſe is this! ſhe knows not whither to go to find any comfort; her Lord is gone, his life is gone, his ſoul is gone, his body is gone, yea gone, and carryed ſhe knows not whither; and do they ask her, Woman, why weepeſt thou? why, here's the cauſe, They have taken away my Lord, (i. e.) the dead body of my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him. Where a little of Chriſt is left, and that is loſt, it is a lamentable loſs. Mary had ſometimes a poſſeſſion of whole Chriſt, ſhe had his patience, ſhe heard his words; ſhe ſaw his Divinity in his Miracles, and in caſting ſeven Devils out of her own Body; but now ſhe had loſt all Chriſt, his preſence loſt, his Preaching loſt, his Divinity loſt, his Humanity loſt, his Soul loſt, and laſt of all his Body loſt. O what a lamentable loſs was this! Mary would now have been glad of a little of Chriſt; O ye Angels! fill but her arms with the dead body of Jeſus, and ſhe will weep no more; one beam of that Sun of Righteouſneſs would ſcatter all the clouds of Mary's grief.

Queſt. But doth Chriſt ever leave his totally?

Anſ. I anſwer, not indeed, but only in apprehenſion. In deſertions a Chriſtian may to his own apprehenſion find nothing of Chriſt; and this was the Caſe of Mary Magdalen: or if Chriſt deſert a ſoul indeed, 1 Sam. 12. 22. and truth (for deſertions are ſometimes in apperance, and ſometimes real) yet never doth he forſake his own both really and totally: The Lord will not wholly Jer. 31. 3. forſake his people, for his great Name ſake; the acts of his love may be withdrawn, but his love is ſtill the ſame, it is an everlaſting love; thoſe acts which are Pſ. 84. 11. for well-being may be withdrawn, but his acts of love that are for being, ſhall never be removed. No ſuch good things will God withhold from them that walk uprightly. Or Chriſt may go away for a ſeaſon, but Iſa. 54. 7, 8. not for ever: For a moment have I forſaken thee, but with great mercies will I gather thee; in a little wrath have I hid my face from thee for a moment, but with everlaſting kindneſs will I have mercy on thee, ſaith the Joh. 14. 18. Lord thy Redeemer: It was Chriſt's promiſe to his Diſciples, I will not leave you comfortleſs, as Orphans, but I will come again: Though his compaſſions may be reſtrained, yet they cannot be extinguiſhed; as the Sun ſets to riſe again, and as the tender Mother lays down her Child to take it up again, ſo deals Chriſt with his, only for the preſent it is a ſad thing; O it is a lamentable thing to loſe all Chriſt; though but in our own apprehenſions. To hear Maries complaints, They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid my Lord, it would make a flint to weep; methinks I hear her cry out, O my Lord, What's become of Thee? Time was that my Soul was an encloſed Garden, and the cheifeſt of ten thouſands did walk in the ſhadow of the Trees; but now the Fence is down, my Love is gone, and Sharon is become a deſart: Time was that I ſat at the Feet of my Lord, and I received daily Oracles from his mouth, but now he hides himſelf and will not come at me; I pray, and he hears not, I hearken after him, but he ſpeaks not; I call, but he anſwers not. O my Lord, if I had never known thee, I could have lived without thee, but this is my miſery, not ſo much that I am without thee, as that I have loſt thee; many are well without thee, becauſe they never enjoy thee; the Children of beggars count it not their miſery that they are not Princes, but oh the grief when the children of Princes ſhall be turned to beggars! O my Lord, once I had thee, but now I have loſt thee; yea, I have loſt thee every jot, and peice, and parcel of thee; O ye Apoſtles! Where is the dead body of my Lord? O Sir Angel, tell me if you ſaw his torn, his macerated, crucified body? O grave! O death! ſhew me, is there any thing of Chriſt's body (though but a few dead aſhes) in your keeping? no no, all is gone; I can hear nothing of what I would hear; death is ſilent, the grave is empty, the Angels ſay nothing to the purpoſe, the Apoſtles are fled, and they, (I know not who) have taken away my Lord, and I know not where have laid him.

2. After this, Chriſt himſelf appears; but firſt as unknown, and then as known: 1. As unknown, Joh. 20. 4, 15.1 She returned her ſelf back, and ſaw Jeſus ſtanding, and knew not that it was Jeſus. Jeſus ſaith unto her, Woman, Why weepeſt thou? whom ſeekeſt thou? ſhe ſuppoſing him to be the Gardener, &c. In this Apparition of Chriſt unknown, I ſhall only take notice of Chriſt's queſtion, and Maries inquiſition; his queſtion, is in theſe words, Woman, Why, weepeſt thou? whom ſeekeſt thou? 1. Why weepeſt thou? This very queſtion the Angels asked her before, and now Chriſt asks it again; ſure there is ſomething in it, and the rather we may think ſo, becauſe it is the firſt opening of his Mouth, the firſt words that ever came from him, after his riſing again. Some ſay that Mary Magdalen repreſents the ſtate of all mankind be this day, viz. One weeping over the Grave of another, as if there were no hope: and now at his Reſurrection Chriſt comes in with weep not: Woman, Why weepeſt thou? q. d. there is no cauſe of weeping now, Lo I am riſen from the dead, and am become the firſt-fruits of them that ſleep.

And yet we may wonder at the queſtion, why ſhould Chriſt demand of Mary why ſhe wept? but a while ſince, ſhe ſaw him hanging on a tree, with his head full of thorns, his eyes full of tears, his ears full of blaſphemies, his mouth full of gall, his whole perſon mangled and disfigured, and doth he ask her, Woman, Why weepeſt thou; ſcarce three days ſince ſhe beheld his arms and legs racked with violent pulls, his hands and feet bored with nails, his ſide and bowels pierced with a Spear, his whole body torn with ſtripes, and gored in blood: and doth he ask her, Woman, Why weepeſt thou? ſhe ſaw him on the Croſs yielding up his ſoul: and now ſhe was about to anoint his body, which was the only hope ſhe had alive: but his body is removed, and that hope is dead, and ſhe is left hopeleſs of all viſible help, and yet doth he ask her, Woman, Why weepeſt thou? O yes! though it may be ſtrange yet it is not a queſtion without cauſe, ſhe weeps for him dead, who was riſen again from the dead: ſhe was ſorry he was not in his grave: and for this very cauſe ſhe ſhould have been rather glad: ſhe mourns for not knowing where he lay, when as indeed, and in truth, he lay not any where: he is alive, and preſent, and now talks with her, and reſolves to comfort her: and therefore, Woman, Why weepeſt thou?

2. Whom ſeekeſt thou? ſhe ſeeks Chriſt, and Chriſt asks her, Woman, whom ſeekeſt thou? We may wonder at this alſo: if ſhe ſeek Chriſt, Why doth ſhe not know him? or if ſhe know Chriſt, Why doth ſhe ſeek him ſtill? O Mary! Is it poſſible thou haſt forgotten Jeſus? there is no part in the but is buſie about him, thy eye weeps, thy heart throbs, thy tongue complains, thy body faints, thy ſoul languiſheth, and notwithſtanding all this, Haſt thou now forgotten him? What, are thy ſharp eyes ſo weak ſighted that they are dazled with the Sun, and blinded with the Light? O yes! a ſhower of tears comes betwixt her and him, and ſhe cannot ſee him, or it may be, Luk. 24. 16. Her eyes were holden that ſhe ſhould not know him; or it may be he appeared ἑτέρᾳ μορφῇ in ſome other ſhape, ſuch as reſembled the Gardener, whom ſhe took him for; howſoever it was. She ſaw Jeſus ſtanding, but knew not that it was Jeſus, and therefore ſaith Jeſus to her, Woman, Why weepeſt thou? whom ſeekeſt thou? There is a double preſence of Chriſt, felt, and not felt; the preſence felt, is when Chriſt is graciouſly pleaſed to let us know ſo much, and this is an heaven upon earth. The preſence not felt, is that ſecret preſence, when Chriſt ſeems to draw us one way, and to drive another way. So he dealt with the Woman of Canaan, he ſeemed to drive her away, but at the ſame time he wrought in her by his Spirit an increaſe of Faith, and by that means drew her to himſelf. Thus may a Soul ſuppoſe Chriſt loſt, and ſeek and weep, and weep and ſeek, and yet Chriſt is preſent.

2. For Maries enquirie, She ſuppoſing him to be the Gardener, Sir, If thou haſt born him hence, tell me where thou haſt laid him, and I will take him away.

In the words we may obſerve, firſt her miſtake: Her ſpeech upon her miſtake.

1. Her miſtake, She ſuppoſing him to be the Gardener; O Mary! hath Chriſt lived ſo long, and laboured ſo much, and ſhed ſo many ſhowers of blood, to come to no higher preferment than a Gardener? This was a very great miſtake; and yet in ſome ſenſe, and a good ſenſe too, Chriſt might be ſaid to be a Gardener; As, 1. It is he that gardens all our ſouls, that plants in them the ſeeds of righteouſneſs; that waters them with the dew of grace, and makes them fruitful to eternal life. 2. It is he that raiſed to life his own dead body, and will turn all our Graves into a Garden-Plot, Iſa. 26. 19. Thy dead men ſhall live together, with my dead body ſhall they riſe: awake and ſing ye that dwell in duſt for the dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth ſhall caſt out the dead. Beſides, there is a miſtery in her miſtake; As Adam in the ſtate of grace and innocency was placed in a Garden; and the firſt office allotted to him, was to be a Gardener; ſo Jeſus Chriſt appeared firſt in a garden, and preſents himſelf in a Gardener's likeneſs: And as that firſt Gardener was the Parent of ſin, the ruin of mankind, and the Author of death; ſo is this Gardener the ranſome for our ſins, the raiſer of our ruins, and the reſtorer of our life. In ſome ſenſe then, and in a Myſtery Chriſt was a Gardener: but Maries miſtake was in ſuppoſing him the Gardener of that only place; and not the Gardener of our ſouls. Souls in deſertion are full of miſtakes, though in their miſtakes are ſometimes many myſteries.

2. Her ſpeech upon her miſtake; if thou haſt born him hence, &c. we may obſerve,——

1. That her words to Chriſt are not much unlike the anſwer ſhe gave the Angels; only ſhe ſeems to ſpeak more harſh to Chriſt, than ſhe did to the Angels; to them ſhe Complains of others; They have taken away my Lord; but to Chriſt ſhe ſpeaks as if ſhe would Charge him with the fact, as if he looked like one that had been a breaker up of graves, a carrier away of Corpſes out of their places of reſt; Sir, if thou haſt born him hence. But pardon love, as it fears where it needs not; ſo it ſuſpects very often where it hath no cauſe; When love is at a loſs; he, or any that comes but in our way, hath done it, hath taken him away.

2. That ſomething ſhe ſpoke now to Chriſt which ſhe had not mentioned to the Angels. She ſaid not unto them, tell me where he is, but reſerved that queſtion for himſelf to anſwer, Come, tell me where thou haſt laid him, q. d. thou art privy to the place, and the Action of removing Chriſt my Lord; Oh how ſhe errs, and yet how ſhe hits the truth! Jeſus muſt tell her what he had done with himſelf; ſure it was firtteſt for his own ſpeech to utter, what was only poſſible for his own power to do.

3. That the concluſion of her ſpeech was a meer vant or flouriſh, And I will take him away. Alas poor woman! ſhe was not able to lift him up, there are more than one or two allowed to the carrying of a Corpſe; and as for his, it had more than an hundred pound weight of myrrhe and other odours upon it; ſure ſhe had forgotten that women are weak, and that ſhe her ſelf was but a woman; how was it poſſible that ſhe ſhould take him away? She could not do it; well, but ſhe would do it though; there is no eſſay too hard for love; ſhe exempts no place, ſhe eſteems no perſon, ſhe ſpeaks without fear, ſhe promiſes without condition, ſhe makes no exception, as if nothing were impoſſible that love ſuggeſteth: the darkneſs could not fright her from ſetting out before day; the Watch could not fear her from coming to the Tomb where Chriſt was laid: ſhe reſolved to break open the Seals, and to remove the ſtone, far above her ſtrength: and now her love being more incenſed with the freſh wound of her loſs, ſhe ſpeaks reſolutely, I will take him away, never conſidering whether ſhe could or no. Love is not ruled with reaſon, but with love: it neither regards what can be, nor what ſhould be: but what it ſelf deſireth to do.

4. That through all this ſpeech ſhe omits the principal verb, ſhe enquires for Jeſus, but ſhe never names him whom ſhe enquires after. She could ſay to the Angels, they have taken away my Lord: but now ſhe talks of one under the term of him, if thou haſt born him hence, tell me where thou haſt laid him and I will take him away: him, him, him: but ſhe never names him, or tells who he is: this is ſolæcimus amoris, an irregular ſpeech, but loves one dialect: q d. who knows not him? why all the world is bound to take notice of him; he is worthy to be the owner of all thoughts: and no thought in my conceit, can be well beſtowed upon any other than him. And therefore, Sir, Gardener, whoſoe're thou art, if thou haſt born him hence, thou knoweſt who I mean, thou canſt not be ignorant of whom I love; there is not ſuch another among the ſons of men; as the Pſalmiſt, He is the faireſt among the children of men; Pſal. 45. 2. or as the Spouſe, He is the cheifeſt of ten thuſands; and therefore tell me ſome news of him; of none but him: of him, and only of him. O tell me where thou haſt laid him, and I will take him away. A ſoul ſick of love, thinks all the world knows her beloved, and therefore bound to tell her where he is; the daughters of Jeruſalem were very ignorant of Chriſt Cant. 5. 9. and yet I charge you, O daughters of Jeruſalem (ſaid the ſpouſe) if ye find my beloved, that ye tell him I am ſick of love. Can. 5. 8.

2. Chriſt appears as unknown; Jeſus ſaith unto her, Mary; ſhe turned her ſelf, and ſaith unto him, Rabboni, which is to ſay, Maſter. Sorrow may endure for a night, but joy comes in the morning; ſhe that hitherto had ſought without finding, and wept without comfort, and called without anſwer, even to her Chriſt now appears; and at his apparition theſe paſſages are betwixt them, firſt he ſpeaks unto her, Mary; and then ſhe replies unto him, Rabboni, which is to ſay, Maſter.

1. He ſpeaks unto her, Mary! it was but a word, but O what life? what Spirit? what quickening and reviving was in the word? the voice of Chriſt is powerful; If the Spirit of Chriſt come alone with the Word, it will rouſe hearts, raiſe ſpirits, work wonders. Ah poor Mary, what a caſe was ſhe in before Chriſt ſpake unto her? ſhe ran up and down the Garden, with O my Lord, where have they laid my Lord? but no ſooner Chriſt comes, and ſpeaks to her by his Spirit, and with power, but her mind is enlightened, her heart is quickned, and her ſoul is revived. Oh ſerve here the difference betwixt the Word of the Lord, and the Lord ſpeaking that word with power. and Spirit; we find ſometimes the hearts of Saints are quickned, fed, cheriſhed, healed, comforted in the uſe of the means; and ſometimes again they are dead, ſenſleſs, heavy, and hardned; nay which is more, the very ſame truth which they hear at one time, it may be affects them, and at another time it doth not; the reaſon is, they hear but the Word of the Lord at one time, and they hear the Lord himſelf ſpeaking that word at another time. Mary heard the Word of the Lord by an Angel, Woman, why weepeſt thou? but her tears dropped ſtill; ſhe heard again the Word of the Lord by Chriſt himſelf, Woman, why weepeſt thou? and yet ſhe weeps, and will not be comforted; but now Chriſt ſpeaks, and he ſpeaks with power, Mary! and at this word her tears are dried up, no more tears now, unleſs they be tears for joy. And yet again, obſerve the way how you may know and diſcern the effectual voice of Jeſus Chriſt; if it be effectual, it uſualy ſingles a man out: yea, though it be generally ſpoken by a Miniſter, yet the voice of Chriſt will ſpeak particularly to the very heart of a man, with a marvelous kind of Majeſty and Glory, ſtampt upon it, and ſhining in it. Take an humble, broken, drooping Spirit, he hears of the free offer of grace and mercy in Jeſus Chriſt. but he refuſed the offers; he hears of the precious promiſes of God in Chriſt, but he caſts by all promiſes, as things that are generally ſpoken and applied by man; but when the Lord comes in, he ſpeaks particularly to his very heart, he meets with all his objections, that he thinks, this is the Lord, and this is to me. Thus Mary before heard the voice of an Angel, and the voice of Chriſt, Woman, why weepeſt thou? it was a general voice, no better title was then afforded, but Woman; thou weepeſt like a woman; O woman, and too much a woman, why weepeſt thou? But now Chriſt comes nearer, and he ſingles her out by her very name, Mary! Oh this voice came home, he ſhewed now that he was no ſtranger to her, he knew her by name: as ſometimes God ſpake to Moſes, Thou haſt found grace in my ſight, I know thee by name.
Exod. 33. 17. Why how ſhould this voice be ineffectual? Oh now it works! now ſhe knows Chriſt; which before ſhe did not; and indeed this is the right way to know Chriſt, to be firſt known of Chriſt. But now (ſaith
Gal. 4. 9. the Apoſtle) after that ye have known God (and then he corrects himſelf) or rather are known of God; for till he know us, we ſhall never know him aright. Now her dead ſpirits are raiſed, which before were benummed; aud no marvel that with a word he revived her ſpirits, who with a word made the World, and even in this very word ſhewed an omnipotent power. The Gardiner had done his part (ſaith one) in making her all green on a ſudden. But even now her body ſeemed the hearſe of her dead heart, and her heart the coffin of her dead ſoul; and ſee how quickly all is turned out and in a new world now; now; Chriſt's Reſurrection is Mary Magdalens reſurrection too; on a ſudden ſhe revives, raiſed (as it were from a dead and drooping, to a lively and cheerful ſtate

2. She ſaid unto him, Rabboni, which is to ſay, Maſter. As ſhe was raviſhed with his voice, ſo impatient of delay ſhe takes his talk out of his mouth, and to his firſt and only word, ſhe anſwer'd but one other, Rabboni, which is to ſay, Maſter. A wonder that in this verſe but two words ſhould paſs betwixt them two; but ſome give this reaſon, that a ſudden joy rouzing all her paſſions, ſhe could neither proceed in her own, nor give him leave to go forward in his ſpeech. Love would have ſpoken, but fear enforced ſilence; hope framed words, but doubt melts them in the paſſage; her inward conceits ſerved them to come out, but then her voice trembled, her tongue faltered, her breath failed; why ſuch is the eſtate of them that are ſick with a ſurfeit of ſudden joy; her joy was ſo ſudden, that not a word more could be ſpoken, but Rabboni, which is to ſay, Maſter. Sudden joys are not without ſome doubts or tremblings; when Jacob heard that his ſon Joſeph was alive, his heart fainted, he was even aſtoniſhed at ſo good a news; when God reſtored the Jews out of Captivity, they could think of it no otherwiſe than as a dream; when Peter was by an Angel delivered out of priſon, he took it only for a viſion or apparition, and not for truth; when Chriſt manifeſted his Reſurrection to his Diſciples, it is ſaid, that for very joy they believed not; their fears (as it were) kept back, and queſtioned the truth of their joys. As in the Sea when a ſtorm is over, there remains ſtill and inward working and volutation; even ſo in the mind of man, when its fears are blown over, and there is a calm upon it, there is ſtill a motus trepidationis, a motion of trembling, or a kind of ſolitius jealouſie of what it enjoys. And this might be Mary Magdalen's eaſe; though ſhe ſuddenly anſwered Chriſt, upon the firſt notice of his voice, yet becauſe the novelty was ſo ſtrange, his Perſon ſo changed, his preſence ſo unexpected, and ſo many miracles were laid at once before her amazed eyes, ſhe found (as it were) a ſedition in her thoughts; her hope preſumed beſt, but her fear ſuſpected it to be too good to be true; and while theſe enterchange objections and anſwers, ſhe views him better; but for the preſent cannot ſpeak a word more, ſave this, Rabboni, which is to ſay, Maſter.

Luk. 24. 41.

5. For the conſequents after this apparition, Jeſus ſaith unto her, Touch me not, for I am not yet aſcended to my Father; but go to my brethren and ſay unto them, I aſcend unto my Father and to your Father; and and to my God and your God. Joh. 20. 17.

In theſe words we may obſerve, a prohibition and a command; the prohibition, Touch me not; the command, but go to my Brethren, and ſay unto them, &c.

1. Touch me not. It ſeems Mary was now fallen at his ſacred feet, ſhe was now ready to kiſs with her lips his ſometimes grievous, but now moſt glorious wounds. Such is the nature of love, that it covets not only to be united, but if it were poſſible, to be transformed out of it ſelf, into the thing it loveth. Mary is not ſatisfied to ſee her Lord, nor is ſhe ſatisfied to hear her Lord, but ſhe muſt touch him, embrace his feet, and kiſs them with a thouſand kiſſes; Oh how ſhe hangs, and clings about his feet! or at leaſt, how ſhe offers to make towards him, and to fall upon him! —but on a ſudden he checks her forwardneſs, touch me not.

What a myſtery is this! Mary a ſinner touched him, and ſhe being now a Saint, may ſhe not do ſo much ſhe was once admitted to anoint his head, and is ſhe now unworthy to touch his feet? what meant Chriſt to debar her of ſo deſired a duty? ſhe had the firſt ſight of Chriſt, and heard the firſtwords of Chriſt after his reſurrection, and muſt ſhe not have the privilege of his firſt embracing? there is ſomething of wonder in theſe words; and it puts many to a ſtand; and many an interpretation is given to take off the wonder; I ſhall tell you of ſome of them, though for my part I ſhall cleave only to the laſt.

1. Some think that Mary not only eſſayed to kiſs his feet, but to deſire the fulfilling of the promiſe of the Spirit of Chriſt; this promiſe Chriſt made to his Diſciples at his laſt Supper, I will ſend you the Comforter; and ſhe expected it to be now performed after his Reſurrection: to which Chriſt anſwered, that he would not then give the Spirit unto her, for that as yet he was not aſcended into heaven; whence the Spirit ſhould come, q. d. forbear Mary; if this be the meaning of thy complement, hands off, O touch me not; for I am not yet aſcended to my Father.

Ioh. 6. 7.

Quia nondum ſanctum ſpiritum miſerat ideo a tactu ſuo Mariam prohibebat, dicens nondum aſcendi in cœlum, unde ipſe per me ſpiritum ſanctum ad vos mittit Cyril l. 12. in Johan. c. 50.

2. Others think that Mary was forbidden to touch, becauſe of her unbelief: ſhe had not the leaſt thought till juſt now that Chriſt was riſen, or that he ſhould aſcend; and therefore ſhe deſerved not the leaſt favour at his hands. q. d. Touch me not, for in thy faith I am not riſen, nor ſhall I aſcend unto my Father; thou complaineſt of men, they have taken away my Lord, thou ſeekeſt for the living amongſt the dead, and therefore thou art unworthy of a touch, or any approach: O touch me not.

Noli me tangere,? quia in fide tua nondum reſurrexi, & ad gloriæ ſtatum perveni Hieronym. Epiſt. 95. c. ad Hedibiam.

3. Others think that Chriſt forbad Mary's touch, becauſe ſhe looked upon it as the moſt manifeſt confirmation of her faith touching Chriſt's Reſurrection. There was a more ſure and certain evidence of this thing than touching or feeling, and the diſcovery of that was to be after his Aſcenſion, when the Holy Ghoſt ſhould be given, q. d. Touch me not, for I would not have my reſurrection chiefly approve by the Judgment of ſenſe; rather expect a while, till I aſcend to my Father in heaven, for then I will ſend the Holy Ghoſt, and he ſhall declare the truth and certainty of my reſurrection far ſurer and better,

Noli me tangere, noli meam reſurrectionem judicio ſenſuum comprobare; ſed parumper expecta tempus meæ aſcenſionis & miſſionis ſpiritus ſancti, & tunc longe melius & tenacius percipies veritatem reſurrectionis meæ, quam modo me contingens. Bernard Serm. 28. in Cant.

4. Others think that this touch was forbidden, that Chriſt might ſhew his approbation of chaſtity, and ſanctity, and inward purity: Mary was now alone with Chriſt, and that he might give an example of moſt pure chaſtity, he forbids her touch, which afterwards in preſence of others he admits her, and other women too; for ſo it is ſaid, * that they came and held him by the feet, and worſhiped him. And to this expoſition the reaſon affixed doth well agree, for I am not yet aſcended to my Father, q. d. for an example of Holy chaſtity, touch me not now, but hereafter in heaven I will give thee leave; when men and women ſhall be as the holy Angels, and ſhall neither marry, nor be given in marriage, then mayeſt thou touch; there will be no need of the like example then as now; then I will not forbid thee; but till then, eſpecially if thou art alone, Oh touch me not!

Ut oſtenderet manifeſtam caſtitatem, & ſanctimoniam per ſanctificationem, dixit Mariæ, ne me attingas. Epiphan. hæreſis 26. prope finem.

* Mat. 28. 9.

5. Others think that Mary too much doated upon that preſent condition of Jeſus Chriſt; ſhe looked upon it as the higheſt pitch of Chriſt's exaltation; ſhe deſired no more happineſs than to enjoy him in that ſame condition wherein now ſhe ſaw him; and thereupon ſaid Chriſt, touch me not, for I am not yet aſcended; q. d. O Mary fix not thy thoughts ſo much upon my preſent condition, in as much as this is not the higheſt pitch of my exaltation; I am not as yet attained to that, nor ſhall I attain to it until I aſcend; the degrees of my exaltation are firſt my Reſurrection. 2. My Aſcenſion. 3. My Seſſion at God's right hand; but that is not yet.

6. Others think that Mary carried it with too much familiarity towards Chriſt; ſhe looked upon Chriſt as ſhe did formerly, ſhe had not that reverence or reſpect of Chriſt as ſhe ought to have had; ſhe differenced not the mortal ſtate of Chriſt from his new glorified ſtate after this reſurrection, whereas with him the caſe was quite altered; he is riſen in a far otherwiſe condition than he was, for now his corruptible hath put on incorruption, and his mortal hath put on immortality, he died in weakneſs and diſhonour, but he is riſen again in power and glory; and as in another ſtate, ſo to another end, he was not now to ſtay upon earth, or to converſe here any longer, but to aſcend up into heaven, q. d. though I be not yet aſcended to my Father, yet I ſhall ſhortly aſcend; and therefore meaſure not thy demeanor towards me by the place where I am, but by that which was due to me; and then thou wilt rather with reverence fall down afar off, than with ſuch familiarity ſeem to touch me: Thus touch me not.

Ne priſtina illa familiaritate, qua eum incarne mortalem intuebatur, pertractaret, judicans poſt reſurrectionem & gloriam reverentius, & gravius cum illo agendum eſſe. Chryſoſt. Hom. 58. in Johan.

7. Others think this prohibition was only for that time, and that becauſe he had greater buſineſs for her in hand, Chriſt was not willing now to ſpend time in complements, but to diſpatch her away upon that errand, Go to my Brethren, &c. And the reaſon following ſuits with this Comment, for I am not yet aſcended to my Father, q. d. thou needeſt not ſo haſtily to touch me now, for I am not yet aſcended; though I be going, yet I an not gone, another time will be allowed, and thou maiſt do it at better leiſure, only forbear now; and the firſt thing thou doſt, go to my brethren; it will do them more good to hear of my riſing, than it will do thee good to ſtand here touching, and holding, and embracing; and therefore in this reſpect, now touch me not.

Chriſtus non aliud prohibuit Magdalenæ, quam ne nimium temporis abſumeret, prout ea ſolebat, ad pedes ejus, ſed quam citius inde ſe expediret, ut de ejus reſurrectione certiores faceret fratres ſuos? Card. Tolet. ſup. Cap. 20. Joh.

8. Others think, that Chriſt in theſe words meant to wean her from all ſenſual touching, and to teach her a new and Spiritual touch by the hand of faith; and to this ſenſe the reaſon agrees well, for I am not yet aſcended, or, I ſhall quickly aſcend unto my Father; till Chriſt was aſcended ſhe might be touching with a ſenſual touch, but that would neither continue nor do her any good; but if ſhe would learn the Spiritual touch; no aſcending could hinder that; one that is in heaven might be touched ſo; and hence it is, that if now we will but ſend up our faith, we may touch Chriſt to this day, and there will vertue come out of him. It was Chriſt's care to wean Mary from the comfort of his external preſence, and to teach her how to embrace him by a true and lively faith: he was not long to be ſeen in his viſible ſhape, being ſhortly to aſcend unto his Father; and therefore the main buſineſs was to learn that touch, that would both continue and do her good to their ſouls health. And I believe for this very cauſe, Chriſt would not ſtay long with any of his Diſciples

Chriſtus loquitur de tactu, & de aſcenſione, non corporali, ſed ſpirituali. at any time; he only appeared to manifeſt himſelf, and ſo prove his Reſurrection, and then to wean them from all ſenſual and carnal touching, he would quickly have been gone. Obſerve, that a Spiritual touch of Chriſt by faith, is that which Chriſt prefers before all touches: it is the Apoſtle ſaying, Henceforth know we no man after the fleſh, yea, though we have known Chriſt after the fleſh, yet now henceforth know we him no more. The words have a double interpretation; As, 1. Henceforth know we him no more; if we had any earthly, carnal thoughts of Chriſt like unto the reſt of the Jews, that he, as the King of Iſrael, ſhould begin an earthly Temporal Kingdom, and that we ſhould enjoy all manner of earthly carnal privileges; as honour, riches, power, yet now we know him no more, we have put off all ſuch carnal imaginations of his Kingdom. Or, 2. Henceforth know we him no more; we ſtand no longer affected towards Chriſt after any merely humane, civil, or natural manner of affections, ſuch as thoſe bear to him who converſed with him before his Reſurrection; but altogether in a Divine and Spiritual manner, agreeable to the ſtate of glory; whereunto he is exalted. Some vilified the Miniſtry of Paul, below that of the reſt of the Apoſtles, becauſe he had not been converſant with Chriſt in the fleſh; to which Paul anſwers, away with this fleſhly knowledg, Henceforth know we no man after the fleſh; our way to deal with Chriſt is in a Spiritual manner, yea the bleſſing is upon this manner, and not on that; Bleſſed are they that have not ſeen and yet have believed. It is ſaid of Mary his mother, that ſhe had a double conception of Jeſus Chriſt, one in the womb of her body, another in the womb of her ſoul; the firſt indeed was more miraculous, the ſecond more beneficial: that was a privilege ſingular to her ſelf, but this was her happineſs common to all the choſen; it is the work of the inward man that God accepts; a Spiritual touch of Chriſt by faith is that which Chriſt prefers before all touches.

2. But go to my brethren, and ſay unto them, I aſcend unto my Father and your Father, and to my God, and your God, this was the command of Chriſt; inſtead of touching him, ſhe muſt go with a meſſage to his Apoſtles, and this was more beneficial both to her and them. The firſt Preacher of this Reſurrection (beſides the Angels) was Mary Magdalen; ſhe that before had ſeven Devils caſt out of her, had now the holy Spirit within her; ſhe that was but a woman, is now by Chriſt made an Apoſtle; Apoſtolorum Apoſtola, for to them ſhe was ſent, and the meſſage ſhe was to deliver, it was Chriſt's riſing and aſcending; and what were they but the Goſpel, yea the very Goſpel of the Goſpel? this was the firſt Sermon that ever was made by any mortals of Chriſt's Reſurrection; and this her fact had ſome reference unto Eves fault; a woman was the firſt meſſenger of this our joy, becauſe a woman was the firſt miniſter of that our ſorrow.

But what means he to ſpeak of the Aſcenſion, when as yet we are but upon the Reſurrection, I ſuppoſe this was to prevent their miſtake, who might have thought, if Chriſt be riſen, why then we ſhall have his company again as heretofore; no ſaith Chriſt, I am not riſen, to make any abode with you, or to converſe with you on earth as formerly; my riſing is in reference to my aſcending, look how the Stars no ſooner riſe, but they are immediately in their aſcendent: ſo Chriſt is no ſooner riſen, but he is preſently upon his aſcending up.

But whither will he aſcend? to his Father, and our Father; to his God, and our God. Every word is a ſtep, or round of Jacob's Ladder; by which we may aſcend up into heaven: As, 1. Father is a name of much good will: there is in it bowels of compaſſion. Oh what tenderneſs is in a Father? and yet many a Father wants good means to expreſs his good will unto his Child; now therefore God is added, that he may not be thought to be defective in that way; Oh Bleſſed meſſage! this is the voice of a Father to his Son: all that I have is thine. Now if this Father be alſo God, and if all that is God's to be alſo ours, what can we deſire more than all that God hath; or all that ever God was worth? Oh but here's the queſtion, whether his Father and God be alſo ours? that he is Chriſt's Father, and Chriſt's God, is without all queſtion; but that his Father ſhould be our Father, and that his God ſhould be our God, this were a Goſpel indeed; O then what a Goſpel is this, Go to my brethren, and ſay unto them, that our relations and intereſts are all but one; the ſame Father that is mine is theirs, and the ſame God that is mine is theirs; his relations are made ours, and our relations are made his interchangeably. No wonder if Luther tells us that the beſt Divinity lay in Pronouns; for as there is no comfort in heaven without God, and no comfort in God without a Father there, ſo neither is there comfort in Father, Heaven, or God, without ours, to give us a property in them all, O the bleſſed news that Chriſt tells Mary and that Mary tells us, I aſcend to my Father, and your Father, to my God, and your God. Oh what dull hearts have we that are not more affected with this bleſſed news? no ſooner was Chriſt riſen from the dead, but he takes care in all haſt to appear to Mary; and no ſooner he appears to her, but he ſends her away in all haſt to others; go to my brethren, and tell it them: he would both have Mary and the reſt of his Apoſtles to hear of his loving-kindneſs betimes in the morning; why alas! they had for ſome days been amazed with ſorrow and fear, but now he provides for their joy; and no ſooner they heard the news, but they joy according to the joy in harveſt, and as men rejoice when they divide the ſpoil Chriſt's Reſurrection was a cauſe of unſpeakable joy to them? how is it that we here the ſame glad tidings, and yet we are no more affected with them? come Chriſtians, ſith the occaſion extends to us, and is of equal concernment to us, let us turn our hearts to this Key; that, as upon Chriſt's abſence, we may Weep with them that weep; ſo upon his return, we may ſpring out in joy, and rejoice with them that rejoice. So much of the firſt Apparition.

Luk.15. 31.

Sect. 6. Of Chriſt's Apparition to his ten Diſciples.

ON this day ſome reckon five Apparitions; but of them five, as we have ſeen the firſt, ſo I ſhall now only take notice of the laſt. Then the ſame day at evening, being the firſt day of the week, when the doors were ſhut, where the Diſciples were aſſembled for fear of the Jews, came Jeſus, and ſtood in the midſt, and ſaith unto them, Peace be unto you; and when he had ſo ſaid, he ſhewed unto them his hands and his feet. In theſe words we have the Apparition of Chriſt, with all its circumſtances.

Joh.20. 19,10.

As, 1. When he appeared.
2. Where he appeared.
3. To whom he appeared.
4. How he appeared.

So neceſſary was it to confirm this point, that not a needful circumſtance muſt be wanting. And firſt is laid down the time; then the ſame day at evening, being the firſt day of the week.

How exact is the Evangeliſt in this circumſtance of time? it was the ſame day, the ſame day at evening; and yet leaſt the day might be miſtaken, it was the ſame day at evening, being the firſt day of the week. 1. It was the ſame day, (i. e.)

the very day of riſing; he could not endure to keep them in long ſuſpence; the Sun muſt not down, before the Sun of Righteouſneſs would appear. The ſame day that he appeared to Peter, to the two Diſciples going to Emmaus, to the woman coming to the Sepulchre, and to Mary Magdalen, as we have heard; the very ſame day he appears to the Ten. Oh what a bleſſed day was this; it was the day of his Reſurrection, and the day of theſe ſeveral Apparitions.

2. It was the ſame day at evening. Both at morn, noon, and evening Chriſt ſhewed himſelf alive by many infallible proofs. Early in the morning he appeared to Mary, and preſently after to the three Maries, who touched his feet, and worſhipped him. About noon he appeared to Simon Peter; in the afternoon he travelled with two of his Diſciples almoſt eight miles, to the Caſtle of Emmaus; and in the evening of the ſame day he returned inviſible from Emmaus to Jeruſalem. At all times of the day Chriſt is prepared, and preparing grace for his people.

3. It was the ſame day at evening, being the firſt of the week Τῇ μιᾷ τῶν σαββάτων, that is, in one of the Sabbaths; but the Greek words are an Hebraiſm, and the Hebrews uſe often by one to ſignifie the firſt, as in Gen. 1, 5. the evening and the morning were one day (i. e. the firſt day. And whereas the Greek ſounds one of the Sabbaths, τῶν σαββάτων, it muſt be underſtood either properly, for Sabbaths, or elſe figuratively ſignifying the whole week; and this acception was uſual with the Jews ſo the Evangeliſt brings in the Phariſee ſpeaking Νηστεύω δὶς τοῦ σαββάτου, I faſt twice in the Sabbath, (i. e.) in the week; for it is impoſſible to faſt twice in one day; and hence the Tranſlator renders it thus, primo die hebdomadis, on the firſt day of the week. In which is a diſcovery of his mercy; Chriſt took no long day to ſhow himſelf to his Apoſtles, nay he took no day at all, but the very firſt day. When Joſeph ſhewed himſelf unto his Brethren, he would not do it at firſt, and yet he dealt kindly, and very kindly with them; O but Chriſt's kindneſs is far above Joſeph's; for on the firſt day of the week, the very ſame day that he roſe from dead he appears unto them. Thus for the time.

Luk. 11. 12.

2. For the place, it is laid down in this paſſage, where the Diſciples were aſſembled. Now if we would know where that was, the Evangeliſt Luke ſpeaks expreſly, it was in Jeruſalem; but in what houſe of Jeruſalem, it is unknown; only ſome conjecture that it was in the houſe of ſome Diſciple, wherein was an upper room: This upper room according to the manner of their buildings at that time, was the moſt large and capacious of any other, and the moſt retired and free from diſturbance, and next to Heaven, as having no room above it. Mede tells us expreſly, this was the ſame room wherein Chriſt celebrated the Paſſover, and inſtituted the Lords-Supper, and where on the day of his Reſurrection he came, and ſtood in the midſt of his Diſciples, the doors being ſhut; and where eight days after, the Diſciples being within, he appeared again to ſatisfie the incredulity of Thomas; and where the Apoſtles met after Chriſt was aſcended. Then returned they unto Jeruſalem from the Mount called Olivet ---- and when they were come in, they went up into an upper room, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and the reſt, If this be true, it ſhould ſeem that this ὑπερῷον, this upper room firſt conſecrated by Chriſt at this Inſtitution and Celebration of the Lords-Supper, was thenceforth devoted to be a place of Prayer, and holy Aſſemblies; and for certain the place of the ὑπερῷον was afterwards incloſed with a godly Church, known by the name of the Church of Sion; to which Jerome made bold to apply that of the Pſalmiſt, The Lord loveth the Gates of Sion, more than all the dwellings of Jacob.

Jer.: in Epitaphio Paulæ Epiſt. 27.

Now of this upper room the doors are ſaid to be ſhut, and the reaſon, by way of adjunct, is for fear of the Jews; they were ſhut up as men invironed and beleaguered with enemies; and here a queſtion is raiſed, whether Chriſt could enter, the doors being ſhut? The Text is plain, that he came in ſuddenly and becauſe of his ſudden preſence (the doors being ſhut) they were terrified, and affrighted, and ſuppoſed that they had ſeen a ſpirit. The Ancients ſpeaking of it, tells us, that he entered while the doors were ſhut, and yet he was no phantaſme, but he had a true body conſiſting of fleſh and bones. Now how ſuch a body conſiſting of craſs parts ſhould enter into the room, and no place at all open, is a great queſton; but 'tis generally anſwered, that it was by miracle. As by miracle he walked on the Sea, Matth. 10. 25. and as by miracle he vaniſhed out of their ſight, Luke. 24. 31. ſo by miracle he came in, the doors being ſhut. I know it is againſt the nature of a body, that one ſhould paſs through another, both bodies remaining entire; and it is an axiome in Philoſophy, that penetration of Bodies is utterly impoſſible; yet for my part, I ſhall not diſpute the power of the Almighty; this anſwer is enough for me to all the objections either of Papiſt or Lutherans, that the creature might yield to the Creator, and the Creator needed not to paſs through the Creature; Chriſt came in when the doors were ſhut, either cauſing the doors to give place, the Diſciples not knowing how; or elſe altering the very ſubſtance of the doors, that his body might paſs through them without deſtruction. I know not but he that thickened the waters to carry his body, might alſo attenuate the doors to make way for his Body.

3. For the Perſons to whom he appeared, they were his Diſciples; they that were ſhut up in a Conclave, not daring to ſtep out of Doors for fear of the Jews, to them now Chriſt appeared. It is Chriſt's uſual courſe to appear to them who are full of Fears and Griefs, and moſt in Dangers; when thou paſſeſt through the waters I will be with thee, and through the Rivers they ſhall not overflow thee; yea tho I walk through the valley of the ſhadow of death, I will fear no evil (ſaith David) for thou art with me. He was with Joſeph in Priſon, with Jonas in the Deep, with Daniel in the Lions den, with the three Children in the fiery Fornace, Lo I ſee four men (ſaith Nebuchadnezzar) walking in the midſt of the fire, and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God. And thus he was with Paul when he ſtood before Nero, tho all men forſook me, yet Chriſt the Lord ſtood by me, and ſtrengthened me. And do not his Apparitions this day ſpeak thus much? When Mary was full of Grief, then Chriſt appeared to her; when the two Diſciples travelling towards Emmaus, talking together of all thoſe things which had happened, and were ſad, then Chriſt appeared to them. And when all the Apoſtles were afraid of the Jews, and therefore ſhut the Doors that none might enter, then Chriſt appeared to them; they were his Diſciples, his ſad, diſtracted, timerous Diſciples, to whom Chriſt appeared.

to all People ; for unto you, unto all you ) is born in the City of David a Saviour, which is Chriſt the Lord. This Poſture of Chriſt(ſtanding in the midſt) declares that he deſpiſeth none, but that he takes care of them all. Some obſerve, that all the while Chriſt was on Earth, he moſt what ſtood in this Poſture ; at his Birth he was found in a Stable in the midſt of Beaſts ; in his Childhood he was found in the Luà.2.49. Temple in the midſt of the Doctors ; in his Man-hood, Joh 1.26. John the Baptiſt told them, there ſtandeth one in the midſt of you, whom ye knew not;and he ſaid of himſelf, Luk.22. 27. I am in the midſt of you as one that ſerveth ; at his death that very place fell to his turn ; for they crucified him in the Luk.23. 33. midſt betwixt two thieves,one on the right hand,and the other on the left. And now at his riſing there we find him again, the Diſciples in the midſt of the Rev.7.17. & 1.13. Jews, and he in the midſt of his Diſciples. After this in Patmos, John ſaw him in Heaven in the midſt of the Throne ; and in the Earth he ſaw him in the midſt Ma.25.33. of the ſeven Golden Candleſticks ; and in the laſt day he ſhall be in the midſt too, of the ſheep on his right hand, and of the gotes on his left. ———

But I find there is yet more in it, that he ſtood in the midſt : for the midſt is Chriſt's place by nature, he is the ſecond Perſon in the Trinity ; and the midſt is Chriſt's place by office, he dealeth betwixt God and man ; and the midſt is Chriſt's place in reſpect of his Perſon, he is God-man, one that hath intereſt in both parties; it was the middle one, that under-took this Mediation betwixt God and us. We read in the Roman Hiſtory, that the Romans and Sabines joyning the Battle together, the Women being Daughters to the one ſide, and Wives to the other, interpoſed themſelves and took up the quarrel ; and by their mediation, who had a peculiar intereſt in either ſide, they who before ſtood upon higheſt terms of hoſtility, did now joyn themſelves together into one body and ſtate. God and we were enemies, but Chriſt ſtood in the midſt to reconcile us unto God, and to ſlay this enmity ; and to this purpoſe Chriſt is called μεσίτης, a Mediator, a term peculiar to the Scriptures not to be found amongſt prophane Authors. O what comfort is here to ſee Jeſus Chriſt ſtand in the midſt ; now may the Diſciples behold him as their Eph.2.16. bleſſed peace-maker, their Mediator, as one that hath ſlain the enmity ; not only that enmity betwixt men and men, Jews and Gentiles ; but alſo betwixt God and men. This he did by his death, and now he declares it at his Reſurrection ; for ſo the Apoſtle Ver.17. there goes on, having ſlain the enmity by his Croſs, he came and preached peace ; and ſo the Evangeliſt here goes on, after his Reſurrection, Jeſus came and ſtood in the midſt, and ſaid unto them, Peace be unto you. You ſee how he ſtood. ———

2. What he ſaid, this is the next paſſage. He ſaid peace be unto you, a ſeaſonable ſalutation ; for now were the Diſciples in fear and trouble ; they had no peace with God, or man, or with their own conſciences ; and therefore a more welcome news could not have come ; I ſuppoſe this refers to all theſe. As,--

1. It ſpeaks their peace with God: ſin was it that brought a difference betwixt God and man, now this difference Jeſus Chriſt had taken away by his Joh.1.22. death, Behold the Lamb of God which takes away the ſins of the World ; he had taken it away in its condemning power, or as to it's ſeparating power betwixt God and them ; this was the great deſign of Chriſt's coming to make peace betwixt God and man ; his Father impoſed this office upon him, and Jeſus Chriſt undertook it, and diſcharged it, and he proclaims it, in the firſt place to his Diſciples, Peace be unto you.

2 It ſpeaks their Peace with man : I know no reaſon why we ſhould exclude civil peace out of Chriſt's wiſh ; many and many a promiſe and precept we have in the World ſcattered here and there to this purpoſe, And I will give peace in the land, and Lev.26.6. ye ſhall lye down, and none ſhall make you afraid.——And Job 5.23, 24. thou ſhalt be in league with the ſtones of the field, and thou ſhalt know that thy Tabernacle ſhall be in peace, and ſeek the peace of the City, ——— and pray unto Jer.29.7. the Lord for it, for in the peace thereof ſhall ye have peace. And follow peace, and holineſs, without which Heb.12. 14. no man ſhall ſee God. Orbem pacatum, was ever a clauſe in the Prayers of the Primitive Church, that the world might be quiet ; I am ſure it is Chriſt's command if it be poſſible as much as lyeth In you, live peace- Rom.12. 13. ably with all men.

3. It ſpeaks there peace among themſelves, peace one with another ; ſuch is, or ſhould be the condition of the Church, Jeruſalem is builded as a City Pſ.122.3. that is compact together, or unity within it ſelf, the Apoſtle dwells in this unity, there is one Body, and one Eph.4.4, 5,9. Spirit, and one Hope, and one Lord, and one Faith, and one Baptiſm, and one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all. The Church is a Court, whoſe very pillars are peace : the building or Chriſtianity knows no other material to work upon : if we look upon the Church it ſelf, there is one body : if upon the very ſoul of it, there is one Spirit : if upon the endowment of it, there is one hope : if upon the head of it, there is one Lord, if upon the life of it, there is one faith : if upon the door of it, there is one Baptiſm : if upon the Father of it, there is one Mark 9. 50. God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all. It was ſometimes Chriſt's command unto his Apoſtles, have ſalt in your ſelves, and have peace one with another : and as a bleſſed effect of this ſalutation, (for I look upon them as words full of vertue) the Apoſtles and Churches of Chriſt in Primitive times kept a moſt ſweet harmony, the multitude of them that believed, were of one heart, and of one ſoul. Act 4.32.

4. It ſpeaks peace within, peace of conſcience ; the Apoſtles had exceedingly fallen from Chriſt ; one betrayed him, and another denyed him, but all run away, and left him alone in the midſt of all his enemies ; and yet to them he ſpeaks this ſalutation, peace be unto you ; I know not a better ground for comfort of poor humbled ſinners than this is, it may be you have dealt very unkindly with Jeſus Chriſt, you have forſook him, denyed him, forſworn him ; O but conſider, all this hindred not Chriſt's apparition to his Apoſtles ; he comes unexpected, and quiets their ſpirits : he ſtays not till they had ſued to him for mercy, or pardon, but of his meer love, and free grace, he ſpeaks kindly to them all, he ſtills the waves, and becalms their troubled Spirits, working in them according to his words, peace be unto you.

O the ſweet of peace ! it is all wiſhes in one ; this little word is a breviary of all that is good ; what can they more, than to have peace with God, and peace with men, and peace within ? ſure there is much in it, becauſe Chriſt is ſo much upon it ; at his birth the Angels ſung, Glory to God in the higheſt, and on Luke 2. 14. earth peace ; at his baptiſm the form of a dove lighted upon him, and what meant this but peace ? in his life the fort of integrity was his court, and what was here but peace ? near his death he gives peace as a legacy to his Church, peace I leave with you, my peace I give you ; at his reſurrection his firſt ſalutation to John 14. 27. his Apoſtles is a wiſh of peace, peace be unto you ; what Joh. 17. 20, 21. can I ſay more to make us in love with peace ? why all Chriſt did, and all Chriſt ſuffered was for Luke 19. 42. peace ; he prayed for it ; neither pray I for theſe alone, but for them alſo which ſhall believe on me ;—— that they all may be one, as thou Father art in me, and I in thee, that they alſo may be one in us. And he wept for it, if thou hadſt known even thou at leaſt in this thy day, the things which do belong unto thy peace. And he dyed

Eph. 2. 15. to purchaſe it, but ye who ſometimes were afar off, are made nigh by the blood of Chriſt for he is our peace. Of this we need no other proof or ſign, but that of the Prophet Jonah, when the ſea wrought and was tempeſtuous, what ſhall we do unto thee (ſaid the Mariners) that the ſea may be calm unto us and he ſaid, take me up and caſt me into the ſea, ſo ſhall the ſea be calm; Jona. 1. 11. 12. when that great enmity was betwixt God and us, what ſhall I do (ſaid God) that my juſtice may be ſatisfied, and my wrath appeaſed, and that there may be a calm? why, take me (ſaid Chriſt) and caſt me forth into the ſea, let all thy waves and thy billows go over me, make me a peace-offering and kill me, that when I am dead there may be a calm, and when I am riſen I may proclaim it, ſaying, peace be unto you. You hear what he ſaid.

3. What he ſhewed; this is the next paſſage, he ſhewed unto them his hands, and his ſide. I look upon this as a true and real manifeſtation of his reſurrection: And we find that without this, Thomas profeſſed he would never have believed, except I ſhall ſee John 20. 25. in his hands the print of the nayls, and put my finger into the print of the nayls, and thruſt my hand into his ſide, I will not believe. But a queſtion or two is here raiſed, as whether theſe wounds and print of the nayls and ſpear, can poſſibly agree with a glorified body? and why Chriſt retains thoſe wounds and prints? for the firſt, whether thoſe prints could agree with a glorified body? ſome affirm it with much boldneſs; and they ſay that Chriſt not only retained thoſe prints whilſt he abode upon earth, but now that he is aſcended into heaven he ſtill retains them; for my part I dare not go ſo far, becauſe Scripture is ſilent; but the day is a coming when ye ſhall ſee face to face, and then we ſhall know the truth of this: only I conceive that Chriſt's body yet remaining on earth was not entred into that fulneſs of glory, as it is now in heaven; and therefore he might then retain ſome ſkars, or blemiſhes, to manifeſt the truth of his reſurrection unto his Diſciples, which are not agreeable to his ſtate in heaven. But this I deliver, not as matter of Faith; reaſons are produced both ways by the ancient writers, and I refer you to them.

For the ſecond, why Chriſt retained theſe wounds and prints? many reaſons are rendred, though I ſhall not cloſe with all.

1. Some think thoſe ſkars or prints were as the trophies of his victory; nothing is more delightful to a lover, than to bear about the wounds undergone for his beloved; and nothing is more honurable for a Soldier than to ſhew his wounds undergone for his countries good; what are they but as ſo many arguments of his valour, and trophies of his victory; this was Beda's ſenſe, Chriſt reſerved his ſkars, not from Beda in luc. any impotency of curing them, but to ſet out the glory and triumph of his victory over death and hell.

2. Others think thoſe ſkars or prints were for the letting out of Chriſt's ſpendor and beauty, as in cut or pinck garments the inward ſilks do appear more ſplendid, ſo in Chriſt's wounds there appears inwardly far Thom. 3. part. q. 53. a cert. more beauty. Aquinas aſſerts, that in the very place of the wounds, there is a certain ſpecial comelineſs in Chriſt. And Auguſtine thinks, that the very martyrs may retain ſome ſkars Aug. 22. de civit. Dei. of their wounds in glory, becauſe there is no deformity but dignity in them; and beſides a cert ain beauty may ſhine in their bodies anſwerable to their vertues wherein they excelled.

3. Others think that Chriſt retains thoſe ſkars that he might by them interceed for us: upon theſe very words, we have an advocate with the Father, Jeſus Chriſt the righteous: they commend thus; that God is 1 Joh. 2. 2. appeaſed by Chriſt, repreſenting to him the prints and ſkars of his humane nature. Thom. in 1. Chriſt's wounds are ſo many open mouths, which cry at the tribunal of his Father for mercy, as Abel's blood cryed for revenge.

4. Others think that Chriſt retains thoſe ſkars Jona. 1. 2. that thereby in the day of Judgment he might confound the Jews, and all the wicked in the word. It is Auguſtine's Judgment, that as Chriſt ſhewed Thomas his hands and ſide, becauſe otherwiſe he would not believe; ſo at the laſt day will he ſhew thoſe wounds to all his enemies, ſaying, Come behold the man whom ye have crucified; come, ſee the prints of the nayls, and the print of the ſpear; theſe be the hands and feet that you nailed and clenched to a piece of wood; this is the ſide you pierced; by you, and for you was it opened, but ye would not enter in that ye might be ſaved. And for this opinion they alledg this text, Behold he cometh with clouds, and every eye ſhall ſee him, and they alſo which pierced him, and all Aug. l. 2. de ſymb. 6. 8. kindreds of the earth ſhall wail becauſe of him, even ſo Amen. Rev. 1. 7.

5. All think that Chriſt retained his ſkars, that he might convince the unbelieving Diſciples of his reſurrection; hereby they are aſſured that Chriſt is raiſe, and that the ſame body of Chriſt is raiſed, that before was crucified; and to this we cannot but ſubſcribe, the ſkars of his wounds were for the healing of their doubts. Luke brings in Chriſt, he beſpeaking his Diſciples thus; Behold my hands and my feet, that 'tis I my ſelf, handle me and ſee: q. d. Come, let your Fingers enter into theſe prints of the Aug tract. 121. in Johan. Nails, and let your hands be thruſt into the depths of this wound; come, and open theſe holes in my hands, open this wound in my ſide; I will not deny that to my Diſciples for their Luke 24. 39. faith, which I denied notto mine enemies in their rage; open, and feel till you come to the very bone, that ſo both bones and wounds may witneſs, that I am he that liveth, and was dead, and behold I am alive for evermore, Amen. Rev. 1. 18.

What teſtimonies are here to convince the world of Chriſt's reſurrection? ſurely this argues the goodneſs Uſe. of God, that ſtrives thus wonderfully with the weak faith of thoſe that are his. At firſt he appeared to one, even to Mary Magdalen, and after he appeared to two, ſaith Matthew, to Mary Magdalen, and the other Mary; or to three Mark ſaith to Mary Magdalen, Mary mother of Jamse, Salome: but of this apparition he is ſeen of ten at Mat. 28. 1. Mar. 16. 1. leaſt; and to confirm their faith, not a conſiderable circumſtance muſt be wanting; here is time, and place, and perſons to whom he appears, and the manner how he appears, he ſtands in the midſt to be ſeen of all; he ſpeaks to them, breathes on them, eats with them, and ſhews them his hands, and his ſide; O the wonderful condeſcentions of Chriſt! what helps doth he continually afford to beget in us faith? if we are ignorant, he inſtructs us; if we err, he reduceth us; if we ſin he corrects us, if we ſtand he holds us up, if we fall down he lifts us up again, if we go he leads us, if we come to him he is ready to receive us; there's not a paſſage of Chriſt betwixt him and his, but 'tis an argument of love, and a means either of begetting, or of increaſing Faith; O then believe in Chriſt, yea believe thy part in the death and reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt; conſidering that theſe apparitions were not only for the Apoſtles ſakes, but if Chriſt be thine, they were for thy ſake, that thou mighteſt believe, and be ſaved. But I ſhall have occaſion to ſpeak more of this in the Chapter following. So much of the 2d apparition as it is recorded by the Evangeliſt John.

IMmediately after this apparition to his ten Apoſtles, the next is to all his Apoſtles, not one being abſent; and after eight dayes, again his Diſciples were within, and Thomas with them, then came Jeſus, the Doors being ſhut and ſtood in the midſt, and ſaid peace be unto you; then ſaith he to Thomas, reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands, and reach hither thy hand, and thruſt it into my ſide, and be not faithleſs, but believing; and Thomas Joh. 20. 26, 27. anſwered, and ſaid unto him, My Lord, and my God; Jeſus ſaith unto him, Thomas, becauſe thou haſt ſeen me, thou haſt Ver. 28, 29. believed; bleſſed are they that have not ſeen, and yet believed.

In the whole ſtory we have Chriſt's apparition and fruits of it.

1. For the Apparition (as in the former) we have,

1. The time. 2. The place. 3. The Perſons to whom he appeared. And, 4. The manner how he appeared.

1. For the time, and after eight days; it was on the ſame day ſeven night after the former apparitions, which was the firſt day of the week; and now becauſe of his reſurrection, and apparitions, called the Lord's day; I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day, Rev. 1. 10. (this in my apprehenſion) makes much for the honour of the Lord's day; the firſt aſſembly of the Apoſtles, after Chriſt's death, was on the firſt day of the week; and the ſecond Church-aſſembly that we read of was again on the firſt day of the week; and after eight days; a ſign that the Lord's-day, Sabbath, was on the firſt day inſtituted, and that the more ſolemn aſſemblies of God's people, were henceforth Aug. de verb Apoſt. Serm. 15. to be on the Lord's day. It is an uſual obſervation, that things and perſons which are named the Lord's, are ſacred and venerable, in an high degree, as the grace of our Lord, Rom. 16. 24. the ſpirit of the Lord, 2. Cor. 3. 17. the beloved of the Lord, Rom. 16. 8. the glory of the Lord, 2. Cor: 3. 18. the word of the Lord, 1 Tim. 6. 3. the cup of the Lord, 1. Cor. 11. 27. Auguſtine tells us that the Lord's reſurrection promiſed us an eternal day, and that it conſecrated unto us the Lord's day. Surely then this day muſt needs be venerable, and a ſolemn day among us Chriſtians. Now it was that as the riſing of the Sun diſpelleth darkneſs, ſo Chriſt the Son of righteouſneſs ſhined forth unto the world by the light of his reſurrection; and hence we read of the Apoſtles obſervation of this very day above all others; The firſt day of the week, the Diſciples being come together to Act. 20. 7. break bread, Paul preached unto them: ——— and conserning the collection for the Saints, as I have given order to the Churches of Galatia, even ſo do ye: upon the firſt day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in ſtore, as God hath proſpered him. Charitable contributions, and Church-aſſemblies were in uſe and 1 Cor. 16. 1, 2. practice on the firſt day of the week, (i. e.) on the Lord's day. An argument ſufficient to me againſt all the oppoſers of this ſacred truth, that the firſt day of the week is our Chriſtian Sabbath; why then Chriſt aroſe, and at ſundry times appeared before his aſcenſion, and after his aſcenſion: Chriſt ſent down the holy Ghoſt on that very day; and after the ſending of the holy Ghoſt, the Apoſtles then preached, the Churches then aſſembled, Charities were then gathered, the Lord's Supper was then celebrated; Chriſt's firſt apparition was on that day, and after that day finiſhed, not any other apparition before this time: And after Eight days.

2. For the place, it is ſaid to be within; probably it was the ſame houſe wherein the former apparition was; the houſe wherein Chriſt celebrated Mat. 14. 14. the Paſſover, and inſtituted the Lord's Supper; wherein was the large upper room made ready for Chriſt; In this upper room immediately after Chriſt's aſcenſion, was that famous aſſembly of all the Apoſtles; as we have heard. And in this upper room was that other famous aſſembly of all the twelve, when the holy Ghoſt came down upon them in cloven tongues of fire, at the feaſt of Pentecoſt; and if we may Acts 2. 1. believe tradition, in this upper room the ſeven Deacons (whereof Stephen was one) were elected and ordained. And in this upper room the Apoſtles, and Elders of the Church at Jeruſalem held that Council, the pattern of all Councils, for the deciſion of that queſtion, whether the Gentiles that believed, were to be circumciſed? Acts 6. in this upper room the Apoſtles and Diſciples frequently aſſembled for prayer and ſupplication; Yea they continued there with one accord in prayer and ſupplicaon. Acts 15. And hence Cyril who was Biſhop of the place, calls it ἡ ἀνωτέρα Ἐκκλησία τῶν ἀποστόλων, the upper Church of the Apoſtles. But of this upper room, and of the doors of it being ſhut, we have ſpoken before,

3. For the perſons, they were his ten Diſciples, Act. 1. 11. to whom he had appeared formerly, only now Thomas was with them, and ſo the number is compleet which before was not; his Diſciples were within, and Thomas with them; and why Thomas with them? Was not Thomas one of them? was not Thomas Diſciple of Chriſt, as well as the reſt? Cyr. Jeruſ. Cat. 16. I grant; but Thomas is added, becauſe Thomas was not preſent at the laſt apparition, and this apparition was more eſpecially for Thomas's ſake; O the admirable love of Chriſt towards poor ſinners! obſerve, in Chriſt are bowels of mercy to his ſtraying ſheep; the Diſciples in danger had fled away from Chriſt, but he will not fly away from them; no, no, he ſeeks them, he ſtands in the midſt of them, and he comes again with an Olive branch of Peace, ſaying, Peace be unto you. Of all theſe we have touched before; but here is ſomething new; a new mercy breaking out on faithleſs Thomas; Chriſt proves it by lively examples, and ſtrong arguments, that He will not quench the ſmoaking flax, nor break the bruiſed reed; that he came to Iſa. 42. 3. Luke 19. 10. ſeek and to ſave that which was loſt: that he was ſent to bind up the broken-hearted, and to heal the ſick, to reduce the abject, and to bring to the fold the ſtraying ſheep; for the ſake of one Thomas, Chriſt appears again, that to him as well as the reſt, he might communicate his Goodneſs, bequeath his Peace, and confirm him in this neceſſary Point of Faith, That he was riſen again. O the goodneſs of Pſ. 103. 13 Chriſt! like as a Father pitieth his children, ſo the Lord pitieth them that fear him; he that left the ninety and nine in the wilderneſs, to go after that ſheep that was loſt, declares his deſire to ſave ſinners; Of all Joh. 17. 12. that thou haſt given me, I have not loſt one, not of his ſheep; he may ſuffer them a while to ſtray, as this one Diſciple, who continued incredulous for one whole week, but a Lord's day comes, and then Chriſt appears in the midſt of the candleſticks: The Lord is not ſlack concerning his promiſe (as ſome men count ſlackneſs) but he is long ſuffering to us ward, not willing that any ſhould periſh, but that all ſhould come to repentance. Humbled Sinners that deſpair in themſelves, may here find encouragement; it is their uſual cry, O my ſins, theſe ſins are hainous, theſe ſins will damn me. 1 Pet. 3. 9. Oh but conſider, hath not the Lord pardoned as great ſins? If thou art wicked, conſider the Publican; if thou art unclean, remember Magdalen; if thou art a Thief, a Man ſlayer, muſe on that Thief that was Crucified with Jeſus Chriſt; if thou art a Blaſphemer, call to mind the Apoſtle Paul, who was firſt a Wolf, and then a Shepherd; firſt Lead, and then Gold; firſt a Saul, and then a Paul; if thou art Faithleſs, diffident, and an unbeliever, one that haſt turned thy back on Chriſt, fled away from thy Colours, look on Thomas, he fled away from Chriſt, as ſoon as any, and he is longeſt from Chriſt, after his Reſurrection, of all the reſt; and though his fellow Diſciples ſay, They have ſeen the Lord, and that he was riſen indeed; yet this will not ſink into his head, he will not acknowledge it but is moſt peremptory; Except he ſee in his hands the print of the Nayles, and put his Joh. 20. 25. Fingers into the print of the Nayles, and thruſt his hand into his ſide, he will not believe; Why ſhould any ſinner deſpair of Mercy? thou ſayſt, I am wicked; and God ſaith to thee, As I live ſaith the Lord God, I have no Ezek. 33. 11. pleaſure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way, and live: thou ſayſt, I am an unbeliever, I am ſhut up in the priſon of unbelief under bolts and fetters, that I cannot ſtir one inch towards Heaven; Why, ſo was Didymus, and yet he obtained mercy; and the Apoſtle tells us that God hath concluded all, or ſhut Rom. 11. 32. up all together in unbelief, that he might have mercy upon all. He deſpiſeth none, rejects none, abhors none, unleſs they continue to deſpiſe, reject, and abhor the Lord: Oh what a ſweet point is here to gain ſinners, to move, to melt, to thaw hard hearts! the incredulity of this Diſciple turns to our profit, and tends more to the confirmation of our faith, if we are but weak, than the very faith of all the other Diſciples of Jeſus Chriſt; had not Thomas disbelieved, we had not received ſo great encouragements, to have believed in Chriſt, as now we have.

Excuſe me, that I ſpeak thus much to encourage ſinners to come into Chriſt. I would be ſometimes a Boanarges, and ſometimes a Barnabas; a ſon of thunder to rouſe hard hearts, and a ſon of conſolation to cheer up drooping ſpirits. All Miniſters may learn of the great Shepherd, and Biſhop of our ſouls, to have a reſpect in their miniſtry to one ſinner, to one incredulous Thomas; we cannot be ignorant of theſe Scriptures, Him that is weak in the faith receive you —— And to the weak I became as weak, that I might

Joh. 20. 27 Thomas, reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands, and reach hither thy hand, and thruſt it into my ſide, and be not faithleſs, but believing. In this apparition he argues his Reſurrection. 1. From words. 2, From deeds.

1. From words. Thomas had ſaid, Except I ſee in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thruſt my hand into his ſide, I will not believe. 1. Now Chriſt repeats the very ſelf-ſame words, and therein gives us one argument of his Reſurrection; for if Chriſt could know what Thomas had ſaid, how is he but alive, and riſen from the dead? the dead have not ſenſe, much leſs the uſe of reaſon, but leaſt of all the knowledg of another's mind; but Chriſt hath ſenſe and reaſon, ſcience and omniſcience; obſerve, Though Chriſt be abſent as in his bodily preſence, yet he underſtandeth all our thoughts, and if need were he could repeat all our ſayings word by word How then may this convince all unbelievers in the world, that Chriſt is riſen, that he that was dead, now liveth, and that he is alive for evermore?

2. He appears arguing his Reſurrection from deeds, wherein he is an act and object. 1. The act is, Thomas ſeeing and feeling, and q. d. Thomas, thou wilt not believe except thou ſeeſt, and feeleſt; now this is againſt the nature of faith; it conſiſteth not in ſeeing or feeling, but on the contrary, Faith is the ſubſtance of things hoped for, and the evidence of things not ſeen. Indeed in things natural, a man muſt have experience; and then believe: but in divine things a man muſt firſt believe, and then have experience, and yet to help thy unbelief (ſaith Chriſt) I am willing thus far to condeſcend, and yeild unto thy weak-phantly, with the keys of Edom and Bozrah, of death and hell at his girdle; To which the anſwer is given, I that ſpeak in righteouſneſs, mighty to ſave; as much as to ſay, it is I Jeſus Chriſt, I that am righteous in ſpeaking, and mighty in ſaving; whoſe Word is truth, and whoſe work is ſalvation; it is I, even I; this anſwer given, another queſtion is propounded, Wherefore art thou red in thine apparel, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the wine fat? q. d. here's nothing but skars, and wounds, and blood; if thou art ſo mighty to ſave, How comes thy apparel to be ſo red, and ſprinkled, or ſtained with blood? to which Chriſt anſwers; I have trodden the wine-preſs alone, — and I will tread them in mine anger. I was troad, and preſſed, till the very blood ſtreamed out of my hands, and feet, and ſide, ſo Preſſed that they preſſed the very ſoul out of my body. See here, Behold my hands, and my feet, and my ſide; that it is I my ſelf, I have trod the wine preſs alone, But as I was troad, ſo I will tread; up he gets, and he treads on them that troad on him; his enemies of Edom and Bozrah, are now like ſo many cluſters under his feet, and he tramples upon them, as upon Grapes in a fat, till he makes the blood ſpring out of them, and all to ſprinkle his garments, as if he had come out of the wine preſs indeed. See here a double ſight, his own blood, and his enemies blood; here's the blood of the Lamb that was ſlain, and the blood of the Dragon that was trodden upon: here's a ſhow both of his paſſion, and his reſurrection; of his ſuffering and triumphing, another text of this nature; And one ſhall

he ſhall anſwer, Thoſe with which I was wounded in the houſe of my friends. I know in the ſtead of Chriſt ſome have implyed theſe words to the falſe Prophets, as if they had paſſed through the Churches diſcipline, and ſo had received their wounds. But others refer them to Jeſus Chriſt, of whom without controverſie the next verſe ſpeaks; and of whom the firſt verſe of this chapter ſpeaks, and to whom after a long Parentheſis the Prophet ſeems to return; And one ſhall ſay unto him (who was the fountain opened) what are theſe wounds in thy hands? or as the Septuagint, in the midſt of thy hands? a wonder it is to ſee thoſe prints and skars in the hands of Chriſt; and therefore is the queſtion, What are theſe wounds? to which Chriſt anſwers, Thoſe with which I was wounded in the houſe of my friends (i. e.) in the houſe of my beloved, the children of Iſrael, my brethren according to the fleſh, the people of the Jews; why theſe are wounds they gave me, and which now I ſhew as the ſigns of my victory, and as the marks of my reſurrection.

Thus far of the firſt head, the apparition of Chriſt.

2. For the fruits of this apparition, they contain Thomas's confeſſion, and Chriſt's commendation of him in ſome reſpects.

1. Thomas's confeſſion, and Thomas anſwered, and ſaid unto him, my Lord and my God, a few words but, of great weight; 1. He acknowledgeth Chriſt a Lord, into whoſe hands are put the very keys of hea- Mat. 28. 18. ven; all power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. 2. He acknowledgeth Chriſt God; whom he ſaw with his eyes, and felt with his hands, he looks on, not as a meer man, but as God, and as the ſecond perſon in the God-head. 3. He acknowledgeth Chriſt to be his Lord, and his God; this appropriating of Chriſt, is the right character of a faith, by which he brings home all the benefits of Chriſt unto his own ſoul. I ſhall a while inſiſt on all theſe.

1. He acknowledgeth Chriſt a Lord. How is he a Lord? I anſwer, 1. By eſſence, as God is Lord, ſo Chriſt is Lord, the Father is Lord, the Son is Lord, and the Holy Ghoſt is Lord; and yet they are not three Lords, but one Lord.

2. By creation, Chriſt is before all things (ſaith Col. 1. 17. the Apoſtle) and by him all things conſiſt. This very 1 Cor. 8. 9, thing is an argument of his Lordſhip. To us there is but one Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom are all things, and we by him.
